There is a place in 1 Cor. 11 20. When you come together in one place, ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτὸ, saith he. I will tell you how they answer this. Say they, there might be many Churches in Corinth, and yet it may be truly said when you come together into one place; as if you should speak to all the Churches in London, When you come together into one place, taking it in a distributive sense. But come to this place 1 Cor. 14. 23. If the whole Church be come together into some place; that cannot be in parts, it is a contradiction to say that the whole Church should meet together in one place and yet meet in several Congregations, for if the whole meet and meet together, they do not meet in parts certainly.

Now, My Brethren, this is a particular Church, and let me add this, you see here is but one Church at Corinth, and there was another Church not far off from Corinth, not two miles that was a distinct Church too, a whole Body to Christ as Corinth here was. Rom. 16. 1. I commend unto you Phebe our Sister which is a servant of the Church which is at Cenchrea. Where do you think stood this same Cenchrea? It was situated by the Water, as near as Ratcliffe is to London, so near it was to Corinth, (as Strabo in his 18*th.* Book sheweth,) these were two distinct particular Churches; That Church of Corinth was a whole Church, as many as met in one place; That Church of Cenchrea was a whole Church too though it was so near it, for Cenchrea was to Corinth as Leith is to Edenburgh in Scotland, a Haven Town.

I will give you another instance of a particular Church that met only in one place for their publick Ordinances, and it is the greatest instance of the biggest Church that ever was in the World, for it was the first Church. I do it to explain to you the difference of an Universal Church and a particular Church, and to shew you what the bounds of it is. My Brethren, the Church of Jerusalem,

(of

(of which you ſhall read from the ſecond Chapter of the Acts to the eight,) it may for the bigneſs of it and number ſeem a Monſter, yet in one place ſtill, and it certainly being the firſt Church that ever was under the New Teſtament, (it conſiſting of ſome of all the Tribes, as appeareth Acts 2. 5, 9, 10, 11. &c. they were men of Iſrael out of all Nations,) it was to be the Mother Church, and ſo the Epitome of the Catholick Church; It had all the Apoſtles as Miniſters of it in it, therefore it was Maximum quod ſic, as we ſay in Philoſophy, we ſay of the Natural Body, there is a ſtature, a bigneſs, which the Body may be ſtretched to beyond which it cannot go, ſo certainly that was a Church that was ſtretched to the utmoſt wideneſs that the ſides of a Church could be ſtretched to. There was the greateſt reaſon in the World for it, it was the firſt Church, to be the Mother Church from thence to go out into the whole World, they had all the Apoſtles to be their Miniſters, and it was the Epitome of the Catholick Church, therefore it was ſtretched I ſay to the utmoſt wideneſs that a particular Church could be ſtretched to; yet the Holy Ghoſt doth carefully put in this, and diſtinctly and often, that however their number ſeem to be great, yet they met in one place, he expreſſeth it ſo from the firſt to the laſt, do but walk the Scripture around with me and you ſhall ſee it. Sermon XXXV.

In the beginning of that Church their number was but 120. ſo Acts 1. 15. They were in one place, verſe 13. They went up into an upper roome, and they abode there (or continued there,) with one accord; ſo he ſaith verſe 14. They were in one place and with one accord, for theſe are ſtill things diſtinct.

Go on to Acts 2. 1. They were all with one accord in one place. What their Houſes and their places were we know not, the Holy Ghoſt doth not record it, but certain it was ſo big as he ſaith verſe 6. It was noyſed abroad and the multitude came together; namely where the Apoſtles were: And the place was ſo big that verſe 14. Peter ſtanding up lift up his voyce to ſpeak to them all, that they might all hear, and there was no leſs than about 3000. converted at that Sermon and added to that Church, verſe 41. and many thouſands elſe did ſurely come, and when they were encreaſed to this number of 3000. yet ſtill in one place, for verſe 44. all that believed were together, it is the ſame word in the Greek that is tranſlated elſewhere in one place.

Well, Chapter 4. there is this number of 3000. encreaſed to 5000. ſo verſe 4. yet ſtill in one place, the Holy Ghoſt diligently noteth out this. He telleth the ſtory there how that Peter and John were apprehended by the Prieſts and by the Rulers and Elders, and then at the 23. verſe he ſaith, that they being let go, they went to their own Company, where they prayed together with one accord, and verſe 31. he ſaith, when they had prayed the place was ſhaken where they aſſembled together and they were all filled with the Holy Ghoſt. Here ſtill this Church is in one place.

Here is a mighty Church you ſee now, as full one would think as the ſeats could hold. Read Chapter 5. verſe 11, 12. and you ſhall ſee how diligent the Holy Ghoſt is to note this plainly that they were in one place. Saith he, Fear came upon all the Church, &c. and they were altogether in Solomon's Porch; here is ſtill this great Church in one place.

Well, let them be multiplied to what they will, (for we know not what they were multiplied unto,) but this is the upſhot of the ſtory, Acts 6. 1. when the number of the Diſciples were multiplied, (make them as many as you will,) yet it is ſaid, the twelve called the multitude of the Diſciples unto them; they called them not in parts but the whole together. How prove you that? Plainly verſe 5. The ſaying pleaſed the whole multitude. Here was the whole multitude gathered in one place, you ſee how diligent the Holy Ghoſt is in this great Church to put in ſtill that they were in one place. And my Brethren, let what exceptions be made that can be, I will believe the Holy Ghoſt. Let men ſay how could poſſibly ſo many be in one place, What one place could contain ſuch a multitude? I could ſend you to Charenton in France, where you may ſee many Thouſands come together at once. I could ſend you to the Books of Eſther and Nehemiah, where all Iſrael met together, but certain it is that here they all met together in one place, ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτό.

And

Sermon XXXV.

And let me add this too, that the Members of this Church were fleeting, they did not dwell constantly at Jerusalem. For the great objection is, they say that it was not a Church consisting of fluid Members, but of Men that constantly dwelt there, and this Objection they have from Act. 2. 5. There were dwelling at Jerusalem devout men out of every Nation; whereof 3000. were converted. My Brethren this hinders not. Mr. Mead in his Diatribe (which I refer all readers to, he is far enough off from this notion that I drew it to,) in his last discourse but one upon this very place, he saith that by dwellers at Jerusalem is not meant men that had a fixt habitation there, but he saith the word κατοικοῦντες, will signifie men that sojourned, that were there for a while, and he bringeth two instances out of the Septuagint for it in Genesis. And he giveth this reason which to me seems to be unanswerable, that they did not dwel at Jerusalem fixtly, for verse 9. it is said that they heard in their own tongue wherein they were born, Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, &c. Now, how could they be both dwellers at Jerusalem and dwellers in all these Countreys too, if they had not been sojourners there for a time? The truth is it was a Land-flood, it was a fluid Church, occasioned by their coming up to Jerusalem at the Feast. I give this instance for this purpose, that the greatest Church in the World, the first that ever was, was but one Church, a Church that could meet in one place, the Holy Ghost you see is diligent to express it, and I have shewed you how it might be.

You see therefore there are two sorts of Churches, There is first the Church Universal, which is the whole Body of Christ upon Earth; and there is a Church in particular, as you heard of the Church of Corinth, and you have heard it exemplified by the Church at Jerusalem.

I will in a word give you the reason, why, that beside the Church Universal, God hath instituted a particular Church as a Body too. It is in a word this, Because the whole Church Universal cannot meet together for Ordinances. You cannot call all the Saints upon Earth to hear and to pray together; yet that God may have a constant Worship upheld in the World, and in a constant way, and known where to be had, and by whom, he hath appointed his People to meet in several Bodies; and, saith he, I will account all these several Bodies to be several Churches to me, and I will be a Head to them. As for Instance, The King is King of the whole Kingdom, but withal hath granted Charters to this Corporation, and to that Corporation, and to the other Corporation; he is King of all, and they are so many several Bodies unto him.

Now, I having explained to you the difference between a particular Church and an Universal Church, (for that they that meet in one place together are a particular Church, no men deny,) you will ask me, which of these two are meant here? (for I have brought this distinction but to explain the Text.)

I Answer, That here the Church Universal is meant, in a primary manner, the whole Church both in Heaven and in Earth, whereof Jesus Christ is the Head. It is plain that the Church Universal is here primarily meant, it needeth no proof, for he speaks of that Church that is his fulness; now it is only the Universal Church, when they shall be all put together, that makes up the fulness of Christ. Take all Churches in all Ages, when they meet together (as they shall do one day;) Take the general Assembly of Saints and Angels, they only are his fulness. And that he speaks here of the Universal Church, the phrase implieth it, He filleth all in all, that is, the Universal Church.

But yet Secondly, so, that all particular Churches, that are Bodies to Christ and Churches too, are not excluded, but so far as they bear relation unto Christ as a Body, so far he is their Head and filleth them all. For if they have this honour to be Churches and a Body to Christ in particular, then assuredly Jesus Christ is their Head and filleth them as well as he doth the whole Church, even as a King is as well a Head of several Corporations as he is of the whole Kingdom. And for this I will give you Scripture. Ephes. 4. 10. he telleth us there that Jesus Christ is ascended up on high, that he may fill all things; here is the same phrase that is used in the Text, and he calleth him a Head afterward ver. 15. To fill all, Who? Not only the Universal Church, but all the Officers and Members bers of the particular Church. How prove you that? Saith he verſe 11. He gave ſome Prophets, ſome Evangeliſts, and ſome Paſtors and Teachers; which you all know are the Officers of particular Churches. So that by filling all in all, he doth not only mean filling the Univerſal Church, but a particular Church with all the Officers of it, till it come to that proportion of ſtature that he hath appointed it to. So much for the explication of this, what is meant by Church, and whether both be meant or no.

Sermon XXXV.

Now my Brethren, how far the word Church, (ſet aſide the Univerſal Church,) may reach, whether or no it may not reach beyond a particular Congregation that do meet together in one place is the great Queſtion of theſe times; And I know that ſome have expected that I ſhould ſpeak to this, becauſe, and meerly becauſe the word Church is here in the Text. As (that I may ſtate the Queſtion to you, for I ſhall do no more,) whether yea or no, beſides a particular Congregation that met together in one place, (which you ſee is reckoned a Church and the whole Church,) many Congregations, many Churches united in one may not be called one particular Church. When I ſay many Churches, the meaning is this, many Churches though they do not meet together in one place for ordinances of Worſhip, of Prayer and Sacraments and hearing the Word, yet are but one in reſpect of Diſcipline and Government; Whether or no theſe are not to be reckoned one Church meerly for Diſcipline ſake, Excommunication and the Cenſures of the Church. Here is the Queſtion. As for Example, whether many Churches under one Dioceſan Biſhop, (in order to being governed by him,) though all the Churches in that Shire cannot meet together to Pray and receive the Sacraments, &c. yet whether in reſpect of Diſcipline and Government they might not be united in one under him as their Governour.

Or Secondly, whether yea or no many Churches, that do not, nor cannot meet together to pray or to hear in common, or to receive the Sacrament in common, yet being to be ſubject to all the Elders and Miniſters within ſuch a Circuit, whether they may not be ſaid to be one in that reſpect, as being under thoſe Elders and Miniſters, which is a Presbyterian Church. Whether doth the Scripture allow this yea or no?

Or whether that only a particular Congregation, (taking in both the Elders and Miniſters and the Congregation it ſelf together that enjoy both Worſhip and Diſcipline together,) is ſaid to be a particular Church and none elſe. This is the great Controverſy of the times, and this you expect (it may be,) that I ſhould Anſwer.

If you will take the Anſwer of my Judgment, you know that already. If you will take an Anſwer out of other Scriptures, I have no ground to run out into it from this Text. For all that this Text ſaith is but this, that he is the Head of his Church which is his Body. He doth not determine whether a Dioceſan Church be his Body, or whether a Presbyterian Church be his Body, or only a particular Congregation. Only my Brethren to determine this I will but give you this one rule out of the Text, and that is this, that nothing is or can be reckoned the Church of Chriſt, but what may be called a diſtinct Body to Chriſt. Now then take many Congregations united together in one under a Dioceſan Biſhop, you muſt make that one man the Church and a Body to Chriſt. Take likewiſe many Congregations united in one under many Miniſters, you muſt make theſe Miniſters met together the Body of Chriſt. Now then the Rule I ſhall give you will be fair and eaſie. In Matt. 18. 17. there our Saviour Chriſt doth firſt let fall the inſtitution of a particular Church, that is clear of all ſides; And I ſpeak to the Church in hand, for it is a Church not only for Prayer and the Sacraments, but for Diſcipline, for he ſpeaks of one that is to be caſt out; If any man offend, ſaith he, go tell the Church. Now by Church here he cannot mean the Univerſal Church, that is plain; Why? Becauſe you cannot call all the men in the World together that are Saints to tell them, you cannot call Men and Angels together, that is without queſtion. What then is meant by Church, for he ſpeaks of a new inſtitution under the New Teſtament? My Brethren, what is meant by Church in that 18. of Matt. you muſt find it in the Apoſtles writings, for Chriſt left it to them to interpret, you muſt go and find it in the Epiſtles of Paul, and in the Acts of the Apoſtles, for they interpreted Chriſt and his meaning.

Sermon XXXV.

Now then read all over the Acts of the Apoſtles, read over all the Epiſtles, if you can find one man called a Church and a Body to Chriſt, if you can find the Elders of ſeveral Churches met together, called a Church, and may be called a Body of Chriſt, for that is ſtill neceſſary to a Church to be a body to Chriſt, (The Church which is his Body,) If you can find this, then imbrace and ſubmit to that as a Church, for it is that which Jeſus Chriſt intended, it is an ordinance which you may warrantably be ſubject to, and apply all thoſe places to, Obey your Elders, &c. Apply it thus, they are the Church, they are our Elders.

This rule (my Brethren,) to begin with the firſt inſtitution of a Church under the New Teſtament and to take the interpretation of it afterward, it is the faireſt rule that can be given, and it is fair upon two grounds. For when Jeſus Chriſt mentioneth a Church where he would have men go for diſcipline, for excommunication, certainly he doth not ſpeak in obſcurity, that is, that it ſhould not be interpreted by the examples of the New Teſtament, namely of the Apoſtles that followed him, for there was no Church extant under the New Teſtament in Chriſt's time while he lived, therefore it was left to be interpreted by what was called Church afterward.

Now, Look what was familiarly called a Church by the Apoſtles, look into the Acts, and from thence to the end of the Revelation, that which I ſay is uſually called a Church, and is a particular Church, a body to Chriſt, certainly that is the Church Chriſt meaneth; otherwiſe we were ſtill to ſeek what Church Chriſt ſendeth us unto; if we cannot find that thoſe which ſhould exerciſe Diſcipline over us are called a Church ſome where or other in the Acts of the Apoſtles, or in ſome of the Epiſtles, how can our Conſciences be ſatisfied? Here we have a Church mentioned, Go tell the Church ſaith he, the Conſciences of men, therefore muſt have it expreſly determined by the Apoſtles what Church we muſt reſt in. Now go all over I ſay and ſee to what thing they give moſt familiarly that name unto.

And the fairneſs of this rule appeareth likewiſe in this, that certainly that muſt have the name of a Church which carrieth the authority of a Church; will you call any one a King that hath not the Authority of a King? They that have the authority of a Church muſt have the name of a Church, eſpecially when Jeſus Chriſt will firſt inſtitute and give a name to it. Now look and ſee to what the name of a particular Church is given, and let that be the Decider of this great Controverſie. That is all I will ſay of that point. I have avoided diſcourſing upon it becauſe it is not natural to the Text, only it was neceſſary to give you this diſtinction of this word Church for the comfort of all Churches particular, that Jeſus Chriſt is their Head as well as he is of the Church Univerſal, that they may look at Chriſt to fill them, (and he is their Head to fill them and all the Members and Officers of them,) as well as he filleth the Univerſal Church.

I will add but two Cautions, to inform you concerning two Diviſions; The one from the Univerſal Church, and the other from particular Churches. It is proper to the thing in hand, Church, The Church which is his Body; and there is no ſchiſm to be in the body, no ſchiſm from the Univerſal Church, no ſchiſm from particular Churches that are truly Churches of Chriſt. I will tell you of two great Diviſions from either. You have heard of two ſorts ſpoken of, the one of old the other of latter years; The one the Donatiſts of old, the other the Browniſts of late. You call the Browniſts the new Donatiſts and the Donatiſts the new Browniſts: I will explain that which is the worſt in either opinion, and you ſhall ſee it is proper to the thing in hand.

Firſt, For the Donatiſts that were in Auſtins time. I have examined diligently the writings of Auſtin, among them I find the higheſt venome of their Opinions to ly in this, and it is high enough (if we may know men by the writings of their Adverſaries againſt them, for there is none of their own writings extant,) the truth is, they denied the Church Univerſal, they denied that the Church was any where but in that part of Africa where they were, and this inflamed that holy man Auſtin againſt them. They might have put out of their Creed, I believe the Church Catholick, and put in I believe a little part of the World to be the Church. Here you ſee a ſchiſm hath been from the Church Uuniverſal.

Now

Now go take the Brownists, they never deny the Church Universal as the Donatists do, they have alwaies affirmed that there is a Church Universal in all places, yea and in England the most glorious Church of Saints of any in the World. But yet herein hath lain their Error, they have sinned against particular Churches, as they of old did against the Universal Church. And against these I for my part, and many of my Brethren profess that they are in an Error, and it is evident by the 15. Revel. that from the first time of the seperation from Popery there hath been a Temple built to God, Churches to God in all the reformed Churches.

Sermon XXXV.

I come to the Next thing, and that is, The Head of the Church, how great a Dignity this is to Christ, and Benefit to the Church, I shall shew when I handle those words, [over all,] I must speak to this, He is a head to the Church.

It is a similitude as all that are made of Christ have the greatest reality in them. A Head in scripture is to be taken in Three several senses. There is first a political Head, a ruling Head as a King is said to be the Head of his Loyal Subjects, as I remember there is a place in one of the Books of the Kings, which makes the Kings of Israel Head of the People. And in this sense is God said to be a Head to Christ, 1 Cor. 11. 3.

Secondly, There is a Conjugal Head, as the Husband is the Head of the Wife in the same 1 Cor. 11. 3.

Thirdly, there is a natural Head, (which I need not quote Scripture for,) that is, the Head of the Natural Body, as a mans Head is of the Members of his Body.

In all these senses is our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ Head of the Church in a peculiar manner. He is first a Head of the Church as a King is Head of his Loyal Subjects, for he is not so much a Head to Rebels, he treads them under his feet, but he is a Head to his Loyal Subjects. Now he is in a peculiar manner a King to the Church. Psal. 44.4. Thou art my King saith the Church, My King in a more especial manner. He is so a King to the Church, as he is not to all the World besides. A Head in that sense. And in this large sense take a Head for a King, and Jesus Christ he is a Head to the Angels too, as Colos. 2.10. it is said there he is the Head of all Principalities and Powers, that is, he is their King. Of this headship that Christ hath over the Angels, I shewed when I opened the 10*th.* verse, where all in Heaven and in Earth are said to be gathered together in one, as in a Head to Jesus Christ.

Secondly, There is a Conjugal Head, so the Husband is said to be the Head of the Wife, and that is nearer than of Kings to their Subjects, nay though they be Loyal Subjects; you find this in Ephes. 5. 23. The headship of Christ to his Church is nearer than that of a King to his Loyal Subjects, it is the headship of a Husband to a Wife; even as the relation of a King to his Queen is nearer than to all his Subjects, he is a Head to them, but he is in a nearer manner a Head to his Queen. So is it here.

Thirdly, There is a Natural Head, that as in Nature the head is the head of the Body, so is Jesus Christ a Head to his Members and to his Churches, they are all as Members of that one Body, and therefore he saith plainly in 1 Cor. 12. 12. that as the Body is one and hath many Members, so also is Christ. And this is meant here, for it follows, which is his Body.

Now, my Brethren, if you will take it in this latter sense of a similitude taken from a Natural head, so our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ is a Head only to the Church of men who are of the same Nature with him, so he is not to Angels; neither is it any where said that Angels are the Spouse of Christ, neither is it any where said that they are the Members of Christ. He is neither a Conjugal head to them, neither is he a Natural head to them, but he is a head to them as a King is to his Loyal Subjects, he is the head of all Principalities and Powers.

Yet so (let me add this to open this similitude,) when we say that Jesus Christ is a head to his Church, which is a similitude drawn from the Natural head, the meaning is not but that in reallity JesusChrist hath a greater nearness to hisChurch than the head hath to the Natural body. Though it be but a similitude yet it importeth a greater reallity, a greater nearness; Why? Because that all the similitudes that are drawn from things here below and applied to Chist do hold more really of

Sermon XXXV.

Chriſt, than of the things whence the ſimilitude is drawn. Is he called a Vine? He is the true Vine, the other is but a falſe Vine in compariſon. Is he called a Head, and the Church his Body? There is more reality and nearneſs betwixt the Church and him, than between the Natural Head and the Body; that other is but a ſhadow of this. Only he is not a Natural Head, though the ſimilitude be drawn thence; but he is a Myſtical, a Spiritual Head.

I cannot now enter into all the particulars for which Jeſus Chriſt is called a Head. I will mention only one. It is proper to a head of a body to be but one, Natural reaſon will tell you ſo much; for the ſimilitude is drawn here from the Natural body, The Church (ſaith he) which is his body. If there were many heads to a body, it would be a Monſter.

Do but look upon Popery a little, what doth it? It clappeth another head upon the Univerſal Church, the Pope, makes him a Head of the Church. It is the greateſt derogation from our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt that can be, to make or name any other head of the Church, but himſelf. Magiſtrates are heads in the Church; but to make any man a head of the Church is the greateſt derogation to Chriſt that may be. That he that hath all under his feet, (ſo it is afore,) God hath given him over all to be a Head; above all priviledges elſe this is the greateſt, that he is a Head to his Church, it is the chiefeſt flower of his Crown. How can this therefore be given to a vile Man, as the Pope is? In Coloſſ. 1. 18. it is reckoned there, among the great Prerogatives of Jeſus Chriſt, among the flowers of his Crown, that he is the Head of the Body the Church, who is (ſaith he) the beginning, the firſt-born from the dead; He is, ſaith he, αὐτὸς, Ipſe, He, and he alone, as the Greek emphaſis is. And if the Pope can ſay, that he is the beginning, and the firſt-born from the dead, let him challenge it and wear it, that he is the head of the Body the Church: But He, he Chriſt, is the beginning, the firſt-born from the dead, He is the Head of the Body the Church.

I will give you another place, Epheſ. 4. 11, 12. where you have all the greateſt Officers that ever were upon Earth, the Rulers of a Church mentioned, He hath given ſome Apoſtles; certainly here is Peter mentioned, from whom the Pope claimeth his Supremacy. To what end was this? Read verſe 12. For the edifying of the Body of Chriſt; and verſe 15. That we may grow up to him that is the Head.

My Brethren, They themſelves, though they ſay the Pope is the head of the Church, dare not ſay, which is his body. They ſay he is a head for External government; they dare not ſay, that the Church is his body. They dare not ſay, he is Lord of the Church, that is Chriſt's title only, for 1 Cor. 12. 15. There is but one Lord, namely to the Church. They dare not ſay, he is the Husband of the Church, for then they would make the Church that cleaveth to him a Whore; for there can be but one Husband of the Church. But to be the head of the Church is more than this; it is a nearer relation, and will they go and give him this then? It is Crimen Capitale, a Capital crime, and all the diſtinctions they can make will never acquit them of high Treaſon againſt our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. It is a wonder, that ever men of Learning ſhould give this title to the Pope; there can be no reaſon given of it but one, and that is this, It was to make up a compleat Character that he is Antichriſt, that the Scripture might be fulfilled. Ignorant times did give him this title, and it hath been long the unhappineſs of the world, that what the Ignorance of former Ages hath ſaid and eſtabliſhed, that the Learning of ſucceeding Ages muſt maintain; therefore the learned'ſt Wits of the World, the Jeſuits, have gone about to maintain this title of the Pope.

You know, when I opened thoſe words, That Chriſt is advanced far above all Principalities and Powers, I told you, that that was it that made the Pope Antichriſt, becauſe he was an imitation of Chriſt in this, and took on him the Power which was perſonal in Chriſt alone. As Jeſus Chriſt is ſaid to ſit at God's right hand, ſo he ſitteth in the Temple of God; as Chriſt is over all Principalities and Powers, ſo likewiſe doth the Pope ſit above all that is called God, 2 Theſſ. 2. Afterwards I gave you a proſpect of all the glory of Chriſt; I put all together out of this Chapter. I will give you a proſpect of all the glory of Antichriſt, as it is parallel with that of Chriſt's, ſet forth in this Chapter. You ſhall ſhall ſee how he doth uſurp and arrogate to himſelf all that is attributed to Chriſt here in this Chapter, that you may ſee that he hath the full and compleat Character of that great Antichriſt upon him.

Sermon XXXV.

When I ſet out Chriſt unto you, I told you his Exaltation lay in this, He was advanced at Gods right hand above all Principalities and Power; that all things are under his feet; that he is a Head to the Church, &c. Now do but compare Chriſt and Antichriſt together.

Firſt, Doth Jeſus Chriſt ſit in Heaven, which is the Holy of holieſt, the Temple of God, and the inward part of it? Look in 2 Theſſ. 2. 4. and you ſhall find that he is the Antichriſt that ſits in the Temple of God, the whole Temple of God on Earth, (for ſo the Pope challengeth to do,) and if he could he would ſit in Heaven it ſelf; he would (as his Predeceſſor, the King of Babel, did) make his Throne above the Stars, if he could; but he cannot come to Heaven. However he ſitteth in heaven here below, he arrogateth to himſelf all Power in the Church of God.

Secondly, Doth Jeſus Chriſt ſit at God's right hand in his Temple, above all Principalities and Powers? So doth this Antichriſt, he exalteth himſelf above all that is called gods; above all Kings and Emperours, be they what they will.

Thirdly, Hath Jeſus Chriſt this world, and the world to come to rule in? Lo, (we will follow the Pope ſtill,) he arrogateth to Rule all in this World; for he ſaith, All the Kingdoms of the World are given to him, and he is to diſpoſe of the Crowns of them in order to the Church. And (which never any Monarch ever did afore him) he arrogateth power in the world to come, juſt as Jeſus Chriſt; and he and his Divines have fancied to themſelves a World to come for him to have the Keys of, that is, Purgatory, which Mens Souls go to when they are dead. He putteth down all the Monarchs in the World; they rule men, but men here below, they never followed mens Souls into the World to come; the Pope profeſſeth a power there. Nay, they have ſaid, they can command Angels, and ſometimes they have let men out of Hell.

Fourthly, Hath Jeſus Chriſt all under his feet? Go to Rome, there is no Prince in Europe, none of the Roman Emperours required, that Men ſhould fall down and kiſs their feet; but yet this ſubjection doth the Pope require above all Princes elſe. It is a ſtrange thing, that he of all others ſhould arrogate this, which was proper to the Kings of the Eaſt; none of the Emperours or Kings of Europe require this of their Subjects, they kneel to them, but never fall down to kiſs their feet; this is the loweſt ſubjection, and this the Pope requireth.

Nay, Doth Jeſus Chriſt ſet his feet upon his Enemies? Doth he make them his footſtool? You know the ſtory of a Pope that did it to Frederick the Emperour, whom he cauſed to lie down on the ground, and ſet his feet upon his neck, and blaſphemouſly uſed that paſſage in the Pſalm, which is meant of Chriſt, Calcabis ſuper aſpidem & draconem, &c. Thou ſhalt tread upon the Dragon and the Serpent, and every thing that hurts thee.

And Laſtly, that nothing may be wanting, There is but one Prerogative of Chriſt's left, He is over all a head to the Church. This title doth the Pope arrogate to himſelf too. My Brethren, I will ſay but one thing to you, as they ſaid to Chriſt, that were ſent to know whether he was the Meſſiah; Art thou he that ſhould come, or do we look for another? So, is this he, or do we look for another Antichriſt? For my particular, I look for no other.

SER-

Sermon XXXVI.

SERMON XXXVI.

EPHES. I. 22, 23.

——and gave him to be a Head [or, the Head] over all things to the Church.

Which is his Body, the fulneſs of him which filleth all in all.

I Divided theſe words into theſe two parts:

Firſt, What concerneth our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt as a Head, He is a head to his Church over all, and He filleth all in all.

Secondly, What concerneth the Church; the Church, it is his body, and it is his fulneſs.

Firſt, Concerning the Headſhip of Chriſt: I ſhewed you, that by Head here, was meant a ſimilitude drawn from the Natural head of a man's Body. There is a Conjugal head, as the Husband is the head of the Wife. There is a Political head, as the Supream Magiſtrate is the head of the Common-wealth. But this ſimilitude hath relation to the Natural head of the Body of man, which is the neareſt relation of all others. I opened ſo much in general in the laſt diſcourſe. Now I ſhall ſhew you more particularly the relation of Headſhip that Jeſus Chriſt hath to his Church.

I have often had many diſcuſſions with my ſelf, whether that this relation of Headſhip ſhould not import ſome diſtinct Office from that of King, Prieſt, and Prophet, to which three all Divines do reduce the Offices of Chriſt. But I have at laſt reſolved my thoughts thus; That this relation of Headſhip doth import all his Offices, but with that peculiarneſs, and with that eminency, as no other relation in Scripture doth. For, Firſt, to begin with his Kingly Office, There is this difference between a King and a Natural head of a body; that a King, he ruleth only externally by Commands, and by Laws, and by Proclamations declared; but the rule of a Head is natural. Therefore now, if you reduce it to the Kingly office of Chriſt, it is with an eminency, with a peculiarity. It is our advantage, that we are not ruled by Chriſt as a King ſimply conſidered, (ſo far as that ſimilitude will carry it) by external Laws revealed, or by way of Promiſes or Rewards; but we are ruled by Chriſt naturally and inwardly, as the Members are ruled by the Head, which of all Rules is the beſt and moſt eminent. So that it noteth out the peculiarity of his Kingly office.

Secondly, come to his Prophetical Office, His Headſhip noteth that too, and that with a peculiarity. The Head doth not teach the Members by outward dictates, or by way of Doctrine; but it doth teach the Members by way of impreſſion, a ſecret impreſſion, carrying them on to do the thing it teacheth: So Jeſus Chriſt, as a Head, doth not only teach by way of Doctrine, but by Efficacy; I need not write unto you (ſaith he,) for you are all taught of God to love one another. And this is the moſt glorious teaching in the World.

Thirdly,

Thirdly, Go to his Prieſtly Office, and his Headſhip importeth that too. There are two parts of his Prieſtly Office. There is firſt, Offering of Sacrifice; Secondly, there is Interceſſion, a pleading of that Sacrifice before God for us. And of the two Intereeſſion is the moſt eminent part of the Prieſthood of Chriſt, for that part of his Prieſtly Office was reſembled by Melchiſedech, who (we never read) offered Sacrifice, but he bleſſed Abraham, as Chriſt doth us from Heaven, and now intercedeth for us. Sermon XXXVI.

Now Interceſſion is noted out by Headſhip, for it is natural to the Head to ſpeak for the Members, the Tongue ſpeaks, if ſpeaking will prevent any danger; the Head takes care of the Members by interceſſion and by pleading. It noteth out therefore his Prieſtly Office, and that with an eminency, and by a peculiarity.

I might ſhew likewiſe, how it noteth out his being God and Man; but I would finiſh the Chapter at this time, therefore I muſt cut off many things. Only there is this Queſtion, which I know not well how to paſs over. I find it not ſtarted by Interpreters upon the place, but I find it ſtarted by ſome Divines, in other Diſcourſes of theirs, and it is this: When it was that Chriſt began to be Head of his Church? Say they, it was then when he did aſcend, and the Text (ſay they) is clear for it; For having raiſed him from the dead, he gave him to be a Head over all things to his Church, when he had firſt ſet him at his own right hand in the Heavenly places.

To ſalve this doubt in a word or two.

In the Firſt place, Headſhip is taken either largely for one that repreſenteth another, who is a Common perſon for others. The Head you know ſtandeth for the whole Body, therefore you give the name of the whole man to the Head, it is ſo in all Languages. In Latin Caput is put for the whole Perſon, ſo likewiſe in Greek, the word κεφαλὴ is put for the whole Perſon: ſo Jeſus Chriſt being the Head, is put for the whole Body, as 1 Cor. 12.12. And as you ſee oftentimes in Princes Coin. Now then take Chriſt as he is a Common perſon, a Perſon repreſentative, ſo he was a Head before his Incarnation. In Election we were all choſen in him as in a common Perſon, ſtanding for us, and undertaking for us, as I ſhewed when I opened thoſe words [Choſen in him.] And ſo likewiſe he was a common Perſon when he was upon Earth, and every action of his was Capital, as the Schoolmen ſay, every Grace of his was Gratia Capitis. Now as Headſhip is taken thus for a common Perſon repreſenting another, ſo I ſay Chriſt was a Head before his Incarnation, and ſo he was a Head while he was upon Earth.

But then Secondly, Headſhip importeth an influence into Members, and that influence is either Virtual or Actual, as I may ſo diſtinguiſh. It is Virtual, As before Chriſt was Incarnate; yet the virtue of his being God-Man, and a Head to his Church, was it that filled all the Saints then as well as now. Therefore, as he was a Lamb ſlain from the beginning of the world, that is, he was conſidered as ſuch, ſo he was a Head from the beginning of the World, from Adam's Fall.

But then there is an Actual influence, whereby the Godhead dwelling in the Manhood, doth actually fill all things through his Manhood, as the Inſtrument of it; and ſo he began to fill all things when he aſcended, for then the Humane Nature was enlarged, to take into his care every Member of his Church, and to ſend Commiſſion that this Soul ſhould be filled with this good thought, and that Soul with this; which was not before. And ſo I have cleared that thing.

Now this ſimilitude of a Head importeth many things, but I will keep to what the Text ſaith. There are Two things imported in the Text, whereby the Headſhip of Chriſt is repreſented to us.

Firſt, He is ſaid to be a Head in reſpect of Eminency, and that is plain in the Text, He gave him to be a Head over all:

Secondly,

Sermon XXXVI.

Secondly, He is ſaid to be a Head in reſpect of Influence into his Members; that is plain in the Text too, He filleth all in all. I ſhall open thoſe words afterward; but only becauſe the Text giveth us hints of theſe two, I will firſt ſpeak a little of them.

Firſt, He is a Head in reſpect of Eminency. The Head, [Caput], is oftentimes put for the beginning. Chriſt is a Head in that ſenſe, he is the beginning of his Church, he hath that eminency; ſo Coloſſ. 1. 18. He is the head of the body the Church, who is the beginning, the firſt-born from the dead, that in all things he might have the preheminence. Here is one Eminency. Now, he is the beginning of the Church. As Adam was the beginning of the Creation, ſo is Chriſt of the New Creation; he was firſt in order intended, he was not ordained for us, but we for him; the Text is plain for it, for we are his fulneſs. The Head is not ordained ſo much for the Body, as the Body for the Head. He hath the firſt in that ſenſe.

He is likewiſe Head in reſpect of Eminency, for he is worth all the Body. Oh, my Brethren, think what Jeſus Chriſt is. The head of a man is infinitely more worth than his body. Divide them you cannot; but if you could divide them, the head is of more worth than all the body, for all Reaſon, and Wiſdom, and whatſoever is glorious, all the Senſes dwell in the Head; there is but one Senſe dwelling in the Body, namely the Senſe of Touching; but the perfection of all the Senſes is in the Head, it is the ſeat of the Underſtanding. All the Beauty is in the Head, therefore the Civil Lawyers in their language call whatſoever is excellent, Caput, the Head.

All Beauty you know lieth in the Face, and the Face and Head is all one. You may read 1 Cor. 11. of uncovering the Head, that is, uncovering the Face; covering the Head, is covering the Face with a Veil, as the cuſtome of thoſe times was. Such an one, my Brethren, is Jeſus Chriſt. You ſee Saints, and you ſee but few of them, and you do not ſee them in their ruff, in their glory, as they ſhall be in their Robes at the latter day; when you have thoughts of them all, put them all together, what are they? They are but the Toes, the Fingers, the Hands of this Head. Chriſt is worth all this Body, and a thouſand Bodies more, if you could ſuppoſe them. In him is all the Beauty, for it is ſaid, the Glory of God ſhineth in the face of Jeſus Chriſt. The Face is put for the Head, ſo 2 Cor. 4.

The Image of God appeareth in the Head, more than in all the Body; ſo it doth in Chriſt. God is very well pleaſed when he looks upon the Head, though the Members be ſcabbed, and diſeaſed, and full of humors; but in him I am well pleaſed, ſaith he. He is Primum amabile, that makes the Body beautiful in the eyes of God, and he will never leave it till he hath cleanſed it and made it like himſelf. He is fairer than the Children of Men, than all the Children of Men put together; Pſal. 45.

And whereas you will ſay, All the Grace we have, Chriſt hath. But, my Brethren, How hath he it? Not as you have it, for the fulneſs of the Godhead dwelleth in him, and dwelleth in him bodily. The Body hath all the uſe of the reaſon of the Head, ſo that when you ſee a man do actions, he doth them rationally; as when a man playeth on a Lute, it is a rational act, which made one ſay, that the Soul is in the Fingers ends; but now he doth theſe actions by way of participation; it is the Soul that guideth all. So we have Grace, but it is by participation; the Spring of all is in Chriſt the Head. All the Counſel, all the Wiſdom is in the Head, and he is made unto us Wiſdom, we have none of our ſelves; he is the mighty Counſellor, as you know he is called. So that he is a Head in reſpect of Eminency, a Head over all, Body and all.

Secondly, He is a Head in reſpect of Influence, which is imported in theſe words, He filleth all in all. He is a Head in reſpect of influence theſe three ways, in reſpect of communicating.

1. Of Life.
2. Of Motion.
3. Of Strength.

First,

Sermon XXXV.

First, all our life is from him that is Spiritual. The Body indeed it liveth a Natural life without the Head, but it doth not live an Animal life, a Senſitive life, all that is from the Head. You have a Natural life from Adam, but all your Spiritual life is from the Head Chriſt. My Brethren, the very bands by which we are united to this head all come from him, as all the Nerves and Sinnews by which the Members are united to the head, ſpring all from the head. You have a plain place for it, Coloſ. 2. 19. ſpeaking of men that did not hold the head Chriſt, by which (ſaith he,) all the Body by joynts and bands having nouriſhment miniſtred, and knit together, increaſeth with the increaſe of God. He doth not only communicate all life to us but he knitteth us to himſelf, firſt he apprehendeth us and then we apprehend him, as in the Epiſtle to the Epheſians.

Secondly, The Head you know is the principle of motion as well as the principle of life and union of the Members; There is no motion in any little Member but it is formed in the head firſt, and the head, the fancy firſt formeth it, and then ſends the Spirits to the Toe and biddeth it move this way or that way, or to the Hand and bids it act this thing or that, and it is more the action of the Head then it is of the Toe or of the Hand. So it is here, all the ſpiritual actions which you do, are from Chriſt that worketh all in all, 1 Cor. 2. 6. as he is here ſaid to fill all in all. What a mighty vaſt comprehenſive head have we, that ſhould think all the good thoughts of every Member, that is, Give direction that any ſhould think them, he ſendeth his Spirit down, who is ſaid to be that ſame ἐνέργεια, that ſame inward working, Epheſ. 4. 16. He ſendeth his Spirit down and that works every thing that Chriſt would have wrought.

I find in ſome of the Schoolmen, handling Chriſt's headſhip that they would make the Holy Ghoſt to be the Heart and Chriſt to be the Head, they would follow the ſimilitude ſo far. But it is an abſurd one, for to make the Holy Ghoſt the Heart in this Body is indeed to make him a Member whereof Chriſt is the Head; He beareth no ſuch part. But what part doth he bear in this Body then? He beareth the part of the Spirits that run up and down in the Nerves and Sinnews and Blood, (which is called the life of a Man,) that carry all the commiſſions for actions to be done, & that part indeed the Holy Ghoſt hath between the head and us.

Now my Brethren, do but think with your ſelves what a Head Chriſt is, in reſpect of motion. Suppoſe (it is a ſuppoſition may be made to illuſtrate the thing,) there were a Man that were as high as that his head were in Heaven, and his feet were here upon Earth, and his hands ſtretched all over the World: No ſooner did the head that was in Heaven think of moving the toe, but it would move in an inſtant. Even ſuch an one is Chriſt, he is a head, he hath a part of his body in Heaven, he moveth them as he pleaſeth he hath another part on Earth here, and he moveth them as he pleaſeth too, and he doth it in an inſtant. He is the principle of all motion. He is the head in that reſpect.

Thirdly, He is the Fountain of all ſtrength likewiſe. All the ſtrength of the body lieth in the Spirits. Take away the Animal Spirits that come from the head, the body is a weak thing, It is ſown in weakneſs; when the Spirits are gone the body dieth. Further than Chriſt ſtrengthneth us we are all dead; therefore the Apoſtle prayeth, Epheſ. 3. 16. That they may be ſtrengthned with might by his Spirit in the inner man; And I am able (ſaith he,) to do all things through Chriſt that ſtrengthneth me.

And ſo much for the headſhip of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. He is firſt the Fountain of all Spiritual life, the uniter of us to himſelf, the principle of all union is from the head; he is Secondly the fountain of all motion; and thirdly of all ſtrength.

The Second thing to be conſidered in Jeſus Chriſt's headſhip is this, He is ſaid to be a head over all, Gave him to be a head over all.

There are many ſenſes of them and they are all full of comfort to us. The words note out firſt, (as I ſaid before,) an eminency, an excellency, a ſuper excellency; As Eph. 6. 16. Above all things put on the ſhield of Faith, that is the moſt eminent thing of all the reſt; So Jeſus Chriſt is a head above all: And ſo it referreth to the gift, that above all gifts that God hath given him this is the greateſt gift to be the head of the Church. That is one meaning. It was the greateſt gift that could be given to Chriſt to be a head of the Church which is his body, more than ſoveraignty over all things elſe, which he had mentioned afore. And it was the greateſt gift that could be given to the Church, the words will bear either, καὶ αὐτὸν ἔδωκε κεφαλὴν ὑπὲρ πάντα τῇ Ἐκκλησίᾳ.

Sermon XXXVI.

Or elſe in the ſecond place, [He gave him to be a Head over all to the Church,] hath this ſenſe in it. It noteth out his Soveraignty and ſuperiority over all in relation to his Church, that God gave him to be a head to the Church; who is above all, and ſo indeed the Syriak tranſlation readeth it, He that is above all, God gave him to be a Head to his Church. And this ſeemeth to be the meaning more properly, for he had ſet him out before how he was over all Principalities and Powers, far above all; yet he repeateth it again in this, He gave him to be a Head over all to his Church; that is, he that was Lord of all, God added this to him, to be a Head to the Church; Noting out, that none was fit to be a Head to the Church, but he that was over all; he is over all that belongeth to his Church for her good; over all that are againſt her for to hurt her: And it was needful for the Church to have ſuch a head, for we have enough againſt us; but who ſhall be againſt us if Chriſt our head be for us?

There is a Third meaning yet, and it is for our comfort. It is this, It hath relation to Headſhip, that is, Above all relations elſe he gave him to be a head and to act that part. He doth not ſay, he gave him to be a Lord ſimply, nor a King, nor a Brother, but above all theſe, (though he is all theſe,) he is a head, God gave him to be above all things elſe a loving, and kind, and natural head to his Church, which is his Body.

Every one of theſe ſenſes my Brethren, how full of comfort are they! If you refer [above all] to gift, He gave above all him to be a Head; How full of comfort is it! That this ſhould be the greateſt gift that ever God gave, Chriſt, for to be a Head to his Church; and Chriſt reckoneth it ſo. Look into John 17. read over that Chapter, you ſhall ſee there as it is a Prayer, ſo it is a Thanksgiving too, it is an acknowledgment of mercies and benefits given him by his Father. He telleth his Father indeed he had given him glory, ſaith he verſe 1. Glorifie thy Son, that thy Son alſo may glorifie thee, with the glory which I had with thee before the World was; verſe 5. which verſe 22. he calleth the glory which thou gaveſt me. And this indeed Jeſus Chriſt valueth moſt therefore he mentioneth it firſt in the firſt verſe, for his own perſon being worth more than ours, he hath reaſon to value his own glory more than all ours, he ſhould not love himſelf regularly elſe. But next to that what valueth he? Verſe 2. Thou haſt given him power over all Fleſh; here is his being over all, but to what end? Mark what followeth, That he ſhould give eternal life to as many as thou haſt given him; And verſe 22. The glory which thou haſt given me, I have given them; So that he ruleth this Power that he hath in order to our ſalvation. And if you read that Chapter, (obſerve it,) what is it that Chriſt mentioneth oftneſt in that Chapter as the greateſt gift? It is the giving of his Church to him. He mentioneth it ver. 6. I have manifeſted thy name to them which thou gaveſt me, thine they were and thou gaveſt them me; So again ver. 8. I have given thy words to them which thou gaveſt me, and they have received them; ver. 9. I pray for them which thou haſt given me; ver. 10. All mine are thine, and thine are mine; ſtill he pleadeth his intereſt in them as by way of gift; ſo ver. 11. that thoſe which thou haſt given me may be one; ſtill he mentioneth this as the greateſt gift of all the reſt which God hath beſtowed upon him,

My Brethren, Jeſus Chriſt reckoneth his being a head to the Church more than all his Temporal Dominions, more than his being over all things elſe. What uſe ſhall we make of it? In a word thus, Let us prize our relation to Chriſt, ſeeing Chriſt priſeth ſo much his relation to us, he prizeth it more than his being over all things, than his being far above all Principalities and Powers, let us prize it more than all worldly greatneſs and riches, or what elſe ſoever; Our being a Member of Chriſt is more than our being all things, as Chriſt's being a head to us is more than being Lord of all the World.

And then again, Let the Church value this gift of Chriſt being a head together, for it beareth that meaning too; there is an Emphaſis in that word [Him] he gave [Him] to be a Head, ſo ſaith the Text. He had ſet him forth as Solomon in all his royalty, ſitting at his Fathers right hand over all Principalities and Powers, and he hath given him (ſaith he,) to be a head over all to the Church. What ſhould the Church

Church do now? It ſhould go over all the excellencies of Jeſus Chriſt to make her prize the gift of Chriſt to her as a head. And let me tell you, he hath given him to be a Saviour, the Saviour of his body, but to be a head is the greater, to be a head is an everlaſting thing, when ſin will be remembred no more, when his Prieſtſtood is at end, he will be a head for ever when he hath given up the Kingdom to God the Father. It is a peculiar bleſſing, To which of all the Angels hath he ſaid he is a Husband to them or a head to them, as a body? To none of them. It is only to this body, the Church, the Sons of Men.

Sermon XXXVI.

O my Brethren, when you are in Heaven and when ſin ſhall be forgotten, you love him now becauſe he ſaveth you, juſtifieth you, and cleanſeth you, and you will love him at the latter day becauſe he pronounceth you bleſſed, forgiveth you all ſins and ſuffereth you not to enter into condemnation, but when all theſe ſhall be over what will be the ſweetneſs for ever? That he is your head. Above all he gave him to be a head to his Church.

And do you but conſider what a head you have. There is I know not how many Alls in him. In his perſon there dwelleth all the fulneſs of the Godhead bodily, ſo he ſaith *Col.*2.9. In his relation to you he is All, and he is in *All Col.*3.11. In his power for you he is above All, ſo ſaith the Text. In his communicating his goodneſs, he filleth all in all, ſo ſaith the Text too. He is one that hath All the Godhead, that is All in All, that is above All, that filleth All in All. What would you have more? Here is Alls enow for you, vallue this gift that Jeſus Chriſt is your head.

Laſt of all, Take that other ſenſe, that of all relations elſe he is above all, a head, performeth that part the beſt, and nothing is more comfortable to his Church. He is not only above all other heads, above Husband, above the natural head of the body, puts them all down, they are but ſhadows to him, but above all Offices belonging to himſelf, he is above all a head to his Church; It is as if a Wife ſhould ſay of her Husband, He is the beſt Warrier in the World, he is a King, he hath the power and command of all the World, he is wiſe, he is rich, he is above all in every thing and he hath all ſorts of excellencies in him, but above all he is the beſt Husband in the World, he putteth himſelf down in that; he acts that part the beſt. So it is with Jeſus Chriſt, he is the King of all the World, he is wiſe, &c. but above all he is a head, he excelleth in that above all things elſe.

I ſhould have made this uſe of it and preſſed it upon you. If he be a head above all, it is fit you ſhould be ſubject to him in all. Wives, (ſaith he,) be ſubject to your Husbands as the Church is to Chriſt. One would wonder at that, that the Churches obedience to Chriſt ſhould be made the pattern of Wives obedience to their Husbands; Certainly it argueth that the Church is more naturally, more willingly ſubject to Chriſt than Wives are to their Husbands. Yet let any Wife conſider, How do I obey Chriſt? How do I obey my Husband? But I paſs from that.

I have done with the relation of Chriſt to his Church, he is a head, a head over all to his Church. I come now to the Office of Jeſus Chriſt to his Church, imported in theſe words, He filleth all in all.

Firſt, I muſt explain to what kind of thing this word All in all is reſtrained or limitted.

Secondly, I muſt explain the phraſe of filling.

Thirdly, the phraſe it ſelf All in all.

Firſt, This word [All] is not to be extended to all things in the World, though that be true that Chriſt doth put all the fulneſs into the Creature, Adam brought an emptineſs. But that is not the meaning here. It is to be reſtrained to his body, to believers, they are the All here mentioned. As in Col. 3.11. Chriſt is ſaid to be All in all, but what meaneth he? To his Church, There is neither Greek nor Jew, (ſaith he, ſpeaking of the new Creature in the words before,) Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free, but Chriſt is all in all; namely in his Saints, be they what they will. So Eph. 4.10,11. It is ſaid he filleth all things, but by All things there is meant his Saints, his Church, as it followeth, He gave ſome to be Apoſtles, &c. For the edifying of the Body of Chriſt.

Sermon XXXV.

Secondly, for the phraſe filling, to open that, he filleth all in all. It is Chriſt's work in Heaven my Brethren, He aſcended far above all Heavens, that he might fill all things, ſaith the Apoſtle in Epheſ. 4. 10. He gave him to ſit at his own right hand, that he might fill all things, ſaith the Text.

It implieth firſt of all an emptineſs in us that are filled by him. Not only a real emptineſs, that we have nothing in our ſelves, without me (ſaith he,) ye can do nothing; we are but Valleys, every Valley muſt be filled, Luke 3. 5. But he filleth only thoſe that have a ſenſible emptineſs, that have a feeling of their own wants, He filleth the hungry with good things, Luke 1. 53. Hunger is not only a real emptineſs, but hunger is a ſenſible emptineſs.

My Brethren, the Church, take all the Saints in Heaven and in Earth, they are all empty things without Jeſus Chriſt, we are not able to think a good thought, we are all but meer empty veſſels brought to a Conduit pipe to be filled, we have not a drop of good, not ſo much as one good thought, further then Jeſus Chriſt filleth us. This is the glory of our Head.

Secondly, Conſider what he filleth us with, he filleth us with his Spirit. Read from Luke 1. 15. to the end of the Revelation, you ſhall find that phraſe uſed many a time, They were filled with the Holy Ghoſt, filled with him as with Wine, Epheſ. 5. 18. Filled with the fruits of righteouſneſs, Phil. 1. 11. Filled with the knowledge of his Will, in all Wiſdom and Spiritual Underſtanding, Coloſ. 1. 9. Filled with joy, Act. 13. 52. And if this be not enough you ſhall be filled with all the fulneſs of God one day, and a little of God will fill you, Epheſ. 4. 13.

But Thirdly, How is it that Chriſt filleth his Church?

He doth it two ways.

He filleth them firſt Meritoriouſly by what he did here upon Earth, he purchaſed power and grace to fill them with theſe. For my Brethren, you muſt know this, That Chriſt doth nothing for us, but he himſelf had ſomething in him proportionable that might merit why it ſhould be done. Doth he make us rich? He was firſt poor. Doth he fill us? Himſelf was firſt empty, ſo ſaith Phil. 2. 7. it is ſaid there, he emptied himſelf, ſo the words ἑαυτὸν ἐκένωσε, ſignify.

Then again he filleth Efficiently, and that while he is in Heaven; He ſendeth down the Holy Ghoſt, and he works all, the Manhood doth it inſtrumentally, the Godhead doth it Virtually, the fulneſs of the Godhead dwelleth in him and runneth, overfloweth through the Humane Nature as the inſtrument of it and filleth all in all. And ſo much now for his filling.

I come now to the Phraſe, filleth all in all. There are two things in that to be conſidered diſtinctly.

Firſt, Here is an All, which is filled.

Secondly, Here is All, with which it is filled.

Firſt, He filleth all, that is, as I ſaid before, all Saints, all the Members of his Body, And that importeth theſe particulars.

Firſt, It importeth that he filleth every Saint, there is not one but he filleth. There is not a Saint, my Brethren, but hath a meaſure of the ſtature of the fulneſs of Chriſt, which God hath appointed him to have, and Chriſt filleth him top full before he hath done, he leaveth not one Saint out. We are all veſſels, Veſſels of mercy, that are to be filled; and you may read Epheſ. 4. of a Sea of love, a Sea that knoweth neither ſhore nor bottom, That ye may be able to comprehend (ſaith he,) what is the breadth, and length, and height, and depth, of what? Of the love of Chriſt, which paſſeth knowledge, that ye may be filled (ſaith he,) with all the fulneſs of God. Every Saint ſhall be thus filled one day, thrown into that Sea of the love of God, and Jeſus Chriſt, and of the knowledge of him, and take in all that he can hold, he ſhall be filled top full according to his meaſure.

Secondly,

Secondly, this word [All,] importeth all ſorts of Saints, that both Jew and Gentile, Rich and Poor, Men and Women ſhall all be filled. Thus you find the word All in all uſed, Coloſſians 3. 11. There is neither Greek nor Jew, Circumciſion nor Uncircumciſion, Barbarian, Scythian, Bond or Free, but Chriſt is all, and in all theſe. Sermon XXXV.

Then Thirdly, He filleth all, that is, all the powers and faculties, both of Body and Soul, that is in every one of theſe Members. Thou haſt an Underſtanding, a Memory, a Will, a Fancy, thou haſt outward Senſes, thou haſt a Body, Jeſus Chriſt will fill every one of theſe top full. He will empty thee of every one of thine own thoughts afore he hath done. He will fill thine Underſtanding with none but his own thoughts, top full, thou ſhalt think no thoughts but what Chriſt himſelf thinketh. He will fill thy Will, thou ſhalt have no deſires, no affections, but what Jeſus Chriſt hath; He will fill thee with all his own joy, with all his own delights, with all the pleaſures himſelf hath at God's right hand. I tell you my Brethren, he will turn a man's ſelf out of dores and fill a man's ſelf with himſelf, that as the Iron that is red hot, all the Pores of it are filled with heat, there is nothing but Iron and Fire, ſo at laſt there will be nothing but Jeſus Chriſt and the Man, As the Cloud filleth the Temple, ſo will he fill your Bodies and make them Temples of the Holy Ghoſt, he will glorifie you with the ſame glory that he himſelf hath, he will fill all parts in a Man at laſt.

Secondly, He will fill all in all. I have ſhewed you what All is to be filled, Now then what is the All with which he will fill All? He will fill you with all ſorts of graces, he will fill the whole with all ſorts of gifts, ſo the word is taken, 1 Cor. 12. 6. God worketh (ſaith he,) all in all; It is not that every one hath all gifts, but take the whole Body, and amongſt them they have all; He worketh in the eye and filleth that, and he filleth the hand as a hand according to the uſe of every part. So that put all together and he is all in all, and ſo in this life and in the World to come it is ſaid, God will be all in all, 1 Cor. 15.

So much now for that head likewiſe, He filleth all in all; And ſo now I have done with Chriſt's part, wherein he is ſaid to be a head over all, filling all in all.

Now then will you come to the Churches relation, The Church (ſaith he,) which is his Body the fulneſs of him that filleth all in all, You ſee that in Jeſus Chriſt's relation there were two things. There was firſt his headſhip. There was ſecondly his Office, filling all in all. Now if you come to the Churches relation ſhe hath ſomething to anſwer both. Anſwerable to his headſhip, ſhe is called his Body, [which is his Body,] anſwerable to his filling all in all ſhe is called his fulneſs.

In my laſt diſcourſe I handled what was meant by the word Church. There was a neceſſity that lay upon me to open that diſtinction of Church, Univerſal and Particular. I gave you two cautions about two Errors concerning each of theſe, both toward the Church Univerſal and toward Particular Churches. Concerning which I muſt neceſſarily ſay ſomething to take away ſome miſtakes and miſapprehenſions of my meaning, for I walk by this rule to give no offence to Jew or Gentil, or to the Churches of God as the Apoſtle ſpeaks.

The Firſt Error, I told you was of the Donatiſts of Old who denied the Church Catholick, and reſtrained it to one part of the World; and yet the imputation of this Error lieth upon thoſe who you call Browniſts to this day; This I cleared them from, and it is as great a clearing as can be.

The ſecond Error was of thoſe whom hold particular Churches, (thoſe you call Pariſh Churches,) to be no true Churches of Chriſt, and their Miniſters to be no true Miniſters, and upon that ground forbear all Church Communion with them in hearing or in any other Ordinance. And as I acquitted theſe from that other Error, ſo I acquitted my ſelf from this, and my Brethren in the Miniſtry. I would not now have touched upon it again, but as I ſaid, to clear (not my ſelf ſo much,) as ſome miſtakes about it.

The

Sermon XXXVI.

The First is this, It was understood as if I said, that all Parish Churches and Ministers generally were Churches and Ministers of Christ, such as with whom Communion might be held. I said not so. I was wary in my expressions. I will only say this unto you about it, There is no man that desireth reformation in this Kingdom (as the generality of all godly People do,) but will acknowledge and say, that multitude of Parishes, where Ignorance and Prophaness overwhelmeth the generality, Scandalousness and Simony, the Ministers themselves; that these are not Churches and Ministers fit to be held Communion with. Only this, The Ordinances that have been administred by them, so far we must acknowledge them, that they are not to be recalled or repeated again.

But here lieth the question, my Brethren, and my meaning. Whereas now in some of the Parishes in this Kingdom, there are many godly men that do constantly give themselves up to the worship of God in publick, and meet together in one place to that end, in a constant way, under a godly Minister, whom they themselves have chosen to cleave to, (though they did not choose him at first.) These, notwithstanding their mixture and want of Discipline, I never thought for my part, but that they were true Churches of Christ, and Sister Churches, and so ought to be acknowledged. And the contrary was the Errour that I spake against.

Secondly, For holding Communion with them. I say, as Sister Churches, occasionally as Strangers, men might hold communion with them. And it is acknowledged by all Divines, that there is not that obligation lying upon a Stranger, that is not a Member of a Sister Church, to find fault in that Church, or in a Member of it, as doth on the Church it self to which one belongeth.

I will give you my Reasons, that moved me to speak so much. It was not simply to vent my own Judgment, or simply to clear my self from that Errour; but the Reasons, or rather the Motives and Considerations that stirred me in it were these.

First, If we should not acknowledge these Churches, thus stated, to be true Churches of Christ, and their Ministers true Ministers, and their Order such, and hold Communion with them too in the sense spoken of, we must acknowledge no Church in all the Reformed Churches; none of all the Churches in Scotland, nor in Holland, nor in Germany, for they are all as full of mixture as ours. And to deny that to our own Churches, which we do not to the Churches abroad, nothing can be more absurd. And it will be very hard to think, that there hath been no Church since the Reformation.

Secondly, I know nothing tendeth more to the peaceable Reformation amongst us, than to break down this Partition wall; for there is nothing provokes more than this doth, to deny such Churches to be true Churches of Christ. For do but think with your selves, and I will give you a familiar Example: You come to a man, whom you think to be a godly man; you tell him, he hath these and these sins in him, and they are great ones; it is as much as he can bear, though you tell him he is a Saint, and acknowledge him so. But if you come to him, and say, besides this, You are a limb of the Devil, and you have no Grace in you; this provokes all in a man, when there is any ground in himself to think so, or in another to judge him so. So it is here, Come to Churches and say, You have these defects amongst you, and these things to be reformed; but if you will come, and say, Your Churches and your Ministers are Antichristian, and come from Babylon, there is nothing provokes more. Therefore, if there be a truth in it (as I believe there is,) men should be zealous to express it; for this is the great Partition wall that hindreth of twain making one.

Then again, This is that which I consider, and it is a great Consideration also. I know that Jesus Christ hath given his People light in matters of this nature by degrees. Thousands of good Souls that have been bred up and born in our Assemblies, and enjoy the Ordinances of God, and have done it comfortably, cannot suddenly take in other Principles, you must wait upon Christ to do it.

In

In this caſe, men are not to be wrought off by falſhoods, God hath no need of them. No, rather till men do take in light, you ſhould give them all that is comfortable in the condition they are in; we ſhould acknowledge every good thing in every man, in every Church, in every thing, and that is a way to work upon men, and to prevail with them; as it is Phil. verſ.6. That the communication of thy faith, may become effectual by the acknowledgment of every good thing, which is in you in Chriſt Jeſus. It is that which buildeth men up, by acknowledgment of every good thing that is in them. Sermon XXXVI.

Laſtly, the laſt inconvenience is this, It doth deprive men of all thoſe gifts that are found amongſt our Miniſters, and in this Kingdom, that they cannot hold any communion or fellowſhip with them. So that I profeſs my ſelf as zealous in this point, as in any other I know; And for my part this I ſay, and I ſay it with much integrity, I never yet took up Religion by Parties, in the lump; I have found by trial of things, that there is ſome truth on all ſides. I have found Holineſs where you would little think it, and ſo likewiſe Truth; and I have learned this Principle, which I hope I ſhall never lay down till I am ſwallowed up of Immortality, and that is that which I ſaid before, To ackuowledge every good thing, and hold communion with it, in Men, in Churches, or whatſoever elſe. I learn this from Paul, I learn this from Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, he filleth all in all; he is in the hearts of his People, and filleth them in his Ordinances to this day; and where Jeſus Chriſt filleth, why ſhould we deny an acknowledgment, and a right hand of fellowſhip and communion?

My Brethren, This Rule that I have now mentioned, (which I profeſs I have lived by, and ſhall do while I live,) I know I ſhall never pleaſe men in it. Why? It is plain, For this is the nature and condition of all Mankind; if a man diſſents from others in one thing, he loſeth them in all the reſt; and therefore if a man do take what is good of all ſides, he is apt to loſe them all, but he pleaſeth Chriſt by it, and ſo I will for this particular.

I come now to, And his body, and his fulneſs.

Firſt, It is ſaid to be his Body.

Secondly, It is ſaid to be his Fulneſs. I ſhall ſpeak to both.

Our Saviour Chriſt's Body, is either taken for his Natural body, which he weareth in Heaven now, and was laid in the Grave: Or, it is taken for his Myſtical body, namely his Saints. Concerning this diſtinction I will add but this, That what Chriſt did to his Natural body, that he doth to his Myſtical body, to conform them to him.

Again, for a Second diſtinction, Our Lord and Saviour Chriſt hath a Sacramental body. Saith the Apoſtle, 1 *Cor.*11. 24. ſpeaking of the Bread, This is my Body, which was broken for you. And he hath a Miniſterial body, which is an Aſſembly of his Children incorporated to enjoy Ordinances. 1 Cor. 10. 17. Speaking of the Church of Corinth, You (ſaith he) are one bread, and one body; for we are all partakers of that one bread. This is a Miniſterial body to Chriſt. As he hath an Univerſal Church, a Myſtical body, whereof only his Saints are Members, ſo he hath a Miniſterial body, which is his Ordinance, which are Saints incorporated and made one, either really or verbally; really, by eating that One bread, as the Apoſtle ſaith.

Now to leave theſe diſtinctions; only I will give you one Obſervation upon the laſt diſtinction, as I did upon the former. There is a Sacramental body, that is, the Bread which is broken; There is a Miniſterial body, which is, the Ordinance of Church Fellowſhip. Here you ſee the ſame thing ſaid of Saints, that is ſaid of the Sacrament. It is ſaid of the Saints, Which are his body; there is no more ſaid of the Bread in the Sacrament, which is his body; yet the Pope and the Papiſts give more reverence to the Sacramental Bread, (and that Bread they ſay, becauſe it hath the appellation of Body, muſt needs be tranſubſtantiated,) to the Sacramental body of Chriſt, than they do to the Myſtical body. As of Old it was an Argument uſed long before the Reformation in England, they do give more reverence to Images of Chriſt, than they do to the Image of Chriſt in Mens hearts, than he doth to Saints: ſo now they give more reverence to the Sacramental body of Chriſt, (and both theſe Errours are correſpondent and proportionable,) than he doth to the miſtical body. And ſo much for thoſe two diſtinctions.

and

Sermon XXXVI.

Now, Why doth this come in, which is his Body?

It cometh in upon a twofold conſideration.

Firſt, To ſhew the nearneſs of the relation that Jeſus Chriſt hath to his Church and his Church hath to him. He is not a head only as a ruler, but he is a head as a Natural head to a body; he is ſo a head to his Church which is his body.

Secondly, To ſhew that he is affected to them, to the Saints, as the head is to the body.

I might handle many things here concerning the Churches being a body to Chriſt wherein the ſimilitude holdeth, but I ſhall not be able to do that and diſpatch what I am yet to do. I ſhall only make this uſe of it. That a body and the members of it are united one to another by the neareſt union, by a union of ſenſe, ſo ſaith the Apoſtle, 1 Cor. 12, 12. As the Body is one and hath many Members, and all the Members of that one Body, being many, are one Body, ſo alſo is Chriſt. Here is a union. And the inference of the Apoſtle from thence is this, verſe 25. That there ſhould be no ſchiſm in the Body, but that the Members ſhould have the ſame care one of another, and whether one Member ſuffer all the Members ſuffer with it. This is the inference the Apoſtle makes of the Churches being a body.

Now let me make but an Obſervation upon the former diſtinction mentioned. I told you there is a Sacramental body of Chriſt, This is my Body; And there is a Miniſterial body of Chriſt, You are one Body for you are partakers of that one Bread. My Brethren, it is ſtrange to ſee and to conſider how that theſe two have made the greateſt diviſions in the World. Thoſe things that are for Communion, (for Chriſt hath appointed Church fellowſhip for Communion, he hath appointed the Sacrament for the Communion of his body, you ſhall be one body ſaith the Apoſtle by it, Ye are one Bread and one Body, for ye are all partakers of one Bread; 1 Cor. 10. 17.) is that which hath cauſed the ſchiſm of the body as I may ſo expreſs it in the Apoſtles words. For what hath bred the greateſt difference between the Papiſts and us of all other points, it is This is my Body, It was that chiefly about which all the Martyrs ſuffered. Amongſt the Proteſtants what hath made the greateſt diſſention between the Lutherans and the Calviniſts? It is This is my Body; there is though not a Tranſubſtantiation yet a conſubſtantiation, he is in and with the bread, ſo the Lutherans hold. Amongſt our ſelves what hath been the great diviſion? Still, though not about the ſacramental body, yet about the Miniſterial body of Chriſt, Church fellowſhip. The body of Chriſt hath ben the occaſion of the rending of the body of Chriſt. As the diſpute was about the body of Moſes ſo are the diſputes about the body of Chriſt. My Brethren, if you cannot agree in Judgment yet agree in heart. Let me but mind you of the relation you bear to Chriſt, remember you are his body, and there ſhould be no ſchiſm in the body, and there would be no ſchiſm if you did not judge one another for theſe things. Though you are of different minds, here is no ſchiſm, for this will be while the Saints are upon the Earth, but the ſchiſm is in judging one another, in not being at peace becauſe you differ in judgment.

Let me ſay to godly men, Agree, you are the body of Chriſt, remember that, let your miſtical relation to Chriſt, that miſtically you are his body, prevail over all conſiderations whatſoever. It is the ſtronegſt tie in the World. Shall I prophecy unto you? Either agree or God will make you agree, either with the Sword or with Fire and Fagot. And let me edge it with this a little, which is his Body; Oh, my Brethren this word [his Body,] it is a ſweet word. You are not only a body among your ſelves, but conſider whoſe body you are, you are the body of Chriſt, his Body; the body which he owneth, which he filleth, which is more his body than yours, and if you will do nothing out of love one to another as becometh Saints, yet do it out of love unto him.

I will add this, the word [His] is added alſo to ſhew that it is the relation this body beareth to Chriſt that giveth the excellency to it. This Body would have no beauty, no excellency in it if this head ſtood not on it, The Church which is his Body. So I paſs from that.

I have nothing now remaining, but only this laſt point, Which is his fulneſs. He beareth the relation of Head, She of Body; he performeth the office of filling her, She performeth this to him, She is his fulneſs. Sermon XXXVI.

Theſe words [His fulneſs] are either taken actively or paſſively. If you take them actively, they refer to Chriſt, and then the meaning is this, that he filleth her. If you take them paſſively, ſhe is his fulneſs. I cannot ſtand to ſhew you how the word is taken in both ſenſes, either for that which filleth, or that which is filled. I pitch rather upon that which this Tranſlation holdeth forth, viz. that this Body is ſaid to be Chriſt's fulneſs.

Why doth the Holy Ghoſt add this? He doth not content himſelf to ſay, that Chriſt is the Head of the Church, which is his Body, but he muſt needs bring in this, that She is his fulneſs.

He mentioneth it, my Brethren, as an honour to his Church, that ſhe is ſuch a Body to him, as that though he be a Head that filleth her, yet he is not compleat without her. He would ſhew, that Chriſt needs her not, therefore he ſaith he filleth her, He filleth all in all; and yet becauſe he is in ſome ſenſe imperfect without her, ſhe is as an Ornament to him, therefore he addeth ſhe is his fulneſs, The fulneſs of him that filleth all in all.

Now ſhe is called the fulneſs of Chriſt in the ſame ſenſe that it is ſaid 2 Cor. 12. 9. My ſtrength is made perfect in weakneſs. What, is not God's power perfect without our weakneſs? Yes, it is perfect in it ſelf; but it is ſaid to be made perfect, becauſe it is declared to be perfect in weakneſs. So when the Church is ſaid to be Chriſt's fulneſs, what is not he full without her? Yes, for he filleth all in all; yet his fulneſs ſhe is, and ſhe ſetteth off his fulneſs, becauſe ſhe ſerveth as an empty veſſel for him to fill, and to ſhew his fulneſs in; that he is not full only in himſelf Perſonally, but that he hath enough overflowing to fill all his body, to fill all in all.

Now then to open this, Jeſus Chriſt hath a Threefold Fulneſs.

He hath Firſt, a Perſonal fulneſs; the Fulneſs of the Godhead dwelleth Perſonally in him, ſo Coloſ. 2. 9.

He hath Secondly, a Diſpenſatory fulneſs, mentioned here in the Text, He filleth all in all. Of his fulneſs we all receive Grace for Grace.

Then Thirdly, he hath a Relative fulneſs, which ariſeth from a relation to his Church, He is the Head, and the Church is his Body. And, as if you would make a Man, you muſt not only have a Head, but you muſt have a Body too, or it is not a perfect man: ſo if you would make up Chriſt (take Chriſt myſtically) you muſt not only have the Perſon of Chriſt, but there muſt be a Body too, and ſo there ariſeth a perfect full ſtature of Chriſt, as the Apoſtle calleth it, 1 Cor. 12. 12.

Now, my Brethren, When, and how doth the Church become the Fulneſs of Chriſt?

It becometh his Fulneſs by theſe Three things.

Firſt, When Jeſus Chriſt hath every Saint brought to him, and gathered about him, united to him, and all joyned in one with him, every Saint that God hath given him. If there were one Saint wanting, Jeſus Chriſt ſhould not be full. Mark what I ſay to you, If there were this Joynt of the little Finger cut off, this Body of mine would be imperfect: ſo if Jeſus Chriſt ſhould want but one of his Members, the Joynt of the little Toe, as I may ſo expreſs it, the leaſt Saint, (comfort thy ſelf) Jeſus Chriſt ſhould not be full, thou makeſt up Chriſt's fulneſs.

Secondly, The Church is then ſaid to be his Fulneſs, when ſhe ſhall have all variety of all gifts and graces diſperſt amongſt them. As now, take the Members of a man's Body, there is not a Member but hath its uſe, there are variety of uſes for the ſeveral Members; put them all together, and there is a compleatneſs for all ſort of uſes the Body needeth. So it is here, Take all the Saints together at the latter day, and there will be nothing wanting of Grace, or of any meaſure of Gifts, that is needful for glory, and excellency, and ornament.

Thirdly, to make up this fulneſs of his Body yet more compleat, As there muſt be all the Members, not one wanting; as there muſt be all variety of uſes that Members ſerve for, none lame or imperfect: So likewiſe there muſt be a fulneſs of growth to a ſtature, to a proportion, or elſe the Body is not full. For Example, If this Hand of mine, or this little Finger were writhen ſhorter in its proportion; if it did not grow to the full meaſure of the proportion of a little Finger, there would be an uncomlineſs and a diſproportion, the Body would not be full. So it is in the Body of Chriſt, therefore to make up this Fulneſs ſo much the more, you read *Epheſ.*4. that the Apoſtle in the 10*th* Verſe having ſaid, that he filleth all in all, he ſaith Verſe 15. that the Saints are to grow up into him in all things, which is the Head, even Chriſt; and Verſe 13. till they all come to a perfect man, unto the meaſure of the ſtature of the fulneſs of Chriſt. To open theſe words a little.

Sermon XXXVI.

The Fulneſs of Chriſt lieth not only in having every Member, but every Member growing up to a full ſtature that God hath appointed him. You ſee ſome little Saints, and you ſee ſome great Saints; there are Saints great and ſmall, as they are called in the Revelation. You wonder at this diſproportion. Now mark, when you come at the latter day, and all the Saints are round about Jeſus Chriſt, you will find a perfect Body; you will ſay, if this Saint had grown any thing more, he had not ſtood well among his Fellows; if this Saint had been any thing leſs, there had not been a fulneſs. They are all to grow up to the fulneſs of the ſtature of Chriſt.

Why is it called, the fulneſs of the ſtature of Chriſt, and not of the Body? Becauſe the fulneſs of the Body is in the fulneſs of the Head, therefore he rather calls it the fulneſs of Chriſt, than of the Body.

The Corollaries from thence are in a word theſe.

Is the Body the fulneſs of Chriſt, and ſo his fulneſs, that he will have every part, every member? Here is then a certainty of ſalvation. A man may loſe his Cloaths, and ſuffer them to be taken from him; but if he can help it, he will never loſe his Members. My Brethren, Chriſt will never loſe his Members; My Father (ſaith he) is greater than I, and none ſhall pluck them out of my Father's hand; but if his Sheep were his very hands themſelves, to be ſure he would not ſuffer them to be pulled off; they are not only his Sheep, but his Members; they are not only in his hands, but his Hands and his Feet; they are the Members of his Body, yea, they are his fulneſs.

Secondly, Learn from hence this, Thou ſhalt certainly have thy meaſure in the growth of Grace. Thou art humbled in thy ſelf, becauſe thou groweſt not according to the Means; that which God hath appointed thee to, thou ſhalt either by Afflictions, or by the Word, attain to that ſtature; for the Members of Jeſus Chriſt are all written in God's Book, and the ſtature that they are all ordained unto, that when they are all met the Body may be full. That Doctrine is not true, that telleth us, That Chriſt might have died and been in Heaven to want a Body; for you ſee it is his fulneſs, he cannot want ſo much as one Member, but he had been imperfect.

I will give you but ſome Obſervations, and ſo end.

Firſt, See the Love of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. He might have taken all the glory and honour to himſelf here, the Holy Ghoſt might only have ſaid, He is the head of the Church, which is his Body, that filleth all in all; but he would needs put in that is his fulneſs, The fulneſs of him that filleth all in all. He would not take all the honour to himſelf, he would give her her due; his Body (ſaith he) which is fulneſs. Certain it is, my Brethren, that our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt accounteth you his fulneſs. Doth he ſee a Soul converted to God? It is a part of my fulneſs (ſaith he) his Joy is full by it. Doth he ſee you get a little Grace at a Sermon? Here is one ſtep more to my fulneſs, ſaith he. He needed not any body, he was perfectly glorious in himſelf; but he hath took upon him ſuch a relation as he were imperfect without a Body, he ſtandeth in need of a Body. What ſaith the Apoſtle, 1 *Cor.*12. The head cannot ſay to the feet, I have no need of thee. Jeſus Chriſt, though a Head, cannot ſay to the leaſt Saint, I have no need of thee. It was his love to enter into this relation. And learn from hence to give every thing his due praiſe; you ſee here, though the Apoſtle ſaith, that Chriſt filleth all in all, yet he giveth the Church her due praiſe, he mingleth that with his. Chriſt filleth all, yet the Church ſerveth for him to empty himſelf into.

Secondly,

Sermon XXXVI.

Secondly, Is every degree of Grace in a Saint a part of Chriſt's fulneſs; doth it add to his fulneſs? Is the addition of every Member a part of his fulneſs? then Converſion of Souls, adding Grace into the hearts of men, is the beſt work in the World, for it is an adding to Chriſt's fulneſs; and what can be a greater work? It is not only doing good to a poor Soul, though that would move one; it is the Motive that James uſeth, He that converteth a ſinner from the errour of his way, ſhall ſave a Soul from death, he pulleth him out of the fire; but beſides this, he addeth to Chriſt's fulneſs, which is the higheſt Motive that can be. That as the Apoſtle Paul ſaith, that it moved him to take all that pains he did, to ſuffer Perſecutions for preaching of the Goſpel, and to be glad of it too; I bear (ſaith he) the afflictions of Chriſt in my fleſh, for his Bodies ſake; this was Paul's Motive: But here is a higher Motive; here is not to do it for his Bodies ſake only, but for Chriſts, to make up his fulneſs. If there were a piece of work, a Statue that were to laſt to Eternity, would not all the cunning Artiſts in the World be glad to have a hand in carving but a Finger in that Statue. My Brethren, To build up the Saints, to joynt in the Saints to Chriſt, is to add to the fulneſs of Chriſt. The work of the Miniſtry is the beſt work in the World; God had but one Son in the World, and he made him a Miniſter.

Thirdly, What a glorious ſight, my Brethren, what a glorious meeting will there be at the latter day, whenas Jeſus Chriſt ſhall have all his fulneſs, all his Body fully and perfectly united to him in all their glory, perfectly cleanſed, not a Member wanting, and all grown to their full ſtature! To ſee the Man Chriſt (as I may ſo call him,) that perfect Man the Apoſtle telleth us of *Eph.*4.10. and in 1 *Cor.*12.12. that is, Chriſt and all his Members making one perfect Man, He the Head, and They the Body. There was never ſuch a ſight as this; not only to ſee this Head crowned with all Glory and Honour, ſitting at God's right hand, and having all things under his feet; and how beautiful will that Head be to behold. Our Lord and Saviour Chriſt is more worth than all this Body, when it hath all her Graces, and all her perfections, and the leaſt Member of this Body is more worth than all the World, (let me tell you that too;) but when you have view'd the Head, to view every Member limb by limb, to ſee all the beauty and perfection of every part, when there ſhall not be a Saint wanting, nor a degree of Grace wanting, but a Body proportionable to this Head; the Head being ſo excellent, if he had not a Body ſuitable he were deformed. Chriſt's beauty, my Brethren, will add to the beauty of this Body; and the beauty of this Body, put all together, will ſet off the beauty of the Head. How doth our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt himſelf long for this day, when he ſhall be full, when he ſhall come to be glorified in his Saints, as the Apoſtle ſaith, 2 *Theſſ.*1.10.

My Brethren, If you had heard of a piece of work, that all the cunning Carvers in the World had been about theſe 6000 years, and it had been wrought limb by limb, and all the Bezalaels in the World, filled with the Holy Ghoſt, had been carving of it, and this Piece had not been compleat and put together, (as you know in working Arras, there are many pieces put together to make the Picture of a Man) if you heard of ſuch a piece of work, what mighty, what infinite expectation would you have! Let me tell you this, That this Body of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt hath been carving and working by all the Prophets, and Apoſtles, and Miniſters, by all the Bezalaels of the World, filled with the Holy Ghoſt to this day, limb by limb; and as the Pſalmiſt ſaith, I am wonderfully and fearfully made in the lower parts of the Earth; God hath wrought it in the lower parts of the Earth, as he did his Body in the Womb. When all theſe ſhall be brought together, and Chriſt the Head ſet upon them, then view them all together, what a ſight will it be! Oh, but let me ſay one thing more, What will it be to be a Member of this Body, though but the little Toe, though but the leaſt part of it, to be one that ſhall go to make up the Fulneſs of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt.

So I have done with this Text, and thus likewiſe I have, together with this Chapter, finiſhed that Courſe of this exerciſe, which I undertook at firſt; and I have ſo done it, as I am not conſcious to my ſelf of having offended any.

A N

AN EXPOSITION ON THE First Eleven Verſes OF THE SECOND CHAPTER OF THE EPISTLE TO THE EPHESIANS.

PART. II.

BY

THOMAS GOODWIN, D. D.

LONDON,

Printed by F. D. and S. R. for T. G. 1681.

AN EXPOSITION on the Second Chapter of the EPISTLE TO THE EPHESIANS:

SERMON I.

Epheſ. 2. verſ. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10.

1. And you hath he quickened, who were dead in treſpaſſes and ſins,
2. Wherein in time paſt ye walked according to the courſe of this World, according to the Prince of the power of the Air, the ſpirit that now worketh in the children of diſobedience.
3. Among whom alſo we all had our converſation in time paſt, in the luſts of our fleſh, fulfilling the deſires of the fleſh, and of the mind; and were by nature the children of wrath, even as others.
4. But God who is rich in mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us,
5. Even when we were dead in ſins, hath quickned us together with Chriſt, (by grace ye are ſaved)
6. And hath raiſed us up together, and made us ſit together in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus.
7. That in Ages to come he might ſhew the exceeding riches of his Grace, in his kindneſs towards us, through Jeſus Chriſt.
8. For by Grace ye are ſaved, through Faith; and that not of your ſelves: it is the gift of God:
9. Not of Works, leſt any man ſhould boaſt:
10. For we are his workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus unto good works, which God hath before ordained, that we ſhould walk in them.

THE firſt ſeven, or, if you will, ten Verſes of this Chapter, are woven ſo into one piece, with what went before in the preceding Chapter, that to begin with any diviſion of the Parts of this Chapter, as diſtinct from the former, were to make that rent worſe, which already hath been made for many Ages, in parting theſe words from the matter contained in the latter end of the firſt Chapter, viz. in the midſt, ere it came to a full joint, and by too haſty a making a ſecond Chapter to begin at theſe words. Let the Reader look back, and take notice, that theſe ſeven Verſes do continue to make but one entire Sentence, though the largeſt in the Book of God, which began at the 18th or 19th Verſes of the firſt Chapter, and arrive not at any full Period until the 8th Verſe of this Chapter.

Serm. I.

In the 19th Verſe of the firſt Chapter, he began to ſet out in a way of praying for them, (to the end that they might be the more apprehenſive of the greatneſs and neceſſity of the things he uttered) the exceeding greatneſs of that Power, which had already begun, and was engaged to perfect that Salvation, which conſiſted in that Riches of Glory he had mentioned in the Verſes before, even according to the working of that mighty Power which he had wrought in Chriſt, in raiſing him up to glory: as whom God had ſet up a Pattern and Prototype of what was to be done in us, and for us, until the full accompliſhment of our Salvation. From thence therefore, that is, from the 19th Verſe, his drift and ſcope was to make a Parallel Compariſon between what was done in Chriſt our Head, and us his Members, that ſo in Chriſt's Glory, as in a lively Pattern and Idea already perfected and compleated, we might the better view what God had and would do for us, and what a great and glorious Salvation was ordained to us, to the praiſe of his great Power and rich Grace towards us. Now that firſt piece of the Parallel on Chriſt's part, he hath finiſh'd in the four laſt Verſes of the firſt Chapter, in which he largely ſets forth the Power which began to ſhew it ſelf in Chriſt's Reſurrection, and continued to glorify it ſelf in placing him at God's right-hand, and then draws to the life, that Glory of Chriſt, which, as an Head to his Church, God had beſtowed upon him. Which the Apoſtle having perfected, he proceeds in the firſt ſeven Verſes of this Chapter to finiſh the Counterpane or ſecond Draught, the Antitype, which anſwereth to this Original, that Parallel which is on our part, and which concerneth the compleating of our Salvation, interweaving thereinto a magnifying that rich Mercy, great Love, and exceeding rich Grace of God manifeſted therein; to magnify which (as the concluſion in the 7th Verſe tells us) was God's ultimate deſign, and the Apoſtle's chief ſcope. Now to draw out the Particulars wherein theſe two Parallels meet.

1. In Chriſt's Exaltation, there was three things more eminent. 1. The terminus à quo, the ſtate or condition out of which he was raiſed; even from the dead, ſays the 20th Verſe. 2. The terminus ad quem, the oppoſite ſublime ſtate of life and glory he advanced him into, raiſed him, and made him to ſit at his right hand in the heavenlies. The glory whereof he ſets out in the reſt of the Chapter, far above Principalities, &c. Shewing withall how in all this he was our Head, and ſo a Pattern to us, ver. 22. And 3dly, the Author hereof, God, and the exceeding greatneſs of his Power, which is ſet out by the infinite diſtance and diſproportion of theſe two ſtates.

Then, in us and our Salvation, which anſwereth this Pattern. There are anſwerably three things more eminently ſet out by the Apoſtle in theſe firſt ſeven Verſes.

1. Terminus à quo, the ſtate and condition of us all by Nature, which God ſaves and raiſes us out of; a ſtate of death, both in Sin, and in reſpect of Condemnation to Wrath and Puniſhment, the deplorable and inextricable miſery of which State, he ſets out moſt briefly, exactly, and comprehenſively in the three firſt Verſes.

2. The Salvation it ſelf, and Terminus ad quem, he raiſeth us up unto out of this condition: which he ſets forth in all the eminent parts and degrees thereof, in three works anſwering to thoſe wrought in Chriſt our Pattern; he quickens, raiſeth, and cauſeth us to ſit together in Chriſt in heavenly places; which ſummarily comprehends the whole of our Salvation firſt and laſt; and all expreſt in the very ſame words he had uſed of Chriſt. This in the fifth and ſixth Verſes.

And 3dly, he ſets out the Author of this to be God, and God alone, (as in that of Chriſt he had alſo done) and in him magnifies, not only the ſame exceeding greatneſs of Power ſhewn in this work on us, that was ſhewn in Chriſt; which is tacitly implied by the likeneſs of Type and Antitype; but further, and more eminently, his rich Mercy, his great Love, his Kindneſs, and the exceeding Riches of Grace more illuſtriouſly and conſpicuouſly ſhining therein; and the cauſe of all, ver. 5. to ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of which (as his great deſign) was the principal and ultimate end of our great God, as the 7th Verſe (which is the concluſion of all) tells us, that moved him thus to caſt the contrivement of bringing us his Sons to Glory, from out of ſuch a depth of miſery and wretchedneſs, to ſuch an height height of Glory and Bleſſedneſs by ſuch ſeveral ſteps. And this is the more general ſum and coherence of theſe words, and of the Apoſtle's ſcope therein, which more briefly, is, to ſet out and greaten theſe three things to us, 1. The greatneſs of that Miſery we lay in. 2. The greatneſs of that Salvation out of that Miſery which is ordained unto us. 3. The greatneſs of that Love, Mercy, Kindneſs, Grace in God, which are the cauſes of this Salvation.

In this long Diſcourſe, continued through ſo many Verſes of this and the former Chapter, the Apoſtle is inforced to make an Hyperbaton, a diſturbed and disjointed order of ſpeech, wherein one thing thruſts back another that ſhould come next; thoſe things that ſhould, according to uſual Law of Speech, follow near one another, are tranſpos'd and ſet far off; and ſo he leaves Sentences imperfect, which are a long while after made full. For whereas in the 18th and 19th Verſes of that firſt Chapter he had thus begun, That you may know what is the exceeding greatneſs of his Power to us-ward, who believe according to the working of his mighty Power, which he wrought in Chriſt when he raiſed him from the dead, and ſet him at his own right-hand in the heavenly places. According to the ordinary way of Speech, he ſhould then have next ſubjoined, and you hath he quickned, who were dead in ſins, &c. Before he arrives at this, he firſt runs out into a large field of diſcourſe, ſetting forth the Glory of Chriſt, and his relation of Headſhip to his Church; and minds not (as it were) what according to the Law of Speech, was next, but when he returns to his firſt deſign again, and begins to bring in this other part in this ſecond Chapter (which immediately was to have cohered with the 19th and 20th Verſes) and ſhould make the Reddition and Parallel compleat, and you that were dead in ſins and treſpaſſes, he runs out again as largely in three verſes, to paint out that wretched condition in all the cauſes and effects of it; and to ſet out alſo the Grace of God, even afore he adds that Verſe, You hath he quickned, which was to govern and compleat thoſe words, you that were dead, &c. (for the word quickned is not in the firſt Verſe) Inſomuch as when he addeth that in ver. 5, he makes an emphatical repitition, [even when you were dead, hath he quickned] for a ſupply. Yea, and whereas he had in the beginning of this Diſcourſe (ſo I muſt call it, rather than one Sentence) ſet himſelf to magnifie the exceeding greatneſs of God's Power (and that Attribute only) manifeſted both in Chriſt the Pattern, and the Salvation of us that believe, as the Counterpane, and accordingly he ſhould (when he came to this work of God upon us, which anſwereth to that on Chriſt) in a correſpondency have ſaid, God that is thus exceeding great in Power, hath in like manner out of the like Power quickned you that were dead, &c. he quite leaves out here the explicit mention of that Attribute, and inſtead thereof falls to magnify the exceeding riches of Mercy and Love in God; but God who is rich in Mercy, for the great Love, wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in ſins, hath quickned us together with Chriſt: by Grace ye are ſaved. And ſo again at the 7th Verſe, to ſhew forth the exceeding riches of his Grace (he mentions not Power) &c. Now the reaſon of all this long and diſturb'd way of diſcourſing, was, 1. Becauſe he was full of matter, and wrapt into things; the holy Ghoſt fill'd and extended his mind to ſuch a vaſtneſs, he ſaw ſo many things at once, and ſo far into every thing he was to ſpeak of, all which were neceſſary to be taken in to illuſtrate each other, that where-ever the holy Ghoſt broach'd him, and gave vent to his Spirit, the plenty of matter about that particular guſh'd out abundantly, and pleno gurgite; and ſtill new matter coming in, ſtrove to get out before what was next. And yet, 2dly, he was guided therein to do it, to the ſetting out the matter he would ſet forth to the greater advantage (which he preferred to the ordinary Laws of Speech) for hereby you have as many things as were poſſible crowded up into one Period, whereof each was neceſſary, ſerving to ſet forth the other, and all the whole; and that we alſo might have all that belonged to any one of thoſe Heads to be ſpoken of, ſet together in one view, to give at once a full proſpect of each. Thus he firſt poſſeſſeth us with that infinite Glory of our Head, CHRIST, and what belonged to Him, with an intimation of uniformity and conformity to him; and then he ſets out as largely the fulneſs of Miſery God raiſeth us out of into that Glory with Chriſt; and then enlargeth upon the Grace and Love in God that raiſeth us hereto, loading both with the richeſt epithites, &c. All which, when ſet together, do infinitely illuſtrate and ſet forth, the one the other. And, 3dly, that Serm. I. in this Reddition or Parallel on our part, he mentions not the Power of God, as in the other, but only falls to magnify Grace, (beſides the more particular Account and Obſervation upon it to be given in the due place,) it was becauſe he had ſhewed the engagement of Power ſufficiently in the 19*th* Verſe, which the Reader's Mind would therefore carry along with him, and the Matter it ſelf neceſſarily included it; as alſo to hold forth, that beſides this of Power, that alſo of Grace, Mercy, Love, Kindneſs, and all in God, were as deeply engaged. He meets with new Attributes, that diſcover themſelves, and appear in it; and above all, Grace and Mercy, which was the ſupreme original Cauſe, and which God's deſign was to magnify as chief, and as his utmoſt end, more than and above Power, or any other Attribute, or all other Attributes, that are manifeſted in this Work, as that which did ſet Power and all elſe on work; hereby the more to take their Hearts with that which God values in his Heart moſt, the Grace and Love in Himſelf: And this alſo, becauſe Grace and Mercy more eminently appears in that Work that is in us, and in the ſaving us; but Power more eminently in that on Chriſt, as it is in him. Thus artificial is the Apoſtle to ſet out his Matter to the fulleſt advantage, when he neglecteth Art in Speech moſt. This in general of the whole ſeven Verſes.

The General Scope of the three firſt Verſes.

To begin with his Deſcription of the State of Nature in the three firſt Verſes: And therein let me firſt give you the general Scope thereof.

The Apoſtle is larger in the ſetting forth the Greatneſs thereof, than he is in thoſe other two Heads that follow. And, as in the Parallel on Chriſt's part, he enlargeth moſt upon the Terminus ad quem, the Glory he was advanced to: on the contrary, in that of ours, he ſpends moſt of his Diſcourſe upon the Terminus à quo, the State of Death we are raiſed out of. And his Scope and Drift therein was double:

I. To ſet out the exceeding Greatneſs of Power, which is put forth in our Salvation, and eſpecially in that which is already done for us, in our Quickning and Converſion, as a Pawn of what follows. And that is moſt illuſtrated, and made manifeſt, by the Conſideration of the Difficulties and Oppoſition from that State we lay in afore: Whereas on the contrary, the Greatneſs of that Power ſhewn in Chriſt, (which hath perfected all in him already) was ſeen and drawn forth moſt, in the beſtowing upon a Man crucified, in ſo much weakneſs, ſo great a Glory, and inveſting him with ſo great a Power.

Now to ſet out the Greatneſs of this Power that goes to quicken us, every word in this Deſcription of our natural State doth ſerve.

1. Not only dead, without any Principle of Life to raiſe themſelves, and what a Power muſt go to quicken one that is dead? But dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, in Sins of all ſorts, dead, and dead again, with ten thouſand Deaths, (for every Sin is a Death); like a Man, that is not only kill'd with one Stab or mortal Wound, but his Body is full of Thruſts throughout his Vitals, an hundred, yea, a thouſand Stabs. And then,

2. Tho dead to that Life he is to be raiſed unto, yet alive to Sin, a Life that is contrary, and which is habitually ſtrengthned by long Cuſtom; for the Text ſays, In which we walked. And this Life of Sin is firſt to be taken away, and ſeeks to the utmoſt to preſerve and defend it ſelf. And,

3. There are beſides, three great Hinderances, over and above this, to be overcome, in the doing of which the Greatneſs of the Power of God is ſhewn: Here is:

Firſt; A Correſpondency with the World, which all Men by Nature hold; they are carried with the Multitude and Crowd of all other Men: they walk according to the Courſe of this World, and there are many Engagements to the Men of this World; that Gang and Stream of Unregenerate Men, that carry and hurry Men with them, as Men in a Crowd are carried, and aſſimulate Men to themſelves: All theſe, ſaith he, do environ and beſiege all in a Man. And in that reſpect, to fetch a Man out from his natural Condition, is as much as to fetch a Man out of the great Turk's Court, out of his Dominions, in a hoſtile way; therefore it is made a mighty buſineſs to overcome the World. We are therefore ſaid to be delivered, as by ſtrong hand, (as the word implies, Gal. 1. 4.) out of this preſent evil World. The good Opinion of Men, Correſpondency with Friends, Honour from Men! How can ye believe, ſaith Chriſt, when ye receive Honour one of another? John 5. 44. How ſtrong Cords are theſe! How do theſe fetter and entangle us! The Stream of moſt of the World is againſt us, and then the Weeds of Correſpondency hang about us. Therefore to overcome the World, is made the effect of an Almighty Power, in 1 John 4. 4. Stronger is he that is in you, than he that is in the World: Otherwiſe we ſhould never have come out of it, or from among them. But then,

it

Secondly; There is a more potent Adverſary, ſtronger than Fleſh and Blood, and than all theſe, the Devil, to whom God hath given Man up by Nature; that ſtrong Man, as he is called, Mat. 12. 28. (as I opened it before on the 18*th* Verſe of the former Chapter); he will never yeild a Man up. And he is a Prince of a greater Army, whereof the leaſt is ſtronger than all Men; and he hath Power, and hath a permiſſive Commiſſion from God: He is the Spirit, that worketh effectually in the Children of Diſobedience; he fails not in his working, Men are taken captive at his Will. And to fetch a Man out of his Kingdom, and to overcome and bind this ſtrong Man; this is yet more. In time paſt ye walked, according to the Courſe of this World, according to the Prince of the Power of the Air, that works effectually, &c.

Well, but Thirdly; Here is yet a worſe, and nearer, and ſtronger Enemy, than either of both theſe, thoſe of a Mans own Houſhold, his own Luſts: In the Luſts of the Fleſh, fulfilling the Deſires of the Fleſh, and of the Mind. And there are as many of theſe Luſts, as there be Creatures, or ſeveral Motions of our immortal Spirits within us: And theſe are natural, yea, our Nature, as the next words tell us, By nature, &c. To alter the whole Courſe and Frame of Nature, how hard is it! To part with any one Luſt, how difficult! Much more to crack all theſe Heart-ſtrings, to pluck up all theſe Roots. You may as ſoon turn the Sun in his Courſe, change a Leopard, or turn a Blackmoor, that yet hath but his blackneſs in his Skin, but theſe Luſts poſſeſs all the Inwards, they are Luſts bred and ſeated in the Fleſh, and what power ſhall fetch that out of the Bones, as the Proverb is? yea, in the Mind, which is yet more inward; yea, they poſſeſs the whole Man, and all that is in him, Fleſh, and Mind, and Will, and all, [Wills of the Fleſh, and of the Mind.] And then, beſides all theſe, whoever delivers you, hath, or muſt have had the Wrath of the Great God to overcome and ſatisfy, which is more than all this: For you are Children of Wrath, &c. And thus all this Deſcription here comes in to illuſtrate the Greatneſs of that Power towards us, ſpoken of, verſ. 19.

II. Obſerve his Scope in reference to what follows, to illuſtrate the Greatneſs of God's Grace, in raiſing us up to the Condition we have in Chriſt, and to be made conformable to him: Which he doth by way of Paralelling, what we were before by Nature, and after in Chriſt, together; and you may obſerve how exactly one anſwereth to the other. You may remember, (and indeed all may read it in the words themſelves,) you that heard it opened, how that our Lord and Saviour Chriſt, in the 20, 21, 22, & 23 Verſes of the firſt Chapter, is ſet forth as an Head, raiſed up to a glorious Kingdom, ſet at the right-hand of God in Heavenly Places; far above all Principality and Power, and every name that is named, not only in this World, but in that which is to come: and that he hath all things put under his Feet; that He is the Head of his Church, and filleth his Body. And to be a Member of this Head, a part of this Church, doth the Apoſtle inſinuate, is that Condition you are raiſed up to. Now to ſet forth this, mark, how artificially he winds in, by way of oppoſition, what a miſerable condition they were in before: Is Chriſt your Head now? ſaith he, and hath God raiſed him up on purpoſe ſo to be? Are you ſet in Heaven with him? Why Satan was your Head before, or at leaſt your King. And he deſcribeth Satan in Terms parallelly oppoſite to what he had ſaid of Chriſt; for it is evident, that he doth allude, in ſetting forth their natural Condition in ſubjection to Satan, to what he had ſaid before of the Advancement of Chriſt their Head, and then their Advancement to Chriſt, that is ſuch a Head as he had deſcribed. And let us but parallel a little the Deſcription

of

Serm. I.

of both, that we may ſee the difference of this Change, in this reſpect. Firſt, He deſcribeth Chriſt as a Head, that had Principality and Power under him, whereby is meant, the Angels good and bad: But before you were in Chriſt, whilſt in your natural Condition, whom were you under then? ſaith he: Under Satan, inſtead of Chriſt: for tho the Devil was not a Head to you, (he doth not indeed call him ſo, becauſe that is too natural a relation to be given to him) that is proper to Chriſt; yet he was ἀρχὼν, a Prince to you; and, ſaith he, he is the Prince of the Power (he uſeth the ſame word as he did of Chriſt, Chriſt was over Principality and Power,) of the Air. And what means he by Prince of the Power of the Air? That great Devil, that Prince, that hath all Devils under him; all which Devils he calleth Power, in the Singular Number, becauſe they all do ſervice unto him; and as they went out as one Man, ſo they go on with one Power: They are called, Epheſ. 6. Principalities and Powers. And ſecondly; If you look up to him, that is, Jeſus Chriſt, your Head, above all Principality and Power, he is ſet in Heavenly Places alſo; ſo ſaith Verſ. 20. of Chap. 1. But where is the Seat of the Devil's Power, that was your Prince before? It is but in the Air, (it is brought in on purpoſe (it is no-where almoſt in the Scripture brought in but here) to make up the Parallel, by way of contrary Illuſtration.) He that is your Head now, ſaith he, he is one that ſits in heavenly Places, whither you your ſelves ſhall come, for he ſits there in your ſtead; here is your Advancement now: But the Devil, his Power is in the Air, and ſo is nearer to hurt you; and yet but in this Air, the lower Heaven, and therefore all the Happineſs you could have had under him, was but in things aerial, in things worldly, no higher; and when you had enjoyed a while this his Dominion, this Air to breath in, then you muſt have gone to the Fire with this Devil, and his Angels. This was your Condition by Nature. How great a change is there in this reſpect! Thirdly; Jeſus Chriſt being your Head, you are his Body now, and ſo he doth fill you. So verſ. 23. The Church, which is his Body, the Fulneſs of him that filleth all in all. And as Jeſus Chriſt is ordained thus to fill you with all Grace and Glory, in this eſtate; ſo then, when you were in your unregenerate condition, the Devil filled you; for he is the Spirit, that worketh effectually in the Children of Diſobedience; (the Phraſe comes in likewiſe on purpoſe,) he fill'd their Hearts, as Chriſt doth the other. Why hath Satan filled thine Heart? It was, you know, the expreſſion of Peter to Ananias, and it is all one with what is here ſaid, He works effectually in them; for it is done by filling them with himſelf. And withal he inſinuateth this: Did the Devil work effectually in you then? then how effectual and mighty was the working of our Lord and Saviour Chriſt, when he raiſed you up from this Death and Condition, and pluck'd you out of the Snare of Satan, that took you captive at his will.

So much now for the ſecond thing, that theſe words have an aſpect to, as they refer to the 19*th* Verſe of the firſt Chapter.

Then theſe Words, which lay forth our Unworthineſs, and our Vileneſs, come in alſo on purpoſe to illuſtrate the Fountain of all the Mercy we receive, and that is the free Grace of God in Chriſt. He beginneth it with a [But] But God, who is rich in Mercy. That ever God, ſaith he, ſhould contrive ſuch ways of Mercy, for Creatures ſo vile, ſo miſerable! And what infinite Mercy was it to pluck ſuch Men out of that condition! Yea, he is ſo full of it, you ſee, he had run out a large Diſcourſe before without Interruption, and he was long before he recovered himſelf; but when once he begins to talk of the Grace of God, there he breaks off, ſentence after Sentence, to bring that in abruptly. After he had long diſcourſed of the Grace of God in Chriſt, in the 19*th* Verſe, and of Mans Miſery, here in theſe 1ſt, 2d, & 3*d* Verſes; when he makes a reddition of the Grace of God towards us, he brings it in, But God, who is rich in Mercy: Well, he ſhould have gone on here, but he brings this in abruptly, By Grace you are ſaved. And then he goes on again: And hath raiſed us up together, and made us ſit together in heavenly Places in Chriſt. And then he comes in with the Grace of God again, and again, a fourth time. So that the great Scope of laying open the miſerable condition of Man by Nature, it was to ſet off the rich Mercy, the Grace, the Love of God, in our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. And let me add this, to make up this compleat, Having mentioned free Grace as the Fountain of all, when he had thus humbled them, layed them in the duſt, he then brings upon them the weight of all the Benefits in the former Chapter: You that were thus dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, you were choſen in Chriſt before the World was, unto Adoption, &c. And Mans Miſery here by Nature comes in to illuſtrate all thoſe Benefits too. Election to Holineſs, verſ. 4. Predeſtination to Adoption and Glory, v. 5. The Fountain of all theſe is ſaid to be the Glory of his Grace, v. 6. Then Redemption and Forgiveneſs, v. 7. Then Effectual Calling, v. 8. The Power of it, v. 19. Then Heaven, and Glory, v. 11. The Riches of which he ſpeaks of, v. 18. The Earneſt of that Heaven, the Spirit, v. 13. And then, laſt of all, Chriſt the Head. And for whom, ſaith he, is all this? For you that were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, and who before walked according to the Courſe of this World, according to the Prince of the Power of the Air. And thus, I ſay, mentioning the free Grace of God, he brings upon them the weight of all the Benefits in the former Chapter, to break their Hearts in pieces. And this is the wonderful Artifice of the Holy-Ghoſt in the Apoſtle, in the Order and Station of theſe Words, which are the Center both of all before, and of all that follow after; for having deſcribed all theſe Benefits, ſee how theſe words do by a contrary Parallel anſwer to them too. He told them firſt, that they had a being in Chriſt, (for ſo when I opened the words in the 4*th* Verſe, I ſhewed, that was the meaning of it.) We were in Chriſt, had a being in him: In him ye are, ſaith the Apoſtle, 1 Cor. 4. And their Being was to Holineſs, they were ordained to it, when firſt they were ordained to being. But now on the contrary, ſaith he, your very Being is a Death in Sin, it is the Eſſe, it is the Conſtitution of it. However, Spiritual Death is that Being which a Man hath, being fallen.

add

Again, anſwerable to Adoption of Children, which you are predeſtinated unto, ſaith he in theſe words, You were before Children of Diſobedience. In ſtead of having an Inheritance in Glory, ſaith he, you were Children of Wrath, and that by Nature, and that was all your Portion. And inſtead of having the Holy Spirit, the Earneſt of that Inheritance, you had a Spirit that wrought effectually in you, the Earneſt of Hell, the Devil himſelf, and his wicked Angels. This was your Condition before, and thus it anſwereth the Benefits before. And you were ſo faſt ſhut up in this condition, that no Power in Heaven and Earth, but only that of God's, and of Chriſt's, could deliver you. You were internally dead, and how could dead Men riſe? externally environed with the Power of the World, of Hell, and of your own Luſts.

This, my Brethren, is the Coherence of theſe Words, which I thought meet in the entrance of this Exerciſe to be more large in, eſpecially becauſe of ſo artificial an Elegancy, which certainly the Holy-Ghoſt aimeth at here. And ſo I ſhall come to the particular Application of them.

The Miſery of Man by Nature, (as I ſaid) is the Sum of theſe three firſt Verſes; and it is his natural Condition that is here laid open, as the Cloſure of all ſhews: And were by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others. And ſo is all this intended to ſhew what we are by Nature, and whilſt we are in that natural Condition. It is ſet out to us: Firſt, in reſpect of Sins; they, you know, are mentioned, Sins and Treſpaſſes. Secondly, Puniſhment; that is mentioned in the Term here expreſly, and both included in the Word, Dead in Sins. For tho he mentioneth the Courſe of the World, and the Prince of the Power of the Air, and the like; yet being dead in Sins, is the eminent thing, the depth of our Miſery: therefore in the Reddition, verſ. 5. he only mentioneth that again, Even when we were dead in Sins, hath he quickned us: The Mercy lay in that reſpect. You may divide the Words in particular thus:

I. Here is their internal, habitual Eſtate and Condition, or the eſſential Conſtitution thereof, as I may ſo call it: they are dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes. You know, that Death and Life are two ſeveral ſtates and conditions of Mankind; when a Man is dead, he is put eternally into another ſtate and condition, than he was in whilſt living.

II. Here

Serm. I.

II. Here is the outward conſtant Courſe of theſe Men in their Converſation, that was the concomitant of that State: And that, that is intended in the 2*d* and 3*d* Verſes, is clear by the very words; for he calleth the one walking, and the other, having our Converſation: Therefore I diſtinguiſh it as the Apoſtle himſelf doth. Now that is aggravated by three things, as the Cauſes of their evil Converſation:

1. There is the exemplary Cauſe, which is the weakeſt, and yet it is a Cauſe: In which we walked, (namely, in Sins, for of that he had ſpoken before,) according to the Courſe of this World.

2. There is the outward efficient Cauſe, that is Satan, the Prince of the Power of the Air.

3. There is the inward efficient moving Cauſe, their own Luſts, fulfilling the Deſires of the Fleſh, and of the Mind, which you have in the third Verſe. And therein you ſee how exact he is: He deſcribeth both the Corruption of Man's Nature under one general Term, as it is called Fleſh: Had our Converſation (ſaith he) in the Luſts of the Fleſh; that is, of corrupt Nature, taken in the general with all the Luſts of it: But then he doth ſubdivide them, there is, the Deſires of the Fleſh, which are the ſenſual Luſts of the Body; and there is, the Luſts of the Mind: Which two do part all the Wickedneſs of Man's Nature, they divide it between them.

III. And then laſtly; Here is the Puniſhment that is due to each of theſe Sins, the Wrath of God; Children of Wrath by Nature. And this, ſaith he, is the general common Condition; you were ſo that are Gentiles, and we were thus that are Jews: he turns it from one to the other, and there is no difference between either the one or the other; this is our condition, we were Children of Wrath as well as you, and you were Children of Wrath as well as we were. And ſo you have the Diviſion of the Words.

I now come to open the Firſt, their inward State and Condition, [Dead in Sins.]

I will not mention many Scriptures to prove it to you, you know enough already: Let the Dead bury the Dead, &c. I ſhall only inſtance in that one Text, Col. 2. 12. And, as I obſerved long ago, in opening the firſt Chapter, the Epiſtle to the Coloſſians is to the Epiſtle to the Epheſians, like Mark to Matthew, almoſt in all ſort of Paſſages. He had ſaid in this ſecond Chap. to the Epheſians, Ye are dead, he did not ſay, in Sins and Treſpaſſes, for [ἐν] in the Original is not in; and it might have born, Dead to Sins and Treſpaſſes, as ſome have been miſtaken in it. But now compare it with Col. 2. 13. There you have the Particle [ἐν] in the Greek expreſly, Dead in Sins. And ſo the one, as in other Paſſages, ſo in this, explains the other.

Now in opening and handling this, I ſhall not run out into a large Commonplace, (for that is not to expound) of what are the Symptoms of Spiritual Death; you have had them in Books printed, Stiffneſs, and Coldneſs, and Senſeleſneſs, and the like. I ſhall not enlarge upon theſe at all; but I ſhall ſpeak as an Interpreter; and therein, becauſe it is the moſt comprehenſive expreſſion, I muſt therefore open what the Apoſtle intendeth, what is comprehended in this word, [Death.]

And Firſt; Let me obſerve this upon it, that tho there are many other Expreſſions which Mans natural Eſtate is ſet forth by, yet (as I ſaid afore) there was no Expreſſion ſo full for the Apoſtle's purpoſe, ſpeaking of the Power that raiſed up Jeſus from Death to Life, and ſo raiſed us up too, to follow the Metaphor; ſo there was no expreſſion would ſo fully have laid open the Miſery of Man by Nature, the intrinſical State and Condition of Man, in a comprehenſive way, all

ſorts

ſorts of ways as this. You know, it was the firſt original Curſe, that whereby God expreſſed all the Curſe, In the day thou eateſt thereof thou ſhalt ſurely die the Death. And therefore here you ſee, when Paul would expreſs himſelf to the uttermoſt, (as for certain he ſets himſelf to do) he ſaith, You are dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes. And tho other expreſſions might in ſome reſpect manifeſt and illuſtrate the Grace of God more, as to call a Man an Enemy to God, as the Apoſtle elſewhere doth, which illuſtratetth the Grace of God in reſpect of Pardon; which to be dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, or condemned to Death for Sin, alſo doth: yet to ſay, a Man is dead in them, that expreſſeth more our Miſery, and our unextricable condition, and our unability to get out of it. The truth is, my Brethren, Death, take it in a natural way, it is the Sum of all Evil, for 'tis the deprivation of all good; ſo take it in a ſpiritual way, it is comprehenſively all evil whatſoever. The utmoſt Miſery that can befall a Man, as he is a natural Man, what is it? It is to die. A living Dog, ſaith Solomon, is better than a dead Lion. A Worm is better than a Man when he is dead, take him as he is a Man, if he ſhould not riſe again. Death ſtrips him of all Excellencies proper to a Man, makes him worſe than a Stock or Stone; for when he is dead he ſtinketh, which a Stock or Stone doth not. Therefore the Apoſtle, to ſet forth our Spiritual Miſery, takes that expreſſion rather than any other. And tho it is but a Similitude, yet know this for a general Truth, and a certain Rule, that all Similitudes taken from outward, bodily, or worldly things, and aſſumed up to Spiritual, the Spiritual are the realities, and the other are but the ſhadows. Run over all the courſe of Spiritual things, that belong to that other World, and all outward things that they are compared unto, they are but the ſhadows of them: As Chriſt is ſaid to be a Vine, but a true Vine, the other is but a ſhadow; ſo this being a ſpiritual Death, bodily Death, and all the evils thereof, they are but the ſhadows of it. That look, as when we ſay of Beer or Wine, that hath loſt its Spirits, that it is dead; yet this is but a poor Death, in compariſon of ſeeing a Man die, or a Prince: So to ſay, a Man is dead, (ſpeaking of his Body) it is even to ſay dead Drink, in compariſon of a dead Man, if you will compare it with this Death, the Death of his Soul in Sins and Treſpaſſes. The Death of a Man is infinitely more than the Death of a Beaſt, the Death of a King more than the Death of other Men, (we ſpeak now in a natural way); but the Death of the Soul of a Man in Sin, is infinitely more than the Death of the Body, by how much the more the Soul tranſcendeth the Body, and our ſpiritual condition tranſcendeth our natural Life, which it doth as far as a Man (taken in himſelf, or take the Body ſimply conſidered, without relation at all to the Soul,) doth tranſcend a Beaſt. And ſo now that is the reaſon, why the Apoſtle ſingleth out this expreſſion of [Death] to expreſs our natural Condition by, rather than any other whatſoever.

Now in the ſecond place, to deſcribe this Death, tho but in the general firſt, and ſo come to Particulars, which the Apoſtle intendeth.

This Death of the Soul is not a Phyſical Death. The Death of the Body is a phyſical natural Death, for when the Body dies, all the Actions of Life that were once in it ceaſe; but all Actions of Life of all ſorts of Life, do not ceaſe in the Soul, when it is thus dead in Sin; for if ſo, the Soul ſhould loſe Underſtanding, Will, and Affections, and all, which is impoſſible it ſhould, for then it muſt ceaſe to be a Soul. It is not therefore a Phyſical Death that the Arminians Objections tend to; ſay they, A Man is not wholly dead, why? becauſe he underſtandeth, and he willeth. It is true, it is not a phyſical Death, but it is a moral Death, that is, in reſpect of the holy actings and well-being of the Soul. That look as the Soul, while it is in the Body, is the well-being of the Body, the Body hath all its excellencies from the Soul: ſo there is anſwerably in the Soul of Man, (according to the original conſtitution of that firſt making) a Soul of that Soul, and a Life ſpringing from it, there was the Spirit of God; and therefore they are ſaid in the 19*th* Verſe of the Epiſtle of Jude, to be without the Spirit. There was the Image of God, there was the Life of God, it is the very expreſſion the Apoſtle uſeth, Epheſ. 4. 18. It is the Summary of ſpiritual Life. It is called the Life of God. Now what is it makes God live an happy Life? He liveth in Himſelf: Such was the Life of the Soul; it was to live in that God that liveth in

Serm. I.

Himſelf, to live that Life that he liveth. It is therefore called the Life of God, becauſe it lay in the Union of the Soul with God, which was wrought by the Holy-Ghoſt: And alſo as you know in the Body, there are Spirits that unite; ſo there is an Image of God, Holineſs and Righteouſneſs, by which God in Innocency was united to the Spirit of a Man, without which in the State of Grace he would not be united to a Man, nor would dwell in him. That as the Kingdom of God is ſaid to conſiſt in Righteouſneſs and Peace, ſo this Life of God conſiſtteth in Joy, in Righteouſneſs, in Peace, and in Happineſs, as in God Himſelf. And all the Actions that a Man performeth, having this Principle of Life, tend to Communion with God, and enjoyment of Him, and therefore are Actions of Life. Now then, this Death is the Separtaion of the Soul from God, and the extinctſon of this Image of God in a Man, and cutting off all ſorts of Influence from God to him, either of Comfort, or of Holineſs, further than by the Creatures: God may comfort him by the Creatures, but he doth no way comfort him by himſelf. And therefore, if you mark it, the Apoſtle, to ſhew the kind of this Death, what it is, he ſaith, It is a Death in Sin: And what is Sin? The Death of the Soul, becauſe it cuts a Man off from that Principle of Life: That as natural Death is the ſeparation of the Soul and Body, and the extinction of the vital Spirits; ſo, ſaith the Prophet Eſay, chap. 59. 2. Your Sins have ſeparated between God and you; and hence they come to be Strangers from the Life of God, as it is, Eph. 4.18. Now God is not driven, nor was not driven out of Mans Soul by Sin in a natural way, as the Soul is out of our Bodies. When the Body hath a wound, and is ſtruck to the Heart, the Soul goes out, like as the Spider doth, when the Cobweb is broke; neither doth the Soul go voluntarily out at any time, but in a natural way, when bodily Spirits fail: but God goes out by virtue of his own Law, The ſtrength of Sin is the Law, as the Apoſtle ſaith, 1 Cor. 15. And therefore, when Man ſtood upon the Legal Covenant only, as ſoon as ever he broke the leaſt of God's Laws, by God's Law he died, and God was gone: but the ſtrength of Grace is the Goſpel, ſo that now tho we ſin, being in the State of Grace, yet God goes not away; his Spirit may be grieved, but departeth not. The Apoſtle explaining this Death, ſaith, we are dead in Sins. When he had ſpoken of our Pattern Chriſt, (chap. 1. v. 19, 20.) and of the Power that wrought in raiſing him up, he ſaith, it was a raiſing up his Body from corporal Death; but yours was not ſo, ſaith he, your Death was ſpiritual, it was a Death in Sin. Only this you may obſerve by the way, that even the bodily Actions and Sufferings of our Lord and Saviour Chriſt prevail to ſpiritual effects; the very raiſing of his Body, there was a virtue in it, to raiſe Souls out of a Death in Sin. It is ſtrange, that a bodily Action or Paſſion, or whatever elſe, ſhould have a ſpiritual virtue in it, there being ſuch an infinite diſproportion between that which is bodily, and that which is ſpiritual; what is the reaſon? Becauſe this Man, Chriſt Jeſus, was a ſpiritual Man, and tho he took Fleſh and Blood, and a Body, to ſave us, yet that ſpiritual Body of his in Heaven was ordained to him; the ſecond Adam, ſaith the Apoſtle, was made a quickning Spirit. And therefore this Body, that was thus ſpiritual, of ſo tranſcending a glory, as it muſt needs be, by the ſecond Perſon dwelling in it, advancing it above the rank of all reaſonable Creatures, as a Mans Soul would the Body of a Beaſt, if it were put into it: hence all his Actions have a ſpiritual virtue in them; the raiſing his Body up will raiſe you up from the Death of Sin. But that by the way.

Now to explain more particularly this Death. It is, you ſee, a Death in Sin. Sin hath two Evils in it: there is the Guilt of Sin, and there is the Power of Sin; and in both theſe reſpects a Man in his natural eſtate is dead in Sin.

1. He is dead in reſpect of the Guilt of every Sin he committeth, as a condemned Man that is guilty of Murther, or the like, we ſay he is a dead Man. You ſhall find in Heb. 9. (it is a pertinent place to this purpoſe,) that the Blood of Chriſt is ſaid to purge our Conſciences from dead Works. Every Sin is a dead Work, and here it is ſpoken evidently in reſpect of Sin, becauſe he ſpeaks of purging the Conſcience; now the Conſcience is that which is the Subject of all the Guilt of Sin. And therefore now in Hoſ. 13. 1. you have an excellent place for it, When Ephraim went and offended in Baal, he died, ſaith he; that is, from that time came upon him a Sentence of Death and Condemnation; the State ſtood ſtill, lived a long time after, but it received the fatal Sentence for the Sin it then committed.

ſtill,

2. A Man is dead in Sin, in reſpect of the Power of Sin. There is a twofold Death, in reſpect of the Power of Sin, in every Man by Nature: (My Brethren, I muſt enlarge upon this, becauſe it is that whereby the Apoſtle doth illuſtrate the Grace of Chriſt in quickning us, in freeing us from all theſe ſorts of Death, for he intendeth them all.) There is firſt, a privative Death; and ſecondly, there is a poſitive Death, or rather a poſitive Life, that followeth upon that privative Death.

There is firſt, a privative Death. Every Sin, as it is a dead Work to a Mans Conſcience, binding it over unto Guilt, ſo it works a Death in him, in reſpect of the Power of Sin, diſenabling him to Good, and making him more active and lively to Sin, which is his Death: for the more lively he is made to Sin, the more dead he ſtill groweth; why? becauſe he is lively to that which is indeed his Death. For that I ſhall give you another place, it is in Heb. 6. 1. (I chuſe theſe places the rather, becauſe they open and are parallel one to another); As he had ſaid before, The Blood of Chriſt purgeth our Conſciences from dead Works; calling every Sin ſo in reſpect of the Guilt of it: ſo here he calleth them dead Works, in reſpect of the Power of Sin, To give them Repentance from dead Works.

Now, my Brethren, as there is this double Death, the one of the Guilt, and the other of the Power of Sin; ſo there is a double Life we are reſtored unto by Chriſt. There is: Firſt; A Life of Juſtification from the Death of Guilt, which is called, a paſſing from Death to Life; which is a greater change upon a Man, (not a change in a Man) in reſpect of his eſtate, than for a Man condemned to die, to receive a Pardon, that you may ſay now he is a living Man, whereas before he was a dead Man. And ſecondly, there is a Life of Sanctification, a ſpiritual Life. Now firſt, you have a Juſtification of Life, oppoſed to a Condemnation, and to a Death, as you ſhall find it in Rom. 5. comparing verſ. 12. with verſ. 18. In the 18*th* Verſe, ſaith he, As by the Offence of one, Judgment came upon all Men to Condemnation; even ſo by the Righteouſneſs of one, the free Gift came upon all Men to Juſtification of Life. Mark it, here Juſtification is called a Mans Life, and compare now but the Verſes before, verſ. 12. By one Man Sin entred, and Death by Sin, and ſo Death paſſed (as a Sentence, namely, before Men died,) upon all Men. And that which in this 12*th* Verſe he calleth Death, in the 18*th* he calleth Judgment, Judgment came upon all Men to Condemnation. There is a Death therefore of Condemnation, and there is a Juſtification of Life. Then ſecondly; there is a Life of Sanctification alſo, oppoſed to the Power of Sin, and the Death that the Power of Sin bringeth; for that I ſhall not need to inſiſt upon. You hath he quickned, ſaith my Text afterwards; and what is that quickning, but giving you Faith, creating a new Workmanſhip? as we ſhall find when we come to open thoſe words that follow.

Nów the queſtion will be, Whether that the Apoſtle, when he ſaith, We are dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, doth in this Phraſe include both, or which more chiefly?

I anſwer, He certainly includeth both; for in the firſt place, when he had ſaid in the firſt Verſe, Dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, he doth in the cloſe of this Deſcription ſay, We are all by Nature Children of Wrath, that is, obnoxious unto Wrath, unto Condemnation for every Sin, and that is all one, and to be dead Men in Sin. It appears likewiſe by that parallel place, Col. 2. 13. (which Epiſtle, and this of the Epheſians, as I ſaid, are as the Evangeliſts, the one explaining the other.) You ſhall find there, that their being dead in Sin is ſpoken in reſpect of Guilt clearly; yea, and their being quickned with Chriſt, is ſpoken in reſpect of their Juſtification by Chriſt. Read but the words, And you being dead in your Sins, (there is the Guilt of Sin,) and the Uncircumciſion of your Fleſh, (there is the Corruption of Nature, and the Power of Sin,) hath he quickned together with him; wherein lay that quickning? Having forgiven you all Treſpaſſes. Therefore Forgiveneſs of Sins, and Juſtification, being a taking off of the Sentence, and acquitting a Man from Death, and pronouncing a Man free from it, is part of that quickning. Hence it is, that as in Sanctification we receive the virtue of Chriſt's Reſurrection, ſo we are ſaid to be juſtified by virtue of his Reſurrection:

Serm. I.

He roſe again for our Juſtification; by his quickning we are quickned. You ſhall find in Rom. 7. when a Man is humbled for Sin, he dies: Sin revived, ſaith he, and I died; that is, I apprehended my ſelf to be a dead Man, dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; then cometh Jeſus Chriſt, and works Faith in the Man, and ſo raiſeth him up to a Juſtification of Life, and now the Man liveth again; but how doth he live? he liveth by Faith, The Life which I live, it is by Faith, ſaith he, laying hold of the free Grace of God, and Juſtification by my Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. The Apoſtle here intends both; for his Scope is, to illuſtrate to the uttermoſt the Grace of God towards us, in quickning us: and as in quickning us by Chriſt, he intendeth freeing us from all ſorts of Death; ſo in ſaying, We are dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, he includeth all ſorts of Death alſo.

But if you ask, which is principally intended here? I anſwer, Principally, and in a ſpecial manner, is intended the Death in reſpect of the Power of Sin. And my reaſon is this, becauſe this Verſe refers to the 19*th* of the firſt Chapter, According to the mighty Power which works in us, according to the Power which wrought in Chriſt, when he raiſed him from the Dead: And you being dead, ſaith he, hath he quickned. So here in this firſt Verſe, and in Verſe 5. Therefore in Col. 2. Tho it be applied to Forgiveneſs, yet there is the Power of Sin mentioned too, You were dead, ſaith he, in the Uncircumciſion of the Fleſh; that is, in their original Corruption, in the Power of Sin, as well as in the Guilt of it. Therefore afterwards in this Chapter, he magnifies the Grace of God, in reſpect of making a new Workmanſhip in him, Created in Chriſt to good Works, a new Principle of Life. So that, I ſay, the Apoſtle's chief Scope is, to hold forth a Death in reſpect of the Power of Sin. And ſo I have opened to you what is meant by Life and Death.

There is a third Death, which is the conſequent of both theſe, (which is certainly meant too,) and is the Conſummation of both theſe, and that is Death eternal; even eternal Death is but a being dead in Sin. What is the great Executioner of Men in Hell? The truth is, it is purely the Guilt of a Mans own Sin, and the Wrath of God joining with it, that which he lived in here. I will give you a plain Similitude for it: A Fiſh liveth naturally in the Water, take that Water, and heat it, and put the Fiſh into it, the Fiſh dies, even in the very ſame Water it lived in: The Apoſtle ſpeaks in a manner the ſame, Rom. 7. The Law came; and Sin revived, and I died. So that in Hell it ſelf, God ſhall need no other Executioner, but only thine own Sins, ſet on fire by his Wrath, to boil thy Soul. Men ſhall but then die in their Sins, and their Sins will be the Inſtrument. They are like Gunpowder, (as I may expreſs it) which the Sparks of God's Wrath falling into, blows up. Therefore why doth the Apoſtle ſay, 1 Cor. 15. The Sting of Death is Sin? He ſpeaks in relation to Hell after Death. But becauſe Sin is that eternal Sting, you know it is ſaid, the Worm that dies not. Obſerve the Analogy, when a Man is dead, his Body breedeth Worms; ſo the Sins that are in a Mans Conſcience, they are as ſo many Worms that prey upon that dead Soul for ever in Hell. Here in this Life, Men ſit but in the ſhadow of Death. Where Men have a little Light in this ſhadow, to play by, or work by, or ſing by, here they have the Creatures, and God puts Comforts in the Creatures to draw out Mens Luſts; but in Hell, when God ſhall take away all Comforss, take away all Creatures, there ſhall be utter Darkneſs, the Blackneſs of Darkneſs, which is the expreſſion for Death, as Light is for Life.

Now I will make but an Obſervation or two, tho this Diſcourſe hath had Obſervations ſtrewed amongſt it all the way.

Obſerv. 1. Look firſt of all therefore upon every Sin as Death. He that hateth me, (ſaith Wiſdom, Prov. 8. 36.) and will follow other Ways, he loveth Death. If a Man apprehends he is doing that which he knows will be his Death, it is the greateſt Argument in the World to ſhun it; all in Nature riſeth up in him, What! will you have me catch my Death? will you bring me to my Grave? Let us all think ſo of Sin. But you will ſay, A Man that is regenerated, he ſins not unto death. It is true, that's not the iſſue of it; what's the reaſon? Becauſe anothers Death went for it, and that is the Death of Chriſt. And let that move thee more, than the

the other ſhall give thee liberty to Sin; let a holy Ingenuity move thee: It was his Death that was the Death of thy Death. Serm. I.

Obſerve again, That Death only kills the Soul: The Devil himſelf could not kill the Soul, nothing but Sin could do it. All the Devils in Hell could not have taken that Spiritual Life from us in Adam, had not he himſelf laid it down. He might in reſpect of Spiritual Life, ſay, as Chriſt did, No Man takes my Life from me, but I lay it down. There is no Death but in Sin, and Man ſinneth not but of himſelf. 'Tis true, when Men ſin, the Devil tempts them; but there is no Death, unleſs Men ſin. Nay, my Brethren, the Wrath of God alone could not kill the Soul, if it were not for Sin. The Wrath of God ſeized upon Chriſt, he having Sin laid upon him, but his Soul died not. Dead in Sins, ſaith the Apoſtle. Nothing indeed properly kills the Soul but Sin, becauſe nothing doth utterly cut off the Soul from God but Sin.—And, as I ſaid afore, in Hell it is Sin, that is the Pitch in the barrel that makes it burn, it is Sin in the Conſcience that makes the Fire, God's Wrath comes upon it, but it is that which burns. Therefore they are called Veſſels of Wrath, becauſe Veſſels of Sin. Obſerv. 2.

SERM.

Serm. II.

SERMON II.

EPHES. 2. 1, 2, &c.

1. And you hath he quickned, who were dead in Sins and Trespasses.
2. Wherein in time past ye walked, according to the Course of this World, &c.

THE Coherence of these words I did largely give the last day. For the general Scope, they are the Application of the common Misery of Mankind unto these Ephesians, and unto the Jews also, vers. 3. And it is a Description of it under all sorts of Considerations: both of Sin, They were dead in Sins and Trespasses; and secondly, of Punishment, They were by nature Children of Wrath.

Or else, (to take a more particular Division) here is:

I. The internal State, Condition, and Constitution of every Man by Nature: He is in a state of Death, and he is dead in Sins and Trespasses.

II. Here is his Misery, in respect of his outward Conversation, and his constant Course, Walking, v. 2. Having his Conversation, v. 3. And this outward Conversation of theirs, and the Sinfulness and Misery thereof is set forth to us by three Causes of it.

I opened the last day the first, the inward State express'd here by Death; and it is a Death, you see, in Sin. It is not a physical Death of the Soul, for the Soul is immortal, and all things immediatly made by God never die; that is a certain Truth: and therefore the Soul, and the Faculties of it, remain still, as we all see by experience. It is therefore a moral Death, namely, in Sin, (as here the Apostle distinguisheth it,) in respect, not of the Being, but of the Well-being. The Life of the Soul is in God, and it is Sin only that separateth between God and us: and as Death is the Separation of Soul and Body; so Sin, being the separation of God and the Soul, hence it is called a Death, a Death in Sin, or by Sin. For God, he is the Fountain of Life, you have that Expression, Psal. 36. 9. And of his Son Jesus Christ it is said, 1 John 5. 12. He that hath the Son, hath Life; and he that hath not the Son, hath not Life. You must know this, that the Soul of Man lives not in it self, it was made to live in another, and it was made to live in God: and the truth is, when God shall take not only Himself away, but all things else, the Soul dies, as the Fire does when the Fuel is taken away; therefore Men die in Hell. Now then this Death, it is but cutting off God from a Man, and all Influence from God. And look, how many ways that God had, or hath an Influence into Mens Souls by a spiritual way; so many Lives a Man had, whilst he had the Image of God in him, and so many Deaths he hath by Sin, and in Sin. Now there is a threefold Life from God, that I mentioned not last day, tho the Heads of the Death I mentioned then.

There is, First; The Favour of God, the good Will of God towards a Man, that God doth bear good-will to one, and accepteth him; and therein lies his Life: Psal. 30. 5. In thy Favour is Life; the word is, In thy good Will, or, In thy acceptation is Life. And therefore now to be out of favour with God, it is to be a dead Man. So great a God is God, so great a Sovereign, as his Favour or Disfavour kills, or makes alive.

*

Then,

Then, Secondly; To have Comfort and Joy in God, therein Life lieth likewiſe, ſpiritual Life. Pſal. 63. That I may ſee thy Glory, v. 2. So it follows, Thy Loving-kindneſs is better than Life, v. 3. The ſeeing and enjoying of the Glory of God, and his Loving-kindneſs, is called Life, yea, better than Life. Pſal. 22. 26. Your Hearts ſhall live for ever. And compare it with Pſal. 69. 32. Your Hearts ſhall live; the words before interpret it, ſhall be glad.

Then, Thirdly; There is a Life of Grace and Holineſs, the Image of God, which is communicated from God, by which we are enabled to enjoy Him, and for want of which carnal Men cannot enjoy Him. Epheſ. 4. 18. They are Strangers from the Life of God. It is clear, that the ſpecial meaning of the Life of God there, is the Life of Holineſs, the Image of God; for he ſpeaks of Corruption, the contrary to it, in the Verſes before; and in the ſame Verſe he ſaith, that they are Strangers from the Life of God, through Ignorance, and the hardneſs of their Hearts, being given up to all Uncleanneſs. And in the 24*th* Verſe, he ſaith, that the Image of God is created in Knowledg. So that indeed the Image of God is there eſpecially the Life of God, in verſ. 18.

Now then, as there is a threefold Life from God, which is the Fountain of Life; ſo anſwerably there is a threefold Death by Sin.

There is, Firſt; A Death of Guilt. Every Sin caſteth a Man out of the Favour of God, and that is Death, bindeth a Man over to the Wrath of God. If that the Wrath of a King be as Meſſengers of Death, as it is, Prov. 16. (that is, it is as good as a Warrant ſeal'd up for a Man condemned, for his Execution,) then much more the Wrath of God, Thou art but a dead Man, ſaith God to Abimelech, Gen. 20. 3. that is, thou art guilty of Death, by reaſon of this Fact of thine.

Then in the ſecond place, There is a Death in reſpect of the Power of Sin, and that anſwereth to that Life of Holineſs, we have from God, the Image of God. In Col. 2. 12. he ſaith, They were dead in the Uncircumciſion of their Fleſh; that is, in reſpect of the Power of Sin; Corruption of Nature derived by Birth, and encreaſed by actual Sin: for both is meant, putting the Sign for the thing ſignified: For the changing of the Heart, and mortifying Corruption, is called, Circumciſing the Heart; and on the contrary, the Corruption it ſelf is called, the Uncircumciſion of the Fleſh: the one you have in Deut. 10. 16. the other in that Col. 2. 12.

Thirdly; There is a Death in reſpect of Joy and Comfort. Now tho wicked Men live in reſpect of Comfort from God, that is, from the Creature, whilſt they are here in this World; yet they are dead in reſpect of receiving any Comfort in God. [Not only ſo, ſaith the Apoſtle, but we joy in God, Rom. 5. 11. or purſue after that Joy; either the one or the other every Chriſtian doth, as after his Life.] But now every carnal Man, he is cut off from God, both from the Comfort that is in God Himſelf, or the Purſuit after it. And tho they have Comfort in the Creatures, and therefore do as it were ſit but in the Shadow of Death, (as the Phraſe is, Luc. 1. 79.) yet when Hell cometh, then all Comforts, all Creatures, all their good things, (as it is ſaid, Luke 16.) their Pomp departs from them, and then Men die, and that Sin in the Comfort of which they live, will be their greateſt Executioner, as I ſhewed the laſt day.

Now then, if the Queſtion be, Which of theſe Deaths are meant, when he ſaith of theſe Epheſians, they were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes? I anſwer: The firſt and ſecond, that is, a Death in reſpect of Guilt, being under the Diſfavour of God, and in reſpect of the Power of Sin; but not the third Death, or as the Scripture calleth it, in reference to our natural dying, the ſecond Death: he doth not mean they were dead in that reſpect, for they conld not be dead in that reſpect, becauſe they were not yet in Hell, had not Execution done upon them, only by way of Inchoation, by way of beginning, they were dead in that reſpect, they were under the beginnings of it, they were under the fear of Death all their Life long; and they were cut off from receiving Comfort in God, and ſo in that reſpect they were privatively dead, tho the fulneſs of the Execution of it was not come. Now then the Text ſpeaks here eſpecially of thoſe two firſt Deaths, and more eſpecially of the ſecond: And that is clear, as I ſhewed in the former Diſcourſe, becauſe this Death refers to that quickning Power, which raiſed them them up in their Converſion, the ſame that raiſed up Jeſus Chriſt, as appears by the Coherence both in the 5*th* Verſe following, and in the 19*th* Verſe of the former Chapter.

Serm. II.

Now when it is ſaid, they were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, there is this Queſtion moved by Interpreters: What diſtinction there is between Sins and Treſpaſſes? Or whether actual Sins only, or Corruption of Nature be alſo meant?

Zanchy upon the place, ſaith, Actual Sins are only meant: And his Reaſons are theſe: Firſt, becauſe, ſaith he, the word παραπτώμασι, which is tranſlated Treſpaſſes, it doth ſignify actual Sins, Manu aberrarē, to err with ones hand in working, or the like. Secondly; Becauſe in the ſecond Verſe it is ſaid, In which ye walked: Now you do not walk in Original Sin, but in Actual Sin, ſaith he. And his third Reaſon is, Becauſe it is ſaid, Sins and Treſpaſſes, in the Plural, whereas Original Sin is one great Sin.

But to me it ſeems, (I ſhall give but my Judgment in it,) that both are meant, and my Reaſons are theſe: (I ſhall anſwer his by and by.)

Firſt; From the Coherence; for the Death here muſt needs anſwer to the Quickning, Now the Quickning, it is the infuſion of a new Habit, a new Spirit of Life; therefore the Death of Sin muſt needs be in reſpect of Corruption, and the Power of Sin in a Man. Sin is oppoſite to that new Life, as a Death, which not only was traduced from Adam, but is encreaſed by every actual Sin; every actual Sin makes a Man anew a dead Man, in reſpect of the Power of it, I mean one that is in an unregenerate condition, for I ſpeak of ſuch a Man.

Secondly; That Original Sin is meant and intended, appears by that in Coloſſ. 2. 12. (which Epiſtle interprets this,) where he ſaith, they were dead in the Uncircumciſion of the Fleſh.

And then, Thirdly; As in verſ. 3. he ſaith, they were Children of Wrath by Nature; ſo when he ſaith in this firſt Verſe, they were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, his meaning is, in reſpect of their Natures alſo.

And then again: If that actual Sins were only meant, I do not ſee how the Power of Sin here at all ſhould be intended, which yet it is evident is principally intended, becauſe it is oppoſed to a ſpiritual Life infuſed into the Soul.

Now to anſwer his Reaſons: He ſaith, In which ye walked, therefore actual Sins are intended. It is true, they are, but not only: that makes, that actual Sins are intended; but other things make, that Original Sin, or Corruption of Nature is intended.

Secondly; Whereas he ſaith, That the Word tranſlated Treſpaſſes, ſignifies actual Sins only; yet let me add this: In Rom. 5. 17. there ſpeaking of Adam's Sin, he calls it, τῷ παραπτώματι, that Sin which we are all guilty of, Original Sin. No Author uſeth this word, παράπτωμα, for Sin, but only the Scripture; and as I take it, the firſt time the Scripture uſeth it, it is applying it unto Adam's Sin. It ſignifies a Fall properly, as ſome would have it, or an Aberration with the hand, for the Derivation may be from both. Hence you call it Adam's Fall.

And then, whereas he ſaith, It is Sins in the Plural, therefore not Original Sin: I anſwer, That Original Sin is Sins, in the Plural; for Original Sin, and the Corruption of Nature, hath all Sins in it, it is the Guilt of Adam's Sins, and it is the Guilt of a Body of Sin, ſo it is called, Rom. 7. And if the firſt word, tranſlated Treſpaſſes, ſhould be only meant of actual Sins; yet notwithſtanding, the word tranſlated Sins, is general, and will include both. So much for the clearing of that.

I gave an Obſervation or two the laſt day. One was this, That the Soul could die by nothing but by Sin. I will not enlarge upon that. Satan himſelf could not kill it; only it was in Man's Will, to ſin againſt God, and ſo to kill himſelf. It was, and is Self-murther in every Man, which of all Sins elſe is accounted the greateſt, next that of the Sin againſt the Holy-Ghoſt, as certainly it is the greateſt Sin that can be committed: yet every Man killeth himſelf ſpiritually, when ever he ſinneth.

And then again, the ſecond thing I obſerved was this, That in every Sin (in a Man's natural Eſtate) there is a killing Virtue. He doth not ſay, Dead in Sin; but but he ſaith, Dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, of all ſorts. And the truth is, the word tranſlated Treſpaſſes, it is in its ſignification oftentimes lighter Sins, Sins of Ignorance, of Infirmity. If a Man fall by occaſion into a Fault, ſaith the Apoſtle, it is the ſame word in Gal. 6. 1. from παρὰ & πίπτω, manu aberrare, when a Man doth a thing unawares, doth it with his hand, and his hand ſlippeth. So that it is not only Adam's Sin that kills us, (that is the Obſervation I make) but it is every Sin that a Man committeth, I mean, that is a natural Man. That a Man's Sin, who is in the State of Grace, is not unto Death, is by reaſon of the Death of Chriſt, and the Holy-Ghoſt in him, tho in it ſelf it tendeth unto Death. But every Sin, the leaſt a Man committeth, makes a Man a dead Man in all thoſe reſpects mentioned; it binds him over unto Death, caſteth him out of the Favour of God yet more; and not only ſo, but it adds a new Power, it makes him the Child of Death more than he was before. And ſo I ſhall ſolve that Queſtion, which neceſſarily falleth into the words, (for I ſhall ſtill profeſs to handle but what is neceſſary to open them); Whether there be degrees of this ſpiritual Death, yea, or no? I anſwer, Yes, there are, as there are degrees of Life. Saith Chriſt, John 10. 10. I came that ye might have Life, and have it more abundantly. So tho a Man is born dead, yet he is capable of being dead more abundantly, and that in reſpect of the Power of Sin, and that of Death in it.

But you will ſay unto me, (for the privative part,) Death is the privation of Life, and one Man cannot be ſaid to be dead more than another?

I anſwer: It is true here, in reſpect of Life that he hath been deprived of, one Man is as dead as another; but in reſpect of raiſing again unto Life, in order unto that, one Man may in that reſpect be more dead than another, (even the privative part of Original Corruption) that is, further off from being raiſed again, that there muſt be a greater power to reſtore that Man than another. As for Inſtance, a Man may be kill'd with one Wound that ſtrikes him to the Heart, or otherwiſe, and that takes away his Life as much as ten thouſand Wounds; but if you ſhould give him ſo many Wounds after he was dead, if this Man were to be raiſed again, here was ſo much the more Power, he had in this reſpect ſo many Deaths, which the Power of God muſt ſalve, aud cure, and ſupply, and overcome, and heal all theſe Wounds, the leaſt whereof were mortal. And ſo likewiſe, as it is in the Body, one Man is not more dead than another, yet in order to raiſing again, ſuch an one as Lazarus, that had been dead four days, and did ſtink in the Grave, it is (and ſo Maartha thought) harder to raiſe ſuch an one: So it is of Men that continue in Sin. And therefore now our Thankfulneſs ſhould be the greater, by how much the more we continued longer in Sin, or had our Souls more wounded.

Then again, as there are degrees of this Death in reſpect of Privation, ſo likewiſe in the poſitive part; for there is a poſitive part of this Death. You know, it is called, a Body of Death, Rom. 7. ult. A dead Carcaſe hath no Similitude to expreſs this poſitive part of this Original Sin, as it is a Death: my reaſon is this, becauſe there is no active living Principle ſtill remaining in a dead Carcaſe, but there is an active living Principle ſtill remaining in the Soul; that lives a natural Life ſtill, only being deprived of the Life of God, it poſitively works into all ways of Death and Sin. Now then there may be degrees of this Death, one Man may ſtill encreaſe the Power of Sin, and he doth ſo by every actual Sin he commits, a proneneſs to dead Works, ſo you know actual Sins are called, as I opened it before. And ſo much for the ſecond Obſervation.

A third Obſervation I give, (and I ſhall but touch it) is this: There is a great deal of difference between a regenerate Man, and an unregenerate, and that in reſpect of this expreſſion, Dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes: Even when ye were dead, ſaith he, v. 5. And ye being dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, when ſometime ye walked in them, ſaith my Text. So that now to be dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, is proper to an unregenerate Man. But now take a regenerate Man, and you cannot ſay, he is dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; this you may ſay indeed that he hath a body of Death in him (who ſhall deliver me from this Body of Death?) but the Man is quickned, he hath Life in him, he hath a ſtate of life, he is paſt Obſerv. 3.

Serm. II.

from Death to Life: He hath indeed a body of Death, as the living you know were joined to the dead, or as if a Man should have a Body that is half-dead. But it is clear by the Context here, that it is proper to the State of Unregeneracy, to be dead in Sins and Trespasses. Therefore you shall find the expressions that the Scripture useth of regenerate Men to be otherwise: As he saith, he hath a Body of Death, so he calleth it a Sleep, not a being dead, Ephes. 5. 14. Awake thou that sleepest, and stand up from the dead. For my part, I have long since thought that Scripture meant and spoken to regenerate Men, and my reason is this, because before and after he speaks to the Ephesians, as Children of Light, not to have any Fellowship with the unfruitful Works of Darkness, but to reprove them rather, vers. 11. And in the 15*th* Verse, (the Verse after the 14*th*) See ye walk circumspectly: And between these two he interposeth, Awake thou that sleepest, &c. That is, Thou that art a Child of Light, and art a regenerate Man, if there be any such amongst you, and that are fallen amongst the dead, and that converse with carnal People in their carnal way; lie not among Graves, saith he, but rise, and Christ shall give you Life. I quote it for this, that they are said to be asleep; as there in the Canticles, I sleep, but my Heart waketh. She waked, but yet so, as she might be said to be asleep; as the five Virgins slept, but dead they were not. And in a regenerate Man things may be ready to die, as in Rev. 3. 2. Strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die; but still they never come to be dead in Sins and Trespasses, but if they be once alive in Christ, as Death hath no more dominion over them, no more hath this Death dominion over them. And so I have done wholly with this first Verse.

I now come to the second Verse. (There is one thing I forgot to mention, that's this: There is a very great Controversy upon that first Verse, Whether yea or no, every unregenerate Man be a dead Man, in respect of all ability to do good? Whether there be no principle of Life in him, yea, or no? Whether he be not as a Man asleep or wounded? It is a Controversy, both with the Papists, and with the Remonstrants. But because I have slipt it, I will refer it to the fifth Verse, where I shall meet with it; and therefore I will now go on to the second Verse.)

Dead in Sins and Trespasses, wherein in time past ye walked, according to the Course of this World, &c.

Now in this second Verse here is:

I. A continued course of Life, express'd by walking.

II. The Path, in which they walked, in Sins and Trespasses.

III. The Guides which they were guided by in walking:

1. The World, the Course of it.
2. The Devil, the Prince of the Power of the Air.
3. The Flesh, which in Rom. 8. is called, Walking after the Flesh.

I. Their continued Course, express'd by walking. It is strange that dead Men should walk, (we call it, if a dead Man appear, walking,) it would affright us all to see a dead Man walking; yet you see, dead Men here are said to walk. Walking therefore first of all importeth Life: tho it be a Death in Sin, yet it is a Life in Sin too, Col. 3. 7. In which ye also walked sometime, when ye lived in them. And so, in 1 Tim. 5. 7. She is dead, whilst she liveth. That I may open this unto you, you must know, that Sin is in it self but a meer privation of spiritual Life, yet it is a Privation in a positive being that liveth. The Soul is alive as it is a Soul, all the activity of it remaineth still, no naturals are taken away; it is dead only in respect of God, and spiritual Good. It is not in this, as it is in the Death of the Body, that there is no Life remaining; yes, here is a Life remaining, but it is not Life spiritual. It is as if you should suppose the reasonable Soul only only left of Man, and that the fancy of Man, the Senſitive Soul remains ſtill ſuch as in Beaſts, or higher, for it is higher raiſed in a Man, which hath all the Powers of Reaſon in it ſtill. So it is here. Now then walking in Sin, follows upon being alive; for this Soul having all its Inclinations, all its Deſires ſtill (only it is cut off from the Life of God and Communion with him) muſt live; in it ſelf it cannot live, God hath ſo ordered the Soul of Man that it ſhould not live in it ſelf, it muſt live in ſomething elſe; it is like the Stomach, if it hath not Meat it dyes, or as Fire, if it hath not Fuel it dyes; in reſpect of the well-being of it: Now this Soul that liveth a natural Life, being cut off from the Life of God, eſtranged from it, its Activity muſt work ſomewhere, therefore now it falls upon the Pleaſures of Sin, and all its Comfort lies in Sin; therefore Epheſ. 4. 17. We read that the Soul being eſtranged from God through the Ignorance that is in them, they have given themſelves over to Laſciviouſneſs, to work all Uncleanneſs with Greedineſs. The Soul muſt have Comfort, therefore having it not in God, it will run out ſome other where. And hence now, they are not only ſaid to be dead in Sin, but to be alive in Sin too, which is a ſtrange Contradiction, but it is not in the ſame reſpect: They are dead in Sin in reſpect of God, being cut off from Life in him; but they are alive in Sin too, why? Becauſe all the Comfort of their Lives lies in what comes in by Sin, and by inordinate Affections. Even as it is diſtinguiſhed by our Saviour Chriſt Joh. 9.40. When he told the Phariſees they were blind: ſay they, are we blind? Blind they were, utterly blind, there was a ſight in reſpect of which they were utterly blind: for the natural Man perceiveth not the things of God; yet ſaith Chriſt, if you did not ſee, you had no Sin. So you may ſay here, they are dead in reſpect of God, but if they were not alive, they would have no Sin. And therefore as they are dead in Sin, ſo they are alive in Sin too; yea and it is their Life; and the more Life, the more Activity any ones Soul hath, the more ſinful he is. In that Coloſſ. 3. 7. (The Place I quoted even now) ſaith he, In which ye walked whilſt you lived in them. They are dead in Sin, as here, and they are there ſaid to be alive in Sin too. And you ſee likewiſe that their having Life, and having all the Comfort of their Lives lying in ſinning, and all their Activity running out that way, it is the cauſe of their walking in Sin, In which ye walked (ſaith he) whilſt ye lived in them. The Apoſtle indeed ſpeaks Philoſophically; as we ſay, there is the Operation, and Power from which it flows; there is Actus Primus, and Actus Secundus. So here, the reaſon, ſaith he, why ye walk in Sin, is becauſe you live in Sin: The one is the Cauſe, the other is the Effect.

As on the contrary. Why doth the godly Man walk in the Spirit? Read Gal. 5. 25. If we live in the Spirit, let us walk in the Spirit. Hence therefore, becauſe whilſt a wicked Man is dead in Sin in one reſpect, he is yet alive in Sin, all his Life, his Comfort (for Life is taken for Comfort, as in Luk. 12. 16.) lieth in ſinning, he is ſaid to walk in it. There is only this difference: They need no Exhortation to walk in Sin, but we need Exhortations to walk in the Spirit, though we live in the Spirit: Why? Becauſe we are naturally dead in Sin, and we have a Body of Death in us, and we have no more Life, nor Actings of Life then is infuſed into us. It importeth then, you ſee, a Life; for that the Soul hath, notwithſtanding it is thus dead; yea, and a Life in Sin, though it is dead in Sin, becauſe it is cut off from the life of God. And, indeed their being dead in Sin, is the Cauſe of their living in Sin, and their living in Sin, or having a Life of Sin, is the cauſe of their walking in Sin. Therefore the Apoſtle fitly joyns theſe together, being dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, in which you walked.

I will only add this, That their living in Sin, is only in this Life, this walking in Sin, is only while they are in viâ, while they are Viatores, while they are in their way; therefore, it is ſaid, they ſhall periſh in their way, or from their way, Pſal. 2. I do not ſay, they do not ſin hereafter; but in Hell though Men ſin, that is, though their Actions are contrary to the Law, yet it is not their Life; and the Reaſon is this, becauſe then they are ſtripped from all objects whatſoever; therefore the Soul dies, for it cannot live in it ſelf. And though Men ſet up themſelves here, yet in Hell they are loſt in themſelves, therefore they are ſaid, to be loſt Creatures; not only dead Creatures, in reſpect of living in any thing elſe, but they are loſt to their own ends, there is no way, to accompliſh any end in Hell; therefore the Creature is loſt, it is undone, the Creature dies there; only whilſt it liveth here in this World, it may live in Sin, and walk in Sin, hereafter it ſhall not.

Serm. II.

Now then theſe Word, In which ye walked, it ſets out their miſerable Condition. We may conſider it in a twofold Notion. Firſt, as it ſets out their miſerable Eſtate, in reſpect of Sin, how ſinful it was, for that is one Scope of it; the Apoſtle would let them ſee how ſinful their Lives had bin. And this Phraſe of walking, doth exceedingly expreſs the Sinfulneſs of a Man's Condition in his Converſation. Secondly, it may be conſider'd as it is an infallible Character and Sign of an unregenerate Eſtate. And both are intended: for his Scope is, to humble theſe Epheſians, under the ſight of their Sinfulneſs; and to do it, he doth expreſs their Lives to be a walking in Sin. And the other is as clearly expreſt and held forth; In which ye walked ſometime, implying that now they did not; and therefore it is a proper Character of an unregenerate Man for to walk in Sin.

For the firſt, as this Phraſe, walking in Sin, is here put to expreſs the abundancy of Sin that was in them; It implies, in the firſt Place, that all their Life and every Act thereof, was ſinful, they could not act, or walk out of Sin; there was not a ſtep in their Way, but was ſinful. And, my Brethren, every Thought is a Step, every Power, and Faculty, and Motion is a Step; a Man walketh by every Deſire, by every Thought, by every Purpoſe, by every End and Paſſion that ſtirreth in him. I may compare the ungodly Soul of a Sinner, to thoſe black Worms that walk upon ſo many Feet; ſo doth the Soul walk; every Power, and Faculty of it, is a Foot, and there is not the leaſt Motion but it is a ſtep. Now, did they walk in nothing but Sin? Could they not get out of it? What abundance of Sin, muſt then this riſe up to; as the Apoſtle here repreſenteth it? Every Thought, and every Imagination in the Heart it was evil, continually evil; for it was a walking. This is that which the Apoſtle here expreſſeth; they were never out of ſinning in ſome Path or other, they were never out of that Circuit, go whither they would. In the ſecond Place, Walking, it implyeth that as every Action of theirs was to a Sin, every Thought, and the like; ſo it implyes that they were never idle, they never ſtood ſtill; but this Soul of theirs, was continually doing ſomething, and all that was Sin. Saith the firſt Pſalm, Bleſſed is the Man, that walketh not in the Way of the Ungodly: the Hebrew Word, that is there put for Ungodly or Sinner, it ſignifies Reſtleſs. The word, it is oppoſed unto Quietneſs, in Job 34. 29. And therefore Walking and Reſtleſs, are in Pſalm 1. joined together, walk in the way of the Reſtleſs, that is, of the Ungodly, that are continually reſtleſs, continually going up and down. In Iſa. 57. 20. The Wicked are like the troubled Sea, that cannot reſt, whoſe Waters caſt up Mire and Dirt. So that now the meaning is this, they hurried up and down, for indeed it is not an ordinary walking, it is but a tumbling up and down. As Seneca ſaid well of a Man that had done no good in his Life, that he had but tumbled up and down in the World, like a Ship (ſaith he) that hath bin toſt up and down in the Sea, but never ſail'd: So, this Walking is not a proper Walking, it is but a Reſtleſneſs, a continual Activity. And in Eccleſ. 6.9. You ſhall find there, that the word Walking is put for Reſtleſneſs, Better, ſaith he, is the ſight of the Eyes, then the wandring of the Spirit, the Word in the Original is, then the walking of the Spirit, his meaning is this, than for a Man to be always deſiring, and his Spirit continually wandring up and down for new Deſires and Objects; he ſpeaks of the Reſtleſneſs of a Covetous Man, that is continually looking up and down for more, walking up and down. And then again, In which ye walked; he ſaith not, in one Sin only, but in Sins and Treſpaſſes, that is, in all ſorts of Sin. And fourthly, walking with the greateſt Security (for ſo walking implyeth) as Men that walk in the High-way, or in their Gardens, thinking nothing. He knoweth not (ſaith Solomon, Prov. 7.23. ſpeaking of the fooliſh Man) that it is for his Life. Walking, it implies a ſecure Condition too, and ſuch was yours, ſaith he. And fifthly, delighting in nothing elſe, that the Word implies too; as Men walk, for Recreation, as they walk up and down in their Gardens to refreſh themſelves, ſo, ſaith he, do you. It is an obſervable thing, that in Scripture Men's continuing in Sin, is expreſt by all ſort of Poſtures. In Pſal. 1. You have three, Walketh in the Counſel of the Ungodly, ſtandeth in the way of Sinners, and ſitteth in the Seat of the Scornful. And elſewhere it is called called wallowing in the Mire; And the World lying in Wickedneſs, the Phraſe there, lying, is put for lying down, as in Luk. 2.12. For variety of Poſtures is that which cauſeth delight and eaſe in Man, he could not be always in one Poſture; and here Walking is put for them all. And then again, ſixthly, In which you walked, that is, you walked in them, as thoſe that would not be put out of their way, you went on obſtinately and perverſely, for ſo an unregenerate Man doth. In that firſt Pſalm, as he is ſaid to walk in the Counſel of the Ungodly, ſo to ſtand in the way of Sinners; one would think that Walking and Standing are oppoſite, but the meaning is, he perſiſted in it, it implies only a firmneſs and ſteadineſs, he would not be put out of it. And then again, Walking implies a going from Strength to Strength. In Pſal. 84.7. It is ſaid, that the Godly go from ſtrength to ſtrength, till they appear before God in Zion; ſo the Wicked they go from Strength to Strength, and increaſe in it. Then eighthly, Walking, they departed from God all the while. I remember once a Man that was turned to God, when he had conſidered his miſerable Condition, this was the ſum of all that was ſet upon his Spirit, I have run from God, ſaith he, all my days. A Man in Sin, ſtill goes from God all his Days, and there is ſtill a farther Elongation; it is therefore called a departing from the living God, a turning the Back upon him, and not the Face. Laſtly, it is called a Walking, becauſe at laſt they ſhould have arrived at a miſerable Journeys end. The end, ſaith the Apoſtle, is Death; it is therefore called the Way of Death, Jer. 31.8. Prov. 2. 18. Prov. 5. 5. Their ſteps, ſaith he, take hold of Death. And therefore now they are fitly joyned here, dead in Sin, and walking in Sin, for the iſſue of all Sin, the end of the Journey, is Death; they walk but as Men do through a green Meadow to Execution. And ſo much now for that part of the Phraſe, walking in Sin, as it expreſſeth their Sinfulneſs, and their Miſery.

רשע
Parere inquietum eſſe.
Pagnin.

Secondly, We are to conſider it, as it is a Character of an unregenerate Condition. It is proper to Men, whilſt unregenerate, to walk in Sin; Afterwards they walk in good Works (as the Expreſſion is in the 10*th* Verſe of this Chapter) they walk in the Spirit, as elſe where it is. That this is his Scope, to ſet forth a Character of an Unregenerate Man in this Expreſſion, it is clear too. You ſee, he coupleth it with being dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes: ſo that he that is dead in Sin, walketh in Sin; and he that walketh in Sin, is dead in Sin. And it is evident likewiſe by the Word of Diſtinction, ſometime ye walked, (for this Obſervation now explaineth onely the word ſometime;) but not now, that God hath turned you. The firſt Pſalm was on purpoſe made to diſtinguiſh carnal Men from godly Men, in David's time: The World then magnified others, and thought thoſe that had Riches and Eſtates, &c. bleſſed. Bleſſed is the Man, ſaith he, that walketh not in the Counſel of the Ungodly, nor ſtandeth in the way of Sinners, whoſe way ſhall periſh, ſaith he, in the later end of that Pſalm; but the Way of the Godly is known to the Lord. Now a carnal Man, he walketh in Sin, not only becauſe all his Actions are nothing elſe, becauſe he performs all with Delight, ſecurely, and the like, but becauſe there is uſually ſome one Way, ſome one Tract in his Life which may diſcover him an unregenerate Man to himſelf, if he narrowly ſearch his way: Search me (ſaith David, Pſal. 139.23.) and know my Heart, and ſee if there be any way of Wickedneſs in me, implying that there is, in unregenerate Men, and if he had had it, he had been an unregenerate Man. And the reaſon is this, look whatſoever Principle of Life is within, the walking and way of a Man will be ſuch; for no Man can live without Delight, and Delight is his Life; if his Life lie in Sin, he will certainly walk in ſome Sin or other: And though he may be ſcared out of his Way, and fall into the Ways of God for a while, yet notwithſtanding, as it is in Pſal. 125.5. There are crooked Ways maintained, for which God leads them forth at laſt with the Workers of Iniquity. A Godly Man may fall into the way of Sinners, yet he walketh not in them: And a wicked Man he may ſtrike into the ways of Godly Men for a while, as Judas did, yet walketh in the ways of Sin. Like to the Planets (as Jude compares them) though they go with the common Motion of the Heavens, yet they have a ſecret Motion of their own: So it is with carnal Profeſſors. You may know it likewiſe by this, what a Man ſets up for his chiefeſt End (and it is a certain thing, that a carnal Man's end is carnal) that is his way: ſo it is called in 2 Pet. 2. 15. They follow the way of Balaam: what was that? He loved the Wages of Unrighteouſneſs. And ſo much now for the opening

Serm. II. pening of that. Although every Action of an unregenerate Man is ſinful, and it is a walking in Sin, yet to diſcover him to be an unregenerate Man to all the World at the latter Day, and unto himſelf now, if he would ſearch himſelf, God leaveth him to walk in ſome way. Therefore let every Man examine the haunts of his Heart, which for recreation's ſake he walketh in, and the like. And ſo much for that Phraſe.

Now I come to the Guides, (for all this is but ſtill proper to the Text.) Here are three Guides. Here is,

1. The World, According to the Courſe of this World, ſaith he.

Firſt; What is meant by [World] here? Some Interpreters ſay, the things of the World are here meant; as often in Scripture the World is taken for the things of the World, as 1 Cor. 7. 31. Uſing the World, as not abuſing it. 1 John 2. 15. Love not the World, nor the things of it. And ſo, they ſay, the meaning is this: Men that are worldly, and ſeek after worldly things; that was your Caſe, and your Condition, whilſt you were in Unregeneracy. But certainly that is not the meaning of it, becauſe following the World, that is, worldly Objects, and worldly Pleaſures, and the things of the World, is evidently included in the third Verſe, where he ſaith, Fulfilling the Luſts of the Fleſh; for to fulfill the Luſts of the Fleſh, and to walk after the World, is all one; for the Objects of a Man's Luſts are the World, and ſome things in it or other. Therefore you ſhall find in that 1 John 2. 15. when he had ſaid, Love not the World, nor the things of it; he adds, All in the World is the Luſt of the Fleſh, the Luſt of the Eye, and the Pride of Life. He calleth the Objects of the World, by the Luſts, becauſe that they are the Objects of Luſts; as the Doctrine of Faith is called Faith, becauſe it is the Object of Faith. Therefore here now [World] is to be taken ſtrictly for the Men of the World; as when he ſaith, The whole World lieth in Wickedneſs, 1 John 5. 19. And the World will love its own, John 15. 19. It is uſual in Scripture. And ſo now, my Brethren, by the way, do but take notice of this: That there is a Miſtake, I have perceived it often in many Mens Speeches; they ſay, they love not the World, and they are not for the World, and they are not worldly, becauſe, ſay they, we love not Riches, and the like. But World is not only nor chiefly taken (when Fleſh and Devil are joined with it, as here; and, as you know you uſe to ſay, there are three Enemies, the World, the Fleſh, and the Devil; by Fleſh, are meant all the Luſts that are ſet upon the things of the World: now World is not taken in this diviſion,) for the things of the World, but it is taken for the carnal Men of the World: Therefore, if thou joineſt with the carnal Men of the World, thou art a Man worldly in that ſence; thou art a Man under the Power of that Enemy, therefore under the Power both of Fleſh and Devil too. Men underſtand not that Vow they made in Baptiſm, to renounce the World, the Fleſh, and the Devil; the World is not only the things of the World, but it is the Men of the World, yea, it is ſtrictly and properly ſo taken, and not for the other, in that Vow, and ſo not here.

Now then by [World] here is meant, all carnal Men, live they where they will, in the Church, or wherever elſe, all the Heap, the Fry, and the Cluſter of them. Theſe are the World, and theſe will all join together, as I ſhall ſhew by and by. And there doth ariſe a Strength from the Union of one with another, in their Ways and Courſes, and in their Rage againſt Godlineſs, and the Power of it. As in Coals, tho every Coal hath fire in it, yet lay all theſe Coals together, and the Fire is ſtrengthned: ſo there is an Intenſion from the Union of all the parts, from the Connexion of this World. So that now the Collection of all carnal Men in one and the ſame Principles, Practices, and Ways; theſe are meant here by the World.

Then, Secondly; For that word, Courſe of the World, I ſhall open that briefly. You muſt know this, that that word in the Greek, which is here tranſlated, the Courſe of the World, it ſelf in the Original ſignifies the World, according to the World of the World; both theſe words, both αἰὼν & κόσμος, ſignify the World in Scripture: God hath delivered us out of this evil World, Gal. 1. 4. It is the

ſame

ſame word that is here tranſlated Courſe. Be not conformed to the World, Rom. 12. 1. It is the ſame word that is tranſlated, Courſe of the World, here. Now when that word which is tranſlated Courſe, is diſtinct from the word, [World,] it implies two things: Firſt, it implies an Age, or a Time in which Men live, and the word [World] implieth Perſons. And ſo then here is one meaning of the Text: They lived according to the Courſe of the World, that is, according to the Time, according to the Age of the World that then was, or of Men in the World that then were. Every Age hath almoſt a new Dreſs, tho it is the ſame World, and ſtill carnal Men live according to it. But yet, ſecondly, it ſignifies that Cuſtom, that Manner, that Mould and Trade of Life, that the World, or Generality of carnal Men, take the Stream, the Gang (as I may call it) of Men in a Cluſter: walk by and hold forth; the Opinions and Practices that are in the World. Thus, in Rom. 12. 2. Be not conformed to the World: It is the ſame word that is tranſlated Courſe here; it is the Cuſtom of the World, (and the Apoſtle ſpeaks it in matter of Worſhip,) the Shape of the World, Firſt, the word, there, Be not conformed, it is, be not caſt into the Figure of the World: Therefore, in 1 Cor. 7. 31. it is ſaid, The Faſhion, (the Schema, it is the ſame word) of the World paſſeth away. There is a Faſhion, a Mould, that the World is caſt into, and every Age almoſt caſts the World into a new Mould, and Men conform themſelves to it, and are apt ſo to do. So that now clearly, the meaning is but this: That theſe Epheſians, whilſt unregenerate, walked according to the Cuſtom of the World, they did de facto as the moſt of the World did; for their Judgments, they were ruled by the ſame Principles the World were ruled by, they judged as the World did, they cried up what the World magnified, walked in the ſame Counſels, framed their Lives to the ſame Pattern, configured themſelves to the Faſhion of the World; and the Stream, and Courſe, and Tide of it carried them, being dead Men, as the Stream uſeth to carry dead Fiſh. This is plainly and clearly, in a word, the meaning of this here, They walked according to the Courſe of this World. Look what the World then was, ſuch were they, and that in two reſpects, as Interpreters well obſerve:

Firſt; they were ſuch for their Morals, they walked in the ſame Sins, the ſame Vices, that the Gentiles walked in. Eph. 4. 17. Walk not as other Gentiles; ſo they had done. And therefore they are called by Peter, (2 Pet. 2.) The Defilements of the World; becauſe the World defile themſelves, and live in them.

And then again, Secondly; In reſpect of Religon, which, Zanchy ſaith, is principally here meant and intended, that Worſhip, that Idolatry, which then they were zealous for, and were carried away with the Stream. And how the World went with Epheſus in this reſpect, you may read at large, in Acts 19. 34, 35. There you may ſee how the Gang went, They all with one voice, for the ſpace of two hours together, cried out, Great is Diana of the Epheſians: And all the World knows, ſaith the Town-Clerk, that this City of the Epheſians is a Worſhipper of the great Goddeſs Diana, and of the Image which fell down from Jupiter. Now this is that the Apoſtle aims at, and Zanchy gives ſome three or four Reaſons for it; becauſe afterwards, in this Epiſtle, (which he wrote to theſe Epheſians,) he ſaith, they were Strangers from God, Aliens from the Promiſes, and now made nigh; they were then Gentiles, Remember that ye were Gentiles, ſaith he, not only Gentiles for your Morals, but for Idolatry, and for all ſorts of Idolatry. You may ſee in that Acts 19. what a mighty Torrent there was, what Zeal for their falſe Worſhip; they broke through with rage, They ruſhed, ſaith the Text, with one accord, uno impetu, into the Theatre. Thus the World went at Epheſus, and thus the Epheſians were carried. You have the like in 1 Cor. 12. 2. (for when he tells them of their unregenerate Eſtate, ſtill he hath an eye unto that,) You know, ſaith he, that ye were Gentiles, carried away unto theſe dumb Idols, even as ye were led. The word is emphatical, you were carried away with Madneſs, with the Stream; and, ſaith he, in Point of Religion Men are eaſily led.

So that now you have clearly what the Apoſtle here intendeth, when he ſaith, In which ye walked, according to the Courſe of the World, viz. All the Principles of

 the

Serm. II. the World that then were, the things that the World then cried up, the Ways of the World, and the Sins that the World then lived in. Now then, to come to ſome Obſervations from hence, for all this is for Expoſition.

Obſerv. 1. The firſt Obſervation is this, That in all Ages, there is and will be a Combination of carnal Men, in an Uniformity and Conformity of Ways and Courſes. They will all cling together; theſe Epheſians did ſo, and the Courſe of the World, the Stream runs ſtill, and will do while the World is.

And the reaſon of it in one word is this: In every Man there is the ſame common Nature, and the ſame Luſts, and the ſame corrupt Principles; originally there is in every one the Seeds of them all. And therefore in 1 Pet. 4. 2. The Luſts that are in every Man's Heart, they are called the Luſts of Men, not only a Man's own Luſts, but the Luſts of others; That ye ſhould no longer live to the Luſts of Men, ſaith he. And the Hearts of Men ſavour the ſame things that one another do: In Mat. 16. 23. Thou ſavoureſt the things of Men, ſaith Chriſt, ſpeaking to Peter, in whom the Devil had then ſtirred up an unregenerate part. Now what was in him in part, is in all Mankind; they ſavour the things of Men, one of another. It is the ſame like Phraſe that is uſed in Rom. 8. 1. They ſavour the things of the Fleſh, and therefore walk after the Fleſh; ſo they ſavour the things of Men, therefore they walk after Men, and the Courſe of the World. What moſt Men are for, and reliſh in their Judgments, that every carnal Man is for, and they all agree in their Judgments. Now in 1 Cor. 2. 12. ſaith the Apoſtle, We have not received the Spirit of this World; Mark it, there is a common Spirit of the World in every Man, not the Spirit that is in him, but the Spirit of the World, that doth poſſeſs one and the ſame, and all ſorts of Men, more or leſs: But, ſaith he, We have received the Spirit of God. Now as that Spirit leadeth the Saints into the ſame Truths, for the ſubſtance; ſo the Spirit of the World leads wicked Men, in their Judgments, in their Principles, Practices, and Opinions: therefore you ſhall have them cry up the ſame thing, magnify the ſame thing, one that another doth. There is a Spirit in them, that is preſently capable of what the World ſaith, of worldly Underſtanding; therefore the Children of the World, as they are called, Luke 16. 8. are ſaid to be wiſer in their Generation, than the Children of Light; becauſe they have another Kind from the Children of God, and they are wiſer in that Kind, and with the like kind of Wiſdom. I ſhall not need to enlarge upon it. Now all theſe Men, meeting with the ſame kind of Principles one with another, from the Collection of them together, cometh an Union, a Strength, and a Prevalency. As I ſaid, afore, a company of Coals laid together, what a mighty heat do they cauſe! The Sea, being a Collection of Waters, from the Union of the Sea, what a vaſt Body is it! how it tumbleth up and down! You ſhall have it tumble this way, and then that way, and all the Waters will go that way: And thus it is with the World. And their being thus joined together, in one Corporation or Body, as I may call it, it makes that mighty Rage againſt the Power of Godlineſs, and their Zeal, (for they are zealous) not only for themſelves, but one for another, for their own Principles.

And, my Brethren, you muſt know this, that the reaſon why this World is thus combined together in all Ages, it is this; Becauſe it is under the power of Satan, (ſo it follows in the Text, according to the courſe of the World, and, the Prince of the power of the Air.) For it is the Devil that makes that Gang, though they do not ſee it. They are a Sea, being united together, and of themſelves they tumble one way; but if the Wind comes and bloweth upon that Sea, how it rageth, how ſtrong are the ſtreams then! There is a breath, a ſpirit, the ſpirit of the power of the Air, the word ſignifies (as I ſhall open when I come to it) viz. The Devil ſendeth forth an influence, whereby, as the Wind that boweth the Trees which way it bloweth, ſo he boweth and ſwayeth the hearts of the multitude one way: For he is a Monarch, a Prince, therefore he doth not divide, but the World is ſubject to him as to Monarch, therefore they are ſtill carried one Way; there is one Courſe, one Stream, which ſtill the World hath, for he is the God, and Prince of the World. And the Devil is cunning in it ſo to do; you know he doth not divide his own Kingdom, and he can do no hurt upon Men, but by the World, or at leaſt, he doth a great deal of hurt that way, therefore he carries them in one Stream, ſways them, bows them one way. I ſhall give you an Inſtance for it. When Popery was to be ſet up, it is ſaid Rev. 13. 3. that all the World wondered after the Beaſt. Nay in Rev. 17. 13. It is ſaid, that the Kings of the Earth did agree to give their Power unto the Beaſt, the maddeſt Act that could be, for Kings to ſubject their Power to the Pope. They were no way conſtrain'd to it, it was but a tacit Agreement: What was the reaſon? Wh'the Devil was in't. So chap. 13. v. 4. The Dragon, the Devil, gave that power he had in the Roman Empire, unto the Pope, and made the Kings of the Earth thus to agree, to be all of one mind; and ſo he ſwayed the World thus one way, that the whole World ran wondering after the Beaſt. The Devil, I ſay, hath a mighty hand in this. When all the Coals lie together, they make a great Fire; but if Bellows come, they make the Fire much more intenſe.

at

In the ſecond place; You may conſider theſe words, not ſimply, but, as the World is a great cauſe of prevailing upon the hearts of men: Take you Epheſians ſingly, you walked, ſaith he, according to the courſe of the World. Every carnal man ſquareth his courſe to it, he is carried down with the ſtream. The World, as I ſaid, is a Sea, wherein all men may find themſelves to be of a like nature, and agree in the ſame luſts. Now take a carnal Man, when he grows up in this World from a Child, he is as a Drop in that Sea, he mingleth in that Sea; and which way the Sea goes, he goes with it: he finds them ſuitable to his Principles, and the World finding him ſuitable to them, hugs him, imbraces him: and thus it comes to that mighty Power and Prevalency, eſpecially Satan working together with it. And men are apt to pleaſe others, to live to the luſts of men, 1 Pet. 4. 2. to receive honour one from another, Joh. 5. 44. and the examples of the moſt; for what the moſt do, all will do: Theſe have great influences upon men. Therefore Man being a ſociable creature as he is, he goes with the Drove of the reſt of Mankind; and the World being before him, and having been always before him, he grows up to it, is moulded into it, and ſo is carried with the ſtream, that carrieth to Perdition and Deſtruction. It is a hard matter therefore, my Brethren, to be converted and turned to God; it is hard for a man to come out of this World, to ſwim againſt this ſtream, to bear the contradiction of ſinners; as it is ſaid of Chriſt, Heb. 12. to be a Man alone, a Wonder to the World, for the World will obſerve any thing that differs from them: It is a hard matter to be crucified to this World, the meaning is, the World when a Man leaveth it, and forſaketh it in any of the Common Courſes of it, looks upon him as a loſt Man, let him have never ſo much Learning, as Paul had. And ſo much for a ſecond Obſervation.

A third Obſervation is this, that the general courſe of moſt Men in the World, they are Courſes, which if a Man will live by, he ſhall be an unregenerate Man; Let the World be never ſo refined ſtill, let a Man be made never ſo much a Temporary Believer (for the Truth is, the World hath had many Refinements, and new Faſhions and Dreſſes put upon it ſince this Epheſian World, wherein the Devil was worſhipped) yet ſtill there ſhall be ſo much of carnal Principles left, which if a Man walk by, he ſhall be no better than an unregenerate Man; for here he deſcribeth their Unregeneracy by walking according to the courſe of this World. Chriſt diſtinguiſheth in that Luk. 16. 8. The Children of this World, from the Children of Light. It is therefore called the preſent evil World. Therefore Chriſt that made a Prayer for his Diſciples to the end of the World (for he prayed not only for his Apoſtles but for all that ſhould believe in his Name) keep them (ſaith he) from the Evil that is in this World: And in 1 Joh. 5. 19. The whole World lyeth in Wickedneſs: And therefore every where you have oppoſed the things of God, and the things of Men; Thou ſavoureſt not the things of God, but the things of Men, ſaith Chriſt to Peter, Mat. 16. 23. Though the Spirit of the World, and the Spirit of God are oppoſed, 1 Cor. 2. 13. The things that are in great eſteem with Men, are an Abomination unto God, Luk. 16. 15. That is, not but that the World may turn to many things that are good, but ſtill there ſhall be ſomething left, that if a Man will walk according to the Latitude, according to to the moſt, he ſhall be an unregenerate Man, he ſhall cry up that which is Abominable unto God. Therefore my Brethren, take it for a certain Sign of an unregenerate Eſtate, to be carried thus along with the Stream, and to be moulded

Obſerv. 3.

Serm. II. to the ſame Principles the generality of the moſt of Men are; and the generality of the moſt of Men, are Civil Men. It is a ſign I ſay of Death, Dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, wherein ye walked according to the courſe of this World. A Fiſh that is alive will and can ſwim againſt the Stream, but a Fiſh that is dead, the Stream carries it along with it. And the Truth is, he that walketh in the World, he walketh with Satan; why? Its clear, according to the Courſe of the World, according to the Prince ſaith he. As thoſe that walk with the Saints walk with God: ſo he that walketh with the World, certainly he walketh with Satan, though he ſees it not, nor knows it. I might likewiſe inlarge upon this, that Men that are holy; walk contrary to the World, but I will not ſtand upon it.

Obſerv. 4. Another Obſervation is this, and it is proper to the Text, for I ſhall give you no other. It is one of the greateſt Mercies in our Salvation and Redemption, to be deliver'd from this World, to be turned out of it, to be turned from the Opinions and Practices of it, from the Stream of it. This is clearly the Apoſtle's Scope here, for all this is but to magnifie the Mercy, and the Grace of God; God, ſaith he, Verſe 4. who is rich in Mercy, according to his Rich Grace, He quickned us, and raiſed us, and pull'd us out of this World. I will give you but a Scripture for it, and ſo paſs from it, Gal. 1. 4. ſpeaking of Chriſt, ſaith he, Who gave himſelf for our Sins, what to do? Surely ſome great matter? That he might deliver us, from this preſent evil World. There is never a vain Tradition that thou ſuckeſt in, (and there are I know not how many Traditional Sins, that Men receive in, traditional ill Opinions, that Men have of the Ways of God, a Company of Apochriphal Sins, as I may ſay, received from their Fathers down from one Age unto another, which Men ſuck in:) To be delivered from any of theſe, coſt the Blood of Chriſt. Therefore now not only thy Being pull'd out of the World at firſt, when firſt converted, but to be turned from any Carnal Principle, the reſt of the World goes on in, and perhaps ſome Godly Men too, it is a Fruit of the Redemption of Chriſt. I will give you a clear Place for it; 1 Pet. 1.18. Foraſmuch as ye know, that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as Silver and Gold, from your vain Converſation, received by Tradition, from your Fathers, but with the Precious Blood of Chriſt. He ſpeaks to the Jews (for Peter wrote to the Jews, that were diſperſt throughout Pontus, Galatia &c.) now they had received a world of Traditions from their Fathers, which had made their Converſations even in the Worſhip of God, in many Particulars vain; they had Waſhings and the like, in Religious Reſpects; Bleſs God, ſaith he, that he hath redeemed you, from all theſe Traditions, and hath ſhewed you the Mercy to clear up your Judgments in them; this is the Fruit, ſaith he, of the Blood of Chriſt nothing elſe could have done it. Our Lord and Saviour Chriſt therefore, ſpent, a great deal of Time, to work out theſe Traditions; as he ſpent his Blood for it, ſo he ſpent a great deal of his Breath for it, as appeareth by many of his Sermons, eſpecially that in Mat. 5.

I have but a Word to open and that is this, According to the Courſe of [This] World; and ſo in other Places ſtill you ſhall find it, from [This] preſent evil World &c. Now there is a double Sence of it, which will afford us an Obſervation or two, and ſo I will end Either it is called This World, in oppoſition to that to come, as in the Former Chapter, This World, ſaith he, and that to come. Or elſe, this World, hath a Relation to that preſent Age, becauſe he ſpeaks of theſe Epheſians, they lived according to the Courſe of that World, then, as other unregenerate Men afterward; let the World alter never ſo much, they live ſtill according to the moſt, and the moſt will ſtill be corrupt. And there is ſome thing beſides, that which is tranſlated now, ſignifies the Age, the Spirit that now works, that is, in this Age. I ſhall joyn both in one Obſervation, and it is this.

Obſerv. That though the World do alter in ſeveral Ages in the Courſe and the Faſhion of it, yet ſtill it will be the World: And it will be ſo far the World, for the generality of the Principles of it, that if Men ſhould live according to them, they would be unregenerate. Let the World alter never ſo much (as indeed ſince Chriſt's time, the World hath had mighty Alterations) yet ſtill it will be the World. They lived according to the Age of that World, and were unregenerate Men, and others will do ſo too, ſtill as the World alters, alters, as it puts on new Dreſſes, new Faſhions; one Generation cometh, and another paſſeth; there is no new thing under the Sun for ſubſtance, ſtill the ſame Corruption goes on. You muſt know this, my Brethren, that Chriſt, when he went up to Heaven, he had a Kingdom to come, he meant to make a new World, and ſtep by ſtep to alter that World that was then, when theſe Epheſians lived; to alter it by degrees, till he take the Kingdom unto himſelf, and make a new Heaven, and a new Earth, wherein dwelleth Righteouſneſs. Saith Chriſt, in John 15. Now is the Judgment of this World; that is, now I begin it. The World had continued before in one way, for three thouſand years, and there had been no alteration in matter of Religion; but now is the Judgment of this World, that is, the Reformation of it. And Chriſt did then begin to mould it, to faſhion it, to throw down Heatheniſm, and ſet up Chriſtianity; and he will be ſtill doing of it, to the end of the World, whilſt it is Satan's World. There is a World to come, which is called, New Heavens, and a new Earth, wherein dwelleth Righteouſneſs, 2 Pet. 3. 13. And the Kingdoms of the World, are to become the Kingdoms of Jeſus Chriſt, as Rev. 11. 15. But it is ſpoken at the end of the World, and of the end of the World, for it is ſpoken at the end of the ſeventh Trumpet, which ends all, and the Hiſtory of the Church begins at the next Chapter.

Now tho Chriſt hath taken to Himſelf the Kingdoms of the World fully and compleatly, tho he make mighty Alterations and Judgments in it, and is ſtill throwing out Satan by degrees, yet it is Satan's World ſtill, that which the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of in oppoſition to that which is to come. Now, I ſay, this World, let it turn Chriſtian World, as it did, yet it will ſtill be the World, it will ſtill be an evil World, it will ſtill lie in Wickedneſs, it will ſtill ſo far hold forth unregenerate Principles, that if a Man will walk according to the common Stream, he will be damned, that is certain; and let the World be refined never ſo much, ſo it will be, till Chriſt make new Heavens, and a new Earth. When the Empire turned Chriſtian, one Chriſtian ſaid to another, (it is a famous Speech in Eccleſiaſtical Hiſtory) O now, ſaith he, we ſhall have Perſecution ceaſe, for the Emperor, and all the World is turned Chriſtian: But, ſaith the other, the Devil is not turned Chriſtian for all this, And this World is the Devil's World, believe it, Brethren, for the generality of Men. And therefore, in Rev. 12. when Heatheniſm was thrown down, the Dragon, and all his Angels with him, were caſt out of Heaven, one would have thought there would have been much Joy; but, ſaith the Text, verſ. 12. Wo to the Inhabitants of the Earth! why? becauſe the Devil is come down amongſt you, with a new rage; and he went on ſtill to perſecute thoſe that lived according to the Commandment of Jeſus. And therefore now, notwithſtanding all Refinements, tho there come new Schemes, yet you ſhall ſtill have the Generality ſo far corrupt, that they will be the World ſtill, and they will oppoſe the Power of Religion ſtill. In Rom. 12. 1. the Apoſtle did lay a very ſtrict Injunction upon the Church of Rome, (who did little keep it, but the Holy-Ghoſt did it by way of Prophecy before-hand,) that they ſhould not conform themſelves unto the World, he ſpeaks it principally in reſpect of their Worſhip, yet they did not obſerve that Injunction. When the Heatheniſm was gone, and the World was turned Chriſtian, then all the World went wondering after the Beaſt, except thoſe whoſe Names were written in the Book of Life, Rev. 13. 8. And when there is a Reformation from Popery, as the Holy-Ghoſt propheſied of Popery it ſelf, and that Apoſtacy, in 1 Tim. 4. 1. Therefore he ſaith, That in the latter Times ſome ſhall depart from the Faith, giving heed to ſeducing Spirits, which ſpeak Lies in Hypocriſy. Which place a learned Man hath moſt excellently opened to be meant of the Popiſh Times. So in 2 Tim. 3. 1. he ſpeaks of another Fry, when Popery was off the Stage, at leaſt, when it was declining; and he diſtinguiſheth it from the other, which were to be in the latter days, but theſe are to be in the laſt days: In the laſt days, ſaith he, perillous Times ſhall come; and ſo he names a Company of Men, Covetous, Boaſters, &c. that ſhall ſet up a Form of Godlineſs, and deny the Power of it. The Fry ſtill, even of thoſe, will be of them that are naught; and then, ſaith he, as in reſpect of the Power of Religion, they will reſiſt the Truth, as Jannes and Jambres withſtood Moſes. So that now ſtill, as the World alters, let it alter its Principles, by reaſon that Chriſt will ſtill get ground of the World; yet it will ſtill retain ſo much, that if Men will walk Serm. II. according to the common Principles moſt of the World go by, they will be unregenerate Men. Therefore every Man is to learn to be as Noah was, righteous in his Generation.

I have but one or two things more to ſay, and ſo I will end, According to the Courſe of the World, and the Prince of the Power of the Air. I ſhall not now go about to ſhew you ſimply, why he is called the Prince of the Power of the Air, and the like. I will but make one general Obſervation, and which is neceſſary for me now to make, becauſe of the Coherence of the former Matter.

Obſerv. The World under the Goſpel, you ſee, was to have a great deal of Alteration. The cunning of Satan is, ſtill to apply himſelf to this World, and the Courſe of it, and ſecretly and cunningly to rule by the Courſe of it, or with the Courſe of it, In all the Changes of the World, let there be never ſo many, ſtill Satan will fall in: as you know he did, when he was thrown down from Heaven, when Heatheniſm was gone, and Chriſtianity came up, the Devil in appearance turneth Chriſtian too, all the Vogue runneth for Chriſtianity. But what doth he? Then he goes, and gathers all the Seminals of Hereſy, that had been ſown in the Primitive Times, and hatcheth them all up, and makes Antichriſt. When he could not uphold himſelf under the Heatheniſh World, then he comes, and giveth his Throne to the Beaſt. Still the Devil's deſign is, to creep in, and and to turn as the World turneth, and to be dealing ſtill with unregenerate Men, to hold up ſo much Carnality, as he may ſtill maintain a Perſecution againſt the Saints, if poſſibly he may obtain ſo much. This is his Manner, and this hath been his way in all the Turnings of the World.

SERM.

SERMON III.

EPHES. 2. 2.

----- According to the Prince of the Power of the Air, the Spirit that now worketh in the Children of Diſobedience.

THe habitual Eſtate of every Man by Nature, the Apoſtle mentioneth in the firſt Verſe, in the Perſon of theſe Epheſians: Ye, ſaith he, who were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes. Here in this ſecond Verſe, he cometh to lay open, what manner of Converſation they had actually in their Lives, In which Sins, ſaith he, in time paſt ye walked. Having three Guides, which in this their walking they were led by:

1. The World, According to the Courſe of this World.
2. Satan, the Devil, According to the Prince of the Power of the Air, the Spirit that now works in the Children of Diſobedience.
3. The Luſts of the Fleſh, that is, the Corruption of their own Hearts, acted and ſtirred up by theſe, Among whom alſo we had our Converſation in times paſt, in the Luſts of our Fleſh, &c.

I have diſpatched this firſt Guide, According to the Courſe of this World: I ſhall now come to this ſecond, According to the Prince of the Power, &c.

The Apoſtle's general Scope in theſe words is, to hold forth theſe three things.

1. The Miſery of theſe Epheſians, and of all Men by Nature, in reſpect of Subjection unto Satan, that they being Children of Diſobedience, Satan, as a Prince, ruleth over them, and governeth them.

2. That as the World, ſo that Satan is a Cauſe of that Sinfulneſs that is in the Hearts and Lives of Men. As the World is a Cauſe, according to which Men ſhape their Courſes naturally, (as the moſt of unregenerate Men do) that is, the exemplary Cauſe; ſo the Devil is the impelling Cauſe: he is a Cauſe, both as a Prince, and as a Spirit: According to the Prince of the Power of the Air, the Spirit that worketh, &c.

3. To winde in a Deſcription upon this occaſion of the Greatneſs of Satan's Kingdom, which he doth on purpoſe to illuſtrate and ſhew their Miſery the greater and the more. He is not contented to ſhew their Subjection to Satan, but he doth it under the Notion of a Kingdom: According (ſaith he) to the Prince of the Power of the Air, or, of the Spirit, or, the Spirit, that works in the Children of Diſobedience.

And the Scope of all theſe three Particulars tended to this, to ſtir up their Hearts to give God thanks for that great Deliverance, which in turning them to God he had wrought in them, and for them. For God, (ſaith he, v. 4.) who is rich in Mercy, even when we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, (and thus in ſubjection unto Satan,) hath delivered us, &c. We find, that in Col. 1. 13. Turning unto God is called, a tranſlating us from the Power of Darkneſs into the Kingdom of his Son, By the Power of Darkneſs there, he eſpecially meaneth the Kingdom of Satan, for he is the Ruler of Darkneſs, as you have it in the 6th Chapter of this Epiſtle, verſ. 12. And therefore it is oppoſed to the Kingdom of his Son, becauſe there is a Prince over that Kingdom, that is, the great Prince of this Power of Darkneſs, who hath ſet up a Kingdom againſt his Son.

Now

Serm. III.

Now the Apoſtle had ſhewed in the 19*th* Verſe of the firſt Chapter (that you may ſee the Coherence, and how one thing hangs with another) the exceeding great Power that had thus wrought in them, and thus tranſlated them; he had likewiſe in the 20, & 21. Verſes ſhewed what a Glorious Kingdom God hath ſet up for his Son. The Power which he wrought in Chriſt (ſaith he) when he raiſed him from the Dead, and ſet him at his own Right-hand in the Heavenly Places far above all Principality and Power, Might and Dominion, and every Name that is named, and hath put all things under his Feet, &c. Now he tells them, that they being converted, they are placed in this Kingdom with Chriſt: that you have in the 6*th* Verſe of this ſecond Chapter, He hath raiſed us up together, and made us ſit together in heavenly Places in Chriſt Jeſus; therefore now to take their Hearts ſo much the more, he ſhews them, that Satan hath an oppoſite Kingdom to this of Chriſt's, under the Power of which they were, and a Kingdom it was, and a Power he had, and a Power that worketh, and worketh effectually, you may ſee it, ſaith he, in the Children of Diſobedience to this day, and you your ſelves would have been the ſame: And therefore they were to bleſs God for that great Change, for that Power that had thus wrought in them, and tranſlated them out of the Devil's Kingdom, which at beſt, ſaith he, is but in the Air, and will have an end with the Air; whereas now, ſaith he, you are ſet together with Chriſt in that Kingdom which God hath given his Son. We ſit together in heavenly Places with him. So now you have both the Scope of the Words, and the general Aſpect of them.

I ſhall principally do theſe two things, which eminently the Text holds forth, and they are two parts (as I may divide them) that theſe Words fall into.

The firſt is, to ſhew you what a Kingdom Satan hath, as here it is deſcribed, which the Apoſtle had in his Eye to wind in, in way of Oppoſition to that Kingdom which Chriſt hath deſcribed in the 21 & 22 Verſes of the former Chapter. And

The ſecond is to ſhew, how that Satan rules and reigns in the Hearts of unregenerate Men, is the cauſe of Sin in them, and they walk according to this Prince, he being a Spirit, he and his Angels, which do work, and work effectually in the Hearts of the Children of Diſobedience, and once wrought in them.

Or if you will, you may divide the Words thus (for they may be divided in a twofold manner) here are two Periods, though in the Greek the Sentence is continued, yet according to the Periods there muſt be two Sentences made. He is ſaid to be the Prince of the Power of the Air, and the Spirit, or the Prince of the Spirit (for either will ſtand, according as Interpreters give the ſence) that worketh in the Children of Diſobedience. Here then are two Parts of this Kingdom in theſe two Sentences 1. He is the Prince of the Power of the Air. 2. He is the Prince of the Spirit that works in the Children of Diſobedience. The Devil, you know, he hath two Titles (in reſpect of his Kingdom) given him, and it was given him, or acknowledged by his Competitor Chriſt himſelf. He is firſt called the Prince of Devils, that's implied in the firſt Sentence, he is the Prince of the Power of the Air: And then ſecondly, he is called the Prince of this World, or of the Men of the World, that's included in the ſecond Sentence, the Prince of that Spirit that worketh in the Children of Diſobedience.

This Diviſion you may take, becauſe the one holdeth forth eminently the one, the other holds forth more eminently the other. Or if you will, you may take the former Diviſion: the one ſhews what a Kingdom he hath; the other what Influence he hath in the Hearts of Men unregenerate in point of ſinning: And indeed the one is interwoven in the other.

I ſhall begin with the firſt Sentence, he is a Prince of the Power of the Air. The only difficulty of the Phraſes is, what is meant by Power, and what by Air.

By Power, ſome underſtand in the abſtract, that Air Princedom or Government he hath in the Air; and by Air, by a double Synechdoche, they underſtand this Lower World, and the Men in it: And ſo underſtand that univerſal Power and Princedom, that is committed unto the great Devil here in this World, both over Men, and over his Natives, his Complices, evil Angels. In Rev. 16. you ſhall find that when the ſeventh Angel poured out his Vials, v. 17. (which is that Vial that ends all the Enemies of Chriſt, and bringeth in the day of Judgment, or the thouſand years that go before it) it is ſaid, he poured out his Vial into the Air, and there came a great Voice out of the Temple of Heaven, from the Throne, ſaying, it is done, that is, there was an end of all, becauſe this laſt Vial is to be upon the univerſal Power of the Devil, which meant is by Air; becauſe as Air circleth all things round, ſo it takes in the whole: The other Vials had been poured out, but upon part of the Kingdom of the Beaſt and of the Devil, but this is upon the Air, and ſo upon his whole Power.

find

And another ſence (which indeed cometh all to one) is that here by the Power of the Air, is meant, not ſimply his Government, or Power committed to him over the Air, whereof he is the Prince, in the Abſtract, but that thereby is meant in a more peculiar manner his Devils, his Angels as they are called: It is put for the Angels that have this Power, whereof he is the Prince, which Angels live and fly up and down in the Air, as the moſt accommodate Place for their Reſidence. And ſo it would rather ſeem to be here underſtood, becauſe it would hold forth ſomething diſtinct from what is ſaid in the ſecond Sentence; now his Power over Men, over the Children of Diſobedience, the Apoſtle expreſſeth that in the ſecond Sentence, therefore here in this firſt, by the Power of the Air, he meaneth in a more peculiar, eminent manner, thoſe Airy Spirits, that are Principalities, and Powers, and Rulers with him in this World, and are the Spirits that do work under him in the Children of Diſobedience. So that now by Power of the Air, is meant that united Kingdom, that body of Angels (I may call them a Political Body) under this one Prince, Satan.

The only Objection againſt this Interpretation, is this. That it is called Power, in the Singular Number, and that therefore the Angels that have Power under him, ſhould not be meant.

But that is eaſily taken off; for it is all theſe as united into one Kingdom; as we call an Army ſent from Spain, the Power of Spain, that is, ſo many Men; or an Army that cometh under the Command of one General, againſt another Nation, we call it ſuch a Force, or ſuch a Power cometh. In Coloſ. 1. 13. there it is put in the Singular Number too. As in the Chap. 1. 21. of this Epiſtle, Chriſt is ſaid to be the head of all Principality and Power, it is not Principalities and Powers; and yet there he meaneth not only Government, but the Perſons in the Government. In Exod. 14. 28. that which in the Hebrew is, all the hoſt of Pharaoh were drowned, the Septuagint renders it in the Singular Number, all the Power of Pharaoh, meaning his whole Army, or the Men of that Army; and ſo it doth the like in Exod. 15. 14. And ſo now here ἐξουσία, the Power of the Air which he is ὁ ἄρχων, Prince of, though ſometimes they differ, yet ſometimes they are put one for, and with another, as in 1 Cor. 15. 24. that which is in other Places δυνάμεις, is there ἡ ἐξουσία, and ſo now the meaning of it is this, he is the Prince of the Power of the Air, that is, of all that body of Angels that are united into a Kingdom under him, and are in the Air, which is the Seat of their Kingdom, and of their Rule, and are the Spirits that do work in the Children of Diſobedience. Mat. 24. 29.

And ſo now Air, doth note out the Local Place where they are, for Kingdoms have Denomination from the Place; as we ſay, the King of Spain, or the Kingdom of Spain, or the Power of Spain, that is, which is in Spain, of Men living there; ſo here, the Prince of the Power of the Air, is the Prince of thoſe Angels that are united into one Power and Kingdom in the Air, having that for their Seat.

And that I may add a little more Confirmation to this, according to the Analogy of Scripture Phraſe; you heard before that the hoſt of Pharaoh is called the Power of Pharaoh: ſo in Mat. 24. that which is there tranſlated the hoſt of Heaven, in the Greek is the Powers of Heaven. The whole Creation, my Brethren, is divided (or at leaſt wiſe all that is above the Earth where Men live) into three parts, and every one of them have their ἐξουσίας, have their Powers, that are Inhabitants of it. There is the higeſt Heavens where God bleſſed for ever, and his Angels are: There is the Starry Heavens; and there is the Air of this Sublunary World; and in reſpect of the Earth, theſe are ſometimes all called Heaven, the higeſt Heaven is called the third Heaven. Now to all theſe, there are Hoſts, or Powers, or a Power, which is all one, that is in Scripture attributed to them that be the Inhabitants thereof, they are ſet forth under that Title and Name. God hath his Throne in the higeſt Heavens,and in 1 *Kin.*22.19. you ſhall read there of the hoſt of Heaven, namely all his holy and bleſſed Angels that were there gathered about him, and the Septuagint there tranſlates it likewiſe the Powers of Heaven. Then there is the Starry Heavens, where the Sun and Moon and Starrs are, and they rule the Day and the Night,whereof the Sun is the Prince; you ſhall find likewiſe that they are called the Hoſt of Heaven, as in Pſal. 33. 6. and the Septuagint tranſlates it in the ſame Place, Power. Then here is the Air you ſee, that is the third, and that hath an Hoſt in it too, but it is of Devils, whereof this great Devil is the Prince, it is the Seat of his Kingdom, it is the Power of the Air. And ſo much now for that. And that by the Power of the Air ſhould be meant the wicked Angels as united into one Body, as joyning and concurring in one Power, one Army, this I ſay makes the ſence more full and comprehenſive,holdeth forth ſomething diſtinct from that which follows in the next Words, where his Subjects are mentioned, namely the Children of Diſobedience, and ſets forth the Kingdom of Satan to the full in all its Variety, in all its Subordinations: He is a Prince, under him he hath a Power; theſe work upon Men the Children of Diſobedience. So now you have the Phraſes in theſe Words opened unto you.

Throne

Serm. II.

Now I ſhall come to that which is inſtead of Obſervations, that is, to explain to you this ſame Kingdom of Satan (for the Apoſtle's ſcope is to hold that up here.) And firſt you ſee, that Satan hath a Kingdom, and it is the great Kingdom that is ſet up againſt the Kingdom of Jeſus Chriſt. The Apoſtle therefore as he had deſcribed Jeſus Chriſt as a mighty King over all Principality and Power, in the 20, & 21 Verſes of the former Chapter; ſo here he holdeth forth the oppoſite Kingdom Satan hath, conſiſting both of Men and Angels, made up of thoſe two, the one in the Air, the other dwelling in the Earth. His great Competitor Chriſt, he acknowledgeth him to have a Kingdom, *Mat.*12.26. If Satan be divided againſt Satan, how ſhall his Kingdom ſtand? Yea, and he had the Start of his Kingdom in the World before Chriſt came into it,carried the World before him for many thouſand Years. It is ſuppoſed by ſome, and indeed rationally and probably, by Zanchy, whom I account the beſt of Proteſtant Writers in his Judgment, and likewiſe by Suarez, the beſt of School-men, that upon the very ſetting up, or at leaſtwiſe upon the Notice that the Angels had of the ſetting up of a Kingdom, for the Man Chriſt Jeſus, predeſtinated to come (which whether it was without the Fall predeſtinated, as ſome, or upon Suppoſition of the Fall,as others,yet ſo much might be revealed to them) and that the humane Nature was to be aſſumed up into the ſecond Perſon,and he to be the Head of all Principality and Power, and that Angels and Men ſhould have their Grace from him; this they ſay being declared to be the Will of God, their very refuſing of this Kingdom, and to be ſubject unto Chriſt, as Man thus aſſumed, was their firſt Sin: And that now in Oppoſition hereunto they did ſet up another Kingdom againſt him. Thus I ſay,theſe Writers, that I have mentioned, do think, and they alledge that Place in the Epiſtle of Jude, ver. 6. where the Sin of the Angels being deſcribed, it is ſaid, they kept not their firſt Eſtate, but left their own Habitation (which ſay they is not there brought in as their Puniſhment) they left that Station God had ſet them in, and they left their Dwelling in Heaven, to ſet up a Kingdom here below, in oppoſition to Chriſt, and ſo to have an Independant Kingdom of themſelves, for which God hath condemned them into eternal Torment, and to Hell, and delivered them into Chains of Darkneſs, to be reſerved unto Judgment, 2 Pet.2.4. And to ſet up this Great Kingdom is their Buſineſs, and therefore they now do aſſociate themſelves together, not out of Love, but as becometh Rational Creatures that would drive on a Project and a Deſign. Our Saviour Chriſt in that Place Mat. 12. ſpeaks of it as the great End that Satan proſecuteth, Satan, ſaith he, will not caſt out Satan, for that would divide his Kingdom, and he is tender of that, that is his great Deſign. I will not much inſiſt upon it, only I will give you the Grounds that they go upon, beſides this mentioned. That Place in *Joh.*8.44. where Chriſt lays open both the Devil's Sin,and the Sin of the Jews. The Sin of the Jews was,that they would not receive that Truth which Chriſt had delivered to them, as he tells them ver. 45. Becauſe I tell you the Truth, you believe me not, and not receiving it, they ſought to kill him. Now if you ask what that Truth was, that Chriſt had ſo much inculcated to them, you ſhall ſee at ver. 25. what it is, they asked him there,who he was, even the ſame, ſaith he, that I have told you from the Beginning, the Meſſiah, the Son of God, and ſaith he, in the next Verſe, he that ſent me is true, and I ſpeak to the World thoſe things which I have heard of him, and ver. 28. when you have crucified me, ſome of you ſhall know it (for ſome were converted, or at leaſt they ſaw it more eminently to their hardning) You ſhall know that I am he. This he calleth the Truth, ver. 32. You, ſaith he, ſpeaking to his Diſciples, ſhall know the Truth, and the Truth ſhall make you free; now the Truth is the Son of God, If the Son make you free, you ſhall be free indeed. ver. 36. This was the great Truth that theſe Jews would not receive. Now he tells them likewiſe, *ver.*44. that Satan, their Father the Devil, abode not in the Truth, he was the firſt, ſaith he, that oppoſed and contradicted this great Truth,and would not be ſubject to God, who revealed this, nor would he accept, or imbrace, or ſtand, or continue in this, he would quit Heaven firſt; and ſo from hence came he to be a Murtherer, a Hater of this Man Chriſt Jeſus, and of this Kingdom, and of Mankind; for he that hateth God, or he that hateth Chriſt, he is, in what in him lieth, a Murderer of him,and he ſhewed it in falling upon Man. And they back it with this Reaſon why it ſhould be ſo meant, becauſe otherwiſe the Devil's Sin, which he compares theirs unto, had not been ſo great as theirs, there had not been a likeneſs between the Sin of the one and the other, his Sin had only been telling of a Lye, a Lye meerly in Speech, and theirs had been a refuſing of that great Truth Jeſus Chriſt as the Meſſiah and Head, and ſo the Devil's Sin would have been leſs than theirs, whereas he is made the great Father of this great Lye,of this great Stubbornneſs to receive Chriſt, and to contradict this Truth; and this, ſaith he, he hath oppoſed from the Beginning, with all his Might, and he ſetteth your Hearts a-work to kill me. But I ſay, I will not ſtand upon this, becauſe I only deliver it,as that which is the Opinion of ſome,and hath ſome Probability. However this is certain, whatſoever his Sin was, he hath now, being fallen,ſet up his Kingdom in a ſpecial manner againſt Chriſt: And ſo Chriſt hath been the great ſtumbling Stone; the Angels fell upon it, and Men fall upon it. So that indeed the firſt Quarrel was laid in this, God himſelf proclaimed it at the very Beginning. And a little would make one think, that there was ſomething before,when God denounced the Sentence againſt the Serpent, The Seed of the Woman ſhall break the Serpents Head, which though ſpoken to the Serpent, comes in by way of Curſe,as ſtriking at the very Spirit of the Devil's Sin, he ſhall break thy Head, ſaith he, thou wouldeſt have lifted up thy ſelf, he ſhall cruſh thee. God, I ſay,proclaimed the War, and the Quarrel hath continued from the beginning of the World to this day,and will do,until Satan be put out of this Air; for ſo long he is to have his Kingdom, though Chriſt beateth him out of it every Day in the World, and ſo will continue to do,till he hath won the World from him, and then he will chain him up in the bottomleſs Pit. Therefore ſaith Chriſt in Mat. 11. 20. If I with the Finger of God caſt out Devils (the Devil hath a Kingdom, ſaith he, he had ſaid that before) then know that the Kingdom of God, that great Kingdom propheſied of, which the Son of Man ſhould have from God, is come amongſt you. In Joh. 12. 28. I have glorified my Name, ſaith God, and I will glorify it; what followeth thereupon as the Conſequence of it? Saith Chriſt, now ſhall the Prince of this World be caſt out, his Kingdom ſhall go down, that's the way by which God will glorify himſelf, I will glorify my ſelf, ſaith he, that is,I will throw down that Kingdom, which the Devils poſſeſs. When the ſeventy returned, and rejoyced that the Devils were ſubject to them in Chriſt's Name, ſaith he, I ſaw Satan (I ſaw him before, this was in mine Eye) falling from Heaven like Lightning; and that is the great thing in Chriſt's Eye to bring down the Devils Kingdom.

he

The Truth is, the reaſon that God ſuffered Satan, and indeed hath given a Kingdom to him by way of permiſſion,is this,he would ſet up the greateſt Enemy that could be ſuppoſed his Son Jeſus Chriſt could have, ſtrengthned with a Multitude of Angels, having gained all Mankind (for ſo he had at firſt ſetting up of this Kingdom, there was a Law that not a Man ſhould be born in this World,but he ſhould be a Subject of his Kingdom) and Jeſus Chriſt had not one Perſon upon Earth, he might have Angels in Heaven indeed. Now this God did, that he might ſhew forth the Glory of the Kingdom of his Son,in ruining this great Enemy, and deſtroying this great Kingdom; for this is the great Kingdom that Chriſt hath Serm. III. in his Eye. Alas! the ruining of earthly Kingdoms, the Roman Monarchy, and the like, it is but a petty Buſineſs to the breaking of this Kingdom, this great Head, which, is as the Primum Mobile, that turns about all the Kingdoms of the World. That's the firſt Obſervation.

Obſerv. 2. The ſecond thing which you may obſerve out of the Words likewiſe, is this, That this Kingdom is a Monarchy. Here is a Prince, one great Devil over other Devils, the Power of the Air, and over Men, The Children of Diſobedience; and this Kingdom ſet up againſt our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. This is a Truth, which both Heathens and others acknowledg. Triſmegiſtus hath it, as in Lactantius his 2*d* Book of Divine Inſtitutions; he ſpeaks of evil Spirits and good Spirits, and of the evil Spirits he ſaith, there was one chief Devil. And it was a Tradition likewiſe amongſt the Jews, and owned by Chriſt himſelf, in that of Mat. 12. who called him the Prince of Devils. And there are Teſtimonies by ſome that thoſe that were Magical amongſt the Heathen, when they could not raiſe a Spirit, they would call upon that chief Devil, whom they durſt not name that he would ſend one to them. I only ſpeak it for this, that amongſt them this was a Tradition, that there was one great Devil. When I handled that of Principality and Power in the 20*th* Verſe of the firſt Chapter, I remember, I ſhewed then, that take the power of Angels in Heaven ſimply, it is in reſpect of them an Ariſtocracy; it is a Monarchy in reſpect of Chriſt indeed: But come down to Hell, and there it is a Monarchy; he is both Prince of Devils, and Prince of this World too, as Mar. 9. 34. and Mat. 12. 24. How he cometh to be thus the Monarch, we will not ſtand diſputing: The Schoolmen have many things upon it. He was the moſt excellent of all the reſt, and the order of Nature ſtill continued though they fell; as in a Man's Soul, though he fall into Sin, yet that order, that the Powers of the Soul were ſet in at firſt, continueth ſtill, the Underſtanding ſtill guideth the Will, and the Will the Affections. Or perhaps he was the Ring-leader of them all, and therefore when his Puniſhment, and that in reſpect to his firſt Sin, is mentioned, it is ſaid, Go into the Fire prepared, (prepared ſo long ago even from his firſt ſinning) for the Devil and his Angels; the ſtile of the Puniſhment runs as the ſtile of the Sin runs (for it is ſpoken in reſpect to the Sin) the Devil had ſinned, and his Angels that cleave unto him therein, therefore the Puniſhment runs, prepared for the Devil and his Angels, prepared I ſay for him, even from his firſt ſinning, as being the Ring-leader of them all, in that firſt Sin. And ſo indeed Grotius interpreteth that in Joh. 8. 44. He is a lyar, and the Father of it, he is, ſaith he, ὁ πατὴρ αὐτὸς, a Father of that kind, of all the Devils that lyed; a Father, how? Not by Generation, but as in Gen. 4. 20. he that firſt invented Braſs, is ſaid to be the Father of ſuch as work in Braſs; and he that invented Tents, The Father of ſuch as dwell in Tents. And ſo now by the juſt ordination of God, they having ſinned with him, they are all thus ſubjected to him; he remains a Prince over them. The Devils they ſinned with a Head, we ſinned in a Head. And they thus uniting willingly to one Monarchy, their chiefeſt end being to uphold the Buſineſs of their Kingdom (as I ſhall ſhew anon) therefore that this may be carried on uniformly and one way, that there may be one uniform Spirit ſtill, and that they may be guided in all Ages by it, to breath in one kind of Activity into the Children of Diſobedience, they have all ſubjected themſelves; partly I ſay by their own voluntary ſubjection, and partly by the Ordination of God, and the Excellency of that Angel above all the reſt. He is called that Dragon in Rev. 20. the Article is put three times there, that Dragon, that Serpent, that Old; And though other Devils may be called Devils (though ſome ſay that we read no where that any are called Devils but this great Devil; the others are called Demons, but they are not called Diaboli, and they are called Unclean Spirits and the like) but this Title [who is the Devil and Satan] is proper and peculiar to him. As there is a whole Antichriſt, one eminent Antichriſt, though there be many Antichriſts: ſo there is one whole Dragon, one great Devil, though there be many others under him. You ſhall read in Ezek. 29. 3. (it is an excellent Alluſion) that Pharaoh King of Egypt is called the great Dragon; the like you have in Iſa. 51. 9. Now in Pſal. 74. 13, 14. compared with this, you ſhall find it ſaid, that God gave his People the Heads of the Dragons for meat; meaning the Egyptians (it was Meat for their Faith to live upon, to ſee the great Works that God did for them:) they are called the little Dragons but, Pharaoh is called called the great Dragon. As this was a Type of our Deliverance out of the Kingdom of Satan, ſo the Type runs on: as Pharaoh, tho all the reſt of the Egyptians were Dragons, yet he was that great Dragon; ſo there is one great Devil, who is Prince of all the reſt. And between him and Jeſus Chriſt it is, that this, not Competition on Chriſt's part, that's too mean a word to be uſed in this Buſineſs; but he is ſet up, and hath ſet up himſelf againſt our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. Therefore now, when Chriſt came into the World, the Devil, having had quiet poſſeſſion of the Kingdoms of the World in all Ages, (you know he had been worſhipped as the God of the World,) he began to ſmell that this Man was the Son of God; and in his Temptation of him, if you look into Luke 4. he doth offer him all theſe Kingdoms: If thou be the Meſſiah, ſaith he, I know it is a Kingdom that thou comeſt for, and that is the Quarrel between thee and me; thou ſhalt have it, ſaith he, with eaſe, they are all given unto me, do but hold it of me, do but worſhip me: He would have compounded the Buſineſs of this Kingdom with the Man Chriſt Jeſus. This great Devil, that old Serpent, that tempted Adam, tempteth the ſecond Adam, and this was the deciſion of the Controverſy and Quarrel, Chriſt told him with indignation, that God only muſt be worſhipped. Now this ſame great Devil, this ſame Prince, he is the Supream, and the others (Powers of the Air) they are but ſent out by him, as I may allude to what Peter ſpeaks. Therefore in 1 Cor. 12. 2. Paul ſaith, A Meſſenger of Satan was ſent to buffet him: It was not the great Devil, but an Angel, a Meſſenger of his whom he ſent.

Now between this Prince, and theſe Under-Devils, that are Rulers of the World under him, as they are called, Eph. 6. 12. there ſeems in Scripture to be held forth this difference, that they are much fixed to Places, I do not ſay, to Perſons. It is a thing obſerved in that Mark 5. 12. when the Legion of Devils were to be caſt out of the Man, the Text ſaith, that they beſought him much, (there is an Emphaſis put upon it,) that he would not ſend them away out of the Country. Why? Becauſe (as Cartwright and others well obſerve,) they would ſtill continue there, where they had been familiar with Men, and knew their Diſpoſitions and Manners, and therefore knew how to lay their Temptations; and it would have been a great diſadvantage, they thought, to them, to be ſent out of that Country, and ſo have been put to ſeek out another. Therefore the Devil's puniſhment, when he is gone out of one, is ſaid to be, that he walketh in dry Places, that is, in Places where he finds little work. But now this great Devil, he goes up and down the Earth, as being he that giveth direction to all the reſt. It is that which Interpreters obſerve out of Job, where he is ſaid to come from compaſſing the Earth to and fro. He is the General Viſier of the World. Sanctius in Job.

Thirdly; All theſe agree in one. That's clear out of the Text too, for if you mark it, they are not called Powers of the Air, tho they are ſo many of them, but they are called Power, in the Singular Number, becauſe they do agree with one united deſign to carry it on: And they are not called Spirits, but one Spirit; The Spirit that worketh, &c. Or, at leaſt, there is one common Spirit comes from them all, one Spirit, and one Power, becauſe they all agree to ſet up Sin, and to pull down the Kingdom of Jeſus Chriſt, all that poſſibly they can. This Agreement of theirs (to give you but one Inſtance of it) appears in that Legion, that was in one Man, in Mark 5. and in Luke 8. Theſe did not act one Member of him one way, and others of them another, but they all agree to act the whole Man one way. And again, when at their requeſt Chriſt gave them leave to enter into the Swine, there were two thouſand Swine, therefore at leaſt there were two thouſand Devils, for it is ſaid, They entred into them: All theſe agreed ſtill in one Project, they carried theſe Swine all of them headlong into the Sea; one Devil doth not carry one Swine one way, and another another way, but they entred into them, they all agreed to carry them headlong into the Sea.

And the reaſon why they are thus united, is this, becauſe they are united in one extrinſecal common end, which is to them the ſupreme end of all the reſt, to which they lay down all lower, particular, intrinſecal ends of their own, all Ambition in themſelves, or whatſoever elſe. The Devils are proud enough, yet their Serm. III. Hatred to God, and to Christ, and their Zeal to their own Kingdom, in the publick and general, is made their supreme end. Revenge against God is certainly their main Sin, as he that sins against the Holy-Ghost, having received the Sentence of Condemnation within himself, Revenge against God is his main Lust. Therefore they being united in this end, which is extra se, and concerneth the publick Cause of them all, (as I may call it) hence they lay aside all their lower ends, and they agree to attain that end. And therefore, tho they cause Divisions amongst Men, as they did between Abimelech, and the Men of Sichem, and so they do in Kingdoms; yet they all agree in this one end, of Hatred to God, and therefore in the putting of Men upon Sin, in the uttermost ways they can.

My Brethren, what should this teach us? (Give me leave to do that by the way, as I go.) Is there Union in Hell under one Prince, Satan? And shall there not be Union amongst Saints, under one Head, Christ Jesus, who have a nearer relation to Christ, not as a Prince only, but as a Head? The Devil is not properly a Head to these as Members. Our Saviour Christ, you know, prayed for his Disciples, and so for all others that are Saints, that they might be one, as he is one; and they shall certainly be one, one day. Shall not Christ now unite us more one to another, that are Saints, than our own Lusts and Corruptions should sever and divide? I said likewise, that among the Devils all lower ends fall down to the Publick, they are united in one end, extra se, out of themselves, for the advancement of their Kingdom; should it not be so amongst Saints? And therefore the Apostle, because the Saints agree in one common end, he saith, Tho' they differ in Opinions and Practices, (and he speaks in Matters of Worship,) one eateth, and another doth not, yet they both do it to the Lord. And certainly, my Brethren, when Men see them to aim at the same common end, the advancement of the Kingdom of Christ, (the great Substantials of it) Differences in matters of Opinion and Practice ought not to make any Disunion; it doth not in Hell it self. And likewise it should teach us to prefer the Publick Good to our private ends. The Devils, you see, prefer the publick Good (as I may call it) of their Kingdom, (for so it is to them) to their lower ends, tho they are proud enough. Therefore now, for the Safety of a Kingdom, for the Advancement of a Kingdom, of a Church, (and these are mighty things,) Men should let all their petty Ends bow, and vail, and not go about to hinder the carrying on of such a Work.

Fourthly; This Kingdom of theirs, and these Angels he speaks of, they have a great Power in them. They are therefore called, the 'Power of the Air; he doth not call them Angels or Spirits only, but 'Power. And elsewhere they are called Principalities and Powers: Ephes. 6. 12. We wrestle not, saith he, against Flesh and Blood: Alas! the Power of Kings, and Armies, and Men are nothing: 'But we fight against Principalities and Powers, against Spiritual Wickednesses; against Devils, that infinitely exceed all the Sons of Men. And the word is not only δυνάμις, Potentia physica, a physical Power, of Understanding, and Insinuation, &c. but it is ἐξουσία. it is Authority too. For his natural Power, Satan is called the Strong Man, Mat. 11. 29. A Lion, 1 Pet. 5. 8. of all Beasts the strongest, the fiercest. I will not insist much upon it: for their Authority, Principalities and Powers, and the word [Power] here includes both. The Consideration of this should teach us, (for I shall still make Meditations and Observations as I go along, that are useful and practical,) to depend upon our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and to be afraid, in respect of what Power Satan may have, to carry a Man on to Sin. They are not only Powers in themselves, but they are Power likewise; they all concur. Small things, if they all unite, have a great deal of Strength in them: Concordiâ parvæ res crescunt: But if Strength shall unite, what a Strength will it be! How should we therefore live by Faith upon the Lord Jesus Christ? We are weak Creatures of our selves, but in him we are strong. How should we walk fearful of being ensnared by Satan? How should we walk with all the Armor of God continually about us?

But they are not only Powers thus in respect of physical Power, but in respect of Authority. All Power is of God, and Satan's Power is of God, at least, by permission. He himself said, Luke 4. 6. that this World was delivered unto him, him, and therein he ſpake truth, it was indeed delivered to him, that is, by God's permiſſion; tho he lied in this, when he ſaid, I give the Kingdoms of the World to whomſoever I will: for that is God's Prerogative. Indeed he gave it to Antichriſt, (as I ſhall ſhew you anon) but it is God's ſole Prerogative, to give the Kingdoms of the World to whomſoever he will; ſo Dan. 4. But Satan had them by permiſſion, as Chriſt gave leave to the Devils to enter into the Swine; it is a word of permiſſion. Now he hath a kind of a propriety in wicked Men, whilſt they continue in his Kingdom. In Luke 11. 21, 22. a wicked Man is called, his own Houſe, and his own Goods; and they are ſaid to be his Captives, taken captive at his Will. And therefore ſome interpret that Place, when Chriſt did come to caſt thoſe Legions of Devils out of the Man, ſaith he, What have I to do with thee? That is, What hurt have I done thee? I am in this Man that I have poſſeſs'd, I poſſeſs but my own, and this is my Caſtle, why ſhouldeſt thou come to torment me before my Time? Am I not in mine own? And he hath them by Conqueſt, 2 Pet. 2. 19. Of whom a Man is overcome, of him he is brought in Bondage. And God hath permitted him to have all this Power, and to have ſo long poſſeſſion of it, as he hath had in the World; for if he had not ſuffered this great Enemy to be ſet up, his Son's Kingdom had not been ſo glorious in the overthrowing of it, as it will be.

Now, my Brethren, ſee the Mercy of God, in freeing and delivering thoſe from this Power, whom he hath tranſlated into the Kingdom of his Son. Our Saviour Chriſt, he hath redeemed us, not that the Price was paid to Satan, but to God; for ſo he hath pull'd us from the Power of Darkneſs by Redemption, Col. 1. 13. And how doth he do it? By being in ſome reſpects ſubject to the Power of Satan. You know the Expreſſion Chriſt hath, Luke 22. 3. This is your Hour, and the Power of Darkneſs: That is, by your means, you Jews, to whom God hath given this Hour, (for wicked Men have but an Hour, the Saints of God ſhall have the Day of it); the Devil, who is the Prince of Darkneſs, and is that great Power of Darkneſs, (as you may ſee, by comparing this with that Col. 1. 13. where, by Power of Darkneſs, the Devil's Kingdom is intended,) cometh thus to have a power over me, to crucify me, to kill me, which is the thing he aims at. Now Jeſus Chriſt, being in this reſpect ſubject to the Power of Satan, (for otherwiſe he was not ſubject, The Prince of this World cometh, ſaith he, and hath nothing in me; nothing in him, to tempt him, or to ſubdue him that way, but it was the Devil's Plot to have him crucified, and he ſtirred up the Romans, and Pilate, and all theſe Jews, for the crucifying of him, and he ſubjected himſelf ſo far to the Will of Satan,) and by this he hath delivered us out of the Power of Darkneſs. Yea, tho his Kingdom is thus great, God uſeth poor Fleſh and Blood, Men, we that pray and preach, to overcome him, and we do it. In Rev. 12. There was War in Heaven, Michael, and his Angels, fought againſt the Dragon; and the Dragon fought, and his Angels, and prevailed not. By Michael's Angels, are not meant only the Angels of Heaven, but Men, the Saints on Earth too; Why? becauſe at the 11*th* Verſe, it is ſaid, They overcame him by the Blood of the Lamb, which cannot be meant of the Angels: And they loved not their Lives unto the Death; that is, they gave away that part of their Lives to Death that was to come, and by this they overcame the Devil.

The laſt thing that is here, is the Place of this Prince's Dominion, the Air: He is Prince of the Power of the Air. The Denomination of Kingdoms is from the Place where themſelves and their Subjects live, and by Air, is meant this elementary, this ſublunary World, and eſpecially the Airy part of it, the Interſtitium between Heaven and Earth.

Heſiod, ſpeaking of the Devils, ſaith, Being cloathed with Air, they run up and down. It is the place where they are. And if the Devil appear, all his Workmanſhip, his Apparitions, his Viſions, is Air condenſed. He took Chriſt up into an exceeding high Mountain, why there? that he might in the Air make a brave proſpect of all the Kingdoms of the World, for it was done by an outward Viſion, all his Power lies there. Some have thought, there might be an alluſion to it, when he is called Beelzebub, the God of Flies; for the Air is as full of them, as of Flies in the Summer. Sure we are, they are called, the Fowls of the Air, Luke 8. 5. & 12 verſ. compared. There is a Story reported by Frantzius, of a holy Man in Germany, that that Night that the great Maſſacre was in France, he knowing nothing thereof, he ſaith, he ſaw Spirits in the Air; and therefore certainly, ſaith he, there is ſome great thing done in the World this night. My Brethren, there is ſuch an Affinity between Air and Spirits, that the good Angels, tho they are not called the Powers of the Air, for Heaven is their Place, and they are thoſe that behold the Face of God; yet when they come down to miniſter, they are compared to the Meteors of the Air, as it is a good Obſervation of Cameron, upon Heb. 1. 6. In Pſal. 104. 4. He makes his Angels Spirits, and his Miniſters Flames of Fire. He ſpeaks both of Angels, ſaith he, and he ſpeaks of Meteors in the Air, Winds, and Flames of Fire, that are in the Air; for the Motion of Angels, it is as Lightning, which is the neareſt thing to compare them to. That he ſpeaks there of Meteors, it is clear, becauſe he ſpeaks of the Works of God in the Elementary World, which in Heb. 1. he applies to the good Angels, namely, then when they are in the Air, ſent forth as miniſtring Spirits, to miniſter for them, who ſhall be Heirs of Salvation. But now, tho they are as Meteors in the Air, for he compares them to Wind, ſent up and down by God, and to Flames of Fire; yet that is not their place: But take theſe bad Angels, as they are as Wind, as Meteors in the Air, ſo the Air is their proper Place, or at leaſt, that Place which their Kingdom is in; therefore now if they do not poſſeſs Mens Bodies, or the like, they fly up and down in the Air. It is the Prince of the Power of the Air.

the

Serm. III.

There is a great Diſpute, and I confeſs I am yet exceeding doubtful, and know not well how to determine it, and that is this: Whether yea or no, the ordinary Place for theſe Devils be Hell, the Abyſſus, the Deep, as 'tis called, which certainly is a differing Place from the Air; for when they were here in the Air in this World, they deſired that they might not be thrown into the Deep, that is, into Hell, into the Abyſſus, which is put for Hell, Rev. 20. 3. where it is ſaid, the Devil was taken, and caſt into Abyſſus; it is the ſame word that is uſed in Mark 9. Whether, I ſay, that the ordinary Place for their Abode is to be in Hell; but by way of Liberty only, now and then for tentation, or the like, as God is pleaſed to let them out, they are in the Aire, (for whilſt they are in the Air, they cannot be in this Abyſſus, for the reaſon I now mentioned)? Or whether yea or no, that the ordinary Seat of them is the Air, and that therefore they are called the Spirits of the Power of the Air? I ſay, it is a very hard thing to determine, becauſe indeed the Scriptures do ſeem to ſpeak both one way, and another way; and how to reconcile them perfectly, for my part, I confeſs I fully know not. For in 2 Pet. 2. 4. it is ſaid, That he ſpared not the Angels that ſinned, but caſt them down to Hell, and delivered them into Chains of Darkneſs, to be reſerved unto Judgment: And ſo in Jude, verſ. 6. He hath reſerved them in everlaſting Chains, under Darkneſs, unto the Judgment of the Great Day. Yet on the other ſide, ſay the Devils unto Chriſt, Art thou come to torment us before our time? As having the Day of Judgment in their eye. They knew not indeed when the Day of Judgment ſhould be, yet they knew it was not yet. And they adjured Chriſt by his Truth and Faithfulneſs: I adjure thee by God, ſaith he, that thou torment me not; that is, I adjure thee by that Righteouſneſs, and Faithfulneſs of God, who, in his ſentencing of us to Condemnation, hath given us time till the Day of Judgment, that thou torment us not now: For Chriſt being the Son of God, they knew not but that he might ſhew his Pverogative upon thoſe (themſelves being but a few) Devils that were there, which makes them therefore ſo ſubmiſſive. The Scriptures therefore looking thus to both ways, I ſay, it is exceeding hard to determine: I only refer you to what Mr. Meade hath written in his Diatribe, where he handles both that Place in Peter, and that in Jude: And he ſaith, that the word in Peter, He hath caſt them down to Hell, doth not neceſſarily ſignify a preſent throwing them down to Hell, but a judging of them to Hell: And ſo, they are reſerved in Chains to the Day of Judgment; that is, in the mean ſeaſon he lets them be in the Air. As we ſay of a Judg, when he condemns a Man to be hanged, that he hath hanged the Man, tho the Man be not hanged a long time after: So God judged them unto Hell, and impreſt upon their Conſciences a receiving of Judgment, and an everlaſting Sentence of Condem-

Condemnation, which they ſhall never be freed from. Therefore the Devil, you ſee, when he prayed unto Chriſt, Mark 9. (for the Devil prayed then, as wicked Men do, when their Conſciences are fired,) he prayed, not that they might be kept from Torment altogether, but that they might not be tormented afore their time. The truth is, that both may ſtand. I will give you but that Reconciliation, which I have had in my thoughts, that's this: That their Kingdom is only in the Air, and when they are thrown into Hell by God, (as it may be, ſometimes ſome of them are at his pleaſure,) then they are not in their Kingdom. If the great Devil be thrown into Hell, his Power ceaſeth; for the Devils do not torment one another, nor wicked Souls at preſent: for how is it ſaid, that the Fire is prepared for the Devil and his Angels? Therefore, tho they may be ſometimes in Hell, and let looſe again, to rove up and down here below, (as God ſometimes lets them looſe) carrying their Chains about them; yet notwithſtanding their Kingdom is only in the Air; and altho, I ſay, they are thrown into Hell ſometime, yet they may be let looſe again. You have a clear place for that, Rev. 20. 3. It is ſaid there, that Satan was ſeal'd up in the bottomleſs Pit, for a thouſand years, becauſe God, during that glorious Time of a thouſand years, would not have the Saints tormented; and afterwards he is let looſe again, till at laſt he is caſt into that Lake, where he is chain'd down for ever. And certainly, my Brethren, let him now go up and down in the Air, he carrieth his Chain with him, that is, a Chain of Guilt, and his Hell is about him. The place is clear, Jam. 3. 6. The Tongue, ſaith he, is ſet on fire of Hell, that is, of the Devil, who is called Hell, not only as being condemned to Hell, but as carrying Hell about him. There is a Chain that chains them to Hell, that they cannot come out; and if that by permiſſion they are let out at any time, they are in Chains ſtill. As Men ſentenced to death, have Chains put upon them, and where ever they go, they carry thoſe Chains along with them: ſo God judged, ſentenced the Devils unto Hell; and when they were caſt to Hell, that is, judged to Hell, he clapp'd Chains upon them, which they carry up and down with them where ever they are. And this likewiſe is certain, that they are not in their full Torment. It is ſaid, that they do now believe and tremble, tremble at what is to come; and they ſay, Do not torment us afore the time; and there is a Reſerve, They are reſerved, ſaith the Apoſtle: And in 2 Pet. 2. 9. as wicked Men are ſaid to be reſerved unto the Day of Judgment: ſo they are ſaid likewiſe to be reſerved unto the Great Day. Therefore they are not in full Torment, there is a reſervation of a great deal yet to come.

Serm. III.

The reaſon why they are thus permitted to be in the Air, and are not in full Torment, is this: Becauſe his Miniſtry is, to work in the Children of Diſobedience, that is, that which God permits him to do, which we may ſay is his Miniſtry deſigned him by God. Now he being deſigned to work, (as the Text ſaith, he works in the Children of Diſobedience,) of neceſſity he muſt be in the Air, for if he were in Hell, he could not work at ſuch a diſtance. It is proper to Chriſt, who is the King and Head of his Church, (tho in Heaven) to work in a Man's Heart here upon Earth, Satan cannot do the like; therefore to the end he may work upon Men, he is in the Air: And therefore to be in the Air, and to work in the Children of Diſobedience, are equivalent.

And then again, If he were in full Torment, it is certain likewiſe he could not be buſy to tempt; and the reaſon is clear, for the fulneſs of God's Wrath, which Men ſhall have in Hell, takes up all the Intention; inſomuch, as ſome Divines ſay, that therefore there is no ſinning in an active way in Hell, becauſe they are only Sufferers, (I remember, it is a Notion that Parker hath in his Deſcenſion into Hell,) the Wrath of God would diſtract the Creature, when it cometh in the fulneſs of it. Now the Devil hath all his Wits about him, all his Wiles, all his Methods; therefore certainly they are not in full Torment.

And likewiſe, if they had not eaſe, yea, a pleaſure in Wickedneſs in ſome reſpect, they would not be ſo buſy; for they have Luſts and Deſires, The Luſts of your Father, the Devil, (ſaith Chriſt) ye will do. Now then, when they have put Men upon what they do deſire, there is a ſatisfaction of their Luſts, and there is in ſome reſpects ſome pleaſure ariſing, that ſets them on work. And this may ſeem to be one difference between the Place of Mens Souls departed, that go to Hell, that are in a place of Torment, as it is called, Luke 16. and the Devil's Place; God having not appointed them a Miniſtry, to work in the Children of Diſobedience, as he hath done the Devils; hence therefore they are in Torment, in that Torment, tho not ſuch as ſhall be, when Soul and Body are joined together. Therefore now they do not, tho ſin, yet they do it not de merito, they ſhall not anſwer for all that which is done in Hell; the Text is clear in that of the Corinthians, To anſwer for what is done in the Body, ſaith he. But now the Devils, they being appointed a Miniſtry, having liberty to be, not in the Deep always, but in the Air, and in a reſpect having ſome eaſe, hence therefore they go on de merito. Why elſe are the Angels ſaid to be judged? (you know it is ſaid, the Saints ſhall judg the Angels,) what! only for the firſt great Sin, and not for their putting Men upon all the Sins ſince? Then one Man would have more Sins than the great Devil, if the Devil were to be judged only for that firſt great Sin. They ſhall be judged, I ſay, for what they have done, from the very firſt Sin they committed. And tho they are in termino, that is, they are not in via, in reſpect of the Sentence of Condemnation it ſelf; yet notwithſtanding in reſpect of eaſe they are in the way, and in termino only in reſpect of the Sentence. And as thoſe that ſin againſt the Holy-Ghoſt, and have received the Sentence of Condemnation in themſelves, they are in that reſpect in Hell, as well as the Devils; yet becauſe they are but in the Frontiers of it, they have but the firſt fruits, not the fulneſs of Torment: therefore they go on ſtill de merito, adding Guilt to Guilt, and ſo do the Devils too.

Serm. III.

Now, my Brethren, to conclude this Diſcourſe concerning Satan, and his Kingdom, with ſumming up to you, ſhortly and briefly, the Greatneſs of this Kingdom of his. His Kingdom, you ſee,

1. For the Form of it, it is a Monarchy: He is the Prince of the Power of the Air.

2. For the Subjects of it: As Chriſt hath for his Subjects, Things viſible, and inviſible, things in Heaven, and things in Earth, Col. 1. 18. So this great Devil, he hath for Subjects of this Kingdom, things inviſible; his own natural Complices, of the like nature with him, they are called here, the Power of the Air; and he hath things viſible, the Children of Diſobedience, which are his Slaves, which he hath overcome, namely, the Sons of Men.

3, For the Multitude of his Subjects, he hath more than Chriſt by far: of Mankind we are ſure, what of Angels we know not. He is the great and Catholick King, he hath had all the World; you ſee, the World and the Devil go together in the Text; and he that walketh according to the World, walketh according to Satan; and, Rev. 12. 9. he is ſaid to be the Dragon, that had deceived the whole World.

4. It is ſuch a Kingdom, as doth not conſiſt only in outward Command, but comes in that ſomewhat near the Kingdom of Chriſt; for he works inwardly: So ſaith the Text here, he works in the Children of Diſobedience; he doth it inviſibly. Only, I ſay, he is not a Head, he hath not that Influence Chriſt hath; but Influence he hath, by inſinuating himſelf into Men's Spirits, he works in them, which no Monarch can do, nor which all his Agents can do.

5. For his Succeſs which he aims at, which is, to carry Men on to Sin, the Text ſaith, he works in them, that is, he works effectually in them.

6. For continuance of Time, as I ſaid afore, he had the ſtart of Chriſt in this World, for he had poſſeſſion of all Mankind, and he thought he had them all under Lock and Key; for that which bringeth every Man into the World, made him a Child of the Devil.

7. He hath given place to none, as other Princes do; nay, he himſelf was worſhipped in the World, not as King only, but as a God. And therefore, in Rev. 12. it is ſaid, that he and his Angels were in Heaven; why? becauſe they were worſhipped as Gods: And he was caſt out into the Earth, and his Angels were caſt out with him. When Conſtantine turned Chriſtian, all the World turned Chriſtian too; then all his Devils were thrown down, from having that Worſhip as they always had before.

But,

Serm. III.

But, my Brethren, when he ceas'd to be a God, he ſtill being the Prince of this World, that he might imitate God, who hath ſet up his Son Jeſus Chriſt, he likewiſe hath ſet up his Son, Antichriſt, the Beaſt of Rome, whoſe Kingdom and the Devil's are in many things juſt alike. I remember, I ſhewed you, when I handled thoſe Particulars mentioned in the 20 & 21 Verſes of the firſt Chapter, a Parallel between the Pride of the Devil, and the Pride of the Pope, in taking upon him to be as Chriſt, and that Parallel held a great way in all thoſe Particulars. Now let us parallel the Devil's Kingdom, and Antichriſt's Kingdom: For the Devil told our Saviour Chriſt, that he had power to give the World to whom he would; and God did give him power to raiſe up one King, and the greateſt Kingdom that ever was; for that State of Rome, whereof the Pope is the Head, is the greateſt Kingdom, and hath been of longeſt continuance of any other. In Rev. 14. when the Devil himſelf was caſt out from being God of the World, he takes up another Plot, and the Text ſaith, verſ. 2. That the Dragon did give the Beaſt his Power, and his Seat, and great Authority. All Power of Kings and Magiſtrates, it is of God, Rom. 13. But the truth is, Antichriſt's Kingdom, and all his Hierarchy, it is of the Devil; he raiſed him up in imitation of Chriſt; he is the eldeſt Son of Satan, as Chriſt is the eldeſt Son of God: And when himſelf could not keep his Kingdom any longer, as he had done, to be immediatly worſhipped, then he ſets up the Pope, (the greateſt Cheat that ever was in the World) a Son of his own raiſing, after whom the whole World ran a wondering.

Now as the Devil hath two ſorts of Subjects, his natural Subjects of his own kind, the Angels, his Fellow-Peers; and Men, which are his Slaves: ſo hath the Pope. Therefore in Rev. 13. you find two Beaſts; one (in the 11*th* Verſe) ariſing with two Horns like a Lamb, that is, the Pope and his Clergy, thoſe evil Angels, (for Miniſters ſhould be Angels) there is his Eccleſiaſtical Power. And then he is the Head of the Kings of the Earth, there is his ſecular Power. He hath a double Power under him, a double Body, even as the Devil here hath. And, my Brethren, they are ordered to fall together. When the Vial was poured out upon the Air, Rev. 16. which is the whole univerſal Power of the Devil, it is ſaid, that Babylon came up into remembrance before God: And, Rev. 19, 20. it is ſaid, The Beaſt was caſt into the Lake, which burneth with Fire and Brimſtone. There is the Beaſt that goes into the Lake, the Devil goes after him, Rev. 20. 10. The Devil, that deceived the World, was caſt into the Lake of Fire and Brimſtone, where the Beaſt, and the falſe Prophet were. But in the mean time, tho the Devil be a King, yet he is a miſerable King, for his very Kingdom is his Priſon: if he could break through the Heavens, and run away from God, he would; but he cannot, he is under Chains, and he is under Torment likewiſe, tho not in fulneſs of Torment.

And, my Brethren, to make an Obſervation or two upon it:

He is but the Prince of the Air, firſt; but our Lord and Saviour Chriſt, he is the Prince in Heaven, his Throne is in Heaven, as the firſt to the Hebrews hath it, and Eph. 1. 19, 20. And Jeſus Chriſt is our Interceſſor, and our Prayers go to Heaven, the Devil cannot meddle with them, he cannot intercept them, tho he be Prince in the Air; the Holy-Ghoſt carries them up; he holds (as I may ſay) one hand in our Heart, and another in Chriſt's: Nay, not only Chriſt is in Heaven, and the Devil but in the Air, but we are ſet in heavenly Places with Chriſt, Epheſ. 2. 6. Therefore, as the Apoſtle ſaith, what ſhall ſeparate us from the Love of God? Shall Principalities, or Powers, good Angels, or bad?

You may obſerve likewiſe, That Satan hath no Kingdom, when the Air ſhall ceaſe, when this World ſhall be at an end. Jeſus Chriſt will put down all Power and Rule, and God will be all in all, that is, he will be all in Heaven, and all in Hell too, every way he will be all.

My Brethren, fear not this Prince of the Air; for Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, when he aſcended into Heaven, he went through this Air, this Kingdom of the Devils, and ſpoiled theſe Principalities and Powers, (that is, virtually,) he took their

Serm. III.

Kingdom from them; and himſelf, a Man, went to Heaven perſonally in the ſight of them all, leading them all captive in triumph at his Chariot, And, as a Father well ſaith, he purified the Air, as he went, of theſe unclean Spirits; that is, by virtue of this Aſcenſion of his he hath ſo triumphed over them, that they ſhall never do his People hurt, nor ever keep their Souls from Heaven.

I have thus largely opened to you the Kingdom of Satan, as theſe words hold it forth, for I have kept punctually to them, and that becauſe the Apoſtle intended to ſet out this Kingdom here in oppoſition to the Kingdom of Chriſt, which he had deſcribed in the 19*th* and 20*th* Verſes of the former Chapter.

I ſhould likewiſe ſhew you, how he is a Cauſe of Sin, and how all wicked Men walk according to this Prince, and how this Prince worketh in them, as being Children of Diſobedience: But that I reſerve for the next Diſcourſe.

SERM.

SERMON IV.

EPHES. 2. 2.

---- According to the Prince of the Power of the Air, the Spirit that now worketh in the Children of Diſobedience.

THE Apoſtle's Scope in general is, to ſet forth the Miſery of all unregenerate Men, brought home to theſe Epheſians by way of Application, yet ſo as every Man in his natural Condition may ſee his own Eſtate by it. Men walk in Sin, whilſt they are unregenerate, (In which ye walked, ſaith he,) and they have three Guides: They have the World, According to the Courſe of this Word; they have the Devil, According to the Prince of the Power of the Air, &c. And laſt of all, The Fleſh, our own corrupt Hearts.

In opening of theſe words, as they relate to the Apoſtle's Scope, I reduced them to theſe three Heads:

The firſt is, That Satan hath a Kingdom oppoſite unto Chriſt's, which the Apoſtle therefore a little enlargeth upon in theſe words, he is the Prince of the Power of the Air; having in his eye, to deſcribe Satan's Kingdom in oppoſition to that Kingdom of Chriſt's, which he had held forth in two or three Verſes afore, namely, in verſ. 20, 21, of the former Chapter.

The ſecond is, That all Men in the State of Unregeneracy, are Subjects of that Kingdom, and of that Prince, and do live accordingly. And that is imported in the coherence of theſe words, In which ye walked, according to the Prince of the Power of the Air, &c.

The third is, What his Power over theſe his Subjects is? It is more intrinſecal, by working in them; he is the Prince of a Spirit that worketh in them.

I may add this in the fourth place, Becauſe that the working of this Spirit is in them, and ſo to demonſtrate unto Men, that all carnal Men are under the Power of Satan, there had need be ſome evidence of it, therefore the Apoſtle addeth, That worketh now in the Children of Diſobedience. He points to ſome more eminent Children of Diſobedience, in whom apparently, to the eyes of theſe Epheſians, or of any Man enlightned by the Holy-Ghoſt, the Spirit of the Devil doth appear: And, ſaith he, ye all had your Converſation among theſe, and you were under his Power more or leſs, as every unregenerate Man is.

I have diſpatched the firſt, the Deſcription of the Kingdom of Satan, as it is held forth in theſe Words. I come now to the ſecond, (repeating nothing of what I have ſaid) and the ſum of it is this, That all unregenerate Men are Subjects of this Kingdom, or this Prince; which, I ſay, is imported in theſe words, In which ye walked, (viz. when ye were unregenerate) according to the Prince of the Power of the Air. In that they are ſaid to walk after this Prince, or according to this Prince, it importeth him to be their Prince, according to whoſe will they live.

I will open the Phraſe a little, and then I will give you ſuch Obſervations, as ſhall be both to explain the thing further, and to quicken our Hearts.

How are unregenerate Men ſaid to walk according to the Prince of the Power of the Air? or according to Satan, as their Prince?

In the firſt place, Men are ſaid to walk after their Prince, when they walk after his example; Regis ad exemplum, after the example of the Prince, the whole Kingdom follows.

Serm. IV.

If it be said, that the Devil's Example is not visible, therefore that cannot be the meaning of it, that they walked after the Prince of the Power of the Air, that is, after his example: My Brethren, it is true, his Example is not visible, and Men do not de industria imitate this Devil; yet notwithstanding, whilst they do the same Works, that the Devil himself, if he were incarnate, or supposing him to be cloathed with Flesh and Blood, and that he were to live in this World, and to be conversant amongst Men, as one Man is with another, according to the Laws of humane Kind; if, I say, they walk so as he would walk, supposing him such, so long they may be said to walk after his Example: they do by his Instinct the same things he would do. There is a notable Place for this, in John 8. 44. You are (saith Christ, speaking to the Jews,) of your Father, the Devil; and the Lusts of your Father you will do: Yea, at the 39*th* Verse, saith he, If you were Abraham's Children, you would do the Works of Abraham. They pretended to be Abraham's Children, and they pretended to do the Works of Abraham; but Christ tells them, they were of their Father, the Devil, and that they did his Works. At the 38*th* Verse, saith he, I speak that which I have seen with my Father, and ye do that which ye have seen with your Father, meaning the Devil. A strange Parallel this! It is certain, that our Saviour Christ did do what he saw with his Father; for the Father doth nothing but what he sheweth the Son, as he saith, John 5. Yea, but, saith he, altho you do not visibly see what the Devil doth, yet you do the same things, as if you had conversed with him, and been acquainted with him, as if you had seen him, as Children see their Fathers. This is his Scope: The Lusts of your Father ye will do, saith he; and as I do that which I have seen with my Father, so ye do that which ye have seen with your Father. Abraham walked before God, and was upright, as eying God in all things: Wicked Men indeed do not walk thus before Satan, as eying him; yet they walk in the same steps, as if they saw what the Devil doth, and what he would do.

Then again, in the second place, they are said to walk after the Prince of the Power of the Air, not only because materially they do the same things the Devil doth, and would do; but because they satisfy his Lusts, and his Will over them, in all that they do. The Lusts, saith he, of your Father ye will do, vers. 44. You do not only the same things which he doth, but which he desires you should do; and so you do gratify him in all that you do, and you fulfill his pleasure more than you do your own. They are not said to fulfill their own Lusts, so much as the Lusts of their Father, the Devil

And then, in the third place: Not only they do what he would have them do, but they do it after a commanding Power of his. A Friend may do what a Friend desires; but yet he doth not walk after him as a Prince: but now all carnal Men in the World, they do walk after Satan, as their Prince; they do not only what he desireth they should do, but he hath a commanding Power over them, (for that being a Prince evidently implies.) And therefore, in 2 Tim. 2. ult. they are said to be taken captive at his Will: And in Acts 26. when Men are converted, they are said to be delivered, to be turned from the Power of Satan.

And so now you have the Phrase opened, What it is to walk after the Prince of the Power of the Air? I only add this, because he speaks chiefly of the great Devil: He doth not immediatly command in all Mens Hearts, (for it is impossible he should) as Christ doth; therefore Christ is called a Head, as well as a Prince, so is not Satan: Yet he sends out lesser Devils, that do command in Men's Hearts. As suppose there were those here in England, that should act all the King of Spain's Counsels, or the Pope's Counsels, and what he commandeth; tho what is done here is not immediatly done by either of these; yet if it be done by those Agents that are sent out by the King of Spain, or by those Emissaries that are sent out from Rome, they may be said to walk after their Prince, or to walk after the Beast; those, I mean, that do obey their directions: So it is here.

I come now to some Observations, that will further open the words.

The

Serm. IV.

Obſerv. 1.

The firſt Obſervation is this, That this great Kingdom of Satan's eſpecially lies, for the matter of it, in Sin. It's clear out of the coherence; Ye were dead (ſaith the Apoſtle) in ſins and treſpaſſes, in which ye walked according to the Prince of the power of the Air. His Princedom therefore lies in matter of Sin; and Men are ſubject to him, as to a Prince, chiefly as they walk in Sin. As the Kingdom of Chriſt conſiſteth not in Meat and Drink, but in Righteouſneſs and Peace, and Joy in the Holy Ghoſt: So Satan's kingdom lies not in diſpoſing of Riches or Honours, ſimply ſo conſidered, further than in order ſome way to the advancing of his own Kingdom, and as Men ſin in the purſuit of them. It was a lye the Devil told Chriſt, when he ſaid he had all the Kingdoms of the World to diſpoſe of; that's proper only to God, as you have the expreſſion in *Dan.*4. 21. But now as the Pope pretends to a Spiritual Power, and ſaith he hath power in Temporals in ordine ad ſpiritualia, in order unto Spirituals; ſo the Devil, and theſe Rulers of the World, they are Spiritual Wickedneſſes, as they are called, *Epheſ.*6. but yet in order to advance this their Spiritual Kingdom of Sin, they do deal in the great Affairs of the World, and in turning things up and down: but yet ſtill, I ſay, their Kingdom properly, the object matter of it, lies in matter of Sin; and therefore in Eph. 6. 12. if you mark it, they are ſaid to be the Rulers of the World, of this Darkneſs, (ſo the words are to be read) that is, they are Rulers only of the Darkneſs of the World, that is, the Sin of the World. And were it not for Sin, they ſhould have no power over Men. The Prince of this World cometh, ſaith Chriſt, and he hath nothing in Me; (becauſe Chriſt had no Sin.) Satan's Kingdom doth not lie hereafter to torment men, for then we might fear him; Fear him that can caſt both Body and Soul into Hell. Torment, the puniſhment of Sin in Hell, is God's work; but the Devil's proper work is Sin.

Now, my Brethren, it is thus, both in Satan's intention, and in his conſtant courſe to this day: when he firſt ſet up his Kingdom, he did not aim ſo much to have the diſpoſure of all the Honours and Glory in the World (though in order to advance his Kingdom he hath done it, and he hath had it) but his principal aim was to ſet Sin up in the World againſt God: therefore, in 1 John 3. 8. Sin is called the work of the Devil; that is, it is his great Project, his great Deſign. And the Apoſtle ſpeaks there of Satan's Kingdom in Men's Hearts: for he ſaith, that Chriſt came to diſſolve the work of the Devil, therefore not in his own heart, but in Men's. Every Kingdom, you know, hath an Intereſt of State; and if Men be true to their Intereſt, they follow it cloſe, and purſue that above all things elſe: Why the Intereſt of State that is in Satan's Kingdom is to advance Sin: Therefore while you walk in Sin, you walk according to the Prince of the power of the Air.

There is this difference between us poor men, that are by nature the Captives of this great Prince, and the Prince himſelf: We are gulled the moſt extremely that can be; our deſign is, to have Riches, Honours, and Pleaſures here in the World: we do not aim to ſin (unleſs it be ſuch as have ſinn'd againſt the holy-Ghoſt) we would be glad to have theſe things without ſin: But becauſe we aim at theſe things, and cannot attain them without Sin, therefore it is that we ſin. But it is otherwiſe with Satan; for to have Men ſin againſt God is his great deſign; it is the Kingdom that he hath ſet up. Therefore now we are like a company of poor ſilly Rebels, that are led into the field by an arch Traitor, and ſome go for Plunder and Spoil; but he goes to vex his Prince, to oppoſe him, to rebel againſt him. And that's the great Deſign of this great Monarch the Devil.

Now, my Brethren, the Meditation that you may have for your uſe from hence is this, and it is next to the Glory of God and the Diſhonour of God, the greateſt Conſideration can be had in the World to deter a Man from Sin, conſider but this; That by ſinning ye do pleaſure the Devil ten thouſand times more than your ſelves. Therefore ſaith Chriſt, his luſts ye will do; and when ye do his luſts, that which he would have you do, you give him ſatisfaction, you bring him in pleaſure, you advance his kingdom. It is the motive that John uſeth why Men ſhould not ſin; Sin, ſaith he, is the Devil's work, and will you advance his deſign? 1 John 3. 8. If you mark the Coherence, it is clearly ſo. And it is the work of Chriſt to diſſolve Sin; He hath appeared (ſaith he) to diſſolve the work of the Devil, in the ſame place. So that now, as Chriſt's Kingdom and his Power lies, and the intent of it is to diſſolve Sin; ſo the Devil's kingdom, and his aim is to ſet up Sin. All his comings-in are by Men's ſinnings. It is not Man's end to ſin, but it is Satan's. Nay, my Brethren, let me ſay this unto you, That Satan doth not aim ſo much at your Damnation, as he doth aim you ſhould ſin, tho he aims at your Damnation too: for, he hates Man, but he hateth God more. In the damnation of the Creature, therein is God glorified; but in the ſin of the Creature, thereby God is diſhonoured, and thereby Satan is therefore the more gratified. And therefore we ſhould learn from hence this great Leſſon, To hate Sin more than Damnation: for it is certain the Devil himſelf is pleaſed more with your Sin, than with your Damnation, for he is the Prince of it; Walking in Sin (ſaith he) according to the Prince, &c.

his

Serm. IV.

A ſecond Obſervation, which will clear and explain what we are upon, is this; That only thoſe, and all thoſe that walk in Sin, be it the leaſt, they are Subjects unto Satan. In which ye walked according unto the Prince, &c. In 1 Joh. 3. 8, 9. the place I quoted even now, He that committeth Sin, is of the Devil; and being of the Devil, he is on the Devil's ſide, he is of his party; (that phraſe of Chriſt's interprets it, He that is not with me.) He that committeth Sin, is with the Devil; and ſo, he that walketh in it, the comforts of his life come in by it, makes a trade of it, be it the leaſt. And John gives this very reaſon, why every Man that committeth Sin thus, is of the Devil: for the Devil (ſaith he) ſinneth from the beginning. What is the meaning of that? He that continueth in any Sin, ſaith he, is of the Devil; becauſe that hath been the Devil's practice, it is that which makes him a Devil, his having ſinned from the beginning: not having ſinned at the beginning, but his continuing in Sin, going on in a conſtant courſe of it. And then again, he ſaith, He that is born of God, he hath a new Nature that cannot agree with it. But I add this reaſon to it alſo; becauſe if that Satan's Kingdom lies in Sin (as you heard before) then where Sin reigneth, Satan reigneth. The Caſe is clear; for if his Kingdom lieth in it, where that reigns, he muſt needs reign. And therefore to be ſervants of Sin, as in Rom. 6. 21. is all one and to be the ſervants of Satan: As to be the ſervants of Righteouſneſs (as you have it there) is all one, and to be Servants unto Chriſt. And therefore in Acts 26. 18. inſtead of ſaying, to turn Men from Sin unto God, you have it, to turn men from the power of Satan unto God: becauſe where Sin reigns, there Satan reigns.

There is this likewiſe may be added, to explain it: Satan's Kingdom, you ſee, lies in Sin: and the bounds of his Kingdom lie in the dominion of any Sin. And therefore now, although he doth not carry on all Men to all Sins, yet notwithſtanding, if Sin have but dominion in a Man, that he walketh in it, then Satan hath a dominion: tho he doth not carry Men on to all degrees of ſinning, yet ſtill his Kingdom is maintained in them, as concerning the Perſons that are the ſubjects of his Kingdom, they come within the bounds of it: for the bounds of Satan's Kingdom lie in this, when Sin reigneth, when Men walk in it, let it be any Sin, tho never ſo ſmall. The truth is, God doth not let Men be ſo wicked as Satan would have them: we muſt not underſtand it ſo, that Satan is ſuch a Prince that hath ſo his will, as whatſoever he would have Men do, they do: But he is ſuch a Prince, as having a company of diſcontented Rebels under him, he ſuffers them all to walk by their own Laws; yet look what is peculiarly the Law of his Kingdom or Commonwealth (for ſo I call every Man's heart) he holds them to that Law, he hath power to put them upon that Sin. He is a Tyrant, that hath not a Kingdom of one kind, as amongſt Men, but he hath variety of Dominions, ſome greater, ſome leſſer, for ſo I may call the Hearts of ſeveral Men unregenerate; yet ſtill, be it the ſmalleſt Sin, if a Man walks in it, he comes within the verge of his Kingdom, his Perſon is in his Kingdom, and in that ſnare the Devil takes him captive at his will, and ſo he is his Prince. My Brethren, Sin is the Devil's Vice-Roy, (He is the chief Prince indeed.) And tho it be but a petty Vice-Roy, it keeps the Devil's Tenure, and the Devil hath power according to the Common-Law God affords him, to put Men on to that Sin which their peculiar humour is addicted unto. And therefore Sin is called the Snare of the Devil (2 Tim. 2. 26.) in which Men are taken captive at his will. Now any one luſt is a Snare; and as a Bird that is taken in a Snare by the Fowler, (for the word here taken captive, is venatu capto, to take alive by hunting) the Bird may hang by one ſtring or cord, and he hath her by that at his will: ſo any one Sin (for corrupt nature venteth it ſelf in ſeveral Men ſeveral ways) is a Snare, and it is a ſnare of the Devil. You may ſee that in 1 Tim. 6. 9. He that will be rich, falleth into a Snare, when his Heart is ſet upon it; it holds in any Sin, inſtance in what you will. Serm. IV.

Men

The laſt Obſervation that I ſhall make is only this, which is the Apoſtle's ſcope alſo, The Miſery that all Unregenerate Men are in that walk in Sin. It is the Apoſtle's ſcope here, to ſtrike their Hearts with the depth of that Miſery which they lay in by nature; and to expreſs it to them, he ſhews they were ſubjects of that great Kingdom of Satan. My Brethren, let me ſpeak ſadly to all our Hearts, Every Man falls either under the Kingdom of Chriſt, or under the Kingdom of Satan; and we do this hour, this moment, actually ſtand Members either of the one or of the other; there is not a third Kingdom, as there is not a third place to go to. Our Saviour Chriſt, in Luke 11. 23. when he diſcourſed of Satan's Kingdom and of his own; of Satan's Kingdom, ver. 18. His Kingdom (ſaith He) is not divided againſt it ſelf; Of his own Kingdom, and of God's, ver. 10. If I with the Finger of God caſt out Devils, no doubt the Kingdom of God is come upon you. Here are two Kingdoms. Now ver. 23. he tells them plainly, every Man muſt fall to one of theſe Kingdoms, there is no neutrality; He that is not with me, is againſt me; and he that gathereth not with me, ſcattereth, he falleth to that Scatterer, he that is the great Deſtroyer, as he is called, *Rev.*9.11. As it is in War, you muſt take part either with the one ſide, or with the other, there muſt be no Neuters; ſo it is here, they are ſo engaged, and ſuch an irreconcileableneſs there is, that Men muſt fall, and they do fall one way or other. Obſerv. 3.

And let me add this further, That we were all born under Satan's Kingdom, is as certain, as that we are; and that till by an Almighty Power we are reſcued out of that Kingdom, and tranſlated into the Kingdom of his Son, we muſt remain in it, and we walk in it. Now therefore conſider with your ſelves, It is a matter of the greateſt happineſs, or unhappineſs of Men born into this World, under what Kingdom they are born, and are caſt to live. What an infinite Miſery is it to the poor Grecians, and their Children, to be born under the Tyranny of the Great Turk! and what a happineſs to be born in theſe Weſtern parts! for ſtill, the more Weſtern and Northward, the more Freedom have the Subjects, and the more Eaſtern, the more Tyranny. It is a matter of great concernment what King a Kingdom hath; Wo to thee, O Land, when thy King is a Child, Eccleſ. 10. 16. And, when the Wicked bear Rule, the People mourn, Prov.29.2. Now if God from Heaven ſhould curſe a Man, if Chriſt himſelf ſhould utter the greateſt Curſe that ever he uttered, what would that Curſe be? Let the Devil be his King, and let the Devil rule over him. You ſhall find in Scripture that it is thus; Pſal. 109. 6. Set thou a Wicked Man over him; the Septuagint renders it, Set That Wicked One over him, uſing the ſame word John uſeth in his firſt Epiſtle chap. 2. That Wicked One, the Devil; and ſaith he in the very next words in the Pſalm, Let Satan ſtand at his right hand; he is that wicked one; let him be both his Ruler to carry him on to Sin, and when he hath done, let him be his Accuſer too: for ſo always the Witneſſes that accuſed a Man, ſtood on his right hand; therefore in Zech. 2. 1. you reade, when Satan would accuſe Joſhua the High-Prieſt, he ſtood at his right-hand. Now, my Brethren, whoſe Curſe is this, and upon whom did it fall? It is the firſt Curſe in that Pſalm, in which the Prophet begins to curſe, that that ſame Wicked one ſhould be ſet in Office over him (as ſome tranſlate it) and that Satan ſhould ſtand at his right hand; that is, when he had carried him on to evil, then to accuſe him, and ſo deſtroy him body and ſoul; whoſe is this Curſe? My Brethren, plainly this Curſe is againſt Judas, and therefore is ſpoken in the Perſon of Chriſt. (And by the way I take it, you have no Pſalm that hath this kind of curſing in it, but it is David bearing the Type of Chriſt, or propheſying immediatly of Chriſt.) How do you prove that? Look into Act. 1. and you ſhall find that the very words of this Pſalm are applied to Judas, and that by the Apoſtle Peter; It is written in the Book of Pſalms (ſaith he) Let his Habitation be deſolate, and his Biſhoprick let another take, (the very next words in that 109*th* Pſalm) and ſo he goes on. Now that this did immediatly concern Judas, appears by this; for the Apoſtle in Act. 1. ſaith, that another Apoſtle was to be choſen in the room of Judas, which all the World could not have revealed, had not the Holy Ghoſt revealed, that his aim in this Pſalm was, perſonally to curſe Judas. And this Curſe is the Curſe of Jeſus Chriſt, who is able to curſe: when Chriſt from Heaven would curſe a Man, ſet the Devil over him, ſaith he; and it was fulfilled, the Scripture ſaith, Satan entred into Judas. As the Swine, when the Devils entred into them, were carried headlong into the Sea: So Judas fell headlong, ſaith Acts 1. 18. And he carried him on to hang himſelf; for after he had been his Ruler, to carry him on to Sin, then he was his Accuſer to God; and he never left, until he had a Commiſſion from God, to tempt him to undo himſelf. You ſee, my Brethren, that the heavieſt Curſe, that Chriſt himſelf from Heaven pronounceth againſt his great Enemy, he that was a Traytor to him, that delivered him up to be crucified, it is this, that the Devil ſhould rule over him.

this

Serm. IV.

Will you now but conſider in a word or two, what a King you have. Alas! in being a Servant of Sin, Sin is but a moral King, a metaphorical King; but the Devil is a real King, a perſonal King, a Creature ſubſiſting and exiſting as your ſelves: therefore we are ſaid to be taken captive at his Will. He hath an Underſtanding, and a Will, and out of that Underſtanding he rules and guides thee, as one reaſonable Creature rules and guides another. And what art thou but a poor Captive? Thou haſt but a little of thy Will, he hath his Will; thou art but taken captive, like the Ox that goes to the Slaughter, or as a Bird that haſteth to the Snare, and knoweth not that it is for his Life, as Solomon ſpeaks. Do but conſider with your ſelves, (for, as I ſaid afore, this is certain, tho we hear not the Devil, or ſee him, or feel him; yet whilſt we lie in the State of Nature, or walk in the leaſt Sin, the Devil is our Prince, and he ſerves his Turn upon us,) conſider, I ſay, we are all Men, and Man is a noble Creature, he ſcorns to be led captive; why thou art led captive by Satan: Ye were carried away, (as the Apoſtle ſaith, 1 Cor, 12. 2.) unto dumb Idols, according as ye were led. And thou art deceived and gull'd by it, for thou haſt but a petty Project in ſinning, he hath the greateſt deſign in the World, he acts another part, his deſign is, to ſet up Sin againſt God directly and immediatly; poor Creatures, that is not our deſign immediatly. Therefore he is ſaid, to deceive the Nations, Rev. 20. And he deceived Eve, 2 Cor. 11. 3. Now Man, as he ſcorns to be led, ſo of all things elſe he ſcorns to be deceived. There was never ſuch a Gull put upon the World as this; therefore it is ſaid, the Myſtery of Iniquity wrought. They that brought in Popery, knew not themſelves what they did; but the Devil knew, he deſigned it, it wrought in a Myſtery. So now the Myſtery of Iniquity works in all Men, and the truth is, they do not know the bottom of it, the depths of Satan in it, they do not know the bottom of the deſign. And as we are thus deceived, ſo we ſerve one of another Nature. It was a Law in Iſrael, that they ſhould not have a King that was a Stranger, one of another Nation, but that they ſhould chuſe one from among their Brethren to be their King, Deut. 17. 15. Why Satan is not a Prince of your own Nature, he is not of Fleſh and Blood: We fight not with Fleſh and Blood, ſaith the Apoſtle, but with ſpiritual Wickedneſſes. It is therefore to us poor Men, (as I may ſo compare it) juſt ſuch a Bondage as the Iſraelites were in under Pharaoh: Pharaoh was King over his Egyptians, they were his natural Subjects, they had a comfortable Life under him, as the natural Turks have under the Great Turk; but we are like the Iſraelites, whom he made to ſerve with rigor, or as the poor Grecians, and other Chriſtians, that are Slaves and Captives to the Turk, he is of another nature from them: So is this Devil, his own Devils have a natural Kingdom with him, therefore he doth temper it ſo to them, as that he doth not oppoſe them, for then they would divide from him; and therefore Chriſt ſaith, If Satan ſhould caſt out Satan, his Kingdom would be divided, and not be able to ſtand. But we, poor Creatures, are as the Beaſts that are taken (as Jude expreſſeth it,) at his pleaſure, and are under a Prince of another Nature. And not only ſo, but we ſerve an utter Enemy, that perfectly hates us, and that ſeeks to deſtroy us. In Rev. 9. 11. thoſe ſame Locuſts, there ſpoken of, they had a King; but what manner of King had they? even ſuch, yea, the ſame King as we have, it was the Angel of the bottomleſs Pit, whoſe Name in the Hebrew Tongue, ſaith he, is Abaddon, but in the Greek Tongue his Name is Apollyon, that is, the Deſtroyer: His Aim is nothing but to deſtroy, and to undo us; therefore he ſeeks whom he may delude. And when he uſeth his Authority to carry us on to Sin, then he goes to God, and accuſeth; when that wicked one ruleth over a Man, then he ſtandeth on his right hand, and is an Accuſer. Therefore he is ſaid to have the Power of Death, not becauſe he is a Tormentor, but becauſe he hath a Commiſſion from God, to carry a Man on to Sin, and then to urge his Commiſſion.

us

My Brethren, let us therefore come in to Jeſus Chriſt, he is a King of our own Nature. In all probability, (as I ſhewed before,) it was a Motive to the Angels to ſet up a Kingdom againſt Chriſt, becauſe they would not be ſubject to one of another Nature: It may therefore well be a Motive unto us, to come in, and ſubject our ſelves unto Chriſt; why? Thou ſhalt have a King that is of thine own Nature; and whereas the other is a Deſtroyer, he will be a Saviour; whereas the other is an Accuſer, he will be an Interceder.

I ſhould likewiſe ſhew you, the Apoſtle's Scope is Thankfulneſs; but I reſerve that, till we come to thoſe words, He hath made us ſit together in heavenly Places in Chriſt: For it is a great Change, to be tranſlated from the Kingdom of Satan, and to ſit together with Chriſt in his Kingdom, which is the State of every Chriſtian.

And ſo much now for that ſecond Head, viz. That every unregenerate Man is a Subject of Satan's Kingdom, and their Miſery in that reſpect, which is clearly the Apoſtle's Scope; and that they walk according to the Prince of the Power of the Air.

I come now to the third Head, and that is this: The Spirit that now worketh in the Children of Diſobedience.

Here are three things for the parts of theſe Words: Here is the Spirit that worketh; here is the Time when, Now; here are the Perſons in whom, The Children of Diſobedience. I muſt firſt open the Phraſes, before I can come to the things I ſhall ſpeak out of it. And,

Firſt; What is meant by Spirit that worketh? The difficulty of opening this, lieth in this; becauſe in the Greek it is the Genitive Caſe, as we call it, that is, if you would tranſlate it rightly, The Prince of the Power of the Air, of the Spirit that worketh. And ſo here being three Genitive Caſes coming together, Of the Power, of the Air, of the Spirit, it makes the words the more difficult. There are ſome, and you ſee our Tranſlators took part with them, that ſay, it is a Change of the Caſe, that the Genitive Caſe is put for the Accuſative, that is thus, In which ye walked according to the Prince, ſaith he, and if you would know what that Prince is, he is the Spirit that worketh, &c. And it is true, that there are Inſtances in Scripture, that one Caſe is ſometimes put for another. But the truth is, it is both hard, and not ſo uſual; and therefore, unleſs there be a neceſſity of it, I would not ſquare the meaning here, by that tranſpoſition of the Caſe. And there is this reaſon for it beſides, becauſe that the great Devil, who is this great Prince, he doth not work in every Child of Diſobedience, all thoſe Works that are wrought by other Devils in them; rather therefore it muſt be meant, that he is the Prince either of the Spirits, or of a Spirit, that doth work in them: And ſo the Sence will run in a natural way, The Prince of the Power of the Air, the Prince of the Spirit, that now worketh in the Children of Diſobedience.

Now then, if you take it ſo, it hath a double meaning: Either Spirit is taken here pro Spiritu ſpirante, that is, the Spirit that breatheth; or, pro Spiritu ſpirato, that is, the Spirit that is breathed into Men: That is, It is either taken exegetically, for the Words afore, The Power of the Air, that is, thoſe leſſer Devils, that are under this great Devil, that are his Spirits, and that go and work in Men by his directions, he being the Prince of them, and ordering them ſo to do; or elſe it is taken for that common joint Gale, that theſe Devils have in the Hearts of wicked and carnal Men, eſpecially thoſe that are eminently the Children of Diſobedience: He is the Prince of both theſe Spirits.

Serm. IV.

Firſt; I ſay, Spirit is either taken for the Devils themſelves, that are under this great Prince, whom he ſetteth on work: And ſo the Apoſtle explaineth, what he meant by the Power of the Air; they are Spirits, ſaith he, ſent out by the great Devil, for to work in the Hearts of the Children of Diſobedience. And they are called Spirit in the Singular Number, as they were before called, The Power of the Air, in the Singular Number, becauſe they are united into one Body, they do join with one force under this great Devil; they work one way, and as one Spirit, eſpecially in reſpect of a common Spirit, (of which we ſhall ſpeak anon,) that they breath into the Hearts of the Children of Diſobedience; they carry things on by a common Deſign: And, that Spirit is taken thus, in the ſingular Number, altho there be many of theſe Devils, is clear from Mat. 8. and Mark 5. from verſ. 7. to 14. and Luke 8. 29. When Chriſt caſt out a whole Legion of Devils (for ſo many they were) out of one Man, yet that whole Legion ſpeaks in the ſingular Number unto Chriſt: Torment [me] not, verſ. 7. And Chriſt ſpeaks in the ſingular Number to him, after he had told him they were many, Come out, thou unclean Spirit, verſ. 9. And, v. 10. [He] beſought him, that he would not ſend [them] away; [He] and [them.] Tho they were many, yet ſtill they were called one Spirit. And therefore this is one meaning of it, that there are a World of Devils here in the Air, which are Spirits, who join altogether in one Body, under this great Prince, and work in the Children of Diſobedience. If you would know, ſaith the Apoſtle, what I mean by the Power of the Air, I mean the Spirits, (which are called Spirit for the reaſons I told you of,) that do now work in the Children of Diſobedience.

But there is a ſecond Interpretation, which indeed, for my part, I rather think is the meaning of this Place, altho we need exclude neither, for both Sences are fully taken in. When as he ſaith, he is the Prince of the Spirits, or of a Spirit, that now worketh, &c. he doth not mean only by Spirits, the Devils, that work as Spirits in Men, but he meaneth that Infuſion, that Spirit, as I may ſo call it, that general, common, ſpecial Spirit, (for I may call it both ſpecial and common) that the Devils do raiſe up in wicked Men, againſt Chriſt, and againſt God; a common active Principle, which the Devils do all raiſe, whereof Satan, the Prince, is the Æolus, the God of all theſe Winds that he letteth looſe, and they all blow one way: and that common Gale that comes from them all, and that by the great Prince's direction, that is ſaid to be the Spirit that worketh. The Syriack doth father this Interpretation, for it putteth in the word, [and,] And of the Spirit; that is, The Prince of the Power of the Air, and of the Spirit that worketh, &c.

Now I ſhall ſhew you, both that Spirit is ſo taken in Scripture, and that it ſeems to be taken ſo here too.

1. It is ſo taken in Scripture, Gen. 41. 38. There Pharaoh, ſpeaking in the Language of his Conjurers, that dealt with the Devils, whom they took for Gods, he ſaith, Can we find ſuch an one as this is, a Man in whom the Spirit of God is? And, Dan. 4. 8, 9. Nebuchadnezzar uſeth the ſame word of Daniel, A Man, ſaith he, in whom is the Spirit of the Holy Gods; that is, he hath the Infuſion, the Inſpiration of the Gods, which indeed were their Devils, who were then the Gods of the World, and wrought in the Sooth-ſayers, and in their Sybils, as amongſt the Heathens they did. Both Pharaoh, you ſee, and Nebuchadnezzar uſe the ſame Language, and there Spirit is put for the Infuſion of the Devils in them. So now that Spirit that breatheth in a Man, that giveth him Underſtanding, it is called a Spirit, Job 32. 8. There is a Spirit in a Man, and the Inſpiration of the Almighty giveth Underſtanding. And ſo in Rev. 19. 10. The Teſtimony of Jeſus is the Spirit of Prophecy: He means not the Holy-Ghoſt only, but a prophetick Gift inſpired by the Holy-Ghoſt. So here, by Spirit is not only meant the Devils that breath, but that common Spirit, Spiritus ſpiratus, as I may call it, that the Devil raiſeth up in the Hearts of Men: and putteth into their Spirits, and tranſformeth them to.

Now that which makes me think the Apoſtle had this in his eye, is this, becauſe he doth put two Articles, and not only ſo, but he addeth the word [now.] And the Apoſtle ſeems to point at ſome more eminently wicked: That you may know, ſaith he, that Men are under the Power of the Devil, do but obſerve now, now in this Age; do you not ſee what a Spirit works in Men that are eminently wicked, the Children of Diſobedience? Altho you do not ſee it in all unregenerate Men, yet you may, ſaith he, ſee it in ſome evidently to be the Devil, by the Spirit that worketh in them, becauſe the Stream riſeth higher than the Fountain, beyond reaſon, beyond the Spirits of Men; for ſo their Rage againſt Jeſus Chriſt and his Saints, in thoſe Primitive Times, the Spirit that then wrought, was beyond the Spirits of Men: there could be no reaſon, no account given of their perſecuting thoſe that profeſſed Chriſt; for they perſecuted the Chriſtians, and did not underſtand what they were, but the Devil did: He raiſed a mighty Spirit, a general Stream, whereof ſome eminent Men, that were Children of Diſobedience, were the Ring-leaders, that carried on all the reſt; the Devils went, by a common Blaſt that they breathed into Men, and carried the World before them, againſt Chriſt, and againſt the Apoſtles and Saints; you may ſee how it works, ſaith he.

now,

And ſo now, my Brethren, in the firſt words, when he ſaith, Ye walked according to the Prince of the Power of the Air, he meaneth, the ordinary Sinfulneſs, that is in all unregenerate Men, being under the Power of Satan: But in theſe latter words, he meaneth, a ſpecial Spirit, that is yet a common and general Spirit, that worketh in the Children of Diſobedience, which is ſet up againſt Jeſus Chriſt, and the Purity of his Worſhip, as then it was, and againſt the Commandment of the Lord Jeſus. This ſame ſpecial Spirit, that yet is one Gale in the Hearts of Men, Satan is the Prince of it, and your leſſer Devils go all one way, and under that perſecute the Saints, having direction from this great Devil; therefore he is ſaid to be the Prince of the Spirits. And the Apoſtle brings it in to this end and purpoſe, to let them ſee, tho they were now converted, yet, ſaith he, had you lived in your former condition, this Spirit would have breathed in you; you may even ſee what manner of Men you would have been, how the Devil would have jaded you, by the Spirit that now worketh in the World; you would have been acted by the ſame Spirit; for whilſt you were under the Devil's Kingdom you might have been raiſed up (tho all Men are not, yet you might have been raiſed up) to the ſame height that it now worketh in them.

There is one Objection, why that this Spirit infuſed, this raiſed Spirit in Men, ſhould not be meant here; and it is Piſcator's Objection; I will give you an Anſwer to it, and ſhew you, that both may very well be intended, and ſo come to Obſervations. This latter Interpretation is Zanchy's, tho he expreſſeth it only in general, a Flatus, an Inſpiration, or the Breath of Satan. But Piſcator's Objection againſt this Interpretation, is this: That cannot be meant, ſaith he, for the Spirit here is ſaid to [work] in the Children of Diſobedience; therefore the Spirit here muſt be meant a Perſon, or Perſons, and therefore the Devils themſelves only. And he backs it with this, becauſe in 1 Cor. 12.7. ſpeaking of the Holy-Ghoſt, as a Perſon, he is ſaid to work all in all, which argueth him to be the third Perſon in the Trinity.

For that I anſwer, That this hindereth not, but ſtill by Spirit here, may be meant that raiſed Spirit, that is from the Devils themſelves, that Inſpiration of them, and Infuſion of them; becauſe I find that the ſame word that is uſed here of working, it is applied to other things than Perſons, that is, to Spirits too, infuſed, 2 Theſſ. 2.7. The Myſtery of Iniquity now [worketh,] it is the ſame word: What was this Myſtery of Iniquity? You ſhall find, in 1 John 4.3. The Spirit of Antichriſt, ſaith he, whereof you have heard that it ſhould come, and even now is come into the World: that is, The truth is, (ſaith he) the Devil beginneth to raiſe up the beginnings of that Spirit of Antichriſt amongſt Chriſtians, which ſhall one day work up to a height; it worketh now, ſaith he. And indeed it may be, that this very one Spirit was one part of the Apoſtle's meaning, that he points at: Look out, Chriſtians, ſaith he, ſee what a Spirit there is among them, making way for Corruption in the Worſhip and Truth of God; look among the Heathens, ſee what a mighty Spirit there is, the Devil in both, he is the Prince of both theſe. Now in Rom. 7.5. likewiſe, becauſe you will ſay, it is not ſaid to work in us; yea, but there it is ſaid, That the Motions of Sins, ἐνηργεῖτο, did work in our Members; it is the ſame word that is here. It is applied then, you see, to other things than to persons. Therefore, I say, that's no objection but this latter should also be meant. For my part, I say, I take in both, the one as the Cause, the other as the Effect. He is a Prince of a company of Devils, that are Spirits, and work as Spirits in the Children of Disobedience; and they raise up a common Spirit. And that you may know the Devils work, saith he, Do but see now, how they work in the Children of Disobedience, and such would you have been, if God had not freed you; you would have had the same Spirit they had, and been led by him more or less. This is the Apostle's scope. The like phrase of speech you have in 2 Cor. 4. We have received the same Spirit of Faith. What means he by Spirit of Faith there? he means both Spiritum Spirantem, the Holy Ghost that puts Faith into me, who is called therefore the Spirit of Faith; and he means also the Grace of Faith, the infusion of the holy-Ghost, whereby I do actually believe. Many like instances may be brought to prove, that Spirit implies both; therefore, for my part, I take in both, the one and the other.

Serm. IV.

So now you have these three parts of the words. First, you have here a Spirit that works, whereof he is the Prince, taken both for his Devils, that are Spirits, and work by him; taken also for that common infusion which his Devils breathe into Men. Secondly, you have the time, that now worketh. Thirdly, the Persons in whom, in the Children of Disobedience. Now I shall give you some Observations, if you take either one sence or the other; for both are intended, the one as the Cause, the other as the Effect, and as a demonstration of the Misery of Man by Nature, which these Ephesians themselves may see in those, that are eminently the Children of Disobedience, in whom the Devil raiseth such a Spirit.

1. First, If you take it for his being a Prince of Spirits that thus worketh, I shall give you these Observations, which shall further explain it. First, that it relates to their manner of working, that they work as Spirits in Men. And the Apostle doth insinuate this for two ends: the one, to shew the manner of their working; the other, to shew the advantage of their working. They work as Spirits, for the manner of their working, in the Children of Disobedience: and for their advantage, (they have mighty advantage upon it) and therefore to shew it, in Ephes. 6. he saith, We fight not against flesh and blood, but against spiritual wickednesses, that is, Wickednesses that are Spirits. I shall explain it to you by degrees. God did make Man under Angels, as he hath made other creatures under Man; tho not in the like inferiority, yet in a proportionable distance. Now this is a certain Rule, Amongst all God's Works, take the whole chain of them from first to last, that in the subordination of several creatures, the higher one creature riseth above another, it is able to do all that is below it, all that is excellent, yea, and hath a power to do more: as now; All the senses that a Beast hath, Man hath, and he hath Reason besides. Then for the manner of their working, which is the point I would explain; the Angels being Spirits, all the ways which one Man hath to work upon another, the Angels have the same, and more. What are the ways that a Man hath to work upon another? He can do it by speech, and he can do it by presenting objects externally; and he can do it by threatning, or by punishment, or the like. But the Devil can do all this and more: He can appear as a Man doth, and convey himself unto a Man by speech; and not only so, for this is but working upon a Man, this is not working in him; but the Devil can creep into the Fancy, he can creep into the Humours, and into the Passions of a Man's Body, which depend much upon the Humours, and can act them; therefore he can work in us. My Brethren, one Angel cannot work in another; One Devil doth not possess another; why? because they are creatures of a like rank: And therefore as one Man communicateth his mind to another, and cannot creep into a Man to suggest it secretly and indiscernably, because Man and Man are creatures of a like rank; so are Angels: Michael and the Devil disputed indeed about the Body of Moses, as one Man doth with another; but one Angel cannot undiscernably work in another. And therefore there is this difference between the Devil's working in us, and that which one Man worketh upon another. One Angel may work upon another, and perswade him thus and thus, but he cannot work in him: but the Devil, being an Angel, and an Angel being a superiour creature to Man, hath a way of communicating himself to Man, which one Man hath not to another.

Yet

Yet he hath not that way that God hath; for he doth not know the Heart: but he can work upon the Fancy, and upon the Paſſions. The Will is joined to the Affections and Paſſions; and he can work upon them. The Underſtanding is joined to the Fancy; he can work upon that, and ſo work upon the Underſtanding. He can work in us, yet notwithſtanding it is not as God doth.

If you ask me, what it is he can do in us? I will anſwer in a word; Becauſe it hath been ſpoken to heretofore.

He can firſt undiſcernably, as a Spirit, put into you what thoughts he will, ſuggeſt any thing; he can imprint it upon the Fancy, and the Underſtanding will take it off preſently. In *Joh.*13.2. it is ſaid, the Devil put it into the heart of Judas to betray Chriſt, he wrought in him. He can take away thoughts, and put in thoughts; he can take them away, for he can divide the thoughts. In Luk. 8. 12. the Devils are compared to Fowls, ἁιρει τ λόγον, that take away, that ſnatch away violently the Seed that is ſown; he will not only ſteal them away, but doth it violently; divide the thoughts of a Man at a Sermon, and make him think of ſomewhat elſe. And he is the envious one, that ſoweth Tares in the night, and undiſcernably; as Seed (you know) is ſown in the Ground undiſcernably, eſpecially in the night. He can put into us what he will. And, my Brethren, let me add, he would not have power to work in us, unleſs we had ſinned. If he had been perfect, and we perfect, he might have wrought in us, and ſuggeſted to our Spirits undiſcernably; but, as I take it, this ſame working in us, is not only a note of difference from what one Angel can do to another, but it is a note of differenee of what Satan, being fallen, could have done to Adam, or to Chriſt himſelf, who were perfectly holy. He could not come to Eve, tho he was a foul unclean Spirit, and work in her, he could not put a thought in her undiſcernably, for that had been his beſt way; and he could not then take the ſhape of a Man or a Woman to talk in, becauſe the Image of God was not yet defaced in Man, and therefore he comes, and talks to her in the ſhape of a Serpent; and ſhe knowing the nature of that Beaſt, knew that he was next door to Reaſon, and ſo he might ſpeak, and that deceived her. And ſo for Chriſt himſelf, he comes and makes viſible Apparitions, but we reade not, nor do I know any good warrant or ground for it, that that unclean Spirit ſhould come and work in Him. But now, we being Sinners, he can, eſpecially thoſe that are his own, work in them undiſcernably, put in any thoughts, or take any thoughts out of their minds.

He can, in the ſecond place, when he ſees that that thought which he hath put in, doth take, that a Man's will doth a little come off to it, he can then, and he doth, and God permitteth him to do it to ungodly Men, enter into them, and poſſeſs them, as a Man dwelleth and poſſeſſeth his own Houſe; for ſo the Compariſon is, Luke 11. that he dwells there as in his own Caſtle. And as he entred into the body of the Swine, and carried them headlong into the Sea, ſo he entreth into Men, and doth poſſeſs their ſpirits; and he joineth with their ſpirits, and ſtrengtheneth all thoſe conſents to Sin in them. He is only ſaid to enter into Judas, Luk. 22. 3. for though he was in Judas before, yet when he cometh to put a Man on upon any great Sin, he is ſaid to enter into him, as he did enter into the Swine; for it is the ſame word; becauſe he joyneth with his ſpirit to carry him on in it, as if another ſoul ſhould come into a Man.

And not only ſo, but he is able to fill a Man's heart; as *Act.*5.3. as Wine filleth a Man's veins, and giveth him new ſpirits and ſtrength; or, as Wind doth fill the Bagpipe: for the hearts of unregenerate Men they are (as I may call them) the Devil's Inſtruments, in this reſpect, he breathes into them, and blows them up. He cannot indeed put Affections into them, but he can blow them up when once conſent is given. You may reade of a good Angel in Dan. 11. 1. ſaith he, I am with the King of the Medes, to confirm and ſtrengthen him in his purpoſe to deliver the Jews: both theſe words are uſed. So can Satan, when he hath put in a Temptation to a Man, (you ſee he is able to ſuggeſt it, being a Spirit) when he hath put in his Suggeſtion, then he entreth, eſpecially when a Man is his own, and giveth place to him. If a Man be a Saint, he hath leave to enter for that time, and he can confirm and ſtrengthen that Reſolution, and hold him in it, and join with him, and ſo the Man ſhall have a ſuper-added ſtrength, another ſpirit in him beſide his own. Therefore in *Mich.*2. 11. ſpeaking of falſe Prophets, he ſaith, They do walk in the Spirit, and lye. It is the ſame phraſe that is uſed of a Man's walking in the Holy Ghoſt, when the Holy Ghoſt ſtrengthneth him. And the Devil did uſe to come into Ahab's Prophets; he was a lying Spirit in them; They walk in the Spirit, and lye. I ſpeak it for this, that he can thus blow up, and fill up a Man's Spirit. I ſhould have added a middle, between entring and putting into the heart, that is, he can provoke Men, inflame them. The Tongue (ſaith James) is ſet on fire of Hell; and it is ſaid expreſly of David, in 1 Chron. 21.1. that Satan provoked him to number Iſrael.

do

Serm. IV.

And not only this, but he can effectually prevail. He can by all theſe means work in us; firſt, work indiſcernably in a Man; Secondly, having right, as in wicked men he hath, he can enter and dwell there, as in his Houſe or Caſtle: Thirdly, when he hath provoked and ſtirred up the Affections and Paſſions. When the Will hath conſented, he can ſtrengthen that Will, and ſo ſtrengthen it, that he ſhall prevail and work effectually; for ſo the word here implies. In 2 Theſſ. 2. 10. ſpeaking of Satan's working upon the learned part of the Popiſh Party, that know the Truth, and reade it, his coming (ſaith he) is with all deceiveableneſs of unrighteouſneſs, that they might all be damned. The doctrine is ſo laid to men's corrupt hearts, that it deceiveth them, and deceiveth them effectually. Therefore in 2 Chron. 18.21. it is ſaid there by God himſelf, Thou ſhalt go and entice him, and thou ſhalt prevail. And you know, he was preſently a lying Spirit, and prevailed over all Ahab's Prophets, and over Ahab himſelf. And he doth it with a kind of Command, for he is a Prince too; therefore they are ſaid to be taken captive at his will. And ſo much now for the manner of his working, which this phraſe [he worketh in them] implieth; and what I have ſaid is neceſſary to open it.

Now the Apoſtle's ſcope is likewiſe to hold forth all the Advantages he hath as a Spirit. He is an Active Spirit; for Spirits are active: The Horſes of Egypt are not fleſh but ſpirit. I ſhall not now ſtand to open the Advantages, for time would fail me.

The Obſervation I ſhall make from hence is this: That tho the Devil worketh in Men thus, and works effectually, yet ſo, as all their Sins are their own ſtill; why elſe are they called Children of Diſobedience? he worketh (ſaith he) in the Children of Diſobedience; and they walk in Sin, tho the Devil thus work, and doth work in all the Sins of Men. For that which we tranſlate [Our life is a continual Warfare] the Septuagint renders it [a continual Temptation.]

The reaſon why tho the Devil thus work, yet it is all our Sin, is this; Becauſe that the Devil he doth not thus enter into us or joyn with our ſpirits to confirm us, till our wills are come to a conſent, we give place firſt. And then when he doth confirm, ſtill the Will of a man is free, he is but ſtrengthened in it; he may cauſe the Waters to ſwell, but he cannot turn them back. It is evident in Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart? You will ſay, did not Satan work in him, how could he help it? yet it is made his ſin, for that he gave way to the Devil; for he gave way at the firſt, and then the Devil entered in and filled him. Another inſtance for it is that in 2 Tim. 2. ult. he ſaith, we are taken captive alive ἐζωγρημένοι, as the word is derived from thence, the meaning is this, they are alive when they are taken, and they are taken willingly by him, tho at his will, yet with their own will too. They are not moved as dead ſtocks, but they are moved as having a living active Principle in them, their own will. No man ſinneth, my Brethren, becauſe Satan commandeth him; for we do not ſee that Satan commandeth us, for he works undiſcernably, but we ſin becauſe of what is propounded to us: as no man doth ſin becauſe God decrees him to ſin, therefore no man can excuſe himſelf with that: ſo no man can excuſe himſelf with this, that Satan worketh in him.

And ſo much now for that firſt Interpretation, that here, by Spirit, is meant the Devils, who, as Spirits, work in the Children of Diſobedience.

I come now to a ſecond Interpretation, which is taken for the Effect of theſe Devils, that common Spirit that they raiſed in thoſe times in the Children of Diſobedience, which the Apoſtle bringeth as an inſtance, that themſelves might ſee how it wrought; Do not you ſee, ſaith he, how it worketh, what a Spirit there is working in men againſt God, and againſt Chriſt? The Devil is the Prince of it. I opened it before, I ſhall now give you ſome Obſervations about it. Serm. IV.

The firſt is this: That beſides the common ordinary walking of Men in their particular Luſts, walking in Sin, according to their Prince, their Devil, their King, (for in every Sin that a Man ordinarily committeth, he walketh according to this Prince, and his Mind and Will he doth); beſides that, I ſay, there is a ſpecial Spirit, which yet is a common Spirit in another ſence, that is, becauſe it breatheth in a general way in Men; yet I call it ſpecial, becauſe it is ſuperadded, over and above the natural Inclination that Men ordinarily have to the Ways of Sin, there is a ſpecial Spirit, raiſed up by the Devils in the Children of Diſobedience. Obſerv. 1.

I ſhall make this evident to you by parts. I take theſe Epheſians for an Inſtance, (for to me the Apoſtle ſeems to point to that Spirit that wrought among them.) In Acts 19. when Paul was at Epheſus, you ſhall find there, what a Spirit was raiſed, all the whole City upon a ſudden were gathered together, and were all filled with confuſion, and the Text ſaith, The greater part knew not wherefore they were come together: They would have haled Paul before the Judgment-Seat, and having caught Gaius and Ariſtarchus, his Companions, they ruſhed with one accord into the Theater; and all this while they knew not for what. And then, for the ſpace of about two hours, they all with one voice cried up their Goddeſs Diana, and cried out againſt Jeſus Chriſt; alas! they knew not Jeſus Chriſt: But why did they cry up their Goddeſs thus? Why the Devil was in it. Do not you ſee, ſaith the Apoſtle, how the Spirit works? If you read the Apologies of Tertullian, and others that wrote in the Primitive Times, you ſhall ſtill find them telling the Heathens thus: Why do you perſecute us? what is the matter? You underſtand not our way: You can let other Sects alone, why do you meddle with us? It is nothing but a Name you perſecute, you know no more. Yea, but, my Brethren, the Devil knew more, and ſo raiſed up a common Spirit amongſt them, againſt the Chriſtians.

The Devil doth raiſe up in ſeveral Ages, (that ſhould have been another part of the Obſervation) a ſeveral kind of Spirit, yet ſtill the ſame Devil. Do you not ſee, ſaith he, the Spirit that now worketh? Why the Spirit of Heatheniſm wrought then in a bitter oppoſition unto Chriſt; and the Spirit of Antichriſt wrought then, The Spirit of Antichriſt is now in the World, ſaith John. And theſe both wrought in one, wrought againſt Chriſt. The Devil had then two Strings to his Bow: Among the Heathens he had a Spirit, that wrought to advance his Kingdom, and to keep him up as long as could be, as the God of the World; and if that failed, then he had the Spirit of Antichriſt, that was then a working too: and many of the Chriſtians themſelves, that were good, underſtood not this; for it was a Myſtery. And, my Brethren, ſuch is his Cunning ſtill, if the Scene alters, he alters his Spirit that he breatheth into Men; he will breath in new Principles, ſuch as the World ſhall cloſe withal; and he will be ſtill ſure, ſo to ſtate the Quarrel, as that he may vent his Malice againſt many of the Saints, if he cannot againſt all. He made way, through I know not how many Errors, that if the World ſhould happen to turn Chriſtian, he might raiſe up ſuch a Perſecution againſt thoſe that would oppoſe thoſe Corruptions, more or leſs, as poſſibly could be. Therefore in Rev. 12. when he was thrown down from Heaven to Earth, (as he was when Heatheniſm was gone,) he found a way to perſecute thoſe that kept the Commandment of Chriſt, and the Teſtimony of Jeſus; for there was then ſo much Corruption brought in, and found in the Churches by the working of this Spirit, that God ſtirred up ſome or other ſtill, in their ſeveral Ages, to bear witneſs againſt it: and againſt theſe the Devil raiſed a Spirit, as being the Witneſſes of Jeſus, and ſuch as kept ſome of the Commandments of God, which others did not. The Apoſtle John, in the place I quoted even now, ſaith, The Spirit of Antichriſt is now in the World, 1 John 4. 3. Paul ſaith, it was a Myſtery; the Apoſtle John, that he is to come into the World, nay, that even now he is in the World: I ſee his Horns are budding, ſaith he; and that Spirit, that breatheth now in Heatheniſm, ſhall work up to the very ſame, when the World ſhall turn Chriſtian, in Antichriſt. Now this was a Myſtery, yet the Devil knew what he did, he drove it on, and carried on this common Spirit, and that

Serm. IV.

that among Chriſtians themſelves, in thoſe Primitive Times, even when the Heathens did oppoſe them. So now, as it is ſaid of the Holy-Ghoſt, in 1 Cor. 12. that he hath Variety of Gifts, but there is one Spirit, that worketh all in all: So in ſeveral Ages, there are ſeveral Spirits infuſed, and Principles that Men are led by; but yet ſo, as ſtill they ſhall be againſt ſome part of the Commandment of Jeſus; and it is the ſame Spirit that ſtill worketh all in all.

And why is ſuch Oppoſition called a Spirit?

Becauſe, my Brethren, things are carried with Spirit oftentimes more than with Reaſon. Saith Paul, I was exceedingly mad againſt the Saints, Acts 26. 11. And I think there are few that are mad, but there is ſome kind of poſſeſſion, or obſeſſion of Satan: I was mad, ſaith he, and Madneſs, you know, is to go in a thing againſt reaſon, and beyond reaſon, beyond the Nature of the thing it ſelf: and that is, becauſe the Devil is in it; for he carries it it as a Prince, and therefore he carries it as by a Spirit that he ſtirreth in them.

And it is called a Spirit too, becauſe it is active, and high, and violent. In Rev. 16. 13. ſpeaking of thoſe Emiſſaries of Rome, that, when Antichriſt is brought to his laſt Throw for his ſubſiſtence, (and if he loſeth that, he is gone) he ſendeth out, (the Devil and Antichriſt together, for they are ſaid to come out of the mouth of both,) he calls them Spirits; they ſhall be nimble Agents, that ſhould have a World of Zeal: what is the reaſon? They are ſaid to be Spirits of Devils, and were therefore more active, than Men of themſelves would have been: And Satan was the Prince of them, for they came out of the Great Dragon; and they go forth to all the Kings of the Earth, to gather them to the Battel of that Great Day: And how nigh it is, God knows.

Now as it is a ſpecial Spirit, thus raiſed, (I have ſhewn you, that it is called a Spirit, and a Spirit that altereth, as the Scene altereth,) ſo it is a general Spirit, a common Spirit, wherein (ſaith he) the Children of Diſobedience do agree. The reaſon, my Brethren, why his Kingdom is a Monarchy, and why they have one Prince, (by what the Scripture ſeemeth, both in this and other places, to hold forth to me,) is this: Becauſe there is one great Devil, that is the Old Serpent; he hath the great Head, the great Wit, and inventeth what to do ſtill, in all the Turns and Agitations and Motions of the World, and accordingly directs. As Pharaoh, (who was a Type of the great Devil, and his Monarchy, and the Egyptians are the little Dragons, as they are called, Pſal. 74.) he gave the Counſel, Come, ſaith he, let us deal wiſely: So Satan, he is, as it were, the great Dictator, and all the leſſer Devils take from him what he doth judg, and breath a common Spirit into Men, in whom they work. And therefore he is ſaid here, to be the Prince of a Spirit. The reaſon why it is one Spirit, is, becauſe there is one Prince of them, that doth guide and direct all the other Spirits to go thus one way, and to make one common Gale in the Hearts of Men. In that Rev. 16. 13, 14. they are ſaid to be three Spirits; yet all agree in one, they all came out of the Mouth of the Dragon too, for he was the Prince of them, the great Devil, (for by the great Dragon there, I take it, the great Devil is meant, for the little Devils are in that Phraſe, He and his Angels.) And a Breath came from this Prince, and the other Devils, he ſaith, they were three, that is, many, or more than one, Men acted by the Devil; yet they all agreed together in one Project and Deſign, which was, To go forth to the Kings of the Earth, and of the whole World, to gather them to Battel againſt Chriſt: For when Antichriſt ſhall be put to it, he will get the Aſſiſtance of Heathens, and Turks, and all; all ſhall join together againſt the Battel of the Great Day.

When our Lord and Saviour Chriſt was crucified, it is clear, then he breathed a common Breath. Herod and Pilate were one againſt another, yet conſpired in crucifying of Chriſt; why? Becauſe there was a Prince in the World, and tho he had nothing in, or againſt Chriſt, yet he ruled their Hearts unanimouſly. Therefore, in Pſal. 2. Why do the Heathen rage, and the Kings of the Earth ſet themſelves and the Rulers take counſel together, againſt the Lord, and againſt his Anointed? The truth is, the Devil was in them. This is your Hour, ſaith Chriſt, and the Power of Darkneſs; that is, the Devil, who is the Power of Darkneſs, hath power over me, by means of you.

of

Now, my Brethren, it is a Spirit likewiſe, which (if the godly-wiſe do heedfully obſerve,) may be diſcerned. The Apoſtle ſaith ſo much: Do you not ſee it work, ſaith he, in the Children of Diſobedience? You may ſee it by the Nature and Carriage of things, that Satan carries them on. And ſo much for the Interpretation of thoſe words, The Spirit that worketh.

I come to the Time, That now worketh. Some put it for etiamnum, that ſtill worketh: but I think that is not the meaning of it, for it refers to that preſent Spirit that then was, which, as I ſaid, Satan was the Prince of: Which now worketh. It may have relation alſo to the Times of the Goſpel, in compariſon of former Times. In John 12.41. ſaith Chriſt, Now is the Judgment of this World: That is, Now is the Time of the Goſpel, when this World is to be reformed, and the Prince of this World is caſt out. Now, becauſe that is the [now] when the Prince of this World is caſt out; therefore this is the [now] wherein the Devil being caſt out, being vexed, raiſeth up a Spirit in the Children of Diſobedience. And he is more active a thouſand times, than he was in the Old Teſtament. It is true, Satan under the New Teſtament, hath leſs Power than he had under the Old; for the Kingdom of Chriſt cometh ſtill more and more upon him, and ſpoils his Plots, eats them out; but yet his activeneſs, his working is more by far. And the reaſon is this, becauſe the Devil is enraged; for ſtill as Chriſt goes, and caſts him out of his Kingdom, or out of Mens Hearts, the more he rageth. In Mark 9.26. when the unclean Spirit was to be caſt out, the Text ſaith, He cried, and rent him ſore. And in Rev. 12.12. when the Devil, that great Dragon, was caſt out, thrown from Heaven, it is ſaid, He is come down, having great Wrath, becauſe he knoweth he hath but a ſhort time: And if he had millions of Years, they would be a ſhort time to him. But when he ſaw himſelf thrown down, it was to him as the beginning of the Day of Judgment, which he thinketh is approaching. And ſtill, my Brethren, the more he is confounded, the more he is enraged, and the more active he is; therefore he ſaith, The Spirit that now worketh.

You ſhall ſee this, by comparing the Inſtruments he doth employ in one Age, and in others ſucceſſively, that come after. In Rev. 9. there comes out of the bottomleſs Pit, a Company of Locuſts, whoſe King was the Devil; theſe were, as ſome think, the Saracens; or, as others, thoſe preaching Friars, that were ſome hundreds of years ago, ſent abroad to uphold the Pope's Kingdom. For my part, I think, the Holy-Ghoſt did carry on the Story of both, even in that firſt part of the Prophecy. Now you ſhall find in Rev. 16. when Antichriſt cometh to his laſt Caſt, his Agents then are not Locuſts, but [Frogs,] and ſo raiſed, that they are called Spirits, becauſe they are more nimble and active than thoſe Locuſts were, (for the Devil ſtill, as his Time grows ſhorter and ſhorter, begins to work more furiouſly, and more fiercely, beſtirs himſelf more in the Spirits of Men.) Thoſe Locuſts were too dull Creatures, therefore now he hath Frogs, he meaneth the Jeſuits, who are a nimble Company of Men, Men of Spirit, full of activeneſs, that can like Frogs leap into King's Chambers, and can be in the Water, and on the Land, deal in Church, and deal in Common-Wealth; and theſe he calleth Spirits. The Locuſts, I ſay, thoſe preaching Friars, they were too dull for his turn, now in this laſt Caſt. And, my Brethren, it is good to learn of an Enemy: Still as our time draws ſhorter, let us work the more. Exhort one another, (ſaith he, Heb. 10.28.) and ſo much the more, as ye ſee the Day approaching. And if you will have it more full, 1 Cor. 7.29. The Time is ſhort: Therefore let us improve it to the uttermoſt. The Devil, you ſee, doth ſo; he acteth and worketh more now than he did before, becauſe he knoweth he hath but a ſhort Time. And ſo much now for the Time.

I have now nothing to ſpeak to, but the Perſons: That worketh in the Children of Diſobedience. I muſt, as I uſe to do, a little open the Phraſe.

Serm. IV.

It is an Hebraism, Sons of Disobedience. The Jews do use in common Speech to apply the words, Sons and Children, to many things; as, Son of Captivity, that is, a Captive: A Son of the Resurrection, saith the Gospel; that is, those that shall rise again, and shall be begotten by the Resurrection; for it is a begetting again, and so they are Sons of it. It importeth (as the Phrase is here) one that hath addicted himself to Disobedience. As Wisdom is said to be justified of her Children, Mat. 23. There are Sons of Wisdom, that is, those that have given up their Souls to be led by Wisdom, that have been converted by Christ: So here, those that have addicted themselves to Disobedience, to Sin, they are called, Sons of Disobedience. You have the like in Psal. 89. 22. The Son of Wickedness shall not afflict him: So, Sons of Violence. I shall not need to open that much, I shall speak of it, when I come to handle Sons, or Children of Wrath, in the next Words.

The only Question is this: Whether he meaneth all sorts of unregenerate Men? Or whether he meaneth some special Sort, in whom the Devil in those times raised up a special Spirit?

The truth is, it is hard to determine it, the Context seems to carrry both. In Scripture Phrase, (I shall speak a little to the latter,) a Child of Disobedience notes out one, that is more eminently wicked than others, a Son of Iniquity; and it is all one with that which in the Old Testament was called, a Son of Belial, which Phrase you have often, and you never have it used, but it noteth out one more wicked than ordinarily the Generality of Mankind are. Sons of Belial, are Men without a yoke, that have broke the Bounds, as the Prophet expresseth it, for so the Word signifies. Still when they are mentioned, I say, it notes a special sort of wicked Men. I shall quote the Places, Deut. 13. 13. 1 Sam. 2. 12. The Sons of Eli are called, Sons of Belial, being more eminently wicked than others. So in Judg. 19. 22. One given to Drunkenness, is called a Daughter of Belial, 1 Sam. 1. 16. Those therefore, that either in respect of living in Prophaneness, or in respect of Opposition to God and Christ, are more eminent than others, they are especially Sons of Belial; yea, they are called, even Belial it self. And in 2 Cor. 6. 15. Belial is called the Devil himself; even as in the New Testament, the Devil is called, That wicked One: And answerably, one that is more eminently wicked is called a Devil; as in that Speech of Christ, who saith of Judas, that he was a Devil.

The word, Disobedience, is ἀπειθείας, an obstinacy of Heart, that a Man hath stood out Persuasions. So as now it doth import such kind of Men likewise, as have received the Truth, or have heard of the Truth, yet obey it not, but do the contrary. I have stretched out my Hand to a disobedient, gainsaying People, Rom. 10. 21. Those are called disobedient, (it is the same word) which have had God's hand stretched out to them. You have many Places for it, Rom. 2. 8. and Tit. 1. 16. In Works they deny him, saith he, and are disobedient, (it is the same word here) and to every good Work reprobate. And in Heb. 4. 6, 11. it is used for Unbelief.

Now if it be taken in a large sence, as perhaps in Eph. 5. 6. it is taken for all unregenerate Men, For which the Wrath of God cometh upon the Children of Disobedience: Then the Observation in a word is this. It cometh in here by way of difference from Satan's working in godly Men, and in unregenerate Men. He worketh in the Children of Disobedience, that is, he ordinarily prevaileth with them, (I mean, for those Lusts they are addicted to,) he ruleth them, as it is spoken in that Curse concerning Judas, Psal. 109. He prevaileth over them, he works effectually in them, (take that, I say, which is their proper and special way of sinning, that which their Spirits are addicted to,) they are (as I may so express it) his working Shop, they are called his House where he dwelleth, I will go, and return to my House, saith he, when he was cast out there in John 11. He works as an Enemy in the People of God, but in these as a Prince. He works as a Tyrant in those, and prevails often over them for Acts; but in these as a Conqueror, taking them captive at his Will. My Brethren, I take it, that there is this difference set by God, between those that are godly and regenerate Men, translated into the Kingdom of Chriſt; and unregenerate Men, who are Members of the Kingdom of Satan. It is true indeed, he cannot carry all unregenerate Men to all the Sins he would, becauſe, like a Tyrant, he applies himſelf to the ſeveral Humours of Men, and that by God's ordination; yet ſo, as the common Law that God alloweth him to rule over them with, it is in reſpect of their peculiar Luſt, and peculiar Sin. Look what a Man's Snare is, the Devil hath him at his Will, as the expreſſion is, 2 Tim. 2. ult. But now, if he come to deal with a godly Man, he ordinarily asketh leave, Luke 22. 33. He hath deſired, he hath ſought to winnow thee, ſpeaking of Peter, when the Devil carried him on to that great Sin againſt Chriſt. But when he comes to unregenerate Men, they are his Subjects, his Natives, his proper Goods; and he enters into them, as into his own Houſe. And the reaſon of it is this: Becauſe the Saints are tranſlated into the Kingdom of Chriſt, therefore if he will deal with them, he muſt come like a Party into another Kingdom, into anothers Quarters, where he hath not ordinarily the Power, and the Rule; and what hath he to do with another Man's Servant? That's the Law. A regenerate Man is Chriſt's free Man, therefore, but by ſpecial permiſſion from God, to exerciſe his Children, he doth not ſo come to tempt them, as to carry them on to great Sins.

Kingdom

Now if it be meant, (as, I take it, rather it is,) of Men eminently wicked, that are the Ring-leaders of all the Devil's Kingdom; then in a word, here is the Obſervation.

That Satan in his Kingdom hath ſeveral ſorts of Sinners, and there are ſome, in whom the Devil's Breath is ſo ſtrong, that a Man may ſmell it; as a holy Man may ſavour the Spirit of God in another Man that is holy. You may ſee how it worketh, ſaith he, in ſome of the Children of Diſobedience, that are the Ring-leaders (and ſo Inſtances) of the Bondage that all the reſt are in. I ſay, of unregenerate Men, there are ſeveral Sizes of them; yea, the ſame Man, as he grows wickeder, ſo he hath more Devils: He brought with him ſeven Devils worſe than himſelf: You make him, (ſaith Chriſt) ten times more the Child of Satan, than he was. I quote it for this, to ſhew you, there are ſeveral Sizes of wicked Men, (tho the meaning is, that of every Generation of Men, the ſecond is worſe than the firſt,) for otherwiſe how could they make him worſe than themſelves? But they making him a Proſelite, the Curſe of God (when they had made him ſo) made him worſe. But I will not ſtand upon that. Obſerv. 1.

The ſecond Obſervation is this: That which makes Men eminently wicked, and the Spirit thus of the Devil to work in them, more than in others, it is an Unperſuadeableneſs. They have been dealt withal by God, and by the Preaching of the Goſpel; they have had ſome Hints, ſome Hear-ſays of it; and they refuſe that Light, and will not believe that Truth: And for this Diſobedience, doth the Lord give them up to Satan, to rule in them more fully, and to tranſform his Spirit into them. In 2 Theſſ. 2. He cometh with all deceivableneſs of Unrighteouſneſs: But in whom is it? In them, that receive not the Truth in the Love of it. Obſerv. 2.

Now, my Brethren, in a word, this is the Apoſtle's Scope plainly to me: Saith he, Whilſt you were unregenerated, you lived in the Devil's Kingdom: And tho you were not oppoſite to the Goſpel of Chriſt then, and had not that Spirit which you ſee now worketh in ſome; why? becauſe you never heard of the Goſpel before, ye turned, when ye firſt heard it: Yet you may ſee what you would have been, if God had not turned you; that Spirit, that you ſee now worketh in Men eminently wicked, (by which you may ſee, that the Devil hath a hand over Men,) that Spirit, if you had gone on, would have wrought in moſt of you too. So that his Scope is, to hold forth the Spirit, that was more eminently in ſome Men, that were Sinners amongſt them, or perhaps in the Generality of Men, that did conſpire in one way of Wickedneſs, to let them ſee what themſelves would have been. And, my Brethren, we are apt to forget our natural Condition, (let us make juſt that Uſe of it the Apoſtle here doth.)

Serm. IV.

We think we ſhould not have been ſo bad, we ſhould never openly have done thus and thus, as others do: O! but remember and conſider this, that whilſt you walked in Sin, you were under the Prince of the Power of the Air; and look what Spirit you ſee now works in the Children of Diſobedience, had you not turned unto God, had you been unteachable, and unperſuadeable, the ſame Spirit would have been in you. So that now what Wickedneſs is abroad in the World, all Men that are turned to God may make uſe of it; the like would have been my Heart, I ſhould thus have been the Slave of the Devil; as theſe are carried headlong, ſo ſhould I have been.

And, my Brethren, let me add this laſt: Tho he ſpeaks thus of ſuch, and ſaith, they are Children of Diſobedience; yet he calls them not the Sons of Perdition: He calls them Children of Wrath indeed, in reſpect of their preſent State, namely, in the next words; but he calls them not, Sons of Perdition, as for the future ordained to Deſtruction. Then, altho Men ſhould have great high Spirits againſt, and be unteachable, and unperſuadeable to the Truth of God, and Ways of Religion; yet pray for them, ſeek to God for them. Tho they are Children of Diſobedience for the preſent, yet it follows not, that they are Children of Perdition, as Judas is called. In 2 Tim. 2. 25. Saith he, The Miniſter of God muſt be gentle, in meekneſs inſtructing thoſe that oppoſe themſelves; if God peradventure will give them Repentance, that they may recover themſelves out of the Snare of the Devil: That tho now they are under the Spirit of Satan, and he hath a Snare upon them, and out of that they do oppoſe; yet in meekneſs inſtruct them; they are Children of Diſobedience, thou canſt not ſay, they are Children of Perdition. So much now for the opening of this Text.

SERM.

SERMON V.

EPHES. 2. 3.

Among whom alſo we all had our Converſation in Times paſt, in the Luſts of our Fleſh, fulfilling the Deſires of the Fleſh, and of the Mind: And were by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others.

THE Apoſtle, in this and the two former Verſes, doth ſet himſelf to give an exact Deſcription of all Men unregenerate: And as he is comprehenſive in the Doctrine about it, ſo he is as comprehenſive alſo in the Application. He had ſhewn two of the Cauſes, that were external, of all that Sinfulneſs that is in unregenerate Men: The World, in the 2*d* Verſe; and the Devil. And now he cometh to that third, which is the Fleſh, or natural Corruption. There were but two ſort of Perſons in the World, that ſhared the World between them; and they were the Jews, and the Gentiles: And the Apoſtle doth apply all the Doctrine of Man's unregenerate Condition by Nature to both theſe. And as Men that read Lectures of Anatomy, do not only give the Doctrine of the parts of a Man's Body; but they exemplify it, in having a Body cut up before them: So the Apoſtle here, he doth not ſimply lay down the corrupt Eſtate of Man's Heart by Nature; but he applies it, exemplifies it, and that both unto the Jew and Gentile, he ſhares this common Condition between them, Wherein in time paſt ye walked, ſpeaking of the Gentiles, verſ. 2. Among whom alſo we all had our Converſation, ſpeaking of the Jews, in this third Verſe.

Theſe Words I have read unto you, which concern that third and laſt Cauſe of all Sin in Men, namely, their natural Corruption, which is called Fleſh, they divide themſelves generally into two parts.

1. The Perſons that he ſpeaks this of, We all.

2. The Deſcription he gives of the State of Nature, in reſpect of inbred Corruption, and the Fruits of it in theſe Epheſians.

I will begin firſt with the Perſons.

Our holy Apoſtle had a care in the Application of this Doctrine, to winde in the Jews as well as the Gentiles. He named the Gentiles twice in the former Verſes, You hath he quickned, that were dead, verſ. 1. Wherein in times paſt ye walked, verſ. 2. And he nameth the Jews as often in this third Verſe, Among whom we had our Converſation: And were by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others. He had ſtill carried along in this Epiſtle, what God doth both unto Jews and Gentiles; he carries the State of both along with him, in every thing he handles. When he had ſpoken in the firſt Chapter, of the great Benefits of Redemption, he applies it both to the Jews, and alſo to the Gentiles; to the Jews, verſ. 11. In whom alſo we have obtained an Inheritance, that we ſhould be to the Praiſe of his Glory, that firſt truſted in Chriſt. He applies it to the Gentiles, verſ. 13. In whom ye alſo truſted, after that ye heard the Word of Truth, the Goſpel of your Salvation, in whom alſo after he believed, ye were ſealed with that holy Spirit of Promiſe. Now as in the matter of Redemption, and all the Benefits of it, he applies it unto both; ſo he takes the like and the ſame Courſe, in the Matter of Corruption, and of our natural Condition.

And

Serm. V.

And besides that reason, which many Interpreters give, why he doth so, namely, because he would not seem to upbraid the Gentiles, as the Jews were wont to do, who called them, Sinners of the Gentiles, Gal. 2. but that he and his Country-Men were as bad as they. I say, that is not the only reason, but it was to shew the freeness of God's Grace, to save the Jews, as well as the Gentiles. For his Scope, why he doth mention the State of Nature so exactly, and apply it thus to both these sorts of Persons, is, to illustrate the free Grace of God: Saith he, in the next Verse, But God, who is rich in Mercy, for his great Mercy wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us: By Grace ye are saved. So that he would shew, that all, both Jews and Gentiles, needed it. You shall find likewise, he takes the same Course, in his Epistle to the Romans: In the first Chapter he proves, that the Gentiles were all corrupted; and in the second Chapter, he convinceth them, and proveth, that the Jews were so also: In the third Chapter, he concludeth, that all were Sinners; There is no difference, saith he, all have come short of the Glory of God: And, There is none righteous, no not one. And to what end was all this? It was to glorify the Grace of God, as it follows, vers. 24. 'Being justified freely by his Grace, &c. And then again, he doth apply it to the Jews, and he speaks as hard words, and harder of them, than he doth of the Gentiles, and of both in respect of their Conversations. The poor Gentiles, they were led away, he saith, by the World, and by the Devil; he applies that part of Man's Misery unto them: But when he comes to the Jews, Ye were by Nature the Children of Wrath, saith he; and, Ye have had your Conversation in the Lusts of the Flesh. He shews the internal Cause of Corruption, when he applies it unto them. And what is the reason? You must know this, that first for their Conversations, the Jews would not so much as converse with the Gentiles; they called them, Sinners of the Gentiles, Gal. 2. They would not so much as eat with them, as you read in Acts 10. that Peter would not, and according to the Ceremonial Law he ought not. And so in John 4. when Christ conversed with the Samaritan Woman, there was a wonder at it. But saith the Apostle here, You Jews, that stand so much upon this Privilege, and therefore think your selves holier, look to your natural Estate, and you are of the same Number with the Gentiles: Among whom we also all had our Conversation in Times past. They stood likewise upon their Privilege, that they were a holy Seed, and that they were the Children of God, and that all of them were so by Birth; you know, they said, they were of the Seed of Abraham; And we have Abraham to our Father. He batters down that too, We were by Nature (saith he) the Children of Wrath, even as others. And therefore now he applies it thus to the Persons of the Jews.

Now all the Controversy is this, and it is a thing that Interpreters differ in, That seeing the word here, which we translate, Among whom, may be also interpreted as well, In which, whether of these two should be here intended? The Question then is, Whether that [Among whom] refer to the Persons, that is, We Jews walk among you Gentiles, had our Conversations like to you? Or whether that the meaning be, that we Jews walk in the same Sins? In which we also had our Conversation, as referring unto Sins and Trespasses, wherein in Times past ye walked, vers. 1, 2.

I for my part think, the Holy-Ghost writes the Scripture so, as to take in a comprehensive meaning; and it hath been a Rule, that I have observed all along in interpreting this, and shall in all other Scriptures. I think he intended both: For to say both of these Jews, that as for their Persons, they are to be reckoned among the Gentiles, among the same Number, Among whom we also: And to say, they walked in the same Sins, and in the same Lusts; it makes the Scope and the Sence more full, it makes up the Likeness of their Condition the more and the greater. His Scope was, to humble the Jews in both respects, that tho they stood upon it, that they were a priviledged People, yet, saith he, you are to be reckoned among the Gentiles, Among whom we also walked: And he would prove, that they were to be reckoned among them, because they walked in the same Sins, In which we also walked as well as they.

So

Serm. V.

So that now these Words, that are translated, Among whom, they note out two things:

1. The Manner of their Conversation, that they walked ad eundem modum; or, as the vulgar Translation hath it, ad quem modum, in the same Sins: Quemadmodum vos, ità & nos; Look as they Gentiles walked, so did ye Jews.

2. It imports also, that their Persons are to be reckoned in the same Number; ex eodem numero, they are in the same Number; and are to be put in eodem albo, in the same Rank and Catalogue with the Gentiles.

Now there is an Objection or two against either Interpretation; for I take in both, therefore I must remove the Objections against both.

The first Objection, that by ἐν οἷς, should not be meant, In which Sins, is this: For, say they that are of another mind, then it should have been in the Feminine Gender, ἐν αἷς, since ταῖς ἁμαρτίαις, was the last word mentioned in the first Verse; therefore if it referred to Sins, it should have been in the Feminine Gender.

But that receiveth an easy Answer; for as there is ἁμαρτίαις, so there is παραπτώμασι, namely, Trespasses, in the Neuter Gender. But the Answer that Estius gives, is this, That it refers to both, tho the one be the Neuter, and the other the Feminine Gender; yet when he makes the Participle, he saith, it refers unto both: therefore that Interpretation, In which, will stand.

Then again, as for that other, Among whom, as our Translation renders it, that that is more especially meant, is clear, because the neareſt Connection doth carry it, the other is a more remote Connection: For if it be, In which Sins, it must refer to the first Verse, and there comes in between the whole second Verse; but if it refer to the Persons, Among whom, then it referreth in the next Coherence: Among whom (namely, which Children of Disobedience,) we all had our Conversation, which are the words just before.

But there is this Objection against that, say they that are of another Mind: All the Jews were not Children of Disobedience; for Children of Disobedience, doth imply Persons eminently wicked, in a more special manner, as Children of Belial did: Now the Apostle saith, Among whom all we had our Conversation: Now say they, all the Jews had not their Conversation among Children of Disobedience; there were some more eminently Children of Disobedience amongst the Jews, as well as amongst the Gentiles. This is the Objection against that Interpretation.

But the Answer is easy: For in the first place, Children of Disobedience, doth not only note out Men eminently wicked; but it is the common Expression given unto all unregenerate Men: In chap. 5. vers. 6. For which things (saith he) the Wrath of God cometh upon the Children of Disobedience.

Neither, secondly, will it follow in the Connection, that all the Jews should have been Children of Disobedience; but indeed this will follow, that they are to be reckoned of the same rank with them; all unregenerate Men shall belong, and do belong unto the same Kingdom, with the highest and eminentest Sinners that are. Therefore, saith he, never boast your selves, if you be Children of Disobedience, if you walked among them, you were of that Company, of that Drove.

And indeed, and in truth, Thirdly, the Jews were in a more peculiar manner the Children of Disobedience, than the Gentiles were; what's the reason? Because they had the Law; they are still called a stiff-necked People, which is not applied to the Gentiles; Disobedience is in a more special manner attributed unto them, because they had the means, especially when the Gospel came upon them.

So now the Interpretation being fully cleared, that [Among whom] referreth to both, and the Reason also, why it referreth to, In which; for I must give you a reason of it, that, In which Sins ye walked, is also meant: The reason of it is this, because that in Col. 3. 7. which is a parallel Epistle to this, there it is, In which ye walked, whilst ye lived in them; referring unto Sins. And so the Syriack also renders it, In which, viz. In which Sins ye also walked. And it makes the likeness between the Jews and Gentiles to be more full; for then his meaning is plainly this, We that are Jews had a like condition with the Gentiles; first, in respect of Conversation, we all walked in the same Sins, we had a like Condition in respect of the Lusts of the Flesh, In which also we all had our Conversation, in the Lusts of the Flesh: And we had a likeness of Condition, in respect of natural Corruption, which is the ground of all: And were by Nature the Children of Wrath, as well as others. And so now, having cleared this Interpretation, that it refers to both, yet especially to the latter, I come to the Observations out of it.

of

Serm. V.

Observ. There is one great Observation, which I will not now insist on, but refer it, till we come to those words, Were by Nature Children of Wrath, even as others, namely this, That original Corruption is universal to all Mankind, both Jew and Gentile. That Observation is proper to those Words, therefore I omit it here.

But here he speaks of the Likeness of the Jew to the Gentile, and that they are to be reckoned among them, the Jews all one with the Gentiles, in respect of their Conversation; that is the thing that these first Words hold forth, Among whom we also had our Conversation.

First, then, If that the Interpretation be, they are to be reckoned of the same Number with the Gentiles; then I make these two Observations upon it.

Observ. 1. First; Tho there be several Sizes of unregenerate men, several sorts of them; yet they that are the best of them, they are to be reckoned, and they are to reckon themselves, and Jesus Christ at the latter Day will reckon them, even among the worst. He had spoken of the highest Children of Disobedience, in the Verses before, that were more eminently such, (for I take that Interpretation also in) and it followeth, Among whom we all had our Conversation. There may, I say, be several Sizes of unregenerate Men, yet all shall be reckoned of one sort. It is a Consideration may mightily strike us. Let Men be never so civil; let Men be temporary Believers, and profess Religion with never so much strictness: if they be unregenerate, they will be reckoned among the Children of Disobedience. Among whom we, saith Paul, putting in himself, who had his Conversation according to the Law, blameless; no Man could say, black was his Eye; he professed, that he walked according to his Conscience all his days: yet I am to be reckoned, saith he, and had my Conversation among, and shall be accounted of that Number, with the highest Children of Disobedience. It is an excellent Observation, that a late Critick hath made: That in the Old Testament, especially in the Book of Proverbs, where Hell is mentioned or spoken of, as it is often, the word in the Hebrew signifies the Place of the Giants: They shall go down into Hell, that is, to the Place of the Giants; that was the Term that the Jews did anciently give to Hell. What is the meaning of that? You know, that the Giants of the old World, they were the eminent, grand wicked Men, Gen. 6. 8. The Wickedness of Man was great upon Earth: And he saith, There were Giants, that did corrupt their Ways before him; and the Earth was filled with Violence. Now the Flood came, and swept all these Giants away, and carried them all to Hell: And because such a Cluster of them went there all at once, Hell had its Name from thence; and whoever went to Hell, tho he were a Jew, tho he were never so strict, if unregenerate, he went to the Place of the Giants, he went among wicked Men; and so they are to be reckoned here. Nay, the Gospel speaks higher words of Hell, as in relation to whom wicked Men shall be gathered, Mat. 25. 16. He speaks to all unregenerate Men, that shall be found so at the latter Day, that died in that Estate, tho there be never so many Sizes of them, Go into the Fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels. They are not only gathered to the Giants, but they are gathered gathered to their great Prince, Satan: They walked according to the Prince of the Air, and they ſhall go to Hell, where the Prince of the Fire is, when he is there; a poor Prince, when he is there. And God will bring forth Men ſo, tho they walk among the Drove of his Children in Profeſſion now, yet if they walk in By-lanes, God will rank them at the latter Day, yea, often in this World, with the Workers of Iniquity. In Pſal. 125. 5. As to ſuch as turn aſide to their crooked Ways, that walk in By-lanes of Sin, the Lord ſhall lead them forth with the Workers of Iniquity: They do walk after them here before God, and God will manifeſt ſo much before he hath done: The Lord, ſaith he, ſhall lead them forth with the Workers of Iniquity.

And the reaſon, my Brethren, is this, why they are to be reckoned among them, and as Walkers among them, tho they ſever themſelves from them, in reſpect of external Converſation, is, becauſe they agree in the ſame internal Principle of Sin; they walk in Luſts, every unregenerate Man doth; refine him how you will, it is certain he doth. Now the Fellowſhip, that Men have with other wicked Men, lies not ſo much in keeping company perſonally with them, as it lies in walking in the ſame Luſts, and in the ſame Sins, ſmaller or greater: Have no Fellowſhip with the unfruitful Works of Darkneſs. Fellowſhip lies in the Works, more than in the Perſons; it lies in the Conſent, as Pſal. 50. 18.

And then again, there is this Obſervation, but you need not make a diſtinct one of it: That thoſe, even among Chriſtians, (for there is the ſame reaſon) that live in the ſame Luſts that the Gentiles do, they ſhall all be reckoned as Gentiles before God: Among whom, ſaith he, we all had our Converſation, in the Luſts of the Fleſh. If they live in Luſts, they are ſaid to live as Gentiles; for Luſts are called in a more peculiar manner, the Luſts of the Gentiles. My Brethren, in Rev. 11. 1, 2. you find, that the holy City is to be given up to the Gentiles, to tread down for a certain time; whom doth he mean there by Gentiles? Why he meaneth indeed, and in truth, the Popiſh Chriſtians; for it is a preparation to the killing of the Witneſſes, which is in that Chapter, which is clear ſhall be done by the Beaſt; and you know who the Beaſt is: He ſaith, verſ. 7. That the Beaſt that aſcendeth out of the bottomleſs Pit, ſhall make War againſt them, and ſhall overcome them, and kill them. Now he calleth them, tho they profeſs Chriſtianity, Gentiles; and the Prophets of old uſed the ſame Language, Jer. 9. 26. There is but this difference, ſaith he, between you Jews that are wicked, and the Gentiles; they are uncircumciſed in the Fleſh, and ye are uncircumciſed in the Heart. And let me add this further, for I fear it is a thing to be fulfilled, and I have feared it many years, that when once the Temple of God is meaſured, (and the Reed is in Mens hands, doing it now, and hath been a good while,) and the Altar of Worſhip, and the Worſhippers, them that worſhip therein, as it is, Rev. 11. 1. That then this Temple will be given up to theſe Gentiles, to be trodden down; and why? Becauſe there is ſo great an outward Court laid to this Temple. The Temple ſhould conſiſt of thoſe that are Prieſts and Saints; but the Reformed Churches have laid too great an outward Court, which are as bad as Gentiles: therefore, ſaith he, ſeeing they ſtand upon Gentile Ground, the Gentiles ſhall re-enter again. He ſaith, that the Court that was without the Temple, was not to be meaſured; for they are not fit to be Worſhippers, tho they be Chriſtians; for it is given to the Gentiles, and the holy City ſhall they tread under foot. And therefore now, (as Muſculus well obſerveth) for us to boaſt againſt the Papiſts, we are the Reformed Churches; yet, for the Multitude and Shoal of Chriſtians, to walk in the ſame Luſts, they are, ſaith he, to be accounted to live even Popiſhly; as theſe Jews are reckoned to live heatheniſhly, whilſt they walk in the ſame Luſts the Gentiles did: And tho Men are not Idolaters, as the Papiſts are; yet notwithſtanding, whilſt they walk in their Luſts, they are Idolaters ſtill: For you ſhall find, in Phil. 3. the Apoſtle ſpeaking there of Covetouſneſs, and Uncleanneſs, and the like, ſaith he, Which are Idolatry: Some indeed read it, Which is Idolatry, and ſo refer it only to Covetouſneſs, And Covetouſneſs, which is Idolatry: But other Copies are, Which are Idolatry, referring to Fornication, and Uncleanneſs, and evil Concupiſcence, and Covetouſneſs, which are Idolatry; becauſe indeed they do ſet up Idols Serm. V. in their hearts, which they worſhip; for every Luſt ſetteth up another thing beſide God; and it is as truly Gentiliſm, as truly Idolatry, as Popiſh or Heatheniſh Idolatry is: only this Devil of Idolatry takes a ſhape, and appears viſibly to them and in them, but it is inviſibly in the hearts of others. And ſo much now for that firſt Obſervation from thoſe words, Among whom we alſo walked.

Obſerv. 2. I will give you a ſecond, and that is this: That there is no light or means will do corrupt Nature good. Are the Jews born under the light of the Law? Had they the light of the Goſpel come upon them alſo by John Baptiſt, and by Chriſt, and by the Apoſtles? and do they remain ſtill, and walk in their Luſts? I ſay, no means will do corrupt Nature good. And in Rom. 8. you have a place for it, The Law, ſaith he, was weak through the fleſh, ver. 3. Go and inform Men never ſo much with the Law, and tho it ſeem to be a ſtrong thing to work upon a Man, to tell him of Hell,&c. yet, ſaith he, it is weak through the fleſh; that natural Corruption that is in a Man will never be wrought upon by it, it will hinder the working of the Phyſick, be it never ſo ſtrong, Fleſh will, Corruption will. *Iſa.*26. 10. Let them live in a Land of Uprightneſs, they will deal unjuſtly, and will not behold the Majeſty of the Lord. The Jews here had all theſe means, yet they remained ſtill in the ſame unregenerate condition. Men may reſtrain indeed, the Goſpel may do ſo, and the Law may do ſo, reſtrain Corruption in Men, yet they will pleaſe the luſts of the fleſh ſtill, they will walk in them; and if not in the groſſer luſts of the fleſh, yet they will walk in the luſts of the mind. There are other ſpiritual luſts in the Underſtanding, that let corrupt Nature be cooped up never ſo much, let the Goſpel, let the Law, all grapple with it, it will be corrupt Nature ſtill: Among whom alſo we, we Jews that had all thoſe means, had our Converſation in the Luſts of the Fleſh.

Obſerv. 3. I will add a third Obſervation, and that's this: That no Priviledges whatſoever Men can have, will ſave them from an unregenerate condition. The Law, and having the Priviledges thereof, will not do it; neither will the Goſpel, and all the Priviledges thereof, do it. The Priviledges of the Law would not do it, you ſee by this Text, and you may have it more clear in *Rom.*2.25. and ſo to the end, Circumciſion (ſaith he) verily profiteth, if thou keep the Law: but if thou be a breaker of the Law, thy Circumciſion is made Uncircumciſion. For he is not a Jew which is one outwardly, neither is that Circumciſion which is outward in the fleſh; but he is a Jew which is one inwardly, and Circumciſion is that of the heart, in the Spirit, and not of the letter, whoſe praiſe is of God, and not of men. The Law, you ſee, will not do it. And the Goſpel will not do it, tho the Goſpel uncaſeth men much more. There was a kind of ceremonial typical Holineſs under the Law, whereby all the Seed of Abraham were holy unto God; but when the Goſpel came, it uncas'd them. What ſaith John Baptiſt, when he began firſt to preach the Goſpel? Think not (ſaith he) to ſay within your ſelves, we have Abraham to our Father. And it was propheſied of Chriſt when his day ſhould come to preach the Goſpel, that he ſhould do it much more; Mal. 3. 1. I will ſend my Meſſenger, and he ſhall prepare the way before Me; (that is, John Baptiſt, for ſo it is applied Mat. 11. 10.) and the Meſſenger of my Covenant, whom ye delight in, Behold, he ſhall come; but who may abide the day of his coming? for he is like a Refiner's Fire, and like Fullers Soap; and he ſhall ſit in his Shop, ſaith he, in his Church, as a Refiner, and Purifier of Silver, and he ſhall purifie the Sons of Levi. He came and purified the Church more and more, tells them, Except their Righteouſneſs exceed the Righteouſneſs of the Scribes and Phariſees, they ſhall not enter into the Kingdom of God. And, my Brethren, this you ſhall find, that ſtill the higher and purer the Goſpel riſeth in the light of it, the more unregenerate men will be diſcovered, and their Priviledges which they poſſeſs in the Church of God be taken from them: Not only Ignorance and Prophaneneſs, but Civility; yea, in the end it will riſe ſo high, that all temporary Believers ſhall be diſcovered, in that glorious new Jeruſalem; there ſhall not be a Man there that maketh a Lye; not only not a Man that telleth a Lye, but not a Man that maketh a Lye; that is, not a Man whoſe heart is not changed, not a Man that is in the leaſt degree a Gentile; and all unbelievers they ſhall be without. Still as the Goſpel goes higher, it uncaſes Men the more, and diſcovers the vanity of ſuch outward

Privi-

Priviledges as theſe are, and will thruſt them out. So much now for the firſt thing in the Text, Among whom we. Serm. V.

Among whom we all. I muſt ſpeak a little to that word [all,] and it ſhall be but a little: that is, all we Jews, or more eſpecially all we that are Believers, converted of the Jews; ſaith he, We all, all we Apoſtles, we were once unregenerate men, and we lived in that ſtate and condition, and in the ſame luſts that ye Gentiles did; and all the Converts among the Jews they did ſo too.

Now you will ſay unto me, Were there none of theſe that were holy even from their Infancy?

Yes, my Brethren, it may be there were ſome, but there were but a very few. You know John Baptiſt was; but all, that is, the generality, for the moſt part even all the Believers that lived among us, they were for ſome time in a natural and unregenerate condition.

But there is a ſpecial Reaſon why it was ſpoken of the Jews in the Apoſtle's time, [We all;] for the truth is this, in the Old Teſtament you ſhall find very few Converſions; you do not reade when Iſaac was converted: you reade indeed that Abraham had a Call, for the Text ſaith he was an Idolater: but take Iſaac and Jacob, and Joſeph, and Moſes, and you ſhall reade no where of their Converſion; whereas ye have abundance of ſtories of Converſions in the New Teſtament: but in the Old Teſtament the truth is God wrought much even from their Infancy; although that ſpeaks of Converſion too; for the Prophet ſaith that Levi turned many from their Iniquity whilſt he kept the Covenant, Mal.2.8. and in *Pſal.*51. David ſaith, Sinners ſhall be converted unto thee. But yet before the times of the Goſpel, before the time of John Baptiſt's preaching, the truth is, there was then ſuch a corruption generally among the Jews, that they were in a manner as it were all left in their natural condition, there were very few Godly among them, that ſo the fruit of the Goſpel might the more appear. I will give you but one Text for it, Luke 1. 17. it is ſaid there of John that when he ſhould come to preach, he ſhould turn the heart of the Children to their Fathers; that is, whereas Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, and all thoſe Holy and Godly Fathers, had been for Juſtification by Grace, they had reſted upon the Meſſiah, the Promiſe of God, and had turned to God, and ſerved Him truly; theſe Jews were ſo generally corrupted, that the whole Nation needed a new Converſion, to be of the old Fathers Religion; therefore it is ſaid, he ſhould turn the hearts of the Children to their Fathers.

But then again, there is a third Anſwer, [We all.] He ſhews not ſo much, de facto, what all were, or in a ſtrict word, or in ſtrict terms that all the Jews had bin unregenerate for a long while before they were turned; but his ſcope is to ſhew what the generality of them were, and what all would have bin; the ſame nature would have wrought the ſame effect, had not the Grace of God come and put the difference.

I ſhould likewiſe ſpeak a little to theſe words, [In time paſt;] but I ſhall meet with it ſo often, as in ver. 11. Remember that ye being in time paſt Gentiles in the fleſh; and in the next words likewiſe, and were the Children of Wrath: and the Obſervation I have upon it I will not now inſiſt upon, but rather come to what followeth: And ſo now I come to theſe other words:

> We all had our Converſation in times paſt in the luſts of the fleſh, fulfilling the deſires of the fleſh, and of the mind; and were by nature the Children of Wrath, even as others.

Here is an exceeding exact deſcription of the Corruption of Man's Heart and Converſation by nature. And the Apoſtle hath a double ſcope in it. His ſcope is,

Firſt, To ſhew the pedigree of cauſes of all that Corruption that is in Men while they are unregenerate; as he had ſhewn the World to be a cauſe, and the Devil to be a cauſe; ſo here the Fleſh, the cauſe of cauſes, he putting this difference between the cauſes, that Satan and the World are but external cauſes; We walk, [according] to the courſe of the World, and [according] to the Prince of the power of the Air; but when he ſpeaks of the luſts of the fleſh, he ſpeaks of that as the internal cause, We walk [in] the lusts of the flesh, &c. You have here, my Brethren, all the causes of Sin in Mens lives: You have Sin in the Herauldry of the causes of it. We have it emblazoned here as fully as can be desired: For,

Serm. V.

1. Here is Flesh, Corrupt Nature, which sticks in us, which is as the root and fountain.

2. Here are Lusts, which are the first-born of that Flesh, of that Corruption, that are the immediate Ebullitions, the boylings, the springings up from that fountain.

3. Here is a division of the several sorts of Lusts; he doth not only call them Lusts, in the Plural, because they are many, but he gives us their several sorts: There are Lusts of the Flesh, or the Body, the sensual part, wherein the Soul partaketh with the Body: and there are the Lusts of the Mind, the superiour part, whose Actings are abstracted from the Body. Then there is the outward Conversation. The Flesh that begets Lusts, and the Lusts bring forth a corrupt Conversation; We had our Conversation in the Lusts of the Flesh; they are as the streams, or the springings that Lusts from the fountain make. And the Conversation, the badness of that, he setteth forth two ways. 1. By the constancy of it, that all an unregenerate man's courses are nothing else but Sin; they walked in it, had their whole conversation in it. 2. That it is nothing else but a fulfilling of some Lust or other; fulfilling (saith he) the desires of the flesh, and of the mind.

4. Because it will be said, Man is a Reasonable Creature, and hath an Understanding and a Will, and is not led to an Action as Beasts are, by brutish and unreasonable passions. Can Lusts carry a Reasonable Man on alone in a brutish way, as Beasts are led? Therefore he tells you, that the truth is, that these Lusts they have all of them before they come to act, the consent of the Will; and therefore what he calleth Lusts in the first part of his discourse, [had our Conversations in the Lusts of the Flesh] he varies the phrase in the next, doing the Wills of the flesh, so it is in the Greek, τὰ θελήματα τ σαρκός. But doth the Will move without the Understanding? No, there is the Will of the Mind too, τῆς διανοιῶν, it is in the plural too. Take all the intellectual powers in a Man, they are all corrupt, they have all their Lusts, and they all concur through their Corruption to dictate to the Will to yield to all these Lusts. But then,

5. The Question will be, How do we come to be thus corrupt? What is the cause of all this flesh which is the cause of Lusts, and which is seated thus in the Will and Understanding, and which causeth all Mens Sins in their lives? If you ask me how you come by it? I will tell you, saith the Apostle; you had it by nature, We were all the Children of Wrath by Nature, therefore we were sinful by Nature; for the object of God's Wrath and Anger is only Sin. That's one scope.

But a second scope the Apostle hath, is, as to shew the causality of Sin in this its pedigree, that Flesh is the original of Lusts, those Lusts are the original of all the wicked Conversation in us, to which the Will consents, and the Understanding also: So likewise his scope is to afford matter of humiliation to those Ephesian Gentiles, and the Jews also, and so to all Mankind, and to magnifie the free Grace of God the more; and therefore he doth set forth corrupt Nature in the full and most exact manner that we find in all the Book of God, as, when I open the Particulars, will appear. I thought to have done it now by way of Analysis, but I shall not be able then to come to the particular Exposition of these words [had our Conversation in the Lusts of our flesh] which I would make an end of, therefore I will reserve it till the last of all, where it will come in as well.

I am to open Three things.

1. What is meant by Flesh.

2. What is meant by Lusts of the Flesh.

3. What this importeth, to have our Conversation in the Lusts of the Flesh.

First, What is meant by Flesh? I must do two things in that.

1. What

Serm. V.

1. What the thing it ſelf is, that is meant by Fleſh, namely, that Corruption of Nature Original.

2. The Reaſon of the Phraſe, why this Original Corruption is termed, the Fleſh.

I ſhall do both theſe, as briefly as poſſibly I can. And,

Firſt; For the thing it ſelf, I will give you but this brief Deſcription or Definition of it, and give you Scripture for every word of it, or for the chief Branches of it. It is a ſinful Diſpoſition in Man's Nature, that is become his Nature, whereby it is empty of all Good, yea, oppoſite to it, to all Good that is towards God, and containeth in it the Seeds and Principles of all Sins whatſoever. This in a word is meant by Fleſh.

Now to make this out:

1. I ſay, it is a corrupt Diſpoſition, or Biaſs, as I may ſo call it, in the Nature of Man, in the whole Nature of Man. It is not the ſubſtance of Man's Nature; for then, when it was ſaid, The Word was made Fleſh, the meaning were, that the Word was made Sin, if that Fleſh and Corruption had been the ſubſtance of Man's Nature, and Jeſus Chriſt and we had not been of the ſame Nature, as he was Man. In John 3. 6. ſaith Chriſt, That which is born of the Fleſh, is Fleſh. He evidently meant here by Fleſh, a diſtinct thing from the Nature of Man; for he ſaith, that that which is born of the Fleſh, is Fleſh, even as he ſaith, that That which is born of the Spirit, is Spirit. By Spirit, in the laſt words, he meaneth, a differing thing from Spirit in the firſt words; ſo when he ſaith, Is Fleſh, he meaneth, a differing thing from that which is born of Fleſh: the one notes out the Subſtance; the other, the adjunct Diſpoſition of it.

Which Diſpoſition is yet now become Man's Nature, that is, as natural Diſpoſitions are, and all this emptineſs of Good, and Seeds of all Evil: Therefore the next words tell us, that he is by Nature (as I ſhall open it afterwards in part) the Child of Wrath. And as there is a Divine Nature, that hath the Seeds of all Good in it, all things belonging to Life and Godlineſs, 2 Pet. 1. 3, 4. compare but the Verſes together; it is called the Divine Nature, and it is ſaid, to have all things belonging to Life and Godlineſs: So this corrupt Nature of ours, on the contrary, it is a Diſpoſition to all Evil, I ſay, a Diſpoſition. And therefore, altho this corrupt Nature of Man is ſometimes called Fleſh; yet you ſhall find in other Scriptures, it is ſaid to be fleſhly, and ſaid to be carnal: Tho it be called Fleſh in the Abſtract, for ſome reaſons; yet to ſhew, it is but a Diſpoſition in Man's Nature, not the Subſtance of his Nature, therefore he is ſaid to be fleſhly; as in Rom. 7. 14. I am carnal, (it is the ſame word, but only there is an Adjective; he ſaith not, I am fleſh, but, I am carnal,) ſold under Sin. As that Spirit, which is born of the Spirit, is called the Spiritual Man in Scripture; ſo that which is born of the Fleſh, and called Fleſh, is called the carnal Man in Scripture: 1 Cor. 3. 3. Are ye not carnal? And, 1 Pet. 2. 11. they are called, fleſhly Luſts; becauſe this Fleſh is but an Adjunct, it is but a corrupt Quality, or corrupt Diſpoſition, that clingeth to Man's Nature. And ſo much now for the firſt part of the Definition.

2. It makes Man's Nature empty of all good Diſpoſitions whatſoever; it importeth an emptineſs, a vacuity of all good. What ſaith the Apoſtle, Rom. 7. In my Fleſh dwelleth no good thing? And yet if ever in any Man's Fleſh, in his unregenerate part, there had reaſon to have been ſome good thing, there was as much reaſon it ſhould have been in Paul's unregenerate part, as ever in any one's; why? becauſe there was ſo much Grace mingled with it: Yet all that Grace could never kill it, never work good in it, ſo long as it remained; it might deſtroy it, but it could never teach the unregenerate part good, or work the leaſt good in it. Nay, it is not only an emptineſs of all good, but it is an enmity to all

Serm. V.

all good; as you have it, Rom. 8. He ſaith, that the fleſhly Mind, or φρόνημα, the leaſt ſtirrings of the Fleſh in any Act, is Enmity againſt God. And,

3. It containeth in it the Maſs, it is the Seed, the Seminary of all ſort of Sin whatſoever. For that I will give you that place, in Col. 2. 11. The Body of the Sins of the Fleſh. It is a whole Body of Sin. What is the meaning of that? In a word thus, Go take a Child's Body, and it hath all the parts; tho they are not ſo big as a Man's that is grown up, yet it hath all the parts of a Man: So go, take that Corruption, that lies in the Heart of every Child, it is a whole Body of Sin, it is perfect for parts, indeed the Limbs may grow greater and greater, as Men grow wickeder; for this Original Corruption, I mean, this vicious Diſpoſition, is increaſed in Men: But yet notwithſtanding, it is not increaſed by adding new parts of Corruption to it; but the Seeds of all were at the firſt, and it ſtill groweth greater and greater. So you ſee here, as briefly as I can, what [Fleſh] is.

That which hath exerciſed my thoughts moſt, is, Why it is called Fleſh? I find, that the Old Teſtament did uſe it from the very firſt, Gen. 6. 7. When God gives the reaſon there, why he would deſtroy Man, and indeed the very Sons of God, they that profeſs'd themſelves to be the Sons of God, but were all generally unregenerate, but Noah, and one or two more that belonged to his Family, he gives this reaſon for it, expreſſeth it thus, The Lord ſaid, My Spirit ſhall not always ſtrive with Man, for that he alſo is Fleſh. By Fleſh here, he doth not mean, that Man is a frail Creature; but he ſpeaks of him, as he is ſinful, as he is corrupt, and his meaning is this: I ſee, ſaith he, that Man is nothing but Fleſh, that his whole Nature is nothing, but a reſiſting and an oppoſing of my Spirit; and therefore my Spirit ſhall not always ſtrive with him for that he is Fleſh: Yet, His Days ſhall be an hundred and twenty Years, notwithſtanding they were ſo generally corrupt. And that he meaneth by Fleſh, the corrupt Nature of Man, I have much to make it plain, but I ſhall in a word manifeſt it. It is, not only becauſe it is alledged as a Cauſe of the Flood, and becauſe it is brought in, as oppoſite to the Spirit; but in the 5*th* Verſe, he ſheweth the Fruits of this Fleſh, God ſaw, that the Wickedneſs of Man was great in the Earth, and that every Imagination of the Thoughts of his Heart was only evil continually. And then compare with it chap. 8. verſ. 21. He had given a reaſon here in this 6*th* Chap. why he would bring the Flood; and mark it, the reaſon muſt be general, for the Flood deſtroyed Infants, as well as thoſe of riper years, and therefore he gives a Reaſon that ſhall reach Infants, and all; and he ſaith, they were Fleſh. Now in the 8*th* Chapter, verſ. 21. he giveth a Reaſon, why he would not any more bring the Flood, and what is it? The Lord ſaid in his Heart, I will not curſe the Ground any more for Man's ſake; for the Imagination of Man's Heart is evil from his Youth, or Infancy. There are ſome Interpreters that read it thus: I will not deſtroy it, altho the Imagination of Mans Heart is evil; before indeed I deſtroyed the World, becauſe Man is Fleſh, and becauſe the Imagination of his Heart is continually evil from his Youth; yet, altho I did it once, I will not do it again. It comes all to one, the meaning is this: I have now received a Sacrifice, I ſmell the Savour of the Blood of Chriſt in Noah's Sacrifice; therefore for his Sacrifice ſake, I will be patient with Man; for he is corrupt, and I muſt bring I know not how many Floods to waſh away his Corruption, therefore I will be patient; I only bring it for this, to ſhew, that the Word [Fleſh] is uſed for Original Sin. I might be large in this.

Only by the way, let me obſerve this one thing upon it: That the old World, you ſee, was well inſtructed in the Doctrine of Original Corruption. God reveals it plainly to Noah, gives it for a reaſon of the Flood. And there was good reaſon, why it ſhould be then well known, becauſe that the World had fallen not many hundred years before in Adam, and Adam lived nine hundred of them, to tell the Story of it. So that indeed the Doctrine of Man's Corruption was perhaps more rife and quick in thoſe Times, than in after-Times it was unto the very Jews themſelves. Now then, the Old Teſtament having uſed the word

Fleſh,

Fleſh, our Saviour Chriſt continues it; and in John 3.6. giving the reaſon, why that every Man muſt be born again, or he cannot enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, he tells them, becauſe every Man by his firſt Birth is nothing but Fleſh, that is, nothing but Corruption, nothing but Sin, That which is born of the Fleſh, is Fleſh; therefore of neceſſity Men muſt be born again. And the Apoſtles after Chriſt did uſe it, and the New Teſtament in the Epiſtles commonly uſeth it, and putteth it for Corruption.

But now to give you the Reaſons of this Appellation, in a word or two:

Firſt; It is called Fleſh, in diſtinction from, and in oppoſition to Spirit. The Jews did call things Fleſh, that were not Spirit. Hence therefore now, if it were a ſubſtantial Spirit, that Fleſh was diſtinguiſhed from, look what kind of Spirit that any thing was differenced from, in that ſence we are to underſtand Fleſh in diſtinction from it. I ſhall give you but one Inſtance, tho I could give you a great many: You know, that God is a Spirit, and that Jeſus Chriſt had in his Perſon both a Humane and a Divine Nature: the Divine Nature, that's called Spirit; and the Humane Nature, that's called Fleſh. There is a Multitude of Inſtances for it: It is the Spirit that quickneth, the Fleſh profiteth nothing: That is, it is his Godhead putteth all the Influence into his Humanity; if he had been Man alone, it would not have done it: He was put to death in the Fleſh, and quickned in the Spirit. But the moſt expreſs place is, in Rom. 1.3, 4. he ſaith, He came of the Seed of Abraham, according to the Fleſh: But he was raiſed by the Spirit of Holineſs, that is, by his Godhead. Man himſelf hath a Spirit in him, his Soul; hence therefore his Body is, in oppoſition to the Soul, called Fleſh, 2 Cor. 7. 1. Let us cleanſe our ſelves from all Pollution of Fleſh, (that is, of bodily Luſts,) and of Spirit, (that is, of the Soul, which the Soul exerciſeth without dependance upon the Body.) So in Pſal. 79. 2. The Bodies of the Saints, are called, the Fleſh of the Saints. Yea, the very Goſpel it ſelf, becauſe it hath a Spiritualneſs in it, is called Spirit, and the Law is called Fleſh: The Goſpel, in 2 Cor. 3. 8. is called, the Miniſtration of the Spirit. And, Gal. 3. 3. Did you begin in the Spirit, and will you end in the Fleſh? Or will you be perfected in the Fleſh? That is, by adding the Law to the Goſpel, which was the thing they endeavoured. Now then the word [Fleſh] being ſtill uſed in oppoſition to, and in diſtinction from Spirit, whether taken in a ſubſtantial ſence, or otherwiſe hence, becauſe that the new Creature, which is begot by the Holy-Ghoſt, is called Spirit, That which is born of the Spirit, is Spirit; Hence therefore the contrary Quality, that corrupt Nature, that luſteth againſt this Spirit, and is oppoſite unto it, is called Fleſh: And as that Spirit is the Bundle of all Graces; ſo this Fleſh is the Bundle of Folly, that is bound up in the Heart of Man, a whole Bundle of it, a Maſs of Corruption. The Law, ſaith Paul, is ſpiritual, but I am carnal, Rom. 7. 14. All Corruption oppoſite to the Law, is called Carnality or Fleſh, becauſe the holy Law is ſpiritual.

But ſecondly; There is another Reaſon, why it is called Fleſh, and that is: Becauſe this corrupt Nature of ours doth confine us to things fleſhly, as to our Objects; that is, that all the Powers and Faculties of Soul and Body ſhall only mind the things of the Fleſh, (but I do not mean things of the Body, when I ſay ſo,) whereas Spirit, the new Creature; it hath for its Object all ſort of ſpiritual things. I do found this upon Rom. 5. 9. Saith he there, They that are after the Fleſh, do mind the things of the Fleſh; but they that are after the Spirit, do mind the things of the Spirit. It is a Saying in Philoſophy, and it is a true one, that Facultates diſtinguuntur per actus & objecta, all natural Faculties are diſtinguiſhed by their Objects: So is Fleſh and Spirit, Grace and Corruption. And becauſe corrupt Nature hath the things of the Fleſh for its Object, hence it is called Fleſh; and becauſe that there are ſpiritual things, which are the Object of Grace and Holineſs, which are ſpiritual things, hence that is called a Spirit.

Now, my Brethren, let me tell you, that by the things of the Fleſh, is not meant only things of the Body, or belonging to the Body, or the Object of bodily Luſts, but all outward things whatſoever, all Creature-Comforts; yea, I may ſay, all Creatures, take God and Chriſt out of them, and they are all the things of

Serm. V.

of the Flesh. The Apostle expresseth it there, in Col. 3. 2. when he calleth them earthly things, which our earthly Members are set upon; for corrupt Nature confines us to things on Earth, confines us to things of this World; spiritual things, that are of another World, the natural Man hath no suitableness to them. And by things of the Flesh, is not meant only more gross Sins, which are called, The Works of the Flesh, Gal. 5. 19. but all Creature-Comforts whatsoever, all Dignities, all Excellencies, Honours, Riches, all the Glories of the World, that do so much take up the Minds of Men, they are called the things of the Flesh; and to these doth corrupt Nature suite us, and carry us on. 2 Cor. 5. 16. Henceforth know we no Man after the Flesh. After the Flesh, referreth both unto the things known, and to the manner of knowing them: To the things known, which is that which is to our purpose, that is, we value no Man by his outward Privileges and Dignities; we value no Man by Honours, Riches, or Greatness, or by what he is in this World, So likewise in Rom. 5. 27. when they had sent a Contribution to them at Jerusalem, saith Paul, They did partake of your carnal things, that is, of your fleshly things; he calleth their Riches and Estates, things that are fleshly. So in 1 Cor. 9. 11. And you have the like in another place, I will not glory in the Flesh. And there is a Phrase in Gal. 6. 12. of making a fair shew in the Flesh, that is, in fleshly things, in any thing but in God and in Christ. The Jews did call whatsoever was outward, Flesh, and fleshly: The very Ceremonial Law therefore the Apostle calls, a carnal Commandment, a fleshly Commandment, Heb. 7. 10. And so he calls the Duties of it, the Works of the Flesh, tho they were the Institutions of God, yet because they had an outwardness in them, in regard of the Gospel, he calleth them Flesh. I alledge it for this, that all things that were outward were called Flesh among the Jews; yea, the Works of the Moral Law, if a Man would affect to be never so holy, (if he take away aiming at God as the principal) and if he will go, and trust in them when they are done, they are all Flesh, they are things of the Flesh. What saith the Apostle, Phil. 3 3. If any have reason to be confident in the Flesh, much more I, I had cause to trust in the Flesh. He had relation to that Speech in Jer. 17. 5. Cursed is the Man, that maketh Flesh his Arm: Which is, not only to make Man his confidence, but any thing; for Paul interpreteth it here, My own Righteousness, and whatsoever I did, all the Works of the Law, it is all but Flesh, all the Privileges, if you go and sever Christ from them.

Now, my Brethren, (consider what I say) corrupt Nature then hath for its Object, all the things of the Flesh, Take Spiritual out of the Law, and the Duties of it; take the new Creature out of it, and take Jesus Christ out of it, and 'tis all Flesh, and corrupt Nature will suit with them all; it may be wound up to the Works of the Law, to a seeking and an affecting of blamelessness, &c. The very Works of the Gospel, if you will let them be carried on for self-ends, they are all the Works of the Flesh, and things of the Flesh; if you will trust in what you do, they become things of the Flesh. Take a Man that is a temporary Believer, and he may be wound up to the ways and things of the Gospel; yet he turns them all to the things of the Flesh, and corrupt Nature remaining, Flesh will suit with all these.

And then again, a third Reason why it is called Flesh, is this: Because it is propagated by natural Generation, John 3. 3, 4. That which is born of the Flesh, is Flesh; the thing that is born or begotten, hath the Name of the Begetter; That which is born of the Spirit, is Spirit: That which is born of the Flesh, that is, by a fleshly way of Generation, is Flesh, is Corruption.

And let me make this Observation of it: Sin, you know, it is the Work of Satan; Ye are of your Father, the Devil, saith he: Why? because he is the remote Cause. Original Sin hath not its denomination from him, for he hath not that Influence into Sin, which the Holy-Ghost hath in working Grace in us; therefore he would not say, that which is of Satan in you is Corruption; but because that Generation is the next, and immediate or proximate Cause, therefore it beareth the Name, Flesh, because it is born of Flesh, and Flesh is the immediate cause of it. And hence it was, that Circumcision was in the fore-sksn of the Flesh; and it is called Flesh peculiarly in Rom. 2. 28. And I could give you other Scriptures, as Lev. 15. 2. and Ezek. 23, 20.

Then

Then again, in the fourth place, it is called Fleſh, in reſpect of the more viſible ſeat and ſubject of Corrupt Nature, in which it is moſt ſeen; viſibly it is in the Fleſh, it is in the Luſts of the Body of all ſorts and kinds. The Scripture doth give you denominations not always from the more principal part, but it gives the denomination from what is viſible, as ſpeaking ad vulgus to the people: as for Example, The nature of Man conſiſts of Body and Soul. The Soul is a Spirit, you know, but the Body is Fleſh. Uſually in Scripture the name that is given to Man is Fleſh; The Word was made Fleſh. In his ſight ſhall no Fleſh be juſtified; that is, no Man. Here you ſee the Body carries away the denomination. It is not that Man hath not a Soul, and that that is not the more principal part, but becauſe the Fleſh is the more viſible part, that which we behold, in which the Soul dwelleth. Hence therefore the Scripture calleth Man Fleſh. Anſwerably, tho Sin is as much, and much more in our Will and Underſtanding than it is in ſenſual Luſts; yet notwithſtanding, becauſe that Original Sin is ſeen moſt in ſenſual Luſts, which have their ſeat in the Fleſh, hence it is called Fleſh; the denomination of the whole ariſeth from thence. And let me give you this Obſervation by the way, That the Devils, tho they have the ſame corruption in their Underſtanding and Will, that we have, and we the ſame that they have: for, ſaith He, Ye are of your father the Devil, and his Luſts ye will do. Yet they are not called fleſhly, neither are they called Fleſh; but they are called, in Epheſ. 6. 17. Spiritual Wickedneſſes. Why? becauſe they have no bodily, no ſenſual Luſts in them, which in a viſible way ſhould carry away the denomination. But becauſe in Man's Nature there is another part, in which Sin is more viſibly ſeen, which eminently is called Luſt, which is Original Corruption, therefore it is in a more peculiar manner called Fleſh. And ſo much now for the Reaſons of the Denomination.

I will give you an Obſervation or two.

Obſerv. 1.

In the firſt place, my Brethren, we may from hence take a Directory for the humbling of our ſelves. Here you ſee in theſe words, having our Converſation in the Luſts of the Fleſh, there are three things the Apoſtle holds forth to every Man to conſider, when he would humble himſelf before God. In the firſt place, he diſcovers to him his Fleſh, that is, his corrupt Nature, having the ſeeds of all Sin in him. Which corrupt Nature, he tells him, in the ſecond place, is an active principle in him, it is the cauſe of all the Luſts in his heart, and all the evil in his converſation. It is an active principle that is never idle: for tho it ſelf is indeed but a meer privation, yet becauſe it is a privation in an active ſubject, as Man's Soul is, hence therefore it is never quiet. In Rom. 7. 5, 10. he ſaith, that when he was in the Fleſh, the motions of Sin wrought, they had force in his members to carry him on to evil; and in verſ. 10. he giveth the name of Sin above all elſe to this original corruption by way of eminency, Sin, ſaith he, wrought in me all Concupiſcence. What doth he mean by Sin? moſt plainly Original Sin. Why? becauſe that which works Concupiſcence, which brings forth Luſts, that muſt needs be Original Corruption; Sin wrought, ſaith he. I ſpeak it for this, it is an active principle, therefore he calleth that the great Sin of all the reſt, he giveth it the name of Sin above all the reſt, not only becauſe it hath the ſeeds of all Sin in it, but becauſe it is the worker, the great Mother of all the Abominations. As Babylon is called the Mother of all the Abominations in Europe, all Idolatries come from thence: ſo this is the great Mother of all the Abominations in Man's Heart. Therefore in the ſame Rom. 7. 13. he calleth it Sin above meaſure, tho he means Sin in the general, and actual Sin too; but yet Original Sin he eſpecially ſpeaks of, and carrieth along in that diſcourſe, it is, ſaith he, above meaſure ſinful, for it is the Mother of all Abominations and works all Concupiſcence; and therefore this humbled Paul more, and ſo it ſhould do us.

And, my Brethren, it is a predominant principle too; that's clear in the Text alſo: for all our Luſts, and all our Sins, they are not ſo much called the Luſts of the Man, as the Luſts of the Fleſh; becauſe that Fleſh, that Corruption, is now the predominant principle in every Man's nature: therefore all Sins are called the fruits of the Fleſh, ſo in Gal. 5. They are called the deeds of the Fleſh, ſo in Rom. 8. And we are ſaid to be in the Fleſh, Rom. 7. And not only the Fleſh to be in us, but as a Man is ſaid to be in Drink, or in Love, that is, he is overcome with it. It is a predominant principle. And indeed tho Ariſtotle gave the definition of a Man, That he was a Reaſonable Creature, having an Underſtanding and a Will; yet Divinity tells us plainly that Man is Fleſh, if you will ſpeak Theologically, take Chriſt's definition, and it is ſo: Why? becauſe look what Fleſh is to him, as he is Man, that Sin is to him now, it is his Nature, it is his Form: Therefore if I would define a Man, I would define him to be a fleſhly Creature, as Ariſtotle defin'd him a rational Creature; therefore in 1 Cor. 3. ſaith the Apoſtle, Ye walk as Men, are ye not carnal? and to be carnal and fleſhly, is all one. When thou haſt ſeen therefore corrupt Fleſh as the root of all, then go and look to thy Luſts, all the corruption that in thy life, it is from the ſtirring of Luſts in thee; all the corruption in the World, is ſaid to be through Luſts, 2 Pet. 3. 4. therefore go and look eſpecially to them.

Serm. V.

And, laſtly, then, go to thy Actions; or, if you will, begin at your Actions, and ſo go to your Luſts, and next to the Fleſh: for, indeed, there is the pedigree of Sin. If a Man would be humbled, let him view his Actions, let him look into his Heart, ſee all his Luſts, and all the Engines that act them; and when he hath done, let him go down to the ſpawn of all, and then to that birth which was the means of conveying it.

* SERM.

SERMON VI.

EPHES. 2. 3.

Among whom alſo we all had our Converſation in Times paſt, in the Luſts of our Fleſh, fulfilling the Deſires (or the Wills) of the Fleſh, and of the Mind: And were by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others.

I Have formerly told you, that in theſe three firſt Verſes of this ſecond Chapter, there is an exact Deſcription of the State of Man by Nature, ſo compleat, and ſo compendious an one, as is no where elſe together (that I know) in the whole Book of God.

I did caſt the whole into theſe three Generals.

I. Here is the internal habitual Eſtate, which in that State of Nature Men ſtand and lie in, They are dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes.

II. Here is their external Converſation, with all the three Cauſes, (the World, Fleſh, and Satan,) which do pervert them: Wherein (ſaith he) in Time paſt ye walked. There is,

1. The exemplary Cauſe, the weakeſt: According to the Courſe of this World.
2. The outward Efficient and Inciter, or Procatartical Cauſe, that is, Satan: According to the Prince of the Power of the Air. There is,
3. The inward Cauſe, the Luſts of our own Hearts: Fulfilling the Deſires of the Fleſh, and of the Mind, &c.

III. Here is the Miſery, and the Puniſhment, that is the conſequent of both, that we are Children of Wrath; we Jews, ſaith the Apoſtle, as well as others, and all Mankind.

The laſt thing I fell upon, was, the Deſcription of that third and laſt Cauſe, of all the Corruption in Mens Converſation: Having our Converſation in the Luſts of the Fleſh, fulfilling the Deſires of the Fleſh, and of the Mind, &c.

In opening of this third Cauſe, (which is the Corruption of Nature) I told you, that the Apoſtle's Scope was, to ſhew the Pedigree of all theſe Cauſes. Here is,

1. The Root whence all ſpring, Our Fleſh, a Body of Sin. Which Fleſh,
2. Begetteth Luſts, which are the firſt-born Buds of Original Corruption inherent in us: The Luſts (ſaith he) of our Fleſh. And then you have,
3. The Diviſion of theſe. They are either,
   1. The Luſts of the Body, ſenſual Luſts. Or,
   2. The Luſts of the Mind, of the Underſtanding, and ſuperior part. And then he telleth you,

Serm. VI.

4. What is the Spring, both of this Fleſh, and this inherent Corruption, that produceth theſe Luſts, (which Luſts we obey, and all our Converſation by Nature is nothing elſe but the fulfilling of theſe Luſts); he ſaith, it is our Birth, we have it by Nature. So he tells us in the next words: And are the Children of Wrath by Nature, even as others.

And as he tells us the Order of Corruption thus, and the Pedigree of it, (of pure and meer Corruption ſo conſidered); ſo he ſhews the Order of the Cauſes in the courſe of Nature, according to the ſubordination of the Faculties one to another. Man hath an Underſtanding, and Man hath a Will, and there is no Luſt fulfilled, but there is a conſent of the Will firſt given thereunto. And therefore that which he calls Luſts in the firſt part of the Words, [In the Luſts of our Fleſh,] when it comes to the fulfilling of them, he calls them, the Wills of the Fleſh; ſo it is in the Original, and in your Margins.

And ſo you have the Analyſis of the Words.

I left in theſe Words, [In the Luſts of our Fleſh,] and I ſhall proceed in them. There are four things to be explained.

I. What is meant by Fleſh?

II. Why it is called Fleſh? (for there is not a particle, nor a word, that is in vain here.

III. What are the Luſts of our Fleſh, and the Sinfulneſs of them.

IV. What it is to have our converſation in theſe Luſts?

I. What is meant by Fleſh?

I told you, by it is meant that inherent Corruption, which ſticks in us, and overſpreadeth all the Powers both of Soul and Body. That which is born of the Fleſh, is Fleſh.

When I handled this, I did two things:

1. I gave you an account of the Phraſe, and the Reaſons of it, why inherent Corruption is called Fleſh. It was called ſo by Moſes, in Gen. 6. and it was called ſo by Chriſt, and ſo the Apoſtles uſed it.

2. I deſcribed the thing it ſelf, and I told you, it was a Maſs, or a Bundle, or Body of ſinful Diſpoſitions in Man's Nature, which were become his Nature, whereby the whole Man, and all the Powers thereof, were empty of all good; and it contained within it, the Seeds, and the Inclinations to all Sins whatſoever. It is called the Body of the Sins of the Fleſh, Col. 2.

I will not ſtand to repeat what I then delivered, but will proceed to the

II. Why is it called, Our Fleſh?

When God made Man, it is ſaid, He made him in his Image; as the Grace that Adam had, it was God's, it was his Image: But you read in Gen. 4. when Man was fallen, he is ſaid, to beget Seth in his Image; the Stile is altered, from God's Image, to his Image. An account may eaſily be given, why it is called Adam's Image, becauſe that he ſinned, and contracted it to himſelf. But why is it called ours, as here our Fleſh? The truth is, becauſe we are the miſerable Subjects of it. So, why is it called, Our Fleſh, but becauſe we are the miſerable Subjects of it, becauſe it is our Nature: Tho we have it from our Parents, (that is, derived to us by them,) yet being our Nature, it is of all things properly ours; for there is nothing ſo properly ours, as what is our Nature, and what is our ſelves. As therefore Hell is called, a Sinner's Place, (as you have it, Acts 1.) ſo Corruption and Fleſh is called our Fleſh, we poſſeſs nothing but Sin. Yea, Paul, he calleth it himſelf: In me, (ſaith he) that is, in my Fleſh; he doth not only call it Fleſh, but he calls it himſelf. And,

derived

2. It is called our Fleſh, in oppoſition to God's Work. Let no Man, ſaith James, when he is tempted, ſay, he is tempted of God; he is tempted of his own Luſts, of his own Fleſh: Of his own Luſts, that is the Phraſe there, in James 1. 13, 14. It is ſpoken there in oppoſition to the Work of God in us; it is not that which at firſt God created us in. And,

3. It is called our Fleſh, in oppoſition to the Grace that is in us. When the Devil is ſaid to ſin, he is ſaid to ſin of his own, John 8. 44. And in Jude v. 16. carnal Men are ſaid to walk after their own Luſts. But if any Grace be ſpoken of, that is in us, how runs the Stile of that? I have done thus and thus (ſaith Paul,) and yet not I, but the Grace of God that is in me. I know a Man in Chriſt, (ſaith he) was thus and thus, not of my ſelf will I glory, but of that Man in Chriſt. The Phraſe that is uſed, (ſpeaking of Grace, and all the workings of it,) in 2 Cor. 3. is, We are not ſufficient of our ſelves, as of our ſelves, (there is all the excluſion that may be, both ἀφ' ἑαυτῶν, and ἐξ ἑαυτῶν, either of our ſelves, or out of our ſelves; neither à nobis, tanquam ex nobis,) to think a good Thought.

And ſo much now, why it is called, Our Fleſh. The Interpretation doth carry Obſervations with it, which I need not mention. I come to the

III. What are the Luſts of our Fleſh?

All the Buddings of this curſed Root of inherent Corruption in us, are in Scripture expreſt to us by Luſts. Sometimes the word [Luſts] is put for the Root it ſelf, for Original Sin it ſelf, that inherent quality in us; as in James 1. When Luſt hath conceived, it bringeth forth Sin. He calleth corrupt Nature Luſts; but here he calls the firſt Buds, the firſt riſings of Corruption from this root, he calls them Luſts. So, in Rom. 7. 10. Sin wrought in me all manner of Concupiſcence; that is, all manner of Luſts. Luſts there are taken for the buddings of Original Corruption, which is there meant by Sin, which is the Sin that dwells in us.

Now all the Corruption that is in corrupt Nature, I reduce to theſe two Heads, yet not I, but the Apoſtle.

1. All thoſe Principles of Atheiſm, of Infidelity, and Ungodlineſs, that are in the Hearts of Men, which are the foundation. For the Principles of Unbelief, and of Darkneſs, and Preſumption, and the like; theſe do cut a Man off from God; and the Soul being cut off from God, is left to eternal Death, as I ſhall ſhew you how by and by. I ſay, all the Corruptions in Man's Heart, they are reduced, either to the Principles of Atheiſm, of Infidelity and Unbelief; or elſe,

2. To thoſe poſitive Luſts, and Inclinations, and Deſires after ſomething in the World, which a Man would have, and which he placeth his comfort in, more than in God.

I take this Diviſion from that of the Apoſtle, in Tit. 2. 12. Teaching us to deny Ungodlineſs, and worldly Luſts. Here you have the Sum. And hence in the 18*th* Verſe of the Epiſtle of Jude, you ſhall find, that they are called ungodly Luſts; for the Heart being cut off from God, it is left to the ſwinge of its own natural Luſts and Deſires. And in theſe two lies the utmoſt extent of all the Corruption in Man's Nature.

Now altho indeed the Apoſtle here doth not directly mention that privative part (as I may call it) of Atheiſm and Unbelief; yet it is evidently implied: for our Luſts were not ſinful Luſts, unleſs they did ariſe from Ungodlineſs, from that Ungodlineſs, and that Atheiſm, and that Unbelief, that is in the Spirits of Men.

Serm. VI.

Men. He had occaſion to have mentioned thoſe Principles that are in the Mind, but yet he terms theſe, Luſts, and calleth them, Wills, or Luſts, or Deſires of the Mind, of the reaſoning part, as the word ſignifies.

Under the word [Luſts] the Apoſtle by a Synechdoche meaneth all the inward Acts, all the Purpoſes, all the Contrivances, all the Counſels of the Heart: For what are purpoſes? they are but the continuation of Deſires; and what are all the Contrivements and Counſels of the Hearts of Men? they are but to accompliſh their Deſires and Luſts. Therefore the Scripture indeed doth expreſs the Corruptions in the Hearts of Men by Luſts.

I could open to you the ſeveral Names, that are given to the Buddings of Corruption in us of all ſorts, as the Scripture hath laid them down. As,

1. Sometime they are called, the ſavouring of the Fleſh; as in Rom. 8. 5. Thoſe that are after the Fleſh, ſavour the things of the Fleſh. Every Faculty hath a Principle to diſcern what is ſuitable to it, and it doth ſavour that thing, and mind it. The word expreſſeth the ſuitableneſs that there is between a fleſhly Heart, and fleſhly things.

2. It is called ἐπιθυμία, as here, Luſts; for when the Heart doth find a ſuitableneſs between it, and any Object, it puts forth a deſire, and a luſt towards it. That which is in other Creatures an Inſtinct, in Man that is reaſonable, it is called, a Luſt, a Deſire.

3. They are called, τα παθήματα, Paſſions; and that indeed is the proper implication of the word. So in Rom. 7. 5. and in Gal. 5. to crucify the Luſts of the Fleſh, it is the Paſſions of the Fleſh: For God being gone, all theſe Luſts become Paſſions, become inordinate in us, they turn into violence: They are παθήματα, (as Galen uſeth the word) which is the Fits of the Diſeaſe; for all ſinful Deſires come by Fits, and come with violence, as the Fits do, and put Nature into a Fire, ſets on fire (as James expreſſeth it) the whole Courſe of Nature.

4. They are called (as here) Wills, Wills of the Fleſh. When they are gotten ſo high, as they have got the conſent of the Will, and then are put forth into Action, they are called, the Wills of the Fleſh. And ſo much for the Names that are given to Fleſh.

For the thing it ſelf, (I ſhall endeavour a little, that you may underſtand the Nature of the Luſts of the Hearts of the Sons of Men; it reacheth to all the Motions of Man's Nature whatſoever, that is, the Deſires, and there is no Faculty but hath its Deſires.) To open this, I ſhall do theſe three things, that ſo you may ſee, in what lieth the Sinfulneſs of theſe Luſts: I ſhall,

1. Shew you the natural State of the Soul, and the Luſtings thereof; for this you muſt know, that Luſting and Luſt is uſed ſometimes in a good ſence; for it is ſaid, The Spirit luſteth againſt the Fleſh, as well as the Fleſh luſteth againſt the Spirit. So that, I ſay, I ſhall ſhew you, firſt, the natural State of the Soul, and the Luſts thereof, without the conſideration of being good or evil. I ſhall,

2. Shew you the Holineſs of all the Luſts and Deſires of the Heart (wherein that lieth) in Man's firſt Nature, and now when he is renewed. And ſo,

3. You will underſtand the Sinfulneſs of the Heart of Man, in all its Luſtings, now when God is gone, now when they are become ungodly Luſts.

Firſt; I ſhall ſpeak of the Luſtings of the Heart, abſtractedly conſidered from good and evil in Man's Soul, in Man's Spirit.

My Brethren, what is the Soul of Man in its natural eſſential Conſtitution? It is nothing elſe, but a Chaos of Deſires, (let me ſo expreſs it); it is as the firſt matter, which was void of all form, and was full of nothing, but deſires after forms, of being fill'd, and being ſatisfied. God created the Soul, as a meer Stomach, to receive from other things a filling of it, and as we uſe to ſay, it is an empty Stomach: And therefore the Voice of all things, and of all Mankind by Nature, it is, Who will ſhew us any good? Pſal. 4. And all Faculties are like ſo many Birds in a Neſt, that ſtand gaping to be fill'd with ſome good thing ſuitable thereunto. So that now there are not only the ſenſual Deſires, or the bodily Luſts, but the Luſts of the Mind; the Mind it ſelf hath its Luſts in it, and its Deſires. As a man hath a deſire to think of this rather than of that, (tho it be his Underſtanding only that works) he hath a mind to ſuch a thing, a thought to ſuch an Object, to take ſuch a thing into conſideration. All the ſuperior parts, the Memory, and the Underſtanding, they have all their Luſtings, as well as the lower and inferior parts of the Spirit of Man. Now then the eſſential conſtitution of the Soul of Man being nothing but a Chaos of Deſires, an emptineſs, (as the Earth, the firſt matter, in Gen. 1. is ſaid to be void; ſo naturally in the eſſence of it, the Soul is a void thing, made to be filled up with other things,) which may ſatisfy this vaſt Chaos of deſires, the Lord ordained firſt himſelf to be Man's chiefeſt good, and to ſatisfy, and to fill all the Deſires, both of the Underſtanding, and the Will: He opened their Mouths wide, and he was able, and ordained himſelf to fill them. And to that end he created him with the Image of God, that is, with ſuch a Divine impreſſion, that look as the Needle, when it is touched by the Loadſtone, it moves Northward; ſo the Soul being touched with that Image, it carries the Underſtanding, the Will and Affections, and all the Luſts thereof, unto God, as the chiefeſt good, as finding a Suitableneſs in him, more than in all things elſe. And yet (in the ſecond place) God putting this Soul of Man into a Body, and ſo to lead an animal Life, (as the expreſſion is in 1 Cor. 15. 48.) he made a World ſuited to this Soul in this Body: And there is nothing in Man, either in his Underſtanding, or his Will, or in any of the Senſes, or in any thing belonging unto Man, but there is ſomething in the World likewiſe to ſuit it. He hath made the little World ſuited to the great World, and the great World to the little; as he hath ſuited ears unto ſounds, Meats for the Belly, as the Apoſtle ſaith. Now then,

many

Secondly; Wherein lay the Holineſs of all theſe Luſtings and Deſires of the Soul of Man? The Holineſs of them lay in theſe three things, and by that you ſhall ſee, wherein lieth their Sinfulneſs.

1. This Image of God, which had touched the Soul of Man, through the working of the Spirit of God in him, did carry on the Soul of Man to God, as his chiefeſt Good, to nothing above Him, to ſay, Whom have I in Heaven in compariſon of thee, and whom in Earth? And,

2. It carried the Soul of Man, and all its Deſires, to other things, that had a ſweetneſs in them, but only as means to taſte the goodneſs of God, to enjoy God in and by them, to know God the more, and to love him. And then,

3. It carried on all the Deſires of the Soul to all things elſe beſides God, for God's ſake; yea, and unto God himſelf, not only as his chiefeſt Good, but as the chiefeſt Good, not out of love of pleaſure, but out of Love unto God himſelf: for Holineſs being the Image of God, as God is for himſelf, (therein lieth his Holineſs) ſo this Image makes the Creature alſo to be for God.

And thus you have the Holineſs of theſe Luſtings in the Soul of Man. I have ſhewed you, firſt, What the natural Conſtitution of the Soul was in it ſelf; it is indeed nothing elſe but Luſts, an heap of Deſires: What the Holineſs of all theſe Deſires, was, I have ſhewn you, in the ſecond place. Now then,

Thirdly; I am to ſhew you the Sinfulneſs of them, which makes them to be here called, the Luſts of our Fleſh. You may eaſily underſtand, by what hath been ſaid of the Holineſs of them, wherein their Sinfulneſs lies. In a word, it lies in two things: It lies,

1. In a Privation: And,
2. In ſomething Poſitive.

They are ungodly Luſts, and they are worldly Luſts; they are called both: The one expreſſeth the privative part, the other the poſitive.

1. For

Serm. VI.

1. For the privative part. The foundation of all the Sinfulneſs of theſe Deſires lies in the want of that Image of God, of that magnetick Virtue, that Virtue of the Loadſtone, that ſhould carry up all theſe Deſires to God, and unto other things for his ſake. This Iron (as I may ſay) hath loſt this magnetick Touch, this Influence, and now it moveth only as Iron. The Underſtanding it is taken off from God, and the Will is taken off from God, and ſo all the Affections. You have that in Rom. 3. There is none underſtandeth, (namely God) and there is none that ſeeks (that have a will to ſeek) after God. The one expreſſeth the privation of the Underſtanding, the other of the Will. The Heart is cut off from God utterly, it cannot go that way; therefore, as I ſaid before, they are called ungodly Luſts. Atheiſm, Unbelief, &c. have cut the Heart off from God, from either aiming at him as his chiefeſt end, (for he wanteth Holineſs) or going forth to him, as his chiefeſt Good, for he wants his Image, which maketh a Soul ſuitable unto God; and a Man deſireth nothing, but what he knows, and what is ſuitable to him. Hence therefore you have it, in Job 27. 10. that a carnal Heart cannot delight himſelf in the Almighty; there is no ſuitableneſs. And in Rom. 8. 7. the carnal Mind, it is called, Enmity againſt God.

2. For the poſitive part, The Image of God being thus gone, (you have that expreſſion in Rom. 3. 25. All Men are come ſhort of the Glory of God; where by the Glory of God, I underſtand his Image, that which carried the Heart of Man out to God, to glorify him, which made him ſtand under the favour of God in that Covenant of Works; for ſo, in 1 Cor. 11. 7. the Image of God, and the Glory of God, are both made one: Man (ſaith he) is the Glory, and the Image of God.) This Image, I ſay, being gone, the Soul being deprived thus of that touch, all the Luſtings that it had in its natural Conſtitution remain ſtill, There is not a Deſire, which the Soul had before, but it hath ſtill; and all the ſinful Deſires it now hath, are but what were before, take the Nature of the Deſires. There is nothing of the ſubſtance of the Body, or of the Soul, deſtroyed, nor any new Luſts put in. Now when God is thus gone, and Holineſs is thus gone, and all the Luſtings and Deſires of a Man's Heart are left to themſelves, then what do you think is left?

1. Here is a Love of himſelf left, (there's one great Luſt, and the greateſt of all the reſt.) When Holineſs was there, the Love of God ſubjected the Love of a Man's ſelf unto God; now take this Love of God away, and then Self-love is the next Heir, that great Luſt ſteppeth up into the Throne; and that indeed is the very bottom of Original Sin, it is the Spring.

2. I told you, Man was made ſuitable to all the Creatures; there was nothing in this World, but God had framed a ſuitableneſs between Man and it: All theſe ſuitableneſſes ſtill remain, a ſuitableneſs to all Creature-Comforts whatſoever. Now here lies the Sinfulneſs of it, that all theſe Luſtings are carried out, and managed by Self-love, (which is the great Luſt of all the reſt.) And then, ſecondly, they are carried out to all the Creatures, and to all Creature-Comforts, (which indeed the Soul and Body were made for,) rather than unto God. So that the luſting or deſiring of Happineſs meerly for a Man's ſelf, and the ſeeking of this Happineſs in thoſe things that Man was made for, without God; in theſe two doth lie all that poſitive part of the Luſts of our Fleſh, (for now we deſcribe them but in general.) And therefore you ſhall find, that in theſe two, viz. Love of a Man's ſelf, and love of Pleaſure, namely in other things than in God, is the ſum of all Man's Corruption reduced unto, in that 2 Tim. 3. 2, 4. where he reckons up all ſorts of Corruptions, a great Bead-roll of Sins; and he makes love of Mens ſelves to be the Captain, (as I may ſo ſpeak) the firſt, the Ring-leader; and Lovers of Pleaſures, more than Lovers of God, to be that which cometh in the Rear: For theſe two are the Spring of all the Corruption in us, and unto theſe two are all our Luſts reduced. And (as I may rightly expreſs it) as there is never a Vein in the Body of Man, but there is an Artery, as we ſay, that runs under it; the one carrying Blood, and the other Spirits: So in the Luſtings of the Soul of Man, there runneth a Vein of the Love of Pleaſures, or ſome other thing than God; and an Artery of Love of a Man's ſelf, that puts Spirits into this. And as the Principles of Motion (of Life at leaſt,) are Blood and Spirits in a Man's Veins; ſo are theſe in a Man's Soul.

So

So by this you may eaſily underſtand wherein the ſinfulneſs of theſe Luſts lie. All theſe Luſts are guided by love to a Man's ſelf, and love to Pleaſures in ſomething elſe than God. The paſſage being ſtopt to God, it runs to Riches, Beauty, Honour, and all theſe worldly things, as its chiefeſt Good. Whatſoever the Underſtanding of a Man (if he be wiſe) can find that is ſuitable to him, it draws forth a luſt towards that thing. Whatſoever the Art and Wit of Man finds any way ſuitable to him, he is carried out to it, and that meerly out of a love he beareth to himſelf, and meerly for Pleaſure's ſake: that look which way Self-love moveth, ſtill that way the vein of Luſt runneth; as that is pleaſed or diſpleaſed, the Soul cometh off or on, putteth forth Luſts or Deſires, and pulls them in again. And he hath no new Deſires put into him which he had not at firſt, only theſe Deſires are left to themſelves, God being taken away: ſo that now all the Affections in the Soul turn with that Wind every way; if another Man have Happineſs, and he wants it, Self-love (deſiring Happineſs) puts forth Envy, the ſpirit that is in us luſteth after Envy: ſtill they have all their riſe and ſpring in the love of a Man's ſelf, and in the love of Pleaſures, ſetting up the Creature more than God: Therefore the Belly is ſaid to be God, and Mammon is ſaid to be God. The holineſs of Man's deſires lay in ſubordinating all things to God; and the ſinfulneſs of them lies, in loving of Pleaſures more than God: ſo the Apoſtle expreſſeth it, Theſe are the Luſts in our Fleſh. There is not an Action ſtirreth, but theſe Luſts are the ground of it. And hence (that I may give you a Scripture for this Diviſion) they are called our own Luſts, and worldly Luſts.

They are called (in reſpect of Self in us) our own Luſts. And therefore to live to a Man's Luſts, and to live to a Man's ſelf, are all one. In 2 Cor. 5. that which in one place is called living to a Man's Luſts, is in another place called living to a Man's Self, becauſe that Self-love runs in the vein of every Luſt, as an Artery doth under a Vein in a Man's Body; and you may feel the Pulſe of it, if you lay your Hand upon your Heart, and ſearch but narrowly into the bottom of all. And they are therefore called the Luſts of our own Hearts, in Rom. 1.

They are likewiſe called Worldly Luſts, becauſe the things of this World are the Objects of them. They are called Earthly Members, becauſe they run out to things on Earth, as in *Col.*3. 5. and Fleſhly Luſts, in 2 Pet. 2. 11. And ſo now I have ſhewn you wherein lies the ſinfulneſs that is in every Luſt in the Heart of Man. I come now in the next place likewiſe, IV. To ſhew you what it is to have our Converſation in theſe Luſts.

If you mark it, the Apoſtle when he ſpeaks of the Efficacy that Satan and the World hath upon us, he uſes another phraſe, Walking (ſaith he) according to the courſe of the World; and, according to the Prince of the power of the Air: but when he ſpeaks of Luſts, he ſpeaks of them as of an inward intrinſecal cauſe, having our converſation in the Luſts of the Fleſh: In the Fleſh, as a Fiſh is ſaid to live in the Water. And a Man is ſaid to be in Love, or in Wine, or in Anger, or in Paſſion, becauſe he is overcome with it. So we are ſaid to have our Converſation in Luſts, and to be in the Fleſh; becauſe a Man is always overcome with ſome one Luſt or other, and that's the ground of all the Actions he doth, ſo long as he is in his natural eſtate. And therefore James ſaith, He that is tempted, is drawn aſide of his own Luſts. And, as Chriſt ſaith, that which cometh from within, defileth the Man. The Scripture therefore doth attribute all the Actions of the Sons of Men unto their Luſts. In 2 Tim.3.6. Led away with divers Luſts. All the Corruption that is in the World, is attributed to the daily boylings up of theſe Luſts, to the tumblings and toſſings of theſe Deſires; (for the Soul of Man is like the raging Sea, toſſing to and fro, and never reſteth.) So in 2 Pet.1.4. The corruption that is in the World through Luſt; and, the old man is ſaid to be corrupt in Luſts, Eph. 4. 22. And therefore the Apoſtle doth propound theſe Luſts as the chiefeſt object of Mortification, as I ſhall ſpeak by and by.

And then, in the ſecond place, to have our Converſation in theſe Luſts, it doth note out a conſtancy alſo, a conſtant walking in ſome Luſt or other; whereas there is no other foundation of all the Actions of a Man's ways, but theſe ſinful Luſtings of his own heart. It may be reduced either into the love of Pleaſure in ſomeſomething elſe rather than in God; or to the love of a Man's ſelf above God.

Serm. VI.

Now Men have their Converſation in theſe; why? becauſe that the Soul of Man being an empty Chaos of Deſires, (as I ſaid at firſt): As the Stomack cannot live unleſs it have ſome nouriſhment in it; ſo a Man cannot live unleſs ſome Luſt or other be ſatisfied. In which ye walked (ſaith he, Col. 3. 7.) whilſt ye lived in them; he ſpeaks of Luſts plainly, as appears, ver.3.) All Creatures are converſant about that which is their life, and they are conſtant about that which is their life. As a Fiſh, whoſe Element is the Water, if it be out of the Water it dies: Therefore we are ſaid to drink in Iniquity like Water. And theſe Luſts, and the ſatisfying of them, being a Man's life, he is ſaid to war after them: (It is a mighty expreſſion) in 2 Cor. 10. 3. Our Warfare (ſaith he) is not after the fleſh. He ſpeaks in oppoſition to what carnal Men's warfare is; they purſue after the ſatisfaction of their Luſts, as a matter of life: as Men that in War do fight, pro aris & focis, for their ſubſiſtance, for their lives; therefore they are called the Luſts that war in our Members, Jam. 4. 1. They are not only compared to a Law in the Members, as in *Rom.*7.23. but they are compared to the violence of War too; the Luſts (ſaith he) that [war] in our Members. And ſo you have the ſinfulneſs of theſe Luſts deſcribed, and what it is to have our Converſation in them. There is not an Act which a carnal Man doth, but it is to ſatisfy ſome Luſt or other.

All that I ſhall more obſerve is but this, That they are called Luſts, in the plural, there are variety of them; they are ſaid to be divers Luſts, Tit. 3. 6. they are not one, but many. And the reaſon why they are many, is this; The Deſires of Man's Soul were once united in one Object, namely, in God: but He being gone, the Soul breaks into a thouſand Deſires, and makes every one of them its God. That which did unite, and begirt up all the Deſires in one, that Center being gone, all theſe Beams are ſcattered: And look how many Objects there are which may any way pleaſe a Man, and in which he may have pleaſure, the Soul being all for pleaſure, and being it ſelf an unſatisfiable thing,(for it being made to be fill'd with God, it muſt needs be ſo:) and becauſe one thing cannot fill it, it runs to another, and ſo to another, and ſo the Soul is ſcattered into a thouſand ſeveral Luſts.

And then again, We are ſaid to walk in our Luſts, in the plural, becauſe a Man cannot always live in ſatisfying one Luſt only, therefore in the interim there muſt be other Luſts to entertain the Soul: for, the Soul is never idle, it can never want a moments pleaſure ſome way or other, it muſt have relief, or at leaſtwiſe deſiring and ſeeking after it: and ſo what in one thing, and what in another, a Man walketh all his life in ſome Luſt or other, and makes it a ſorrowful life. And thus natural Men have their Converſation in the luſts of the fleſh. And ſo much now for theſe words.

I come to the next;

Fulfilling the Wills of the Fleſh, and of the Mind.

That which the Apoſtle had ſaid in the general before, here he ſpeaks of more particularly. He doth both further explain what it is to walk in the Luſts of the Fleſh, it is to fulfil them, ſaith he, it is to act them (it's the moſt proper word in Engliſh that can be) to act the wills of the fleſh, and of the mind. As in our uſual ſpeech we ſay, a Man acteth his Spirit.

And then, ſecondly, he divides theſe Luſts into two parts, The Luſts of the fleſh, or of the ſenſual part; and, The Luſts of the Mind, that is, of the Underſtanding and the Will.

I ſhall firſt open the Phraſes.

The firſt Phraſe I ſhall give you an account of is this, [the Wills] (for indeed in the Original ſo the word is, and ſo you ſhall find it in your Margents.) It is certain that what he meant by Luſts in the general, in the words before, he meaneth the ſame thing by Wills here. The truth is, in a ſtrict ſence, only the luſtings and the motions of the Underſtanding, and of the Will, they are τὰ θελήματα, they are Wills; but in the inferior part, in the ſenſual part, thoſe ſenſual Affections, of Anger and the like, they are but Luſts and Deſires. And yet notwithſtanding the one is put

for

for the other ſometimes in the Scripture, as Beza hath obſerved upon John 1. 13. out of Mar. 10. 35. Now by Wills of the Fleſh, he therefore here meaneth Luſts, or Deſires, as 'tis tranſlated, as he had done before. As when in Rom. 7. he calleth the Luſts of a Man's Heart the Law of the Members, (which properly are the Luſts of the Body) but he means likewiſe all the Luſts of the Mind too: So here, when he calls them the Wills of the Fleſh, he meaneth all the motions of the Body alſo, all the Luſts both of Soul and Body. But to give you an Account why he calls them Wills, it is for theſe Reaſons.

1. To ſhew that the Deſires, the Luſtings of the Hearts of Men, they are not meerly brutiſh, they have a tincture of Will and Reaſon in them; and tho oftentimes they are involuntary (for there are many motions ariſe before the Will is put forth) yet becauſe they are in a Creature that hath Will and Reaſon, (which Will and Reaſon ſhould be too ſtrong for the riſings of ſuch Luſts, and keep them down) hence therefore they are called Wills. You ſhall ſee the ſame kind of Luſts in Beaſts as in Men. You ſhall ſee Pride in a Horſe, you ſhall ſee Revenge in an Elephant, &c. But yet theſe very Luſts that are the ſame in Men with thoſe that are in Beaſts, becauſe they are in a Creature that hath a Will and Reaſon to keep them down: The fault therefore of all theſe Luſts is laid upon the Will, and they are called the Wills of the Fleſh, and of the Mind. Take now a natural Fool, between whom and a Beaſt there is but a nice diſtinction in appearance; yet theſe Luſts in him are ſins, not in the other: becauſe he hath a Will and Reaſon. But,

2. The chief Reaſon why the Apoſtle here alters his phraſe, and calls them the Wills of the Fleſh, and of the Mind, is this; He ſpeaks here in relation to Action, of acting or fulfilling the Wills of the Fleſh, and of the Mind. And therefore to ſhew how it comes to paſs that all theſe Luſts, theſe brutiſh ſenſual Luſts that are in the Fleſh, and in the Body, as well as in the Reaſon, do come forth to outward action, He ſaith, there is a conſent of the Will; and therefore now in Jam. 1. Luſt is ſaid to be the Tempter, but the Will that's the thing tempted; for that's the Stern and Rudder of all in Man. And (as I ſhall tell you in the Obſervation when I come to it) there is no Luſt ſo ſenſual but before it comes forth into act, there muſt be the conſent of the Will, (for the Order of Nature ſtill ſtandeth) they muſt have the Will's Paſs and Commiſſion for it; and therefore he calls it here fulfilling. When once they come into action, theſe Luſts are turned into Wills: hence therefore they are ſaid to be the Wills of the Fleſh.

3. He calls them, Wills of the Fleſh, to ſhew where the chief ſeat of Corruption lies: it lies in the Will. Therefore Ameſius (as I remember) when he ſpeaks of the Corruption of the Will, quoteth this place. And therefore in other Scriptures, that which is called the Luſts of Men, is called the Wills of Men. Look but in 1 Pet. 4. and you ſhall find that that which in the 2d verſe he calleth the Luſts of Men, in the 3d he calleth the Will of the Gentiles; and he calls them ſo in oppoſition to the Will of God, becauſe it is the Will of Man that muſt conſent to the actings of thoſe Luſts.

Therefore, my Brethren, by the way; A Man can never be ſaved by any power in this Will. In John 1. 13. —which were born not of Blood, nor of the Will of the Fleſh, but of God. He inſtanceth, you ſee, in the Will of the Fleſh. Beza indeed takes it to be meant of the ſeat of the groſſer Corruptions in the ſenſual part of the Fleſh. But ſurely the Apoſtle would not inſtance in that, as if that ſhould have any hand in Salvation; there was not ſo much as any pretence for that: his intention is therefore to inſtance in the beſt part, and the ſtrength of the Will. Take the Will in it ſelf, in the uttermoſt purity of it, yet it being a Will of the Fleſh, a Man can never be born again of it; he ſpeaks of the beſt endeavours of the Will. And ſo much now why it is called the Wills of the Fleſh.

I will only now give you an Obſervation or two from what hath bin ſaid. And the Obſervation from that which was laſt ſaid (for from every thing there might be Obſervations raiſed) is this, That there is no Luſt cometh forth to action, but it is by the conſent of the Will; yea, and of the reaſoning part too. They are called the Wills of the Fleſh, and of the Mind, of the reaſoning part. It may refer as Obſerv. 1.

Serm. VI. well to the Order of the cauſality of Sin, how it cometh forth into action, as to the Subject of theſe Luſts.

As to this you muſt know, That altho Man is fallen, yet the Order of Nature in the ſubordination of the Faculties one to another, ſtand as they did, work as they did. The moſt brutiſh Luſt that is, the Underſtanding and the Will muſt concur and conſent, ere it is fulfilled; only the firſt Motion doth not come firſt from the Mind and the Will. And there is this difference between the workings of Grace and Sin, in this reſpect, that all the workings of Grace begin with the Mind; for all the Motions of Grace, they muſt ariſe from the apprehenſions of Faith in the Underſtanding, and ſo they paſs to Action; and ſo ſpiritual Affections are moved in us. And therefore it is called, the Law of the Mind, in Rom. 7. It begins there, and the Underſtanding (like a Burning-glaſs, that takes in the Beams of the Sun,) receiving the Beams of ſpiritual things, it inflameth and ſetteth on fire the Affections with them. But now, if you come to Luſts and Corruption, they begin oftentimes in the ſenſual part; and therefore in Rom. 7. are called oppoſitely the Law of the Members: And they propound firſt, yet ſo, as ſtill the Order of Nature, in reſpect to outward Action, remains; that the Underſtanding and Will muſt firſt give their conſent. In Man's pure ſtate, as now in our regenerate condition, ſo far as we are regenerate, the Underſtanding and the Will lead on to every Action; but in the corrupt ſtate, uſually the Affections begin to lead; yet ſo, as until the Underſtanding and the Will do conſent, the Man proceeds not to Action. The difference of theſe two may be expreſſed by thoſe ways of Government: the one, when (ſuppoſe) in a Corporation, there ſhould not a Motion paſs the Common-Council, but it muſt come from the Mayor and Aldermen, with their Conſents firſt; the other, that Motion muſt come from the Vulgar Sort firſt: So it is in the corrupt ſtate, all cometh from below, or at leaſt, much of all the Actions in which Men live in Sin, they come from the ſenſual Deſires, and gain the conſent of the Will.

And then if you ask the reaſon, why that the Underſtanding and Will do aſſent to ſuch Luſts, as it receiveth not immediatly? The reaſon is this: Becauſe the Underſtanding and the Will know no better; they are cut off from God, and being cut off from God, they muſt give conſent: for the Man is for pleaſure, and the Will is for pleaſure, and ſo is the Underſtanding; therefore what pleaſeth the Man, the Underſtanding approveth for beſt, and ſo doth the Will too, tho not beſt in it ſelf, yet beſt for the Man: And, Qualis quiſque eſt, talis finis ei videtur; as is the Man, ſuch is his end: as he is diſpoſed in himſelf, ſuch is his end in working; every Man works for his end, and look what the Man is, ſuch is his end. As now, a Man in a Sickneſs deſireth Drink; Reaſon and Underſtanding tell him it is ill and naught; but yet the Underſtanding conſents and approves it: why? becauſe as the Man is affected, ſuch is his end and happineſs, that is judged beſt, which ſuiteth the Man. And hence now all the ſenſual Luſts come to obtain the conſent of the Will.

Obſerv. 2. Secondly; In that here Luſts, when they come to Action, they are called Wills, obſerve from hence: That the chief Sinfulneſs of a Man in his Actions, it is not ſimply his Luſts, and the rage and violence of them, (tho therein lies a great Inordinacy, which a Man is to be humbled for); but when they come to act, it is the Will, either that is indulgent to thoſe Luſts, ſuffers the thoughts to dwell upon them, pore upon them, or which yieldeth to the performing and fulfilling of them. You ſee here, that the Apoſtle, when he comes to ſpeak of fulfilling of Luſts, inſtead of fulfilling of Luſts, he ſaith, Fulfilling the Wills of the Fleſh. The Will is the great meaſure of Sin. My Brethren, the aggravation of ſinning againſt knowledg, it lies chiefly in this, that the more knowledg a Man hath, the more his Will is diſcovered to be for the Sin, notwithſtanding that knowledg; therefore the higheſt ſinning of all, what is made the meaſure of it? That ſin wilfully (ſaith he) after they have received the knowledg of the Truth, Heb. 10. Therefore they are called, Children of Diſobedience, in the very words before; for their Diſobedience, their Sinfulneſs eſpecially, lies in the obſtinacy and perverſeneſs of the Will. Therefore when God turns any Man to him, he faſtneth that Man's Will. He truſted to the Will of Man firſt, and was deceived deceived by it; and now he is reſolved to make ſure work with him, when he comes to ſave him, and therefore he puts Man's ſalvation out of himſelf: And therefore now, when he doth work upon him, he works eſpecially upon the Will; the Holy-Ghoſt ſits there, as in the center of the Soul, and hath a chief hand upon the Stern of a Man's Spirit. My Brethren, your Wills are the ſlippereſt things in the World, the fulleſt of a lubricity, of a fickleneſs. You ſee, Adam's Will, tho it was ſtrengthned with Grace, and poiſed, how it was overcome, how fickle it was. Therefore above all, deſire the Lord to faſten your Wills, to hold his hand upon that Stern, always to guide you; for if God hold his hand upon that Stern, if the Will remain firm, and be kept cloſe to him, it is called, Arming our Mind, 1 Pet. 4. 1. Tho Luſts do ariſe, and tempt, (as they will do continually) yet you ſhall not fulfill them, they ſhall be as Water about a Rock that breaks; the Will keeps theſe Luſts from breaking forth into action, and takes the Mind off from thinking of them. Serm. VI.

Thirdly; You may ſee, my Brethren, wherein lies the Slavery of the moſt noble Creature. What is the nobleſt thing in us? Our Reaſoning, and our Will. Now you may ſee by this, that all theſe are enſlaved to Luſts. That Phraſe which the Apoſtle uſed before, Walking in the Luſts of the Fleſh, here he turns it, and ſaith, Fulfilling the Wills of the Fleſh, and of the reaſoning Part: It is not a Will now, it is indeed nothing but Luſts; for that which he terms Luſts in one part, he termeth Wills in another; ſo brutiſh it is. The Will hath loſt that freedom which once it had, and now it is in bondage, ſerving Pleaſures, ſerving divers Luſts, (theſe expreſſions the Apoſtle hath,) falling down (God being now gone) to the pooreſt and meaneſt Creature below it ſelf. Herein lies, I ſay, the uttermoſt expreſſion of the Slavery of Man, that his Will is thus ſubject to the common, as I may expreſs it, to all the brutiſh Luſts that are in a Man's Spirit. Obſerv. 3.

SERM.

Serm. VII.

SERMON VII.

EPHES. 2. 3.

Among whom alſo we all had our Converſation in Times paſt, in the Luſts of our Fleſh, fulfilling the Deſires (or the Wills) of the Fleſh, and of the Mind, &c.

IN the words before, the Apoſtle had mentioned the two external Cauſes of all the Corruption in the Lives of Men by Nature, namely, the World, and the Devil: Wherein in time paſt ye walked, according to the Courſe of this World, according to the Prince of the Power of the Air. In theſe words you have the third Cauſe, and that the intrinſecal one, The Luſts of the Fleſh. And when he cometh to lay open that as the Cauſe, (which is indeed the bottom and root of all the Corruption in Mens Lives,) he doth it,

1. In a general way.
2. More particularly.

He firſt doth it in a general way, We had all our Converſation in times paſt, in the Luſts of our Fleſh. And then he doth particularize thoſe Luſts, The Luſts of the Fleſh, the Body; and of the Mind.

I have opened formerly, what is meant by Fleſh, and told you, that by it is here meant that inherent Corruption in our Natures, whether that which we derive at the firſt by birth, and brought into the World with us; or that increaſe and addition to it, (for by every actual Sin an addition thereunto is made) that which the Apoſtle calleth, the Indwelling of Sin.

I ſhewed formerly, why it is called, Fleſh; and among others, I gave this reaſon: Becauſe that when God is taken out of the Heart, then all the Objects that the Heart is carried to, they are things of the Fleſh. And I did prove by many places of Scripture, that that was the meaning of the Phraſe, and to that it did extend, when as it is ſaid, Thoſe that are after the Fleſh, ſeek the things of the Fleſh.

I gave you a deſcription of the thing it ſelf, as well as an account of the Phraſe, why it is called Fleſh: It is that ſinful diſpoſition in Man's Nature, whereby the whole Man is empty of all good, and full of all Inclinations to whatſoever is evil.

I came the laſt day, to ſhew you what was meant by Luſts, The Luſts of the Fleſh: They are the immediate ſproutings of that inherent Corruption, all the motions, and inward workings, and firſt riſings, and agitations of the Heart of Man, either againſt what is good, or unto what is evil, (I may add that to what I ſaid the laſt Diſcourſe, it is not only the motions of the Heart unto what is evil, but alſo againſt what is good,) as in Gal. 2. 15. The Fleſh (ſaith he) luſteth againſt the Spirit.

I opened to you the Nature of theſe Luſts. I did it two ways:

1. I opened in general the Nature of Luſts, or of the Luſtings of the Soul.
2. I opened the Sinfulneſs of it.

Serm. VII.

I opened firſt in general, the Nature of theſe Luſtings. I told you, that God hath made the Soul of Man, in the eſſential conſtitution of it, meer emptineſs, to be fill'd up by ſomething elſe. It is all things in capacity, but it is nothing, not in happineſs, or pleaſure, or comfort, unleſs it be joined with ſomething elſe. The Soul of Man is nothing but a Chaos of deſires, a meer Stomach, as I may expreſs it, meer Appetite, meer Hunger; and all the Faculties, both of Soul and Body, like ſo many Birds in a Neſt, ſtand gaping for ſome good. Who will ſhew us any good? (Pſal. 4.) is the voice of all Mankind. Now this being the original conſtitution of the Soul of Man, if you ask me in the general, What Luſt or Luſtings are? Why it is the moving, or extending, or putting forth of any faculty or power in Soul or Body, in deſires and longings after any Object agreeable thereunto, and in which it may find pleaſure and contentment. It is, I ſay, the goings forth of this Soul, or of any power of it, to any Object ſuitable unto it; this in the general Nature is luſting. Now the Soul that God thus made meer emptineſs, and ſtomach, and appetite, he put into a Body, (for our Souls they are cloathed with fleſh) and when he firſt made us in the ſtate of Innocency, he did, for Objects to fill up this Soul in this Body, firſt ordain himſelf to ſatisfy the deſires of it; he did ordain himſelf to be the chiefeſt good and happineſs to this Soul. And ſecondly he made a World of Creatures, which we ſee and behold with our eyes, which are all ſuited to the variety of deſires of Man's Soul, dwelling in this Body. Therefore Solomon ſaith, He hath placed the World in Man's Heart. There is nothing in the World, but is ſuited to Man; and there is nothing in Man, but there is ſomething in the World ſuited unto it. And then thirdly, God did put into Man's Soul, this principle, to love himſelf, as well as to love God, and in loving God to love himſelf moſt; and ſo to rejoice, when as his deſires were ſatisfied with God himſelf, or with the Creatures, in a ſubordinate way unto Him. Here now is the natural conſtitution and condition of the Soul of Man.

Now I muſt ſhew you the Sinfulneſs of all theſe luſtings and deſires. If I muſt ſhew you the Sinfulneſs, I muſt ſhew you firſt, wherein the Holineſs of them lay, whilſt we were in the State of Innocency; for one contrary is known by another. Now the Holineſs of all the Deſires of the Soul of Man, (which was nothing in it ſelf but deſires) it lay in this, that God touched (I ſo expreſs it) all theſe deſires of the Heart of Man, as the Iron of the Needle is touched with the Loadſtone; he did put a magnetick virtue into it, his own Image of Holineſs, which did guide and carry all theſe deſires unto himſelf. And there being holineſs then in the Soul, the holy God was ſuited to this Soul, and all the deſires thereof, to ſatisfy and fill it; and ſo by the guidance of this magnetick virtue, the Heart ſtill went God-ward. And then ſecondly, the Holineſs that God did implant and ſtamp upon all the deſires and luſtings of Man's Heart, it did regulate, and order, and ſubordinate all other deſires that we had to Creatures, to Comforts here below, it did ſubject them all unto God, that we ſhould ſeek nothing above God, we ſhould ſeek nothing but in order unto God, not have a deſire ſtir, but as it related unto him.

Now then the Sinfulneſs of all theſe Luſts and Deſires is eaſily to be known: For now the Image of God being gone, the Heart having loſt that magnetick virtue, that virtue of the Loadſtone that once touched it, it is now meer dull Iron, and now it moveth not at all unto God: neither unto him, as its chief good; nor unto him, as its chief end: nay, it is oppoſite unto him. Saith the Apoſtle, in Rom. 3. ſpeaking of all Mankind by Nature, None underſtandeth, (namely, none underſtandeth God,) none doth ſeek after God. Now altho that Holineſs that did carry us out to God be gone, yet all the Deſires remain ſtill the ſame, (I ſpeak for the natural conſtitution of them) the Soul is nothing but deſires ſtill: Now, as I told you before, that God did not only ſuit this Soul to himſelf, but to all Creatures and Comforts here below in this viſible World; now when God is gone, and a Man is without God in the World, (as it is in the 12*th* Verſe of this Chapter) what doth his deſires do? They are all left to themſelves, to run which way they will, to this Creature, and to that Creature, as their chiefeſt good, to have happineſs in them. And God being gone, and all love unto him being gone, there is nothing left but Self-love, which is the great Original Deſire in Man, and which ſeeks after Comfort in all things meerly for it ſelf, and for pleaſure's ſake. In this lies the ſinfulneſs of all the luſtings of Man's heart; that now when God is gone, the way to God is ſtopped, the heart runs a thouſand ways, to this and that Creature, to this and that Comfort, and doth it meerly for pleaſure's ſake, doth it meerly out of that natural deſire of Self-love, which (Love unto God being gone) is the next Heir in the Heart of Man.

love

Serm. VII.

Now then, as the Corruption of the Heart is therefore called Fleſh (as I ſhewed when I opened that phraſe) becauſe it is carried out to the things of the Fleſh; and take God out of any thing, and it is a thing of the Fleſh: ſo take but God out of the World, and let the Luſts of the Heart then go whither they will go, tho they run to things in themſelves lawful, yet becauſe they run to them without God, and in ſtead of God, and but for themſelves, hence they are all ſinful and abominable Luſts in the ſight of God. Now then, look how many things there are that are not God, or that may be ſought or deſired without Him, ſo many luſts are there in the heart of Man: Not only all things that are evil, as Fornication, and the like (as in 1 Cor. 10. it is ſaid, You luſted after evil things, ſpeaking of their riſing up to play) things that are forbidden; but all things lawful, without God, whether Honours or Riches, or Beauty, or Pleaſures of any kind, which in themſelves are lawful, all theſe, take God out of them, and let the deſires of Man's heart be carried to them without God, and ſubordinate unto Him, and in reference unto Him, they are all ſinful luſts. Therefore Chriſt, in Mark 4. 15. ſaith, the cares of the World, and the luſts of other things; mark that phraſe, [the luſts of other things] be they what they will be, if they be luſts, that is, if they be inordinate luſts, not ſubjected unto God as the chiefeſt Good, taſting Him in them, and ſubordinated unto Him as our chiefeſt End, they are all luſts which will choak the Word, and undo the Soul.

I ſhall illuſtrate the ſinfulneſs of theſe Luſts to you by this ordinary Compariſon, in all the parts of it: Go take a Man now that is out of health, that is in a Feaver, whoſe Stomack and Palat is vitiated (as I told you, the Soul is nothing but Stomack) ſuppoſe this Stomack to be a vitiated and diſtempered Stomack and Palat, as a Man in a Feaver hath.) I ground my Similitude upon that in Eccleſ. 5.17. ſpeaking of Man by Nature, All his days, ſaith he, he eateth in darkneſs, and he hath much ſorrow and wrath with his ſickneſs. A Man leadeth but a ſick life that leadeth a life of Luſts, living upon the Creature, and he hath much anguiſh and ſorrow and vanity with it. Now take a Man that is ſick; wherein lieth his diſtemper: (you ſhall ſee the like explaineth fully the Corruptions that are in Man's Heart.) It lieth,

1. In this, That by reaſon of that diſtemper that is in him, he is taken off from delighting in what is good and wholſom, and is the natural nouriſhment to him. Bring him Meat, his Stomack riſeth at it, at the leaſt ſcent of it; if he either hear it ſpoken of, or if he think of it, the repreſenting it any way to his Fancy, turns his Stomack. So now take the Soul of Man by Nature, that is thus diſtempered in his Luſts, when God and Holineſs is gone, whatſoever holdeth forth God to him in a ſpiritual way, to bring him to communion and fellowſhip with God, in any duty, his heart riſeth againſt it, againſt Holineſs, againſt the Spiritual Law, againſt the ſpiritual part of Religion, the power of Godlineſs: why? becauſe he is nothing but Luſts diſtempered: theſe were once the natural food and nouriſhment of his Soul, but now he is diſtempered. So that now here is a privation with an oppoſition unto God.

2. Take a Man that is diſtempered, and his Stomack thus vitiated, ſuch things as will hurt him, ſuch things he mightily and greedily longeth for; as alſo whatever elſe he deſires, he doth it with a violence, with a thirſt beyond natural thirſt. So now doth the Soul of Man by Nature, whilſt it hath nothing but Luſts in it, He both luſteth after what is contrary to the Will of God, and ſuch Creatures as God did make for Man, and are lawful for him to uſe in themſelves, yet his heart is carried out to them with a vehemency of thirſt. The expreſſion is in Deut. 29. it is called, adding drunkenneſs to thirſt. And the reaſon is this, becauſe the Soul having been made for God, and widened for Him, now that God is gone, you can no more fill theſe Deſires with the Creatures, than you can fill a Ciſtern with a drop of Water. Therefore the Deſires are enraged, like a Man in a Feaver. Saith he, in Eccleſ. 6. 7. All the labour of a Man is for his Mouth, and yet the Appetite is not filled. He ſpeaks of a Covetous Man: The meaning of it is this, It is ſtrange (ſaith he) that although a Man needs no more, and needs labour for no more than what will feed him, than what will fill his Mouth and his Belly; and if you have Meat and Rayment (ſaith the Apoſtle) be therewith content; and Nature is content with a few things: yet tho Nature be content with a few things, and a Man need labour for no more, yet there is an inordinacy in the very Appetite, a Man muſt have more than will ſerve the turn, the Appetite is not filled.

3. Take a Man in a Feaver, and his deſire of Drink, or of what will hurt him, is meerly to ſatisfy his humour, it is meerly to pleaſe himſelf, and to ſatisfy the inordinacy, and for no other end; it is not to nouriſh, he knows it will do him hurt. So now the deſires of the Hearts of Men, and their Luſts, they are therefore ſinful, becauſe they are carried out to all things meerly for pleaſure's ſake: They are not carried out to other things for God, (whether you eat or drink, do all to the Glory of God) but it is meerly to ſatisfy a humour, it is meerly for pleaſure's ſake, and to pleaſe himſelf. Therefore you ſhall find ſtill in Scripture (as in Tit. 3. 3.) we are ſaid by Nature to ſerve divers Luſts and Pleaſures, they are both joyn'd together; Lovers of Pleaſures (ſaith the Apoſtle in 2 Tim. 4.) more than lovers of God. And in Jam. 4. they are ſaid to conſume upon their Luſts; that is, all that they get it is meerly for their Luſts ſake, it is meerly to ſatisfy the deſire, to ſatisfy the humour, all is ſpent upon that; and that is all the fruit thereof.

Now then in theſe three things lies the ſinfulneſs of the Luſts of Man's heart. I ſhall give you them in Scripture phraſe. You have three Epithites that are attributed to our Luſts.

1. They are called ungodly Luſts; ſo you have it in Jude v. 18. Why? Becauſe they are carried on to all things without God; yea, and in an enmity and oppoſition unto Him. They are taken off wholly from Him, and therefore they are ungodly Luſts. And,

2. They are carried to other things, meerly for a Man's own ſake, out of love unto himſelf, and for pleaſure's ſake. So in the ſame 18th verſe of the Epiſtle of Jude, ---their own ungodly Luſts. And therefore for a Man to live to his Luſts, 1 Pet. 4. and to live to himſelf, 2 Cor. 5. it is all one. To live to a Man's Luſts, that phraſe you have in 1 Pet. 4. 2. and, to live to a Man's ſelf, that you have in 2 Cor. 5. 15. Therefore they are called in Rom. 1. 24. the luſts of their own hearts.

3. They are called worldly luſts. You have that in Tit. 2. 14. --denying all ungodly and worldly luſts. Why? becauſe when God is gone, and the deſires are carried out no more unto Him, they run out to all things in the World. And ſo now you have the ſinfulneſs of the luſts of Man's nature laid open to you.

I made entrance into the next, which is a more particular explanation of the diverſity of thoſe Luſts which the heart of Man doth follow. Fulfilling (ſaith he) the deſires of the fleſh, and of the mind. In the Original it is, the wills of the fleſh, and of the mind. I did give you an account of that phraſe in the laſt Diſcourſe, which I will not now ſtand upon; only I ſhall add one or two things more.

I told you that all the Luſts, even the Luſts of the Body, and of the Mind, be they what they will be, the pooreſt luſts in a Man, they are all the wills of the fleſh, when they are fulfilled: why? becauſe that no luſt can be ſatisfied by action but the will muſt give its conſent. God hath placed in Man a ſupream Lord and Power, a Will, and that muſt give conſent; and when Luſts have once its conſent, then they are Wills. Now here he ſpeaks of them as fulfilled, therefore he calls them the wills of the fleſh and of the mind. To which only let me add this further, it is corruption in the will, from whoſe influence theſe Luſts are called Wills; the Will doth not only give its conſent to every Luſt that paſſeth into action, but it doth often times ſtrengthen and ſtir up, and provoke Luſts. A Man's own Will is his own Tempter: and he hath an obſtinacy in his Will to follow his Luſts: the Will doth not only thus follow after, but it goes before. So in 1 Tim. 6. 9. Thoſe that will be rich, fall into Temptations and many Snares. And in Joh. 8. 44. The Luſts of your Father ye will do. You ſee it is not only that the Luſts come and tempt the

Serm. VII.

Will, but the Will ſtrengtheneth the Luſts, and ſets the Luſts on work, and puts a Reſolution, a back of Steel to the Luſts: A Man is reſolved to be rich, and reſolved to be revenged, &c. The luſts of your Father you will do.

And ſo I come now to the ſecond thing, which I am to open and explain, namely, the diverſity of theſe Luſts in the Hearts of Men; Fulfilling the Luſts of the fleſh, and of the mind.

You muſt know that by Fleſh here, is not meant corrupt nature, but it is here ſpoken of as in oppoſition to the Mind of Man; and therefore the Body is here meant. In *Tit.*3.3. he calls them there, divers luſts; ſerving (ſaith he) divers luſts and pleaſures. Now here you have the diverſity of them in two general Heads. There are, you ſee,

1. The Luſts of the Fleſh, or of the Body. And there are,

2. The Luſts of the Mind.

The Soul (as I told you) is nothing elſe in all the faculties of it but a Chaos of Deſires: Therefore now look into how many parts you may cut or make a diviſion of the Man, accordingly you may make a diviſion of his Luſts. And look into what eminent parts the Soul of a Man may be divided, into thoſe his Luſts may be divided.

In Gen. 2. 7. it is ſaid, God breathed into Man the breath of lives, (ſo it is in the Original) as being more than one. The Soul of Man, ſo far as it is the ſubject of luſts and deſires, is divided into two parts, and Nature hath made that diviſion; and indeed Death makes it when it divides the Soul and Body: and the Philoſophers made it. There is,

1. The ſenſitive Soul, which is common to us with Beaſts. The Soul of a Beaſt, (as ſome ſay) runs in the Blood, it is a ſenſitive Soul, it is the quinteſſence of the Elements (I cannot ſtand to deſcribe it) it contains two things: The inward Senſes, and the outward Senſes. The inward Senſes, the Fancy, (of which I ſhall ſpeak anon) for your Beaſts have Fancies, for they dream; as you ſee by the ſtarting of Beaſts in their ſleep; this is eminent in Apes, Monkies, and Elephants. And they have outward Senſes, as Hearing, Seeing, and the like, which have Objects ſuited to them. Now a Man hath the like. And the Luſts of the Fleſh are theſe Luſts that are ſeated in the ſenſitive part, in the Fancy, and in all the other Senſes. There is in Man,

2. The reaſonable Soul, which a Beaſt hath not; the reaſonable Soul, which is put to dwell in a Body. And as Man partakes with Beaſts in reſpect of his ſenſitive part; ſo he partakes with Angels in reſpect of his ſpiritual part, his Underſtanding, and his Will, whereby he is able to riſe to higher Objects than Beaſts are, to put a valuation upon Honours, Riches, and the like, which Beaſts do not.

The Soul of Man now being thus divided, it comes to paſs that the Luſts of Man's Soul are accordingly divided. There are either,

1. Thoſe Luſts which are common to him with Beaſts, (tho they have a tincture of Reaſon in them, for even the Senſes, the Fancy, is by participation reaſonable; yet becauſe it is in a Beaſt too, it is, I ſay, but a ſenſitive faculty) which are the ſenſitive Appetite, whether it be in the Fancy in things ſuited to it, or in the outward Senſes in things ſuited to them. Or, there are,

2. Thoſe Luſts which are common to Men with Devils. For, as the Spirit of Man whilſt he was holy, had ſuch deſires as Angels have that are holy; So when he is corrupt, his Spirit hath ſuch Luſts as Devils have.

I will give you Scripture for both, that you may ſee that the Scripture runs upon this diviſion. All ſuch good things as are ſuited to the Senſes, and which the Soul takes a pleaſure in by means of the Senſes, they are called Luſts of the Fleſh, or of the Body. But all ſuch Luſts as a Man takes in purely by his Underſtanding, (tho his Underſtanding dwelling in a Body, would not approve of many things to be good, yet it is the Underſtanding that ſimply approves of the Goodneſs of Things, as of Riches and Honours, and the like:) Theſe, I ſay, are called the luſts of the mind. I'le give you Scripture for them both. Serm. VII.

Things,

1. For thoſe Luſts which are in the ſenſitive part, ſenſual Luſts; you ſhall find it in Jude v. 10. ſpeaking there of falſe Teachers, which were corrupt and abominable in their way, ſaith he, Theſe ſpeak evil of things they know not, (ſpiritual things, which they underſtand not, and are oppoſite to them, they oppoſe mightily) but what they know naturally, as brute Beaſts, in thoſe things they corrupt themſelves; they are given over, ſaith he, to brutiſh Luſts. To open this to you a little, you muſt know, that the ſecond Epiſtle of Peter, and this of Jude are parallel Epiſtles, and ſpeak both of the ſame ſort of Men, according to this Diviſion mentioned. The Apoſtle Peter had ſhewed, (2 Pet. 2. 8.) the Corruptions that are in the Underſtanding, the ſuperior part of theſe corrupt Teachers; they were proud, ſelf-will'd, having Mens Perſons in admiration for advantage, (theſe are Luſts in the reaſoning part.) Now Jude here, he ſaith, that they were not only corrupt therein, but in other Luſts alſo; for ſaith he, What they know naturally, as brute Beaſts, in thoſe things they corrupt themſelves. I have formerly taken the meaning of theſe words to be this, that they came to ſin againſt the very Light of Nature; that look what light they had againſt groſs Sins, they even ſinned againſt it; and that they had ſinned away their light. I thought, I ſay, that that had been the meaning; and the truth is, that which deceived me, was the placing of the words in the Tranſlation; for the Tranſlation runs thus, What they know naturally, as brute Beaſts; but in the Greek it runs thus, What they naturally, as brute Beaſts, know: And ſo examining by learned Expoſitors, Eſtius, and Gerard, and others, I did find, that the meaning of the Apoſtle is clearly this, that thoſe things which they know as brute Beaſts, naturally, (natural Knowledg here being taken, as Eſtius ſaith, in oppoſition to rational Knowledg,) what they know by Senſes in a natural way, as Beaſts do, in theſe things, ſaith the Apoſtle, they corrupt themſelves, thereby ſhewing the further Corruption of their Hearts. So as his ſcope is not to ſhew the manner of their ſinning againſt the Light of Nature, but the matter of their ſinning, and that not only in corrupt Opinions, but brutiſh Luſts alſo; that they were given up to thoſe luſts that Beaſts were given up to: What they know, as Beaſts, naturally, ſaith he, in thoſe things they corrupt themſelves; as in Meats, and Drinks, and Sleep, and the like: So you have mention of their feeding themſelves without fear, v. 13. and defiling the Fleſh through filthy Dreams, v. 8. of this Epiſtle of Jude; and having eyes full of Adultery, &c. as in Peter. In theſe Luſts, ſaith he, they corrupt themſelves, in ſenſual Luſts, namely, that are common to Beaſts, of Uncleanneſs, and the like. And theſe are the Luſts common to Beaſts.

2. You ſhall find another ſort of Luſts, that are in the Spirits of Men, which are called the Devil's Luſts; and they are the Luſts of the Mind. As in John 8. 44. Chriſt ſpeaking there of the Jews, that had a Malice againſt him, ſaith he, Ye are of your Father, the Devil; and the Luſts of your Father ye will do. Mark, as the Apoſtle had ſaid of thoſe corrupt Men, that they were corrupt in bodily luſts, in ſenſitive luſts, ſuch as are common to Beaſts. So Chriſt ſpeaks of the Jews, who were malicious and envious againſt him, and aimed to kill him, and he ſaith, that they did do the Luſts of the Devil. The Devil, you know, is of a ſpiritual Nature, he mindeth not the Luſts of the Body, he minds not Beauty, or any ſuch thing; he is of a ſpiritual Nature, and he is taken with ſpiritual excellencies, therefore he is called, Spiritual Wickedneſs, Eph. 6. 20. All his Luſts are ſpiritual Luſts, Revenge, and Pride, and Envy, and Malice, and the like; theſe are Luſts of the Mind. They are not called the Devil's Luſts, efficiently, becauſe he ſtirs them up in Men; but they are called his Luſts by way of imitation, Men doing the ſame luſts that he did: You ſeek to kill me, ſaith he: And he is a Murtherer as well as ye, and ye as well as he. Theſe now therefore are the Luſts of the Mind.

So then as the Man is divided into theſe two parts, a Body, and a Mind, the ſenſitive part, and the rational part; in the one he partakes with Beaſts, (you ſee, there are Luſts common with Beaſts in Men,) in the other he partakes with Spirits in Devils: therefore there are the Luſts which are in Men alſo.

Serm. VII.

I will give you one Scripture (to cloſe up all) for the proof of this, it is in 2 Cor. 7. 1. Let us cleanſe our ſelves from all filthineſs of the Fleſh, (namely, of the Body,) and of the Spirit. Here you ſee, all ſinful Luſts, all Filthineſs whatſoever, is reduced to theſe two Heads. How do I prove that all is meant here? All that is to be purged, is reduced to theſe two Heads; therefore all is meant: And ſaith he, Growing up to Holineſs in Fear. Therefore now all the Sinfulneſs of Man's Nature, it is reduced to theſe two Heads: either bodily Wickedneſs, ſenſitive Wickedneſs, inward or outward, in the Fancy, and the like; or intellectual Wickedneſs, ſpiritual Wickedneſs; as the Schoolmen, and the Fathers, upon ſuch and the like Scriptures, have grounded this Notion. So now you have the Luſts of the Mind, and the Luſts alſo of the Fleſh. This is a clear and certain truth, that look how far pleaſure and deſire extendeth, ſo far ſinful luſts extend: As there are pleaſures in the Body, and from the deſires of the Body, ſo ſinful luſts; ſo likewiſe in the Soul. Some things the Soul takes pleaſure in, meerly by the help of the Body, which, when it is out of the Body, it ſhall have no pleaſure in: other things it takes pleaſure in, meerly as it is an intellectual Subſtance; for Revenge hath a pleaſure in it, it is no bodily luſt, yet it is the ſweeteſt luſt, to them that are revengeful, in the World.

Now then to open theſe more particularly, that I may a little anatomize your Hearts unto you.

The Luſts of the Fleſh, they are reduced to two Heads: the one lower, or more ſenſual; the other more ſuperior.

There are (as I ſaid before) the inward and outward Senſes; for beſides Hearing and Seeing, in a Man, and in a Beaſt, there is Fancy, which is but a fleſhly faculty, for it is ſuited to Buildings, and pleaſant Gardens, and a thouſand of theſe things which are artificial, Beauty, and the like; all theſe are ſeated in the Fancy, they are not ſeated in the Reaſon. The Fancy hath a little kind of reaſon in it, materially; it is but a very Mechanick, an Apprentice to the Underſtanding, to make ſhapes for it, as the Underſtanding is pleaſed to call them up, to repreſent its own thoughts to himſelf. You have Fancy in the Night. Whence are all your Dreams? They are not from your Underſtanding ſo much, the Underſtanding doth but heavily and dully accompany them; they are from the Fancy, and the Nimbleneſs of it, and the Species there. Now you have the ſame Fancies awake, only they appear lively in the Night, when you are aſleep, becauſe then Reaſon is down; but they are wan and pale, when you are awake. I uſe to ſay, that Fancy is as the Moon, that ruleth the Night, and Reaſon as the Sun, that rules the Day: When the Sun is down, the Moon is up; but when the Sun is up, the Moon grows pale and wan, tho it remains ſtill, even when the Sun ſhines moſt.

Now then there are theſe two ſorts of Luſts in the ſenſitive part; there are Luſts in the Fancy, and the Luſts in the brutiſh part of Man, in the Body, the more ſenſual part. I take it, that is the meaning of John, in 1 John 2. 16. There are the Luſts of the Eye, (ſaith he) and the Luſts of the Fleſh. By the Luſts of the Eye, he meaneth the Fancy. Walk, O young Man, ſaith Solomon, (who are fulleſt of Fancy,) in the ſight of thine Eyes. And then there are the Luſts of the Fleſh, which are the more brutiſh Luſts.

To diſtinguiſh theſe two a little:

Meats, and Drinks, and Sleep, and the like, all other Refreſhments to the Body, to the ſenſual part of it, are Luſts of the Fleſh, properly ſo called, in oppoſition to the Luſts of the Eye.

The Luſts of the Eye, they are ſuch as Beauty, Apparel, Buildings, pleaſant Stories, Jeſts, Pomp, and State, and a thouſand of theſe kind of things; all theſe, they are the Puppits of the Fancy, as I may ſo expreſs them. In Acts 25. 23. you have a notable place for this; it is ſaid there, that Agrippa and Bernice came in great Pomp: That outward State and Garb, with fine Cloaths, and glorious Attendants, which they were ſo pleaſed and taken with, it is called, great Pomp; but what is it in the Original? They came with great Fancy; it is called ſo, why? becauſe ſuch things as theſe are the Objects of the Fancy, So thoſe little Additaments to Womens Ornaments, we call them Fancies; it is but the calling of the thing by that which it ſuiteth to. Now tho a thouſand of theſe things are lawful in themſelves; for this is certain, that God made not any thing but there is ſomething in Man to ſuit it, and take pleaſure in it, and it were to deſtroy a Work of God, to deny it. But take God out of all theſe, when a Man's Fancy, his Spirit is carried out to theſe without God; when there is not Grace in the Heart, to ſubdue all theſe to God; then it is ſinful. Theſe are the Luſts of the Fleſh.

There are, ſecondly, the Luſts of the Reaſon, of the Mind. You muſt know this, that the word here in the Text, which is tranſlated, Luſts of the Mind, in the Greek it is, Luſts of the Reaſon, that is, of the Underſtanding of Man.

Now in the reaſoning part of Man, there are two ſorts of Luſts: (I take it, you have theſe in that place of John I quoted even now: There are, ſaith he, the Luſts of the Eye, the Luſts of the Fleſh; and what they are I have told you, the Luſts of the Eye is the Fancy, that of the Fleſh is the brutiſh part; And, ſaith he, there is the Pride of Life, which is the Luſts of the Underſtanding.) I ſay, theſe Luſts of the Underſtanding are of two ſorts, that I may diverſify them unto you. They are either,

1. Direct Luſts, that is, which are carried out directly in deſires to Objects before them, ſuited to them, ſuited to the Underſtanding, which it apprehends an excellency in. Or,

2. Collateral Luſts, Luſts that by a rebound riſe and ſpring from thence. The one are Prima, and the other Orta: there are Luſts which are primary; and there are Luſts which ariſe from them, and are ſecondary. I will explain them to you as I can.

1. The Underſtanding of a Man hath a World of direct Luſts, that is, Luſts that are directly carried on to Objects ſuited to it. As for example, Pride of Life, which the Apoſtle mentioneth there in John; look whatever excellency the Underſtanding hath, or knoweth, or is in a Man, of Beauty, or Parts, or Wit, and the like; in all theſe there is Pride, which the Apoſtle calleth, Pride of Life, as the other he calleth, the Luſts of the Eye, and the Luſts of the Fleſh. Affectation of Power, and of Glory, and of Sovereignty, of Subjection, to carry on a Man's Plots, and to accompliſh them, to carry on a Man's ends, Pride in Wiſdom, Learning, Parts, what ever elſe it be, any excellency that the Underſtanding only apprehendeth; all theſe are called the Pride of Life, theſe are Luſts of the reaſoning part: Excellency in civil Virtues, Conformity to the Law, (of which Paul boaſted in *Phil.*3.) The Philoſophers in civil Virtues; as he ſaid, Calco Platonis Superbiam, &c. Diogenes went in a poor Habit, and Plato in coſtly Apparel; he would tread upon his Coat, and the other trod upon Diogenes's. It was an Humility, but it was his Pride. To riſe higher yet, there are Luſts of the Mind towards Religion: Idolatry, it is mentioned in Gal. 5. 20. amongſt the Works and Luſts of the Fleſh; for in the 16*th* Verſe he had ſaid, that you ſhould not fulfill the Luſts of the Fleſh; and what followeth? Among the Works of the Fleſh, which ſpring from theſe Luſts, Idolatry is one; for if Men ſet up an idolatrous Worſhip, they are enflamed with their Idols, ſo the Prophet ſaith, Iſa. 57. 5. If Men be ſuperſtitious, they are puffed up with that Superſtition, it is a Luſt of the Underſtanding. In Col. 2. 18. Let no Man beguile you in a voluntary Humility, and worſhipping of Angels, intruding into thoſe things which he hath not ſeen, vainly puffed up by his fleſhly Mind. Go now, and take a Form of Religion, that Men faſhion to themſelves, ſuited to their Luſts, tho it is in it ſelf a good Religion, yet they making but a Form of it, as the Phariſees, and Paul did; Conformity to the Law of God is good, but he made a Form of it, it was ſuited to his worldly Luſts and Ends. When you take the ſpiritual part, the power out of Religion it ſelf, winde it up as high as you will, it is certain, that there are Luſts towards it. A Man hath a Zeal for it, but what ſaith the Apoſtle, You are zealous towards God, eſtabliſhing your own Righteouſneſs. You ſhall ſee Men as hot for that which is the way of their Religion, tho it be but a Form, carnal Men will be for it. This Zeal, I ſay, if you reſolve it, it is properly the Luſt of the Mind; for take any

Religion,

Serm. VII.

Religion, any Elevation, any pitch of Religion that a Man ſets upon and is zealous for, if it doth not riſe up to Spiritualneſs, all his Zeal for that Religion it is but Luſt. Theſe you ſee are the direct Luſts that are in the mind of Man.

2. There are alſo Luſts that are orta, that ſpring from hence; As from Pride and Self-love. Look what Excellency any man affecteth, if it be eclipſed by another, Envy ariſeth; if any oppoſe him in it, Hatred ariſeth; if any hinder him in it, Revenge ariſeth. Theſe now are not direct Luſts, but are Luſts that ariſe upon a rebound, when the deſires of a Man's heart are croſt, and yet they are Luſts. You ſhall find that in Gal. 5. 20, 21. that Envyings, Murders, and Witchcrafts, and all theſe, are called Luſts: do but compare the 16th verſe, where he bids them not to fulfil the Luſts of the Fleſh; and then he ſhews them what the works of the Fleſh are that ariſe from theſe Luſts, ſaith he, Idolatry, Witchcraft, Hatred, Variance, Emulations, Wrath, Strife, Seditions, Hereſies, Envyings, Murthers, &c. Now would one think that Witchcraft were a Luſt? No man hath a mind to go and give his Soul to the Devil ſimply; it is not a direct luſt, but thus: When Saul was put to it for a Kingdom, then he goes to the Devil. When Men would have what they inordinately deſire, and cannot get it by other means, then Acheronta movebo; they do not go to the Devil ſimply, for no man naturally delighteth to converſe with him; nay, there is naturally an averſneſs to it in the heart of Man: but it is a collateral luſt, it ariſeth from the other. And ſo doth Envying, and ſo doth Wrath and Sedition: Whence come Envyings amongſt you? come they not hence, even of your Luſts? ſaith the Apoſtle, Jam. 1.

I come now to the next thing, which having diſpatched, I have explained this part of the Text. You underſtand what is meant by the Luſts of the Fleſh, and of the Mind. There is one word more muſt be opened, and that is, Fulfilling the Deſires of the Fleſh, and of the Mind.

The word is ποιοῦντες, if I ſhould tranſlate it, I would tranſlate it thus, according to the phraſe we now uſe, acting their Luſts; it is, if you will ſo render it, doing their Luſts: we tranſlate it well, fulfilling their Luſts; either by outward actions, or by a continuation of inward thoughts and fancies, or muſing upon ſuch things as the Soul would have, or deſires. It is elſewhere called, obeying of Luſts; ſo Rom. 6. 12. It is called, ſerving of Luſts, ſo Tit. 3. 3. It is called, perfecting or compleating a Man's Luſts; ſo Gal. 5. 16. It noteth out to us theſe five things in an unregenerate man. It noteth,

1. That Luſts are the ground of all his actions. And therefore you ſhall find in 2 Pet. 1. 4. that all the Corruption that is in the World is ſaid to be through luſts. It is ſome luſt, ſome inordinate deſire, either in the Underſtanding or Fancy, or other of the outward Senſes, which is the ground of all the Corruption that is in the World; that as all the Grace that is in the Heart, is in and through Chriſt, ſo all the Corruption that is in the World it is through Luſt. I could give you a World of Scriptures for it, that Luſts are the foundation of all action in a carnal Man; not a thought ſtirreth, not a conſent, not a conſultation that the Heart hath (examine it when you will) but a Luſt is in the bottom of it; that is, an inordinate deſire and love to ſomething that the Heart would have, that ſets all theſe on work.

Now that Luſt is the ground of all action, and that is one part of the meaning, it is clear by what hath been ſaid. Do but lay all theſe together. The Soul of Man, in the firſt place, it is nothing but emptineſs of Good, it is meer want, meer ſtomack, nothing but deſires, it would have ſomewhat; it wants, and it would be fill'd: therefore that which we tranſlate committing Sin with greedineſs, in Eph. 4. it is in the Original, to have enough, it would have ſomething it wants; the Soul wants now, and being corrupt, it cannot go to God; it ſpies out ſome objects ſutable to it, that it thinks will fill up that want, and which if once it could enjoy, it ſhould have pleaſure; which is always a conjunction of two things ſutable: when a man's deſires, and what he deſireth meet, then doth pleaſure ariſe. As now in Pſal. 78. 8. when they asked Quails (they ſhould have been content with Manna) it is ſaid, they asked meat for their luſts. For luſt is nothing elſe but the extending of the Soul (which is a wanting hungry thing) to ſomething it deſires, and ſpies out ſomething ſutable unto it ſelf. But now, when the Soul hath put forth deſires to this thing ſutable, there wants ſome action or other, either of thought or outward action, to make the Object and the Soul meet. And hence comes that which is called, putting a Man's hand forth to wickedneſs, it is to bring the Heart and the Object together; and, by reaſon of that action, the Heart hath communion and pleaſure with what it doth deſire. So that now all the actions which a man goes about, they are meerly his luſts-buſineſs. And what is his luſts-buſineſs, but to aim at pleaſure? And how ſhall pleaſure be gotten, but by bringing the Object and the Heart together? and that is done by action. Therefore they are ſtill joyn'd, living in Pleaſures, and living in Luſts; it is all one; as in Jam. 5. 5. And James hath an emphatical expreſſion in that place, They nouriſh their Hearts. The Heart is meer Stomack, and muſt have meat. Now all the Objects which a Man deſireth, are but to nouriſh the Heart, meerly to keep life in it. And look as the Stomack hath contentment by eating, and when the meat comes down into it, ſo hath the Soul by action. Hence now it comes to paſs, that in all a Man doth, he doth act his Luſts. The expreſſion that is in Gal. 5. 16. is extremely emphatical, he calls it, fulfilling of a mans luſts; it is tranſlated ſo indeed here, but the words in the Greek are different; for it is ποιῆσθε here, and τελέσητε there: And what is the meaning of τελέσητε? it is to perfect. He ſpeaks of Action, for he doth not ſay, Walk in the Spirit and you ſhall not have luſts, but, you ſhall not fulfil them. He ſpeaks of Action therefore, and the word in the Greek is perfecting and accompliſhing. Luſt is an imperfect thing; it is a motion towards pleaſure, but it is imperfect. Now action cometh and perfecteth it, compleateth it, attaineth to what itwould have. So James expreſſes it, Luſt when it conceiveth, brings forth Sin: he compares the Luſt to the conception, and the outward act to the bringing forth of Sin. And that's the firſt thing which fulfilling, or doing, or acting Luſts doth imply; that action which the Soul continually goes about, it is ſome way or other to ſatisfy ſome luſt or other.

2. It implies, that Luſt is the Maſter, and the heart, and the action, and all theſe are but Inſtruments, ſet on work by the Luſt that hath power to command. How prove you that? By Joh. 8. 34. He that doth Sin (it is the ſame word that is uſed here) is the ſervant of Sin: and becauſe he is the ſervant of Sin, he therefore does it, in the ſence there ſpoken of, and here alſo. Saith the Apoſtle in Rom. 7. 5. the motions of Sin had force; the word is, they had energie, they did work effectually: Therefore it is called, ſerving divers luſts and pleaſures, in Tit. 3. 3. In an unregenerate man a Luſt ſaith, Do this, and he doth it, as the Centurion ſpeaks of his ſervants unto Chriſt; ſo as he cannot ceaſe from Sin, 2 Pet. 2. 1. What hard tasks doth Covetouſneſs (to inſtance in that) ſet a Man about? what a Slave doth it make a Man? He that will be rich (ſaith he in 1 Tim. 6.) falls into temptation, and a ſnare, and into many fooliſh and hurtful luſts, which himſelf, his own reaſon tells him to be ſo, hurts himſelf, pines his carcaſe, eats the bread of carefulneſs, riſeth up early, goes to Bed late, and all to get a little money more than needs. Do but reade Eccleſ. 6. and there you have his deſcription, what a toilſom thing it is to ſerve that luſt. Therefore the phraſe is, Obeying Sin in the luſts of it. He compares Luſt to a Law, the law of the Members, ſo he calls it, Rom. 7. 23. Yea, James compares it not only to a Law in time of Peace, but to the force of Arms in War, the luſts that war in your members, ſaith he, in Jam. 1. Therefore now all the members and faculties they are ready Inſtruments to pleaſe luſts, Their feet are ſwift to ſhed Blood, and they run greedily after the ways of unrighteouſneſs.

3. To do luſts (as the word here ſignifies) it noteth out an induſtry, a ſtudy, and carefulneſs: So the word doing is taken in Scriprure, as Muſculus obſerves upon that ſpeech of Chriſt, when he ſaid unto Judas, What thou doeſt, do quickly. What was Judas a doing then? he was plotting and contriving, he was thinking how to do the buſineſs of betraying his Maſter; What thou art doing, do quickly, ſo he interprets it. Therefore in Rom. 13. 14. Men are ſaid to take προνοιαν, to take thought, to be careful to fulfil the luſts of the fleſh.

4. It noteth out in the Scripture phraſe, Conſtancy. To do iniquity, it is not to do an act of iniquity, but it is to make a trade of it. So in 1 Joh. 3. 8. doing is taken, whether it be meant of Sinning, or meant of Righteouſneſs, He that committeth Sin, ſaith he: The word in the Original is the ſame with that here in the Text, He that doth Sin, is of the Devil. What is the meaning of doing Sin here?

It

Serm. VII. It is making a Trade of Sin: How do I prove that? Becauſe it is doing as the Devil doth: And how doth he do? For, ſaith he, the Devil ſinneth from the beginning. When a Man doth make a Trade and Courſe of ſinning, as the Devil doth, he it is that the Apoſtle meaneth, when he ſaith, He that doth Sin: Whoſoever is born of God, (ſaith he, verſ. 9.) doth not commit Sin; he doth not do Sin thus, he doth not make a Trade of any Sin, it is impoſſible he ſhould. In this (ſaith he, verſ. 10.) the Children of God are manifeſt, and the Children of the Devil: Whoſoever doth not Righteouſneſs, is not of God, neither he that loveth not his Brother. For to do Righteouſneſs, it is to ſet a Man's ſelf to make a Trade of it; as in 1 Pet. 3. 11. If thou wouldeſt ſee good days, do good, and eſchew evil: What! do one good Action? No, but doing good there, is the ſame word here in the Text, and is meant, making a Trade of it, ſetting a Man's ſelf in a Courſe of Good: So, to do a Man's Luſts, or to act a Man's Luſts, or fulfill them, (as we tranſlate it) implieth Conſtancy.

5. It implieth Univerſality; the meaning whereof is this, that an unregenerate Man is never but a fulfilling ſome Luſt or other; he hath never but ſome one Imp or other ſucking of him, as I may ſo expreſs it, either Luſts of the Body, or of the Mind: For the Soul of Man never can be idle, it is like the Heavens, always moving; it is always wanting, and there muſt be Meal in the Mill, it muſt grind ſomething or other; it is nothing but Luſts, and all the actions of it are nothing but to ſatisfy thoſe Luſts, and ſo he makes up his whole Life, (and a ſorrowful Life it is) in ſatisfying firſt one Luſt, and then another Luſt; he is always acting for them one way or other.

So now you have the Nature of theſe Luſts opened.

I ſhall make an Obſervation or two.

Obſerv. 1. The firſt Obſervation is this, That the whole Man, and all the parts both of Soul and Body, they are corrupt. And it is a great Obſervation to humble us, my Brethren. The Body, and all the deſires of it; the Mind, the Will, whatſoever is, there is almoſt no part, but there is ſomething in the Text here, that holds forth the Corruption of it, either directly or implicitly. Here is, the Luſts of the Fleſh, you ſee, of the Body, the ſenſitive part; here is, the Luſts of the Mind, the reaſoning part: here is alſo the Will, the Corruption of that; for he calleth Luſts, (becauſe they come to action) Wills of the Fleſh, and of the Mind. Here is the Underſtanding, in the word, τῶν διανοιῶν, for ſo the word properly refereth to the Underſtanding. And here likewiſe are all the ſenſitive Powers of a Man included, in the word [Fleſh,] which belongeth to his Body in common to him with Beaſts. Therefore corrupt Nature in Scripture is called a Man; ſo you have it in Epheſ. 4. 22. Put off the old Man, which is corrupt, according to the deceitful Luſts: Why is it called a Man? Becauſe it is ſpread over the whole Man, and hath Members as large as a Man's Soul and Body hath. In Rom. 3. 10. he goes over all the Powers of Man: In the Mind, There is none that underſtandeth, no not one.: In the Will, None ſeeks after God: In all the other parts; The Throat is an open Sepulcher; under their Lips is Poyſon; their Feet are ſwift to ſhed Blood: Itching Ears, 2 Tim. 4. 3. Hands full of Blood, Iſa. 1. 16. Yea, if you will have it, The Tongue is a World of Evil, ſo ſaith James: And in Iſa. 1. 6. From the Sole of the Foot, to the Crown of the Head, there is no one whole part. That is the firſt Obſervation.

Obſerv. 2. The ſecond is this: That our ſuperiour Parts, the Mind, and the Will, have their Corruption, as well as the ſenſitive part. It is a ſtrange thing, that the Papiſts ſhould go and cut off at one blow half of a Man's Corruption; they would make the Underſtanding to be a kind of Virgin, the Will only to be as one that is bound, if the Fetters were but off, he would go. My Brethren, this is a certain Rule, that there is the ſame Subject of Privation, and of the Habits. I ſhall explain my ſelf to you: The Eye, it is the ſubject of Sight; the Eye therefore is the ſubject of blindneſs, if Sight be gone. What parts in Man were the Subjects of Holineſs? The Underſtanding and the Will, it's certain: Therefore when Holineſs is gone, what is Sin? the want of Holineſs; what muſt be the ſubject of it then? Certainly the Underſtanding, and the Will too, is the chief Subject of it. Serm. VII

when

That which deceived the School-Men, who brought up that Notion firſt, was the groſs Interpretation of the word [Fleſh] in the Scripture, as only taking it for the Body, whenas the Scripture doth not ſpeak like the Philoſophers, but the Scriptures ſpeak Theologically, That which is born of the Fleſh, is Fleſh. He doth not only ſay [He,] but [That]; there is not that thing in Man, that is born of Fleſh, and propagated, but it is Fleſh, that is, it is Corruption.

The Fathers likewiſe in the Primitive Times, they ſpake gently of the Corruption of the Mind, and of the Underſtanding, becauſe they approved ſo much Good, and the Philoſophers magnified that, for they knew no other Good in Man but that: the other ſpake too gently, by reaſon of the oppoſition of the Times, and to take off the Abſurdities of the Doctrine of Chriſtian Religion, and not according to the Scriptures. My Brethren, the greateſt Sins of all are in the Underſtanding, as I might ſhew you, if I had time. Envy and Wrath, which are Luſts properly in the Underſtanding, and Revenge, and the like, they are all called, Luſts of the Fleſh, that is, of corrupt Nature, yet they are Luſts properly ſeated in the Underſtanding.

My Brethren, they are the Devils Luſts, they are therefore the worſt Luſts of all the reſt; the Devil's Luſts, I ſay, moſt oppoſite unto Chriſt; the higheſt Idolatry lies there: Therefore when he ſpeaks of an intellectual Luſt, ſuch as Covetouſneſs is, he ſaith, Which is Idolatry, becauſe the inward Idolatry of the Mind is the worſt Idolatry of all the reſt. Men that ſin againſt the Holy-Ghoſt, what is it makes them ſo wicked? It is their Underſtanding, and their Will. Julian the Apoſtate was a civil Man, he was not given up to groſs Sins, yet ſinned againſt the Holy-Ghoſt. It lies in Revenge, in the Devil's Luſts. The Wiſdom of the World, ſaith he, is earthly, ſenſual, and devilliſh; the very Wiſdom is. There are (in a word) other Corruptions in the Underſtanding: There is, firſt, a darkneſs as to the knowledg of all ſpiritual things: There are alſo all ſorts of Principles contrary to true Principles, The Fool ſaith, There is no God, and God ſeeth not, Pſal. 10. There are alſo in it Luſts of its own, proper to it ſelf, which are the ſtrongeſt Luſts, and have the greateſt influence into Mens Lives, of any other; as outward excellencies apprehended by the Underſtanding, to have Honour, and Riches, and Power, and Greatneſs, and the like; theſe are the Objects of the Underſtanding, and theſe are the great Luſts of the World, other Luſts are but petty ones, theſe have the great Influence into Men. I could ſhew you, that Covetouſneſs, and ſuch Luſts, they are Luſts of the Underſtanding: Men are not covetous, meerly becauſe they love to ſee Money, and to ſee Gold; but covetous to uphold their State and Greatneſs, that they may be ſaid to be worth ſo much, to leave behind them a Name, and an Houſe, and an Eſtate for their Children: Theſe are the Luſts of the Underſtanding, and theſe are the grounds of Covetouſneſs. And ſo likewiſe the Underſtanding, it is ſet on work to accompliſh all worldly Luſts: Men are wiſe to do evil, ſaith Jeremy, and to do good they have no Underſtanding. I have not walked among you, ſaith Paul, with fleſhly Wiſdom, 1 Cor. 1. I could name many more, but I paſs them over.

A third Obſervation is this: You ſee, how much more Man that is a Sinner hath to be humbled for, in ſome reſpect, than Devils. For he hath more Luſts, and a greater capacity of ſinning, than the Devils themſelves have in ſome reſpects. The Devil indeed is the Father of all Sin, becauſe he began it; but all the Luſts of the Body, and the like, he is not capable of. But now look, how many deſires are in the outward Senſes, or in the Fancy, and the like, unto all things in this World, ſo many ways of Sinning hath Man; and then all the ways that the Devils have of ſinning, he hath too; of Revenge, and Pride, and all ſuch Luſts. Obſerv. 3.

Serm. VII.

And, my Brethren, ſee, how hard a thing it is to be ſaved; for take a Man in his natural condition, Holineſs being gone, look how many ſeveral things the Soul is fitted to deſire, or to luſt after, ſo many ways he hath to Hell; and that is, ten thouſand thouſand, for the deſires of the Heart of Man, they are infinite every way. Suppoſe now, that a Man were moated about in a great compaſs, and there were a thouſand Paths to walk in; let him take which Path he will, if he would walk, being blindfold, he muſt certainly fall into the Moat: So is it here.

And likewiſe you may ſee by this, the evil of all our Luſts: Either we are Beaſts or Devils: If we ſatisfy the Luſts of the Body, we are Beaſts; if of the Mind, Devils. Chuſe which of theſe two you will be, for into one you muſt fall.

SERM.

SERMON VIII.

EPHES. 2. 3.

----- And were by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others.

THe laſt Diſcourſe I handled theſe words, Fulfilling the Deſires (or Wills) of the Fleſh, and of the Mind. The Apoſtle had before in general ſhewed, how that the Converſation of all Men in the ſtate of Nature, it is in the Luſts of the Fleſh. And by Luſts of the Fleſh there, he means the Luſts of corrupt Nature in general, (as Fleſh in Scripture is often taken.) But not contented with that, he doth particularize the Luſts which are in the Hearts of Men, which in their Lives they do fulfill, dividing them according to that diviſion of Nature, of Soul and Body: Fulfilling the Deſires of the Fleſh; that is, of the Body, or thoſe Luſts which the Soul partakes in by reaſon of the Body; all thoſe ſenſitive Luſts, both of the outward Senſes, and of the inward Senſes, the Fancy, and the like: And of the Mind, that is, thoſe Luſts which John calls, Luſts of the Eye, which are purely reaſonable, and which have their ſeat meerly in the Underſtanding, and Mind, and thoſe rational Faculties: Fulfilling the Wills of the Fleſh, and of the Mind.

I opened to you the difference of theſe two in the former Diſcourſe, and I ſhewed, that according to the Scriptures, all the Sins of Men, and all the Luſts in the Hearts of Men, are reduced to theſe two Heads: Either thoſe which we have common with Beaſts, or at leaſtwiſe are ſeated in thoſe Faculties which are common to Beaſts; or elſe ſuch as are common to us with Devils. I told you, that either there are thoſe Luſts, which are in the moſt ſenſitive part of the outward Senſes, or thoſe which are in the Fancy, the Objects whereof are Buildings, and a thouſand other Artifices of Men, Beauty, and the like: Or elſe they are the Luſts which are in the rational part, purely ſuch, as Pride in any excellency, Envy, and the like. I diſcourſed at large of theſe things, I ſhall only add this:

I reduce many of thoſe Luſts in the Hearts of Men to the Fancy, not becauſe Beaſts who have Fancies are capable of them, as to ſee an excellency in Buildings, and Beauty, and the like; theſe things fanciful Beaſts are not capable of: Yet becauſe the Fancy is by participation reaſonable in a Man, hence it is, that Men are capable of many Luſts in their Fancies, whereof they ſee no Image in a Beaſt, and yet they are not properly the Luſts of the Mind, becauſe they are not purely intellectual, but the Soul is drench'd in them, by reaſon of its conjunction with the Fleſh. I only add that, to explain what I ſaid in the laſt Diſcourſe, I would not have repeated ſo much, but only in order to ſomewhat more, that I mean to ſpeak at this time, concerning theſe Luſts of the Mind; and ſo I ſhall come to the other part of the Verſe: And were by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others.

Concerning theſe Luſts I ſhall give you one or two general Rules, and ſo come off. I ſhall not go about now to ſet down Notes and Signs of what is the Maſter-Luſt in Men, a thing which elſewhere I have largely handled; but I ſhall only give you ſome two or three general Rules concerning Luſts, and concerning the Luſts of the Mind eſpecially.

Serm. VIII.

The firſt whereof is this: That theſe Luſts do vary, according as Mens natural Tempers, or their Underſtandings, and the degrees thereof, are more or leſs. In Men of Underſtanding, Luſts of the Mind prevail moſt; and in Fools, ſenſual Pleaſures, in Meat and Drink, and the like, and in the natural Comforts of the Body. And they are diverſified thus, according as the natural conſtitution, or natural elevation of the Spirits of Men are, according to the various elevation or advancement of the Underſtanding; for Man being a rational Creature, and Reaſon being the chief Principle in him, he uſeth that little Underſtanding he hath, to find out what will ſuit him moſt, what he can have deareſt contentment in, and accordingly he pitcheth upon, and proſecuteth by Nature that. Tho a Man hath all Luſts in him, yet he proſecuteth thoſe things with the deareſt contentment, which that poor ſmall Underſtanding he hath, counteth moſt excellent. Hence therefore, according to the variation of Men's Underſtandings, it comes to paſs, that their Luſts are ordinarily pitched higher or lower. In worldly Objects, there is a great deal of difference in the excellency of them. Some are more abſtracted from the groſs ſubſtance of things, (as I may ſo ſpeak); ſome are more ſpiritual, and more airy. And as you ſee among living Creatures, there are ſome that live upon a finer kind of Food than others; Birds, you know, live upon a finer kind of Food, than Beaſts; and there is one Bird, the Camelion, that lives, as ſome ſay, meerly upon Air: So the Spirits of Men, the more airy and intellectual they are, the finer is that Food that nouriſheth their luſts. Therefore your great Philoſophers of old, that were wiſe Men, pitched upon moral Vertues, and upon Civility, and placed their happineſs in them; and their Wiſdom was ſo ſtrong in them, that even that did judg meer ſenſual Pleaſures to defile the Soul, which they apprehended to be the moſt noble of Creatures, and out of the greatneſs of their Spirits, they would not ſtoop to what was baſe; they thought it moſt unfit, for an elevated Soul to ſerve any Creature leſs than it ſelf: but as for Virtue, and Morality, and the like, they thought that theſe were meet for the Underſtanding and Soul of a Man: Yet becauſe they took not God in theſe things, hence it came to paſs, that all theſe were luſts, tho luſts of the Mind, as I ſhewed you likewiſe the laſt Diſcourſe. So likewiſe thoſe among the Jews, that were raiſed higher than the Heathens, accordingly the luſts of their Minds were raiſed higher alſo. The Zeal that Paul had for the Law, it was a luſt of the Mind, for it was without God: They have a Zeal, but not according to knowledg, ſaith he, Rom. 10. 2. without a directing of it to God, as the chiefeſt end. And this alſo I underſtand to be part of the meaning of that place, (which is pat and expreſs for this,) in 1 Pet. 1. 14. where writing to the Jews, he bids them, that they ſhould not faſhion themſelves according to their former luſts in their ignorance; and among other Arguments he hath this, v. 18. Foraſmuch as ye know, that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, from your vain Converſation, received by tradition from your Fathers. That Jewiſh Religion, which they ſtuck in, and which they had received by tradition from their Fathers, even this was one part of the Object of thoſe former luſts in their ignorance, according to which he bids them, v. 14. not to faſhion themſelves. And thus likewiſe experience ſhews this to be true; for you ſhall find, that as Men grow up in years, and ſo grow up in Wiſdom, accordingly their luſts vary; as they grow more wiſe, ſo they live more intellectual Lives, and grow up more to luſts of the Mind: Therefore Covetouſneſs, which is plainly a luſt of the Mind, prevails moſt in old Age; whereas Prodigality, which is a luſt of the Fancy, prevails in Youth more: why? becauſe Men grow wiſer. Luſts therefore are varied in Men, according as their Underſtandings grow higher or lower.

The ſecond thing that I ſhall ſay unto you is this: That of the two, the luſts of the Mind are the ſtrongeſt in Men, and they are the greateſt. They are the ſtrongeſt luſts, for they have the greateſt compaſs. If a Man confine himſelf to ſenſual pleaſures, he hath a greater Narrow; but if to luſts of the Mind, Pride, and the like, he hath a larger Field to run in; for deſire of Credit, and the like, ariſeth from a thouſand things, out of all ſorts of excellencies, of what kind ſoever: And ſuch luſts now a Man ſeeks continually to upold. Men are given to ſenſual luſts occaſionally, but theſe luſts of the Mind, they act the great part of Mens Mens Lives: Yea, many Sins are abſtained from, in relation to the Luſts of the Mind; the luſts of the Mind will devour other luſts, and keep them under, for Credit's ſake, and the like. The luſts of the Mind have the largeſt Revenues of Comfort of any other, becauſe they can fetch it out of any thing; whatſoever one hath that is excellent, Apparel, Beauty, Wit, Learning, Riches, Power, Buildings, (Is not this great Babel, that I have built, by the might of my Power, and for the honour of my Majeſty?) whatſoever it is, all theſe feed the luſts of the Mind. Therefore now many Luſts, that have ſeemed to have other Names, as the love of Money, it is not properly the love of Money it ſelf, but it is a luſt of the Mind that makes a Man given to it; it is to uphold his State among his Neighbours, and his Rank, to erect a Name, and leave a Poſterity after him, to have ſaid, he died worth ſo much; all theſe are the luſts of the Mind. And likewiſe, as they are the ſtrongeſt, becauſe they are of the largeſt compaſs; ſo they are the ſtrongeſt, becauſe they have the moſt reaſonings for them; therefore when you come to turn to God, you do not ſtick ſo much at parting from ſenſual luſts, as thoſe luſts that hold the debate with you, that bring reaſon to plead for them, as the repute of Friends, the holding correſpondency with others, and the like; theſe are the great Roots, like thoſe which, I take it, you call Tap-roots, that every Tree hath; all the little Roots may be eaſily pull'd in pieces, but theſe ſtick; they are the laſt repented of, when one comes to caſt off the old Man. And the ground of this is, becauſe the Strength of a Man lies in his Reaſon, therefore to part with thoſe luſts that lie in the rational part, the Strength of a Man ſhews it ſelf to the utmoſt there: Therefore, in 2 Cor. 10. 4. the Apoſtle ſpeaks of Reaſonings, and high Thoughts, and ſtrong Holds in Men, that are to be pulled down, when Chriſt comes to convert; theſe are they that keep a Man from turning. All the great Ordnance that natural Corruption hath, lies in this Tower of the Mind, (as Ariſtotle called the Soul, Arx animæ,) as for other luſts, Reaſon it ſelf is againſt them, and the more reaſon a Man hath, the more the folly of them is diſcovered; but for theſe luſts there is a great deal of reaſon: A Man ſhall loſe but his Humour in parting with the one; but he loſeth his Honour, his Repute, and the like, in parting with the other: Other luſts do not perſuade by reaſon, no, reaſon is fain to condeſcend unto them, becauſe they pleaſe the Man, and he can have no other happineſs, but Reaſon it ſelf is againſt them; but now for the luſts of the Mind, all the ſtrength of reaſon takes part with them.

And therefore let me give you a third Rule alſo, and that is this: That of all luſts they are the deceitfulleſt, (you have that Phraſe given in Scripture, deceitful Luſts,) other ſenſual luſts, they do but deceive, by promiſing more than they can perform, by tempting you; but theſe, a Man may live in them, and not ſee them, and ſo they deceive moſt, for natural Men judg nothing ſinful, but what hath a groſs action; now all ſuch aerial luſts as theſe, which are the luſts of the Mind, they have no ſuch groſs action, nay, the Objects of them are things lawful, yea commendable. Other luſts in the ſenſitive part are more turbulent, more violent, and ſo more diſcernable, and in that reſpect they deceive leaſt: Like Poiſon that is in the Bowels, which makes a Man roar, and ſo is more diſcerned, than Poiſon taken in at the Noſe, into the Head, which kills before it is felt, becauſe it ſtrikes that part which ſhould feel; ſo the luſts of the Mind, being ſeated in that part which ſhould diſcern, poſſeſſing that part, they take the Senſes away, and in that reſpect deceive moſt. The Eye ſees not the Bloodſhed that is in it ſelf, but will ſee a ſpot that is on the hand, or upon another Member; The Underſtanding doth not ſo eaſily, being corrupted, reflect upon it ſelf; therefore the luſts of the Mind are more deceitful.

And laſtly; Of all luſts, they are the worſt luſts, as having the moſt Sinfulneſs in them; for the greateſt Idolatry is here: Therefore, both in the Coloſſians, and in the Epheſians, you ſhall find, that when he ſpeaks of Covetouſneſs, (which is an intellectual luſt) ſtill he puts a difference, and an emphaſis upon it, from other luſts: Covetouſneſs, ſaith he, which is Idolatry, becauſe the greateſt Idol is that which the Mind is ſet upon, and becauſe that is a luſt of the Mind, he puts that Serm. VIII. that emphaſis upon it. Other Luſts are Idolatry too, but they are but outward Idolatry, this is inward, and ſo the worſt of the two. And ſo much now in brief for that which I thought to ſpeak more concerning the fulfilling the deſires of the fleſh, and of the mind. I come now to the latter part of the verſe.

——And were by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others.

The general ſcope of the Apoſtle in theſe words, (that I may give you that firſt) it is to make a general Concluſion concerning the corrupt eſtate of Man by Nature, not only in reſpect of Original Sin (tho that is eminently intended) but as involving all that he ſaid before. It is, I ſay, a general Concluſion, that involveth all that he ſaid before, with an addition of theſe three things.

1. With an addition of the firſt cauſe of the Corruption of all Men's Hearts and Luſts, they are ſo by Nature, ſaith he.

2. With an addition of the Puniſhment that is due to Men in this Natural Condition, both in reſpect of their Natures and their firſt Birth, as alſo in reſpect of all their Sins which in that ſtate they continue in, They are Children of Wrath. And,

3. With an addition, or rather a concluſion of Univerſality: It is every Man's Caſe, ſaith he. He had parted it before; ſome things he had ſaid of the Gentiles, You (you Gentiles) hath he quickned, who were dead in ſins and treſpaſſes, wherein in times paſt ye walked. Some things likewiſe he had ſaid of the Jews, amongſt whom we (we Jews) alſo had our converſation: but now, in the cloſe of all, he puts them both, Jews and Gentiles, together, and were by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others.

I ſay, it is, in the firſt place, a general Concluſion that involveth all, not only becauſe it comes in at the laſt, and ſo is as it were the total Sum, but that ſame word λοίποι, takes in all that went before; And were as well as others by Nature thus and thus, namely, We were all by Nature dead in Sins; We are all by Nature in the ſtate of Nature, (for ſo by Nature is alſo taken, as I ſhall ſhew you anon) We all by Nature, one as well as another, walked according to the courſe of the World, and were ſubjected to the Devil. In a word, whatſoever he had ſaid before of Luſts, or whatſoever a Man is by Nature, his intent is to involve it here in theſe words, and to bring down upon all, all that he had ſpoken.

And as it holds forth a general Concluſion, involving all that went before; ſo, ſecondly, it ſhews eſpecially the original ground of all that Corruption that is in Men's hearts; it is by nature, it is by birth, and it is our nature. For it is clear and plain that his ſcope all along is to hold forth the cauſe of all the Corruption that is in Men: therefore he calls it the wills of the fleſh, and of the mind. The fleſh is the cauſe of luſts, luſts are the cauſe of action, and nature is the cauſe of both, of all. And therefore,

In the third place, you have the Puniſhment due to men in the ſtate of nature, yea to Men in their very firſt birth. They are Children of Wrath, in that ſtate, for all the Luſts and Sins they commit; and, they are Children of Wrath, even in the very Womb, before they commit any actual Sin.

And, laſtly, He ſpeaks univerſally of all both Jew and Gentile, We were all by nature, &c. So you have the general ſcope cleared, and the reaſon of it. I ſhall now come to open the phraſes.

Firſt, for this Phraſe [By Nature.]

Pelagius, who was againſt Original Sin, gave this Interpretation; That [by Nature] was meant vere & germanè ἀληθῶς, γνησίως, they were truly, really, Children of Wrath; ſo the Scholiaſt hath it; and ſo Cyril reads it alſo. And that Interpretation we will not omit, although it is not the utmoſt meaning of what is here intended. For [by Nature] in Scripture is meant often-times, truly, really: as for example, in Gal. 4. 8. Ye worſhipped thoſe that by Nature were no Gods; that is, thoſe that were not truly Gods, that were Gods only in opinion, not really ſo. So by being Children of Wrath by Nature, is to be really and truly ſuch. But that which makes this opinion fall ſhort of the true ſence, is this: for to what end ſhould the Apoſtle ſay they were really and truly the Children of Wrath? There were none held held they were in opinion Children of Wrath, but thoſe that therefore it is to no purpoſe it ſhould be brought in here to that ſence. Serm. VIII.

The Syriack Tranſlation adds this; They were plane, plene, wholly Children of Wrath, not in one part, but in the whole nature. But that is held forth (as I have ſaid) in the words before: For it was an Obſervation I made, grounded upon the words in the laſt Diſcourſe, That it is ſeated in the whole Man.

But, thirdly, to come to that meaning, which indeed the Apoſtle aims at, and therefore I will call it the firſt, for I do but mention the other, which tho they are true, yet they are not the ultimate ſcope of the Apoſtle here.

1. Therefore [by Nature] is in oppoſition to Imitation, or to Cuſtom, which yet is altera Natura, as Ariſtotle uſes the word (and ſo does the Scripture too) in the ſecond Book of his Ethicks; Vertues, ſaith he, are not φύσει, are not by Nature, as Notitiæ, as the common ſeeds of Knowledg in the minds of Men are. So that what is innate in us, bred with us, which we have from the principles of Nature, which is interwoven with our Natures, that is ſaid to be by Nature. And therefore now in one word, according to all Languages, That which is the inclination of any one, the natural diſpoſition, that which a man is naturally addicted unto, it is ſaid to be by Nature. The Apoſtle therefore, having ſpoken of the Luſts of the Mind, and of the Fleſh, in the words before, his meaning here is, that theſe are natural unto Men, they are the very inclination of their Minds, the natural frame of their Hearts. And ſo now it hath an emphaſis in it, that what we are by reaſon of Original Corruption (which he had called Fleſh before) is Nature in all Men. And tho he only ſaith, we are Children of Wrath by Nature, yet this Wrath muſt be for ſomething; for God is not angry for what is not Sin: therefore it implies, that our natural diſpoſition, all thoſe Luſts which he had mentioned, and that Fleſh which is the Mother of theſe Luſts, this is that which is Man's Nature. And ſo now the ſcope of the Apoſtle is plainly and clearly this, Further to aggravate and ſet out that Corruption and Sinfulneſs that is in the Hearts of Men. Ye are not only Children of Wrath, ſaith he, and deſerve eternal Damnation, which was that that hung over your heads for all the actual Sins you have committed (of which he had ſpoken before) but further, even by Nature; and for your very Natures, and the inclinations thereof, even for the very Nature that is in you (he brings it in as a farther addition and aggravation) even for this alſo you are Children of Wrath. By Nature, it is that which a Man doth being left to Nature; as in Rom. 2. The Gentiles do by Nature the things of the Law, from their natural principles that are in them: ſo [by Nature] it is that principle that is in a Man, that is principium motus, the principle of all his actions: For every thing works according to its nature, as Ariſtotle tells us.

2. [By Nature] imports not only that it is a Man's Nature, but that his birth is a cauſe ſome way or other, or a foundation of his being thus corrupt. By Nature; it is taken for the Nativity; it is φύσει, and it is all one with Birth. As now in Rom. 2. 27. The Gentiles are called the Uncircumciſion by Nature, that is, by Birth; not in reſpect of their natural Conſtitution, but in reſpect of a Priviledg that the Jews had by Birth, which the Gentiles had not, (as Priviledges you know go by Birth.) So in Gal. 2. 15. in oppoſition thereunto, ſaith he, We who are Jews by Nature; that is, who have the Priviledge of Jews by Birth. And ſo Paul ſaith, he was born a Roman; that is, he was a Roman by Nature. In the ſame ſence the Gentiles were called uncircumciſion by Nature too, that the Jews were called Jews by Nature. Now to me that is evidently the meaning of the Apoſtle here, and that for theſe Reaſons: 1. Becauſe he changes the phraſe (which is an obſervable thing:) In the ſecond verſe he had ſaid they were Children of diſobedience, ἐν τοις υἱοις τ῀ ἀπειθείας, but here τέκνα: which tho it ſignifies a Child at large, yet more expreſly and properly it ſignifies a Child begotten. His uſing that phraſe here, in diſtinction from the other in the ſecond verſe, when he ſpeaks of Diſobedience, imports that they were thus by Birth. I will not trouble you to confute a Criticiſm which Zanchy hath, becauſe the confutation of it is obvious. Then, 2. he adding beſides, that, and were by Nature the begotten Children of Wrath, as I may ſo interpret it. And (which is obſervable too) he doth not ſay, which are the Children of Wrath by Nature, but in the Greek it is, which were Children by Nature of Wrath;

ſo

Serm. VIII.

so as [by Nature] comes in between, to shew that they were thus by Birth. And there is this third Reason too, why when he saith [by Nature] he specially means by Birth; because it is spoken plainly and clearly in opposition to that Pride of the Jews in the Priviledges they had by their Birth: for the Jews, you know, stood much upon it, that they were the Children of Abraham. Now the Apostle, as is evident, speaks point-blank in opposition to that: We, saith he, namely we Jews, tho we pride our selves that we have Abraham to our Father, we are Children of Wrath; that is, we are so by Birth, as well as others; namely, as well as the poor Gentiles, whom the Apostle in Gal. 2. 15. speaking according to the vulgar opinion of the Jews, calls, Sinners of the Gentiles: Tho you stand upon it that you are the Children of Abraham, and that you are Jews by Nature, that is, by Birth, yet (as God told the Jews afterwards) you had a Father before Abraham, in whom ye sinned, and so you are Children by Nature, (that is, by Birth) of Wrath as well as others.

3. [By Nature] is taken here for the whole state of Nature, from a Man's Birth until God turn him. He shews what they were, not only in respect of their first Birth, but of that continued state which they stood in before they were converted, which we call the state of Nature. And this is an excellent place for the confirmation of that phrase. He doth not simply mean only their estate by Birth, (for the Apostle's scope, and the Holy Ghost's is always general, and in a latitude) but he doth comprehend their whole state from their Birth all their days, while they fulfilled the Lusts of the Flesh, and of the Mind, what ever state they had by Birth, what ever state they stood in during the time of their unregeneracy, it was all a state of Nature; and they were in that state of Nature, Children of Wrath. So Nature is taken, and so it's clearly taken here. For [by Nature] here in this 3d verse, is spoken in opposition to what the Apostle afterwards saith (as Erasmus well observes) in the 5th verse, by Grace ye are saved. So that now the state of Nature, and the state of Grace, is that which the Apostle here intends. And that he speaks of an unregenerate condition, the words [were by Nature] import clearly, that is, while they were in the state of Nature. His scope is therefore to shew what naturally, without Grace, their condition was; and therefore ver. 11. in the winding up of all, he speaks of the whole estate, Remember, saith he, that ye were once Gentiles. And thus the Scripture always speaks; Psal. 58. 7. They are gone astray from the Womb; they were not only corrupt in the Womb, but gone astray from the Womb. So in Gen. 8. speaking of original corruption, saith he, The imagination of Man's Heart is evil from his Youth; that is, even from a Babe, as in Exodus the phrase is used, as I shall shew afterwards.

So that [by Nature] eminently importeth these three things, 1. That their natures were defiled with all sorts of inclinations unto evil, all those Lusts of the Flesh, and of the Mind, which he had spoken of before, were natural unto them, for which they were Children of Wrath. 2. That the way of conveying this to them, or how they came to be so at first, how their natures were thus originally corrupted, it was not by imitation or custom, but it was by birth. And, 3. that all the while they walked in those Lusts they were in a state of Nature, under which, and in which while they continued, till such time as they came into a state of Grace, they were Children of Wrath. This, I say, I take to be the comprehensive meaning of the Apostle in this conclusion of his discourse of Lusts. So that now I have opened to you that first phrase, And were by Nature.

The second phrase is, Children of Wrath.

Which (as I have formerly said) is an Hebraism, and so (according to the Hebrew Language) you reade of a Child of Captivity, a Child of the Resurrection, a Child of Disobedience, and the like. It is either taken Actively, or Passively.

1. Actively, thus: what a man is addicted to, what he seeks after, he is said to be a Child of. As a man is said to be a Child of Wisdom; Wisdom is justified of her Children. So Wicked Men are said to be Children of Disobedience, ver. 2. that is, addicted to Disobedience, it's taken actively. So, in a way of opposition, Peter exhorts them, in 1 Pet. 1. 14. that they would be Children of Obedience, so the phrase is in the Greek, we translate it, Obedient Children, it comes all to one; but,

I ſay, in the Greek it is, Children of Obedience, (as here in v. 2. it is, Children of Diſobedience,) that is, addict your ſelves, as Children to ſuch a Father, to do the Will of God.

2. Paſſively; thus, a Child of the Captivity, that is, one led into Captivity: So Jeſus Chriſt is called, the Son of God's Love, or, the Child of his Love, Col. 1. 13. We tranſlate it, His beloved Son; but in the Original it is, the Son of his Love, becauſe that God hath caſt his Love upon him. So in 2 Pet. 2. 14. one that is accurſed to Death, he is called, (we tranſlate it, Curſed Children, but it is) Children of the Curſe, as here, Children of Wrath. So in Mat. 23. 15. he is made a Son of Hell, worſe than he was before; that is, one whoſe due Hell is: As we uſe to ſay, ſuch an one the Gallows is his due; that is, if we ſhould ſpeak according to the Hebrew Language, one that is the Child of the Gallows; ſo a Son of Hell, a Son of Wrath, a Son of the Curſe. You have it alſo in 1 Sam. 20. 31. and in 2 Sam. 12. 5. So now, as before it is taken actively, a Child of Diſobedience; ſo here, a Child of Wrath is taken paſſively: and both according to the Analogy of the Hebrew Phraſe.

It doth ſometimes imply one, that is deſigned by God's decree to Death and Damnation; as in John 17. 12. Judas is called, a Son of Perdition; that is, one who is ordained by God to perdition; as Chriſt was called, the Son of his Love, becauſe he was ordained to be the Object of his Love. But ſo it is not here meant, that they were the Children of Wrath by God's decree, becauſe he ſpeaks of Men that were converted. Therefore the meaning is plainly this, That they were in a ſtate, in which they were not only worthy of Wrath, but Wrath was due to them, yea, according to a juſt ſentence, Wrath was pronounced againſt them; it was not only their deſert, but they were in that ſtate wherein Wrath went out againſt them, they ſtood under the Sentence of Wrath, and were ſo adjudged. You have the Phraſe plain and expreſs, in Deut. 25. 2. If there be a Controverſy between Men, and they come unto Judgment, that the Judge may judg them; then they ſhall juſtify the righteous, and condemn the wicked: And it ſhall be, if the wicked Man be worthy to be beaten, the Judg ſhall cauſe him to lie down, &c. In the Original it is, If he be a Son, or a Child of beating; that is, if he be one that is found, that it is his due to be beaten, and that the Judges have condemned him. So now to be a Child of Wrath, it is one not only to whom Wrath is due; but one, that according to the ſentence of the great Judg Wrath is pronounced againſt, Sentence is given forth. So in that place I mentioned before 2 Sam. 12. 5. ſaith Solomon there, He ſhall ſurely die; in the Original it is, He is a Son of Death: It was a Sentence pronounced by the King, as of a Judg that gave out a Sentence, therefore we tranſlate it, He ſhall ſurely die; he was not only one that deſerved Death, but one that was appointed and ſentenced thereunto.

So now you have what is meant by a Child of Wrath: It is one, that is paſſively under, and obnoxious unto, and over whom the Wrath of God hangeth, unto whom, and to which Eſtate the Sentence of Wrath and Condemnation is gone out from the great King; ſo that he muſt alter his eſtate, if he will get out of Wrath.

If you ask me, whoſe Wrath it is? I anſwer: It is not indeed in the Text, but as I ſhall ſhew you afterward, it is the Wrath of God, working eternal Puniſhment. Wrath in Scripture ſignifies Puniſhment, as from a Judg; as for example, Rom. 13. 1,2. Be ſubject to the higher Powers, not for Wrath, that is, not for Puniſhment ſake, which comes from the Wrath of the Prince, or the Magiſtrate, but for Conſcience ſake. So that to be Children of Wrath, is to be Children of the Puniſhment, which the great Judg of Heaven and Earth hath ordained; and it noteth out, that the Wrath of God is the Author of that Puniſhment, as I ſhall ſhew you, when I come to make Obſervations. In Eph. 5. 6. that which is here the Children of Wrath, is there called the Wrath of God: The Wrath of God, ſaith he, cometh upon the Children of Diſobedience; for the Wrath of God, as it implies Puniſhment, ſo it imports alſo, that he is as the Author and Executioner of that Puniſhment. So that in a word, whilſt that Men are in this condition, or take Men ſimply conſidered, as they are by Nature, in their very firſt Serm. VIII. birth, and while they continue in that eſtate, they are Children of the Wrath of God, and the Wrath of God abides upon them, as John 3. 36. Wrath is their portion from the Almighty: And as they are Children of the Wrath of God, ſo of that Puniſhment, which his Wrath and Indignation will inflict eternally upon them, and they ſtand under the ſentence of it. So that until their eſtate be altered, God himſelf cannot do otherwiſe, but he muſt out of Wrath inflict Puniſhment upon them. And let me give you one place to open it, ſee Job 20. 23, & 29 compared: He mentioneth there manifold Curſes, that are upon Men, over whom the Wrath of God hangeth; and ſaith he, v. 23. When he is about to fill his Belly, God ſhall caſt the fury of his Wrath upon him, and ſhall rain it upon him, while he is eating: And what is the concluſion in the 29*th* Verſe? This is the portion of a wicked Man from God, and the Heritage: Mark, he is a Child of Wrath, of whoſe Wrath? of the Wrath of God, that abideth upon him, that hangs as a Cloud over his Head, and God will rain it upon him, while he is eating; and this is his portion, it is his due, nay, ſaith he, it is the Heritage appointed unto him by God, an Heritage which is gone out by a decree from God, either from his eternal decree, as Judas was a Child of Perdition; or at leaſtwiſe, from a Decree that goes forth out of God's Court, out of his Word, whereby he ſtandeth under the ſentence of Wrath.

And ſo now you have the ſecond Phraſe opened: And were Children of Wrath.

The laſt is this, Even as others.

The meaning whereof in one word is this, (only I ſhall give you a parallel phraſe for it,) we Jews as well as Gentiles. So you have it, Eph. 4. 17. Walk not as other Gentiles walk: Or, even as others, that is, even as all the reſt of Mankind, of what Nation ſoever they be, circumciſed, or uncircumciſed, bond or free; let them be born in what condition ſoever they will, noble or baſe, rich or poor, high or low, we are all by Nature the Children of Wrath, we Jews as well as Gentiles. Which doth imply theſe two Particulars:

1. The Commonneſs of this Condition, that it is the Condition of all Mankind, one as well as another, Jew as well as Gentile.

2. The equality of this Condition, Even as others, in the ſame manner, in the ſame degree; others are Children of Wrath, ſo are we, we Jews, even as the prophaneſt Men in the World.

So you have the full ſcope and meaning, (ſo far as the Phraſe goes) of theſe words: And were by nature the Children of Wrath, even as others.

I ſhall come now to the Obſervations which do ariſe out of them, which will further open and explain them.

Obſerv. 1. The firſt Obſervation is founded upon that firſt Interpretation I gave you, which was to ſhew this: That that Fleſh or Corruption, which was the ground of all thoſe Luſts, which were the ground of all the Sins in Mens Lives ſpoken of before; that this Fleſh, and thoſe Luſts, are Man's Nature. So, I told you, [by Nature] is taken, both in Scripture, and common acceptation. It is a Saying, that Auſtin quoteth out of Plato, (tho, I take it, the place is not now extant in the Works of Plato, becauſe it is periſhed,) Homines natura ſunt mali; that Men are evil by Nature: Neither can they ever be brought, (ſaith he) to ſeek after that Righteouſneſs, which Mankind ought to ſeek after. This was the Speech of a Heathen. It is, I ſay, a Man's Nature, as he is a Man. 1 Cor. 3. 3. Whilſt there are Contentions among you, are ye not carnal? That is, Are you not Fleſh? are ye not corrupt? And what follows? Do not ye walk, περιπατεῖτε, that is, according to Men? according to your kind? according to that Nature and Diſpoſition that is in Men? Every thing acts according to its kind; thus to be carnal, and ſubjected to Luſts, is the Nature of Man, it is according to his kind. Therefore (to follow this Phraſe a little more,) in Mark 7. 20. our Saviour Chriſt ſaith, That which cometh out of the Man, that defileth the Man: For from within, (ſaith he) out of the Heart of Man, proceedeth evil Thoughts, &c. That is, what cometh from the Nature of Man, from his natural Diſpoſition, from the intrinſecal Principles, which his Nature and Heart is made up of, that defiles the Man. Therefore a Man is ſaid to ſin, de proprio, of his own, as the Devil is likewiſe ſaid to do, in John 8. And a Man's Luſts (as I ſaid before) are called his own Luſts. And as what comes from within, (as all ſort of Sins do) argues this to be a Man's Nature; ſo likewiſe what a Man takes in from without, what it is he lives in, what is his Element, argues his Nature too: As a thirſty man, you may know what his diſpoſition is within, by what he takes in from without; or, as it is with a Fiſh, it is natural to it to live in the Water, to drink in Water: ſo a Man is compared to a Fiſh, that doth continually drink in Water, in Job 15. 16. How much more abominable and filthy is Man, which drinketh Iniquity like Water? And hence now it is, that Men are never weary of ſinning, nay, tho happily they may ſpend their natural Spirits in ſinning, yet their Luſts are never weary. As they cannot ceaſe from Sin, (as Peter ſaith) ſo they are never weary in it; why? becauſe it is their Nature, it is natural to them to ſin. As the Eye, becauſe it is natural to it to ſee, it is never weary of ſeeing; the Eye indeed may be weary thus, for want of bodily Spirits, and ſo Men may be weary of ſinning; but if there could ſtill come Spirits to the Eye, it would never be weary of ſeeing, why? becauſe it is natural to it to ſee: And ſo it is with all the Luſts in the Hearts of Men, it is their Nature. Hence it is, that Infants will ſin without being taught. A Child left to himſelf, (ſaith Solomon, Prov. 29. 15.) bringeth his Mother to ſhame: Do but leave him to himſelf, and his very Nature will carry him on to it. And, Pſal. 58. 3. The wicked go aſtray from the Womb, ſpeaking Lies. A Child, that never heard a Lie in his Life, never knew what a Lie was from another, yet he will tell a Lie, he will do it from himſelf, and he doth it from the very Womb; the Nature of Man will ſeek out theſe Inventions, as Eccleſiaſtes hath it, chap. 7. ult.

Saviour

Serm. VIII.

You may ſee the reaſon therefore, (beſides what is matter of humiliation, which I ſhall mention afterwards,) why Grace, tho it be in a Man's Heart, yet doth not thrive there, further than the Holy-Ghoſt doth in a ſupernatural way accompany it; and why Sin thrives ſo faſt, the reaſon is, becauſe Sin is thy Nature, it is that which thou haſt as thou art a Man; thou walkeſt as a Man whilſt thou ſinneſt. That which Æſop ſaid to his Maſter, when he came into his Garden, and ſaw ſo many Weeds in it, is applicable unto this: His Maſter asked him, What was the reaſon that the Weeds grew up ſo faſt, and the Herbs thrived not? He anſwered, The Ground is the natural Mother to the Weeds, but a Stepmother to the Herbs: So the Heart of Man is the natural Mother to Sin and Corruption, but a Stepmother to Grace and Goodneſs; and further than it is watered from Heaven, and followed with a great deal of care and pains, it grows not.

And likewiſe, if it be thy Nature, walk in a continual fearfulneſs of it; tho thou haſt mortified a Luſt never ſo much, yet there is a root remaining, as Job hath it, chap. 14. 8. Tho the root thereof wax old in the Earth, and the Stock thereof die in the Ground; yet through the ſcent of Water, it will bud, and bring forth Boughs like a Plant: So it is with us, why? becauſe it is Nature. Therefore fear in all thy ways. I was afraid (ſaith David, Pſal. 38. 17.) leſt my Foot ſhould ſlip: And in v. 18. that which we tranſlate, I was ſorry for my Sin, I find that it is, I was cautelous, I was fearful for my Sin, fearful ſtill leſt I ſhould ſlip: I will declare it, and confeſs it, uſe all means againſt it, becauſe it is my Nature.

And you ſee the reaſon alſo, why that Corruption is never got out of you, no, not till you die; why? becauſe it is involved, it is blended, it is mingled with your Nature; it is like the Ivy in the Wall, (it is the old compariſon that the Fathers uſed, but I ſhall give you another): It is like the Lepers Houſe in Levit. 14. 45. the Leproſy could never be got out, till Houſe aud all were pulled down. It is a Note of that Sin that dwells in us, as the Apoſtle's Phraſe is,

Serm. VIII. *Rom.*7.17. It is inwrapped in thy Nature, that thou wilt never get it out: Like an Houſe, that ſtandeth upon a Foundation that hath Salt-Peter in it, it will never be got out, do what you can; ſo is it here.

Obſerv. 2. The ſecond Obſervation is this: That to ſin, as it is thy Nature, thy natural Inclination; ſo thou haſt it by Birth: For ſo I told you, [by Nature] is alſo taken for Birth, and it's clear to be the Apoſtle's ſcope here: For he had ſhewn all the external Cauſes of Sin, the World, and the Devil; the internal Cauſe, the Fleſh, which cauſeth Luſts. Now what is the cauſe of this Fleſh? Nature, ſaith he, your Birth: And were by Nature (that is, by Birth,) Children of Wrath, as well as others. I need not quote many places for it, the Scripture is abundant in it: Man born of a Woman, ſaith Job, is filthy and abominable: And, That which is born of the Fleſh, is Fleſh. And not only that which is born, but that which is conceived: So ſaith David, Pſal.51.5. I was conceived in Sin. And his meaning is, to ſhew that not only as ſoon as he was born, he was ſinful; but, ſaith he, I was ſinful too in my very Conception: Look when firſt I had the Nature of Man communicated to me, then was I a Sinner; that which conveyed my Nature to me, as Birth doth, and Conception doth before Birth, that which did conſtitute me a Man, did conſtitute me a Sinner likewiſe, made me a Sinner. Therefore Men are not only ſaid, to be Tranſgreſſors from the Womb, as in Iſa. 48. 8. and to go aſtray from the Womb, as in Pſal. 58. 3. but in the Womb alſo; for ſo, you ſee, David ſpeaks of himſelf. Auſtin, who was one of thoſe that moſt cleared this Doctrine, of the Corruption of Man by Nature, againſt Pelagius, that called it in queſtion, (for God doth clear Truths ſtill as they are controverted) he forbore on purpoſe to call it natural Sin, or Sin in Man's Nature, becauſe if it ſhould be ſo called, the Manichees, that held there was a God, which was the cauſe of all Evil in Man's Nature, would have been imboldened and encouraged by it in their Error; therefore he called it Original Sin, (for he was the firſt that gave it that Title, tho it agrees with the Scripture, he might have called it the other, for it is all one): And he called it ſo, not only becauſe it is the original of all Sin elſe, the Womb in which all Sin is conceived: When Luſt hath conceived, (ſaith James, chap. 1. 15.) it bringeth forth Sin. But chiefly becauſe it is ab origine in Man, from the Time that the foundation of a Man's Nature is laid; that which at once giveth him his Nature, gives him Sin with it; it is from the very firſt Moment of Conception, elder indeed than that which we call Birth, or his being brought forth out of the Womb into the World; it is when a Man begins firſt to be a Man, and muſt neceſſarily be then.

Now when he ſaith, We are by nature (meaning [by Nature] a Man's Birth) the Children of Wrath, it implies two things: It implies, that whatſoever is Sin is conveyed to a Man in his Conception; and that he hath it by Nature, one part of the Sinfulneſs, as well as the other. Both theſe I am to open, and to make good. The Apoſtle doth not ſpeak here meerly of our inherent Corruption; but if there be any other Sinfulneſs which a Man contracts by Birth, he hath it by Nature. Now you know, that our Divines do make, and moſt truly and rightly according to the Scriptures, a twofold Sinfulneſs, which we have hereditary to us, as from our firſt Parents: The firſt is, The Guilt of that firſt Act of ſinning, which Adam committed; and the ſecond is, An inherent Corruption, or Fleſh, the Inclinations to all Sin, derived as the Puniſhment of the Guilt of that Fact. Here therefore lies two things before us, for the Apoſtle plainly means both; for whatſoever makes a Man a Child of Wrath, obnoxious to the Wrath of God in his firſt Conception, that is it he intendeth. Now it is not only inherent Corruption, that makes us Children of Wrath; but it is alſo the Guilt of that firſt Act: Nay, we could never have had inherent Corruption to be as a Sin in us, if we were not ſome way involved in the Guilt of that firſt Act; and both theſe are by Nature. Now that we ſhould have inherent Corruption, that that ſhould be propagated by Birth and Generation, there is a more eaſineſs in it; why? becauſe every thing begets its like; out of an unclean thing you cannot bring a clean; it muſt needs be, that ſuch a Nature as the Father had, (for inherent qualifications) ſuch a Nature the Child muſt have: But that a Man ſhould be guilty of that Act that Adam committed, that this ſhould be by Nature, and by the Law of Nature too, (which yet to me clearly the Apoſtle holds forth, not ſimply, by a Prerogative Law of God, but by a Law of Nature,) this ſeems difficult. Theſe two things therefore I would open to you, tho briefly, yet ſo as to clear the Point. I will begin with the firſt.

Firſt; To ſpeak in general, when we ſay, the Guilt of an Act is conveyed by Birth, by Nature:

1. It is not (as ſome would have it) the Sin of the Act of Generation in the Parents, it is not that which is conveyed to the Child. Some would have that the meaning of that of David, in Pſal. 51.5. In Sin my Mother conceived me; as if the Guilt which cleaves to ſuch Actions, were that which David intended. But that cannot be his meaning: for it is moſt certain, that when Adam did firſt beget his Son Cain, he did not convey to him the Sin of that Act of begetting, for the Act it ſelf is lawful, and whatſoever Sin cleaves unto it, is not that which is conveyed; but it was his firſt Sin, the Guilt of that, which he conveyed to him. Now if Adam himſelf did not convey the Guilt of the Act of begetting, then certainly other Parents do not; and David would never have humbled himſelf ſo for his Mother's Sin in conceiving of him; but it was that Sin he was guilty of, and that pollution of Nature that aroſe from thence.

2. It is not ſimply the coming as from Adam, which doth thus defile our Natures, or by which we contract the Guilt of that Act of his: For if you could ſuppoſe, that a Man or a Woman had been made out of Adam after his Fall, as Eve was made out of him before his Fall; mark what I ſay, if God had taken a Rib from Adam, after he fell, and made a Man or a Woman out of it, this Man or Woman would not have been ſinful. The Inſtance of Chriſt is clear; for he is directly called the Son of Adam, Luke 2. in reſpect of the Matter he was made of, and made in the Womb too; yet becauſe he came not into the Law of Generation and Conception in the natural way, therefore he was excepted, and Sin could not ſeize upon him. So that it goes by Birth, and by Nature, by Generation, that is certain.

Secondly; Therefore to ſhew you, how the inherent Corruption is derived, (for theſe are but the two Generals to both,) that defilement of Nature, that Fleſh that is ſeated in us.

1. It is not founded ſimply upon this, that there is a participation of like from like; that is not all the ground; it is a partial Cauſe, but it is not a total Cauſe: It is a Cauſe, and therefore Job ſaith, Can a Man fetch a clean thing out of an unclean? But yet it is not the whole cauſe; why? becauſe then every Father, according to the proportion of that inherent Sinfulneſs that is in his Nature, ſhould beget a Child in the like proportion: I ſay, if that Traduction were the total Cauſe, of like in the Parent, and like in the Child; if this were the Rule ſimply and wholly, then take a wicked Man, that begets Children in his elder years, when he is more wicked, and hath more Corruption of Nature in him a hundred times than when he was young; thoſe Children would be proportionably more wicked than his elder Children; and the more wicked Men would ſtill have the more wicked Children. Therefore it muſt be by ſome other ſtanding Law of Nature, that is equal; and the ſtanding Law of Nature, it doth not beget like in a gradual, but in a ſubſtantial way. Yet,

2. It is the common Law of Generation, that like from like is the ground of the propagation of inherent Corruption; and it was the juſteſt Law of Nature that could be made: For God did put this difference between Angels and Men: Angels, they ſhould all be ſingle Perſons, by and of themſelves, they were all immediatly created by God himſelf, as Adam was; but that which ſhould convey the Nature of Man, the very ſubſtance of his Nature unto Man, it ſhould be Generation, the ſame that ſhould convey the ſubſtance of the Nature of Beaſts to Beaſts; tho I do not ſay, (as the Soul of theſe laſt is propagated, we ſhall open that a little afterwards); but I ſay, that which ſhould make them Men, is the common Law of Generation; and Man, if he will have his Nature from Man, he muſt be ſubjected to the common Law of Generation, which all the reſt of the Creatures are.

Serm. VIII.

are. Now what is the commou Law to all the Creatures? Saith God, in Gen. 1. 12. Let every thing bring forth in its kind: So you ſhall find it all along. He ſaith it of the very Herbs, of the Beaſts, they were all to bring forth in their kind. Now if that Man muſt have, and ſhall have by God's ordination, the very ſubſtance of his Nature, the kind of it, as all other Creatures have, then he muſt be ſubjected herein to the common Law of Nature, and like muſt beget like; it neceſſarily follows. Now (mark it) the Law of Nature hath its courſe, whether things prove good or evil. It holds in the common, it doth ſo in our actions: The Lord's common Providence was with Man, when he wrought holily; the ſame common Providence is with Man, now he works ſinfully; he alters not the Courſe of Nature. So here, this being the Law of Nature, look what aſſiſtance there went for the propagation of Man according to the Image of God at firſt, (in a common way, according to the Law of Nature,) concurreth in propagating Man's own Image. I do not ſay, that God is alike the Author of one, as of the other, but the common Law of Nature holdeth as well in the one, as in the other. I ſhall clear theſe things more, I hope, hereafter. Nay, my Brethren, the Law, that Man ſhould beget his like, it was ſo ſtrong a Law of Nature, whether Man's Nature ſhould prove good, or prove evil, that God himſelf, unleſs by Grace, could not help it. I ſpeak, according as God binds himſelf to the Courſe of Providence, for God works not by Prerogative. Let every thing bring forth in his kind, was the common Law given, and the Courſe of Nature muſt hold, as well when Man is ſinful, as when he is good. Help it God may by Grace; but if you will go according to the Law of Nature, by the ſame Law a Beaſt propagateth his kind, by the ſame Law doth Man propagate his like. Therefore by Nature, and by the Law of Nature and Generation, (which this is founded upon,) a Man muſt be inherently ſinful, if he come from Parents inherently ſinful; a ſinful Man muſt beget a ſinful Man.

SERM.

SERMON IX.

EPHES. 2. 3.

----- And were by Nature the Children of Wrath, even as others.

THeſe words are the general Concluſion and winding up of what the Apoſtle had ſaid concerning our ſtate by Nature; which he had largely and punctually ſet forth in the words before. And unto all that he had ſaid before, there is in theſe words the addition of three things.

1. Of the Cauſe, and the firſt Cauſe, or at leaſt the fundamental Cauſe, of all the Corruption that is in our Hearts, and of all thoſe Luſts, and of all that Fleſh and Corruption which he had ſpoken of immediatly before. And were by Nature.

2. Of that Puniſhment which is due to Men in their natural ſtate, and for their Natures, and for all the Sins committed in that ſtate. The Children of Wrath.

3. Of Univerſality, it is every man's caſe, both Jew and Gentile. Even as others.

I opened formerly the Phraſiologie of theſe words. As,

I. What was meant by Nature here. I told you by Nature was meant here,

1. Natural diſpoſitions. The inlet of Sin, the ground and the root of it, was not cuſtom and imitation, but it was our natural diſpoſitions.

2. By Nature, that is, by Birth. So it is taken in Rom. 2. 22.

3. By Nature: it imports that whole eſtate of Nature, which while men live in, they live in the Luſts of the Fleſh, they are dead in Sins and treſpaſſes, and they are Children of Wrath.

II. What was meant by Children of Wrath. I ſhewed you the phraſe was taken both Actively, and Paſſively. Actively, for what one is addicted to: ſo they are called Children of Wiſdom, Children of Obedience, and in the words before, Children of Diſobedience. Paſſively, ſo it is taken here, Children of Wrath; or, as Peter hath it, Curſed Children; or, as it is in the Original, Children of the Curſe.

III. What was meant by that phraſe, Even as others. I told you it implied two things.

1. That it is the common condition of all Men.
2. That it is equally the condition of all Men.

Anſwerable to theſe three phraſes, I pitch'd upon three things to be explained.

Of the firſt I have ſpoken at large.

I made entrance into the ſecond, (viz. That the Corruption which is in us, we have it by Birth, and by the Law of Nature) But I finiſhed it not. I ſhall give you a brief Account of what I then delivered, and ſo I ſhall proceed.

I explained this unto you both by ſome Generals, and alſo I began to enter into Particulars. The Generals are theſe.

1. We have it by Birth and not by imitation: For then we ſhould have the fountain of our Corruption aſcribed unto the Devil, for he was the firſt Sinner; and unto Eve, for ſhe was firſt in the tranſgreſſion, 1 Tim. 2. 14. But you ſhall find find in Scripture it is aſcribed to the firſt Man, namely, unto Adam, as I ſhall ſhew you afterwards.

Serm. IX.

2. It is not ſimply coming of Adam: for then, if you could ſuppoſe that God ſhould have taken the Rib out of Adam after that he had ſinned, and have made Eve thereof, it's true ſhe had been of Adam, but yet ſhe had not been corrupted, ſhe had not been ſinful; becauſe it is to be by Nature, and ſo by Birth and by Generation. Therefore Chriſt, tho he is called the Son of Adam, Luke 3. and the Seed of the Woman, Gen. 2. that is, he was made of that matter which was propagated from Adam, yet he was not corrupted, becauſe he had it not by the Law of Nature, he had it not by Birth.

3. It is not the Sin of the Parents in the act of begetting that is conveyed: For Marriage is honourable, as the Scripture hath it. Adam did not convey, when he firſt begat his Son Cain, the ſin of that Act of begetting, for the action it ſelf is lawful; but it was his firſt Sin, his eating of the forbidden Fruit.

Theſe were the Generals I gave you: For all theſe do but prepare a way for the opening of what it is, by virtue of which, Sin is derived unto us. And I find it exceeding hard to ſpeak diſtinctly to it, to find out that original ſeed of Poyſon from whence it is diffuſed, and the weight of it. I ſhall now therefore come to Particulars, whereby I deſire to explain it, and in them I ſhall briefly give you my whole judgment in the thing; and when I have done, I ſhall reſolve it into two or three Propoſitions, which ſhall contain the ſum of all, for your clearer underſtanding. It is evident, you ſee by this Text, that it is by Nature; and therefore that it is by Birth, and by the Law of Nature. Now to proceed.

In the firſt place; Our God did put this difference between Angels and Men, that Angels were created ſingle; and therefore when they fell, they did fall ſingly, each one for himſelf. They had their nature convey'd to them by God's immediate creation, and therefore they ſtood upon their own bottoms. But he ordained that Men ſhould all come of one Man: Act. 17. 26. He hath made of one blood all Nations of Men, for to dwell on all the face of the Earth. Now then the Law of Nature that doth convey Blood (that is, Manhood) to us, conveys alſo the Natural Properties that do accompany, and are in that Nature; in the fountain of it, whether they ſhall be good or evil. Now good they were by creation, that's certain. And the reaſon is, becauſe that that Law of Nature did fall upon the generation of all Creatures elſe, falls upon Man's Generation alſo. Now you ſhall find that it is not only the Law proper to Man, but to all things begotten of another, that they all bring forth in their kind. If you look into Gen. 1. you ſhall ſee that of the very Herbs God ſaith, Let them bring forth in their kind; he ſaith it alſo of the Beaſts, and it holds of Man too, that he is to bring forth in his kind. If there be a generation, and a begetting, he is to bring forth in his kind. If his nature had remained holy and good, he had brought forth that which was holy and good: So the ſame Providence of God that would have accompanied Man to convey and propagate an holy Nature, had he remained holy, doth alſo accompany him to convey a corrupt Nature now he is corrupt and made evil. As the ſame acts of common Providence, which run on and aſſiſt us in doing good, concur even in evil alſo: ſo is it here. And that's the firſt thing.

Yet, in the ſecond place, let me tell you this, That take our Birth and Generation ſimply, and that is not the Cauſe, the Phyſical Cauſe it is but the Chanel; and becauſe it is the Inſtrument of making Men, therefore it is the Inſtrument alſo of making ſinful men. Now that Generation is not the Cauſe, is evident by this; becauſe if it were, then Men ſhould beget Men ſinful according to that degree of ſinfulneſs they themſelves have. And therefore Parents more wicked, ſhould beget Children more wicked; Parents in their elder days, when they are more wicked, (as wicked Men are, for they grow worſe and worſe) ſhould then have Children more wicked than in their younger time; but ſo it is not. It is therefore to be reſolved into the common Law that lies upon Generation, not ſimply into Generation it ſelf, or what it conveyeth. Generation is but the Chanel, the Pipe, in which it runneth; it is therefore, I ſay, rather the Law that is annexed unto Generation. And the Law of Generation doth not reach to degrees of ſinning, but only to the ſubſtantial Image, not to the gradual.

In

In the third place, the cauſe and the ground why we are made ſinful, it is not ſimply that we are born of immediate Parents that are ſinful, that's not the whole Cauſe neither: but as Generation is but as the Chanel, ſo the immediate Parents are but the Inſtruments of conveying it. My meaning is this; the ground why a Man is born ſinful, is not ſimply becauſe his next Parents, Father and Mother, are ſuch: They are Cauſes ſine quibus non of Sin, that is, if it could be ſuppoſed they are not ſinful, the Child would not be ſinful: they are but inſtruments of conveying it. And that they are inſtruments of conveying it, is clear by what David ſaith, Pſal.51. 5. —in Sin did my Mother conceive me. And by what Job ſaith, chap.14. 1. Man born of a Woman, is ſinful and abominable. But yet they are Cauſes ſine quibus non, without which Sin would not be.

There are two great Evidences to me of this Truth; The one is a Negative one, the other a Poſitive.

The Negative one is this: The Lord hath expreſly ſaid, He hath a whole Chapter about it, Ezek. 18. That the Child ſhall not bear the Iniquity of the Father. And our Saviour Chriſt ſaith, *Joh.*9. 3. that it was not for the ſin of the Parents that the Man was born blind. So that it is not put upon the ſin of the ordinary Parents. Nay, I ſhall give you a further inſtance of it, why it is not to be put ſimply upon the immediate Parents: For although we come of Eve, yet notwithſtanding the Corruption that we have, and the Sin which we have by Nature, is not put upon Eve now, it is put upon Adam, and that throughout the whole Scripture. Tho Eve did firſt corrupt our Nature, for ſhe was firſt in the tranſgreſſion; though we all come of her as well as of Adam, and have a ſhare as from her and that by Generation alſo; yet notwithſtanding, read Rom. 5. 12. By one Man Sin entered into the World: which was the type of Chriſt's conveying Obedience and Righteouſneſs. I will not diſpute that nice Queſtion, which ſome Divines have, Whether, if that Eve had not fallen, tho Adam had fallen, we ſhould have been corrupted or no? No, for we muſt all acknowledge that ſhe was cauſa ſine qua non. Had not her Nature been corrupted, we had not had Sin derived to us. All Divines do attribute a ſecondary Cauſe to her, but ſtill the primary to the Man.

The Poſitive ground is this; That the Scripture doth aſcribe it to our coming of Adam, and that by Birth, coming of that firſt Man; and therefore what is here ſaid in the Text to be by Nature, if you conſult other Scriptures, you ſhall find it to be becauſe we come of Adam, that one Man, becauſe we come by Generation from him. Mark it, ſo I put it; Tho Parents are the Inſtrumental Cauſe of conveying it, Generation is the Chanel, yet it is becauſe we fetch our nature from that Fountain. I ſhall give you Scripture expreſs for it. Not only that in Rom. 5. 12. which yet is very clear: for otherwiſe Eve had been made the Type of Chriſt as well as Adam: but the Text there you ſee doth only put it upon Adam, as being the Type or Figure of Him that was to come, ſo ver. 14. And ver. 18. by the offence of one, and, by one man's diſobedience, ver. 19. It is not only for one Offence, as ſome of thoſe Texts have it, but other Texts run, of one Man; ſo v.12. Wherefore as by [one Man] Sin entred into the World. But beſides this Scripture, look into 1 Cor. 15. 47, 48. and there you ſhall ſee this Truth clear. The Apoſtle there puts it upon the firſt Man, The firſt Man, ſaith he, is of the Earth, earthy. As is the earthy, ſuch are they that are earthy. As we have born the image of the Earthly (namely, of this firſt Man, as he had call'd him) ſo we ſhall bear the image of the Heavenly. And, as the New Teſtament affirms this, ſo the Old too. I ſhall give you but that one Scripture in Iſa. 43. 27. Thy firſt Father hath ſinned, and thy Teachers (or thy Interceſſors) have tranſgreſſed againſt me, ſpeaking to the Nation of the Jews. Thy firſt Father hath ſinned, and thy Interventores, as Junius tranſlates it; that is, thoſe that come between me and thee, they have all ſinned. What's the reaſon God objecteth this? Why in the words before he ſtands upon the confounding of them againſt all their carnal Pleas and Juſtifications of themſelves, and he rips up their Sin from the firſt. Come, ſaith he, v.26. let us plead together: declare thou, that thou mayeſt be juſtified, if thou haſt any thing to ſay. Beſides all the Wickedneſs that is in thy ſelf, whatſoever thou canſt truſt in, I can eaſily anſwer it; Thou doſt truſt in thy Father Abraham, and thou thinkeſt becauſe thou art of the ſeed of Abraham thou ſhalt be ſaved: I tell thee thou haſt an older Father than Abraham, thy firſt Father Adam hath ſinned. But thou wilt ſay unto me, that thou haſt Prieſts that do daily offer Sacrifice, and do come between me and thee; I tell thee that thoſe that are thy Interceſſors, thy Teachers, and thy Interpreters, (as it it is tranſlated by others) that come between me and thee, they have tranſgreſſed againſt me. The Lord takes both away, they boaſted that they had Abraham to their Father; Ay, but ſaith he, there is an older Father, thy firſt Father: And tho ſome would interpret it of their Fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, and make it in the plural; yet there is an emphaſis upon this, it is Father, and it is thy firſt Father. And it agrees clearly with what the New Teſtament ſaith, in that 1 Cor. 15. 45, &c. where you ſhall find, that the Apoſtle doth put the conveying of the Image upon our depending upon that firſt Father, and that therefore we bear the Image of the earthy. So as that now Generation, and immediate Parents, they are indeed the channel, and inſtruments of conveying; but the original cauſe, as the Scripture makes it, is the firſt Father. Our Generation then, or our Birth had a Curſe laid upon it, and by the Law of Nature, by reaſon and by virtue of that firſt Man: And becauſe all Men did depend upon him by Generation, that is, are propagated from him by generation; therefore by the Law of Generation, by virtue of ſomething that he did, and that he was, it is, that we are corrupted to the end of the World. I take it to be one great reaſon, why corrupt Nature is called in Scripture the old Man; becauſe it is derived for ſo many Generations from that old firſt Man, Adam. We our ſelves uſually, when we ſee a thing that is evil or corrupt in Children, ſay, this is old Adam. It is not what is in other Parents ſo much, tho their Corruption is Cauſa ſine qua non, it is the Cauſe without which it would not be conveyed to us; but it is Adam's Image, the Image of that firſt Man; ſo it is called in 1 Cor. 15. Therefore Adam is ſaid to beget in his likeneſs, Gen. 4.

Serm. IX.

So that in a word, this is the Sum of theſe three things: It is not Generation ſimply, that phyſically conveys it, but rather the Law that falleth upon Generation; it is not the immediate Parents, ſo much as it is that firſt Man Adam; becauſe we depend upon him by Nature, and by Generation, hence it is we have and are all corrupted.

Now we will go on further, and more particularly ſtill, to ſearch into it, and to ſee, whether it was by Nature, or no. And I ſhall do it by anſwering theſe Queries:

Query 1. What it was in that Man, which we by Generation have from him, that polluteth?

Anſ. If you would have the great and the principal Cauſe, I anſwer you fully, according to the Scriptures, it was an Act of Sinning of his, and the firſt Act of Sinning that he committed. Generation (as I have ſaid) it is but the meer channel, and immediate Parents are but meer Inſtruments; as they beget Men, they beget Men ſinful; but if you ask, what it is that is conveyed, and which to the end of the World polluteth and defileth by Generation, as the Inſtrument and Channel? It is the firſt Sin of that firſt Man. Will you give me leave, by this Suppoſition, to make my meaning plain, and then I ſhall make it good by Proofs? As I told you before, that ſimply Generation doth not do it: ſo, if you could have ſuppoſed Corruption of Nature had been derived by Birth, phyſically, as a Leproſy is from Parent to Child, or by virtue of that Law of Generation, that like ſhall beget like; yet let me tell you, that unleſs he that had this Corruption conveyed to him by Nature, had been guilty of ſome Act which did firſt corrupt that Nature, that Corruption had not been Sin in him. I ſhall expreſs it thus: Adam, you know, loſt all Righteouſneſs, and had his Nature corrupt, as ours is; if we could ſuppoſe this Righteouſneſs to have been taken from him, without being guilty of an Act that was the cauſe of it, that Corruption indeed had been a Puniſhment, it had not been his Sin; that which makes it to be ſinful, is, becauſe that it was loſt, and he was deprived of it juſtly by an Act of Sin. Take Adam himſelf, if you could have ſuppoſed him deprived of it any other way, without a precedent Act, or the Guilt of an Act that cauſed

it;

it; I ſay, it had not been Sin to him, it might have been a Puniſhment, but not a Sin. And therefore now it muſt be the Guilt of an Act, that doth defile us, and make the Corruption of Nature in us, and that which we have by Birth, to be ſinful.

But then all the queſtion will be by and by, Whether by Nature we are guilty of that Act, or no? Now here is all the difference between us and Adam, that he was perſonally guilty of that Act, but we are guilty of it by a juſt Law of Nature, as I ſhall endeavour to explain it to you by and by: But as he became a dead Man, dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, by eating of the forbidden Fruit; ſo muſt we be ſuppoſed to be alſo. Therefore we ſhall find, the New Teſtament, (which ſpeaks more accurately in this point than the Old,) tho it mentions Generation, as the inſtrumental cauſe, which the Old Teſtament only did run upon, yet it puts it upon that one Act: So Rom. 5. 12. By one Man Sin entred into the World, in whom (mark the expreſſion) all have ſinned: It is not only, In whom all are made ſinful, as it follows in the 19*th* Verſe; but it is, In whom all have ſinned. It is plain, he ſpeaks not only of inherent Corruption in our Natures, but of an Act of Sin; for he ſaith, All have ſinned. Now, mark it, in the 14*th* verſe, he ſpeaks of Children, that never actually ſinned perſonally, as Adam did; and yet he ſaith, that Death reigned over them: Death reigned (ſaith he) from Adam to Moſes, even over them that had not ſinned, after the ſimilitude of Adam's Tranſgreſſion; that is, they did not perſonally in themſelves ſin, as Adam himſelf did, and yet Death did paſs upon them; therefore they muſt be guilty of that Act of his. Now I take it, theſe words, [Death reigned over all,] are the Interpretation of the firſt Curſe, In the day thou eateſt, thou ſhalt die the Death. In which Adam was conſidered as a common Perſon; now by virtue of this Law and Rule given, Death reigneth according to the Threatning. And the next words, (which are thoſe I pitch upon) do give the reaſon of it clearly and plainly, which are otherwiſe very obſcure: For (ſaith he, v. 13.) until the Law Sin was in the World; but Sin is not imputed, where there is no Law. This is brought in as a reaſon, by virtue of what it was, that Children are made ſinful, or accounted to have ſinned: Why this (ſaith he) cannot be by Moſes his Law, you cannot find it, that Children are guilty of Sin, (of whom he ſpeaks, v. 14.) and that all have ſinned, (ſo he ſaith, v. 12.) in the ten Commandments: And yet it muſt be by ſome Law or other; for if there had not been a Law, God would never have charged Children, and all the World with this Sin; therefore clearly it muſt be that Law, which God gave peculiarly to that firſt Man. This is plainly the Apoſtle's meaning, and the coherence of thoſe words. You ſhall not find this, ſaith he, in Moſes's Law, it is therefore to be reſolved into that firſt Law that was given to Adam, In the day thou eateſt thou ſhalt die, thou, and all thy Poſterity; for it muſt be ſome older Law than that of Moſes, which this muſt be put upon; for, ſaith he, there was Sin in the World, before the Law of Moſes came, or elſe God could not have charged it, and Children ſhould not have died; but they did all die, Death reigned over all, therefore it muſt be reſolved into an higher Law than that of Moſes; and what was that? I ſay, that Law that God gave to Adam, In the day thou eateſt thou ſhalt die. And that is clearly interpreted in 1 *Cor.*15.22. In Adam all died; that is, by reaſon of the Tranſgreſſion of that firſt Law, which is a Law older than Moſes, by virtue of which, Children are ſaid to have ſinned in Adam, and ſo alſo to have died in him.

Now then to conclude this firſt Query: If you ask, What it is, that in ſtrict terms is the cauſe that doth pollute us to the end of the World? I ſay, it is not Generation, it is not the immediate Parents, they are the Channels through which it is conveyed; but it is plainly and clearly that firſt Act of Adam's, which as it corrupted his Nature, corrupteth ours to the end of the World. The Text is ſo clear for this, as nothing more. Rom. 5. 19. By one Man's diſobedience, many were made Sinners. If you ask, what it is that makes many Sinners? The Apoſtle himſelf reſolves you, it is that one Man's diſobedience. Even as Chriſt's obedience doth make us holy to the end of the World; tho God uſe the Word, and uſe Miniſters to convert us, yet it is not the Word, or the Miniſters, that make us holy, but it is that one Man's obedience: By the obedience of one (ſaith he in the ſame verſe) many are made righteous: So is it here. It is not Generation ſimply that doth pollute us; neither is it our immediate Parents, theſe are inſtruments and ways of conveying it, they are Channels through which it runs: but it is that one Man's diſobedience, it is the guilt of that Act that ſeizeth upon us all, which makes us Sinners.

Serm. IX.

And ſo much now for that firſt Query. I come now to a ſecond, and that is this:

Query 2. Why ſhould the Guilt of that Act which infects our Nature, be conveyed to us by Generation, as the Channel, and by Nature, rather than the Sin of other Parents?

Anſ. All Divines do anſwer that clearly thus: That Adam was a publick Perſon, and he was therein Chriſt's Type, which no other Parent is. Eve was not: for tho ſhe was firſt in the Tranſgreſſion, yet it is not ſaid, By the diſobedience of that one Woman, or, By the diſobedience of thoſe firſt Parents, we are made Sinners; but it is clearly put upon the diſobedience of that one Man; why? Becauſe he was made a publick Perſon, and ſtood as a publick Perſon, which Eve in that reſpect did not. Indeed without her, and her corruption and fall, we had not been ſinful; but if you reſolve it into its original primary cauſe, it is the Sin of that one Man, becauſe, I ſay, he was a publick common Perſon, repreſenting all his Poſterity, which other Parents are not, which Eve her ſelf was not: and therefore he was Chriſt's Type, which Eve was not.

I will not ſtand to ſhew you the equity of that, that thoſe that ſtand as common Perſons, convey the guilt of their Act to their Poſterity, and thoſe they repreſent, it hath been cleared enough: but rather come to a third Queſtion; for by anſwering Queſtions, I hope I ſhall clear the thing.

Query 3. Whether was Adam a common Perſon by the Law of Nature, yea, or no? Whether by the Law of Generation, that's more? For we muſt bring it to Birth and Generation at laſt.

Anſ. There are three ways by which you may ſuppoſe one to be a common Perſon: Either,

1. By choice of the Parties themſelves, as you chuſe the Burgeſſes in Parliament. It is clear, Adam was not ſo a common Perſon, we never choſe him, our Wills did never go to make him one. Or elſe,

2. A common Perſon is choſen for us by another: So Chriſt; we did not chuſe him to be our Head, but God choſe him for us. But,

3. There is a third way, and that is, that it ſhall not only be founded upon a meer Act of choice, but upon a Law of Nature; and ſo, I take it, Adam was a common Perſon. He was ſo by God's appointment, yet by God's appointment founded upon a Law of Nature. And therefore, both by Generation, as the Channel, and by the Law of Nature, as the Foundation, are we made ſinful to the end of the World. This I ſhall endeavour to make clear to you.

I take it, it was mixt of both, that is, both that God made him ſo, and yet God's choice of him was not meerly an Act of his Prerogative, or a meer Act of his Will; but it was an Act of his Will, founded upon the Law of Nature, and the Law of Nature required it, and it was neceſſary it ſhould be ſo, and that therefore we come to inherit the guilt of that Act of his. It is clear, that God did pronounce Adam a common Perſon; for, before ever Eve was made, it is ſaid, Gen. 1. 28. God bleſſed them, and God ſaid unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and repleniſh the Earth. And in 1 Cor. 15. 45. it is ſaid, that the firſt Man Adam, he was ἐγένετο, made, that is, appointed, (as in Heb. 3. it is ſaid, that Chriſt was faithful to him that made him, (ſo it is in the Greek) to him that appointed him; ſo we tranſlate it) he was made to be a living Soul, unto others, namely, as well as in himſelf, as I have elſewhere opened: But yet it was not by a meer Act of Prerogative, but upon a natural and neceſſary ground that it ſhould be ſo.

You ſhall obſerve this difference between conveying Adam's Diſobedience, and Chriſt's Obedience: The one (ſpeaking of Adam's) is expreſs'd thus, By the offence of one, Judgment came upon all Men to condemnation: But (ſpeaking of Chriſt's Obedience,) he calls it, The free Gift of Righteouſneſs; for it was a meer voluntary Act: So you have it in Rom. 5. 18.

But how is this made out?

Thus: Adam being the firſt Man, he was the Receptacle of Man's Nature, the whole Ciſtern of it; he had all the Blood of Mankind in him; they muſt all fetch it from that Fountain, at that Well-head; and Generation or Birth was the way by which he ſhould propagate. Now the Law of Generation was, that he ſhould beget in his own Image, whatever it ſhould be; and that (as I ſaid before) is the common Law of all Creatures elſe. Now add that to it, this Nature could not have been conveyed as ſinful, that is, that it ſhould be a ſinful corrupt Nature, ſuch as it was in him, unleſs we had been guilty of that Act which he committed, of that Act, which firſt in him did infect our Nature: Therefore now, if he ſhould propagate his like; and if he did not, the Law of Nature ſhould not be fulfilled, (for that Law was to take place in him, as in other Creatures, namely, that he was to beget in his own Image,) of neceſſity he muſt be conſtituted by a Law a common Perſon, that that Act that corrupted his Nature, his Poſterity muſt be guilty of. I ſay, the Law of Nature could not elſe have taken place, and it would not otherwiſe have been a ſinful Image, but in relation to the guilt of ſuch an Act, which was the cauſe of it. Hence therefore, if you will ſuppoſe him to convey by the Law of Nature his corrupt ſinful Image, of neceſſity the ſame Law muſt and doth conſtitute him to be a common Perſon, as in relation to that Act that did firſt defile him. So far, and in order to propagation of his like, if he fall, in reſpect of that Act that defiled him, it was neceſſary he ſhould be conſtituted (for that firſt Act) to be a common Perſon.

You ſhall ſee, that his being a common Perſon was only upon this neceſſary ground, to be exceeding clear by this one Inſtance: For as ſoon as ever he had eaten the forbidden Fruit, as ſoon as he had committed that ſame one Sin, he ceaſeth to be a common Perſon, he is then but as any ordinary Parent: And that is clear by this: For otherwiſe all the Sins he committed before he begat Cain, ſhould have been imputed to Cain, as well as the firſt Sin of all: And otherwiſe likewiſe, had he continued a common Perſon after he committed that firſt Sin, we had not been made Sinners by that one diſobedience, as the Text hath it in that Rom. 5. and by that firſt Act of diſobedience, but we muſt have inherited all the Sins that he committed. No, only that firſt act: and the reaſon is this, Becauſe when that was once done, when that Sin was committed, that firſt act did caſt our Nature out of the Road of Holineſs, into the Road of Sin, corrupted our Nature. So that it is clear, he was a common Perſon, by virtue of that Law, that he ſhould beget in his own likeneſs; for as ſoon as the corrupt Image was ſtamped upon his Heart by that firſt Sin, he ceaſed to be a common Perſon.

So that now it was not a meer act of Prerogative in God, as ſome think, that Adam ſhould be made a publick Perſon, in that act of diſobedience; but it is reſolved into that principle of the Law of Nature, that he muſt beget his like; and it would not have been a ſinful likeneſs that he ſhould beget, if he had not been a publick Perſon in that firſt Act that ſhould make his Nature ſo. It is not by any poſitive Law, as that of Moſes was; for that Law came after, and yet it was charged upon us, (as I have before ſhewed) and therefore it muſt be founded upon, and reſolved into a Law of Nature. And that's the difference betwixt Chriſt and Adam. God did deal diſtinctly with Chriſt, he told him, he muſt be a Head, and undertake for theſe and theſe Perſons; but you do not find, that God did propound it diſtinctly to Adam, he never ſaid to him, Look to your ſelf, what you do it is for your Poſterity; and if you eat of the forbidden Fruit, not only you, but all that come of you, ſhall die the Death. No, it needed not; for all Men being to come of him, he being to convey his ſinful Image, (and that could not be conveyed, except he become guilty of a ſinful act,) he muſt needs know that his Poſterity muſt be guilty of it, if his Image were conveyed. So that it was neceſſarily reſolved into the Law of Nature, altho it was mixed, it was by God's appointment alſo that it ſhould be ſo.

Image

Serm. IX.

So that now to ſum up this Buſineſs: Still, we ſee, we are Children of Wrath by nature: Whether we reſpect the corrupt ſinful Habit, which we have inherent in us, conveyed to us by Birth; or whether we reſpect the guilt of that act: it is ſtill reſolved into the Law of Nature, and Generation or Birth is but the channel to convey it, and our immediate Parents are but the Inſtruments of conveying it, the Cauſes indeed, without which it would not be conveyed; but it is the guilt of that firſt act of Adam, upon whom by Nature and Generation we all depended, and it is that firſt act of his, that to the end of the World makes us Sinners.

And ſo now I ſhall, in a word or two, gather up in a few Propoſitions what I have ſaid, and ſo paſs over this Point. The Sum of all I ſhall reſolve into theſe three Propoſitions.

Prop. 1. Firſt; That Generation is not the phyſical Cauſe of our being ſinful, that is, it is not becauſe a Man hath Sin propagated in the matter that comes from his Parents; that is not it: But it is the common Law, that lies upon all Creatures, and that lies upon Man alſo, that like ſhall beget like: Whether his Soul be created by God, or whatever it be; yet notwithſtanding, I ſay, it is the Law of Generation that doth it.

Prop. 2. Secondly; Generation is but the channel; it is the Act of Adam's Sin, and the firſt act of Adam's Sin, whilſt he ſtood a common Perſon, being imputed to us, charged upon us, that makes us ſinful. Only if you ask, who they are that ſhall be made ſinful? Only thoſe that come of Adam by generation, becauſe it is by virtue of the Law of Generation, that like ſhall beget like. So that it is not, I ſay, that the Children have an impure Nature from an impure Nature of the next Parents; this is not ſimply it. Whether the Soul be from the Parents, as ſome hold, or immediatly from God, it is all one, becauſe it is the act of Adam's Sin, ſeizing upon a Man, he being made a Son of Adam, that pollutes him. By one Man's diſobedience we are made ſinful. If the Soul be made immediatly by God, yet it being at the ſame inſtant that it is made united to the Body, hence the guilt of Adam's Sin, by virtue of that Law of Nature, ſeizeth upon it; and the guilt of it ſeizing thus upon that Soul in this Body, which is now made a Son of Adam, the Lord making of it, withdraws his Spirit from it, from giving Grace. Not that God is the Author of it, but that Sin cometh in between, and cutteth off the Influence which God would have upon it (according to the original Law of Nature) to make it holy: And as Sin cauſed God to withdraw his Spirit out of Adam; ſo it preventeth, that God ſhould beſtow Holineſs upon this Soul, which is made a Man as ſoon as made a Soul. So that you need not trouble your ſelves about thoſe Queſtions, whether the Soul be ex traduce, &c. For all thoſe Queſtions ſuppoſe, that the matter of our Nature is corrupted from our Parents, and ſo is derived unto us: But it doth not lie in that, but in the guilt of Adam's Act, and that is it which makes Sinners to the end of the World.

Prop. 3. Thirdly; That Adam, he was by the Law of Nature a common Perſon, and therefore we come to be guilty of that firſt Act, by which our Nature was defiled.

And ſo now I have explained this thing, as far as to me the Scripture doth give leave, as briefly as I could.

Let

Serm. IX.

Let me but add this: Hence it comes to paſs, that Jeſus Chriſt, he comes not to be tainted with original Sin. The matter of his Body, he had it in the Womb of the Virgin; for he was in that reſpect the Son of Adam, but he came not from Adam according to the Law of Nature, that is, by generation; and therefore Adam was not a common Perſon to repreſent him: For the ground of Adam's being a common Perſon, was, that he was to beget his like, and his Nature was to be propagated by generation. Now Chriſt was not to come of him by generation; hence therefore our Saviour Chriſt is ſeparated from Sinners, as Heb. 7. hath it. He had a Mother, and his Mother conceived him; but ſhe did not conceive him in Sin, becauſe it was not by the way of generation: for he was conceived by the Holy-Ghoſt, the Text ſaith ſo, Mat. 1. 20. The Holy-Ghoſt did articulate (whereas the Spirits of the Father do it in ordinary generation) that Body of Chriſt: A Body haſt thou framed me, ſaith he, Heb. 10. 5. Therefore he is ſaid to be made of a Woman, not begotten of a Woman, in Gal. 4. And therefore he came not under (and 'twas well for us he did not) the Law of generation, hence he eſcapeth being defiled with original Sin. And hence Adam is not a common Perſon to him, no, he was ordained a common Perſon before Adam was made one; for Adam was his Type. And therefore things are ordered ſo, that he ſhould not come by generation, becauſe he was to be a Head of a ſecond ſort; and therefore he is called the ſecond Man, as Adam is the firſt.

And let me add this likewiſe for our comforts, that Chriſt, becauſe he would take away original Sin in us, he came as near as poſſibly could be, ſo as to eſcape pollution. He would be made of the ſame matter we were made of; he would be made in the Womb of a Virgin; he would be conceived; and he took upon him too the likeneſs of ſinful Fleſh, with all the frailties of it, as like ſinful Fleſh every way as could be. Nay, he would have his Mother go and be purified, as if ſhe had brought forth an unclean Son; for the Law in Leviticus was, to ſhew the Impurity of our Birth, that the Mother was to be purified. Nay, and not only ſo, but he was circumciſed, as if he had had original Sin to be cut off as well as we. What was all this for? The Apoſtle tells us, Col. 2. 11. We were circumciſed in Chriſt, that the Body of Sin might be cut off by the Circumciſion of Chriſt. It was, that he might take away this original Corruption, which we had from the firſt Adam.

Now then, having explained this, I come to ſome Obſervations.

Obſerv. 1. The firſt is this, which is the Apoſtle's ſcope here: That we ſhould get our Hearts humbled for the Sin of our Nature, and for the Sin of Adam, which by generation corrupteth our Nature to the end of the World, whereof we are guilty. This is that which is the great corrupter of us, it is the greateſt cauſe of all the reſt. You know, David, in Pſal. 51. hath recourſe to it, as to the ſpring of all his actual defilements: In Sin, ſaith he, hath my Mother conceived me; and he puts a [behold] upon it, becauſe his Soul was eminently humbled for it. It is the cauſe, and the greateſt cauſe. Do but take a poyſonous root, and you ſhall find more Venom in the root, than in all the branches that ſpring from it. There is a greater contrariety betwixt God and us, in that our Nature is defiled, than that our Actions are ſinful: For as Holineſs, that is in the Nature of God, is greater, and deeper, and a higher Holineſs, than that Holineſs that is in his Actions, or in what is done by him; for that is an eſſential Holineſs, the other is but a manifeſtative Holineſs: So there is a greater Sinfulneſs that is in our Nature, than is ſimply in our Actions. You ſhall find, in Iſa. 64. 6. that the Church there, when they humbled themſelves, they do not only ſay, that their Righteouſneſs was as a menſtruous Cloth, but they themſelves cry out of their Perſons: We are all, ſay they, as an unclean thing; and then follows, And our Righteouſneſs as a menſtruous Cloth: But, I ſay, the uncleanneſs of their Perſons, and that in reſpect of their Natures, is that they chiefly complain of; and they do it in the very ſame terms that the Leper complains, in Lev. 13. 45. It is our Nature that is abominable to God; we are Children of Wrath by Nature: Therefore God hateth it, and God is angry with nothing but what what he hateth, and but for Sin. Now in Job 15. ſaith he, filthy man, abominable, putrified man, as the word ſignifies, he ſpeaks of what we are by Nature: for he had diſcourſed of it in the 14th and 15th Chapters. And the Pſalmiſt uſeth that very ſame word, when he ſpeaks of the corruption of Nature, *Pſal.*14.3. & 52.4. both which Pſalms are Pſalms of the corruption of Man by Nature; he calls Man, ſtinking, compares him to a rotten Carcaſe; for ſo he is in the Noſtrils of God, in reſpect of his original pollution, and ſo he is to the regenerate part, and therefore Paul, in Rom. 7. calls it a Body of Death, as if there were Twins, one whereof was dead, and the other that lived was forced to carry it about with him, which continually did ſtink and annoy him: ſuch, ſaith he, is this corruption of Nature that is in me, it is a Body of Death.

Serm. IX.

Obſerv. 2. Secondly, You ſee the reaſon why Death reigneth over Infants; for ſo the Apoſtle tells us in *Rom.*5.13,14. it is, becauſe they have ſinned, and Sin is conveyed to them by Generation, as the Chanel and Inſtrument. God, in 1 Sam. 15. commanded that the Sucklings of the Amalekites ſhould be deſtroyed, as well as Men and Women, and others. And of Edom it is ſaid in *Pſal.*137.4. Happy ſhall he be that taketh and daſheth thy little ones againſt the ſtones. This muſt needs be for the guilt of Sin, for Sin entred into the World, and Death by Sin, ſo ſaith the Text, *Rom.*5.12.

But you will ſay, Doth God inflict eternal Death meerly for the corruption of Nature upon any Infants?

My Brethren, it muſt be ſaid, Yes; We are Children of wrath by nature: and unleſs there come in Election amongſt them (for it is Election ſaveth, and is the root of Salvation) it muſt needs be ſo. Sodom and Gomorrah they all ſuffered the vengeance of eternal Fire, and ſurely there were multitudes of Infants there; and if they had been righteous as well as others, they might have been put into Abraham's Plea, but they were not. The Flood ſwept away Infants, and they are called, (I mean thoſe that were deſtroyed with the Floud) in 2 *Pet.*2. the World of the Ungodly. And God therefore (if you mark it) both in *Gen.*6.4. & 8.21. did put the bringing of the Floud upon the original corruption of Man's Heart; that not only the Heart, but the Formation, the very Womb, the Matrix (ſo the word which we tranſlate the Imaginations of the Heart ſignifies); in which all our thoughts are formed, the very Frame in which they are caſt and moulded, it is evil, and only evil, and evil continually, yea evil even from his infancy, (for what we tranſlate, Youth up, the ſame word in *Exod.*2.6. is uſed for Moſes when he was an Infant) not only in reſpect of actual Sin, but in reſpect of original Sin. Therefore ſaith God, Becauſe Man is thus Fleſh, and nothing but Corruption, I will bring the Floud; and the Floud came upon the World of the Ungodly, upon Infants as well as upon others. But in Rom. 5. it is more expreſs, Death (ſaith the Apoſtle) reigned before Moſes, it reigned over Children, ſaith he. And there was that Inſtance of it, for he alludeth eſpecially to the Inſtance of the Floud, and it was a great Inſtance, when God came and ſwept away all the World of the Ungodly, with all their Infants, even they that were in the very Womb.

But you will ſay, Do theſe periſh? or, doth God let thoſe periſh? doth his Wrath ſeize upon them?

Not only what the Text ſaith, but that in Rom. 5. is clear for it: For having inſtanced in Children in the 13th and 14th verſes, he goes on, and ſhews that the Death he intendeth is not only bodily death, but eternal; for, ſaith he, ver. 16. The Judgment was by one to condemnation. And, as he had ſaid, ver.14. That Death reigned over all from Adam to Moſes, ſo at ver. 21. he ſaith, As Sin hath reigned unto Death, ſo might Grace reign through Righteouſneſs unto eternal life. Here you ſee eternal Life is oppoſed to that Death that is ſaid to have reigned; and Condemnation is ſaid to come by one Man's diſobedience; and what is that Condemnation oppoſed to? It is oppoſed plainly to Juſtification, ſo it follows, But the free Gift is of many offences to Juſtification. Therefore thoſe that have a Death oppoſite to eternal Life, and have a Condemnation by that one Man's Diſobedience oppoſite to Juſtification, muſt needs reach to eternal Death as well as to temporal. Is is true, Election knows its own amongſt Infants, but it muſt be free Grace, it muſt be by Grace that you are ſaved, for clearly by Nature ye are all Children of Wrath. Therefore the Lord, as he will have inſtances of all ſorts that are in Heaven; ſo he will have ſome that are in Hell for their Sin brought into the World.

The Papists, ſuitable to their Doctrine, as they hold that original Sin hath nothing poſitive in it, they ſay it is but a meer privation, a meer emptineſs; ſo anſwerably they put Children into a ſtate not of poſitive Pain, not of Wrath, but they put them into a ſtate call'd Limbus Infantum, wherein they do as it were eternally ſleep, there is a privation, but no torment, no wrath. But you ſee that here we are ſaid plainly to be Children of Wrath, and Wrath implies more than a meer privation; it implies not only a puniſhment of loſs, but a puniſhment of ſenſe, and of the ſenſe of that loſs. This you ſhall ſee plainly in John 3. 36. He that believeth not the Son, ſhall not ſee Life, but the Wrath of God abideth on him. Shall not ſee Life, there is the privation; and the Wrath of God abideth on him, there is the is the puniſhment of ſenſe too, there is the Wrath of God, as the Text here hath it.

I told you there is a third Interpretation of theſe words, Children of Wrath by Nature. It implied a ſtate, the whole ſtate as well as their Birth. Now the Obſervation from thence is this, That the great thing that ſhould affect the Hearts and Spirits of Men, is their being in a ſinful ſtate; till ſuch time as God doth ingraft them into Jeſus Chriſt, and ſave them. It is plainly the Apoſtle's ſcope, for he oppoſeth here [by Nature] to [by Grace] in the 5th and 6th verſes that follow. It is the great Error of multitudes of Carnal Men, they ſay we are all born by Nature Children of Wrath, never conſidering that till ſuch time as they are turned unto God, and ingrafted into Chriſt, they remain in that ſtate: You were (ſaith he) Children of Wrath; he ſpeaks in relation to the whole condition from the very firſt moment of their conception, till God called them, and turned them to him. This is it which the Apoſtle would hold forth to theſe Epheſians, and the want of the right underſtanding of this Truth, undoes thouſands of Souls: for they put off the ſtate of Nature, they ſay it is but the condition of all Men; and they are humbled for acts of Sin, but never conſider the ſtate they are in, which while a Man continues in, he is a Child of Wrath; after Converſion, tho he commit acts of Sin, he is not a Child of Wrath.

But what is this ſtate of Nature?

A Child of Wrath: It is as if a Man ſhould be condemned to die, we ſay then he is a Child of Death; tho he doth many acts of Life, and lives long afterwards, yet put him into what Clothes you will, let him eat what Meat ye will, let him have a thouſand Changes, he is ſtill in a ſtate of Death: So have what Changes thou wilt in this condition; if thou groweſt rich, or noble, or honourable, thou mayeſt have a great many Changes in thy Spirit, even till thou groweſt good, yet till ſuch time as this ſtate is altered, thou art a Child of Wrath. Therefore when John would convince a carnal Profeſſor, and ſet upon him the conſideration thereof, ſaith he in 1 Joh. 2. 9. He that ſaith he is in the light, and hateth his Brother, is in darkneſs even until now; that is, he is not only to take upon him the guilt of that Sin, but even from the very firſt time of his Birth to this day, he hath been in darkneſs, he hath been in his firſt condition. And as men ſhould lay it to heart, that they have been firſt in the ſtate of Nature even until now, ſo it is a great Argument that there is no falling from Grace, for it is but until now, ſaith he. But, I ſay, it is the Apoſtl's ſcope to ſhew them the ſtate wherein they were, the more to affect their hearts and ſpirits.

The ſtate of Nature is the ſtate in which all your Sins come upon you. Therefore the Scripture puts much upon it. John doth the like, he calls Converſion therefore a paſſing from Death to Life; that is, from a ſtate of Death to a ſtate of Life. And in John the 3d chap. and laſt verſ. He that believeth not, is condemned already, and the Wrath of God abideth on him; though the Sentence is not executed, is not fallen upon him, yet it is ἐπάνω, it is above him, (as the word is) hangs over his head. And the word abideth, it noteth, as Auſtin well obſerveth, perpetuity, it hath been upon him from his Birth, and remains to this day upon him; and tho it hath not ſeized on him, yet the Wrath of God cometh upon him, it ſleepeth not, as Peter ſaith. Now therefore this is that which Men ſhould lay to heart, not only actual Sin, but a ſtate of Sin, in which whilſt they remain unchanged, unjuſtified, unſanctified, and not united to the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, till they enter into another ſtate, all that while they are in their Sins, they ſhall anſwer for every Sin themſelves, the Wrath of God doth all that while abide Serm. IX. upon them: They were Children of Wrath by Nature at firſt; but they are ten thouſand times more the Children of Hell, than they were at firſt. Every actual Sin makes them afreſh Children of Wrath by Nature, addeth to their natural defilement, makes the tincture of that Dye deeper, makes them worſe the Children of the Devil, and of Hell, than before; as the expreſſion is, Mat. 23. 15. Therefore remember this, that if you will go to Heaven, your ſtate muſt be altered; you muſt not only ſeek for the pardon of this Sin, and of that Sin, but your very ſtate muſt be changed. It muſt not be a phyſical change; you may have a hundred ſuch changes, and yet continue in the ſtate of Nature ſtill: No, it muſt be a moral change; a change from being a Child of Wrath, to a Child of Light; from being a Son of Perdition, to be a Son of Peace; a change that floweth, and argueth Union with Jeſus Chriſt.

Again, you ſee, when he expreſſeth the Miſery of Man by Nature, in reſpect of the Puniſhment which he muſt undergo for ever, he calls him, a Child of Wrath: Whoſe Wrath is it? It is the Wrath of God. Hence obſerve this Obſerv. 2. That the Wrath of God is that which is the hotteſt Torment and Puniſhment in Hell. It is being puniſhed from his power, and from his preſence; we are puniſhed out of his preſence, and from his power: What power? The power of his Wrath. I will give you a Scripture or two, that you may underſtand it rightly; for it is good to have Notions of Heaven and Hell in a right manner, Rom. 2. 7, 8. Indignation and Wrath, Tribulation and Anguiſh, upon every Soul of Man that doth evil. Tribulation and Anguiſh, they are the effects; Indignation and Wrath, they are the cauſe: And the Tribulation and Anguiſh that the Souls have in Hell, it is the Indignation and Wrath of God, it is the Sparks of that Wrath falling upon their Sins. Therefore they are called, Veſſels of Wrath, Rom. 9. In Hell God ſhews forth the Power of his Wrath. As the height and top of Heaven is, God immediatly enjoyed, in Mercy, and in Love; God is Love, and in Heaven all Attributes appear in Love: So Hell is nothing elſe, but all Attributes appearing in Wrath; it is dwelling with everlaſting Burnings, as God is a conſuming Fire. There is not Fire in Hell, what Torment ſoever it is; but a Torment there is, how elſe ſhall the Devils be tormented? And this is the Wrath of God. Nothing can kill the Soul, but God. The Devil himſelf can but kill the Body, if he could kill the Soul, he ſhould be feared too; but, you know, we are bid not to fear the Devil: But it is no Creature, no elementary Fire, can deſtroy the Soul, that is, bring the Soul to a ſtate of not being. It is only the Wrath of God, that is the greateſt Torment and Puniſhment in Hell. Take a Man, that hath no outward Pain, or Miſery, or Affliction, or Croſs in his Eſtate, let but a drop of the Wrath of God from Heaven fall into that Man's Conſcience, why that Man is in Hell. You may clearly ſee what is Hell by that. Even juſt as when God fills the Heart with Joy unſpeakable and glorious, it is the immediate participation of himſelf, and it is the beginning of Heaven; you may know what Heaven is by that, it is the enjoyment of that: for I have more joy in that enjoyment, than if all the Saints and Angels were about me: So on the other ſide, all thoſe Impreſſions of Wrath, which Judas and others had, are but the beginnings of Hell; and in Hell Men are but thrown into that Sea of Wrath everlaſtingly, whereof they feel ſome drops here.

Hence thoſe that ſin againſt the Holy-Ghoſt, that ſin wilfully, after they have received the knowledg of the Truth, it is ſaid of them, Heb. 10. 27. That there remaineth no more Sacrifice for Sin, but a certain fearful looking for of Judgment, and fiery Indignation; that is, the Wrath of God working as Fire, which ſhall devour the Adverſaries, ſhall ſwallow them up, as Nebuchadnezzar's Furnace did, or as the Fire that did conſume Nadab and Abihu; (it is an alluſion unto them, for they ſinned againſt Moſes's Law, which the compariſon there runs upon.) It is not an elementary Fire, but fiery Indignation, whereof they that ſin againſt the Holy-Ghoſt receive an earneſt in this Life; for it is ſaid, There remaineth nothing, but a certain fearful looking for of Judgment: Now the the word in the Original is not looking, but receiving, they have received Judgment; for whoever ſins, God makes that Sin an impreſſion of Wrath upon his Spirit, he hath received the earneſt of Hell, which hath ſet his Soul into oppoſition and enmity againſt God, as being already caſt off from him.

And ſo much now for that Point. A word of the laſt Clauſe.

Even as others.

It noteth out two things, as I ſaid at firſt.

Firſt; That it is the common condition even of all that are derived from Adam: They are all thus, By nature Children of Wrath. That it is the common condition of all Men, you have that in Rom. 3. It is the very ſcope of that Chapter, to ſhew that all are corrupted: Firſt, that all in Man was corrupted, his Underſtanding, Will, and Affections: And then, that all Men were corrupted; he inſtanceth firſt in the Jew, and in the Gentile: And then, verſ. 10. he quoteth the 14*th* Pſalm, and ſaith, There is none righteous, no, not one. And, verſ. 19. We know, ſaith he, that what things ſoever the Law ſaith, it ſaith to them who are under the Law. Now all Men are under the Law by Nature, this is therefore the condition of all Men.

And the reaſon is this: Becauſe we all come from that firſt Man. Had it been any other, this had not fallen out; but we all depend upon generation from that firſt Man, hence it falleth upon all. Therefore it is ſaid, that Adam, when he begat Cain, he begat him in his own Image, and in the Image we are begotten to the end of the Word. It is well for us, that Chriſt was ordained to be, and that he was another common Perſon, and was not by the Law of generation found in the firſt Adam; no, he was ordained a ſecond Adam, which takes that off. In the mean time, you ſee the difference betwixt Chriſt's Kingdom, and the Devils: The Devil, he hath a Law of Generation, that ſeizeth upon all Mankind, that all that are born are his Bond-ſlaves, and that by Nature: But Chriſt's Kingdom is made up of thoſe that Election gets out of the Devil's Kingdom, of thoſe upon whom the Holy-Ghoſt falleth, either in Infancy, by virtue of Election; or when they grow up, and are called. Chriſt's Kingdom is but taken out of Satan's. However, it is the common condition of all, to be born in the Devil's Kingdom.

Secondly; It noteth alſo, That it is equally the condition of all Men. In Rom. 3. he doth not only ſay, verſ. 10. That none are righteous, no, not one: But he afterwards tells us, verſ. 22. That there is no difference; for all have ſinned, and come ſhort of the Glory of God. There is no difference, clearly and plainly none, not in reſpect of what we have from Adam. Therefore ſometimes, when God ſpeaks to the Jews, he ſaith, Thy Father was an Amorite, and an Hittite; that is, if I look upon you ſimply, in reſpect of that original Conſtitution and Law, what you have by birth from Adam, your Father Abraham was but an Amorite, and an Hittite; tho out of his Loins otherwiſe I have an holy Seed, yet take your natural condition, and there is no difference at all. Therefore in Prov. 27. 19. As in Water, Face anſwereth to Face; ſo the Heart of Man to Man. As when a Man looks in the Water, he ſees the ſame proportion, Limb for Limb: So one Man's Heart is made up of the ſame Sins by Nature, that another's is; we are all begotten in the ſame Image, and the whole Image, which conſiſts of all Sins, and of all parts.

And the reaſon is this, (it is founded upon what I ſaid before): Becauſe we have it from Adam by virtue of a natural Covenant: He by the Law of Nature, I ſaid, was a common Perſon; now Nature, if it work as a natural Agent, it doth always work ad ultimam potentiam, to the uttermoſt of his power. But now take Jeſus Chriſt, and it is otherwiſe, we have Holineſs and Righteouſneſs from him, not by a natural Covenant, it is not founded upon a Law of Nature, but upon a Covenant of Grace, upon a Gift. Hence therefore the Lord, when he calls a Man, and firſt works upon him, can give him more Grace than another; tho both born of the ſame ſecond Adam, yet the one may be born a ſtrong Man the firſt day, as Paul was; the other a poor Creature, that is growing up many years to that degree of ſtrength: Why? Becauſe that Chriſt works freely, we are in him by virtue of a Covenant of Grace; and therefore the proportion, the degrees, how much Grace he will beſtow upon a Man, and how little, it is by his own power and ordination. But now we are in Adam by a natural Covenant: And as natural Cauſes work ad ultimam potentiam, as the Sun ſhines to the uttermoſt; hence now Adam conveys to his Poſterity one and the ſame Corruption, equally to all.

Serm. IX.

SERM.

Serm. X.

SERMON X.

EPHES. 2. 4, 5, 6.

4. But God who is rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us,
5. Even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us together with Christ, (by Grace ye are saved)
6. And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus.

WEE have already sailed over one Sea, that of Man's Corruption, a dead Sea, as I may so call it: and we are now entring into another, a far vaster and deeper, of God's Love and free Grace; But God who is rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he hath loved us, &c.

In opening of these words, I shall pursue that Method which I have used from the beginning.

1. To give you the general Scope, Parts, and Coherence of the words.
2. To give you an Exposition. And,
3. Observations upon them.

I. For the main general Scope; It is to set out the greatness of that Love, Mercy, and Grace that is in God, as it is the Fountain of Salvation to all his Elect, and this in the chiefest outward fruits and benefits of it ad extra, towards us, in three several degrees thereof. He doth take all Advantages in setting of it forth, to take their hearts whom he wrote to.

He had first presented to them a Map and a Prospect of their Sin and Misery, in the former verses; how they were dead in Sins and Trespasses, Children of Wrath, &c. and this to prepare their hearts: Even as suppose you would prepare the Spirits of Men condemned to die, to entertain with the highest welcom the Grace and Mercy of a Prince that was resolved to pardon them, you would first set out to them all their Wretchedness and Demerits to the full, and then exaggerate the Goodness and Graciousness of the Prince in his Resolutions of Grace and Favour towards them: so doth he here. A Graciousness shewn not only simply in forgiving, pardoning, and pulling them out of that depth of Misery, but in raising and advancing them, and setting them up upon the highest pinacle and top of Honour; raising them up from Death, and a death in Sin, to sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus, or with Christ Jesus. Such a story as this, were it told but to standers-by, but as that which concerned other men and not themselves, it would wonderfully affect them, and cause them to fall down in admiration of that superexcelling Grace in him that should deal so with miserable and unworthy Creatures subjected to his Wrath: But when the Men the story is uttered of, are the persons themselves that hear it, and the objects of all this Grace, how must this needs transport them!

Now after he had forelaid and inlaid the description of their Misery, he sets out the Mercy of God in the most taking way.

He first brings it in with a [But] of some hidden and secret Design to remedy all this, That that God whom he had said had elected and predestinated, contrived our Salvation according to the Counsel of his Will, having Mercy in him. A But

of Serm. X. of an admiration and aſtoniſhment in himſelf, of exceſs and abundance of Grace in God, and reſervation of a ſuper-abounding Happineſs intended to them. But God, ſaith he.

And at the ſecond word, he names him that is the Subject of all this Goodneſs, and the Deſigner and Author of all this Happineſs to them, to the end they might have him in their eye, even from the firſt: But God.

My Brethren, I appeal to you: If you had firſt only heard the Story of your natural condition, and the deſert of it, from an Ambaſſador ſent from Heaven, and he had done nothing but laid open to you the woful,ruful,wretched condition that you are in, with all the Puniſhment God had threatned to inflict, and you had deſerved; and his laſt words had been, concluding you under the Wrath of the great God, Children of Wrath, as here; and then ſhould have gone, and further ſaid, But God, and gone no further, and pauſed there for a while, your Thoughts naturally would have meditated nothing but Terror, and have thought nothing, but that God, that is ſo diſpleaſed with Sin, that is ſo great a God, he will be avenged, he will deſtroy us, he will do unto us according to his Wrath, and our deſert. But what follows?

But God, that is rich in Mercy. Here is a happy Turn, a Beam of Hope breaks out now to poor Priſoners of Hope: Here is a Mine ſprung, that neither Adam, nor the Angels knew; it is a Mine of Mercy; a rich Mine, and an Intimation of an engagement of all that Riches; for why elſe ſhould it come in here for the Pardon?

And this Mercy in God (having laid open ſuch a Treaſure, both of Diſobedience and Wrath upon this occaſion) he loadeth with as great Attributes and Epithetes: God (ſaith he) who is rich in Mercy: And yet God might have been merciful in his Nature, and we never the better for it; he might alſo have been rich in Mercy, of Long-ſuffering, and Patience, and yet deſtroyed us at laſt; as in Rom. 2. you read of the Riches of his Patience and Long-ſuffering, to them that treaſure up Wrath againſt the Day of Wrath: No, God, who is rich in Mercy, and hath loved us, ſaith he; ſpecial Mercy, joined with, and rooted in ſpecial Love. And that Love is not a new Love, newly taken up, but it is a Love which he hath born: For the Love wherewith he hath loved us, ſaith he: Loved us that were thus ſinful, and thus wretched, and loved us while we were thus ſinful, and thus wretched, yea, from everlaſting; yea, who ordained us, thus ſinful, to ſhew this Love and Mercy, v. 7. And he contents not himſelf barely to mention this Love, but he loads that alſo with a new Epithete, Great Love, contents not himſelf to ſay, God, who is rich in Mercy, and hath loved us; but, For the great Love wherewith he hath loved us. So that now as in reſpect of Mercy, there is an expectation of being freed from all this Miſery; ſo in reſpect of this great Love, there is an expectation raiſed of as great an Advancement, that ſhall anſwer the mention of the Love of ſo great a God, and ſo great a Love in him.

And when he had thus laid this Foundation, both of what Riches of Mercy is in God's Nature and Heart, and what great Love hath been in the purpoſes of his Heart, in this 4*th* Verſe, he goes on further, to tell them, what this Mercy and Love hath intended and done for them: And (ſtill to take and affect their Hearts the more) whilſt he is in the midſt of doing of it, he windes in the mention of what they were and had been, he minds them of that: God (ſaith he) who is rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in Sins, (ſo v. 5.) (He repeats no more, but he would have them take in all that he had ſaid, in the 1, 2, and 3*d* Verſes, When we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, walked according to the Courſe of this World, according to the Prince of the Power of the Air; when we were Children of Diſobedience, Slaves to the Devil, Children of Wrath by Nature.) He intermingleth, as I may ſo ſay, the ſenſe of their Sinfulneſs and Wretchedneſs, in the midſt of his Diſcourſe of God's Graciouſneſs and Mercy, that they might be ſure to carry that along in their eye, have inlaid thoughts of their Wretchedneſs, to affect their Hearts with his Goodneſs. And then, leſt they ſhould not take in, and think ſoon enough of the Mercy of God, which he had ſpoken of but even now, he darts in another Beam of God's Love into their Hearts, under a new Name, with a new Memento to ſet it on,

Serm. X.

By Grace ye are ſaved; and Grace addeth yet to both Love and Mercy. It is not only great Love for quantity, it is not only rich Mercy, but it is Grace alſo, for the freeneſs of it, and for the peculiarneſs of it unto them, and not to others. And when he had done all this, he comes to ſhew three degrees of Advancement unto theſe Men, that were thus miſerable and wretched, that God doth and hath beſtowed upon them, and will beſtow upon them, which they may be ſure of, that they ſhall attain to, and arrive at in the end. He then mentioneth, I ſay, three degrees of Benefits.

He tells them firſt, That this God, thus rich in Mercy, hath quickned them, quickned them when they were dead, and dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, (for if you would reſtore a dead Man, you muſt firſt put Life into him, you muſt begin there,) quickned them both with a life of Juſtification, (they being dead in reſpect of the guilt of Sin) pardoning all their Sins out of the Riches of his Mercy; and quickning them with a new Spirit, with a new Soul, with the Holy-Ghoſt to dwell within them for ever, the ſame Spirit that dwells in Jeſus Chriſt, and that quickned him, to quicken them, who was himſelf a quickning Spirit. And quickning them alſo with a principle of Life in Holineſs, even as the Soul dwelling in the Body quickneth it with a life. And, ſaith he, all this he hath done already for you, here in this World: But (ſaith he) he means not to reſt there, there are two other Benefits in the Life to come, which are two degrees more: He will raiſe you up (ſaith he) at the latter day. And as a Pawn and Teſtimony of that, look upon the Reſurrection of Chriſt, and he in riſing is the firſt-fruits of them that roſe, and ye are riſen in him, ſaith he; in Chriſt ye are riſen, when he roſe. And he ſpeaks of it as done, becauſe he would ſhew the certainty and ſureneſs of it. As God raiſed up Jeſus Chriſt's Body, ſo he will raiſe up yours; yea, when Jeſus Chriſt roſe, ye were reckoned in him: and as God put a glory upon Chriſt's Body, when it was riſen; ſo he will do upon yours at the Day of Judgment. And that is the ſecond degree, that degree of Glory the Soul ſhall have, when it meets its Body, and is raiſed again at the Day of Judgment. But then there is a higher degree than this, for when the Day of Judgment is over, you ſhall (ſaith he) be placed in the midſt of a Sea of Glory, and have a full poſſeſſion of it, as Jeſus Chriſt himſelf has. He hath placed us, ſaith he, (ſtill to ſhew the ſureneſs of it, he ſpeaks as if it were done.) All that Glory, ſaith he, which Jeſus Chriſt hath, he hath it as repreſenting you; look what place he is in, you ſhall be in; yea, you are now reckoned to ſit there, ſo as you cannot be fruſtrated of it; and your Life is hid with God in Chriſt, and when Chriſt ſhall appear, who now repreſenteth you in Heaven, you ſhall be poſſeſs'd of it.

And ſo now you have the general ſcope or meaning of theſe words opened to you.

Now then for the Coherence, and the Parts of it.

Firſt; For the Coherence. You ſee, they come in next to that of our ſinful State, to that end and purpoſe to exaggerate, and to heighten the Riches of the Glory of the Mercy and Love of God in Chriſt, and alſo of that Glory, which in Chriſt God hath ordained unto us.

Now the Scope being an exaggeration of the Mercy and Grace of God every way, theſe are the parts of it:

Firſt; He ſets out, what in God is the moſt inward and original cauſe of all this. (which he would have magnified) by three Names, Mercy, Love, Grace; to which, if you will, may be added, Kindneſs, out of v. 7.

Secondly; He aſcribes unto theſe the moſt heightning Epithetes to all: To Mercy he addeth Riches; to Love he addeth Greatneſs; to Grace, exceeding Riches, v. 7. God, who is rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he hath loved us. He ſets all theſe out.

Thirdly;

Serm. X.

Thirdly; By minding us of the condition we were in, when as God thus did ſhew mercy to us: Even (ſaith he) when we were dead in Sins.

Fourthly; To take our Hearts the more, he ſets it out by the Benefits we are advanced to, which are three: We are quickned with Chriſt, riſen with Chriſt, ſit together with Chriſt in heavenly Places. And,

Laſt of all; That Chriſt may be magnified, and have a praiſe in it, as he is God-Man, Mediator, as well as God, he ſaith, that all this is done in Chriſt, and with Chriſt, as the inſtrumental Cauſe, and repreſentative Head, and meritorious Cauſe of all this.

And ſo now you have the parts of theſe Words.

II. I ſhall now begin the Expoſition of them, and run over every one of them ſeverally and apart.

But] It refers to that God, chap. 1. that had predeſtinated, &c. Jerome ſaith, that this ſame [but] is ſuperfluous, and he would have it blotted out, and thinks it crept into the Copy as it were unawares. But it is a word which uſhereth in a great Turn, he having mentioned the State of Nature before, and ſets an emphaſis upon all that follows. And you ſhall find, that upon the like occaſion Phraſes akin to this come in, which we all tranſlate [but.] Paul having ſpoken of his own unregenerate condition, and the Mercy ſhewn him by God as then, comes in with the like [but,] when he would magnify the Mercy ſhewn him, in 1 Tim. 1. 13. I was a blaſphemer, a perſecutor, and injurious; [but] I obtained Mercy. Likewiſe, Tit. 3. you ſhall find, the like [but] comes in, and upon the very ſame occaſion: He had deſcribed our unregenerate eſtate at the 3*d* verſ. We were ſometimes fooliſh, diſobedient, deceived, ſerving divers Luſts and Pleaſures, living in Malice and Envy, hateful, and hating one another: [But] (ſaith he, v. 4.) after that the kindneſs and love of God our Saviour towards Man appeared, according to his Mercy he ſaved us, &c. And it is ſo far from being ſuperfluous, that like John Baptiſt, it foreruns the manifeſtation of the richeſt Grace in God.

It is, Firſt, (when it comes in thus) a Particle of Admiration, wondering at God in it. So in that place of Timothy, I was injurious, and a blaſphemer; [but] I obtained Mercy: O wonderful! who would not have made a [but] at me? But (ſaith he) I obtained Mercy. He uſhers it in as with aſtoniſhment and admiration, and therefore ends his Speech with a Doxology, v. 17. Unto the King eternal, &c. be Glory for ever, Amen. So here, Being dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, and Children af Wrath, [But] God, who is rich in Mercy, &c.

Secondly; It is alſo a [But] of oppoſition, to what might have been generally in all Mens thoughts and apprehenſions, clear contrary to, and beyond what we could think: So in uſual ſpeech we uſe the particle [But,] when we turn our ſpeech a clear contrary way. It is therefore a door of hope, and it makes to me the greateſt in the Scripture. Suppoſe, that after the Apoſtle in ſpeaking this, having concluded Man's ſinful condition, as here, with this, Children of Wrath, (which ſtrikes into all Mens Souls inconceivable Horror,) he had mentioned God next, without this [But] and there pauſed, and made a ſuſpence of ſpeech, and left the reſt to our thoughts; how would we have wildered our ſelves in fears, and have thought thus with our ſelves? God, that is by Nature holy, as we ſinful, can behold no Iniquity, and a God ſo juſt, as in puniſhing and deſtroying the Sinner, he ſhall infinitely glorify himſelf; a God ſo powerful in Wrath, that he is able to revenge to the uttermoſt; and ſo abſolute in Sovereignty, that we are the Clay, he is the Potter, If therefore for our filth he throw us to deſtruction, we could not reply, Why doſt thou ſo? we being ſo obnoxious, he could deſtroy us without an excuſe: A God withall ſo all-ſufficient, and rich in Bleſſedneſs in himſelf; aud when he had deſtroyed us according to our deſert, and his own provocation in himſelf thereto, he could never find any loſs or want of us, or he could have created new Creatures: How would all our Souls, like Adam's, have melted within us, and meditated Terror! But none of all this, but the quite contrary, But God that is rich in Mercy, &c. There is a Mine ſprung, neither Adam nor Angels knew of at the firſt. It doth tend alſo to uſher in all ſort of oppoſite things to what he had ſaid before; he had had ſhewn how Man is ſinful, but God is merciful. Inſtead of Sins and Treſpaſſes, he is to ſpeak of Mercy; inſtead of Men being ſinful, he is to deſcribe God merciful; Man by nature ſinful, but God by nature merciful. There is an oppoſition of quickning to death: When we were under the power of Satan, and the Devil was our Prince, the Prince of the Power of the Air, now to come under Chriſt, to be quickned with him, and to ſit with him in heavenly Places, ſo high, even when Children of Wrath by nature: But by Grace (as oppoſed to Nature) we be ſaved. All theſe oppoſitions of aſpect, of the words that follow, to what went before, this [But] uſhers in. Serm. X.

It alſo comes in, when what follows exceeds what went before in a way of contrariety, to ſhew, that where Sin abounded, Grace ſuperabounded much more; Man had done thus and thus, and was thus and thus; but God in his Work hath put down Man clean in his Work: But God, who is rich in Mercy. And ſo much now for that particle, [But.]

God] It refers to what he had enlarged of God, chap. 1. and anew explicates the ſence of it. In the ſecond place here, he holds up God to be (as well he might in this caſe) the ſole Author of all that Salvation that follows. As in Rom. 11. 35. Who hath firſt given to him, and it ſhall be recompenſed to him again? for of him, and through him, and to him are all things: eſpecially our Salvation. In 2 Cor. 5. 18. All things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himſelf.

He comes in here with God [But God] as the ſubject of all this Mercy and Love, whom therefore we ſhould carry along with us in our eye to magnifie. And [But God] is a note of ſpecialty: So David, Let me fall into the hands of God, not Man, for very great are his Mercies, 1 Chron. 21. 13. As alſo, the Prophet, Who is a God like unto thee, (there is none elſe would have done it) that pardoneth Iniquity, Tranſgreſſion, and Sin? 'Tis only he, being rich in Mercy, and having ſo much Mercy in Him, and being a God of ſuch Mercy, that hath done it. I am God, and not Man, therefore ye are not conſumed. But God, ſaith he, being rich in Mercy, hence it is ye are ſaved. And, by God, he means likewiſe the Father, as diſtinct from Chriſt. He maketh Jeſus Chriſt the inſtrumental cauſe, We are quickned in Chriſt: but who quickned us? God, ſaith he; it was his contrivance and doing. He would have us attribute the firſt and chief unto God; and his meaning is this, as if he had ſaid, Now that I have ſhewn you that Man hath done his part, and done his worſt in that ſinful condition he was in, you ſhall ſee what part God will act; But God, ſaith he, who is rich in Mercy, &c. As alſo to ſhew, that it is God alone that doth all in the matter of Salvation, which is his ſcope in the reſt that follows, to nothingny any Creature, as the Apoſtle hath it; It is not of him that runs, or him that wills, but of God that ſheweth mercy. That as it is in Jer. 3. 5. Thou haſt ſinned, and yet called me Father, and thou haſt ſpoken and done evil things, as thou couldeſt: This thou haſt done, well now I will ſee what I can do, v. 19. Thou ſhalt call me, My Father, and ſhalt not turn away from me. So the Apoſtle here: You were ſo and ſo, But God, &c.

[God who is rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he loved us.]

You ſee here, he ſpeaks of the Cauſes of our Salvation, Mercy and Love. In opening of this, I ſhall firſt give you the diſtinction between Mercy and Love.

1. I begin with Love, his ſhewing Mercy is reſolved into it. It is a deſire to communicate good, the chiefeſt good, unto the Creature; but Mercy, it is to pull the Creature out off a depth of Miſery. The Object of God's Love is the Creature ſimply conſidered; the Object of Mercy, is the Creature fallen into Miſery: So that Mercy ſuperaddeth this to Love, that it reſpects the Creature in miſery. Parents, they love their Children, ſimply as they are their Children; but if they be fallen into miſery, then Love works in a way of Pity, Love is turned into Mercy. So that now you ſee, I ſay, the difference in a word between theſe two, that Mercy reſpecteth Miſery, and hath properly Miſery for its Object. You have that notable place for this, in Rom. 11. 32. God hath ſhut up all together in Unbelief, that he might have mercy upon all. Mercy therefore reſpecteth thoſe that are thus ſhut up under Unbelief.

Serm. X.

The ſecond thing that I would hold forth for the opening of theſe two is this, why that Mercy and Love are here both brought in? It is not Mercy only, and one would have thought that had been enough, when he would ſpeak of our Salvation, but he alſo mentioneth Love; and why?

1. Becauſe that Mercy only reſpecteth Miſery, as I ſaid before; it goes no further ſimply as Mercy than the relieving thoſe that are in Miſery out of their Miſery. And becauſe that we had a Treaſury and a depth of Miſery, he therefore mentions a Treaſury and Riches of Mercy. There was a Treaſury of Wrath, which we being Children of Wrath had heaped up, therefore he mentions a Treaſury of Mercy. But, I ſay, Mercy only reſpecteth pulling out of Miſery, and would have gone no further, ſimply as Mercy. But now that (as an addition thereto) theſe perſons delivered out of this depth of Miſery, ſhould be advanced to the ſame ſtate and condition that Jeſus Chriſt in Heaven hath, that they ſhould ſit together in heavenly places with him; Mercy alone would not have carried us thither, if Mercy had not been winged with Love, if Love had not been mingled with, and added to it; yea, a munificence of Love, yea, a greatneſs of Love. Mercy cauſeth a King to pardon a Traitor; but if he ſhall take this Traitor and advance him to the higheſt dignity, place him with him in the Throne as it were, this muſt needs be from Love too, this is a ſuperadding in that reſpect unto Mercy.

Obſerv. Obſerv. Let me affect your hearts with this Conſideration, That God hath done more for us infinitly than for the Angels; he ſhews love to them, they are Veſſels of Honour, whom he hath loved and taken up unto Glory; but they are not Veſſels of Mercy: but now in ſaving of Men he brings in both, Mercy and Love too; God being rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he loved us.

2. Love is added to Mercy here, to ſhew the extent and the greatneſs of his ſhewing Mercy; for that dependeth much upon Love. If one he merciful only out of a virtue that is in him, or out of a duty; then ſo far as that virtue will carry him, he will ſhew Mercy. As now, take a merciful Man, that is rich in Mercy, (if we may ſo expreſs it of Men, as the Apoſtle doth, rich in Faith) that hath a great deal of tenderneſs of bowels in him, let him meet with a Man in Miſery, it will draw out his bowels to ſhew that Man mercy, ſo far as meer mercy, as it is a virtue, will carry him. Mark, for this is a diſtinct thing to the former: but if it light upon a perſon whom he loveth, then, beſides the virtue or grace of mercy in him, then Mercy is infinitely more intended, comparatively, to him, than when he ſhews Mercy to him meerly out of that grace and virtue, Love then boils up Mercy. As for example: If a Phyſician that is a merciful Man, and heals out of mercy, and takes a great deal of pains with a ſick perſon even out of that grace and vertue, yet if his Wife ſhould be ſick, or his Child whom he loveth, here now Mercy would be intended, here Mercy would be heightned. Now, ſaith the Apoſtle, this is the caſe of God, he is not ſimply merciful out of Mercy, but he is merciful out of Love, loving the Perſons he ſhews mercy unto. And therefore in the Scripture he is ſaid to be merciful as a Father. Pſal. 103. 13. Like as a Father pitieth his Children, ſo the Lord pitieth them that fear him: Yea, as a Mother. He is merciful, not ſingly out of a principle of Mercy only, but out of Love alſo, which therefore intendeth, heightneth Mercy, draws it out ſo much the more, makes it the more active. If God hath Riches of Mercy, and Love hath the command of that Treaſury, how profuſe will Love be to thoſe that are in miſery? Now, ſaith he, God who is rich in mercy, and beſides that, he hath loved us with a great love. Yea,

3. For explication, what is the reaſon, let me add this as a Reaſon, why both theſe are thus joyned together here, That the foundation of God's ſhewing mercy is his Love. So, if you mark it, the Apoſtle lays it: God, ſaith he, who is rich in mercy; but that alone would not have done it, therefore he adds, For the great Love wherewith he loved us. And you ſhall find the like in many other places, as in that Tit. 3. 4, 5. which I quoted before, where having laid open our natural condition, he comes in with the ſame [but] that he doth here: But the kindneſs and love of God our Saviour appeared, according to his Mercy he hath ſaved us. For Love, I ſay, is the foundation in God of his ſhewing mercy. That I may open and explain this to you, for it is a thing of much conſideration and help to us.

Vide Serm. 2.

Mercy in God and Man differs thus: That Mercy in Man, (go take the inward compaſſion of it, the inward affection in the Heart,) it always worketh, whether one love the Party, or not love him, ſo that if he be in miſery, and it be in a Man's power to help him, and it be lawful to help him, there is a Pity within a Man ſtirs him, and doth as it were command him to help that Man, draws it forth to do it: Homo miſericors, ſemper miſericors. And Mercy in Man, if he ſhews mercy meerly out of mercy, and out of no other affection joined with it, it works equally, is equally compaſſionate to Men in like condition: But Mercy in God, you muſt know, is drawn out (tho it be his Nature) by his Will; he pardoneth whom he will: I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy. Therefore he pardoneth great Sinners, when he lets others that are ſmaller periſh. Nay, the compaſſion it ſelf doth not neceſſarily work in God, but it depends upon an act of his Will, tho Mercy be his Nature. If God had been merciful to no Sinner, but had damned all Men and Angels that had ſinned, and had done it with wrath and revenge, yet he had been as merciful as now he is, take his Nature. So that our Salvation muſt be reſolved into ſome other principle, than ſimply his being merciful. And therefore by the way, when as we ſay, that Mercy is Nature in God, the meaning of it is this, That it is ſuited to him, it is that which he doth with the greateſt delight, (as Men do actions of Nature) wherein he hath no reluctancy: The meaning is not, that this Mercy works naturally and neceſſarily, for had not he ſet his Heart to love, had not his Will been ſet upon it, not an Angel or a Man that ſinned, had ever had a drop of mercy from him, tho he is thus full, and thus rich in mercy. So that tho God is rich in mercy, yet there muſt be Love alſo as the foundation. That which moved him to be merciful to any, it was his Love pitched upon them; and having firſt pitched his love upon them, then, he ſeeing them in miſery, love ſtirs up mercy. In that he did reſolve to be merciful to any Creature, it is not ſimply an act of his Nature, but it doth depend upon his Will: Tho he had in his Nature this Riches of Mercy, yet we had not been ſaved, if it had not been the good pleaſure of his Will, and that Love had been added to all that Mercy; all the Mercy that is in him, would never elſe have flown forth from him. But,

4. They both here come in, not only to ſhew, that his Love was the cauſe why he reſolved to ſhew Mercy; but that thoſe to whom he meant to ſhew mercy, his Love guides and directs him to it. His Love had firſt ſingled out certain Perſons, whom he meant to ſhew mercy to; and Love did guide the channel, which way Mercy ſhould run. And therefore you ſhall find in Scripture, that Election obtains it: Jacob have I loved, ſaith he. And that's the reaſon why he ſhews mercy to any, that the Purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand, Rom. 9. 11. So as indeed Divines do make Mercy but the remote cauſe of Salvation, but Love to be the fundamental. And this is true, whether we hold, that he loved Men when they were conſidered in the pure Maſs of Creatures, or in the corrupt Maſs, as they are conſidered ſince; ſtill, I ſay, Love is that that did guide Mercy; why Mercy ſhould be conveyed to theſe Souls, and not unto others, it was becauſe he loved them, it was from his love firſt pitched upon them.

I ſhall now come to ſome Obſervations, for I ſee I muſt reſerve that of the Riches of this Mercy, and the Greatneſs of this Love (to which ſomething muſt be ſpoken) to another Diſcourſe.

Firſt; You ſee there is a Love which he hath ſhewn us, which, I ſay, is the ground of all his mercy to us, tho he is merciful in his Nature. The firſt Obſervation then that I make of it is this:

Serm. X.

Obſerv. 1. Let the Love of God be the greateſt thing in your Hearts, the neareſt thing to your Souls of all elſe, the greateſt thing which in your eye you do purſue. It is the firſt thing in God laid the foundation of good, and it is the higheſt thing to be attained to, and to be purſued after by us. Of all things in God, value his Love, and ſeek after that; let, I ſay, the deſires of your Souls be pointed unto it. God's love, it is the greateſt thing of all the reſt, it is more than all his benefits. The love of Chriſt was more than his ſufferings, and his ſufferings were more than his benefits; and the love of God, it is more than all his gifts, and yet he hath given great things to us, and done great things for us. Amor eſt primum donum; his love is the firſt gift, (as one well ſaith) in the gift of which all things elſe are yours. The gift of his Son, it was a great gift, but it was founded in his Love: He ſo loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son. Tho we, being Sinners, need mercy, that is the next thing we want, and therefore we look to it, O mercy, mercy! becauſe we apprehend our ſelves in miſery: But do you look beyond mercy, and look to love, which is a greater thing to you than mercy, raiſeth and enlargeth mercy, and when Mercy hath done with you, will do more, or as much for you as mercy hath done, and guideth mercy; the reaſon why Mercy ran into your hearts, and waſhed you with the blood of Chriſt, is becauſe that Love guided the channel. To ſeek after mercy, this ſelf-love, and the miſery thou art in, will make thee do. O but there is ſomewhat elſe, ſaith a good Soul, it is the love of God, and the favour of God, that I would ſee; and it is not ſelf-love that ever will carry a man on to ſeek that: And what is the reaſon, that this chiefly is the purſuit of a Soul ſpiritualized? One reaſon among others is this: Becauſe Grace is always the Image of God's heart; now this being the chief thing in God's heart, and the firſt thing, and the higheſt thing, hence therefore the Soul ſeeks that ultimately and chiefly.

Obſerv. 2. Secondly; If you ask me, What love it is that I would have you prize and value? and what love it is that is here meant? It is everlaſting Love: For the great Love wherewith he [hath] loved us, ſaith the Apoſtle, not wherewith he doth love us. It is everlaſting Love, that is the cauſe of all the Mercies we have: Jer. 31. 3. I have loved thee with an everlaſting Love; (there you have the Phraſe too; ſo the Apoſtle here, Wherewith he [hath] loved us, this [hath] reaches as as high as to eternity,) Therefore, ſaith he, with loving-kindneſs have I drawn thee. Will you know the reaſon why God calleth you, why he ſaveth you? It is this, I have loved you with an everlaſting Love. It is not a Love that God doth begin to ſet upon you then when you are firſt called; no, it is a Love taken up from everlaſting. He had a love in him to you, before he gave Jeſus Chriſt, that is, before the conſideration of giving Jeſus Chriſt, as to die for us: God ſo loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son. And Jeſus Chriſt had a love in him too; he loved us, before he gave himſelf for us, Gal. 2. ult. Who loved me, and gave himſelf for me: And ſo, before he calleth us, and converteth us. Love, you ſee, this eternal Love of God, is the foundation of all; and ſo the Apoſtle reſolves it here: For the great Love wherewith he loved us.

Obſerv. 3. Thirdly; Give me leave, but in a word to vent that which I think is a truth, (it is a Controverſy amongſt Divines, and ſome take one part, and ſome another,) and what is here ſaid is to me an evidence of it amongſt others: That in the order of God's Decrees, (for he ſpeaks here of everlaſting Love in God) he doth ſet his love upon the Creature; that's firſt, and in that reſpect chuſeth the Creatures, whom he meant to make, and whom he would ſet himſelf to love, not under the conſideration of fallen, but in that pure Maſs, as yet not fallen: And his ſhewing mercy comes in, but to ſhew how much love he meant to ſhew to ſuch Creatures as he had choſen, and ſingled out; and therefore he lets them fall into Sin, that ſo he might be merciful. He reſolved to ſhew ſo much love to thoſe he had choſen, and ſet himſelf to love, (with ſo great a love he loved them,) that look what way ſoever would be beſt to ſet forth that Love, thoſe ways he would take to chuſe. Now, thinks he, if I ſhould ſimply love them, and take them up to Heaven, and there give them ſuch and ſuch a Glory; this indeed would ſhew Love, and infinite Love: But is there any way elſe how Love may be ſhewn? Yes, if I permit and ſuffer theſe Creatures to fall into miſery, I ſhall ſhew love in a way of mercy to them. So that now our falling into Sin, and his giving Chriſt to die for us, and all theſe things, they are but to commend that Love which he firſt pitch'd upon us, as we are Creatures, whom he meant to make ſo glorious, and whom he meant ſo to love. Indeed in Rom. 5. 8. it is true, the Apoſtle ſaith, that God commendeth his Love towards us, that whilſt we were yet Enemies, Chriſt died for us: But if you mark it, he doth not ſay, that he ſet his love upon us in the conſideration of our being enemies; but whilſt we were Enemies, he commended his love towards us; ſo he did in his Decrees order it, that he would commend his Love towards us by this: But now that conſideration which he had of us, or that Act pitched firſt, was an Act of Love. Only let me give you this with it, that at the firſt he reſolved to ſhew Love in a way of Mercy: As he reſolved to ſhew his Juſtice upon wicked Men, in a way of Wrath; ſo he reſolved to ſhew his Love in a way of Mercy. And therefore as in the Counſels of God all things are at once; ſo we muſt conceive it, he reſolved at the ſame time, when he thus ſet his love upon us, to permit our falling into Sin, and ſo Mercy be ſhewn. But ſtill if you ask, What act it was? whether our Election was an act of Mercy, or an act of Love? I anſwer clearly, (as a great Divine doth, who hath ſpent much to the clearing of it) it was an act of Love: It was his Decree to ſhew mercy; but this Act was not out of Mercy, it was out of Love, and out of good-will, to manifeſt which Love he was reſolved to ſhew Mercy, therefore he lets Man fall. Election, I ſay, is an act of Love, rather than of Mercy. Mark the Coherence here, God who is rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he hath loved us. God being merciful in his Nature, having pitch'd an act of Love upon us, when he ſaw us fall into miſery, his Bowels turned; but he loved us firſt. That Mercy is mentioned firſt, it is becauſe it ſuited our condition; it is not becauſe it was that Attribute, out of which the act of Election proceeded, tho in Election there was a purpoſe to ſhew Love in a way of Mercy. The Obſervation of that great Divine is this: Saith he, 'Run over the whole Scripture, and you ſhall find indeed, the calling 'of a Saint is attributed unto Mercy; why? becauſe God calls him that is fallen 'into Sin, and therefore there is Mercy in it; as in 1 Tim. 3. 16. But I obtained 'Mercy. 1 Pet. 2. 10. Rom. 11. 31, 32. You ſhall find likewiſe, ſaith he, Re-'miſſion of Sins is attributed unto Mercy, I mean the act of Remiſſion, and the 'exerciſe of it, in Luke 1. 78, 79. Mat. 18. 33. So likewiſe Regeneration, as 'here, and in 1 Pet. 1. 3. and in Tit. 3. So the actual beſtowing of Glory, Jude 'v. 21, &c. There is only one place, ſaith he, and that is Rom. 9. 16. which 'ſeemeth to make Election an act of Mercy: It is not of him that willeth, nor of 'him that runneth, but of God that ſheweth Mercy. But the truth is, Election is 'not in the Text there, he doth not ſay, Election is not of him that willeth, nor of 'him that runneth; but his buſineſs is Salvation: It is not of him that willeth, that 'is, Salvation is not, but of God that ſheweth mercy. And if it be ſaid, He hath mercy upon whom he will have mercy; his Anſwer is this: Saith he, That is in Election. He grants, God decrees to ſhew Love in a way of Mercy; and becauſe that is the iſſue, becauſe that they are ſaved by a way of Mercy, therefore they are called alſo Veſſels of Mercy. But ſtill that out of which Election proceedeth, it is not ſimply the Attribute of Mercy. And he gives this exceeding clear and good Inſtance: 'God (ſaith he) is omnipotent, yet that God decreed to ſhew 'his power, that is not an Act of Omnipotency; ſo God is wiſe, but to decree to 'ſhew forth his Wiſdom, is not ſimply to be reſolved as an act of Wiſdom: So 'likewiſe here, God is merciful, &c. But the purpoſe to ſhew all theſe Attri-'butes forth, it is reſolved into his Love. This muſt needs be ſaid, (which I beſeech you to take along with you) that to ſhew forth Riches of Mercy was the final cauſe of his Decree, he had that in his aim, and in his eye; but it was his Will, and it was his Love, out of which this proceeded, and which he firſt pitch'd upon us, that moved him thereunto.

indeed

And ſo much now for that point, which I have ſpoken to but briefly, and perhaps more obſcurely: It is, I ſay, a Point of Controverſy, which I will not enter into, to handle all the particulars of it.

Serm. X.

A fourth Obſervation, which I would make upon theſe words, which alſo is of great uſe to us, is this:

Obſerv. 4. That there is a Love in God to us, even when we are Sinners, when we are in our natural eſtate, out of which Love he calls us, and pulls us out of that condition. It is a ſtrange thing, that Men ſhould ſtumble at this: Say they, How can any be Children of Wrath, Children of the Curſe, and yet be at the ſame time loved by God? Is there any ſuch thing in all the Scripture? Why, it is here in my very Text, clearly and plainly, ſaith the Apoſtle, When we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, Children of Wrath, God who is rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he loved us, namely, when we were thus. The want of reconciling theſe two, hath been the cauſe of I know not how many Errors in the World, and is to this day. What ſay the Arminians? This is their great Argument, (you ſhall find it in that Anti-Synod of Dort,) If that God loved Men from everlaſting, and if God be reconciled to them, what need Chriſt have died? And the Socinians, they argue juſt the ſame. To give them an Anſwer, if you will, in a word; and then ſecondly, to ſhew how both theſe may ſtand together, that we may be Children of Wrath, and that yet God love us.

I anſwer to them, firſt, thus: Chriſt died to manifeſt his Love, Tit. 3. 4. We were thus and thus, hateful, and hating one another: But after that the kindneſs and love of God our Saviour towards Man appeared, then he ſaved us, according to his Mercy, by the waſhing of Regeneration. So that now for the appearing and manifeſtation of that Love it was, that he gave Jeſus Chriſt to die; for the appearance and manifeſtation of that Love to the Soul, it is that he calleth him. And therefore you have that in Rom. 5. God hereby commended his Love towards us, that whilſt we were Sinners Chriſt died. It is an expreſs Scripture for this. It was not that he did then begin to love us, or doth begin to love us when we are called; but that Love which he had taken up in his Heart to us was ſo great, that giving Chriſt, and all elſe, is but to commend it, to ſet it out. So that if you ask, Why did Chriſt die? and why did God all this, if he loved us already? I anſwer: He doth it that his Love may appear, he doth it to commend his Love. I have often ſaid it, that Chriſt died but to remove obſtacles; but the radical Love, out of which God did give Chriſt, was pitch'd before. Now is it not an ordinary thing for a Father, that his Child ſhall be a Child of Wrath to him, whilſt he goes on in ſuch a courſe, that is, conſider him as he is in that courſe, according to his fatherly Wiſdom, he can proceed no otherwiſe with him but in Wrath; yet all that while ſo to love him, as to ſet all ways on work to bring him in? Did not David deal ſo with Abſalom? in 2 Sam. 13. When Abſalom was run from him, and entred into a rebellion againſt him, he, as he was a wiſe King, could do no otherwiſe in that condition, but proceed againſt him as a Rebel, unleſs he came in, and ſubmitted himſelf: but what doth David do? He ſuborneth a Woman, at leaſt Joab doth, and David was well-pleaſed with it, for Joab ſaw the King's heart was toward him; but ſuppoſe David himſelf ſuborned Joab to do what he did, that he might have a fair come-off, and manifeſt his love to his Son, if David had done ſo: Why God himſelf did ſo. We were fallen into that condition, that we were Children of Wrath; but yet there was a Love to us, that lay hid in his Heart all the while; and he goes and ſuborneth Jeſus Chriſt, if I may ſo ſpeak; and Chriſt, he comes but to remove all the Obſtacles that lay in the way of Juſtice, that he might be juſt, and the juſtifier of them that believe in Jeſus. If we will have another Anſwer, how can we be Children of Wrath, and yet God love us? I ask again, How was Jeſus Chriſt a Curſe, when he hung upon the Croſs, and yet at the ſame time to be loved with the greateſt Love? According to ſuch Rules as God will proceed by at the latter day, if Men remain in their natural condition, they are Children of Wrath; but according to what his everlaſting purpoſes are, even theſe Children of Wrath he loves, and hath loved.

I will give you a diſtinction which will ſalve all, and it is a good one. There is Amor benevolentiæ, and Amor amicitiæ: While Men remain in their natural eſtate, and are Children of Wrath, he may bear towards them Amor benevolentiæ, a Love of good-will; but whilſt they remain in their natural condition, he hath not Amor amicitiæ to them, a Love of friendſhip, in which he doth communicate himſelf to them. But, I ſay, he may have a Love of good-will, which yet is the foundation of the other, and will in time cauſe the other to break forth. And what is the reaſon that he hath not a Love of complacency, nor a Love of mutual friendſhip, and that we are not ſaid to be reconciled to God, till we do believe? Becauſe it is not fit for God upon thoſe terms to communicate himſelf to us, to open his Heart, and to unboſom himſelf: but when the time comes, that Love of good-will which he beareth to us, will break forth into a Love of friendſhip, and he will take us into covenant with himſelf, and then the kindneſs and love of God towards Man appeareth, as the Text ſaith, Tit. 3. 4.

not

Fifthly; I make this Obſervation from hence likewiſe: That God in his love pitcheth upon Perſons, [For the great love wherewith he loved [us,] ſaith he:] God doth not pitch upon Propoſitions only, as to ſay, I will love him who believeth, and ſave him, (as thoſe of the Arminian Opinion hold); no, he pitcheth upon Perſons. And Chriſt died not for Propoſitions only, but for Perſons; he knows his Sheep by their Names. Jer. 31. 36. I have loved thee with an everlaſting Love. And, Rom. 11. 7. The Election hath obtained it, and the reſt were hardened. My Brethren, God loved us diſtinctly, and he loved us nakedly; let me expreſs it ſo in a word. Obſerv. 5.

He loved our Perſons diſtinctly, that is, ſingling out, and deſigning whom: Not only ſo many, I will love ſo many of Mankind, as ſhall fill up the places of the Angels that fell, as ſome have imagined; but he ſees who they are diſtinctly. The Lord knows who are his; the Text is expreſs: Jacob have I loved, he names him, and Eſau have I hated. Rejoyce not, ſaith Chriſt, that the Spirits are made ſubject unto you, but that your Names are written in Heaven. In Exod. 33. 19. where God ſaith, I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, he ſpeaks it upon occaſion of having peculiar Mercy to Moſes; and therefore the Apoſtle pertinently quotes it in Rom. 9. for Election of Perſons.

And ſecondly; He loved us nakedly; he loved Us, not Ours: It was not for our Faith, or for any thing in us, Not of Works, ſaith the Apoſtle; no, nor of Faith neither: No, he pitcheth upon naked Perſons; he loves you, not yours. Therefore here is the reaſon that his Love never fails, becauſe it is pitched upon the Perſon, ſimply as ſuch: I will love ſuch an one, let his condition be what it will be; if he fall into Sin, I will fetch Sin out off him again, that I may delight in him. The Covenant of Grace is a Covenant of Perſons, and God gives the Perſon of Chriſt to us, and the Perſon of the Holy-Ghoſt to us; he chuſeth our Perſons nakedly and ſimply as ſuch.

Laſtly; All the Attributes in God, they are ſubjected to his Love, and that is the great prevailing Attribute that ſways all. You ſee in the Text, that it ſways Mercy; for the reaſon that God is merciful to one Man, and not to another, it is becauſe he firſt loved this Man, and not the other. It is Love, I ſay, that is the prevailing Attribute; and what way Love goes, all Atributes go elſe, Mercy, and Power, &c. And therefore it is obſervable, that when in the firſt Chapter, v. 19. he had begun to ſpeak of that Power that wrought in Chriſt, in raiſing him from the dead, and ſaid that the ſame power worketh in us; in this Chapter, where he comes to make up the reddition of his ſpeech, he ſhould according to the common courſe have ſaid, God being great in Power, hath quickned us, and raiſed us up together with Chriſt. No, he mentioneth Mercy and Love, rather than Power, why? becauſe Power is at Love's beck in this. So that here our Salvation lies, that God pitcheth an everlaſting Love upon Men; and when he hath thus loved them, if they fall into Miſery, he is merciful, and Love ſets that on work; if there be a difficulty, then Love ſets Power on work: and ſo look which way Love goes, all Attributes elſe go; and if you have Love, you have all things elſe in God, they are all ſwallowed up in Love. And therefore it is obſervable, that God in a peculiar manner is ſaid to be Love, 1 John 4. I know not that the like is ſaid of any other Attribute; and the reaſon is this: Becauſe that to one that he doth love, he is nothing elſe but Love; for Mercy, and Power, and Juſtice, and Wiſdom, and all, they all work together in a way of ſubordination Obſerv. 6.

to

Serm. X.

to Love, that when a Man looks upon all theſe Attributes, they all appear in love, that God is nothing but love to that Man. If I look upon his Wiſdom, it appears to me ſet on work by Love, to exalt and magnify his Love. If I look upon his Power, it is all ſwallowed up in Love, in reſpect of his manifeſtation of it to me; for I take it, when he ſaith in that place of John, that God is Love, he ſpeaks not eſſentially of that Attribute, but of the manifeſtation of it.

And ſo much now for the opening of this, why Mercy and Love are here joined, and why that Love is made the foundation of his ſhewing Mercy, with ſuch Obſervations as ariſe out of it. There are two things yet behind, which are the Glory of all the reſt in this Text, and that is, That this Mercy that is in God, ſet on work by Love, it is a rich Mercy; and that this Love, wherewith he did from everlaſting love us, and that is the foundation of all, it is a great Love: God that is rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he hath loved us. But I muſt refer that to the next Diſcourſe.

* SERM.

SERMON XI.

EPHES. 2. 4, 5, 6.

4. But God who is rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us,
5. Even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us together with Christ, (by Grace ye are saved)
6. And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus.

THE Apostle in the former Verses having given a full and exact description of Man's Misery by Nature, and in the state of Nature, both by reason of Sin, and the Wrath of God that is due thereunto; he begins here to set out the greatness of that Love, and that Mercy in God, which is the cause and the fountain of our Salvation. And he sets it out (as I shewed you the last Discourse, when I ran over the Series of all these three Verses,) in the most taking, and most advantagious way, and in the greatest truth. I shall not repeat what I then delivered.

I came to the exposition of the words, and what I shall now say will be some little addition, as I go along, to what then was said.

But God,] Besides what I said of this particle, [but] in the last Discourse, I only add this, indeed as the main thing, That it serveth to usher in, not only a great Turn, the greatest Turn that ever was; it doth not only usher in the notice of a Remedy to Misery, that there is Balm in Gilead that may be had, because that God is merciful, and that is his Nature, and that therefore he may be merciful to us, and so that there is hope concerning this thing: But it ushers in, and gives the intimation of a fore-laid intention in God, of a contrivement and design before-hand taken up, and set upon, whereby God had before-hand prevented all the Mischief, and all the Danger, that was like to arise from the Misery and Sin which the Elect were fallen into. He had laid such a design, as all this Misery and Sinfulness, that the elect ones had fallen into, should be so far from undoing them, that it shall but serve to set out that Love the more; and so the words that follow do evidently shew: But God, for the Love wherewith he loved us, and loved us, and chosen us out of love, from everlasting, and hath shewed it in this, by triumphing over all that Misery, that even while we were dead in Sins and Trespasses, he hath quickned us, &c. And it is a Love, not only which Mercy and Pity stirs up, after he had seen us thus miserable; but it is a Love, that having been so great, and so long born to us, and first pitch'd on us, that it stirred up Mercy and Bowels to us in this Misery; (for so, if you mark it, the words run: God (saith he) who is rich in Mercy, there is his Nature, for his great Love wherewith he loved us.) And not only so, but this Love being seated in a Nature infinitely rich in Grace, and Mercy had conspired with Mercy, and contrived the depth of Misery, to extend that Riches. On them so great a Love had set it self, even to this end, as in the 7*th* Verse, That in Ages to come, he might shew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in kindness and love to us. And thus also in Tit. 3. that [but] even now mentioned, ushers in upon the like occasion, the like Reserve, or Design before hand laid, to glorify Love and Goodness. But when the kindness of God, and love to Man appeared, namely, when that Love, taken up by him long before this Sinfulness he spake of in the Verses before, hath lain

Serm. XI. hid as it were in ambuſhment, letting you march on in ſinful ways, under Satan's Banners; that in the end appears, and prevents all that Miſery, and reſcues you out of it. There is, I ſay, a kind of Ambuſhment, (if I may ſo expreſs it) a way-laying of all that Sin and Miſery the Elect fell into. And how many ſuch [Buts] of Mercy, lying in wait to deliver and ſave us out of great and ſtrong Evils, did we meet with in our Lives? And this [But] here, of this great Salvation, is the great Seal and Ratification, or Ante ſignamus of all the reſt. To this purpoſe you may obſerve, that oftentimes in the New Teſtament, when mention is made of God's ordaining us unto Salvation, this Phraſe is uſed, He did it from the beginning: So it is in 2 Theſſ. 2. 13. God (ſaith he) hath from the beginning choſen you to Salvation; that is, he had before-hand, even from the beginning, ſet his love upon you, ſo that all that ſinful eſtate you have ſince run into, ſhould be no prejudice nor dammage to you. And it comes in here, as if that a Company of Men, whom a King or a Prince loveth, or Children whom a Father's heart is ſet upon, are permitted, and let alone, to run into the higheſt rebellion, to do as evil as they could, as the Phraſe is, Jer. 3. So that by the Law they are dead Men, Men undone, Men of death and condemnation, there is no hope for them: [But,] but that the King, as he is merciful in his Nature, and ſo apt to pardon any; ſo beſides, he hath had his Heart ſet upon it, and it is but his deſign, to ſhew his Princely Grace the more in pardoning them, and advancing them to higher dignities upon it.

But God,] And God cometh in alſo here (beſides what I mentioned in the laſt Diſcourſe) to ſhew, that all Salvation is from him, he is the ſole Author and Founder of it; as in Rom. 9. 16. It is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that ſheweth mercy: So here, But God that is rich in Mercy.

I came in the next place (for the opening of the words) to ſhew you the difference between Mercy, and Love, and Grace; for you have all thoſe three in theſe three firſt Verſes. Love is a deſire to communicate good unto us, ſimply conſidered as we are Creatures; but Mercy reſpecteth us, as we are fallen into Sin and Miſery, as we are dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes: And then that of Grace, (as I ſhall open in its due place) it adds but this, a freeneſs unto both: Love and Mercy freely beſtowed, that is called Grace in either.

Alſo for explication's ſake, I ſhewed you, why the Apoſtle doth not content himſelf to name Mercy only, or Love only, as the cauſe of our Salvation, but that he addeth Love to Mercy. I gave you two reaſons of it, in a word: If he had named Mercy only, that reſpecting Miſery, it might be thought, that that would but relieve us out of Miſery: But becauſe he mentioneth not only a deliverance out of the Miſery we lay in by Nature, (which Mercy doth) but the higheſt advancement beſides, to ſit together with Chriſt in heavenly Places; therefore he mentioneth Love. It comes in likewiſe, in the ſecond place, to intend and make Mercy the greater; for when Mercy cometh out of Love, and not ſimply out of a virtue of Mercy; if a Father be of a merciful diſpoſition, he will pity any one out of a virtue of Mercy in him, but he will pity his Son out of Love.

Then again, for the further explication and underſtanding of this, I told you, That of the two, the main and the primitive cauſe is Love; for ſo, if you obſerve it, the Text implies: God being rich in Mercy, (ſaith he) for his great Love: It is reſolved into Love. To explain this,

In the firſt place, you may obſerve here, That God's being merciful is mentioned but as his Nature and Diſpoſition, which may be wrought upon; but Love comes in, as having paſt an act of his Will, ſet upon us. For, my Brethren, had God had never ſo much Mercy in his Nature, never ſo much goodneſs and lovingneſs as he hath, yet if it had not been a full act of Love, through his Will pitch'd upon us, we had never been the better. Our Salvation doth not only depend upon Mercy, but upon Love; and not only upon the Love of his Nature, but upon an Act of Love, a Love ſet upon us with his Will and Heart. It is not an indefinite diſpoſition of Mercy in him, as it is ſaid of the Kings of Iſrael, that they were merciful Kings; but that which our Salvation depends upon, (tho upon that alſo,) is this; That an act of Love hath determined this Mercy, engaged this Mercy. Serm. XI.

which

I ſhewed you likewiſe, that it is rather an act of love, than of mercy. That firſt act of Election, it is indeed to ſhew mercy, but not ſo properly out of mercy.

Then thirdly; Love is ſaid to be the cauſe for this reaſon alſo, becauſe that love is it which directs mercy to the Perſons; love ſingles out the Perſons, and ſo they become Veſſels of mercy.

The next thing I explained and obſerved in the laſt Diſcourſe was, the circumſtance of Time here. He doth not ſay, God that doth love us, as he that began to love us when he firſt called us, or loveth us now he hath called us; but, God that hath loved us. I gave you a like Scripture for it, in Jer. 31. 3. I loved thee with an everlaſting Love. Which, I told you, hath two things principally in it, and both are intended here in this [hath loved us,] which is a love before Converſion, and cauſeth Converſion: 1. For the time, for the beginning of it, it is a love from everlaſting. And, 2. It is a love continued all the while, from everlaſting, even till the time of one's calling.

The laſt thing I came to in the laſt Diſcourſe, is this, [Us,] Hath loved us. He hath not only put forth an act or purpoſe of love at random, indefinitely, that he would love ſome of us, or that he would love Mankind; but [us] determinatively. As it was not meerly the natural diſpoſition of love and mercy in God, that was the cauſe of our Salvation, but an act of his Will put forth; ſo is it not an act of meer velliety, or an indefinite act, that he would ſave ſome, but it is [us,] he reſolved upon the Perſons whom he would ſave, he reſolved upon them diſtinctly and nakedly: loved them diſtinctly, by name; and nakedly, that is, loved their Perſons, without the conſideration of any qualification whatſoever.

And ſo now I have done the explanation of theſe words, in a plain and brief manner. I reſerved two things to be handled, (which I ſhall now diſpatch); The one is, the Greatneſs of this Love; and the other is, the Riches of this Mercy.

I made Obſervations from the words thus explained in the laſt Diſcourſe. There is only one Obſervation, which I ſhall at this time handle, and that is this:

That the foundation of our Salvation, it is an act of love, it is out of love: For the Love (ſaith he) wherewith he loved us. I ſhewed it in the laſt Diſcourſe, in diſtinction from mercy; that it was rather an act of love (the primitive act) than of mercy: which I will not now proſecute. My Brethren, Election, it is an act of love. I mention this, becauſe it is fundamental to what ſhall afterwards follow. The Apoſtle in the former Chapter, had expreſs'd Election to be an act of God's Will: Being predeſtinated according to the counſel of his Will, ſaith he, v. 11. And he calls it alſo an act of God's good pleaſure, According to his good pleaſure, that he purpoſed in himſelf. So verſ. 5, and 9. But to take their hearts the more, when he comes to make application to them of the Miſery they lay in, he terms it now an act of love. To make it an act of his Will and good pleaſure, it was but a more general thing; for by his Will he worketh all things, his Will is pitched upon every thing; and that it is an act of his good-pleaſure, imports rather the Sovereignty and Majeſty of God, out of which he did it, and aiming at himſelf therein: but Love is a condeſcending virtue. When a King will ſpeak as a King, he ſaith, it is his pleaſure, and he makes it an act of his Will; but when he calls it Love, his Majeſty comes down then. Love doth import not ſo much the Sovereignty of God in it, (tho it was joined with an act of Sovereignty, aiming at his own Glory,) but it imports eſpecially a reſpecting us in it; for amare, is to communicate good things for the ſake of him we love, rather than our own. Now I find, that Election is eſpecially expreſs'd unto us by Love; indeed the one is put for the other uſually in the Scripture, both in the Old Teſtament, and in the New. Take the Old Teſtament, when Obſerv.

Serm. XI.

he would ſay, he had choſen Jacob, and refuſed Eſau, how doth he expreſs it? Jacob have I loved, ſaith he. So in Rom. 9. 13. it is quoted out of Mal. 1. 2. And afterwards, when he cometh to ſpeak of the choice of the People of Iſrael, and of their Fathers, both Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, in Deut. 10. 14, 15. how doth he expreſs it? Behold, (ſaith he) the Heaven, and the Heaven of Heavens is the Lord's; the Earth alſo, with all that therein is: He had choice enough: Only (ſaith he) the Lord had a delight in thy Fathers, to love them; and he choſe their Seed after them: That is, as the Septuagint there hath it, He choſe to love them. Mark it, he expreſſeth his choice, and ſets it out by thoſe ſweet words, Love, yea, and a delight to love them; a love unto their Perſons, and a delight in that love. So you ſhall find, that Love and choice go together; as Pſal. 47. 5. and Pſal. 78. 68. He choſe the Tribe of Judah, the Inhabitants of Mount Sion, which he loved. And thus in the New Teſtament alſo, when our Lord and Saviour Chriſt, who was elected by his Father as he was Mediator, as we are, as you have it in 1 Pet. 1. 20. where it is ſaid, that he was fore-ordained before the foundation of the World; how doth Chriſt himſelf expreſs it? In John 17. 24. ſpeaking of the Glory given him, (therefore he ſpeaks of Predeſtination,) he ſaith, Thou lovedſt me before the foundation of the World; that is, Thou gaveſt me this Glory by a choice, by an Election; and you ſee, he expreſſeth it by Love. And, Rom. 11. 28. They are beloved according to Election. You ſhall therefore not only find Election called the Counſel of God, and the Purpoſe of God, and the Will of God; but Grace joined to it, Purpoſe and Grace both put together: So in 2 Tim. 1. 9. He hath ſaved us, and called us, according to his own Purpoſe and Grace, before the World began. And you have a more expreſs place for it, in Rom. 11. 5. where it is called the Election of Grace, or Love, (for Grace there is taken for free Love,) the Soul, the Spirit of Election lies in that act; and therefore we are ſaid to be choſen in Chriſt, which is all one and to ſay, we are loved in Chriſt; for to love is to chuſe.

And ſo now I have diſpatched that Obſervation, which is previous to what I am to deliver afterwards.

Now I come to to thoſe two things, which I ſaid I reſerved the laſt Diſcourſe, to be now handled; for there is nothing remaining to be ſpoken to in this 4*th* verſe, but firſt, to ſhew you the Greatneſs of this Love; and ſecondly, the Riches of this Mercy: Two of the greateſt Subjects, if one would handle them as Subjects, that is, in the whole compaſs of all that might be ſaid of them, that the whole Book of God affords. Now where is it that I muſt begin? The truth is, Riches of Mercy offers it ſelf firſt in the words; but we muſt give the prerogative to the Greatneſs of Love, becauſe, as you heard before, it is the foundation of Mercy. Riches of Mercy are brought in here as ſubſerving his Love, commanded and diſpoſed of by his Love; for the reaſon why God lays forth Riches of Mercy to theſe and theſe Perſons, it is becauſe he loveth them. So then that Stock, or that Treaſury of Love, which the Will of God was pleaſed to ſet apart firſt, for his Elect and Children, and lay up in his own Heart, this is that which I am firſt to ſpeak unto, you ſee it is in the Text. And let me ſay this of it, we can never ſearch enough into this, we may pry too much into the Wiſdom and Counſels of God, to ſeek a reaſon of his doings; but we can never pry enough into the Love of God: It is a Sea of Honey, (as one calls it) and if in wading into it, we be ſwallowed up of it, and drowned therein, it is no matter. And let me likewiſe profeſs this about it, That of all Subjects elſe, it is of that nature, as cannot be ſet out by diſcourſe, or in a rational way. It is part of the meaning (I think) of that of the Apoſtle, in Eph. 3. 18. where he calleth it, a Love that ſurpaſſeth knowledg, that is, the humane way of knowledg, by way of Reaſon and Diſcourſe, whereby we infer and gather one thing out of another in a rational way; and ſo come to the knowledg of them. But it is more fully the meaning of that in Rom. 5. 5. The Love of God is [ſhed abroad] in our Hearts, by the Holy-Ghoſt, which is given unto us. He doth not ſay, The love of God, which he hath told us of, and ſpoken ſo great things of in the Scriptures, (and indeed you ſhall upon ſearch find the Scripture to ſpeak little of it): But he ſaith, The Love of God,

Serm. XI.

God, which is ſhed abroad in our Hearts: So as he doth not ſpeak of a Love, which a Man's Underſtanding, by collecting one thing out of another, or by laying one thing to another, (as Reaſon, yea, ſpiritual Reaſon, in other things uſeth to proceed,) and ſo may argue to be great: but the way to apprehend it is, by its being ſhed abroad, and the report and taſte of it the Holy-Ghoſt makes. As the ſeat of God's love is his own Heart, his Will; ſo the receptacle thereof is not ſo much the Underſtanding, as the Heart of a Chriſtian. The Conſcience of a Man is the proper receptacle of Chriſt's Blood, when it ſprinkleth it from evil Works; but the Heart of a Man is the ſeat of God's Love, to be ſhed abroad there. And to this purpoſe he addeth, By the Holy-Ghoſt, as being ſolely, and immediatly his work; for he in one moment can ſpeak more to the pooreſt Man of the loweſt and meaneſt underſtanding, of the greatneſs of God's Love, than all that the Scripture ſays of it, or than all that all the Divines in the World out of Scripture can ſay of it. The truth is, all Diſcourſes of God's Love are in themſelves dull and flat, compared with what repreſentations and impreſſions thereof the Holy-Ghoſt makes. As take an excellent Song, when it is ſet in Prick-Song, what a dull thing is it, to what the Muſick it ſelf is? My Brethren, ſo is it here. Therefore ſtill you ſhall meet with ſuch expreſſions as theſe in the Scripture: Come, ſee, and taſte, how good the Lord is: And, If ye have taſted how good the Lord is, &c. For the greatneſs of God's Love, it is only known that way.

Now to ſhape out a little the Subject I am to ſpeak unto; for it is a great Point, and would ſwell into many Sermons, if I ſhould ſpeak all that, which in a diſcourſive way may be ſaid of it: Neither do I purpoſe now to ſay all that may affect your Hearts, and take you with this love. No, the thing that I muſt keep to is this, to ſpeak of that Love born to us before Calling, before Quickning, as it is the Cauſe of our Salvation, I ſay, of the Greatneſs of it in that reſpect, which is proper to what the Text here ſaith; and confine my ſelf meerly to ſuch things as are held forth within the compaſs of theſe three Verſes.

The firſt whereof is this: It is great in reſpect of the ſubject and riſe of it; it is God that loveth us, and it is called, His Love: For if you mark it, there is that little particle in the Text, [But God] ſaith he, he puts an emphaſis upon that; and likewiſe, His Love, ſaith he, wherewith he loved us..

Secondly; The Greatneſs of it may be ſet forth, by what may be taken from the Perſons mentioned here, upon whom this love is pitch'd, [Us]: And that either ſimply conſidered in our Perſons, nakedly; or elſe ſecondly, in the condition that we were in, that we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes: Even (ſaith he) when we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes: That tho he did not make choice firſt of us, when we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, yet he ordered in his Decrees, that that ſhould be our condition, to ſhew forth the more love. The Apoſtle puts an emphaſis upon it, both upon [us,] not others, and upon [us,] in that condition, dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes.

Thirdly; From what thoſe words will afford, [The Love wherewith he loved us,] which to me holds forth theſe three things: Here is firſt an act of love, [loved us:] Here is the Time, and that is the Time paſt, [hath loved us:] And here is, thirdly, an intimation of a ſpecial kind of love, [His Love wherewith he loved us.] He contents not himſelf to ſay, For his Love, or, for that he loved us; but you ſee he doubles it, For his Love wherewith he loved us.

Fourthly, and the greateſt of all ſhewn before Calling, is in giving Chriſt. The Scripture runs moſt upon that, and indeed inſtanceth in almoſt nothing elſe, for that is enough. But you will ſay, this is not in the Text: Yes, it runs all along, through every verſe mentioned: For he ſaith, We are quickned with Chriſt, and in Chriſt, who therefore out of that Love was given unto death for us, as chap. 1. 19. And we are raiſed up together with him, and we ſit together in heavenly Places in him.

Laſtly; Here are the fruits of this Love, which, you ſee, are quickning, raiſing up with Chriſt, ſitting together in heavenly places in him.

And theſe, I ſay, are the Particulars, which I ſhall confine my ſelf unto, as thoſe which the Text ſuggeſteth.

Let

Serm. XI.

Let us begin firſt with the ſubject, and riſe, and original of this Love: He loved: But God, for this great Love wherewith [He] loved us. My Brethren, all that I ſay of this, is but this, That if God will fall in love, and is pleaſed and delighted to ſet his love on Creatures, how great muſt that Love be! And whomſoever's lot it falls to, they ſhall have enough of it. God that is infinite, hath an infinite Love in his Heart to beſtow, and whoever it be that his Will is pleaſed to caſt that love upon, of whom it will be ſaid, He hath loved us, it muſt be a great, yea, an infinite Love. The Fountain of Love in God, being, as was ſaid, his goodneſs: for it is in all rational Creatures, that which makes them love, it is a goodneſs of diſpoſition in them: The fountain of Love, as was ſaid, is goodneſs, and ſo far as any are good, ſo far are they apt and prone to love others; and according to the proportion of the goodneſs, ſo will the love be alſo, and accordingly the greatneſs of love in any. Now God, he is ſo good, as he is ſaid only to be good, There is none good but God, Mat. 19. 17. that is, with ſuch a tranſcendency of goodneſs; and therefore anſwerably thereunto, God is ſaid to be Love; ſo John 3. As none is good, ſo there is none that loves but he, that is, in compariſon of him. The goodneſs and kindneſs in God, yea, and all the goodneſs that is in him, (as v. 7.) it moved him to love ſome-body beſides himſelf, that he might communicate his goodneſs to them: And ſo his Will reſolved to love ſuch and ſuch Perſons, for he would not communicate his goodneſs to thoſe whom he did not love; rational wiſe Men will be ſure to love thoſe whom they do communicate much to, and ſo did God. He alſo reſolving to communicate all his goodneſs to ſome, reſolves alſo to love them firſt, and his love ſhall be proportionable to his intent of the communication of his goodneſs, and that to the greatneſs of that goodneſs in him. He meant to communicate his goodneſs to the Creature to the utmoſt, (for if he will do it, he will do it as God, or he will not do it at all, he will ſhew himſelf to be the chiefeſt good,) why then he will love them to the utmoſt, and love them like the Great God to.

There is this difference between God's loving and ours: We muſt ſee a goodneſs in the Creature that we love, to draw out love from us; but all the love that is in him, he had it in his own power, to ſet it where he would, Exod. 33. I will be gracious unto whom I will be gracious. We can but love ſo far as our love is drawn out, our Will doth not intend love to the height, unleſs it runs out in ſome natural way; but ſo can God ſay, I will have ſuch and ſuch, and I will bear ſuch and ſo great an affection to them: And when he doth ſo, his Will ſhall not only cauſe him to communicate all his goodneſs to them, but cauſe him alſo to do it with the higheſt love, with rejoycing over them, with delighting to love: So you have the Phraſe in that place of Deut. 10. 14. Men may and do do good to others, beyond the extent of their love, for other ends, a Man's Will may cauſe him to communicate good to others, beyond what the proportion of love is in his heart: But it is not ſo in God: as is his goodneſs, ſo is his love; therefore God is good to Iſrael, and he loveth Iſrael, it is all one, as in Pſal. 73. 1.

In one word then, will you go and take the Riſe and the Original of Love in God, the Genealogy of it, and ſo by that the Proportion of it?

Firſt, his Goodneſs putteth him upon communicating himſelf, and then he loveth thoſe proportionably unto whom he communicateth himſelf; and ſo he ſets himſelf to love, ſingles out the Perſons: This you have in v. 7. In his kindneſs towards us, Tit. 3. 4, 5. When he ſhews the Cauſes of our Salvation, as he doth here, he begins firſt with the ſame word uſed v. 7. a goodneſs, a ſweetneſs, a pleaſantneſs of Nature in God, an heroical diſpoſition of being good unto others, from whence ariſeth a Phylanthropeia, a love to Mankind, which tho there it be expreſt indefinitely, yet as here and elſewhere, he pitcheth upon particular Perſons. Or to give perhaps a more clear place for it, Exod. 33. 19. when as God there would expreſs his heart to Moſes, and intimate to him that he loved him, and how dearly he valued him, (and therefore this Moſes his choice is mentioned as an inſtance of the Grace of Election, in Rom. 9.) what ſaith God to him?

I will make all my Goodneſs paſs before thee: So he begins to him; his ſcope was, to ſhew what love he did bear unto Moſes, by the effect of it, and that proportioned to its original in God, and he would have his heart taken with it; how doth he begin? I have, ſaith he, all goodneſs in me, and I mean to communicate it unto thee: And what follows? I will be gracious unto whom I will be gracious, (he pitcheth upon Perſons, as in Moſes's Inſtance appears, and love upon thoſe Perſons:) And thoſe, ſaith he, whom thus I reſolve to be gracious unto, they ſhall have all this goodneſs; I have caſt out of my Goodneſs, my Love and Grace on thee, and therefore I will cauſe all my Goodneſs to paſs before thee: He that hath my love, he hath all my goodneſs; and the riſe of all is that his goodneſs, and the manifeſtation of it. Now as Love thus ariſeth from Goodneſs, and the deſire of commemorating of it; ſo Mercy ariſeth from Love: for what follows? I will be merciful unto whom I will be merciful. Firſt, he ſays, I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious; there it is taken for favour and acceptation freely: And if they be fallen into Miſery, I will be merciful, my Mercy ſhall do as great wonders as my Love. In Eph. 3. 18. he prays, that they may be able to comprehend what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; and to know the Love of Chriſt, which paſſeth knowledg: And what follows? And be filled with all the fulneſs of God: Why? For whoever God hath pitch'd this love upon, all the fulneſs that is in God is coming upon that Soul; for it is the love of the Great God, it is a love proportionable to his Goodneſs, they have and ſhall have all his Goodneſs, all his Fulneſs.

To cauſe us therefore to ſet a value on this: Of all diſpoſitions, good Nature, (as we call it) and Love, in whomſoever it is, is the beſt, and God himſelf values it moſt as in himſelf; he takes more unkindly the deſpiſing of his Love, than he doth the ſlighting of his Wiſdom. And Love, in whomſoever it is, it is the moſt predominant of all diſpoſitions; whatſoever is good, and whatſoever is excellent in any, Love hath the command of it; and ſo it hath in God. All his Goodneſs, the whole Train of it, muſt paſs before Moſes, becauſe God had loved him, and reſolved to be gracious to him. So that now, look how great the great God is, ſo great his love muſt needs be; for, as I may ſo ſpeak with reverence, it commandeth all in this great God. In John 10. 29. ſaith Chriſt, My Sheep, no Man ſhall pluck them out of my hand; for, ſaith he, it is the Will of my Father that gave them me, that they ſhall be ſaved; and he is greater than all. He hath ſet ſuch a love upon them, that all the Greatneſs in this great God is intereſted in it. It hath commanded, and ſet on work all in God; it hath ſet on work all the Perſons, Father, Son, and Holy-Ghoſt, to bear ſeveral Offices in our Salvation. It hath ſet on work all Attributes, Mercy, Juſtice, Power, Wiſdom Wrath it ſelf to fall upon our Lord and Saviour Chriſt, his only Son; why? becauſe Love is the moſt predominant, where ever it is, it commandeth all; and that which commandeth all that is in God, muſt needs be great. In other Diſpoſitions, he ſhews forth but one or two Attributes: if he throw Men into Hell, he ſhews his Juſtice, and the Power of his Wrath; but where he loveth, he draweth forth all. The Poets themſelves ſaid, that Amor Deum gubernat, that Love governed God. And, as Nazianzen well ſpeaks, this Love of God, this dulcis Tyrannus, this ſweet Tyrant, did overcome him, when he was upon the Croſs: There were no Cords could have held him to the Whipping-Poſt, but thoſe of Love; no Nails have faſtened him to the Croſs, but thoſe of Love. And hence (to confirm this Notion more to you, that Love is the predominant thing that commandeth all,) you ſhall find, that God is every Attribute of his, he is his own Wiſdom, his own Juſtice, his own Power, &c. Yet you have him peculiarly called Love. It is not ſaid any where of God that I know of, that he is Wiſdom, or Juſtice, or Power, &c. Chriſt indeed, he is called the Wiſdom and Power of God, that is, manifeſtatively, as he is Mediator. It's true indeed, all God's Attributes are himſelf; but yet Love in a more peculiar manner carries the Title of him: God is Love, ſaith he, in 1 John 4. 8. And he ſaith it again, v. 16. Let us expound the words a little, becauſe we are now upon them: Beloved, ſaith he, v. 7. Love is of God: He is the fountain of it, and if the Fountain will love, if he that is Love it ſelf will love, how great will that

Love

Serm. XI.

Love be! We uſe to argue thus, that God is therefore the higheſt Good, becauſe whatſoever is good in any Creature, is eminently found in him. Truly thus doth the Apoſtle argue: Love, ſaith he, is of God: All the love that is in all Creatures, in all Angels and Men, that is in the heart of Chriſt himſelf, it is all of God, he is the fountain of it; therefore whoſoever hath his love, his love from whom all love is, it muſt needs be a great and an infinite love. As the Apoſtle ſaith, Ye need not be written to love one another, ye are taught of God ſo to do: It is Nature in you, ſo it is Nature in God. Now what follows in the next words? Love is of God, and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God; he that loveth not, knoweth not God. It is ſuch a Phraſe as this: If you be ignorant of what is the greateſt excellency of any one, you do not know him; the Man is thus and thus, this is his character, and his chiefeſt character, if you do not know that, you do not know the Man: So ſaith he of God, God is love, and there is no Man that doth know him, but he finds ſo much love in him towards him, that he muſt needs love others; and he that doth not love, knows him not, for love is his Genius. And as to love one another, is the great commandment that Jeſus Chriſt gave us; ſo for God to love us, it is the greateſt and moſt eminent diſpoſition in the great God. Will you have a definition of God? Why, ſaith the Apoſtle, God is love; and he contents not himſelf to have ſaid it once, but he ſaith it again, v. 16. Now then, great muſt needs that love be, which is his love. Mark that emphaſis: For [his] great love wherewith he loved us.

It is great alſo in this reſpect, as in God, (for ſtill I am arguing from its being in him, as he is the ſubject of it,) becauſe there is no other riſe of his love, (beſides that of his goodneſs mentioned) but his love; his own love and goodneſs is a riſe to it ſelf. All love in us is of God, but all love in himſelf muſt needs be much more of himſelf; this argues it great, where ever he pitcheth it: For if he loved us for any thing in us, it is too narrow; for the truth is, ſo he loves all creatures, ſo far as there is any goodneſs in them, ſo far he loves them; but that he ſhould love his Saints thus, it would be too narrow, too ſcanty a love. He loved Adam but thus, plainly; it was but a providential love, wherewith he loved Adam, take him in that firſt eſtate. God ſaw all that was in the Creatures to be good, and he loved them; ſo he ſaw that which was in Adam to be good, and that was the cauſe he loved him. But when love in the great God is the predominant thing, that which commandeth all in God, when this ſhall be a fountain to it ſelf, then it will overflow, it knoweth no bounds, nothing is ſo diffuſive. It is a ſaying of Bernard, and it is an exceeding good one: 'That God (ſaith he) 'loveth his Children, he hath it not elſewhere, from any thing out 'of himſelf; but it is himſelf from whence that love riſeth, his own love is the 'ſpring of his own love, and ſo is the meaſure of the extent of it, and that 'knows no meaſure. And therefore he muſt needs love ſtrongly, ſaith he, when 'he is not ſaid ſo much to have love, as that he is love. And therefore this love, 'which is the fountain of love it ſelf, how great muſt it be!

Again, the end of his love, it is but to ſhew love, it is the great end of it, and ſo large as his end is, ſo large muſt his love be, and his deſire to love. Appetitus finis eſt infinitus: What a Man loveth for an end, he loveth infinitely. That in the Ages to come he might ſhew the exceeding Riches of his Grace, ſaith v. 7. that is, of his free love; there is his end. As he hath no reaſon why he loveth, but becauſe he willeth; ſo he hath no higher end to love, but becauſe he will love, and becauſe he doth love, and becauſe he will ſhew love. If ſo great a Love will make it ſelf its end, how unſatisfied will that Love be! And ſo much for the Subject of it.

I will only add this: Do but only take a ſcantling of it, by the Love that is in the Mediator, Jeſus Chriſt, who is God-Man. That ye may know, (ſaith the Apoſtle,) the breadth, and length, the depth, and height of the love of Chriſt, which paſſeth knowledg. What need I ſtand to ſet out that Love to you? It drew him from Heaven to the Womb, and from the Womb to the Croſs; and it kept him upon the Croſs, when any great Spirit in the World would have been provoked to have come down, it was his love that held him there. But now that Love that was in the Heart of the Man Chriſt Jeſus, and as he was Mediator, is leſs than God's love. My Father, ſaith he, (and he ſpeaks as Mediator) is greater than I; and ſo alſo is his Father's love greater than his: And yet if there were infinite Worlds made of Creatures loving, they would not have ſo much love in them, as was in the heart of that Man Chriſt Jeſus. All love is of God, ſo John ſaith; and the truth is, all the love that Chriſt had was of God, he ſpake to his heart to love us: Thine they were, ſaith he, and thou gaveſt them me; and therefore he loved them. Great therefore muſt this love be, becauſe it is the love of God; it is [his] Love.

God's

I ſhould alſo add under this Head, that as it is great in it ſelf, becauſe it is the love of the great God, ſo therefore it is greatly endeared to us: For love, be it never ſo ſmall, is always heightned by the greatneſs of the Perſon that loves us. The greatneſs of the Perſon doth not heighten Mercy, it ſhews a Nobleneſs in him indeed, as for a King to be merciful; but for a King to love, this is a heightning, an endearing of it to us, for Majeſtas and Amor do ſeldom convenire, Majeſty and Love ſeldom meet, becauſe it is a coming down, a debaſing of Majeſty. But I ſhall not ſpeak much to this Head, becauſe I am not to ſpeak things that may endear the love of God to you, but as it is the cauſe of Salvation. Only I will give you that Scripture in a word; Pſal. 113. 6. He humbleth himſelf, to behold the things that are in Heaven, and in Earth. Why is God ſaid to humble himſelf in this? Is it a ſtooping and condeſcending in God, to take all things into his omniſcient knowledg, and to guide and govern the World? Truly he were not God, if he ſhould not do it; if any Creature ſhould eſcape, any motion of a Fly ſhould eſcape the knowledg of the great God, he were not God; yet he calls it an humbling, a condeſcending. O my Brethren, what is it then for him to condeſcend to love!

The ſecond thing in the Text here, by which the greatneſs of this Love is ſet out to us, it is the Perſons whom he loveth, [Us] ſaith he. And this ſetteth out the greatneſs of his Love to us, by way of endearment, which therefore I ſhall more briefly paſs over. He loveth us, not others; that is clearly the Apoſtle's ſcope. We were by nature Children of Wrath, as well as others; but God, who is rich in Mercy, loved [us,] not others, and out of that Love he hath quickned [us,] others are not quickned; the whole World lies in Wickedneſs, but we know we are of God; and a few are quickned, it was becauſe he loved us; a ſpecial Love, that argues greatneſs too.

To ſet out the Greatneſs of it in this reſpect, and to endear it to you:

In the firſt place, the great God, when he meant to love, he did not go and ſay, I will love ſome-body, or I will love indefinitely; no, but he pitched upon the Perſons. That way of the Arminians doth exceedingly detract from the love of God, (viz.) to make him a Lover of Mankind, and that that is the thing out of the conſideration whereof he gave his Son; and that he loves them in common, and loves them indefinitely; and if they believe ſo, God will then ſhew love to them. God might delight himſelf in Heaven, tho Men had never been ſaved; he might there have upbraided them with their unthankfulneſs. No, God goes another way, he directly ſets up the very Perſons whom he meant to love, and he lays forth all the contrivances of his Love, having them diſtinctly in his eye; as a Father, that lays out Portions for every one of his Children by name, legally and diſtinctly, hath them in his eye; ſo doth God. I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy. That ſame [on whom] implies, that it is not indefinite. I will only give you that Obſervation, upon comparing two places, that are both known, and I will bring them both together by parallelling of them. Saith Chriſt, in John 13. 18. I know whom I have choſen: The parallel place directly to it is in 2 Tim. 2. 19. God knoweth who are his; that is, diſtinctly knoweth them, he had them in his eye, viewed them, and under the viewing of the Perſons, on them he would beſtow all, did lay the whole Plot, all the Contrivements of that Salvation he intended. Which he did to endear his Love the more, having the Perſons to whom in his eye; he did not do it indefinitely, that he would love Mankind, and love ſome in an indefinite way. Dare any Man ſay, that he did not know the Man Chriſt Jeſus, and pitch particularly upon that Man thatwas in the Womb of the Virgin? Did he only ſay, I will have a Mediator ſomewhere out of Mankind, fall as it will? No, he did ordain that Man: So Acts 17. 31. And he was fore-ordained, ſaith 1 Pet. 1. 21. that very Man that is now in Heaven, that individual Nature, and no other. And ſo he did do with the Members likewiſe: For there is the ſame reaſon of both.

Serm. XI.

But then ſecondly; As his love is thus ſet out to us, that it was not indefinitely pitched, but as having all the Perſons in his eye, and having them all in view; ſo by this alſo, that he hath not pitch'd it upon every Body. This is diſtinct from the former; for an indefinite is not knowing whom he pitched it upon. Now as he knew whom he pitched upon, ſo he hath pitch'd but upon ſome, not on every one. He might have pitch'd upon all, but the Text ſaith otherwiſe, [us,] not others. So then here is another thing that ſets forth this Love, it is a ſpecial Love, and that greatneth it alſo. My Brethren, if God would love, it was fit he ſhould be free. It is a ſtrange thing, that you will not allow God that which Kings and Princes have the prerogative of, and you allow it them: they will have Favourites whom they will love, and will not love others; and yet Men will not allow God that liberty, but he muſt either love all Mankind, or he muſt be cruel and unjuſt. The ſpecialneſs of his Love greatneth it, endeareth it to us. You ſhall find almoſt all along the Bible, that when God would expreſs his Love, he doth it with a ſpeciality to his own Elect, which he illuſtrates by the contrary done to others. In 1 Theſſ. 5. 9. he is not content to ſay, He hath appointed us to obtain Salvation, but he illuſtrateth it by its contrary, He hath not appointed us unto Wrath, but to obtain Salvation: Not to Wrath, for it might have been our Lot, for he hath appointed others to it. In Iſa. 41. 9. Thou art my Servant, I have choſen thee. And he doth not content himſelf to ſay ſo only, for if he had ſaid no more, it implies only, that he had taken them out of the heap of others that lay afore him; but he adds, I have choſen thee, and not caſt thee away; that is, I have not dealt with thee as I have done with others. And you ſhall find frequently in the Scripture, when he mentioneth his choice of ſome Perſons, he holdeth up likewiſe on purpoſe his refuſing of others. When he ſpeaks of Jacob, and would expreſs his Love, and ſet it out to him-ward, he ſaith, Jacob have I loved; that might have been enough for Jacob, but he ſets it out with a foil, Eſau have I hated. And in Pſal. 78. 67. when he ſpeaks of an Election out of the Tribes, he contents not himſelf to ſay, he choſe Judah, but he puts in the rejection, the preterition at leaſt of Joſeph: He refuſed the Tabernacle of Joſeph, and choſe not the Tribe of Ephraim: But he choſe the Tribe of Judah, the Mount Sion which he loved. So among the Diſciples, how doth Chriſt ſet out his Love to them? John 6. 70. Have not I choſen you twelve, and one of you is a Devil? And, chap. 13. 18. I ſpeak not of you all, I know whom I have choſen. And, v. 19. I have choſen you out of the World. And, chap. 17. 9. I pray not for the World, but for them which thou haſt given me, &c. I will give you but one eminent place, which indeed concerus us in theſe times. In 2 Theſſ. 2. 11. ſpeaking of the times of Popery, and the Apoſtacy thereunto, he ſaith, God ſhall ſend among them ſtrong deluſion, that they ſhould believe that Lie, that great Lie of Popery; and among other things why he mentions this, what uſe doth he improve this to, his hardening the Popiſh and Apoſtate World, that would not receive the Truth in the love thereof? That they all might be damned, v. 12. But that, in v. 13. to ſet out his Love to his Elect, But we are bound always to give thanks to God for you, Brethren, beloved of the Lord, becauſe God hath from the beginning choſen you to Salvation, tho he hath done, and will do thus with others. The thing I quote it for is this, that he ſetteth off, inhanceth the greatneſs of God's Love to them, in regard of the ſpecialneſs of it, that he hath not dealt with them as with others: Thanks be given to God always for you. Now this concerns us, for we live in the Times of Popery; the Chriſtian World began to warp towards it then, and we and our Fore-fathers have lived in the height and ruff of it. Now what ſaith Rev. 13. 8. (it is a parallel place) All that dwell upon the Earth ſhall worſhip the Beaſt, whoſe Names are not written in the Book of Life of the Lamb. You ſee the reaſon, why many Men now are ſet againſt Popery, and imbrace the Truth in the love thereof, and are ſavingly kept from believing that great Lie; and that theſe parts of Europe fell off from Antichriſt: It is becauſe God hath here multitudes of Men, whoſe Names are written in the Book of Life of the Lamb.

theſe

Now that God doth thus ſet his Love upon ſome, and not on others, of purpoſe to ſet off his Love, and make it greater, I'le give you a place for it, Deut. 10. 14. Behold, the Heaven, and the Heaven of Heavens is the Lord's thy God; the Earth alſo, with all that is therein: Only the Lord had a delight in thy Fathers, to love them; and he choſe their Seed after them, even you above all People, as it is this day. If I would chuſe, ſaith God, I have choice enough, I have the Heaven of Heavens, I could have fill'd all thoſe with Creatures; and there were Angels that fell, I might have choſen thoſe, and fixed them as Stars, never to have fallen, but I let multitudes of them tumble down to Hell: And I had all the Earth alſo, and all the Nations thereof, before me; but to ſhew my Love in a ſpecial manner, I have choſen you, above all the People of the World. So that, I ſay, the greatneſs of his Love is ſet off by the ſpecialneſs of it. Therefore he doth call the People of God upon all ſuch occaſions, to conſider the one with the other, that their Love of God may be greatned alſo. Rom. 11. 22. Behold, to them Severity, to thee Goodneſs: He would have them to eye both at once; why hath he ſhewn ſeverity to others? That his goodneſs to thee might the more appear. He calls them to behold it, Behold, ſaith he, to them ſeverity, and to thee goodneſs; the one ſetteth off the other.

And I might ſhew you, that God hath ſhewn his ſpecial Love, not only in chuſing you out of all the reſt of Mankind, and Angels, and the like, whom he refuſed, and threw down to Hell, but out of all Creatures poſſible, or which he could have made. Believe it, Brethren, there came up before him in his Idea, infinite millions of Worlds; all that his Power could make, were as makeable as we were, and he choſe us out of all that he could make, and not only out of all that he did make, or did decree to make.

And let me ſay this, The greatneſs of his love, in reſpect of the ſpecialty of it, is mightily enhanced to us, the Elect, in the latter Ages of the World, in this reſpect, That God had all the great Heroes of all Ages, that are paſs'd before him, the great Worthies of the World, all the wiſe, gallant, brave Men, in Rome, and Greece, and in all Nations, in all the Ages before; he might have fill'd up thy room in Heaven with ſome of thoſe; there were Men enough amongſt them, that might have had places in Heaven, and thou mighteſt have been let alone: No, all theſe could not win his love away from thee, that liveſt in this Age; he paſt over all them, ſuffered them to walk in their own ways, they are periſhed, they are gone; and, as the Phraſe is in 1 Pet. 1. 5. he hath reſerved Heaven for thee. The love of God to thee, I ſay, is not only magnified by thoſe out of whom he hath choſen thee in this Age, but in all Ages paſt; and when all Mankind ſhall meet together, it will infinitely greaten the love of God to that Remnant, whom he hath choſen out of all the reſt of the World. It is ſpecial Love, that makes his Love great Love.

I will give you this Obſervation, which I find in the Scripture: He calls his Church, his Love; ſo Cant. 5. 2. And he himſelf terms himſelf by the name of the Lover; ſo Rom. 8. 37. and Rev. 1. 5. It is his Title, and became his Stile. The Church is his Love, ſo as he hath no Love but the Church, it is not ſcattered to other Objects; therefore, Rom. 11. they are ſaid to be beloved according to Election, even as they are ſaid to be called according to his purpoſe. It is by way of diſtinction, noting out a ſpecialty of Love, that accompanies Election. Obſerv.

And then if you add to this, in the third place, the fewneſs of thoſe upon whom this Love is pitch'd, it doth exceedingly greaten it; for the fewer that all the Love of the great God is pitch'd upon, the greater the Love is. And this, in the Coherence, tho not in expreſs words, we find in the Text; for the reſt, whom theſe [Us] were called out of, were the World, the World lying in Wickedneſs: Among whom we had our Converſation, according to the courſe of this World. When God hath betaken himſelf to a few, to love them, O how will he love them! He will be ſure to loſe none of thoſe, becauſe they are ſo few. When a great rich Man ſhall have but one Heir, or a few in his Will, to divide his Goods amongſt; ſo when God, that is rich in Mercy, and hath great Love, ſhall have but a few to enjoy it, how will his Heart be intended more in Love! Iſa. 1. 29. Tho Iſrael be as the ſand of the Sea, (he ſpeaks of Election,) yet but a Remnant ſhall be ſaved.

Serm. XI.

And yet let me add this, in the fourth place, That he loveth every one whom he hath choſen, as if he loved none elſe; leſt any of his Children ſhould be jealous of it, he doth ſo dextrouſly manage his Love, that every one may ſay, None is loved as I am: As he ſaid, I am the greateſt of Sinners; ſo may every one of his Children ſay, I am the greateſt of beloved ones. So loving is God to thoſe he chuſeth, that all ſort of Natures ſpeak this of him, be they of what condition ſoever.

There is alſo this to be added to this Head, the condition wherein we were when we were called, even when we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes. But I will reſerve that, till it comes in order in the Text.

And ſo much now for that ſecond Head here in the Text, which doth illuſtrate the greatneſs of the Love of God, Us, and not others.

I come now to the third, which contains divers Particulars in theſe words, [For his great Love wherewith he loved us.] There is,

1. Acts of Love mentioned. There is,
2. The Time when he loved us, viz. before calling. And then,
3. There is a ſpecial kind of Love, His Love, wherewith he loved us.

To begin with the firſt.

There are two great acts of Love, which God hath ſhewn to us: the one was that from everlaſting; the other, when he gave Jeſus Chriſt. I will not ſpeak of the latter now, becauſe it comes in afterwards at v. 5. But let us take in that act of Love in God, which here certainly the Apoſtle hath a more ſpecial recourſe to, that is, his electing Love, which is eminently the Love, which this ſame [hath loved us] referreth to, and which is the foundation of all the reſt, and let me in a word or two, ſhew you the greatneſs of this.

Firſt; Let me ſay this of it, that take it as it was an act in God, it can never be expreſs'd, what it was, nor how great it was. And therefore God himſelf (as I may ſo ſpeak with reverence) is fain to manifeſt that Love which he took up in his own heart, by degrees, and by effects. The Scripture it ſelf doth not know how to give you the greatneſs of that Love, which God did pitch upon us from everlaſting, but it's ſtill fain to do it by the effects. In 1 John 4. 9. when he had ſaid before, that God is Love, and therefore he hath thus greatly loved us; he is fain to fall upon ſpeaking of the effects of this Love: In this was [manifeſted] ſaith he, the Love of God towards us, becauſe that God ſent his only begotten Son into the World, that we might live through him. And, v. 10. Herein is love, (it is manifeſted in this) not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and ſent his Son, to be the propitiation for our Sins. And after he had ſpoken of his Love, what ſaith he? v. 12. No man hath ſeen God at any time; the meaning whereof, I think, is clearly this, as if he had ſaid, I am fain to tell you this Love of God, which I am diſcourſing of, meerly as it is manifeſted in the effects; for if you would have me ſpeak of it as it is in the fountain, it is not to be expreſs'd; for no Man hath ſeen God at any time, he is not able to know what Love is in the Heart of God, but at the ſecond hand: It may be illuſtrated by the gift of his Son, by making of us happy and glorious in Heaven, by his communication of himſelf to us there; but what, and how great it is, can never be expreſs'd. And I'le give you the reaſon, why I interpret it thus, becauſe in Exod. 33.19, &c. when God had ſpoken of his Love to Moſes, and ſaid, I will be gracious to thoſe to whom I will be gracious; he adds, No Man can ſee God, and live; for you cannot ſee into this Love, as it is in him.

And

Serm. XI.

And let me likewiſe ſay this ſecond thing of it: That that Love, which God did firſt take up, in the firſt act of it, it was as great as all acts tranſient for ever can expreſs, or vent to eternity; it is great Love therefore. I ſay, all the ways and acts that God doth to eternity, they are but meer expreſſions of that Love which he at firſt took up. Chriſt, and Heaven, and whatever elſe God ſhews you of Love and Mercy, in this World, or in the World to come, they all lay in the womb of that firſt act, of that Love he took up, wherewith he loved us. God was not drawn on to love us, as a Man is, who firſt begins to love one, and to ſet his heart upon him, and then his heart being engaged, he is drawn on beyond what he thought, and is enticed to do thus and thus, beyond what he firſt intended: No, God is not as Man herein, but as known unto God are all his Works, from the beginning of the World; ſo is all his Love that he meant to beſtow. And he took up Love enough at firſt, as he ſhould be venting of all ſort of ways that he hath taken to do it, unto eternity. For there is no new thing to God, if there ſhould be any one thought or degree of Love riſe up in his heart afterwards, which was not there at firſt, there ſhould be ſome new thing in God. And the reaſon is clear by this too, that he doth love out of his own Love, therefore his Love at the very firſt daſh, when he firſt began to love us, was as perfect as it will be when we are in Heaven. When Adam fell, God was not then drawn out to give his Son; no, we are not ſo to conceive it, God had all before him from everlaſting. And this, I ſay, is eaſily manifeſted; for the firſt act of his Love was the womb of his giving Chriſt, God ſo loved the World, that he gave his Son. Therefore the Scripture makes all the Grace that ever we ſhall have, to be given us at the very firſt, when God firſt loved us, 2 Tim. 1. 9. According to the Grace of God, which was given us afore the World began. And in Rom. 11. 29. ſpeaking of Election, (as he had done all along the Chapter before) he ſaith, The Gifts of God are without repentance. He gave all in the firſt act, when he firſt choſe us, and never repenteth of it. Election, I ſay, is expreſs'd to us by all that God means to beſtow upon us actually, to eternity, for ever and ever, which he hath prepared for them that love him; ſo the Phraſe is, 1 Cor. 2. 9. And v. 12. We have received the Spirit of God, that we may know the things which [are freely given] us of God; that is, given us, when he firſt ſet his heart upon us. My Brethren, when God firſt began to love you, he gave you all that he ever meant to give you in the lump, and eternity of time is that in which he is retailing of it out. I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious. And then all the goodneſs that he means to communicate to them, unto whom he is thus gracious, is a paſſing before them even unto eternity: Firſt, the giving of his Son, he came firſt in the Train; and then the giving of his Spirit, and then Grace and Glory; and whatever variation of Glory there is that is to come, it is all but the paſſing on of the Train, it is all but the communicating of that goodneſs of his, which he did ordain, the firſt time he thought on thee, to love thee.

There is an emphatical word in the Text, this word πολλὴν ἀγάπην, [great Love,] (as your great Criticks obſerve, and ſo the Septuagint conſtantly uſeth it,) which doth not ſignify that God loves us often, or that his Love is reiterated, but that he loves us with one entire Love. The Arminians would make the Love of God incompleat, and never compleat till one comes to die; but it is not a matter of that nature, it is not as Sanctification, that admits degrees in us, but it is of the nature of thoſe things that conſiſt in indiviſibili. I will give you that place for it, Pſal. 138. 8. The Lord, ſaith he, will perfect that which concerneth me. What God did intend to David from everlaſting at once, he is perfecting of it in him: There is, ſaith he, a great deal of Mercy yet to come, God hath not half-done with me, he will perfect that which concerns me, and he is perfecting of it to everlaſting; for ſo it follows, Thy Mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever. God hath ſet up (as I may ſo ſpeak) an Idea in his own heart, what a brave creature he will make thee, and how he will love thee, and all that ever he doth or will do, it is but a perfecting of that Idea, and of that Love wherewith he loved thee from everlaſting. The Mercies of God are ſaid to be many, you read often of them in the Plural; but his Love is ſaid to be but one, becauſe he loved us with one entire act, even from eternity.

In 2 Theſſ. 1. 11. it is fulfilling, πλήρωσιν.

Yea,

Serm. XI.

Yea, he took up ſo much Love at the firſt, that his Wiſdom, and all in him, is ſet on work to ſtudy aud contrive ways how to commend that Love. And therefore that word, in Tit. 3. 4. which we tranſlate Kindneſs, as it ſignifies benignitatem, ſo it ſignifies an heroical Study, as it were, in God, all ſort of ways to deſerve well of Mankind. It was ſo great, that he knew not how to expreſs it enough; for do but conſider a little with your ſelves: He began to love Adam upon the terms of a providential Love, but that was not good enough, he muſt have thoſe of Mankind he loves, to Heaven. He was not content with direct ways of loving, that is, to love them in their Head Jeſus Chriſt, as he loveth the Angels, and ſo no more ado; but to ſhew the more love, lets them fall into Sin, become enemies to him, and then ſends his Son. And, my Brethren, the truth is, this coſt Jeſus Chriſt dear, meerly that God might ſhew forth the more love; for we might not have been Sinners, and tho Sinners, yet we might have been ſaved without any ſatisfaction. But it was a digreſſion of Love, as I may truly call it, it was an excurſion of Love, that as Man being ſinful ſought out many inventions; ſo God being loving, he ſought out a world of inventions, for to ſhew his Love. Now do but think with your ſelves, that the very firſt thought of love that God had towards you, the very firſt glance of Love he took up, ſhould be ſo much, as that all ſorts of ways that his Wiſdom can invent, and that in an eternity of time too, ſhould be little enough to vent and retail that Love, which thus in the lump he took up. My Brethren, this muſt certainly be a great Love.

And I will add but this to it, That his Love was ſo greedy, (mark what I ſay unto thee,) when he firſt began to love thee, that the next and main thing that he thought of, that he had in his eye, as I may ſpeak, in order and degree, tho all was but one act, it was that happineſs he meant to give thee in Heaven. He doth as it were over-leap, (ſo greedy was his Love) all the means between, they come in, as I may ſay, in a ſecond thought. If, I ſay, they do allow an intention of the end afore the means, if God intended the end afore the means, he intended that happineſs which thou ſhalt have firſt. Therefore obſerve what the Scripture ſpeaks, tho it ſaith, that God ordained us to believe, and ordained us unto Sanctification, yet ordinarily it expreſſeth it thus, he hath ordained us unto Life. And the place is emphatical, 2 *Theſſ.*2.13. God hath from the beginning ordained you to Salvation; mark, he joins you and Salvation together, and then comes in the means, through Sanctification of the Spirit, and belief of the Truth. But I ſay, his eye was ſo intent upon thy good, that look what is thy chiefeſt good, what he means to make thee in Heaven, that he pitcheth firſt upon. And ſo much now for that act.

Let us next conſider the Time, He loved us; this carries us to the time paſt. So that if you ask me, when this Love did begin? The truth is, if I may ſo ſpeak with reverence, he loved thee ever ſince he hath been God: Jer. 31. 3. I have loved thee with an everlaſting Love; and unto everlaſting there can be nothing added. God, he is from everlaſting, and his Love is from everlaſting. He may be ſaid to have loved thee ever ſince he loved himſelf, or ever ſince he loved his Son, in whom he choſe thee. As he was God from the beginning, and as Chriſt was the Word of Life from the beginning, John 1. 1. So he hath ordained thee unto Salvation from the beginning, 2 *Theſſ.*2.13. And the Schoolmen do rightly ſay in this, that the liberty of God's Will doth not lie as Man's doth, that it was a while ſuſpended, no, not for a moment: There was never an actual ſuſpenſion, for then there were an imperfection, only there was Libertas potentialis, he might have caſt it otherwiſe; but there never was any time, in which there was in his Heart a vacuity of love to thee, or unto any one whom he loveth. How infinitely doth this endear the Love of God to thee, and make it great! If one have loved you from his Infancy, that no ſooner he began to have a thought of love, or to love himſelf, but he loved you, and pitch'd his heart upon you, how great will you account this Love! John makes a great matter of it, 1 John 4. 10. Herein is Love, (ſpeaking of the Love of God) that we loved not God, but he loved us firſt: We did not begin, but he began; and when did he begin? Even from eternity, when he loved himſelf, and loved his Son.

*

And

And as he hath loved you from eternity, that is the firſt thing conſiderable in it, ſo let me add in the ſecond place, which this [hath loved] doth alſo evidently import, comparing it with verſ. 7. That in Ages to come, and here [hath,] that is, from everlaſting to everlaſting. He hath continued for to love his Children with a reiterated Love. That act of Love which he hath firſt pitch'd, he hath every moment renewed actually in his own Mind. He doth but think over and over again, thoughts of love to thee, amongſt the reſt of his Elect, unto eternity. Saith the Pſalmiſt, and it is Chriſt that ſpeaks that Pſalm, who knew the love of his Father, and knew his heart, Pſal. 40. 5. How many are thy thoughts towards us, O God! Many indeed, for they have been from everlaſting, therefore they cannot be numbred. And not only that firſt act, that firſt thought he had, but the whole lump of that Love, it is ſtill renewed every moment, and ſhall be unto Eternity. I could give you a multitude of places. He is therefore ſaid, to have us in his eye, and to write us upon the Palms of his Hands, &c.

And laſtly, It is to everlaſting, which tho it be not in this Verſe, yet we meet with it in v. 7. That in Ages to come. As he loved us from everlaſting, from the beginning, (as it is in that 2 Theſſ. 2. 13. ſo he loveth us unto the end, John 13. 1.

SERM.

SERMON XII.

EPHES. 2. 4, 5, 6.

4. But God who is rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us,
5. Even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us together with Chriſt, (by Grace ye are ſaved)
6. And hath raiſed us up together, and made us ſit together in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus.

THe Scope of the Apoſtle in theſe words, as I have told you, is to magnify theſe three Attributes in God,

His { Love, Mercy, Grace, } towards us.

And theſe, as they are the cauſes of our Salvation.

In opening of theſe words, I have

1. Shewn you the difference between Love and Mercy.
2. Shewn you, why that the Apoſtle, when he would ſpeak of the cauſes of our Salvation, contented not himſelf to have ſaid, that God is rich in Mercy, but that he addeth, For the great Love wherewith he loved us.
3. Shewn you likewiſe, that a great Love, and an act of Love, or a purpoſe of Love, taken up towards us, it is the foundation of his ſhewing Mercy to us; and that act of Love, it is eſpecially that taken up from everlaſting, which he took up to us before we were, and therefore prevented the Miſery we were fallen into; for he had engaged himſelf to us by ſo great a Love, which ſtirred up his Mercy.

The next thing I came to, was this, the Greatneſs of this Love. I did profeſs not to handle this Argument in the vaſtneſs of it, (which by the Grace of God might ariſe to a Volume, if it ſhould be ſo handled) but ſo far forth as the Text doth give bottom to any thing about it, ſo far I profeſs'd to handle it, becauſe I would explain the Text.

Firſt, therefore, we conſidered the Subject of this Love, who it is that loved us. It is God, whoſe Love therefore is as great as himſelf; and if God will be in Love, how deep, how great will that Love be! What a Love will they poſſeſs, with whom God profeſſeth himſelf to be in love! Love, it is of all Attributes the moſt commanding, it commandeth all in a Man, and it commandeth all in God.

Secondly; We conſidered, that this God, tho of a loving nature and diſpoſition, yet he took up an act of love: He loved, ſaith the Text.

There are two ſorts of Acts of love, which God hath put forth towards us:

1. That eminent act, as it is called, that is, which is in God himſelf only, abideth in himſelf, in his own heart, that firſt act from eternity, which is the foundation of all; and this the Apoſtle here mainly intendeth in this 4*th* Verſe. But,

2. There are tranſient acts of Love, which are the fruits of that firſt, which in the Text here, (as afterwards I ſhall ſhew you) are mainly theſe three:

1. Giving Jeſus Chriſt to be a Head for us, and to die for us; that is couched in theſe words, He hath quickned us together with Chriſt, and raiſed us up together with him; which importeth, both him to be a Head for us, and him to have died for us, as a fruit of this Love.

2. The act of calling us to himſelf, which is expreſs'd in theſe words, Even when we were dead in Sins, hath he quickned us.

3. The glorifying of us hereafter, we being already ſet in heavenly places in Chriſt, as an engagement of all that Glory we ſhall have hereafter.

Theſe three tranſient Acts I muſt handle in their order, as I open the fifth and ſixth Verſes; therefore now in this fourth Verſe, I ſhall only ſpeak of that eminent Act in God, The Love wherewith he loved us: And concerning that, two things.

1. The Greatneſs of that Love in it ſelf. And,
2. In reſpect of the Time, when this Love began; for he ſpeaks in the time paſt, He loved us.

Firſt; For the greatneſs of this act of Love taken up towards us: It is ſo great, as all the acts of Love, all the manifeſtations of Love, the tranſient acts of Love, the fruits of Love, that God ſhews and manifeſteth to eternity, they are not all enough to expreſs that Love, which he took up in the firſt act, when he began to love us, and all ſerve but to commend and manifeſt that Love. And then,

Secondly; For the Time. If you ask, when he firſt began to love? (which alſo ſets out the greatneſs of it,) it was from everlaſting. This word in the Text, [hath loved us,] or, [he loved us] reacheth to eternity; ſo in Jer. 31. 3.

And then for the continuance of it ever ſince, he hath continued it every moment; tho we were Children of Wrath, and dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, yet he all that while, ſince the firſt time he began to love us, he hath continued to love us with the ſame love, he hath reiterated the ſame thoughts again, and again. And for this great love, wherewith he loved us from everlaſting, and wherewith he hath continued to love us ever ſince, from everlaſting, as we may ſo ſpeak: For this great Love, (ſaith he) he hath quickned us.

I alſo opened in the laſt Diſcourſe, the greatneſs of this Love from the Perſons, Us: Us, ſaith he, not others: We were Children of Wrath, as well as others, but for the great Love wherewith he loved us, and not others; (for he hath not quickned all, but he quickneth all that he loveth,) he hath quickned us together with Chriſt. He loved [us,] not ours, nor for any thing in us. He loved us, not indefinitely, that is, I will love ſome of Mankind; but he hath loved us diſtinctly, pitching upon thoſe Perſons he pitch'd his love upon, and laying forth all the Mercies, and all the fruits of Love upon them, eying their Perſons.

There was likewiſe, I told you, another thing, which ſets out the greatneſs of this Love, and that is the condition of our Perſons, Dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; and that follows in the fifth Verſe. But as I ſaid then, I going over theſe words, in a way of Expoſition, and not handling them as a Subject, will not inſiſt on every thing in that artificial method, as if I were to write a Tract upon it.

Serm. XII.

There is but one thing more, and it is a great thing, and I confeſs, I did not obſerve it a long while in the Text, but ſtill took the words to have run thus, For the great Love wherewith he loved us; but I find it is, For [his] great Love, wherewith he hath loved us. There is a great emphaſis in that word [His.] He ſaith not ſimply, (as he might have done) Becauſe that God greatly loved us, or, Becauſe of a great Love he bore us; but he doubles it, For the great Love wherewith he loved us; and not only ſo, but, For [his] great love, wherewith he loved us. My Brethren, there is a Love proper to God, which is a differing kind of Love from that in all the Creatues; [His] love, as the Text hath it here. As his Goodneſs is another kind of Goodneſs, than what is in the Creatures; ſo is his Love. There is none that hath taſted of this Love of his, but ſay, that it is a differing Love from the Love of all the Creatures; and the difference is found more by taſting, and by feeling of it, than it is by ſetting of it forth; as it is in Wines, Thy Love is better than Wine, and thy loving-kindneſs is better than life: Both which are better diſcerned by taſte and feeling, than ſet out by any expreſſion. Indeed God doth compare his Love to what is in the Creature, to ſet it out to us, becauſe we apprehend it by ſuch compariſons; as when he ſaith, Like as a Father pitieth (or, loveth) his Children; ſo the Lord loveth them that fear him: And, If a Mother forget her Child, &c. But yet notwithſtanding, the Love wherewith he loved us, it is of another kind from all theſe. In 1 John 3. 1. Behold, (ſaith the Apoſtle) what manner of Love the Father hath beſtowed upon us; (he ſpeaks in reſpect of one fruit of it,) ſuch a Love for the kind of it, as no Man, no Creature could beſtow upon us. In Hoſ. 11. 9. where giving the reaſon, why that he loving his People, they are not deſtroyed, he ſaith, I am God, and not Man. It is ſpoken in reſpect of his Love clearly, for it comes in there upon a conflict with himſelf; when he had been provoked, beyond the bounds and meaſure of Pardon, yet when he comes to puniſh, he finds his Love not to be as the Love of a Man: My Heart is turned within me, (ſaith he, v. 8.) my repentings are rolled together: I will not return to deſtroy; for I am God, and not Man: My love is of another extent, of another kind, than the love of Man. And ſo when he ſpeaks of Mercy, in Iſa. 55. 8, 9. My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, ſaith the Lord: For as the Heavens are higher than the Earth, ſo are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. It is [his] Love, ſo ſaith the Text here.

Now to ſpeak a little of this, for it lies in the way in the Text.

Firſt; His Love, it is a love for nothing in us. The Love that one Creature bears to another, it is ſtill for ſomething in them; but the love of God, if it be [his Love,] a love that is proper unto him, it muſt needs be free, and that not only for this reaſon, which is uſually given, and is a true one too, becauſe that his love is from everlaſting, and nothing in the Creature in time can be the cauſe of what is in God from everlaſting; but for this reaſon likewiſe, becauſe that only God can be moved by what is in himſelf, he can love no otherwiſe but from himſelf. The Creatures, they love, becauſe things are lovely, and there muſt be Motives to draw out that Love that is in them; but when God loves, he loves as from his own heart. There is nothing in us, no, not in Chriſt, that ſhould move God to love us, tho indeed to beſtow thoſe things that God beſtows upon us, ſo Chriſt is the moving cauſe. Jacob have I loved, ſaith he, and that before he had done any good or evil: So that as no evil in him did put God off from loving him, ſo no good did move God to love him. In 2 Tim. 1. 9. there is one little particle that I found this upon, Who hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy calling, not according to our Works, but according to [his own purpoſe] and grace, which was given us in Chriſt before the World began. Mark, according to his own purpoſe, (which is the thing I pitch upon in that place,) that is, as the Apoſtle explains it, Eph. 1. 9. Which he purpoſed in himſelf, or, from himſelf, a purpoſe meerly taken up in or from himſelf. And therefore you ſhall find the Phraſe in Scripture to run, that as he loves us out of his own purpoſe, ſo for his own ſake: Not for your ſakes do I this, but for my own Name's ſake.

My

My Brethren, there was a love which God did bear to Man in innocency, the terms of which were ſuch, as in a way of Juſtice, between the Creator and the Creature, it became God, if he made him holy, as he did in innocency, to beſtow upon him. But becauſe that this was a Love, that ſeemed to have a kind of Juſtice in it, and ſomething in the Creature which it was founded upon, therefore he deſtroys that condition, that he might make way to manifeſt the love, that was according to his own purpoſe and grace, and meerly from himſelf: And that now is his love; for if God do love like God, this is the love that is his, that is proper unto him. And ſaith he, Not according to our works; that is, it is founded upon nothing at all in the Creature: For, by Works there, he underſtands all habitual diſpoſitions of Goodneſs, of what kind ſoever, as the Scripture uſually doth; as when it ſaith, He will judg every Man according to his works, it is not only meant of the outward acts, but of the inward frame of heart. He looks to nothing in the Creature, but to his own purpoſe. It is his Love, therefore it is free: That's the firſt.

Secondly; His Love, it is a love that is firm and peremptory, unchangeable and invincible; and ſuch a love it became God to bear us, if he would love us, for that properly is his Love. Put not your truſt in Princes, ſaith the Pſalmiſt; they will all fail, the Men periſh, and their thoughts periſh; yea, ſometimes their thoughts and affections die to their greateſt Favourites, before they die themſelves. But his Love is firm and peremptory, it is unchangeable and invincible, and this becauſe it is his Love. Mal. 3. 6. I am the Lord, I change not; that is, If I be God, and whilſt I am God, I will not ceaſe to love you, I will not change: Therefore it is that ye Sons of Jacob are not conſumed. His Love is as immutable as his Being: I will not be God, if I be not your God, and love you; he pawns all in his Godhead upon it: I am the Lord, ſaith he, I change not, therefore ye are not conconſumed. In Rom. 9. 11. ſpeaking of the Election of Jacob, he ſaith, That the purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand, (it's a great word that,) he fix'd it upon ſuch a Baſis, as might ſtand for ever. It is a true thing, that all God's Counſels, they do ſtand fix'd and firm, look how he purpoſeth them, be they of what kind ſoever. That Adam ſhould be holy, that Counſel did ſtand firm, but how? It ſtood firm for ſo long as he purpoſed it, which was till ſuch time as he fell, it was but for a moment in compariſon. And ſo, that Saul ſhould be King, he purpoſed it, and it ſtood firm ſo far, but he repented that he made Saul King. But when he cometh to ſpeak of Election, he ſpeaks of that, as of ſuch a Counſel, that not only ſtandeth, as all other his Counſels do, but as that which is perpetuated to eternity. His purpoſe to love Adam, it was a firm purpoſe, for ſo he did; but how? whilſt he was in that ſtate of innocency, and had the Image of God upon him; but his purpoſe according to Election, (as the diſtinction is there,) that ſtands, and it ſtands for ever. Therefore it is not of works, but (as was ſaid before) of his own purpoſe, that it might ſtand, that it might have a Rock of Eternity, for the Baſis of it to ſtand upon. It is therefore, as by way of diſtinction from all purpoſes elſe, as it were, called, the Purpoſe according to Election. If you will have this further confirmed, take that place alſo, which loadeth it with more Epithites for the firmneſs of it, in 2 Tim. 2. 19. The foundation of God ſtandeth ſure, having this ſeal, The Lord knoweth them that are his. He ſpeaks of God's purpoſe in Election, and of the Perſons elected; for he ſaith it is that which hath this ſeal, The Lord knoweth them that are his. You have here all ſorts of words to make it firm.

1. It is called a Foundation, The foundation of God (ſaith he) ſtandeth ſure. There are two great foundations, and of the two (if we may make compariſons) this is the greater. Jeſus Chriſt is a foundation, but the eternal Love of God, that is the firſt foundation, it was the Womb of Chriſt himſelf, 1 Cor. 3. 11. Other foundation can no Man lay, than that is laid, which is Jeſus Chriſt. There you ſee Chriſt is a foundation, but here is a higher foundation, The Lord knoweth them that are his, loved them, and choſe them, and ſo he did Chriſt himſelf.

2. It is not only called a Foundation, but a ſure Foundation.

3. It is called the Foundation of God, it is founded in him, it is founded upon him, it is as firm as himſelf; as he is God, he will ſtand to it, and therefore it muſt needs ſtand.

Serm. XII.

4. It is a foundation that remaineth, it ſtandeth, it is ſteady.

5. It is ſealed: Having this Seal, ſaith he; ſo that it is never to be broken and altered. If the Decrees of the Medes and Perſians, when they had ſet their Seals to them, were ſuch as were not to be altered; much more God's. His Seal is in this reſpect more than his Oath: Him hath the Father ſealed, ſaith he, ſpeaking of Chriſt. Now you have both his Oath and his Seal to this, that is, to the invincibleneſs and unchangeableneſs of his Love. You have his Seal in this place, The Lord knoweth them that are his: And his Oath you have in Heb. 6. 17. And what doth this Oath ſerve for? To ſhew unto the Heirs of Promiſe the immutability of his Counſel, and of the immutability of his Counſel, reſpecting Perſons, and not things only; for it is an Oath that God made to Abraham, when he ſwore concerning Iſaac: And therefore the Text hath it in Timothy, It hath this Seal, The Lord knoweth them that are his. If you will know whence the words are taken, (that I may open them a little) you muſt obſerve this, that the Apoſtle handleth the Doctrine of Election and Reprobation in the New Teſtament, out of the Speeches and Types of the Old; as, Eſau have I hated, Jacob have I loved, in Rom. 9. And ſo, I will be merciful to whom I will be merciful; it was ſpoken of Moſes, in Exod. 33. 19. And ſo likewiſe thoſe words in Timothy, The Lord knoweth them that are his, they are ſpoken of Aaron and Moſes, in Numb. 16. 5. when Korah and his Company gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes and Aaron, ſaying, You take too much upon you, ſeeing all the Congregation are holy, and they may be all Prieſts: No, ſaith he, God hath choſen Aaron and Moſes to go before his People, and to morrow the Lord will ſhew who are his: So we tranſlate it, and the Septuagint reads it, (and it comes all to one) The Lord knoweth who are his. Now this that was ſaid in this reſpect of Moſes and Aaron in a typical way, and indeed in a Decree of Election too, for that God ſingled out Moſes and Aaron, it was his everlaſting Love; I ſay, theſe very words doth the Apoſtle here apply, and pertinently too, to the ſame occaſion; for ſpeaking of divers that ſeemed to be holy, and yet fell away, however, ſaith he, The foundation of the Lord ſtandeth ſure, having this Seal, The Lord knoweth who are his. And the word, knoweth who are his, it is, whom he hath pitch'd upon to love, it is a knowledg of approbation. Exod. 33. 12. Thee have I known by name, ſaith God unto the ſame Moſes, which is all one and to ſay, Thee have I choſen; for ver. 19. ſpeaking of Moſes alſo, he ſaith, I will ſhew mercy on whom I will ſhew mercy, which the Apoſtle quoteth in Rom. 9. as ſpoken of Election. Now in reſpect of his Love, that is thus firm, and firm in reſpect that it is his Love, who is God, and not Man, and therefore changeth not. It is therefore ſaid of the Elect, that it is impoſſible that they ſhould be deceived. As I told you there are two foundations, ſo there are two Impoſſibles made in Scripture, (I know there are more, as it is impoſſible that God ſhould lie, &c. but I ſpeak of Impoſſibles that relate to God's Decrees): The one is, Mat. 26. 39. If it be poſſible, let this Cup paſs from me. It was not poſſible; why? becauſe God's eternal Love to his Saints had decreed it otherwiſe, and God ſtuck firm to it. The other impoſſible is in Mat. 24. 24. Inſomuch that if it were poſſible, they ſhould deceive the very Elect; that is impoſſible too. And the truth is, the reaſon of this firmneſs, it is becauſe it is the Love of God, and becauſe it is ſo great a Love, that is the foundation of it. And, my Brethren, it is well that Love made God's Decrees for us; no Attribute elſe would have fix'd them ſo unalterably upon the ſame Perſons, in themſelves ſo changeable: Would Wiſdom alone have gone and obliged God to ſo fickle a Creature as we are? No: But Love knew what it did, for it meant to manifeſt it ſelf to the uttermoſt; therefore it pitch'd upon no conditions, why God loved us; and if he requires conditions before he ſaveth us, Love ſhall work thoſe conditions in us: Therefore out of his infinite Love and Wiſdom, he was able to make abſolute promiſes to love, and to love firmly. It is Love that commandeth all in God, and if Love will do it, it ſhall be done; for if all that is in God can keep us, and preſerve us, and work in us what God requires to make him love us, and continue to love us, it ſhall be done. It is firm Love.

And let me add this to it, which may illuſtrate it more, It is Invincible Love. You will ſay, This is the ſame thing with being unchangeable. I confeſs it, but only with this difference, that to ſhew his Love is unchangeable, he would have a world of difficulties to run through, which yet his Love ſhould overcome. Saith he in Cant. 8. 6, 7. (and he ſpeaks of his Love, having ſet us as a Seal upon his Arm, having this Seal, The Lord knows who are his.) Love is as ſtrong as death. Many Waters cannot quench Love, neither can the Floods drown it. They are therefore called the ſure Mercies of David. And you know how David put them to the Trial, and how he put God to it. What difficulties doth the Love of God overcome? do but conſider. The purpoſes of his ſecret Will towards us do overcome all the difficulties of his revealed Will, and thoſe were enow. He had given a Law of his revealed Will, and he had ſaid, that Heaven and Earth ſhould paſs away before one tittle of that ſhould periſh; and, that the Soul that ſinned ſhould die; and all had ſinned and tranſgreſſed this Law. But now though all were faſt locked up under this, yet Love breaks open all, for it is an invincible Love. That ſecret Purpoſe of his, I ſay, overcomes that revealed expreſſion of his, which had ſo many bolts and bars to it, all the Threatnings and Curſes of the Law; and finds out a way to reconcile all. And the way whereby he did it, it was an infinite difficulty: For God to overcome his own Heart! do you think it was nothing for him to put his Son to death? When Chriſt came to die, what a difficulty did he overcome? do you think it was nothing for him to give up himſelf and his Soul to the Wrath of his Father? Father, ſaith he, if it be poſſible, let this Cup paſs; ſave them, if it be poſſible, ſome other way: why God's Love overcame it, and Chriſt's Love overcame it, his Love would not permit him to think of any other courſe; it was an invincible Love. When he comes to call us, hath he no difficulties which Love overcometh? A Man hath lived twenty, thirty, forty years in Sin, Love overcomes it: We were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, yet for the great Love wherewith he loved us, he quickned us. When we have been dead, and dead forty years in the Grave, that, Lo, he ſtinketh, then doth God come and conquer us; it is an invincible Love. After our calling, how do we provoke God? what a world of difficulties do we run through? ſuch Temptations, that if it were poſſible the Elect ſhould be deceived. It is ſo with all Chriſtians; no righteous Man but he is ſcarcely ſaved, and yet ſaved he is, becauſe the Love of God is invincible, it overcomes all difficulties. Still, as the Apoſtle ſaith in Rom. 8. 35, 37. Who ſhall ſeparate us from the Love of God? ſhall life, or death, &c. In all theſe, ſaith he, weare more than Conquerors; There is an Invincibleneſs; but how? through him that loveth us, ſo it follows: and mark that Particle, it is becauſe his Love is an Invincible Love that doth thus make us to be Conquerors; becauſe that that Love is as ſtrong as Death, therefore neither Death nor Life; it is as ſtrong as Hell, therefore neither Hell nor Devils ſhall be able to ſeparate. Nay, where there is but a mention made by way of Suppoſition, or by way of Query, Whether God will part with, or caſt off any of his People or no? You ſhall find that he throws it away with the higheſt indignation, his Love is ſo great. Paul doth but put the Queſtion, becauſe he knew Men would put it in, Rom. 11. 1. Hath God caſt away his People? How doth the Holy Ghoſt anſwer it? God forbid, ſaith he: he ſpeaks with the higheſt deteſtation, that there ſhould be any ſuch thought in God. Even as in another place in the ſame Epiſtle, Chap. 6. 1. Shall we continue in Sin that Grace may abound? O God forbid. He throws it away with all the indignation that can be; and God may allow the one, aſſoon as do the other. He throws it away, I ſay, with the higheſt indignation that ever ſuch Suppoſition could be made, that God ſhould have ſuch a thought. He is ſo poſſeſt with love to his People, that he will hear nothing to the contrary: Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of God's Elect? ſaith the Apoſtle; it is God that juſtifieth: and it is their being Elect that carries it. Yea, his Love is ſo ſtrong, that if there be any Atteſtation (the Apoſtle makes the Suppoſition, who ſhall lay any thing to their charge? Sin or Devil?) that if at any time Sin or Devil come to accuſe, it moves God to bleſs; His Love is ſo violent, it is ſo ſet, that he takes occaſion to bleſs ſo much the more. In Deut. 23. 5. when Balaam would lay ſomething to the charge of the Elect People of God there, and accuſe them, and curſe them, what ſaith the Text? Nevertheleſs the Lord thy God would not hearken unto Balaam, he would not hear of it; and, not only ſo, but the Lord thy God turned the Curſe into a Bleſſing unto thee; and why? Becauſe the Lord thy God loved thee. His Love was ſo ſtrong as it over-ruled all the Accuſations Balaam could make, and all his Curſes. Even as a King that loveth his Favourite,

if

Serm. XII. if any one comes to accuſe him, it provokes him (his love doth) ſo much the more not only to pardon him, but to ſhew his love to him. My Brethren, if that God be angry with us for our Sins, it is for our good; and in the end they do provoke him to bleſs us ſo much the more. This muſt needs be invincible Love. Who ſhall ſeparate us from the Love of God? who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of God's Elect? In all this we are more than Conquerors. And ſo much now for the ſecond thing, which is proper to this Love in God, (which the Apoſtle calls His Love) and to no creatures elſe in the World as it is in God, namely, to love thus invincibly and unchangeably as he doth.

Thirdly, [His Love] it is the ſame Love wherewith he loveth his Son, yea, wherewith he loveth Himſelf.

It is the ſame Love wherewith he loveth his Son. For that you have a known place in John 17. 23, 26. At the 24th verſe, ſaith Chriſt, Thou haſt loved me before the foundation of the World, and haſt therefore given me a Glory, and thou haſt united me unto thy ſelf; Thou art in me, and I in thee, (ſo ver. 21.) and thou haſt united a company of Thine (ſo he calls them, ver. 6.) unto Me, I in them, and thou in Me, (ſo ſaith the 23*d* verſe) and then what follows? that the World may know that thou haſt loved them, as thou haſt loved me. As he is united to God, and we to him, ſo God loveth us with the ſame Love wherewith he loved him.

And then again, you have the like expreſſion, ver. 26. That the Love wherewith thou loveſt me may be in them, that is, towards them, ſet upon them, derived to them. It is a phraſe of kin to that in the Text, The Love wherewith he loved us, ſaith the Apoſtle; the Love wherewith thou loveſt me, ſaith Chriſt; to note a ſpecial Love: but that which I quote it for is this, That the Love wherewith thou loveſt me, may be in them, or on them alſo. God loved all his creatures: he loved Adam, but not with that kind of love wherewith he loved Chriſt; but he loveth his Elect with the ſame kind of love wherewith he loved him, the ſame love is ſet and pitch'd on them. He loveth him as his Son, and them as Daughters married to him: As a Father loveth his Son, and a Daughter married unto him with the ſame kind of love, and differing from his love to the Servants, or to any elſe that are about him. And therefore you ſhall find that ſtill this love comes in with a diſtinction, Rom. 8. ult. Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, ſhall be able to ſeparate us from the Love of God which is in Chriſt Jeſus. Mark it, he diſtinguiſheth; there is a Love indeed, which Men have been, and are ſeparated from, even Adam in innocency; but, ſaith he, if it be a Love in Chriſt Jeſus, if God loveth us with that kind of Love wherewith he loveth Chriſt, nothing ſhall ſeparate from that. For as we are ſaid to be choſen in Chriſt, ſo we are ſaid to be loved in him; for Election, or the act of chuſing, is expreſs'd to us ſtill by an act of Love, it is all one, they are convertible: Now he is ſaid to chuſe in Chriſt, ſo to love in Chriſt; and ſaith the Apoſtle, Nothing ſhall ſeparate us from the Love of God in Chriſt. He ſpeaks it by way of diſtinction from other Love, which Men may be ſeparated from; but from this, ſaith he, there is no ſeparation.

Yea, let me go higher, God loving us in Chriſt, his Love is in a manner the ſame wherewith he loveth himſelf. There is an Union betwixt Jeſus Chriſt and us, and there is alſo an Union between God and us, John 17. 23. I in them, and thou in me. As our Lord and Saviour Chriſt loved his People ſo, as that if his People be hurt, he takes it as if it were done to himſelf; Saul, Saul, why perſecuteſt thou me? So you ſhall find, that God himſelf ſpeaks, as if his People and he were all one. It is not only, as in John, Thine they were; and, God knoweth them that are his; (and theſe are great words, they are deep words, and deep expreſſions): But you ſhall find, that God in the Old Teſtament ſpeaks in the Perſon of his People, as well as Chriſt doth in the New. Pſal. 81. 5. This he ordained in Joſeph, for a Teſtimony (ſpeaking of God) when he went out of Egypt, meaning his People. And therefore in Exod. 11. 8. ſaith he to Pharaoh; About midnight I will go out into the midſt of Egypt, and all the Firſt-born ſhall die, &c. And after that I will go out, that is, my People ſhall go out. So that now, as the Union between Chriſt and his People is ſuch, and his Love ſuch, as that what was done to them, he reckons done to himſelf; ſo between God and us alſo: Thine they were, ſaith Chriſt, and thou gaveſt them me: They are more God's therefore, than Chriſt's; or firſt God's, and then given unto Chriſt: Therefore in Iſa. 63. 9. In all their Affliction he is ſaid to be afflicted. Yea, the Salvation of his People God accounts his Salvation, Iſa. 49. 6. Thou ſhalt be (ſpeaking of Chriſt) my Salvation unto the end of the Earth. Serm. XII.

And tho God loveth himſelf with a natural Love, yet this his Love to us is now in a manner naturalized, becauſe he is become a Father to us. He was happy in himſelf, and might be ſo without us for ever; yet now he ſpeaks, as if that the want of us would make him imperfect, Who ſhall ſeparate us from the Love of God? The word implies a ſeparation, like the rending of the Soul from the Body; and as the Soul would be imperfect without the Body, ſo the Love that God bears us would make him ſo too, if there could be a ſeparation. Therefore in Zeph. 3. 17. he is ſaid to reſt in his Love; if he enjoyed us not, he would never be at reſt elſe. To theſe kind of expreſſions, my Brethren, doth the Scripture riſe.

And ſo much now for having opened this, His great Love wherewith he loved us: His Love, a Love that is proper unto God, which therefore muſt needs be thus great, as you have heard it opened to you. The greatneſs of this Love, in reſpect of his giving Chriſt to be our Head, and carrying us to, and giving of us Heaven, and the like, that follows after, and I ſhall ſpeak to them in their ſeaſon and order. I have done, you ſee, with that which is the main Foundation, viz. For the great Love wherewith he loved us. I ſhould have firſt handled the firſt Clauſe in the Verſe, viz. But God who is rich in Mercy; but you may remember, I told you, that Love was in this, to have the preheminence, becauſe it was an act of Love firſt taken up, and this great Love is that which guides, and ſtirs up, manageth, and ſpends, and draws out all the Riches of Mercy that is in God, towards us, when we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes. Now then there muſt be ſomething ſaid to that, that He is rich in Mercy: But God (ſaith he) who is rich in Mercy.

Theſe words (for the opening of them,) may be conſidered two ways:

1. In their relation or reference, in the Apoſtle's ſcope here.
2. Simply, as they are in themſelves.

1. In their relation or reference, they do firſt hold forth, that to ſave us, all the Riches of Mercy that are in God were neceſſary. Had not God been thus rich in Mercy, and born ſo great a Love to us, we had not been quickned, ſuch was our miſery, and ſuch was our condition. They do imply, ſecondly, That all the Riches of Mercy that are in God, and all in God, did move him thus to be merciful, and to be gracious to us. And then, thirdly, That where God doth love, there he will ſhew forth to the uttermoſt, all thoſe Riches of Mercy that are in him, he will ſpend them all to ſave us, he hath engaged them all: God, ſaith he, who is rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, hath quickned us, and ſaved us.

2. If you take the words ſimply in themſelves, they import two things:

1. That God is of a merciful Nature and Diſpoſition.
2. That there are Riches of Mercy in that Nature of his.

The words imply both:

Firſt, I ſay, that he is merciful in his Nature and Diſpoſition; which I argue from two things in the Text, and in the Context.

Firſt,

Serm. XII.

Firſt, if you obſerve it, when he ſpeaks of his Love, he ſpeaks of it as an act taken up by God, tho he is of a loving Nature, which is the foundation of that act, The Love wherewith he loved us, ſaith he: But when he ſpeaks of Mercy, he ſpeaks of it, as of a diſpoſition which Love ſtirred up, which Love expendeth and commandeth, guideth and directeth: God (ſaith he) being in himſelf rich in Mercy, and in his own Nature, and having pitch'd an act of Love upon us, for that great love wherewith he loved us, (ſetting aſide that Nature of Mercy that is in him,) he hath ſaved us, and quickned us. Secondly, tho I do not much urge the Participle, ὤν, God [being] rich, which being in God is his Eſſence, (for tho that word [ὤν] is not always taken for Participium eſſendi,) yet notwithſtanding look upon the words juſt before, he ſpeaks of what we were by Nature: We were by Nature, (ſaith he) and by our natural diſpoſition, Children of Wrath; and ſo on the contrary, ſpeaking of God, God (ſaith he) πλούσιος ὤν, who is in his nature, in his diſpoſition, merciful, and rich in Mercy, even when we were dead, &c.

So that, I ſay, the words ſimply conſidered in themſelves, import: Firſt, That God is in his nature and diſpoſition merciful, (which is the foundation of our Salvation): And then, That the Mercy that is in him is a rich Mercy, there are Riches of Mercy in him.

I ſhall ſpeak a word or two to the firſt, It is his diſpoſition thus to be merciful. You have an expreſſion in 2 Cor. 1. 3. where God is ſaid to be the Father of Mercies; which imports, that as he is the ſpring of all Mercy, ſo it is natural to him, as it is to a Father to beget Children. He is not only ſaid to be a Father unto us, and like a Father to be merciful to us; but he is ſaid to be the Father of all the Mercies which he doth beſtow upon us, more the Father of Mercies, than Satan is ſaid to be the Father of Sin; yet he is ſaid to be the Father of Sin, and when he ſinneth, he ſinneth of his own, John 8. 44. I ſay, it is his Nature, it is his Diſpoſition: God (ſaith he) who is rich in Mercy; it is his Being. We are by nature Children of Wrath, he is by nature merciful.

Mercy, it is his delight, and therefore natural to him, as in all acts of Nature you know there is a delight. Mic. 7. 18. He retaineth not his Anger for ever, becauſe (ſaith he) he delighteth in Mercy.

The Mercies of God are called in Scripture his Bowels; now there is nothing ſo intimate, or ſo natural to a Man, as his Bowels are. And they are called his Bowels, becauſe they are his inwards, and all that is within him, his whole Being and Nature inclines him to it. Luke 1. 78. Through the tender Mercy of our God; ſo we tranſlate it, look in your Margins, it is the Bowels of God. So in Jam. 5. 11. he is called, πολύσπλαγχνος, full of Bowels. You know the Bowels are the moſt inward, and the moſt natural, more than outward Members: A Man may loſe an outward Member, and be a Man ſtill; but he cannot loſe his Inwards, his Bowels. They are ſaid to be his Bowels, becauſe all the Mercy he ſheweth, he doth it from within. Hoſ. 2. 19. I will betroth thee unto me in Loving-kindneſs, and in Mercies; in the original it is, I will betroth thee unto me in Mercy, and in Bowels; yea, in the Womb of Mercy, as the word ſignifies. Now, as Sanctius well obſerves, he doth not only make a Covenant to be a Huſband to us, and to betroth us to himſelf in Mercy; but, (ſaith he) thou ſhalt have my Bowels, thou ſhalt have the Womb it ſelf that conceives them, thou ſhalt have the Mother of Mercies, as he himſelf is ſaid to be the Father of Mercies, becauſe that Mercy is his Inwards, and he begets it, he conceives it; he is both the Womb of Mercies, and the Father of Mercies. All theſe expreſſions the Scripture hath, to ſhew how natural they are to him as himſelf: God who is rich in Mercy, ſaith he.

And then again, It is his Nature and Diſpoſition, becauſe when he doth ſhew mercy, he doth it with his whole heart. 1 Chron. 17. 19. According to thine own heart, haſt thou done all this Greatneſs, ſaith David, when he ſpeaks of God's ſhewing mercy; that is, thou haſt ſhewn mercy like thy ſelf, like the great God, according to thine own heart.

My Brethren, tho God is juſt, yet his Mercy may be in ſome reſpect ſaid to be more natural to him, than all acts of Juſtice it ſelf that God doth ſhew, I mean vindicative Juſtice; in them there is a ſatisfaction to an Attribute, in that he meets, and is even with Sinners; yet notwithſtanding there is a kind of violence done to himſelf in it, (the Scripture ſo expreſſeth it) there is ſomething in it that is contrary to him. And ſo many interpret that place, I will not the Death of a Sinner; that is, I delight not ſimply in it, I will not do it animi cauſa, for pleaſure's ſake, becauſe I delight in the the thing, as thoſe that are of the Remonſtrants Opinion ſlander the other Party, that they make God to delight in the Death of a Sinner: No, when he exerciſeth Acts of Juſtice, it is for an higher end, it is not ſimply for the thing it ſelf, there is always ſomething in his Heart againſt it. But when he comes to ſhew Mercy, to manifeſt that it is his Nature and Diſpoſition, it is ſaid, that he doth it with his whole Heart; there is nothing at all in him that is againſt it, the Act it ſelf pleaſeth him for it ſelf, there is no reluctancy in him. Therefore, in Lam. 3. 33. when he ſpeaks of puniſhing, he ſaith, He doth not afflict willingly, nor grieve the Children of Men: But when he comes to ſpeak of ſhewing Mercy, he ſaith, he doth do it with his whole Heart, and with his whole Soul; ſo the expreſſion is, Jer. 32. 41. And therefore Acts of Juſtice, you know, they are called, Opus alienum, his ſtrange Work, and his ſtrange Act, in Iſa. 28. 21. But when he comes to ſhew Mercy, he rejoyces over them, to do them good, with his whole Heart, and with his whole Soul; as it is in that Jer. 32. 41.

mean

SERMON XIII.

EPHES. 2. 4, 5, 6.

4. But God who is rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us,
5. Even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us together with Chriſt, (by Grace ye are ſaved)
6. And hath raiſed us up together, and made us ſit together in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus.

THe Apoſtle had handled in the Verſes before, and given the moſt exact Deſcription of that wretched and deplorable Eſtate which by Nature we lie in, Dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, and Children of Wrath. And he uſhereth in our Salvation, both in the thing, and in the cauſes of it, with this [But] here: But God who is rich in Mercy, &c. Which is the greateſt Turn that ever was, that Men dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, guilty of Death over and over, and Children of Wrath by Nature, he that is the juſt God ſhould not have deſtroyed them: No, But (ſaith he) God who is rich in Mercy, or, God being rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us. There was an Ambuſhment of everlaſting Love, and Riches of Mercy laid up in him, which that Love hath diſpoſed of, for the Salvation of them he hath choſen; and out of that Mercy, and out of that Love, when we were thus dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, he hath quickned us together with Chriſt. Take notice of it; ſaith he, By Grace ye are ſaved.

His Scope is, to hold forth, and withall to magnify thoſe two great Cauſes of our Salvation, that are in God himſelf: The one is, that Act of Love wherewith he loved us, and continued to love us, which, he ſaith, is a great Love. And, ſecondly, thoſe Riches of Mercy which are in him.

The greatneſs of this Love I have endeavoured, ſo far as this Text ſets it forth, to lay open to you: I ſhall only give you in brief, the Heads of what I have ſaid concerning it, and ſo proceed to ſpeak of the Riches of that Mercy which is in God. I told you, the reaſon why I ſpake of Love firſt was this: Becauſe (as here you ſee) it is his Love, that tho it is not the cauſe of the Mercy that is in him, yet it is that which diſpoſeth of all the Treaſury of Mercy unto Sinners, becauſe he had firſt ſet his Love upon them, and ſo great a Love as he had done.

Great, firſt, in reſpect of the Subject of it, which is God; and if God will fall in love, how great will that Love be!

It is great, ſecondly, in reſpect of the Kind of it, His Love. The Apoſtle doth not only ſay, For the Love wherewith he loved us, but, For [his] great Love wherewith he loved us, ſuch a Love as the Creatures bear not. And the Love, wherewith he hath loved us; not the Love, wherewith he did love us, when he did convert us, but loved us from everlaſting: With an everlaſting Love have I drawn thee, or rather, have I extended towards thee.

Laſtly; The conſideration of the Perſons upon whom this Love is pitch'd, argues the greatneſs of it, Us, Us diſtinct, Us by name, and Us, not others, tho others were Children of Wrath as well as we. We were (ſaith he) by nature Children of Wrath, even as others: But God, for the great Love, &c.

Theſe things I inſiſted largely upon in the laſt Diſcourſe.

Serm. XIII

I am now to come to ſpeak of the Riches of Mercy which are in God, ſo far forth as ſhall ſerve to open this Text, and ſhall be proper to that which we have in hand.

But God who is rich in Mercy, &c.

Theſe are (my Brethren) very great Expreſſions, therefore if I ſhall a little inſiſt upon them, more than I have done upon former things, or than I ſhall do for time to come, you may pardon me: Yet what belongs to this Head of Riches of Mercy, ſo far as this Text holds it forth, I purpoſe to diſpatch in this Diſcourſe.

The Apoſtle uſeth this high Epithite, Riches, when he ſpeaks of Mercy, and of Grace, five times in this Epiſtle. In the firſt Chapter, v. 7. you have it, In whom we have Redemption, through his Blood, the forgiveneſs of Sins, according to the Riches of his Grace. Then you have it here, in this 4*th* Verſe of the ſecond Chapter, God who is rich in Mercy. Then, thirdly, you have it in the 7*th* Verſe of this Chapter again, and there you have it with an addition, Exceeding Riches of his Grace. And then, fourthly, you have it in the third Chapter, verſ. 8. The unſearchable Riches of Chriſt. And then again, laſtly, you have it in the 16*th* verſe of the third Chapter, That he would grant you according to the Riches of his Glory. I ſhall not ſo ſpeak to it therefore now, but that I ſhall reſerve Matter that ſhall be proper unto thoſe Texts, when I come to ſpeak to them.

I need not then ſtand to give you any parallel Scriptures, to ſhew, that God is called, rich in Mercy; or, that Mercy in God is called, rich Mercy: it being four or five times in this Epiſtle attributed unto Mercy. I ſhall only name that in Rom. 10. 12. The ſame Lord over all, is rich unto all that call upon him. The Apoſtle indeed doth not there ſay, that he is rich in Mercy, but he means it; for he would have ſaid elſe, God is good unto all: But he thought that expreſſion too little, and therefore he comes out with this, He is rich unto all; that is, he is infinite overflowing in Goodneſs, he is good to a profuſeneſs, he is good to the pouring forth of Riches, he is good to an abundance. He ſpeaks of Mercy, for he ſpeaks of Salvation; and he had ſaid juſt before, v. 11. but only this, (and it was but a ſlender expreſſion,) Whoſoever believeth on him, ſhall not be aſhamed; but when he comes to prove it, then ſaith he, The ſame Lord over all, is rich unto all that call upon him: And whoſoever ſhall call upon the Name of the Lord, ſhall be ſaved. For the proof of it, when he comes to ſpeak of that, he ſpeaks of the moſt, tho when he ſpeaks of the thing, he ſpeaks of the leaſt.

Now Riches of Mercy in God, it is a Metaphor borrowed from other Riches amongſt Men, and he ſpeaks of God here after the manner of Men. Or, if you will, rather other things are called Riches, by way of ſimilitude from God; for as God only is good, as Chriſt ſaith, ſo only he is rich: 1 Chron. 29. 12. Both Riches and Honour come of thee. He only is good, becauſe he is the Fountain of all Goodneſs; and he only is rich, becauſe he is the Fountain of all Riches. So as indeed other thiugs are called Riches, becauſe of a ſimilitude to what is in him. But if we take it, as moſt do, to be ſpoken by a borrowed ſimilitude from outward Riches, alas! ſtill it doth not reach it; why? Becauſe that outward Riches amongſt Men, they are all outward things, therefore they are ſaid to have Wings, and to fly away, leave the Man ſtill, for they are but accidental to him. You have the Inventory of the Riches of Tyre, in Ezek. 27. and they are all of things without. Now the truth is, that thus God is ſaid to be rich too, in reſpect of outward things, that are outward to himſelf: The Earth (ſaith the Pſalmiſt) is full of his Riches, Pſal. 104.24. Yet theſe are all outward things unto God, even as they are unto us, tho they are his Riches properly, becauſe they all come of him. And, Deut. 28. 12. The Lord ſhall open to thee his good Treaſure; ſpeaking of God's bleſſing his People, which is but the Bleſſings of the Earth, and the Dews of Heaven. But alas! theſe are not the Riches he valueth; but, my Brethren, the Riches that he valueth, are the Riches that are in his own Nature. Let not the rich Man glory in his Riches, Jer. 9. 2, 3. God himſelf glories not in theſe Riches, Serm. XIII. (tho the whole Earth is his,) but that he exerciſeth Loving-kindneſs, Judgment, and Righteouſneſs in the Earth, (ver. 24.) that he is merciful and gracious. In theſe reſpects he is ſaid to be rich, and, rich in Mercy.

Inward worth, or inward excellency of any kind, it is called Riches; as in Jam. 2. 5. Men are ſaid to be rich in Faith; and in 1 Cor. 1. 5. inriched in all utterance, and in all knowledge. It is there a Metaphor borrowed from what is outward, yet applied to what is inward; and ſo here in the Text, Riches are applied to Mercy in God. Now then to open both the thing and the phraſe to you.

I ſhall chalk out to you how I mean to handle this thing, in ſuch a way as is moſt proper to the ſcope of the Apoſtle here, and I will not go out of it. There is a double way of handling the Riches of this Mercy that is in God.

The firſt is, To ſhew forth the eminent Properties and Excellencies that are in the Mercies of God, which may be called the Riches of this Mercy, and the Richneſs of that Grace that is in him.

Or, ſecondly, By ſhewing that there are abundance of theſe Riches in God.

Theſe are two diſtinct things; and the one will ſerve and fit the 7th verſe, for which I will reſerve it; but the other fitteth this verſe: therefore I ſhall ſpeak properly and punctually to what the Apoſtle here expreſſeth.

Richneſs is attributed both to Things and to Perſons, and in a differing reſpect.

Richneſs, or Riches, is attributed to Things, and then it importeth the excellency of them. As, rich Apparel, Ezek. 27. 24. or whatſoever elſe you will apply it unto. Yea it is applied to the exellency in Creatures, that do not make Men rich; as Wine is called Rich Wine; that is, that which is full of ſtrength and pleaſantneſs. It notes out, I ſay, the excellency of the thing.

But then there is Riches aſcribed to the Perſons that poſſeſs them, in reſpect of having an abundance of what is moſt excellent.

Now (mark it) Riches attributed to the thing, that is, unto Mercy it ſelf; that you have in the 7th verſe (tho the other will come in there too, yet more properly that) That he might ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace. There is the Riches of the thing, the Riches of the Grace it ſelf: And ſo alſo all thoſe excellent properties that are in Grace, in Mercy; the freeneſs, the worth, the value, the price, the tenderneſs, the ſweetneſs, or what you will (for the inward worth or excellency of any thing is called in uſe of ſpeech, the richneſs of it, as a Rich Wine, a Rich Cordial, whatſoever is pleaſant or excellent) Riches are attributed to all the properties of it. Now I ſhall not here handle the rich properties that are in Mercy, which God ſhews forth in ſaving us, I ſhall cut off all thoſe, and reſerve them for the 7th verſe. I ſhall now only ſpeak to the ſecond, namely, Riches attributed to the Perſon or Subject that hath this Mercy: for you ſee the phraſe here is, that God is rich in Mercy, and ſo I ſhall ſpeak of that Treaſury that is in him, and is an abundance, to flowing over. A Man may have Wine that is rich, and yet not be rich himſelf; but God is rich in Mercy, and hath Riches of Mercy in him.

Now in handling the Riches of Mercy that is in God, it may be done two ways.

First, To handle them as they are the Cauſe and Original in God of our Salvation, as they do move him thereunto, and as they are the Spring or Mine of all the Mercies we receive. Or,

Secondly, To handle them by way of outward demonſtration, in the Effects, which may argue and evidence the greatneſs of theſe Riches.

Now this 4th Verſe and the 7th ſhare theſe two between them. The 7th verſe runs moſt upon the demonſtration, or holding forth a manifeſtation of all the Mercies that God had vouchſafed; For ſo he endeth in the cloſe of that verſe, That in the Ages to come (ſaith he) he might ſhew the exeeeding Riches of his Grace, in his kind-

neſs

neſs towards us through Chriſt Jeſus. But theſe words in this 4th verſe, they come in cauſally, they come in as they are the motive in God which moved him to quicken us. And therefore that of the demonſtration of the Riches of Mercy in the Effects, that ſhall come in in the 7th verſe, for there it is moſt proper. Serm. XIII.

Here are three things which I ſhall handle in theſe words for the opening of them.

1. That Mercy is a peculiar Excellency in God, and he is therefore ſaid to be rich in Mercy. This I ſhall ſpeak to in general, and you ſhall ſee it will naturally ariſe from the phraſe in the Text.

2. I ſhall open the abundance of the Riches of Mercy that are in God ſubjectively.

3. I ſhall ſhew you what Riches of Mercy (as the cauſe of our Salvation) are in God, and do lie by him. God who is rich in Mercy, ſaith he, for his great Love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in Sins, hath he quickned us, &c. And to handle them thus it is proper; all this is natural, it is not to go out of the Text, it is but to open it: for we muſt not fetch in all that can be ſaid of Mercy when we come to expound Scriptures, which is the work we have now in hand.

Firſt, I ſay, Mercy is a peculiar Excellency in God; he reckons this of all other; he reckons this of all other Excellencies the higheſt and greateſt. You ſhall find this amongſt Men, tho they poſſeſs many Excellencies, yet they are ſaid to be rich only in what is eminently excellent; they are ſaid to be rich only in reſpect of ſomething they poſſeſs in a more peculiar manner, whether Riches be applied to inward Excellencies of the Mind, or to outward. If to inward Excellencies, let a Man have never ſo much Wiſdom, yet his Riches lie in Faith, Rich in Faith, ſaith the Apoſtle; it doth not lie in his human Prudence or Wiſdom, but in his Faith, for Faith is the ſuperior and ſupream Excellency in him, in reſpect of which he is ſaid to be rich; and which makes a Man differ from other Men, even as Reaſon makes a Man differ from a Beaſt. If you attribute Riches to outward things, a Man is ſaid to be rich only in that which is moſt eminently excellent; as Abraham, Gen. 13. 2. is ſaid to be rich in Silver and in Gold: Therefore you know Gold and Silver, and Precious Stones are in an eminent manner counted Riches, or that which will procure them; Money, ſaith Solomon, anſwereth all things, Eccleſ. 10. 19. And in Eccleſ. 2. 9. ſpeaking of himſelf as being a King, ſaith he, I gathered me Silver and Gold, and the peculiar Treaſure of Kings. It was the manner of Kings then, and ſo is now; and if you travel into Foreign parts you ſhall ſee it uſed more than with us; they have all the Rarities of what kind ſoever, which they reſerve in a Treaſury, in a Cloſet or Study, great Pearls and precious Stones, and other Rarities; theſe are the peculiar Treaſure of Kings. So it is here, God tho he hath other Excellencies in him, and all Excellencies and Perfections, yet notwithſtanding he is pleaſed to ſtile himſelf Rich in a peculiar manner in reſpect of Mercy; this is the peculiar Treaſure of the King of Kings. As Solomon gathered him Silver and Gold, and the peculiar Treaſure of Kings: ſo tho God hath Juſtice and Power, and all theſe things in him, yet that which he peculiarly accounteth the Trea- of God himſelf, is his Mercy; God who is rich in Mercy, ſaith the Text.

You ſhall not read in all the Scripture, that I know of, that God is ſaid to be rich in Wrath, or rich in Juſtice, or rich in Power, tho all theſe are inward Perfections in him. Indeed you ſhall find this, that what is the object of his Wrath, he reckons a Treaſury for him too, but it is not aſcribed to the Attribute it ſelf; Deut. 32. 33, 34. Is not this laid up in ſtore with me, and ſealed up among my Treaſures? But what ſpeaks he of? He ſpeaks of Mens Sins, as in the verſes before, Their Vine is the Vine of Sodom, and of the Fields of Gomorrah; their Grapes are Grapes of Gall, their Cluſters are bitter, their Wine is the Poyſon of Dragons, and the cruel Venom of Aſps. Is not this (ſaith he) laid up in ſtore with me? &c. He ſpeaks of theſe but as of outward Riches to him, which will indeed one day bring in a Revenue of Glory to his Juſtice; Therefore you ſee he uſeth thoſe Phraſes that belong to external things, laid up in ſtore with me, ſaith he, and ſealed up among my Treaſures. So that indeed the Sinner is rather ſaid to treaſure up Wrath than God; Rom. 2. 5. After thy hardneſs and impenitent heart thou treaſureſt up unto thy ſelf wrath againſt againſt the day of Wrath; that is, the Treaſury of Wrath in him; tho God reckons it alſo his, becauſe it is a prey for his Juſtice to feed upon, and to fetch a World of Glory out of it. But now you ſhall find ſtill that Riches is applied unto Mercy, and if it be not only, yet this I am ſure of, that it is moſt frequently, and I think indeed it may be ſaid only. The Scripture ſpeaks of Riches of Glory, Eph. 3. 16. That he would grant you according to the Riches of his Glory. Yet eminently Mercy is there intended; for it is that which God beſtows, and which the Apoſtle there prayeth for. And he calls his Mercy there his Glory, as elſewhere he doth, as being the moſt eminent Excellency in God. Saith he, in Jer. 9. 24. Let him that gloriſieth, glory in this, that he underſtandeth and knoweth Me, that I am the Lord, which exerciſe Loving-kindneſs, Judgment and Righteouſneſs in the Earth. Now to what doth the Apoſtle apply this, in 1 Cor. 1. 30, 31? Unto God's giving of Jeſus Chriſt out of his abundant Mercy, to be Righteouſneſs, and Redemption, and all things for us. So that indeed here lies that which God would have us to glory in, and which he himſelf glories in, That we know Him which exerciſeth Loving-kindneſs, and makes Chriſt our Righteouſneſs. You know Solomon ſaith, Prov. 19. 11. that it is the glory of a Man to paſs over a Tranſgreſſion; herein lies the Glory of God. That in Rom. 9. 22, & 23 verſes compared, is obſervable; In the 22th verſe, where he ſpeaks of God's making known the Power of his Wrath, ſaith he, God willing to ſhew his Wrath, and make his Power known. But in ver. 23, when he comes to ſpeak of Mercy, he ſaith, That he might make known the Riches of his Glory; there Riches comes in. And what Glory doth he mean? Certainly he means the Glory of his Grace in a more eminent manner, as appeareth by the denomination of the ſubject, upon the Veſſels of Mercy, ſaith he. And ſo in Rom. 10. 12. where he is ſaid to be rich unto all that call upon him. By Riches there, the meaning is, he is rich in Goodneſs, he is (as I ſaid) good to a Riches, good to a Profuſeneſs, unto all that call upon him. So that indeed, my Brethren, it is that peculiar Attribute of Mercy that Riches is aſcribed unto. There is one place, and it is in Rom. 11. 33. where Riches is applied to the Wiſdom and Knowledge of God: But believe it, the Apoſtle ſpeaks there of Electing Knowledge and Wiſdom, that contriveth Mercy for us, as the very words before ſhew, and as the concluſion of all his diſcourſe in the next Chapter, ver. 1. makes apparent; where having ended his diſcourſe concerning God's having Mercy upon Jew and Gentile, he ſaith, I beſeech you by the Mercies of God. So that indeed Mercy carries away the name of theſe Riches, at leaſtwiſe moſt frequently in the New-Teſtament.

Serm. XIII.

Now do but think with your ſelves, that I may quicken your Hearts a little: There is nothing could be more comfortable to us than this, that God ſhould account Mercy, of all things elſe, to be his Riches, and himſelf to be rich in a more ſpecial manner in Mercy. You may ſee the Difference between God and Men in their Riches: Whilſt Kings and great Men account their Riches in other things, God accounts his Riches in being merciful. My Brethren, Mercy, if you conſider it, what is it? Why, it is that which God himſelf hath no need of; and therefore, when we ſay he is merciful, it wholly reſpects the Creature, and the Good of the Creature, and to deliver the Creature out of miſery. If he had ſaid, God is rich in Love, that is unto himſelf, for he loves himſelf; but merciful he is not to himſelf, neither is he capable of Mercy from himſelf: Therefore, when he ſaith, he is rich in Mercy, what can be more comfortable unto us? That that which God accounteth his only, or at leaſt, his chiefeſt Riches, is that which tendeth to our Good and Salvation. He himſelf indeed hath a Glory out of it, therefore it is called, Riches of Glory, v. 16. But yet take it as Mercy, and it is that which peculiarly concerns us, and our Good.

If his Riches lay in any thing elſe, we might not have ſo much hope and comfort, for he would employ thoſe Riches for the good of himſelf, as we ſee rich Men in the World do. Rich Men, tho they give away Crums from their Table, (as the expreſſion is in the Parable,) yet the chief of their Riches is all employed for themſelves, and their Children. But if any one's Riches ſhould lie only in Mercy, and in Grace, and himſelf were in himſelf perfectly happy, ſo that he himſelf hath no need of all thoſe Riches, ſurely this muſt be all for poor Creatures, who are capable of Mercy, and are the Objects of Mercy, and Sinners, they have the chiefeſt ſhare in it. It is an obſervable thing, that in Rom. 10.

where

where God is ſaid to be rich unto all, not rich in himſelf, but rich unto us; ſo the Phraſe runs. If there were a Man, that were rich in all things that the World accounts Riches, and that Man ſhould account it his chiefeſt Riches to give all this away, how would all the World come to him! My Brethren, thus it is with God, he is rich in that Attribute that gives all away, for he is ſaid to be rich in Mercy. I ſhall ſpeak a little more to this in the cloſe of all, by way of Uſe, therefore I urge it now no more.

I come to the ſecond thing, viz. To open to you the Abundance of theſe Riches of Mercy that are in God.

This Phraſe in the Text, God who is rich in Mercy, take it ſimply, and it imports:

Firſt; A Fulneſs, and an Abundance of Mercy in God, even to ſuperfluity, and to flowing over. Any one, that is ſaid to be rich in any thing, he hath an abundance of it, or elſe he cannot be ſaid to be rich. Now ye are full, ſaith the Apoſtle, and, Ye are rich, in 1 Cor. 4. 8. If there be not a Fulneſs, there is not Riches. O thou that art abundant in Treaſures, ſaith he to Babylon, in Jer. 51. 13. A Man is then ſaid to be rich, when he is abundant in Treaſures, to an Over-plus. Whoſe Belly thou filleſt with thy hid Treaſure, ſaith the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. 17. 14. (for he calls all theſe outward things in the World, God's Treaſure,) and they leave the reſt of their Subſtance (ſo we tranſlate it) to their Babes; they have an Over-plus, ſo Ainſworth, and others read it. Now God hath Mercy in him to an abundance, to an Over-plus: 1 Pet. 1. 3. Who according to his abundant Mercy hath begotten us again. There is an abundance of Mercy in him, even to a flowing over: 1 Tim. 1. 14. The Grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant; it was over-full, it was to a flowing over. In Rom. 5. 17. it is ſaid, that thoſe that are pardoned receive abundance of Grace and Mercy. And for our comfort, it is good to compare the expreſſions of the Scripture one with another. In that Rom. 5. 20. it is ſaid, that Sin doth abound: When Sin abounded, ſaith he, the meaſure of Man's Iniquity was brim-full; but when he comes to ſpeak of Grace, he puts an ὑπὲρ upon it; ὑπερεπλεόνασε, ſaith he, Grace did much more abound. There was a flowing, and a flowing over of Grace, as the word there ſignifies: Grace did not only overflow, but infinitely overflow, it was over-ſuperfluous, there was more than enough of it for the Salvation of Sinners.

Now it is ſaid to be abundant,

1. In reſpect of the Multitude of the Mercies that are in God.
2. In reſpect of the Variety of them.
3. In reſpect of the Greatneſs of them, the height, the depth, the length, the breadth of them.

1. I ſay, in reſpect of the Multitude of Mercies in God. You ſhall therefore find, that the Scripture ſpeaks of Mercies under Multitudes: Pſal. 51. 1. According to the multitude of thy tender Mercies, blot out my Tranſgreſſions. Pſal. 69. 13. O God, in the multitude of thy Mercy hear me. Iſa. 55. 7. Our God, he will multiply to pardon, as the word there is, which we tranſlate, He will abundantly pardon.

2. In reſpect of their Variety, they are manifold Mercies. Riches lie in a variety. In Ezek. 27. 12. Tyre is ſaid to have a multitude of all kinds of Riches. Now as God hath a multitude of Mercies, ſo he hath a multitude of all kinds of Mercies. Therefore you ſhall find in the Scripture, that Mercy ſtill runs in the Plural, not only to note out that they are many, but that they are manifold, there is variety of them: Rom. 12. 1. I beſeech you by the Mercies of God. In Nehem. 9. 19, & 27. (a Chapter wherein God and Man ſtriveth, as it were, whether God's Mercies, or Man's Sin, ſhould outvy one another,) there is mention made of the Manifoldneſs of his Mercies. And in Iſa. 63. 7. there is, The multitude of his Loving-kindneſſes, which are there called, the Praiſes of the Lord, becauſe cauſe they are his Glory. As our Hearts, and the Devil, are the Father of variety of Sins; ſo God is the Father of variety of Mercies, and they are as ſo many Children to him, which he begets. And there is no Sin or Miſery, but God hath a Mercy for it, and he hath a multitude of Mercies of every kind too; even like an Apothecary, that hath an abundance of Drugs of all ſorts, for all kind of Diſeaſes. As there is no Diſeaſe, but God hath made a Remedy for it; ſo there is no Miſery, but God hath Merey for it. He hath found out a Remedy for Sin, the hardeſt thing to cure of all things elſe, and therefore he hath provided a Remedy for all other Miſery. And as there are variety of Miſeries, which the Creature is ſubject unto; ſo he hath in himſelf a Shop, a Treaſury of all ſorts of Mercies, divided into ſeveral Promiſes in the Scripture, which are but as ſo many Boxes of this Treaſure, the Caskets of variety of Mercies. If thy Heart be hard, his Mercies are tender; if thy Heart be dead, he hath Mercy to quicken it, as Pſal. 119. hath it again and again: If thou be ſick, he hath Mercy to heal thee; if thou be ſinful, he hath Mercies to ſanctify and cleanſe thee. As large and as various as are our Wants, ſo large and various are his Mercies. So as We may come boldly, to find Grace and Mercy to help us in time of need; a Mercy for every Need, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks. All the Mercies that are in his own Heart, he hath tranſplanted them into ſeveral Beds (as I may ſo expreſs it) in the Garden of the Promiſes, where they grow, and he hath abundance of variety of them, ſuited to all the variety of the Diſeaſes of the Soul.

Serm. XIII.

Secondly; As Riches are attributed unto Mercy in reſpect of Abundance, ſo in reſpect of Hiddenneſs and Unknownneſs. We uſe to ſay of a rich Man, that he is of an unknown Wealth and Eſtate; ſo the Scripture calls it, hidden Treaſure. In Iſa. 45. 3. I will give thee (ſaith he, ſpeaking of Cyrus,) the Treaſures of Darkneſs, and hidden Riches of ſecret Places. Now the Mercies of God, they are hidden, they are unſearchable. As there are Curſes written, and not written; as in Deut. 28. 61. after the mention of ſeveral Curſes for Diſobedience, he ſaith, Alſo I will bring upon thee every Plague which is not written in this Book: So there are alſo Bleſſings which are not written; he had told them of Bleſſings that he would beſtow upon them for their Obedience, in the former part of that Chapter, but he tells them, v. 12. as the concluſion of all the Bleſſings enumerated afore, that he had a Treaſury to open: The Lord (ſaith he) ſhall open upon thee his good Treaſure; as if he had not mentioned half before, and that thoſe he had mentioned were but a few Inſtances of that Treaſure of Mercy he had by him. And in that reſpect, becauſe of hiddenneſs, the Riches of Mercy in God are called, a Depth of Riches, Rom. 11. 33. O the depth of the Riches, both of the Wiſdom and Knowledg of God! How unſearchable are his Judgments, and his Ways paſt finding out! If he had ſaid, O the depth! it had been enough; but he ſaith, O the depth of the Wiſdom and Knowledg of God! how unſearchable are his Judgments! For it is a Treaſury that hath no bottom, it is paſt finding out. He ſpeaks of Mercy, becauſe he ſpeaks of Fore-knowledg, which contriveth ways of ſhewing Mercy, as the beginning of chap. 12. ſhews. Now, my Brethren, if his Judgments be a great depth, as you have it, Pſal. 36. 6. Thy Judgments are a great Deep; his Mercies then are much more: For if you compare the 5*th*, 6*th*, and 7*th* Verſes of that Pſalm, you ſhall find, that by Judgments, he doth not mean outward Judgments of Wrath and Vengeance; but he ſpeaks of Mercy, and but of common Mercy neither there, the Works of his Providence, (for ſo Judgments is often taken in the Scripture likewiſe,) for when he ſaith, Thy Judgments are a great Deep, O Lord, it follows, Thou preſerveſt Man and Beaſt; meaning the Mercies he ſheweth to Man and Beaſt in common: theſe, he ſaith, are a great Deep. And the Apoſtle, in that Rom. 11. (which place this of the Pſalms openeth) ſaith, They are unſearchable, and paſt finding out. Now, I ſay, if theſe Judgments of God are a great Deep, theſe common Mercies that are exerciſed to Man and Beaſt; how excellent is his Loving-kindneſs, (for ſo it follows in that Pſalm,) or his Grace unto thoſe that truſt in him? They ſhall be abundantly ſatisfied with the fatneſs of thy Houſe, and thou ſhalt make them drink of the River of thy Pleaſures: For with thee is the Fountain of Life, in thy Light ſhall we ſee Light, and continue thy Loving-kindneſs unto them that know thee, &c. Clearly this is the meaning meaning of it: If (ſaith he) thou ſheweſt ſo much Mercy, and Goodneſs, and Faithfulneſs, here in the Earth, that thy Mercy is in the Heavens, and thy Faithfulneſs reacheth unto the Clouds, and thy Righteouſneſs is like the great Mountains; and thy Judgments, and common ways of Mercy, whereby thou preſerveſt Man and Beaſt, are a great Deep: what is that Mercy thou haſt laid up for thoſe that fear thee! The Pſalmiſt breaks out, How excellent is thy Loving-kindneſs, O Lord, to the Sons of Men that truſt in thee! If the Earth be ſo full of thy Mercy, as indeed it is, for Riches of Patience and Long-ſuffering are the common Mercies which all the World live upon; if theſe Mercies reach to the Clouds, and are over all his Works, what hath he reſerved and laid up for thoſe that are Veſſels of Mercy, whom he hath prepared for Mercy, whom he hath widened and extended for Mercy! The Scripture it ſelf cannot hold them. There are Mercies written and unwritten; there is a Treaſury laid up in Heaven, to be broke up at the latter day, which we know not of. And what is the reaſon? Becauſe God ſheweth Mercy according to his own Heart, 1 Chron. 17. 19. Now if a King give, he will give as a King, according to his Riches; ſo doth God. In 1 King. 10. 13. it is ſaid, that King Solomon gave the Queen of Sheba all her deſire, whatſoever ſhe asked: So will God do; open thy mouth as wide as thou canſt, ask of God what Riches of Mercy thou wilt, he will give thee all thy deſire: Beſides (ſaith the Text) that which Solomon gave her of his Royal Bounty: So here, God hath Mercy to give whatſoever thou canſt ask, beſides thoſe hidden Treaſures of Mercy, which he hath lying by him, to beſtow according to his own Greatneſs.

Thirdly; Riches imply, as Abundance, and Hiddenneſs, ſo Inexhauſtedneſs. You ſhall find, in Iſa. 2. 7. mention made of Treaſures that have no end; for that is Riches indeed, that ſeems to have no bottom. Such is the Mercy of God, it is Riches of Mercy, Mercy that hath no end, no bottom: He can forgive great Sins, and continue to do it: Forgiving Iniquity, Tranſgreſſion, and Sin, ſaith the Text, Exod. 34. And ſo in Mic. 7. 18. Who is a God like unto thee, that pardoneth Iniquity, and paſſeth by the Tranſgreſſion of the Remnant of his Heritage? In Mat. 18. 24, & 27. ſpeaking there in the Parable of Forgiveneſs, he ſaith, he forgave ten thouſand Talents, which one that was brought unto him owed him; and he ſpeaks of that common Forgiveneſs of a temporary Believer too. Ten thouſand Talents is a mighty Sum; do but think what they are: Amaziah, in 2 Chron. 25. 6. hired an hundred thouſand mighty Men of Valour, for an hundred Talents; what would a thouſand Talents do then? what would ten thouſand Talents do then? All this is to expreſs the great Riches of his Mercy in forgiving. When thou waſt firſt turned unto God, what a world of Sin didſt thou bring with thee? ten thouſand Talents! He forgave them all, when he firſt quickned thee, when he firſt converted thee, and he doth continue, and will continue to do ſo too. How oft (ſaith Peter, in that Mat. 18.) ſhall my Brother ſin againſt me, and I forgive him? Till ſeven times? Thou art a Niggard, ſaith Chriſt, Forgive not until ſeven times, but until ſeventy times ſeven. And Chriſt there alludeth to that Phraſe of the Jews, when they would expreſs an unlimited Number, they would ſay, till ſeven times: Gen. 4. 24. Cain ſhall be avenged ſeven-fold; they went no further than to Seven, to expreſs an unknown Number: But, ſaith Chriſt, I ſay, forgive until ſeventy times ſeven. And mark, as I may ſay, the gracious Wit of the Alluſion: Until ſeven times, is ſpoken of Vengeance; but when he ſpeaks of Forgiveneſs, he ſaith, Until ſeventy times ſeven; that is, to an Infinity. So that tho his Vengeance be to ſeven times, his Mercy is to ſeventy times ſeven. His Compaſſions are ſaid to fail not, in Lam. 3. 22. and that becauſe they are renewed every morning. But I will not inſiſt upon opening that neither, for I think I ſpoke more largely to it heretofore, and I would ſpeak thoſe things now, which I did not ſpeak then. My Brethren, they are Mercies from everlaſting, and they will continue unto everlaſting; it is a Treaſure that can never be ſpent, never be exhauſted, unto eternity. In Iſa. 64. 5. In thy Mercy is continuance. If God will but continue to be merciful to me, will a poor Soul ſay, I have enough; why, ſaith he, In his Mercies is continuance, and we ſhall be ſaved. Hath God, or can God pardon thee thitherto, but now thou haſt ſin-ned again? O do but ſtretch them out a little further: Why, he will ſtretch them out unto eternity, unto everlaſting; and if one Everlaſting be not enough, there are twenty ſix Everlaſtings in one Pſalm, Pſal. 136. In Iſa. 54. 8. In a little Wrath I hid my face from thee, but with everlaſting kindneſs will I have Mercy on thee.

Serm. XIII.

And then again, God is ſaid to be rich in Mercy, becauſe he is rich unto all, unto Multitudes; not unto one, or unto ſome only, but unto all that do come in, that do call upon him, Rom. 10. 12. unto the Gentiles, as well as the Jews, as here it is. And indeed, my Brethren, when is it that that Attribute [Riches] began to be given unto the Mercy and Grace of God, but when the calling of the Gentiles began to be ſpoken of, becauſe it is an extenſive Riches, a Riches that ſerves all the World. I have a Treaſure of Riches by me, ſaith God, and do you think I will coop my ſelf up to the Jews only? No, He is Lord over all, and rich unto all that call upon him. And this is proper unto the ſcope here, (it is the Obſervation of Cajetan upon the place,) for you ſhall obſerve, that the Apoſtle all along, both in the firſt Chapter, and in this, had carried it both to Jew and to Gentile, that God predeſtinated the Jews, and predeſtinated the Gentiles alſo, &c. He ſheweth forth his Mercy unto all, he doth not do it to a few, but to all ſorts of multitudes of Men.

And ſo much now for the ſecond Head, namely, the Abundance of the Riches of Mercy that are in God.

I come now to the third, viz. To ſhew you, what Riches of Mercy (as the cauſe of our Salvation) are in God. This Phraſe [Rich in Mercy] I told you, comes in here, as the Cauſe of our Salvation. Now God, he is rich in Mercy three ways; he hath three Treaſuries (as I may ſo ſpeak) of Mercies, that do lie by him.

1. He hath the Riches of his own Nature, of the Mercies that are natural to him, as I ſhewed in the laſt Diſcourſe, that Mercy was natural to him: We were by Nature (ſaith he) Children of Wrath, but God is by Nature rich in Mercy.

2. He hath not only Riches of Mercy in his Nature, (for ſo he might have had, and never a Sinner the better,) but he hath laid up Riches of Mercy in his everlaſting Purpoſes and Decrees, as much as the Elect can ſpend, or ſhall ſpend.

3. He hath acquired Riches, purchaſed Riches; he hath all the Merits of Chriſt lying by him, that purchaſed all the Mercies that ever he meant to beſtow.

And all theſe three he had, as the Cauſes that moved him to ſhew Mercy to us: God who is rich in Mercy, ſaith he; rich in his own Nature, rich in his everlaſting Purpoſes of Mercy, rich in reſpect of that Purchaſe of Mercy which Chriſt brought in to him.

He is, firſt, rich, in reſpect of a Mine of Mercies which are in his own Heart, which are in his own Nature. My Brethren, this is the differenc betwixt God's Riches, and Man's: Man's Riches are gotten by receiving, (becauſe they conſiſt in outward things, they are added to a Man,) and indeed they are, if great, uſually gotten by deſpoiling of others, and others are the poorer for it; but God's Riches, they are all in Himſelf, Himſelf is the Mine of them. I ſhewed you once, (of which I will not ſpeak one whit now) the Weſt-Indies of all theſe Mercies, and the Proceed was this, (and I know nothing more to ſet forth the Mercy of God,) that all the Attributes that are in God, all his Wiſdom, all his Truth, all his very Juſtice it ſelf, all that is in God, moves him to be merciful. To make good this, is a great undertaking; but the Scripture is ſo clear in it, as in nothing more. Now if there were an Elixir, a Philoſopher's Stone, as they call it, that would turn all that a Manhath into Gold, how rich would that Man be! Why, Mercy in God turns all his Attributes to it ſelf, to thoſe that God loves. And therefore, in Exod. 34. it is made his whole Name: The Lord (ſaith he, v. 5.) deſcended in a Cloud, and proclaimed the Name of the Lord, and the Lord paſſed by, and proclaimed, The Lord, the Lord, merciful and gracious, &c.

Serm. XIII.

I come now to the ſecond, how there is a Mine of Mercy laid up in his Purpoſes and Decrees. A Man is ſaid to be rich, that hath a Stock and Treaſure laid up by him: Thou haſt much Goods laid up for many Years, ſaith the rich Man in the Parable. Now God hath ſo: He is not only infinitely merciful in his Nature, that's the Mine, but in his Purpoſes and Decrees; he hath laid by as many Mercies for his Children, as they ſhall for ever ſpend, or ſtand in need of. Mercies might have been in his Nature, and reſerved to himſelf; he might have had that Treaſure, and have hid it: No, but he took what was in his Nature, in his own gracious Diſpoſition; he found himſelf to be ſo and ſo compaſſionate to Sinners, and he decrees ſo to be in the manifeſtation of it to them. If you compare that place, in Exod. 20. 5, 6. with Exod. 34. 7. you ſhall find, that the Text ſaith, that he reſerveth or keepeth Mercy, lays it up by him as a Stock, and as a Treaſure; and for how long doth he lay it up? what for one or two Generations? So indeed he ſaith in reſpect of puniſhing, Viſiting (ſaith he) the Iniquity of the Fathers upon the Children, unto the third and fourth Generation of them that hate me; but he keepeth Mercy for thouſands of Generations of them that love him. So that look what proportion three or four have to millions, that proportion hath the Treaſury of Mercy to that of Juſtice and Vengeance. God ſtretcheth the Suppoſition beyond what will ever fall out; for in the Succeſſions of Men there will not be a thouſand Generations, there hath not been an hundred ſince the World ſtood: but to ſhew the great Stock of Mercy which he hath reſerved by him, he ſaith, If there were thouſands of Generations, and ten thouſand of Generations, if this World ſhould laſt ſo long, he hath reſerved Mercy enough for them all, and all this Mercy he will empty into the Veſſels of Mercy. Therefore Mercy is ſaid to be from everlaſting to everlaſting. How long hath this Stock and Treaſury of Mercy been laying up too? It hath been laying up even from everlaſting. And therefore David, in Pſal. 25. 6. hath recourſe to the Mercies of God, which, he ſaith, have been for ever of old. And, my Brethren, if God have been thinking thoughts of Mercy from everlaſting to thoſe that are his, what a Stock and Treaſury do theſe thoughts ariſe to, beſides thoſe that are in his Nature and Diſpoſition! This is in his actual Purpoſes and Intentions, which he hath thought, and doth think over, again and again, every moment: Pſal. 40. 6. Many, O Lord, are thy wonderful Works, and thy thoughts which are to us-ward, ſaith Jeſus Chriſt; for it is a Pſalm of Chriſt, and quoted by the Apoſtle, and applied unto Chriſt, in Heb. 10. How many are thy thoughts to us-ward! (he ſpeaks it in the name of the humane Nature,) that is, to me and mine; if I would declare and ſpeak of them, they are more than can be numbred; and what is the reaſon? Becauſe God hath ſtudied Mercies for his Children, even from everlaſting. And then, He renewеth his Mercies every morning; not that any Mercies are new, but he actually thinketh over Mercies again and again, and ſo he brings out of his Treaſury Mercies both new and old, and the old are always new. What a Stock, my Brethren, muſt this needs amount unto! Mercies from everlaſting to everlaſting; ſo you have it in Pſal. 103. 17. And theſe Mercies always new, freſh every morning. Look therefore for Mercy when you come to Heaven. You have the Phraſe of finding Mercy at that Day, in 2 Tim. 1. 18. There is indeed a Stock of Mercies laid up in Heaven: Thy Mercy, O Lord, is in the Heavens, ſaith Pſal. 36. 5. And the Mercies that are in Heaven are higher and greater, infinitely greater Mercies, that we ſhall have when we come thither, than what we have here. It is a Treaſury which God hath laid up there in his own everlaſting Purpoſes, Col. 1. 5.

And, my Brethren, let me tell you this, That God, when he laid up Mercies for his Children, he did not ſay, I will lay up ſuch a Stock, or ſo much Mercy: This he doth indeed to wicked Men, he lays by a Pittance, an Allowance of Mercy for them, gives them ſuch a Portion of the Riches of his Long-ſuffering and Patience, (which is called Riches too, becauſe it is the Glory of God, and an eminent excellency in him): Carnal Men, I ſay, whom God means to throw away, he ſaith of them, I will lay by ſo much, and when you have ſpent this, you ſhall have a Treaſure of Wrath for it; and the truth is, when that Portion of Mercy is ſpent, they are undone. But God hath laid by Mercies for his Saints, without telling of it what his Children shall spend. They are called the sure Mercies of David. And in Psal. 89. where the Covenant with David is mentioned, If his Children forsake my Law, and walk not in my Judgments, if they break my Statutes, and keep not my Commandments, and suppose they do it (if it may be supposed) never so much, Nevertheless my loving-kindness will I not utterly take from them, nor suffer my Faithfulness to fail, my Covenant will I not break, &c. So that they are the sure Mercies of David, for God hath laid Mercies by him unlimitted. Suppose they do thus and thus, and never so much (and his Mercy shall be sure to keep them from the Sin against the Holy Ghost) let them do thus and thus, nevertheless I will be thus and thus merciful to them. He hath laid by in his own purposes an indefinite Mercy for them. Therefore now, my Brethren, if you could suppose that those whom God loves, should live in his World in that mixture of Sin and Grace we now are in, unto Eternity, God hath laid by Mercies enow to pardon you and to pity you notwithstandiug, and to keep Communion and Fellowship with you. He that pardoned the Sin of 900 years to Adam, he would have pardoned 9000 and 9000 after that, even unto Eternity, if he had continued, such a Stock and Treasure of Mercy hath God lying by him.

Serm. XIII.

The third and last Stock which God may be said to be rich in, is in the Mercies purchased, and that is by the Merits of Christ: For know this, that all the Merits of Christ they are called the Mercies of God; And why? Because all the Mercies that he hath laid by, and meaneth actually to bestow, Christ was to purchase every whit of them. In Esa. 55. 3. they are called the sure Mercies of David: but look in Acts 13. 34. where that place in Esa. is quoted, and they are called the Holy things of David (so you shall find it in your Margents) as holding forth the Merits of the Lord Jesus. That Righteousness of his, all the holy things of Christ, they are called the Mercies of David, because Christ purchased those Mercies for the Elect; God therefore may well afford to shew Mercy. How rich must he be in Mercy, think you, that besides the Mercies of his own Nature, and the Mercies of his Decrees and Purposes, hath the Mercies purchased by Christ? What a Stock did Christ bring into this Treasury when he hung upon the Cross! How did he fill it, even to an overflowing! That is one reason why God ordained that this Treasury of the Riches of Mercy should be broken open after Christ's Ascension, when both Jews and Gentiles were to be called in: He is now rich unto all, because he hath now a Stock come in by the Purchase of Christ; He may well now keep a great House, for Jesus Christ hath laid in Provision enough. They are called therefore the unsearchable Riches of Christ; and all those Riches are Mercies because they purchase Mercy. He hath purchased Mercy to pardon all Sin, to bestow all Good. Nay, let me tell you this, though the Merits of Christ are not of that extent that the Mercies in God's Nature are, yet they are adequate to all the Mercies that God means to bestow. God doth not bestow one Mercy out of Christ, therefore we have Peace and Mercy wished from Jesus Christ: and you have them both in Psal. 130. 7. Mercy and plenteous Redemption. God is not more merciful in his Nature by virtue of Christ's Death, but look what Mercies God meant to bestow; Jesus Christ, that was so rich, became poor, to purchase them all. And if we could suppose (as to illustrate it we may) that God were poor in his own Nature, yet he hath such a Mine brought in by Christ, that he may well shew Mercy, yea it were injustice for God now not to shew Mercy, for Christ hath purchased at his Hands that he should do it.

I shall give you but an Observation or two, which I think are natural to the Text, and so I shall conclude.

Observ. 1.

The first Observation is this, That God so loveth those that he means to save, that if they need it, all the Riches of Mercy that are in him, shall be laid out for it. God (saith he) being rich in Mercy, he hath quickned us, and saved us, and done all things for us. He hath ingaged, in his own everlasting Purposes, all the Mercies in him, to save Sinners, he hath laid them all to pawn, he will do it.

And the reason why God will lay out, if need were, all the Riches of Mercy in him, for those he loveth, is this: Because that Mercy no way tendeth to profit him; not not as Mercy: he hath a Glory indeed out of it, but the object of Mercy is not himſelf, but the object of Mercy and of all the Riches of it, is poor Creatures, poor Sinners, whom he hath ſet himſelf thus to love. God is not ſaid to be rich to himſelf, but unto us; he is rich unto all, ſaith the Text, Rom. 10. 12. Nay let me tell you this further, as God needs no Mercy, ſo Jeſus Chriſt himſelf needs no Mercy. This goodneſs extendeth not unto God, nor doth it extend to Jeſus Chriſt; we muſt not ſay that he was dealt withal in a way of Mercy, for he could merit nothing to himſelf, as our Divines ſay, much leſs that there ſhould be need of Mercy for him, having right to all that Glory which is in Heaven, at the very firſt moment, which he was enriched withal as his due; Therefore all this extendeth not unto him, but to the Saints that are in the Earth, and to the Excellent, in whom is all his Delight; therefore Mercy, and all the whole Riches of it, is wholly for them, if they ſtand in need of it.

And then again, As Mercy is the Riches of God, ſo he accounts his Saints and elect Children, his Treaſure. They are a peculiar Treaſure to himſelf, and he laid up this Treaſure for that other Treaſure. Deut. 28. 12. If they will do thus and thus, then ſaith God, I will open my good Treaſure; He ſpeaks in the Language of the old Law, but he types out all the Heavenly Bleſſings in Heavenly Places in Chriſt. Thoſe that are his Children, he will open all his Treaſure for them, if they ſtand in need of it. In Heaven, what a Treaſury is there to be opened, and we are Heirs of all that Treaſury. Jeſus Chriſt is an Heir, but he inheriteth not Mercy; we only are Heirs of Mercy. Abraham was troubled becauſe he had not an Heir to inherit his Riches: Why God hath Riches, and Riches of Mercy that lie by him, and he hath Heirs to inherit it, he will not heap up Riches and have none to inherit them, as thoſe in Pſal. 39. but he hath thoſe that ſhall inherit all theſe Riches of Mercy that lye by him. His Son needs not Mercy, and himſelf needs not Mercy, as Mercy; therefore he hath Heirs, and all theſe Riches of Mercy are theirs.

Obſerv. 2. Again, another Obſervation from hence is this. That the Saints, they do in a manner, need all the Riches of Mercy that are in God. For ſo the Words likewiſe come in, in ſuch a coherence after he had ſo ſet out our Sinfulneſs; God, ſaith he, being rich in Mercy. Had he not been God, and had all theſe Riches of Mercy in him, we had never been ſaved, but he being rich in Mercy, even when we were dead in Sins, he hath quickned us and ſaved us. He is rich unto all that call upon him, Rom. 10. 12. it is ſpoken in reſpect of Salvation, for it is written (ſaith he) whoſoever calleth upon the Name of the Lord ſhall be ſaved. So that to Salvation the Riches of Mercy that are in God are neceſſary. Leſs would not ſerve the turn; if there were but one Sinner, and one Sin (let me ſay that) that Sinner for that one Sin, needed in ſome reſpect the Riches of the Mercy of a great God to ſave him. I am God and not Man, ſaith he, therefore ye are not conſumed; And, My Thoughts are not your Thoughts; for if my Thoughts were as yours, were they not the thoughts of a God? and were not that God rich in Mercy, no one Sinner for one Sin could be ſaved. My Brethren, we need a Treaſury of Mercy to ſave us. There are two Treaſuries that Man hath, which muſt be taken off and bought out by two anſwerable Treaſures in God. There is firſt a Treaſure of Sin. I told you before of ten thouſand Talents: how many thouſand Talents, if they were ſummed up, doth every Man of us bring unto God? And then there is a Treaſury of Wrath. Every one is a Child of Wrath by Nature; but he goeth on treaſuring up Wrath by every Sin, if God did not put him into a ſtate of Mercy. Now to take off both theſe Treaſures, to outvy them, we need the Riches of Mercy that is in an infinite God. To forbear a wicked Man here till he go to Hell, it is Riches of Mercy, but to forbear ſuch a Man to Eternity, what Riches will it coſt? But not only to forbear him, but to forgive that Man, and to forgive him ſo as to remember his Sins no more, what a World of Mercy is there in this? My Brethren, there is a World of Mercy in every Mercy you receive from God. If thou comeſt to the Ordinances, it is Mercy, thou mighteſt have been in Hell; I will come to thy Sanctuary in the multitude of thy Mercies. If a Sin be to be pardoned by God, Pardon me according to the multitude of thy Mercies, Pſal. 51. 1. Waſt thou dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes? it is the infinite Riches of Mercy of the great great God that quickned thee. It's true indeed, the Scripture ſpeaks both ways, it tells us there is more Mercy in God than we need; why? Becauſe it is the Mercy of an infinite God, and no leſs would ſerve to ſave us. They are not Crums (as the Woman in the Goſpel ſaid) that ſerve our turn, if there had not been an overflowing of Mercy, if it were not the Mercy of an infinite God, we had never been ſaved.

Serm. XIII.

I ſhall end only with a Uſe, to quicken our Hearts at laſt. Are there all theſe Riches of Mercy in God, and are we the Heirs of it? Never forſake your own Mercies, it is a Speech that Jonah hath, Chap. 2.8. And are there theſe Riches of Mercy in God? Let us come unto him. Tyre was a rich Place, had a multitude of all kind of Riches, and by reaſon thereof ſhe had a World of Cuſtomers, ſhe was the Mart for all Nations; one Nation came and traded in her Fairs for Iron, another for Lead, and another for Tin, and another for rich Apparel. O my Brethren, is God Lord over all, and rich unto all that call upon him? how ſhould this invite us all to come unto him? And how ſhould we truſt perfectly upon theſe Riches? If a Man be rich, he is apt to ſet his Heart upon them, to truſt in them; do you truſt in theſe Riches of Mercy that are in God, which are all yours that do come unto him. Riches in other things make Men harſh and rough; *Prov.*18.23. The Rich anſwereth roughly; Riches ſtrengthen Mens Spirits to be proud, and to carry it ſcornfully; the rich oppreſs you, ſaith James: but if they were rich in Mercy they would not be ſo. Now God is rich in Mercy, and therefore the more Riches of Mercy he hath, the more eaſy he is to be intreated. Men that are rich muſt be charged to do good, and to be rich in good Works, ſo the Apoſtle ſaith, 1 Tim. 6. 17, 18. for they will not do it naturally. But God he is rich, and his Riches lye in Mercy. If Mens Riches lay in Mercy, as it is a Grace, they needed not to be charged to be rich in good Works; but God's Riches lye in Mercy, therefore come to him, he is eaſy to be intreated, he giveth richly all things to enjoy, giveth freely, giveth bountifully like himſelf.

And ſo much now for the opening this Head, which I have not done Common-place-wiſe, as heretofore I handled it, but ſo far forth as might open the Text, and quicken our Hearts.

SERM.

SERMON XIV.

EPHES. 2. 5, 6.

5. Even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us together with Christ, (by Grace ye are saved)
6. And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus.

YOU may remember, how in the general Coherence, which was premiſed to the whole firſt eleven Verſes of this ſecond Chapter, at the entrance thereinto, (which the Reader may pleaſe to review,) I ſhewed, that the Apoſtle intended a Parallel, or Compariſon, between what was done to Chriſt, in bringing him to Glory, (as our Head, and as a Patern too); and what anſwerably God was doing in us, and for us, in perfecting our Salvation: And after a long and enlarged Stream of Diſcourſe, he falls ſuddenly into a ſhort winding up of it. And as in Chriſt's raiſing to his Glory, to ſhew forth the greatneſs of this Power therein, there was: 1. The Terminus à quo, the ſtate from whence, Raiſed from the dead. 2. The Terminus ad quem, the ſtate whereto he was raiſed, that Glory deſcribed, v. 21, 22, &c. So anſwerably in us, and our Salvation, to ſhew forth the Riches of God's Grace, (which was the principal Attribute in our Salvation to be illuſtrated,) he ſets, 1. The Terminus à quo, the ſtate from which, a ſtate of Death and Wrath, in and for Sin, v. 1, 2, 3. And, 2. After magnifying the Riches of Love and Mercy of the Raiſer of us out of this eſtate, he comes here to ſet out the Terminus ad quem, the ſtate to which we are by degrees to be advanced, in theſe words: Which is the Third General Head, of this firſt part of this Chapter, ſhewing, how all this is and ſhall be perfected, according to a correſpondence and proportion with that he wrought in Chriſt. Now this perfecting of our Salvation, or the whole Work of God upon us, in a correſpondency to that in Chriſt, he ſums up in two Heads, which contain in them three parts, or degrees thereof.

Firſt; To two Heads: As,

1. What is already in this Life begun, and to be done in us here perſonally, We are quickned with Chriſt.
2. What remains yet perſonally to be perfected in us in the World to come, yet at preſent is repreſentatively done in our Head: Raiſed up, and ſitting in heavenly Places.

Secondly; Theſe two, comprehending three eminent parts or degrees of our Salvation.

1. Quickning, which is put to expreſs all the whole Work of God upon our Souls here, until Death, in a conformity to Chriſt.
2. Raiſing up our Bodies, and our whole Man, as he did Chriſt's.
3. Glorifying us with him, in the ſame Place, and with the ſame Glory, for the ſubſtance of it.

Thirdly; You may obſerve, that all theſe three are ſaid to be done with Chriſt, and in Chriſt; ſo compleatly making up the Redition, or other part of that Compariſon between us and Chriſt, namely, how the Work in us is conformable to that on Chriſt: Raiſed, as he, v. 19. Set in heavenly Places, as he, v. 20.

This

Serm. XIV.

This in general of both thoſe Verſes, I come particularly to the fifth Verſe.

VERSE 5.

Even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us together with Chriſt: (By Grace ye are ſaved.)

Theſe words, they are a redition to the 19*th* Verſe of the firſt Chapter, and do refer thither. He had ſhewn what a Power and Glory was exerciſed in raiſing up Chriſt when he was dead, and ſetting him up in heavenly places, and had ſaid, the ſame Power works towards us: Now ſaith he, Ye are dead, and dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, and he hath quickned you, and he hath ſet you together with Chriſt in heavenly Places. And whereas in the 19*th* Verſe of the firſt Chapter, he had attributed it to the Power of God, he alters the caſe here, he attributes it unto Mercy, and he attributes it unto Love, and he attributes it unto Grace, becauſe (as I ſhewed you in the Obſervations upon the 4*th* Verſe,) that all Attributes do but ſubſerve Love and Mercy, in whatſoever they do for us; and therefore he names them. If he would have made it up according to the courſe and way of Speech, he ſhould have ſaid, Look what great Power wrought in Chriſt, in raiſing him up from the dead, wrought in you, in quickning you when ye were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes: But he mentions not Power, but, God who is rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he hath loved us, even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us.

There are three things in this Verſe:

I. A ſhort Repetition of, and minding them again of that Condition God found them in, by intimation of the main thereof, ſo to remember the whole: Even when we were dead in Sins.

II. The firſt Benefit beſtowed, the firſt Degree and Foundation of Salvation laid in this Life, Quickned.

III. A quick and moſt piercing Note of Obſervation of the Apoſtle by the way, as an Inference from both, being put at once together, (By Grace ye are ſaved:) Which, like the Top and Point of a burning Pyramis, or great Flame of Fire, hath all the ſtrength of Heat that ariſeth out of the whole centred in it. And to ſet the more remark upon it, it is brought in by a Parentheſis, and comes not in by continued Coherence, to affect the more, like a hand in the Margin. He would have them, above all elſe in his Diſcourſe, have this in their eye.

I. The Repetition, Even when we were dead in Sins.

There are three things in thoſe words.

1. The Conſideration of the Emphaſis put upon this Repetition; for it is not a bare Sentence of Repetition, but with an emphatical Note and Particle, Even when, as the word καὶ implies.
2. The Condition it ſelf repeated, Dead in Sins; and that ſingled out, as more properly referring to Quickning, ſo more pertinently to illuſtrate that firſt Benefit.
3. The Perſons it is beſtowed upon, [Ye] and [We.]

1. Even: This word καὶ here, ſome would have to be redundant; others would have it to be [but,] as in v. 4. And ſo Grotius, whoſe Opinions engaged him to leſſen the greatneſs of this Death in Sin, that the more might be given to Man's Will in his quickning. But it has a double force in it, as it comes in in this Coherence:

Firſt;

First; As it ſerves fitly for a Particle of Repetition, to ſuperadd an Emphaſis, to ſet out the depth of our Miſery, and inability to help our ſelves out of it; and is all one with Inquam, as Eſtius well, or as our Tranſlators, Even when dead, thereby to ſet out the Love and Mercy of God, as v. 4. and exceeding Greatneſs of his Power working in us, as chap. 1. v. 19. ſhewn in quickning us here. In the firſt verſe, that Particle καὶ is rightly rendred, [And,] for there it comes in as a Particle of Tranſition to a new matter, from that which he had ſaid of Chriſt, to that other part of the Compariſon, what concerned us. But here,

Secondly; It is a Particle of brief Repetition, referring to all that which was largely ſaid before, in v. 1, 2, 3. ſuch as the long Sentences there uſed are, to uſher in the dependency of new matter; but it is not a bare Repetition, but with an advantage, to illuſtrate the Mercy of being quickned.

Even when we were dead.] ὄντας, being dead, or, when we were dead. It implies the very condition God then took us in, when we were in the depth of it. And tho the Apoſtle repeats but a part of that condition we lay in, (he doth not go over all which was ſaid thereof in the three firſt Verſes,) yet his meaning ſurely was, that in their thoughts thereof, they ſhould take in afreſh all that he had ſaid thereof before. Yea, he cuts ſhort even what he repeats: for whereas he had there ſaid, Dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; here only, Dead in Sins, that Hint being enough to bring on the other; but there he had further added, Wherein we walked according to the courſe of this World, &c. whereas here he leaves out all that, and mentions this of Dead in Sins, for all the reſt, as it were with an Et cætera.

Thus often in our Prayers or Meditations, after ſet and particular Confeſſion of Sin, we find it uſeful in the other part of Prayer, as in craving Mercies, or Aſſurances of God's Love, and Forgiveneſs, and giving Thanks for Benefits; even in the midſt thereof, to have ſome ſhort recollection of our Sinfulneſs, which yet, by the help of the Spirit, do give us a renewed proſpect of the whole thereof; which was alſo Paul's ſcope here. And ſo we often find, that in a more brief Reviſe of larger thoughts, by a ſtrange miraculous Beam, (which carries in it the Species and Strength of all,) the Spirit of God preſents in a Glance all together at once to us, and gives us a comprehenſive Light, that works more on the Heart, than all the the more ſet and enlarged thoughts we had.

This Repetition argues likewiſe, that of all the Characters of Sin and Miſery, which in the foregoing Verſes he had given of an unregenerate Eſtate, he eſteemed this of all other the deepeſt, that they were dead in Sins, which ſome would ſo much diminiſh, and bring low, of all other Points concerning that Eſtate.

Thus much for the firſt Branch, the Repetition of their being dead in Sins.

2. The Perſons he applies it unto, are next to be conſidered.

We.] In this word he ſums up both Jews and Gentiles, to have lain in this their natural Condition before Converſion. I take notice of this, becauſe ſome Interpreters make a miſ-repreſentation of the Apoſtle's Sence; for they reſtrain this only to the Jews, and the reaſon is this: He had ſaid in the firſt Verſe, Ye were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; now ſpeaking of the Jews, himſelf being a Jew, he ſaith, When we were dead: So they make the Particle καὶ only a Particle of compariſon, we Jews, as well as ye Gentiles. But, Brethren, it is true, in all the foregoing Chapter, by We, he means the Jews, himſelf being a Jew; and by Ye, the Gentiles: But when he comes to wind it up, upon the cloſe of all, here by We, he means we all, Jews and Gentiles, we are all alike dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, and when we were ſo, he quickned us.

How ſhall we prove, that he intends to involve the Gentiles as well as the Jews, when he ſaith, When we were dead?

It is clear, becauſe in the next words he applies it to the Gentiles, By Grace ye are ſaved; his meaning is this: Ye being quickned together with us Jews, and Serm. XIV. we all remember this, by Grace ye are saved, ye and we all: When we were dead in Sins and Trespasses he quickned.

Another reason shews it, in the transposing the word in the Greek, it is this; it is not, συζ ἡμᾶς ὄντας, but it is, συζ ὄντας ἡμᾶς.

So now I have done with that, and the only Observation that I will make from thence, is this:

That now when it comes to the enjoyment of the Privileges of the Gospel, Conversion, and Heaven, and Christ, and the like, Jews and Gentiles are all one: When we were dead in Sins and Trespasses, he quickned us, and set us Jews and Gentiles all together in Christ, in heavenly Places. I shall not need to stand on it.

The Observations from both these two put together, are these:

Obsrv. 1. First; That God in his wise Dispensation is pleased to permit many, if not most of those he loves, and shews mercy unto, that live up to years, to continue in an estate of Unregeneracy. That de facto it was so in the days of the Apostle, in the Gentiles condition, is clear, out of the examples of the Romans, Rom. 6. 17. That Doxology the Apostle there useth, God be thanked, ye were the Servants of Sin, &c. I might give as many Instances of it well nigh as there have been Converts, (whose Story is recorded in the New Testament,) from John the Baptist's time downwards, throughout all the Epistles: Such were some of [you,] saith the Apostle to the Corinthians, 1 Cor. 6. 11. (when just before he had named all sorts of Sins and Sinners,) [You] were sometimes Enemies, &c. says he to the Colossians, Col. 1. 21. And to the Ephesians he saith, [You] were dead in Sins and Trespasses; and when we all were dead, and so here. And that de facto it was true of the Jews, is also evident, in that the Ministry of John the Baptist, as Christ's much more, was, to turn the disobedient Jews to the Wisdom of the Just, Luke 1. 17. And yet they were circumcised, as we all are baptized; and their Circumcision was the Seal of the Righteousness of Faith, even as our Baptism is; and yet those needed a being born again, as Christ told Nicodemus for all the rest, John 3. I mention this thus briefly, to make way for a second Observation, which holds forth the glorious Ends which God hath in this Dispensation towards his Beloved ones.

The second Observation, from this emphatical Repetition of the Misery of our natural Condition, and that in this order and placing, is evidently this:

Obsrv. 2. That the deplorable Misery of our Condition by Nature, doth infinitely serve to set out and illustrate, both the Glory of that Condition and Salvation God hath ordained us unto, and also to magnify the Greatness of that Love, Riches of Mercy, &c. that are in God, manifested therein towards us. This reiterated mention thereof, you see, is placed in the midst, between an extolling of his great Love, &c. v. 4. and an accurate enumeration of the degrees of our Exaltation in the Salvation bestowed upon us, the fruits of that great Love; and this on purpose to add a lustre unto both. This Observation, in both the Branches of it put together, is another Rivolet, that contributes its Stream to that main Ocean, into which all the whole Current of the Apostle's Discourse doth flow, namely, the demonstration of the Greatness of God's Love. I told you, when I opened the Greatness of God's Love, v. 4. that besides that it was set out, as there, by this, that he had singled out some Persons he had set himself to love, as simply so considered, Us, not others. It was yet further to be illustrated by the Condition those Persons were in, the Sin and Misery they lay in, when God came to shew them Mercy. I could not speak to it then, because it comes in more properly, and in a more set and explicit intendment here. And in this way of interpreting this Scripture, κατὰ πόδας, I must take things in that order the Holy-Ghost hath been pleased to scatter them. The reminding us of this our natural Condition comes in again at the 11*th* verse, Wherefore remember, ye are Gentiles in the Flesh, &c. Yet there, to provoke us to Duties answerably, it comes upon good Works; of which in that place, as the Coronis of this first part of my Expositions. But here, as it serves to magnify God's Love, and the Glory of that Condition God hath raised us to; it seems to set out the Glory of that Estate and Salvation we are brought into. God hath, in bringing any of the Sons of Men to any eminent height, laid the foundation of it in a Lowness and Misery; and these proportionable to that height of Happiness he meant to raise them up to, out of it. And accordingly, when the Scripture would set out the Grace of that Advancement, it withall mentions the low Condition from whence it had its rise, as emphatically as the Glory after. Take two Instances; the one in an earthly, the other by an Advancement heavenly; and both the highest, and one the Type of the other. Psal. 78. 70, 71. speaking of David's exaltation to a Kingdom, see how great things is spoken of it, Psal. 89. I have exalted one chosen out of the People, I have found David, my Servant: v. 19, 20. I will make him my First-born, higher than the Kings of the Earth. All which was first true of David in the Type. Of all the Kingdoms set up in those Ages of the World, before Shiloh came to take up the Scepter, the Throne of David was, for true Excellency and Glory, the most transcendent. It was a Dominion over God's own People, his only People in the World; but all other Kingdoms over Mountains of Prey, as the Psalmist speaks, in comparison of it, over wild Beasts; this over Saints, Hos. 11. 12. You have seen his Exaltation. Now see, how in another Psalm the Holy-Ghost, to greaten this, gives us exact notice of the lowness of his Condition he was taken out of, and that holding a like proportion of lowness and meanness afore, to this height after, Psal. 78. 70, 71. He chose David his Servant, and took him from the Sheep-folds, from following the Ewes great with young: He brought him to feed Jacob his People, and Israel his Inheritance. As in the former Psalm he took his Elevation; so here he fathoms, as with a line and measure, his Depression, and proportions them. He was afore but a Shepherd over silly Sheep; yea, lower yet, he was but the Shepherd's Boy, (the Holy-Ghost intimates it,) he took him from after the Ewes; so you have it in your Margins. The Shepherds themselves (in Judea) did use to go afore the Sheep: So Christ, speaking according to the Custom of that Country, John 10. 3. The good Shepherd he goes afore his Sheep, and leads them out. See also Psal. 80. 1. He was the younger Brother, that as the Servant followed the Sheep, his elder Brethren were the Shepherds. But instead of following Sheep, God made him a Shepherd over his own Inheritance, πόιμενα λαῶν, as Homer calls Kings. And the Psalmist's allusion is suitable, To feed Israel, his Inheritance, and to go in and out before them. You have the very same, in the same expressions, 2 Sam. 7. 8. Serm. XIV.

 upon

From David, the Shadow, let us come to Christ, the true King indeed, who is made as the Pattern of ours here, (and therefore is the most punctual Instance can be given, how high he is ascended,) you have heard from thence, To sit at God's right hand, &c. v. 20, 21. Now to make this the more glorious, see his Descension also, ere ever he ascended, as it is fathomed by this our Apostle, in this Epistle, chap. 4. 9, 10. and foreseen by David in his Prophecy which he expounds: Now in that he ascended, what is it, but that he descended first into the lower parts of the Earth? He that descended, is the same also that ascended far above all Heavens. The Terms from and unto which, are, the one the lowest, the other the highest: the lower parts of the Earth, the one; and far above all Heavens, the other: the one as deep in lowness, as the other in heighth. It imports, lower he could not go, and higher he could not ascend; and that his Descension might illustrate the height of his Ascent, he says, he first descended. If you would consider then his height, go down in your thoughts first into the Womb, unto the Cross, into the Grave, yea, to Hell, the Wrath of God coming over his Soul, when on the Cross; think what a poor, low, sorry Man God first made him; and then read, and think over again his Super-exaltation, in the first Chapter, and then make up the Parallel, as our Head. So we that were dead in Sins, Children of Wrath, and so in our desert laid as low as Hell, are quickned, raised, and made to sit in heavenly Places and Glories, in and with Christ. Place one part of the Compass of your thoughts in the nethermost Hell below, from thence stretch the other part to the highest Heavens above, and then you have the true distance of the Height and Depth of your Salvation, and of God's Goodness in it. And uuto that Emphaſis the Apoſtle gives there concerning Chriſt the Head, He that deſcended, is the ſame alſo that aſcended, that is, the very ſame Perſon, the Subject of both; lay to it the like Emphaſis the Apoſtle puts here, Even when we were dead, he quickned us; and you have the full of the Apoſtle's Scope, and the Parallel made compleat.

Serm. XIV.

To add that ſtrange Thankſgiving, that of the Apoſtle, Rom. 6. 17. God be thanked, that ye were the Servants of Sin; had the Apoſtle ended there, it had ſeemed half Blaſphemy.

The only Corollary or Inference I ſhall make from all this, is:

How much do they injure, yea, and fruſtrate this great Deſign of God to magnify his Love and Grace, that do climb up preſently ſo high, and immediatly into God himſelf, ſimply in himſelf conſidered, that they will not condeſcend to look down (as yet God doth) upon theſe things here below, namely, to what they are, or were in reſpect of Sin; but have forgotten their old Sins, yea, and their need of Chriſt, as an Advocate to God for them. Surely God having loved us with a Love of ſo long continuance, as from everlaſting; and there having not been a moment of all that vaſt ſpace of time, wherein he hath not loved us with ſo great a Love, had it not been that he had a mighty deſign upon them in permitting this, which in the end, by the diſcovery of it, ſhould take up and fill their Hearts (whilſt in the Fleſh at leaſt) with the contemplation of his Love, ſet off by the deep and continued ſence of their own Sinfulneſs; ſo long before continued: Surely he that loved them ſo, would never have ſuffered ſuch Multitudes of thoſe he loves, to continue ſo many years in this ſtate of Death, and Rebellion againſt him, and therein to wrong him ſo all the while; and that himſelf, (who delights to manifeſt his Love infinitely more than we do where we love,) ſhould ſuffer himſelf to be bound up from diſcovering in the leaſt. His Love would never have endured him to conceal it ſelf ſo long, had it been that the Glory of all this Love (ſo deſigned this way to be ſet out) muſt inſtantly be forgotten by them that are the Subjects of that Love, much leſs would he have ordered our Salvation to be accompliſh'd by putting his own natural Son to death, and to offer up his Soul a Sacrifice for Sin; if this his great Love, and this ſore travail of his Soul, ſhould be ſo ſoon forgotten, and ſwallowed up through the Joy of our enjoying God immediatly without him; and this even whilſt the Remainders of that Sin cleaves to them, to mind them of him that redeemed them from all Iniquity, by his ſo precious Blood. God might (according to this Religion) have ſpared his Son of that ſore Pain and Grief himſelf put him unto, and himſelf the many Provocations from us he loved ſo, beſides the trouble of his own concealing and keeping in his Love ſo long afore our Converſion, as afterwards; and have at firſt immediatly brought them at a cheap rate, (even as Creatures that never ſinned) into that immediate Communion with himſelf, without any need of his Son's Mediation at all; yea, Paul might have ſpared this Epiſtle to theſe Epheſians, as Patterns of Grace herein to all ſucceeding Ages, v. 7. in the Privileges of which he ſo glories, Chap. 3. 4. And ſurely God would have taken that courſe and way much rather, had it not been, that to commend his Love hereby was the great delight of his Soul; the Glory of his Grace being his chiefeſt Glory.

I come now, in the third place, to ſpeak a little to the Condition of them here, as it hath relation to quickning.

When we were dead, he quickned us.

There is a peculiar relation; tho he intend to take in our natural Condition, yet there is a peculiar reference, why he ſingles out being dead, when he ſpeaks of quickning. I will not ſtand to inſiſt largely, to ſhew how we are dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; I did it when I handled the firſt Verſe, only I reſerved one thing till now.

When

When he ſaith, We are dead in Sins, and thereby would ſet out the Power of God in quickning us, he means this: We were as utterly unable to help our ſelves, to do any thing of ſpiritual Life, as a dead Man is for to quicken himſelf, or to ſtir a Finger, or to roll about an eye, or to perform any Action that is truly good.

That that is his Scope, it is plain and clear; for afterwards he ſaith, Even by Faith we are ſaved, not of our ſelves, the very Faith we believe withal, it is the Gift of God: Why? Becauſe we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; and, ſaith he, we need as true new Life and Soul to be put into us, before we can ſtir to any actions of Life, as a dead Man. And it is clear, that it is aimed at peculiarly by the Apoſtle, becauſe he refers us in theſe words to chap. 1. 19. where he ſpeaks of the Power of God upon us in working Grace, he ſaith, it is the ſame that raiſed Jeſus Chriſt; therefore he ſpeaks in reſpect of ſuch a deadneſs, in reſpect of the Power of Sin, and our Inability to believe, as Chriſt's Body had to be quickned to that glorious Life.

Brethren, theſe Phraſes, Dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, we urge againſt the Remonſtrants, that therefore Man hath not ſpiritual ability, till God quicken him; and they diſtinguiſh, and would ſhew ſome diſſimilitude, between natural Death and ſpiritual; and indeed and in truth they would as it were make Man half-dead, and that there are certain kinds of ſparks of Life in every Man; there is a natural knowledg of God, and a natural ſorrow for Sin, and a natural deſire of Happineſs, and all theſe the Holy-Ghoſt hatcheth up to make a new Creature, as they would ſeem to make it. But, Brethren, the Apoſtle, who certainly ſpake appoſitely, and when he would ſet out our Miſery, and yet the Love of God to the full, he doth not talk of being half-dead, that had derogated from the Love and Grace, and exceeding Greatneſs of Power, that, he ſaith, wrought in Chriſt when he was raiſed: I ſay, it makes the Apoſtle not to ſpeak appoſitely, if that were the meaning; no, we were dead. And whereas they make a diſſimilitude between bodily and ſpiritual Death, yet the truth is, to raiſe a Man from ſpiritual Death is made the greater work, for it is parallel'd here with the raiſing of Chriſt from the dead; and you ſhall find, John 11. 25. that when Martha doubted of the Reſurrection of Lazarus, meerly of the Reſurrection of his Body, how doth Chriſt raiſe her Faith? Saith he, Why doſt thou ſtick at my raiſing of his Body? I will do more, I ſhall raiſe Mens Souls; for ſo he ſaith, v. 25. Jeſus ſaith, I am the Reſurrection, and the Life; he that believeth in me, tho he were dead, yet ſhall he live; and whoſoever liveth, and believeth in me, ſhall never die: Believeſt thou this? Doſt thou ſtick at my raiſing this Man's Body? Behold, as he ſaith, John 5. the time is coming, that the dead ſhall hear the Voice of the Son of God, and live. I quicken Mens Souls. If it be a greater Work, certainly it is a greater Death: therefore we muſt needs be as utterly void of Life, in reſpect of ſpiritual Life, as a Man's Body when he is dead, till he be raiſed again, is void of natural Life.

And then again, it is parallel'd with the raiſing of Chriſt out of the Grave; and our Death is compared and parallel'd with that natural Death of Jeſus Chriſt's Body. It's true, God did not ſuffer his Body to ſee Corruption; but there was not one jot of life, it was cold and ſtiff certainly as others, tho no way corrupted. What ſaith the Apoſtle, Rom. 6. ſpeaking of the Body of Chriſt? He ſaith, Death had dominion over him: In that he died, he died to Sin once, Death had no more dominion over him; therefore it had dominion over him whilſt he was dead. If he would have us liken our ſelves, to be tranſplanted into Chriſt's Reſurrection; if there had been any ſpark of Life, it might have been blown up, as they would make Men believe; no, there is no ſpiritual Life in us.

Now, as I ſaid, it is objected by ſome, That there is this difference between the natural and the ſpiritual Death, that the Underſtanding and the Will remains, a Man is ſtill a free Creature, a living Creature.

For

Serm. XIV.

For Anſwer: He is ſo, he is a living Creature to Sin, he is dead and living, both in reſpect of Sin. But the queſtion is, in what reſpect of ſpiritual Life, in reſpect of ſpiritual Life, there is nothing at all of the Spirit, in that reſpect a Man is wholly dead till he be called. Brethren, it is not a phyſical Death of the Soul, whereby the faculties of the Soul periſh; but I ſay it is a moral Death. Whereas now when the Body is dead, all the parts of the Body remain when the Man is dead, yet he is wholly dead in reſpect of the Life he had before: So tho there be a natural vivacity, and livelihood that is natural to the Soul, in the Will and Underſtanding, yet ſpiritually there is none.

Again likewiſe, whereas they object, Why then doth God uſe Exhortations to Men? ſince they are dead, and have no power to ſtir, why doth he bid them ariſe? Awake thou that ſleepeſt, ſtand up from the dead, and Chriſt ſhall give thee light?

That Place certainly is meant of regenerated Men, that kept company with wicked Men, and were aſleep. I let that paſs.

But I anſwer, Why did Chriſt ſay to Lazarus, Ariſe? Why did he ſpeak to a dead Man? If any Man elſe had ſpoken it, he had ſpoken fooliſhly; but if Chriſt ſay it, and give power with the Word that goes forth, dead Men ſhall live. So the dead ſhall hear the Voice of the Son of God, and live, John 5. 25.

But they ſay, There is a deſire of Happineſs left in Man, and a knowledg of God, and preparations for the Work of the Spirit upon Man's Heart, and is this Man wholly dead?

Brethren, I anſwer, let a Man have never ſo much activity, and that towards things that are Spiritual: I mean in this Sence, out of ends of ſelf-Love, and the like that they are wrought upon, yet notwithſtanding, ſtill ſay I, that Man is dead, in reſpect of that wherein Life lies. For when we ſay a Man is dead in Sins, you muſt not underſtand it, in reſpect of the Life of his own kind. How then? In reſpect of Spiritual Life, in reſpect of ſuch a Life, as knits him to God and Chriſt; in reſpect of ſuch a Life, as raiſeth up the leaſt affection of love to God above the love to a Man's ſelf; in reſpect of any knowledg that is Spiritual, of God and of Chriſt in a ſpiritual way; in reſpect of this Light and Life, he is utterly dead, though he may acknowledg a God, and have a deſire after Happineſs and the like. So let the Compariſon run, in the ſame reſpect and kind; and then a Man though he have never ſo much moral good in him; this is no part of a Man's Life, though Self-Love never ſo much ſtirr, if it be only Self-Love, though to ſpiritual things, all riſeth not to Spiritual Life; there is no degree of Spiritual Life all the while.

Brethren, to illuſtrate my meaning, (or elſe the compariſon will not hold, it is but a ſuppoſition, it is that that will never be done) a Man hath a reaſonable Soul as he is a Man: ſuppoſe the reaſonable Soul it ſelf ſhould be taken out of a Man, and yet Man ſtill retain the ſence of hearing and ſeeing, and the quickneſs of his Fancy: Such as Apes and Beaſts and ſuch Creatures have; certainly this Man would be ſaid to be dead as a Man, if the reaſonable Soul were gone, in reſpect of that Life that a Man hath, as a Man hath a reaſonable Life, though the brutiſh Life were left; yet take him as a Man he hath no Life at all left in him, if the reaſonable be departed and gone, and the ſenſitive only left.

So Brethren it is here, take a Spiritual Man that hath Union with God and Chriſt, and Life flowing thence, and raiſing his Heart to God out of Love, if all this were gone, though a Man ſhould have left ſuch a Principle, as may be wound exceeding high otherwiſe; yet in reſpect of Spiritual Life he were utterly dead.

I might enlarge much this way, in opening and clearing this; It is evident that all that is left in Nature, though it be wrought on never ſo much, it cannot unite us to Chriſt, nor to God; and then certainly there is no part of Life. Why, becauſe all the parts of the Spiritual Life, lye in our Union with God and Chriſt. Now let a Man have never ſo many Preparatives, all unite him not to Chriſt, till

Faith

Faith come, and the Holy Ghoſt quicken his Soul, in order to Eternal Life. Therefore all preparatives to Grace, are not a leſs degree to the ſame kind. We hope better things of you, and ſuch as accompany Salvation, ſaith the Apoſtle, having ſpoken of glorious enlightnings; So the leaſt Dram of Grace and quickning, it is a thing of another kind from all preparatory Works. and enlightnings, and in reſpect of an holy Life, Man is dead.

I come now to the Benefit.

Even when we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; He hath quickned us together with Chriſt.

Here are three things to be ſpoken to.

1. The benefit it ſelf.
2. The Author, the principal Author of it, God the Father, that is fetched in, in the coherence from the verſe before, God hath quickned us. Then,
3. The Perſon with, and by whom, and by Fellowſhip with whom he hath quickned us; He hath quickned us together with Chriſt.

Theſe three things I will ſpeak to as briefly as I can.

Firſt, For the Beneſit it ſelf.

I will ſpeak a little in General, and then particularly deſcribe it to you.

Firſt, In general, by quickning here is meant quickning out of Death, that is clear, for When we were dead he quickned us. The Word is ſo taken, Rom. 4. 17. Rom. 8. 10. He ſhall quicken your mortal Bodies. Now indeed the Word is uſed ſometimes for things that are not raiſed from the dead, and yet it is called quickning, a giving Life, ſo the Word ſignifies making to live; that is the proper ſignification of the Word, it is applied to all things living, 1 Tim. 5. 13. God that quickneth all things, all things that live God quickens. And Adam might be ſaid to be quickned when he had the Breath of Life, that is, God made him to live, ſo the Word ſignifies. Now I will not ſtand upon it.

Now the next thing in General that I am to open is this, by quickning (I take it) is meant the whole Work of God on us, the whole Work of God is called quickning. My reaſon is, becauſe though he principally aim at Converſion, When we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, he begins to do it, yet he names this as the firſt degree, which ends in Glory, as it is ver. 6. So he familiarly includes and comprehends all that whole ſtate of Grace, and the Works of it; it is called quickning, though principally and eminently, the firſt putting in of the Holy Ghoſt, and a principle of Life into a Man.

You ſhall find in Scripture, that the whole ſtate of Grace is called Life; as Glory alſo, ſometimes is nothing but Life. Life is uſually put for Glory, and it is uſually put for Grace; therefore when he would expreſs the difference between the one ſtate and the other, he ſaith, We are paſſed from Death to Life; By this we know that we are paſſed from Death to Life. And when Chriſt would expreſs a Man that hath no Grace, that is not in the ſtate of Grace, he expreſſeth it by the contrary, he hath no Life in him: And he that eateth not my Fleſh, hath no Life in him, Joh. 6. that is, he hath no Grace, nothing that belongs or pertains to the ſtate of Grace.

Brethren, you ſhall find this, that Grace is ſo properly compared to Life, and the working of Grace on us, that when the Scripture compares the People of God to dead things, for other reſpects; yet he brings the Word living too: as for example, They are Stones, and precious Stones, 1 Pet. 2. but he adds living Stones, when he calls them Sacrifices, that uſed always to be dead things, he calls them living Sacrifices, Rom. 12. 1. They are Trees, but Trees of Life; and their Graces are compared to Waters, but living Waters, and Waters of Life: Still he runs upon the the Notion of Life. For Brethren, all in Chriſtians, as they are conſtituted Chriſtians, is Life, Life clearly; it quickneth, he hath made us alive, all is Life.

Serm. XIV.

But you will ſay, Is not the Work of Grace called Mortification, a dying to Sin?

It is true, but let me tell you, this Mortification it ſelf, dying to Sin; that that is true Mortification, it ariſeth from a Spirit of Life, it is a conſequent of Spiritual Life. The meaning is not, that firſt God kills a Man's Sin, and then puts a principle of Life in him; but by a principle of Life he kills Sin. A Man may have a great deal of deading to the World, (as much as another Man) from terror of Conſcience or the like. But here is no Life, the whole of Grace is Life, take it in it ſelf, and deadneſs to Sin is but the conſequent. Therefore at their firſt Converſion, when Men's Luſts have a blow, they are more dead to the World, and to Sin; they find more of Mortification, than of Quickning and Life, they think; why? becauſe there is an additional kind of deading Mens Hearts to the World, from Terror of Conſcience, that yet hath an impreſſion upon Mens Spirits; but ſaith the Apoſtle, Walk in the Spirit, &c. and ye ſhall not fulfill the Luſts of the Fleſh, Gal. 5. 16. So the not fulfilling the Luſts of the Fleſh is a fruit of living, and walking in the Spirit, it is the fruit of this Life.

Therefore when he ſpeaks of all the Grace a Man hath, how doth he expreſs it? 2 Pet. 1. 3. He hath given us all things belonging to Life and Godlineſs. So that all the Life a Man hath is Godlineſs, and Godlineſs is Life, the one is put for the other.

And Brethren, hence now what ſhould you learn? Put not your Grace to lie in Humiliation, in thoſe Works, Grace doth not lie in that, your Grace lies in Life and Quickning, therefore you ſee, He quickned us, when we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, together with Chriſt. Humiliation goes not to the mortifying of Luſts, no, but you may be joined to a Principle of Life, that mortifies Luſts, therefore look how much Grace you have, ſo much Life; ſo much Grace, ſo much Quickning. When you come to the Ordinances, ſo much Grace and Good you get, as your Hearts are quickned, not as you perform Duties; and value Quickning more than Ordinances: Luke 12. 23. Chriſt ſaith, Life is better than Meat: So Quickning is better than Sermons, and than all things in the World. I ſpeak it, that you may know what to put Religion and Grace in. Food is the means of Life, yet Life is better than Meat: So this Life is better than all Ordinances and Duties; as far as you are quickned, you have ſpiritual Life, and your Affections are ſtirring, and all the Sacrifices you offer to God are acceptable, as far as they are living, Therefore quicken me in thy way, ſaith David, Pſal. 119. 137. If he went in the way of God, and was not quickned, his Spirit was troubled, Pſal. 80. 19. but he prays that he might be quickned. I ſpeak it for this, that you are to look upon that to be Grace in you; ſo much Grace, ſo much Life; ſpiritual Life it lies in quickuing.

Notwithſtanding, on the other ſide, conſider it is quickning. The truth is, he uſeth the loweſt expreſſion that can be, if there be but a Spirit of Life; ſuppoſe thou haſt not attained Strength, yet if thou haſt Life, he calls all that we receive in this Life but quickning, if you take it in the ordinary way of Phraſe. We are but as Children in the Womb quickned, all the ſtirrings of Grace are but ſuch as of an Infant at beſt. Saith he, Col. 3. 3. Your Life is hid in Chriſt with God, where (as it were) he compares God and Jeſus Chriſt to the Root in which the Sap is; and it is Winter with us, as it were, in compariſon of what it ſhall be, when we ſhall be raiſed together with Chriſt, and ſit in heavenly places perſonally with Chriſt. Now we are in Chriſt, when we ſhall ſit together with Chriſt. As now we are in Chriſt, what ſhall this Life be? But in the mean time, if we be but quickned, if there be but the leaſt degree of Spiritual Life, that thy Heart is raiſed to God, and ſpiritually ſuited, for a Spiritual Mind is Life, if there be the leaſt Spiritual Life, though there be not that ſtrength, nay though it cannot be called a Birth, though thou canſt not ſay, thou haſt all the parts of the new Birth, yet if there be quickning, there is a new Life, the Apoſtle deſcends low, this is a Seed that will riſe to Eternity.

So

So much in general for the explaining this Quickning.

But now if you would know, what kind of Life this is, Brethren, you may take much help from what Death is. When I opened the firſt Verſe, our being dead in Sins, I told you, the Fountain of all ſpiritual Life was God, ſo he was to Adam; therefore carnal Men are Strangers to the Life of God. We are ſaid to be dead in Sins, why? becauſe Sin cuts us off from God, ſo all ſpiritual Life lies in God.

Now conſider, what it is to be dead, and what it is to be living. I will only give you ſummarily, all the ways of quickning that God begins in this Life: ſummarily all the Works of Grace, from the firſt to the laſt, till it come to Glory, is here to be underſtood: He hath quickned us.

Now, firſt, How is Man dead?

Firſt; In reſpect of Sin. He is caſt out of the favour of God, which is his Life; to be in the favour of God, is to live. O that he might live in thy Sight; it is the Scripture-Phraſe: In thy favour is Life, Pſal. 63. Now for a Man to be caſt out of the favour of God, is to have the Sentence of Death upon him, it is to be dead in the Guilt: On the other ſide, for a Man to be in the favour of God, and to have an Abſolution from God, and to have all his Sins pardoned, this is to be quickned, this is one part of it.

I ſhall give you Scripture for it by and by: John 5. 24. ſaith he, He that heareth my Word, and believeth on him that ſent me, hath everlaſting Life, and ſhall not come into Condemnation, but ſhall paſs from Death to Life. His paſſing from Death to Life is expreſs'd negatively, by not entring into Condemnation, the Sentence of Condemnation is taken off from him. Now compare it with John 3. He that believes in the Son of God hath eternal Life; he that believeth not in the Son of God, the Wrath of God abides on him. Here, the Wrath of God abiding on a Man is oppoſed to having Life. Now therefore, in Rom. 5. 18. our being juſtified from all our Sins, is called the Juſtification of Life; a Man is made, of a dead Man, of a condemned Man, a living Man in the Sight of God.

Now to come home to the Point, Col. 2. 13. where the Apoſtle uſeth the ſame expreſſion, He hath quickned us with Chriſt; what doth he underſtand by quickning there? namely, Having forgiven you all your Treſpaſſes; there lies the greateſt of our Life and Quickning, it is the Life of Juſtification, that by Faith God giveth us.

Again, in the ſecond place, there is all the Joy, and all the Evidences that God gives us of his Favour, and the Aſſurance of his Love in quickning alſo. I told you, I cannot ſtand upon the Order. Now you ſhall find in Scripture, that freedom from Trouble, by contrary Joy infuſed by God, is called Quickning; you have an expreſs place, Pſal. 143. 3. Quicken me, bring my Soul out of Trouble. Pſal. 119. My Soul cleaveth to the Duſt, quicken me. When his Soul did cleave to the duſt, under the ſence of Death, and the Wrath of God, he calls for quickning: Quicken me; with what? with his Loving-kindneſs, as it is in another Verſe; and, according to thy Loving-kindneſs: And, Pſal. 63. Thy Favour is better than Life. So you have it in Rom. 8. 6. for I can but quote Scriptures, To be ſpiritually minded is Life and Peace; having ſaid before, The carnal Man cannot pleaſe God.

In the third place, all the fellowſhip the Holy-Ghoſt vouchſafes us in this Life, with God and Chriſt, and the enjoyment of them in themſelves, and their own Excellency, which beſides are diſtinct from the aſſurance of his Love and Favour. Many times theſe are called Life: Pſal. 22. Your Hearts ſhall live, and ye ſhall eat of the Fat, and abundantly enjoy God. He ſhall ſhew me the Path of Life, Pſal. 16. Fulneſs of Joy is at thy right hand. I will give you but a Scripture or two: John 14. 1. Chriſt's Diſciples were troubled, ſaith he, I will give you the Comforter; and becauſe I live, ye ſhall live: And what follows? In that day ye ſhall know; for I will be but a little while away, and I will ſend you the Comforter: And at that day ye ſhall know, that I am in the Father, and you in me, and I in you. And I will love him, and manifeſt my ſelf to him; as it is in verſ. 21. Another place is, 1 John 1. 2. There he calls Jeſus Chriſt, our Life: And that Life was manifeſted, and we have ſeen, and bear witneſs, and ſhew, that eternal Life was in the Father, and is manifeſt unto us. Here Jeſus Chriſt is called, eternal Life; and the Incarnation is called, the Manifeſtation of that Life; and the Evidence, the Communion and Fellowſhip that the Apoſtles had with him, that is called, a being manifeſted to us: and what follows? That which we have ſeen and heard, declare we unto you, that you may have fellowſhip with us; and truly our fellowſhip is with the Father, and with his Son Jeſus Chriſt. So all Fellowſhip with God the Father, and with his Son Jeſus Chriſt, it is the manifeſtation of this Life, as it was manifeſted to the Apoſtles themſelves.

Serm. XIV.

So now, in the fourth place, the Image of God wrought in us, is alſo a Principle of Life; we are quickned in that Image of God, in Holineſs and Righteouſneſs, by which we live to God: The want of it is called Death. On the other ſide, inherent Holineſs is called Life: Rom. 8. 7. The ſpiritual Mind is Life. Rom. 8. 2. ſpeaking of the inherent Holineſs in Chriſt's Heart, he calls it, The Law of the Spirit of Life, that is in Chriſt Jeſus. It is evident it was ſo, for he oppoſeth it to the Law of Sin and Death that was in our Hearts, he ſhould be free by the Law of the Spirit of Life that was in Jeſus Chriſt. Now then, to have therefore a vital Principle of the Image of God, whereby a Man is made fit and capable of Communion with God, ſuitable to God and Jeſus Chriſt, and all holy things, that cauſeth him to draw near to God, and to have ſuch an inward quickning Principle in his Soul, that enables a Man thus to converſe with God, as the reaſonable vital Principle enables him to commerce with Men; this alſo is Life, and a great part of Life.

In Rev. 11. when the Witneſſes are raiſed, how is their Reſurrection ſet forth? A Spirit of Life came into them; it is an alluſion to the Reſurrection of Men, a new Life was ſhot, a vital Principle through all the Man; ſo here is a Principle ſuitable to all ſpiritual Objects: It is not as if an Angel ſhould take a dead Man, and act him, without putting in a Principle of Life; but when the Holy-Ghoſt is given, it comes and quickens a Man; he not only acts the Soul poſitively, but he puts in a living Principle, by which the Soul joins with the Holy-Ghoſt in activeneſs: Therefore all his Performances are called, living Sacrifices; why? becauſe all his Actions do not proceed from the Holy-Ghoſt only, ſimply, but from the Image of God which the Holy-Ghoſt works in him, and acts and operates in him, ſo his Sacrifice; as the Holy-Ghoſt is a living Principle for his part, ſo it is a Principle to make a Man alive to God.

It is an excellent expreſſion of Jeſus Chriſt, Rom. 6. 10. How is Jeſus Chriſt's Life expreſs'd there? In that he liveth, he liveth to God. What doth Jeſus Chriſt in Heaven, to mind the things of God, to govern the World ſo as God may have Glory, and to diffuſe Grace into the Hearts of the Saints in Heaven and Earth, that God may have Glory? He lives to God, that is all his Work; it is an active Life that carries all in the Soul to God, as living in God, ſo living to God.

There is the like Phraſe, Gal. 2. 20. to live in God as a Man's Element, and to God as his End; he ſavours the Word of Life, he lives in the Promiſes, by theſe things Men live. The Promiſes of the Word are the Savour of Life; to a Man that hath a Principle in him, they are the Savour of Life; the Promiſes of Heaven, and Grace, and Happineſs, and Salvation, are reliſhed in a ſpiritual way; that he purſues it, it is from a ſpiritual Life.

So that is the fourth thing that I mention, of what is meant by Life.

A fifth thing that is the root of all, is this, That the Holy-Ghoſt dwells in the Heart, as the Soul in the Body, and becomes a Man's Life. He that is joined to the Lord is one Spirit, being made the Temple of the Holy-Ghoſt; for the Spirit is the foundation of all ſpiritual Life, the Spirit quickneth, the Godhead of Chriſt quickneth, and is united to us, dwelling in us; it quickneth the Spirit, and he is the great Quickner, and the Foundation of all Life. Rom. 8. when he had deſcribed the ſpiritually-minded Man, and ſaid that he was Life, The ſpiritual Mind is Life; whence doth this ſpiritual Man come to have this Life? Verſ. 9,10. ſaith he, Ye are not in the Fleſh, but in the Spirit, if the Spirit of God dwell in you: And if any Man have not the Spirit of Chriſt, he is none of his: And if the Spirit of Chriſt dwell in you, he that raiſed Chriſt from the dead, ſhall alſo raiſe your mortal Bodies, by his Spirit that dwelleth in you. What will be the Life of our Bodies at the laſt Day? The Holy-Ghoſt; not only our own Souls, but the Holy-Ghoſt ſhall poſſeſs us more than our own Souls; he that ſhall be the Life of our Bodies then, he is the Root of our ſpiritual Life now. The ſpiritual Mind is Life, becauſe the Spirit dwelleth in you.

and

Let me add this, All actings of the Holy-Ghoſt, the ſtirrings of the Affections, the enlightning of the Mind, ſpiritually to know God, and Chriſt, and a Man's ſelf, all growings up, all are quicknings; in all the Ordinances, all the Life you receive not only at the firſt, all are quicknings with Chriſt: You come to Sermons, and your Hearts are quickned, ſpiritual Affections are ſtirred, and you mortify the Deeds of the Fleſh, and aim at God, all this is quickning, it is being quickned with Jeſus Chriſt; all the ſpiritual Life that you have, and is encreaſed in you, it is called, the Light of Life, John 8. All your walking in the Spirit, and your acting that proceeds from the Spirit, in Gal. 3. If ye live in the Spirit, walk in the Spirit; all thoſe Walkings come from the habitual indwelling of the Holy-Ghoſt.

So much for the opening of that Life, We are quickned.

The next thing I am to ſhew to you, is this, which I will make an end of: We are quickned

Together with Chriſt.

There are ſome Interpreters, that would extenuate and enervate that which is our infinite great Comfort; for they refer the word [Together,] that is, we Jews and Gentiles, whereas in truth the ſcope of the Holy-Ghoſt is, We are quickned together with Chriſt: In all our quickning he quickens us together with Chriſt; ſo our Tranſlation rightly reads it.

Beſides, it is all reaſon, that Chriſt being made our Head, chap. 1. God hath quickned him, and raiſed him firſt, and ſo us; and that he ſaith after, We are ſet in heavenly Places with Chriſt, and are now in Chriſt. Beſides thoſe Arguments, this makes it clear and plain, in the Coloſſians; theſe two Epiſtles are as two Evangeliſts, the one explains the other: Col. 2. 13. he ſaith, He hath quickned us together with him; namely, with our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt; not only as Jews and Gentiles are quickned, but we are quickned with Chriſt.

This being laid for the ſcope of the Words, I will in a word open, how we are ſaid to be quickned with him.

You muſt know, Brethren, God the Father, who is the great Quickner, he is the Author, the great Fountain of Life; and Jeſus Chriſt, as God-Man, hath Life given from the Father to him, that he might raiſe us. You have two places, John 5. 24, 25. At the 26*th* Verſe, As the Father hath Life in himſelf, ſo he hath given to the Son to have Life in himſelf. The Father hath Life in himſelf, he is the Original of Life only; tho the Son have Life in himſelf, yet he hath not this Life of himſelf, but from the Father, the Father is the Fountain of Life. And in John 6. 57. As the living Father hath ſent me, and I live by the Father: So, ſaith he, he that eats my Fleſh, ſhall live by me.

So that now it is plain, that God having infinite Happineſs and Life; for what is the Life of God, but his own Holineſs and Happineſs, and the Entireneſs of his own Nature, for his own Bleſſedneſs, for his own Pleaſure? God hath ordained, and laid up eternal Life in his Decree; but Jeſus Chriſt is to be eternal Life, to communicate that Life that is in himſelf to us, 1 John 1. 1. Chriſt is called eternal Life, as he was with God; and he was incarnate, and took Fleſh on purpoſe that this Life might be communicated: 1 John 5. 11. The Father hath given us eternal Life in his own Decree. Firſt, God purpoſed, that Man ſhould live in Union and Communion with him, and partake of that Life that he himſelf lives and communicates it as far as the Creature is capable: He hath given to us eternal Life: Well! where hath he put it for us to have it? And, ſaith he, this Life is in his Son, that he might unite them to him. John 17. 2. Thine they were, thou gaveſt them me, that I might give eternal Life to as many as thou haſt given me. So he gives it to them, he living by the Father, they are given to him; he beſtows Life on them, they live by him.

Serm. XIV.

So that to expreſs it more fully, the Godhead dwells in the humane Nature of Chriſt, and is a quickning Spirit to him, and by virtue of our relation to him, having Union with him, he quickens us, and never reſts till he hath brought us to that Union with God, in our meaſure and proportion that Chriſt hath. Col. 3.3. our Saviour Chriſt is ſaid to be our Life: Our Life is hid with Chriſt in God, and when our Life ſhall appear, that is, Chriſt; therefore we are ſaid to be quickned with Chriſt, as the Author of our quickning. That is the firſt Sence that is put upon it, ſo ſome Interpreters carry it, tranſlating it properly.

In the ſecond place, when it is ſaid, We are quickned together with Chriſt, it being a quickning out of Death, as I told you, it evidently implies, That this Lord of ours, Jeſus Chriſt our Life, was alſo dead; ſo by virtue of his dying, and being quickned, we are quickned together with him. 1 Pet. 3. 18. it is ſaid, He was put to death in the Fleſh, but quickned in the Spirit; that is, raiſed by the Godhead, being put to Death. He had quickning and dying, and by virtue of that quickning and dying of his we are quickned; ſo we are quickned together with him, both by his Death and Reſurrection.

We are quickned by his Death, to purchaſe that Life and Quickning that we were to have; therefore you read in John 10. and in John 5. 21. and many places, That he gave his Life for the Life of the World; and his Fleſh, as crucified and broken, is that that hath purchaſed Life. I ſhall not need to ſtand to give you Places.

Again, on the other ſide, by virtue of his Reſurrection we are alſo quickned; therefore it is called, The Virtue of his Reſurrection, Phil. 3.10. In Iſa. 26.19. there is a Prophecy of the Converſion of the Jews: Thy dead Men ſhall live, together with my dead Body ſhall they ariſe. Here is quickning together with Jeſus Chriſt; his Body was dead, and roſe again; ſaith he, Thy dead Men ſhall live; ſpeaking to that Nation that were ſcattered all the World over. How do we know, that their Converſion is called a Reſurrection from the dead? How come they to riſe, and to be quickned? With my dead Body, by virtue of my Reſurrection; he ſpeaks of a Dew afterwards, there is a Dew falls from the Reſurrection of Chriſt, a virtue which quickneth us: So we are quickned with Chriſt.

Again, in the third place, We are ſaid to be quickned with Jeſus Chriſt, becauſe the ſame life that Jeſus Chriſt is quickned with, we are; it is called the Life of Jeſus, 1 Cor. 4. Tho Paul ſpeak of the life of the Body, it is called the life of Jeſus: We are delivered to Death, that the Life of Jeſus might be manifeſted in us. As he lives in the favour of God, as he lives to God, ſo we live to God; it is the ſame life; the ſame Spirit that quickned him, quickneth us, Rom. 8. 10. The ſame Spirit that raiſed his Body, quickens our Souls; if we be quickned truly, we live with the ſame life that Jeſus Chriſt did.

Laſtly; We are ſaid to be quickned with him in this ſence, becauſe when he was raiſed and quickned, we were ſaid to be raiſed and quickned in him, as a Perſon repreſentative; ſo by virtue of that we are now quickned perſonally. What ſaith the Apoſtle? Rom. 6.11. Reckon your ſelves alive to God, as Chriſt is; why? Becauſe when Jeſus Chriſt was quickned, when he aroſe, ye did riſe; when he was quickned, you were quickned in him, and ſhall have it compleat in your ſelves. Therefore tho it be imperfect quickning, it is thy comfort that thou art quickned with Chriſt, and in Chriſt as an Head firſt; and as his life was perfect, ſo ſhall thine be: and in the mean time, tho thou canſt not ſay, it is wrought in me, thou mayeſt ſay, it is wrought in my Head for me, I may ſay, it is perfect in him: Your

Life

Life is hid with Chriſt in God. I have not all my life, my life is hid with Chriſt in God. Alas! you have but a little degree, but reckon your ſelves alive to God, as Chriſt is. When he ſhall appear, that life that he hath in Glory, you ſhall have by virtue of his being quickned. Serm. XIV.

So now you have what is meant by being quickned with Chriſt.

Now, Brethren, here lies plainly the comfort of a Chriſtian, That we are quickned together with Jeſus Chriſt, therefore this life ſhall never die; for we are quickned together with Jeſus Chriſt, and in him as our Head, and as a Perſon repreſentative of us. Here is our comfort, our life is bound up in the bundle of the life of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. Therefore now, if Jeſus Chriſt live; if I live, ſaith he, you ſhall live; if I never die, you ſhall never die. He is ſo quickned, that Death hath no more Dominion over him, Rom. 6. 10. So ſaith he to Martha, when ſhe doubted of the Reſurrection of her Brother, He that believeth in me ſhall never die, believeſt thou this? It is a Point of thy Creed, as true as any Article of thy Creed, believe it, there is nothing truer; what is the reaſon? Becauſe we are quickned with Chriſt, our life is bound up with his; and as it is in 2 *Cor.*4.14. as Chriſt did riſe up by the Power of God, ſo ſhall we.

Now then I ſhall end in a word. The laſt thing that I am to ſpeak of, is the Scope of the Apoſtle, to ſhew the Greatneſs of the Work of God, and our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt upon us; and his Love, in that he hath quickned us. You ſee the Greatneſs of the Grace, and Love, and Mercy of God, that he hath quickned us with Jeſus Chriſt. But that ſhall be the Obſervation, it is the Apoſtle's ſcope, and the main thing he aims at.

In the firſt place, if God had quickned us with this life, as he did Adam, for Adam was quickned, what an infinite Goodneſs had it been! if there had been ſuch a life as a Saint hath, to grow up to eternal life; but he did it when we had forfeited all, and were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes.

If you had ſeen Adam's Body, whilſt it was making of Clay, and formed by degrees, as God did the World; and when that Body of Clay was made, God put and breathed into it ſo glorious a Soul as it was, how ſhould we have admired this infinite Work upon him! But, Brethren, that when we had loſt this, and were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; that when we were in our Blood, God ſaid, Live, *Ezek.*16.6. That he ſhould forgive us all our Sins (for quickning always carries Pardon of Sin); he hath quickned us with him, forgiving all our Sins. And as he ſhewed his Mercy and Grace in pardoning, ſo his Power in putting into us a Principle of life, in communicating a greater Power than to raiſe the dead, the ſame that raiſed Chriſt; what infinite Grace and Goodneſs is this?

And then, if we reckon that our quickning with Chriſt coſt Chriſt's death, and that we are quickned for ever with him, and ſaved; take that in Acts 3.15. Ye have killed the Prince of Life, and him God raiſed: That the Prince of Life muſt be put to death, and quickned, that we might live! Our Life coſt God dear, when it was bought with Chriſt's Life. All the Life of Men and Angels, if they had never ſinned, it was but as the Life of a Slave to the Life of a King. Do but conſider, he is the Prince of Life; what a Life he had, and what it was for him that was the Prince of Life to be put to death; and put to death he was, that you might have life.

And not only ſo, but as your quickning lies, that being condemned, and then being juſtified, a Sentence of Condemnation being upon you: ſo Chriſt was not put to a bodily Death only, but he had our Sins laid on him; he was made a Curſe, and then he was juſtified in the Spirit, abſolved from all our Sins, and this was his quickning; and by virtue of his quickning, we are quickned, in the life of Juſtification. I might enlarge this: Rom. 5.8. Chriſt's love was commended in this, that he died for us: Greater Love hath no Man, than that he lay down his Life, &c. *Joh.*15.13. Let a holy Heart, that is affected with the love of Chriſt, and of God, conſider this; for Words and Rhetorick cannot expreſs it to a carnal Heart; but to expreſs it to a ſpiritual Heart, how wonderfully will he ſtand admiring the Love and Grace of God, and of Chriſt.

Again,

Serm. XIV.

Again, in the third place, do but conſider the Excellency of this Life: It is a greater life than when we were in Adam, infinitely greater; we are quickned with Chriſt, with the ſame life that Chriſt is quickned with. Alas! when Adam was quickned, he was quickned by the Law; but Jeſus Chriſt is our life, Adam's life was nothing: John 10. 10. I came that you might have Life, and have it more abundantly. Therefore indeed and in truth we explain this Life to you: by our Death in Sin we cannot do it; why? becauſe our Death in Sin is a deprivation only of that we had in Adam, but it is reſtored infinitely. I am come to give you Life, and to give it more abundantly. It is a higher Juſtification, living in the eternal favour of God, Adam was but in the temporal favour of God.

Laſtly; To end all, it is evident here, that the Apoſtle principally means our Calling, the firſt Infuſion, the Holy-Ghoſt putting in a Principle of life, and making us new Creatures. Therein is infinite love, next to the Death of Chriſt, that he quickned us when we were dead: God that is rich in Mercy hath quickned us. There are three Acts of God, wherein his love is:

The firſt is, his love from Eternity.

The other, when he gave Jeſus Chriſt for us.

The third, when he called us firſt, and converted and turned us.

What is the reaſon that we ſhould account it ſo great a Work? The reaſon is, becauſe then we were quickned with Jeſus Chriſt. Let the Principle of life be never ſo ſmall, it is the Seed of God, that ſhall riſe to eternal life, therefore he that believeth hath eternal life; what ſaith the Apoſtle in the next words? By Grace ye are ſaved: He ſaith not, ye ſhall be, but ye are ſaved; for this life hath eternal life in the ſeed, and ſhall be raiſed to eternal life.

Therefore when God calls a Man, all the thoughts of love that he had from Eternity, all the thoughts of love he had when Chriſt came in the Fleſh, all that ever he means to do for a Man, is before him, and he eſtates this Man in all; all that God hath done, and will do, are in that Act concentered, when he quickens him; for then a Man hath poſſeſſion and right of all: And this ſhall go on, till it come to the height of perfection, as the Scripture holds it out; to ſit together in heavenly Places in Chriſt Jeſus.

SERM.

SERMON XV.

EPHES. 2. 5.

——By Grace ye are ſaved.

THE Words of this 5*th verſe*, fall into theſe three particulars. Here is,

1. A repetition of our condition, which we were in by Natnre, to illuſtrate Grace the more, When we were dead in Sins (ſaith he) He hath quickned us together with Chriſt. Here is,

2. The firſttBenefit beſtowed upon us, and that in this Life, which is the Seed of Glory, our being quickned, and that with Chriſt. Then,

3. The Apoſtle's Note, by way of Obſervation upon it, (in a Parentheſis) whereby he ſets a Mark, as it were a Finger in the Margent, to note this as a reſult from hence; By Grace ye are ſaved.

I opened the Benefit, which is here beſtowed upon us, in the laſt Diſcourſe. I ſhewed what was meant by quickning. And why it is ſaid, we are quickned together with Chriſt.

Firſt, I ſhewed what was meant by quickning, and went over all thoſe particlars. Both

1. In reſpect of Juſtification. I ſhewed you according to the Scripture Phraſe, that it is a quickning, a giving Life: So in Col. 2.13. He hath quickned you together with Chriſt, having forgiven you all Treſpaſſes. And

2. I ſhewed you how that all the fellowſhip we have with God, and his fulneſs; it is in the Scripture called Life and Quickning. All the Joy we have in the Favour and loving kindneſs of God, which is better than Life; it is called quickning. And then

3. The Image of God which conſiſteth in Holineſs, it is a Spirit of quickning. And

4. The putting in the Holy Ghoſt into our Soul, and his dwelling there for ever, as a Soul in our Soul, and the union of the Godhead of Chriſt to us, of Chriſt who is our Life; by this alſo we are quickned. And then

5. And laſtly, Every ſtirring of the Regenerate part, every Spiritual Affection, every Holy End and Purpoſe, that is raiſed up in the Heart of a Believer, throughout the whole courſe of his Life, all theſe are quicknings, and they are from our having been quickned together with Chriſt. Pſal. 80. 18. Quicken us, and we will call upon thy Name: the ability which a Man hath to pray in a Spiritual way, it is a quickning.

Secondly, I ſhewed you, how we are quickned together with Chriſt; and how our quickning dependeth upon his being quickned. For he was put to Death in the Fleſh, and quickned in the Spirit, as the Apoſtle Peter ſpeaks, 1 Pet. 3. 18.

I added a third, which is the ſcope of the Apoſtle here, and that is the greatneſs of this Work. For I take it that quickning here, contains not ſimply only our firſt Converſion, though eminently that, but all that is done upon us in this Life; as on the other ſide thoſe that follow in the 6th verſe, are the Works, which God will work in our Perſons, one day in the World to come. The greatneſs of this Work, I demonſtrated by ſuch things as are proper to the Text. As

1. That

Serm. XV.

1. That he quickned us thus when we were dead; as in Ezek. 16. 6. I ſaid unthee, in thy Blood, Live: It was not only a Child caſt forth in its menſtrous Blood, but a dead Child too. And ſo likewiſe,

2. In that it is called quickning, and quickning having thoſe relations to Death, it importeth a mighty Work of Power. In Rom. 4. 17. it is made a great matter in Abraham's Faith that he believed in God who quickneth the dead, but yet it was but the quickning of the dead Womb of Sarah. There goes an infinite deal of Mercy to quicken the dead Heart of a Believer; nay to quicken his Graces, which are not dead in Sin, but they are dead of themſelves, without the quickning of the Holy Ghoſt. Pſal. 119. 156. Great are thy tender Mercies, O Lord, quicken me, ſaith David.

3. It is a great Work likewiſe, in reſpect of the Life which we are quickned unto, and of which it is the beginning: it is the beginning of all that Life of Glory which we ſhall have hereafter. It is not only quickning us unto that Life which Adam had, but it is quickning us unto that Life which Chriſt himſelf leadeth, who is our Life, Col. 3. 4. And therefore in 1 Cor. 15. there is a compariſon made between Adam and Chriſt, The firſt Man Adam (ſaith he ver. 4, 5.) was made a living Soul, the laſt Adam was made a quickning Spirit. The compariſon lies not only in this, that Jeſus Chriſt can raiſe up a dead Creature, a dead Soul, and a dead Body, but the compariſon is of the Life it ſelf, with which both the one and the other are endowed, for the excellency thereof; as appears evidently by what he ſaith of the Body there: that from a natural it is raiſed to a ſpiritual Life; and it holds much more in the Soul. Therefore in Joh. 10. 10. Chriſt ſaith, I am come, that they might have Life, and that they might have it more abundantly. Now then do but conſider; If thou feeleſt the beginnings of ſpiritual Life, the leaſt ſtirring that is in thee, though it be but in a way of quickning (for ſo you ſee he expreſſes it by that which is the loweſt) think what this quickning is, the beginning and Foundation of. When Mary did feel her ſelf quick with the Son of God, little thought ſhe what a Life that quickning was the firſt motion of, even of that Life which the Son of God now leads in Heaven, which was his due then. Your Life (ſaith he, Col. 3. 3.) is hid with Chriſt in God. The truth is, we have little of that Life which we ſhall have hereafter; it is but quickning here, we may be ſaid only to live hereafter: Your Life (ſaith he) is hid with Chriſt in God: and when Chriſt who is our Life ſhall appear, then ſhall ye alſo appear with him in Glory. Here it is but a Seed of Life, buried to grow up hereafter, it is a drop of Life to be ſwallowed up in that Sea, in that Ocean of Life hereafter. And then likewiſe conſider, it is a quickning together with Chriſt, the ſame that Chriſt hath, our Lives are bound up with his, and in his.

But now the chief is the Mercy (for that is the Apoſtle's ſcope to exalt) the Mercy of it doth lye in this; That Jeſus Chriſt muſt die, and be quickned again out of Death, before ſuch time as this Life ſhall be given us. In Joh. 12. 14. Chriſt compares himſelf to a Grain of Corn, which except it fall into the Ground, and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much Fruit: If I had not dyed, ſaith he, I had been in Heaven alone, none had ever had any quickning by me, I had not brought a Soul to Life, if I had not died: That is the Mind of Chriſt's compariſon there. And

This leads me now to that which is a 4*th* thing to be conſidered here in this place, which I mentioned not in the laſt Diſcourſe. I told you, when I handled and opened to you the greatneſs of the Love of God to us, that I would keep to ſuch things as the Text affords, to ſet it out unto you ſtill, as they fall in my way. I ſhewed you how great a Love it was.

1. From the Subject of it, God.
2. For the kind of it, His Love.
3. For the time he hath born it to us, even from everlaſting.
4. From the Perſons, Us, Us nakedly, and diſtinctly, and indefinitely; and Us, not others.
5. From our condition, when we were dead.

And now (which I will but ſpeak to in a Word) the greatneſs of this Love is ſet out by this, that to the end we might be quickned, he gave his Son to Death.

It

It is but couched in the Text, and therefore I will but briefly ſpeak to it and ſo proceed. Serm. XV.

My Brethren, when the Scripture would ſet out the Love of God to us, it ſpeaks not much of it, but the chief and eminent thing it holds forth is this, that God gave his Son, and gave his Son to Death for us. You have it in Rom. 5. 8. God commendeth his Love towards us (or as the Word ſignifies, he makes it noble and illuſtrious) in that while we were Sinners, Chriſt died for us. It is not only that when we were Sinners, he loved us, or quickned us when we were dead; but that he gave his Son to dye for us, to effect this, there lies the Emphaſis, that is more than quickning, and more than all the Benefits we have by Chriſt. You have the like in 1 Joh. 4. 9. In this was manifeſted the Love of God towards us, becauſe that God ſent his only begotten Son into the World, that we might live through him; we had never had any of this Spiritual Life elſe. And herein is Love (ſaith he ver. 10.) that is ſet out by two things, not that we loved God, but that he loved us; ſo that God loved us from everlaſting, and began to love us firſt; and then it follows, and ſent his Son to be the propitiation for our Sins. Herein is Love: that is, in this is the higheſt manifeſtation of the Love of God; it is ſuch a Phraſe as that in Rev. 14. 12. Here is the patience of the Saints, that is, here it is tryed, here it is ſeen. You know it was the higheſt trial of Abraham's Love to God, that he had a Heart to give his Son for him; Now I know (ſaith God, Gen. 22. 12.) that thou feareſt God (that Word Fear is put for Love, and for all Religion, according to the Language of the Old Teſtament) ſeeing thou haſt not withheld thy Son, thine only Son from me; you ſee how God was taken with it, though it was but in the purpoſe of Abraham's Heart to do it. But how much more is it for God actually to give us his Son! In Joh. 3. 16. it is ſaid, God ſo loved the World, that he gave his only begotten Son: Still you ſee the Scripture runs upon it. He loved, and he gave for Love preſently thinks of giving, and if it be a great Love, it will expreſs it ſelf by Gifts anſwerable: Now God had a Son, and he ſo loved the World, that he gave this Son. The truth is that God himſelf could not do a greater Act, nor give a greater Gift. I may ſay of this Act, as it is ſaid, in Heb. 6. 13. that When God made Promiſe to Abraham, becauſe he could ſwear by no greater, he ſware by himſelf; ſo becauſe he could manifeſt his Love no greater nor higher way, he gave his Son, and his only begotten Son: you ſee there is a [So] put upon it, he ſo loved the World, that is, his Elect in the World (for ſo I take it, it is meant.) Such Expreſſions have an import in them of unexpreſſibleneſs; as, So great Salvation, Heb. 2. 3. and, Such contradiction of Sinners, Heb. 12. 3. If Satan ſay, thou haſt ſo ſinned, reply again, God hath ſo loved the World, that he gave his Son for us. The Apoſtle putteth an unexpreſſibleneſs upon the Love of God, in making of us his Sons, 1 Joh. 3. 1. Behold what manner of Love the Father hath beſtowed upon us, that we ſhould be called the Sons of God? What manner of Love then is this, that God hath given us his only Son? You have it again, in Rom. 8. 32. emphatically mentioned, where the Apoſtle ſpeaks with an amazement; as if he had even run himſelf out of Breath: What ſhall we then ſay to theſe things? (having ſpoken of the Love of God) ſuch a Sea of Love came upon him, as overcame him: And what follows? He that ſpared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how ſhall he not with him alſo, freely give us all things? Do but conſider the Words a little. He ſpared not his Son, the Word implies, that God was ſenſible enough what it was to give ſuch a Son, it implies the greateſt tenderneſs; he felt every blow, yet he gave the blows himſelf: Even as when of loving Parents, 'tis ſaid they do not ſpare their Children, when out of the greateſt tenderneſs they do correct them. And he is ſaid not to ſpare his own Son, who is more his own Son, than our Sons can be, which are differing from our ſelves, but Chriſt of the ſame Subſtance with himſelf. And the truth is, none knows how to value the Gift, but God himſelf that gave him, and Chriſt himſelf that was given. And he did do it freely too; the Word that is uſed χαριζεται imports it, with him he ſhall graciouſly give us; he gives Chriſt and all things elſe freely with him, therefore it implies, that he gave him up freely alſo. Abraham gave his Son, but he was commanded to do it; but God gave his Son freely, and it pleaſed the Lord to bruiſe him. And to ſhew that this was the greateſt Gift that God could give, or had to give; what follows? Now he had given us his Son, take all things elſe ſaith he: I do not value Heaven, now I have given my Son for you, therefore take that, I do not value Grace nor Comfort, nor Creatures, take all freely even as you had my Son. If he ſpared not his Son ſaith he, how ſhall he not with him alſo freely give us all things? He hath given the greateſt Pawn of his Love, (in giving us his Son) that ever was. Take another Scripture, in 1 Joh. 3. 16. Hereby perceive we the Love of God, becauſe he laid down his Life for us. Do but conſider whoſe Life it was that was laid down. The Apoſtle greatens this Love, from the Perſon, the owner of this Life. Was it the Life of Men? Alas! what is the Lives of Men? they are but as the Lives of Gnats and Flies; ſuch as came out of nothing but the other day: no, but this is the life of God. The life which God, dwelling in a human Nature hath, and is due to that human Nature, God dwelling there; the Apoſtle puts an Emphaſis upon that, that it was the life of God, and his own life, and ſo dear to God in the proportion of it, as the lives of Creatures are in their ſeveral Degrees of Excellency and Happineſs they enjoy, to each of them. The life of a Man, is more dear to a Man, than of a Beaſt, to a Beaſt: of a Fly, to a Fly. And among Men; of a King, to a King, than of an ordinary Man, to Himſelf: Becauſe he hath more of an outward Life and Happineſs to loſe. And look how much reaſon, God hath to love his own Life, more than Men their own; By ſo much was it greater love in God, to lay down that life; a life ſo dear to him, that none knew how to value this life of God, but God himſelf, and Jeſus Chriſt, who is God, and dwelt in that human Nature.

Serm. XV.

All this (my Brethren) God did, when he could have ſaved the World otherwiſe too, (let me put that in) and this when all our Lives, and all the Glory he ſhall have from us, is not worth that Life, that Glory of Chriſt, that was debaſed. And yet God, he found a ſweet ſmelling ſavour in it, he did ſo heartily and freely offer him up. The truth is, this love cannot be ſet out, unleſs God ſhed it abroad in the Heart of a Man, by the Holy Ghoſt, who knows the Heart of God, and knows the valuation of this Gift; and who by his Report of it, takes the Heart with it: all the Diſcourſes in the World, otherwiſe will do a Man no good. And ſo much now for that Head likewiſe, the greatneſs of this love, that we are quickned together with Chriſt, and ſo he muſt die, and then be quickned, before we could be quickned; We are quickned together with him, ſaith he.

Now I come to the next Words, the third thing here in this verſe, and that is this,

By Grace ye are ſaved.

The Apoſtle brings this in, as an Inference from both the other, that when we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, God did then quicken us together with Chriſt: and he brings it in, by way of Parentheſis, as ſetting a mark on it, as making it that thing he would have them, as the reſult of all, obſerve and carry in their Eye. Three things are to be conſidered in it.

1. The manner of his bringing of it in.
2. The occaſion.
3. The matter it ſelf.

All theſe are worthy our obſervation, and will afford Obſervations to us. I ſhall handle the ſecond, viz. the occaſion laſt of all.

I. For the manner of his bringing of it in.

He brings it in here abruptly, and in the midſt of a Sentence, before he had made an end of ennumerating the Benefits we have in and by Chriſt. And he repeats it again in the 8*th verſe*, in ſo many Words: Inſomuch as ſome have thought that it did creep into the Copy, by the addition of ſome Writer, and that it was not the Apoſtles own. But far be it from us to think ſo; for by ſaying this of whole Sentences, aud eſpecially of ſo rich Sentences as this is, is to open a gap for all Hereſy, and to make of the Scriptures what they pleaſe, and to have no Foundation for our Faith therein; for the like exception may be made of any. But my Brethren, thren, it is the Apoſtle's indigitating here, in this Diſcourſe, this thing again and again. To ſay, By Grace ye are ſaved, and to ſay it again; to ſay it briefly firſt, and largely afterwards to open it, to that end they might have in their Eye this as the chief reſult and ſcope of all his Diſcourſe: for him to do ſo, it is no wonder. He did ſo in mentioning our loſt condition; firſt he mentioneth it largely, in the 1, 2, and 3. verſes: and yet he repeats it again, to ſet the conſideration of it the more upon our Hearts, in this 5*th verſe*. Anſwerably, when he would ſpeak of that Grace, by which we were delivered out of this condition, he gives us in the beginning here a brief touch of it, By Grace ye are ſaved, and then inſiſteth largely upon it afterwards, in the 8*th verſe*. It was meet that this Seal ſhould have a double Impreſſion upon the Wax, to make it the deeper, for it is God's Seal; it is that Grace, by which he knows who are his. It is the firſt great end and deſign of God. So ver. 7. you have it, That in the Ages to come, he might ſhew the Riches of his Grace. It is both the firſt cauſe, and the middle cauſe, and the ultimate cauſe of our Salvation; and therefore no wonder the Apoſtle mentioneth it three times. And then,

2. Why he ſhould bring it in by way of Parentheſis, in the very midſt of his Diſcourſe, of the Benefits we have in and by Chriſt; before he goes on to ſpeak of the reſt, having ſpoken only of quickning; for him to ſay, By Grace ye are ſaved, by way of Parentheſis, it argues that he had this thing in his Thoughts, his Thoughts were full of it; and it breaks out preſently upon the firſt juſt occaſion. He had but mentioned the firſt degree of Salvation, he hath quickned us; yet becauſe whoever hath that degree, his Salvation ſhall be compleated, he preſently crys out, are ye quickned? Ye are ſaved; he ſpeaks as if the whole Work were done, for done it ſhall be: he cryes out, ye are ſaved, upon the very mention of the firſt degree of Salvation; and he tells them by what: ye are ſaved by Grace, ſaith he. You have juſt ſuch a Parentheſis, in Hab. 1. 12. where the Prophet, in the name of the People of God, prays unto God; Art thou not from everlaſting, O Lord, my God, mine holy One? what follows? We ſhall not die. He did preſently gather that from it, and it came in as a Note by the way: he had no ſooner ſaid, Thou art my God from everlaſting: but, We ſhall not die: and then he goes on in his Prayer. So here, when the Apoſtle had but named that Work, which enſureth Salvation to us, and that engageth God for ever to go on; and that he that hath begun a good Work, will perfect it: he preſently brings this in by way of Parentheſis, By Grace ye are ſaved: And ſo putteth a more real Emphaſis upon Grace, than in the former upon Mercy and Love, ſimply and alone conſidered. He gives them greater Epithites indeed; and yet he gives Grace the ſame afterwards too. But he brings this in here as an eminent Obſervation by the way, as that which he would have them of all things obſerve. And ſo thereby he gives it a more real exaltation than the other. And then,

3. If any one ſhall ſay, Is there any difference between his ſcope in bringing it in here, and in the 8*th verſe*? I anſwer, Yes, and this I deſire you to obſerve and remember, for it ſhall ſteer me in the handling of it; for ſome things are proper to this place, and other things that are proper to what belongs to this Sentence, in the 8*th verſe*. To ſhew you the difference then. It comes in here by way of general Premiſe, as a touch by the way, of what he would more largely open, and particularly ſpeak of. It comes in here, as the chief cauſe of Salvation ſimply conſidered, a cauſe of all thoſe Benefits which we receive, that we are quickned, and raiſed with Chriſt, and ſit in heavenly places with him; it is placed in the midſt of them, as the Sun is in the Firmament. But in the 8*th verſe*, it comes in there comparatively, and more largely; it comes in there, excluding what may ſeem to put in as cauſes of our Salvation: if you will make them cauſes that are not cauſes, and yet will go about in the Hearts of Men to ſhare the honour with free Grace. By Grace ye are ſaved, ſaith he, through Faith, and that not of your ſelves, it it is the Gift of God, not of Works, &c. He brings it in there, I ſay, by way of excluſion, by way of cutting off the Pleas, of whatſoever would pretend to any Title or Honour herein; or which the Hearts of Men are apt to mingle with, and aſcribe Salvation unto. You ſee clearly then, the differing way of handling and Serm. XV. ſpeaking to theſe Words here, and in the 8*th verſe*. Here I muſt ſpeak of it ſimply as it is the cauſe of our Salvation: But there I muſt ſpeak of it, as it is a cauſe of our Salvation, excluding all things elſe. There is nothing hath been more corrupted in all Ages, than the cauſation that free Grace hath, in the Salvation of Men; by Papiſts, and by Remonſtrants, and by Legaliſts, and by carnal Hearts; that ſtill will mingle with it ſomething of themſelves. Now all theſe things I muſt ſpeak to, as the Text ſhall give occaſion, when I come to the 8*th verſe*. Only that which I am now to do, is to ſhew you, and that in a more general way, how that Grace, and free Grace is the cauſe of all Salvation. And herein, I will obſerve this method.

1. Open to you, what is meant by Grace.
2. What is held forth under this Word, being ſaved, as here it is brought in.
3. I ſhall put them both together, By Grace ye are ſaved; and ſpeak to them jointly.

There is an Obſervation which I ſhould have mentioned, drawn from the manner of the Apoſtle's bringing this in here, By Grace ye are ſaved; by way of Parentheſis, in the midſt of his Diſcourſe: and then that he ſhould afterwards ſo largely inſiſt upon it again and again, it holds forth this to us.

That the dependency our Salvation hath in the whole, and all the parts of it, upon free Grace, is the greateſt thing in the Goſpel. It is that which the Apoſtle would have theſe Epheſians, above all things elſe take notice of, he ſets therefore this Mark upon it, by this Parentheſis; as if he had ſaid, remember this, ſaith he, as the great reſult of my Diſcourſe, to hold forth this to you, to beget thoughts of this in you, that By Grace ye are ſaved. But of this, when I come to the 8*th verſe*.

At preſent, I ſhall enquire,

Firſt, what is meant by Grace here.

To be ſure, it is not meant the Graces in us, though they have alſo the name given to them. The Papiſts they run altogether upon that, if you read their Books of the Attributes of God, you ſhall not find, as I remember, that Title, De Gratia Dei, or in any one of them: No, they run upon the Grace that is in us. Indeed the Graces that are in us, are called Grace in the Scripture, as in 2 Cor. 8. 1, 7. We do you to wit, of the Grace of God beſtowed upon the Churches of Macedonia. And ver. 7. As ye abound in every thing, in Faith, and Utterance, and Knowledg, and in all Diligence, and in your Love to us, ſee that ye abound in this Grace alſo. So in 2 Cor. 9. 8. God is able to make all Grace abound towards you; and ver. 14. We long after you, for the exceeding Grace of God in you. But yet the Graces that are in us, they are called Graces, meerly becauſe they are the Gifts of an higher Grace, by which higher Grace we are ſaved; and Salvation is never attributed to our own Graces. Or indeed and in truth they are part of Salvation it ſelf; even as the Benefits that God beſtows upon us out of Love, they are called Love; ſo in 1 John 3. 1. Behold what manner of Love the Father hath beſtowed upon us, that we ſhould be called the Sons of God. There Adoption and Sonſhip is called the Love of God, which he hath beſtowed upon us, becauſe it proceeds from Love; ſo theſe are called Graces, becauſe they flow from that Grace: Even as Regeneration, the thing begotten in us, is called Spirit in us, becauſe it is begotten by the Spirit; ſo theſe are called Graces, becauſe they are the Gift of Grace. And therefore in Acts 11. 23. the Effects of the Grace of God are there called Grace: When he had ſeen the Grace of God, he was glad; that is, he had ſeen Men turned unto God; for he ſpeaks of the Converſion of Souls, and of the Graces of God wrought in them. My Brethren, they are but improperly called Grace. It is that which hath miſled the Papiſts, and Schoolmen; and you may ſee how dangerous a little Miſtake is: They thought to call it Grace, becauſe it made us accepted, and rendred us gracious in the eyes of God, therefore they called it, that Grace by which we are accepted. But the truth is, theſe are only called Graces, becauſe they are the Gifts of Grace; and therefore in that place I quoted afore, 2 Cor. 8. 1. it is called, The Grace beſtowed upon you. And you ſhall ſtill find, that when our Grace is ſpoken of, the word [given] is mentioned: as in Eph. 3. 2. and twenty ſuch Inſtances more there are, which I could give you. They are called Graces, I ſay, becauſe they are beſtowed by Grace. They are not Gratiæ gratum facientes, but Gratia gratum facientis, that is, the Grace of God making us gracious. And therefore the Holy-Ghoſt hath invented a word for it, which we find uſed in no Heathen Author, (as the Learned have obſerved) he calls them, χαρίσματα, that is, Gifts out of Grace, and out of Favour. And in Rom. 5. 15. there is mention made of the Grace of God, and of the Gift by Grace, which indeed is plainly meant only of the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt; yet in relation unto us, and as flowing from that original Grace in God, it is called the Gift by Grace, or the Gift of Grace. So that now you muſt take the Favour of God, that which is in the Heart of God towards us, which is called in that Rom. 5. 16. in diſtinction from all Gifts given by God, yea from Chriſt himſelf, ἡ χάρις τοῦ θεοῦ, the Grace of God, to be that which the Apoſtle means here in the Text; and tho he hath given the Graces in us the Name of Grace, yet, as I ſaid afore, he never attributed Salvation to them.

And that here Grace is ſo taken, I ſuppoſe I ſhall not need to ſtand long in it. You ſee the Apoſtle brings it in here as a cauſe of Salvation, together with Mercy and Love in God, therefore the Grace here meant is the Grace of God alſo. And ſo, v. 7. That he might ſhew the exceeding Riches of his Grace. It is not the Grace in us, but Grace in God, which he calleth alſo Kindneſs in the ſame verſe. So that in a word, by Grace here is meant this, the Favour of God freely accepting of us: Epheſ. 1. 6. To the Praiſe of the Glory of his Grace, whereby he hath made us accepted; accepted with himſelf: This is the great Grace that is here intended. I could give you another place for it; it is in Rom. 3. 24. Being juſtified freely by his Grace. There is, firſt, his Grace; and ſecondly, to ſhew that it is not any thing in us, he addeth the word [freely] to it: He doth not only call it Grace, but his Grace, by way of diſtinction; and then he adds [freely to it, to cut off all things from it.

The Obſervation from hence by the by, is only this:

That we ſhould now have our Heart ſet upon ſeeking of the Grace and Favour of God, as the higheſt, ſupream, and chief Cauſe of all; and to ſeek Graces as the Fruit thereof: To pray, tho for inherent Grace to be wrought in us, yet chiefly to ſeek after the Favour of God, to have our Hearts affected with it. To apprehend, and ſeek after, and to have our Hearts taken with the Favour of God, and to be the Subject of it, is in it ſelf infinitely more, than to be taken with the Fruits of it. And ſo likewiſe, to ſeek after the viſion of this Favour in it ſelf; as Moſes, Shew me thy Face, ſaith he: God knew what he meant, and therefore anſwers, I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious; and I will be gracious unto thee. Our Hearts now, and our Comfort ſhould be pitch'd upon the Grace that is in God. Obſerv.

You ſhall find the expreſſion in 2 Theſſ. 2. 16. (I ſhall but quote it to you.) Now our Lord Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, and God, even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlaſting Conſolation, and good Hope through Grace. What is it that will be everlaſting Conſolation, that will never fail you? And what is that good Hope that will be everlaſting? It is, when as the Grace of God is ſhed abroad in our Hearts, and the Love of God is ſhed abroad in our Souls, in a more immediate manner. That he ſpeaks of that Love, is clear; for he ſaith, God that hath loved us with an infinite Love, and ſaved us with his free Grace that is in himſelf, out of that Love he hath given us eternal Conſolation, and good Hope in that Love, and in that Grace.

Now then, this being cleared and opened to you, I come in the ſecond place, to ſhew you, what this expreſſion of Grace doth ſuperadd to Mercy and Love; for you ſee here he brings in three Cauſes of our Salvation. Therefore as I have opened the thing it ſelf, I ſhall in the ſecond place open it, as it is a cauſe of Salvation, vation, diſtinct ſome way from Mercy and Love: Exod. 34. 6. The Lord gracious and merciful; he makes Grace a diſtinct thing from Mercy. It is the ſame for the ſubſtance with Love and Mercy, yet it holds forth ſomething more eminently than both.

Serm. XV.

1. It noteth out, not ſimply Love, but the Love of a Sovereign, tranſcendently ſuperior, one that may do what he will, that may wholly chuſe whether he will love or no. There may be love betwixt Equals, and an Inferior may love a Superior; but Love in one that is a Superior, and ſo ſuperior, as he may do what he will, in ſuch an one Love is called Grace: and therefore Grace is attributed to Princes, they are ſaid to be gracious to their Subjects. Subjects, tho they love their Princes, yet they are not ſaid to be gracious to them. Now God, who is an infinite Sovereign, who might have choſen whether ever he would have loved us or no, for him to love us, and to love us with a ſpecial Love, this is Grace. In that of Exod. 34. 6. when God proclaims his Name, what is the firſt word? The Lord, the Lord, and gracious is the next: The Lord, the Lord, gracious: I am the Sovereign Lord of all the Creatures, if I love, if I ſhew Mercy, this is Grace. And in the Chapter before, v. 19, he ſpeaks like a King, and like the Lord of Heaven and Earth, I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious.

2. Grace here, as it is in God, notes out not ſimply Love, but the height of Love, a Love that will ſhew all its Goodneſs: Exod. 33. 19. I will, ſaith he, ſhew thee all my Goodneſs; what follows? I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious. For God to be gracious to us, is ſo to love us, as to beſtow all that becomes Creatures to have from him, all that is ſuitable to the condition of Creatures. When the Apoſtles therefore would wiſh all good to thoſe unto whom they wrote, ſtill they wiſh Grace, becauſe it brings the utmoſt good with it, it is Love extended to the utmoſt; if it be Grace, they ſhall have his Son, and all things with him: He will graciouſly with him give us all things. So I told you the word ſignifies, in that Rom. 8. 32.

3. Hence therefore, thirdly, it notes withall the greateſt Freeneſs. You have the Phraſe in Hoſea 14. 4. I will love them freely. Where God loves, he loves freely; and Grace denotes the Freeneſs of that Love, it ſuperadds in the ſignification of it, Freeneſs; and Love in that reſpect is called Grace, and Grace is but free Love. You ſhall find it in Rom. 3. 24. Being juſtified freely by his Grace. And therefore where the Apoſtle uſeth the word Grace, or God is ſaid to give us out of this Grace, our Interpreters often render the word, to give us freely. Thus in 1 Cor. 2. 12. The things that are freely given to us of God; the word is, things given to us out of Grace, or graciouſly. So in the place quoted even now, Rom. 8. 32. He will with him give us all things freely, or graciouſly, as the word ſignifies.

Now for God to give freely, it implies theſe ſix things, that I may open them diſtinctly to you.

Firſt; To ſet his Heart and his Love on us, meerly out of his own good Motion, and good Will. Mark therefore how they are joined together, in Epheſ. 1. 5, 6. In the 5*th* Verſe he had ſaid, that God predeſtinated us unto the Adoption of Children, according to the good pleaſure of his Will; and in the 6*th* Verſe he ſaith, To the praiſe of the Glory of his Grace. When he doth it thus in a freedom, meerly out of the motion of his own Will, this is Freeneſs, and this makes it Grace. Grace implies more than to give, tho it implies that too; and tho ſtill you ſhall find both joined, it implies to give freely.

Secondly; It is not only ſaid to be Grace, in regard of the Freeneſs of it towards us, but in reſpect of the Sovereignty of God's Will, that he may chuſe to love whom he will, and do what he will, meerly as a Sovereign; for ſo it is moſt certain, that all that Adam had might be called Grace in that reſpect; for what God did for Adam, all the Holineſs he had, it was freely done, which yet in the Scripture is not called Grace. It might have been ſaid unto Adam, Who made thee to differ from another? It was the free Will of God: And what haſt thou that thou didſt not receive? So that Grace here implies more than meerly the Freeneſs of a Sovereign, that God doth it meerly out of his Superiority. But we find, that Grace, it is oppoſed to all that Dueneſs, which in a way of Juſtice becomes God to reward the Creature with, under the Covenant of Works. In Rom. 4. 4. you ſhall find, that Grace is oppoſed to ὀφείλημα, to a Debt, or a Due; the Apoſtle, ſpeaking of the Juſtification of a Sinner, oppoſeth to it the Juſtification by Works, To him that worketh (v. 4.) is the Reward not reckoned of Grace, but of Debt. I take it, that there by Debt, is not meant, as if the Creature under the Covenant of Works could oblige God; or, that God was a Debtor, ſtrictly taken, to the Creature: For that of the Apoſtle is certain, in Rom. 11. 35. Who hath firſt given to him, and it ſhall be recompenſed unto him again? But yet this we may ſay, That there was a dueneſs, and a meetneſs, between God as the Creator, and the Creature: That if the Creature were holy, (as it was meet God ſhould create him, if he made him reaſonable,) and if he continued in that Holineſs, it was meet, it was according to the Law of Nature between the Creator and the Creature, he ſhould live, and be eſteemed righteous, and be in God's favour, and have his Approbation in ſo doing; and likewiſe, that God ſhould make a Promiſe, that he ſhould do ſo. It was meet, that God, ſeeing a Holineſs in Adam, and ſeeing him to continue in that Holineſs, ſhould approve him, and juſtify him, as a Creature that was holy, and continued holy, as a Creature under that Covenant. But the Grace which the Goſpel ſpeaks of, and by which we are ſaved, is a Grace oppoſed to this Dueneſs, that is between the Creator and the Creature, ſimply ſo conſidered. Therefore now God, that he might make way for this Grace, which was in the Purpoſes of his Heart, and to lay the Creature low in it ſelf, and to manifeſt the Riches and Greatneſs of his Grace and Love, downs with Adam's State, he ſuffers that to be ruined: Adam forfeited that Bond which was between his Creator and him, and it is a Forfeiture that cannot be reſtored again, no, not by God himſelf, to a ſinful Creature, as the ſtate of Innocency cannot. Now then, when God had diſſolved that Dueneſs, that Debt, (as I may call it,) that Obligation, which according to the Law of Nature, in a way of Meetneſs and Comelineſs, it was fit for God as a Creator, to deal with a Creature, there is now room for Grace; for now he is not only free as he is a Sovereign, but he is free as a Judg, in reſpect that he is free as to that his own Law, which (tho Sovereign of the World) he had condeſcended unto, by reaſon of the relation of being a Creator. He is not only free in reſpect of Prerogative, as a King is over his Subjects, and is therefore ſaid to be gracious; but he is gracious now as a King unto Trators. In Rom. 3. when he comes to ſpeak of being juſtified freely by his Grace, which he doth v. 24. how doth he make way for it? He tells us before, that all Men were become guilty before God; ſo v. 19. That every Mouth may be ſtopped, ſaith he, and all the World may become guilty before God: All had their Necks upon the Block. Now, ſaith he, if ever theſe be ſaved and juſtified, it muſt be by Grace: So you have it after that Diſcourſe, at the 24*th* Verſe, Being juſtified freely by his Grace, through the Redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſus, when we were thus obnoxious, and were all become guilty before God. Grace hath a further freedom therefore.

Grace

Thirdly; The Freeneſs of this Grace lies in this, That God's Reſolutions of Love are firm, and is ſo free and noble, that nothing ſhall divert him; Grace always hath a Generouſneſs accompanying it: That as God is the King of all the World, and will be gracious to whom he will be gracious; ſo he reſolveth for ever to be ſo, and nothing ſhall hinder him from being ſo. There ſhall be neither Ifs nor Buts: If my People forſake my Laws; what then? I will not take my Mercy away from them for all that, he ſaith in Pſal. 89. 33. And ſaith Paul, in 1 Tim. 1. 13. But I obtained Mercy for all that, tho I was injurious, and a Perſecutor, &c. And then, Fourthly; It is free in this, becauſe he caſts it upon what Perſons he will: Therein is Freedom of Grace alſo, whereas there was no difference, as the Apoſtle ſaith, Rom. 3. 22. But all have ſinned, and come ſhort of the Glory of God; then comes in, Being juſtified freely by his Grace. He hath here a freedom now, in reſpect of Perſons, to this or that Perſon, and not to others. Therefore again, in Rom. 11. 5. they are ſaid to be a Remnant according to the Election of Grace; that whereas all were in a like condition, this free taking of a Remnant, this chuſing of theſe, and not others, is out of Grace, it is therefore called, the Election of Grace.

And

Serm. XV.

And then, in the laſt place, as it reſpects no Perſons, ſo no Conditions upon which he gives Salvation to us, Pardon of Sin, Juſtification, and Heaven at laſt; I ſay, that he doth it freely without conditions. There is indeed a Freedom that God hath given away, and that is, by having made Promiſes to his People; but it is free Grace that made him promiſe. There is alſo a declaration of his Will, that without ſuch a thing he will not beſtow another thing, which yet he beſtows, both the one and the other, out of Grace: Without Holineſs no Man ſhall go to Heaven, &c. But yet they are not Conditions, they are indeed the Effects of this Grace, as the Apoſtle terms them: The Grace of God was exceeding abundant in Faith and Love, 1 Tim. 1. 14. that is, in working Faith and Love. And indeed, that I may ſpeak more plainly, what is Faith, and Love, and Repentance, and all theſe, to Salvation? They are Salvation it ſelf, they are part of it. When God requires of you, that you ſhould believe, and repent, and mortify Sin, and walk holily, doth he require theſe as Conditions? No, he requires them as parts of Salvation it ſelf, as the Eſſentials to Salvation. My Brethren, they are the Eſſentials unto Salvation it ſelf: For what is Faith and Holineſs, unto Glory and Salvation to come? It is as Reaſon is to Learning. All the World muſt needs ſay, that Reaſon is a part of that Knowledg a learned Man hath, or he would never be learned; it is not a condition ſo much of his being learned, as it is a part of it: So when God bids us believe, what is it? It is to bid us be ſaved, it is to bid us have eternal Life, and the Comforts of eternal Life in our Hearts; it is to tell us, I will give you my Son freely, I would have you marry him, I would have you believe in him, I would have you be one with him. As if a Man ſhould ſay, I will give you Meat upon condition you eat it; why, he hath no ſweetneſs in it, unleſs he eat it, it will do him no good elſe: So ſaith God, I will give you my Son, believe in him. Is Faith ſuch a great condition, think you? It is that without which Chriſt cannot be yours, you cannot poſſeſs him elſe, you can have no ſweetneſs by him, he will do you no good elſe. They are, I ſay, Eſſentials to Salvation, eſſential Requiſites. But perhaps I ſhall ſpeak a little more to this, when I come to the 8*th* Verſe. My Brethten, this is certain, that look whatever Contrivements free Grace in God could have, that might not imply a contradiction, that might ſtand with Holineſs, that might ſtand with the Wiſdom of God, that might effect the thing, viz. to ſave Men; all that Advancement of his free Grace, he hath ordered, and deſigned, and plotted, in all the Works of our Salvation. In Rom. 5. 21. it is ſaid, that Grace reigned through the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, unto eternal Life. It reigneth, mark it, of all things elſe God hath ſet up his free Grace as a Monarch, and hath ſo ſet it up, as that it ſhall reign; and there is no Work of Man, or any thing in Man, that ſhall in the leaſt impair the Sovereignty of it. If a Sovereign have the making of his own Laws, he will be ſnre to make himſelf Sovereign enough; why free Grace is a Sovereign. We are therefore ſaid to be under Grace, in Rom. 6. and that therefore Sin ſhall have no more dominion over us, becauſe we are under the dominion of Grace, implying, that Grace is a mighty King and Sovereign. If Grace therefore have the making of his own Laws, if he have the contriving of all the things in our Salvation, doubtleſs he hath contrived it ſo, as that himſelf will be the immediate Beſtower of all, and that all that cometh ſhall come immediatly from free Grace, and ſhall be ſo acknowledged, and thereby be magnified. It is the property of Kings, if they do any great good, they will do it themſelves; ſo free Grace being this great Lord and Sovereign, it will, tho it may uſe Inſtruments, yet uſe them ſo, as it ſelf will have the glory; it is like Majeſty, it cannot endure any thing elſe to come up into the Throne. Saith the Apoſtle, in Rom. 4. 16. Therefore it is of Faith, that it might be by Grace. He ſpeaks as if Grace had a deſign ſtill to keep cloſe to that end, that he will have it by Grace. He hath taken in Faith indeed, why? Becauſe Faith will magnify and apprehend that Grace, it is a pure receiving thing, as afterwards I ſhall open. I quote the place only for this, that free Grace hath deſigned the way ſo, as that ſtill it ſelf might be magnified in all. And therefore, whether Faith, and Repentance, and Holineſs, &c. be conditions, or not conditions, we need not diſpute it much; they are parts of Salvation, (I would ſalve it ſo) they are that indeed, without which no Man ſhall be ſaved: Without Holineſs no Man ſhall ſee God; and without Faith no Man is actually juſtified in his own Perſon, he may be juſtified repreſentatively in Chriſt. But I ſay, there are parts of Salvation it ſelf, therefore when he ſaith, He hath quickned us together with Chriſt, he preſently addeth, By Grace ye are ſaved, for quickning is a part of Salvation. So that this is the thing I aim and drive at, that God hath ſo ordered all the Buſineſs of Salvation, that free Grace ſhall be magnified.

juſtified

So much now for the opening of this firſt thing, what is meant by Grace, both ſimply in it ſelf conſidered, and as it is a Cauſe of Salvation, that hath ſomething in it, ſome kind of Notion, ſuperadded to Love and Mercy.

Now I come to the ſecond, and that is, Saved.

I will not ſtand much upon the opening of that, only this: Saved, is oppoſed to what is loſt: Save and ſeek that which is loſt; ſo the Scripture-Phraſe is. Saved, and Grace here, they are well joined together; for when we were loſt, free Grace then ſhewed it ſelf, it entred then upon the Throne. The Apoſtle had ſaid, Dead in Sins, and Children of Wrath, and oppoſitely ſays, Saved, which imports a Life; σωτηρία, Vita, (and ſo the Syriack and Arabian often tranſlate it) σωτηρία. All Salvation hath a Life ſuppoſed to be ſaved, but not è contrà; the Angels live, yet are not ſaid to be ſaved. And the Holy-Ghoſt calls that Bleſſedneſs of the old Covenant of Works Life, but never Salvation, for you are ſaved by Grace; and accordingly uſeth a word in the Hebrew, peculiar to the Grace by which we are ſaved, importing Mercy, which he uſeth not of that Favour which giveth Life by the Law.

But the thing I would eſpecially note out of that word, Saved, is this, That we are ſaid to be ſaved now, now at the preſent. He had no ſooner ſaid, We are quickned together with Chriſt, but inſtantly he cries out, Ye are ſaved. I will give you but one parallel place for it, it is in 2 Tim. 1. 9. Who hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy Calling, not according to our Works, but according to his own Purpoſe and Grace. God hath called us according to his Grace, and hath ſaved us.

Now what is the reaſon that we are ſaid to be ſaved, when called?

I will give you two Reaſons, and thoſe are both in the Text, tho I could give you more; as, becauſe Calling is the beginning of Salvation, and makes the Work ſure, and gives us a right to it: Behold what manner of Love the Father hath beſtowed upon us, that we ſhould be called the Sons of God! Now are we the Sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we ſhall be; but we know, that when he ſhall appear, we ſhall be like him. All that we ſhall have in Heaven, is but the appearing of what we now have, and are. But to let that paſs. Some would interpret the words thus, We are ſaved by Hope: But the Apoſtle's ſcope is not here to ſhew what our Hopes are, but what is; and inſtead of ſaying, By Hope ye are ſaved, he plainly ſaith, by Grace ye are ſaved. Now I ſay, there are two reaſons in the Text plainly and clearly.

Firſt, we are ſaid to be ſaved now, becauſe we are now actually under the Dominion of Grace (for ſo I may expreſs it) which hath undertaken to make our Salvation perfect. Let Grace look to it now, for it is engaged, and in that reſpect Grace is not free (as I ſaid before) and it is well for us, that Grace hath not that kind of freedom. If our Salvation depended upon any thing in us, the Apoſtle could not have ſaid, ye are ſaved; but put Grace and Salvation together, and he might well ſay it. And the Apoſtles meaning is this, as if he had ſaid, you have had experience in your quickning and converſion, and hitherto of the Grace of God towards you; in quickning you together with Chriſt, and ſo in drawing you into Union and Communion, with himſelf and his Son. Now faithful is he that hath called you into fellowſhip with his Son; as 1 Cor. 1. 9. and he that hath begun will perfect it; as Phil. 1. 5. And if when we were Enemies, we were reconciled to God by the Death of his Son, much more being reconciled we ſhall be ſaved by his Life. So if Grace have wrought in you this great Work, quickning you; you may conclude from thence, that now ye are quickned, By Grace ye are ſaved: the thing is as good as done, for Grace hath undertook it, and this is one property of Grace to be immutable: Rom. 4. 16. It is of Faith that it might be by Grace, to the end the Promiſe might be ſure. In 2 Cor. 12. when the Apoſtle was in a mighty great Temptation, and did not know what would become of his carnal Heart, or at leaſtwiſe fearing leſt he might be overborn by the Temptation: what anſwer hath he? v. 9. My Grace is ſufficient for thee, my Grace hath undertook to ſave thee, therefore do not thou fear, that is ſufficient, and that will look to thee, and take care and order for thee. But might Paul ſay, or another ſay, I ſhall Sin and run out grievouſly againſt Grace? But if Grace will pardon thee, what is that to thee? And beſides that, Grace will reduce thee, and perhaps keep thee, and prevent it; however conſider, If Grace be able to ſave thee, if there be any ſufficiency in Grace, it ſhall. So that, I ſay, a Man may reckon, that if Grace be King, it will prevail over all. Grace reigneth, ſaith the Apoſtle, and nothing ſhall hinder, neither Guilt of Sin paſt or to come; ſtill you ſhall have Grace that will look to pardon you, and will look that you ſhall not run into ſuch Sins, as ſhall put you out of Grace; for this King that made theſe Laws and Principles of remaining in the ſtate of Grace, looks to all its Subjects; if they be under his Dominion, they ſhall not be under the Dominion of Sin. If Grace therefore be the undertaker, the Apoſtle might well ſay, that being quickned, ye are ſaved.

Serm. XV.

But there is a ſecond reaſon why he ſaith, Saved, in the preſent Tenſe, becauſe in the next Words he tells us, we are raiſed together with Chriſt, and ſit with him in Heavenly Places: In your Head, ſaith he, ye are in Heaven repreſentatively; and are as ſure to be in Heaven, as if you were now there. Therefore the Apoſtle having told them that they were quickned with Chriſt, gives them aſſurance of Salvation, Ye are ſaved, ſaith he, for you may ſee your ſelves quickned together with Chriſt, and raiſed up with him, repreſentatively, and therefore you ſhall one day ſit with him in Heavenly Places alſo. So much now for having explained this Word, Saved.

I ſhall now come to the third thing, viz. to ſpeak to theſe two jointly and together, By Grace ye are ſaved. And this is plainly the meaning and the ſum of it, which you may make an Obſervation, or an Interpretation of as you will. All our Salvation firſt and laſt, the whole and all the parts of it, they are to be attributed ſolely to the free Grace of God, and not to any thing in us. This latter [not to any thing in us] and how it is abſtracted from all things in us; I ſhall ſpeak of when I come to the 8*th verſe.* But I ſhall ſpeak now a little to the former, and then I think I ſhall have opened theſe Words fully. I ſay, the whole buſineſs of Salvation, firſt and laſt, and all the parts of it, they are all attributed unto Grace. The free Grace of God, or that free Favour that is in the Heart of God, it is, I ſay, the ſole cauſe of all the Parts and Degrees, and Benefits of Salvation. They are attributed unto Grace, in three reſpects.

1. In reſpect of God's everlaſting Purpoſes, looking to nothing in the Creature, and decreeing and purpoſing all Benefits to them out of Grace; ſo that every Benefit when it ſhall be beſtowed upon us, it ſhall flow from that everlaſting good Will and Purpoſe of his. You have this, in 2 Tim. 1. 9. a place pat to the purpoſe; Who hath ſaved us, and called us with an holy Calling, not according to our Works, but according to his own Purpoſe and Grace, which was given us in Chriſt Jeſus, before the World began. There now the Love of God ſet upon us freely, is called a Gift, and every Fruit of it in them, is according to that Grace, becauſe out of that Grace. My Brethren, let me give you but this Notion by the way: Though God hath ſubordinated in the way, in the Chain of our Salvation, one thing to another; as thus, actual Juſtification of our Perſons upon our believing (for it is clear, we are not juſtified in a true ſenſe till we believe, and then we begin to be juſtified in our own Perſons, yet we are repreſentatively juſtified in Chriſt from Eternity.) Here he makes Juſtification to follow upon Faith, or to be concomitant to Faith; and ſo Heaven and Glory the conſequent of Grace, without which no Man ſhall ſee God; yea he hath made all theſe to depend upon Chriſt meritoriouſly.

Yet notwithſtanding, take all theſe, Chriſt, and Faith, and Juſtification, and Heaven in the end, they are all co-ordinate, and from his own free Grace; that is, they do all immediately flow from his own Purpoſe and free Graces to us without dependance one on another, in reſpect of his Purpoſe I ſay. And therefore it is ſaid, that out of his Love he gave Chriſt and the like; and in Heb. 2. it is ſaid, that Jeſus Chriſt died by the Grace of God. What was the cauſe of the Death of Chriſt for us? It was the free Grace of God in his everlaſting Purpoſe, Rom. 8.32. Having given us his Son, how ſhall he not with him alſo freely give us all things? So that Chriſt though he was the more excellent Gift, yet he was a Gift, and all was given with him. He gave Chriſt out of Grace, and with him gives all things alſo out of Grace; and though in execution they are all to be conveyed to us through Chriſt, yet in reſpect of his Will, and in reſpect of his Purpoſe, they are all, even Chriſt himſelf and all, co-ordinate from that Grace of his. So that in that reſpect firſt, becauſe of his everlaſting Purpoſes, all doth thus depend immediately upon free Grace, originally upon an abſolute freedom in God: hence therefore, we are ſaid to be ſaved only by Grace. All the things we have, are in this reſpect, ſaid to be graciouſly given us by God; ſo the Word is in 1 Cor. 2. 12. becauſe as it is ver. 9. God hath prepared them for thoſe that love him. Therefore he is called, the God of all Grace, 1 Pet. 5. 20. even as he is called, the God of all Comfort: for of all the Grace that he beſtows upon us, he is the Fountain, and the immediate Fountain; it was meerly out of his Grace; and this was before we had done good or evil, Rom. 11. 6. Now then the Grace of God towards us, upon which our Salvation in all the parts of it depends, that Grace whereby we are ſaved, it is a Soveraign: ſo that though the Grace that is in Jeſus Chriſt, as God, Man, and Mediatour, is taken up into partnerſhip with the Son of God, and therefore our Salvation is attributed to his Grace, 1 Tim. 1. 14. The Grace of our Lord is exceeding abundant: yet if you compare this in order of our Salvation, to the original Grace in God himſelf, it is but a Gift of Grace. The Apoſtle (as Zanchy well obſerveth, upon Rom. 5. 13.) ſpeaks of the Grace of God, and of the Gift by Grace: what means he by the Gift by Grace? Even that very Redemption of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, for it was the free Grace of God that did order that as a Gift to us, for our Salvation and Juſtification. So that in this reſpect we are ſaved by Grace, this original Grace of God; and the Grace that is in Jeſus Chriſt, take it as it is for us, it is but a ſecond Grace, it is but a Gift of Grace, this is the Fountain, it is Grace given us in Chriſt, 2 Tim. 1. 9. And this is the firſt reſpect in which we are ſaid to be Saved by Grace.

Serm. XV.

2. In reſpect that God hath laid up all our Salvation, and all the Grace by vertue of which we are ſaved, in another, namely in his Son. So that indeed when we come to the point of Salvation, it is Grace ſtill, take it at the ſecond hand, as it is in Chriſt; take it in oppoſition to what is in us, or in oppoſition to what is a due or a Debt, to what was in the Covenant of Works, I ſay that Grace we are ſaved by, it is laid up in another, and it is a Gift of Grace (as even now I ſaid) not only ſubordinate to that original Grace in God, but the Grace by which we are ſaved, and to which our Salvation is attributed. So that we are never ſaid to be ſaved by the Grace that is in us, but by the Grace that is in him for us. It is true, we ſhall go to Heaven, and that is Salvation, but it is not by vertue of our Grace, but by virtue of that Grace given to Jeſus Chriſt for us, to ſit in heavenly places, and to poſſeſs Heaven for us and in our room, till we come thither. So likewiſe, we ſhall riſe again, but it is becauſe there was that Grace given to Jeſus Chriſt for us, that he roſe in our ſtead. Therefore the Words alſo follow in this verſe, he hath raiſed us up together with him. So we are juſtified by a Righteouſneſs, but it is that Grace of Righteouſneſs which is graciouſly laid up for us in him. It is not our Holineſs but Chriſt's, it is the Spirit of Life that is in Chriſt, Rom. 8. 2. We are Sons, it is true, but it is ſtill by virtue of the Grace of Son-ſhip that is in Chriſt, which I ſay (as by virtue of it we are Sons) is a Grace for us, and it was a Grace to the humane Nature to be united to the Son of God, and in that reſpect it is a Grace to him too, though he be the natural Son of God. Therefore we are ſaid to be made gracious in the Beloved, Eph. 1. 6. Though we have the counterpain of all Grace that is in Chriſt; yet notwithſtanding our Salvation is by the

Serm. XV.

Grace that is in him, which is the other counter-pain: and notwithſtanding what is in us, our acceptation is by his Grace and his Favour. Oh! how far are we removed off from having any thing in us that is the cauſe of Salvation? You ſee firſt here is the original Grace of all; and Jeſus Chriſt himſelf is but a Gift of that Grace. And then take all the Grace that is in Chriſt, our Salvation when it is attributed as to a Cauſe, it is attributed unto that, it is Grace in another, and not in our ſelves. And take our Graces themſelves, they are all parts of our Salvation.

3. Let me add this to it too, if I may be diſtinctly underſtood. All parts of Salvation, when they are wrought in us, though one may be ſubordinate to another, that is thus far; that God will not work and beſtow this, unleſs withal he beſtows this, as I ſaid before; Without Holineſs no Man ſhall ſee God: Yet when God beſtows any one of them, he doth it out of that original Grace he purpoſed towards us at firſt, they are the fluxes and renewings of that Grace. Though God hath obliged himſelf by a Promiſe, and though he will never beſtow one Gift of Grace till he beſtow another, yet when he beſtows both, the one and the other, they have all an immediate dependance upon, and are the immediate fluxes of that everlaſting Love of his, that concurreth with all this. Whatſoever a Chriſtian is, in the whole, or in parts, or whatſoever he ſhall be, flows immediately from that Grace. When God converts a Man, it is as if he new choſe him; and Jeſus Chriſt he is an Inſtrument of this Grace and Mercy. You have a fit place for it, in Rom. 15. 8, 9. Jeſus Chriſt was a Miniſter of the Circumciſion for the Truth of God, to confirm the Promiſes made unto the Fathers: to make them all good, that the Gentiles may glorify God for his Mercy. Go over all the parts of Salvation, you ſhall ſee this to be true.

The firſt ſtep of Salvation is Quickning, Converſion; it is wholly by his Grace. He hath called us with an holy Calling according to his Grace, 1 Tim. 2. 9. And Gal. 1. 15. It pleaſed God who ſeparated me from my Mothers Womb, and called me by his Grace: that is, he did put forth a freſh Act of that Love and Grace, as freely as when he firſt choſe him; though between that Act and God's choice, Jeſus Chriſt came in between to purchaſe it. So in Eph. 3. 7. where he ſpeaks of his Miniſtry (I may ſay the like of our Calling, as he doth of the Gifts of his Miniſtry, for indeed in the Galatians, he meaneth both) Whereof I was made a Miniſter, according to the Gift of the Grace of God given unto me, by the effectual working of his Power. When God means to convert a Man, what ſets his Power a work? It is the original Grace of God, continued and renewed to that Man ſtill.

So take Juſtification. Tit. 3. 7. we are juſtified freely by his Grace. Take the whole ſtate we ſtand in afterward, take in all; what is the whole ſtate of a Chriſtian after his Calling in this Life? It is called a ſtate of Grace. What, of his having Grace in himſelf? No, it is of being under the Grace of God; You are under Grace, ſaith the Apoſtle, and Rom. 5. 2. We have acceſs by Faith into this Grace wherein we ſtand; ſtand, how? having Peace with God by Faith at firſt, we ſtand in the Preſence and in the Favour of God: it is the Scripture phraſe, when it ſpeaks of God's acceptation, ſo Pſal. 1. The righteous ſhall ſtand in Judgment, that is, they ſhall ſtand in the Grace and Favour of God; ſo the whole ſtate of a Chriſtian is a ſtanding in Grace and in the Favour of God: ſo in Gal. 1. 6. He hath called you, unto what? Into the Grace of Chriſt; and in Rom. 6. 12. we are ſaid to be under the Dominion of Grace. Hence therefore all that followeth to a Chriſtian after his Converſion, it is as freely from Grace, as the firſt Work. One thing may make way for another, that I acknowledg, and God will not beſtow one thing without another, yet ſtill they are all co-ordinate and from Grace, and are the immediate Effects of Grace; even in ſuch things wherein our Will co-works with it; yet ſtill the Text ſaith, It is not we but Grace in us. Take all the good a Man doth after he is turned unto God, they are all quicknings, and quicknings by Grace. 2 Cor. 8. 1. When they of Macedonia had given Alms, they had done it out of Love unto God, and to give away their Eſtates, this would ſeem a mighty good Work, and to have ſomthing in it ſelf; what ſaith the Apoſtle of it? My Brethren, we do you to wit of the Grace of God beſtowed on the Churches of Macedonia: and the Grace there he ſpeaks of, is that God had enlarged their Hearts to give away their Eſtates even to Penury. So Phil. 2. 13. It is God that worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleaſure. If we work out our own Salvation, yet it is of his good Grace, it is his good pleaſure that worketh both the Will and the Deed. Take one place more, 1 Cor. 15. 10. By the Grace of God I am what I am; it is a Speech ſomewhat near that Name given to Jehovah: I Paul, ſaith he, whole Paul, take me with all my Prayers and all my Sermons, and all my Sufferings, all that I am and ſhall be it is all by the Grace of God, and though I have wrought more abundantly than all the Apoſtles, yet not I, but the Grace of God that is in me. And then laſtly, for Heaven, it is true Holineſs muſt go before, but when God comes to beſtow Heaven, he doth it out of the ſame Grace, by which he choſe a Man at firſt, and as freely; and therefore Rom. 6. ult. Eternal Life is called, a Gift of Grace; and if you will have a more expreſs Scripture, 1 Pet. 3. 7. Heirs of the Grace of Life; though they are Heirs and cannot be diſinherited (that freedom God would not keep to himſelf,) but eſtated it on us by Promiſe; elſe it were not an Inheritance: yet it is wholly Grace in the Promiſe, and in the beſtowing. So that Salvation is in all the parts of it attributed unto the Grace of God. Serm. XV.

ſpeaks

I ſhall end this particular with a Meditation, and that is this.

Is Salvation and all the parts of it, in the whole and in every part of it, nothing elſe but the Grace of God towards us, implying the Favour of God which he beſtows upon us, out of his own Heart, freely? Then let all our Obedience, and all the parts thereof be nothing elſe but thankfulneſs unto God, let it be in that reſpect Grace; the counter-pain of his Grace. In 2 Cor. 1. 12. we ſhall ſee how Grace was the ſpring of the Apoſtle's Obedience, We have not walked, ſaith he, in fleſhly Wiſdom, that was not the Motive that ſtirred me (for he ſpeaks of Motives) but the Grace of God, ſaith he; I have not been moved by ends of my own, but the great Wheel that hath moved me, hath been the Grace of God towards me in Jeſus Chriſt.

Thus now you have had opened to you, what is meant by Grace, what by being Saved, and why Saved now, and alſo how By Grace we are ſaved. I have one Obſervation which I will end withal. I told you of it at the beginning. The Apoſtle you ſee makes this the main ſcope of all, from the 1*ſt* verſe of this Chapter even to the 11*th.* Though he ſpeaks of our Death in Sin, and our quickning with Chriſt; yet all this is to have them take notice, that By Grace they are ſaved: he brings it in by way of Parentheſis, and repeats it twice, yea thrice. What is it then I obſerve from it? Plainly this;

That our whole Salvation by Grace, it is the greateſt thing of all others, of the greateſt moment for Believers to know, and to be acquainted with. The Apoſtle you ſee he cannot hold ſpeaking out his whole Sentence before he brings in this: as ſoon as ever he had ſaid, We are quickned by Chriſt, he comes in with, By Grace ye are ſaved. He would ſet the ſtamp of this Seal with a treble Impreſſion on upon their Hearts. This is the great Axiome, The great Principle he would beget in all their Hearts. And it is to advance the deſign of God, the Glory of his Grace, ſo you have it, ver. 7. This is the ſum and ſubſtance of the Goſpel, and it is the ſum of the great deſign of God: For as I ſaid, a Soveraignty of Grace was ſet up, and what is the Goſpel? It is the Laws and Statutes this great Soveraign hath made, and Grace will be ſure to make ſuch Laws as ſhall advance it ſelf. Obſerv.

Therefore you ſhall find, that when a Man doth ſtep out of the Way and Road of free Grace unto any thing elſe, he is ſaid to turn from God. A Man may ſtep out of the Way, from Truths to other Errors, and not ſtep out from God; but ſee what the expreſſion is, in Gal. 1. 6. I marvel that you are ſo ſoon removed from him that called you; (it was becauſe they did not hold the Doctrine of free Grace) into the Grace of Chriſt, unto another Goſpel: implying that it is a ſtepping aſide from God. It was God's great deſign to advance Grace, and therefore he calls their ſtepping aſide from the Doctrine thereof, a fruſtrating of the Grrce of God, Gal. 2. ult. which Men do by mingling any thing with it; it is a fruſtrating of the Grace of God, becauſe it fruſtrateth the great deſign of God, for to fruſtrate is to make void void a Deſign. This was the great deſign of God, which he had in his Heart, by mingling any thing with it, you fruſtrate the deſign of God, and you turn from him, and not only turn from him,but turn from him to another Goſpel; for what is the Goſpel? but the Laws and Statutes of the great King, free Grace: therefore it is called the Goſpel which bringeth Salvation, as being the matter of it. And the Goſpel is ſaid to have two that are the Subject matter of it, the one is Chriſt, therefore it is called the Goſpel of Chriſt, and the Word of Chriſt: the other is Grace, and therefore likewiſe the Goſpel is called the Word of his Grace, and the Goſpel of his Grace: and the Miniſtry which Paul had received, what was it? To teſtify the Grace of God. And to divert from it the Apoſtle interprets it to be a turning to another Goſpel, and he pronounceth a Curſe to any that ſhall do it, even unto Angels themſelves.

Serm. XV.

How are Chriſtians deſcribed,their Perſons,and the Work of Grace upon them? Read the New Teſtament, how are their Perſons expreſſed? They that receive abundance of Grace, Rom. 5. 17. He might have ſaid Believers; No, but thoſe that receive abundance of Grace, and he oppoſeth it to Unbelievers and Men condemned: they are free Grace Receivers, you may well call them ſo. And ſo in Acts 16. 7. they are called ſuch as believe through the Grace of God. And then how is the Work of God upon them deſcribed? how is the Work of Converſion deſcribed? Col. 1. 6. Since ye knew the Grace of God: yea he doth diſtinguiſh, as we uſe to diſtinguiſh upon the Work of Grace, in ſaying, there is a counterfeit Work, and a true Work; ſo he likewiſe by way of diſtinction, calls it the knowledg of the Grace of God in truth; Since ye knew the Grace of God in Truth, ſaith he, for it is a hidden Miſtery to entertain it in the true Notion of it, and therefore he makes it proper to a ſaving Work: So in Eph. 4. 21. If ſo be ye have heard him, and been taught by him, as the Truth is in Jeſus. It is the greateſt thing in the World to ſettle Men's Hearts in the true Grace of God, as the expreſſion is, 1 Pet. 5. 12. to have a right knowledg of it, as Salvation is attributed to it, and to ſever it from what ever is in a Man's ſelf, and yet to give that Due, to what is in a Man, that belongs to it. My Brethren, to truſt perfectly in the Grace that is offered (ſo indeed the Original rather reads it, in 1 Pet. 1.) That is brought to light in the Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt, to truſt perfectly in it, not by halves, but fully, and to have the right Art of doing it, and not to turn this Grace into Wantonneſs, to ſettle the Goſpel upon a right Wheel, for it runs upon free Grace, and yet to ſay, that Works, and Faith, and Holineſs is required, to do this practically in a Man's own Spirit, is the hardeſt thing in the World. Therefore the Apoſtle Peter ſaith, I have written to teſtify to you, this is the true Grace in which ye ſtand; that is, I have opened the Goſpel to you. But let me tell you, there is nothing the Heart of Man is apter to divert from, Gal. 1. 6. I marvel, that you are ſo ſoon removed from him, that called you into the Grace of Chriſt. Men are eaſily put by; for carnal Reaſon that comes, and that would mingle Works, and ſomething in a Man's ſelf with it: And then Self-Love will come, and turn the Grace of God into wantonneſs, and make a clean other Goſpel of it.

This very little Sentence, By Grace ye are ſaved, is the main thing of the Goſpel; now what to attribute unto Faith and Holineſs, you ſhall ſee when we come to the 8th verſe. In the mean time let this ſuffice, I have ſpoken.

SERM.

SERMON XVI.

EPHES. 2. 6.

6. And hath raiſed us up together, and made us ſit together in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus.

HEre are two Benefits more, two parts of that Salvation ſpoken of before, By Grace ye are ſaved. As the Apoſtle ſaith, there were three cauſes of Sin in us (in the 1, 2, & 3. verſes) the World, the Devil, and the Fleſh or corrupt Nature: So he ſaith, there are three cauſes of our Salvation in God there is Mercy, Love, and Grace; For his rich Mercy, and great Love wherewith he love d us; By Grace ye are ſaved. So there are three parts of our Salvation, which is perfected by degrees.

1. Our quickning, He hath quickned us together with Chriſt.
2. He hath raiſed us up. And
3. Made us ſit together in Heavenly places.

Theſe two latter they are parts of our Salvation, and they anſwer and correſpond to what was done in Chriſt, who is our Pattern and Head. If you read, Chap. 1. ver, 10. he ſpeaks of a mighty Power, which he wrought in Chriſt when he raiſed him from the dead, and ſet him at his own right hand in heavenly plaees. Here he ſaith, making up the redition in this verſe, He hath raiſed us up together, and made us ſit together in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus.

The Difficulties of theſe Words, they are indeed great; I ſhall endeavour by way of Interpretation to aſſoil them as I am able.

The firſt Difficulty is this. How to deſtinguiſh that work of quickning, metioned in the 5*th* verſe, from what is here, hath raiſed us up together. Whether this Work of Reſurrection, as here it is mentioned, is intended that of the Soul which we partake of here, or that of the Body, or of the whole Man rather, in the World to come? Or more generally, whether that theſe two here that now follow, are Works wrought in this Life in us? Or whether thoſe, which his Power is engaged to work in us, in the World to come?

Now that which makes the Difficulty, are theſe things.

Firſt, In that we are ſaid, as well to be raiſed with Chriſt in this Life, both in reſpect of Sanctification and Juſtification, as that we are ſaid to be quickned by him. I ſhall not need quote many places, that in Rom. 6. makes it clear and evident that it is ſo, where we are ſaid to be planted into the likeneſs of his Reſurrection: And you know, the Reſurrection of the Soul is called the firſt Reſurrection. And ſo now [hath raiſed us up together] ſhould be but the ſame thing with what formerly he had ſaid, [hath quickned us.] And Muſculus, in his Comment upon this place, gives this reaſon why the Apoſtle addeth to quickning, hath raiſed us up, here in this Life; namely, to explain the Words: For ſaith he, Men or things may be ſaid to be quickned, which were never dead; there may be a quickning, without a Reſurrection: as it is ſaid, in 1 *Tim.*6.13. that God is he who quickneth all things, that is, that doth put Life into all things: now all things were not dead, before ſuch time as they had Life put into them. Adam might be ſaid to be quick-ned,

Serm. XVI.

ned, when he had the Breath of Life breathed into him, yet he could not be ſaid to be raiſed again; therefore (ſaith he) for more diſtinct explication ſake, after the Apoſtle had ſaid, He hath quickned us, he addeth, and hath raiſed us up, to ſhew that it is a quickning by way of Reſurrection, we being dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes. So that indeed the word [quickned us] ſaith he, noteth out the ſubſtance of the Work of God upon us in this Life; but this [hath raiſed us up] noteth out the Modus, the Manner, that is by reſurrection of them that are dead. And ſo he would have Quickning and Reſurrection here to be both one, and to be both meant of the Soul; as elſewhere the Reſurrection of the Body is called quickning: Rom. 8. 11. He that raiſed up Chriſt from the dead, ſhall alſo quicken your mortal Bodies; that is, (ſaith he) ſhall raiſe them up. And ſo it is uſed of Chriſt, 1 Pet. 3. 18. He was put to death in the Fleſh, but quickned by the Spirit.

And that which yet ſtrengthneth the Objection more, viz. That the Reſurrection of the Soul ſhould be here intended, is this: Becauſe that that parallel Epiſtle to this, the Epiſtle to the Coloſſians, (which we have ſo often had recourſe unto, to interpret things in this Epiſtle,) when it ſpeaks of Quickning, and of Reſurrection with Chriſt, (as it doth in chap. 2. v. 12, 13.) it makes them both to be Works of God upon us in this Life: You are riſen with him, through the Faith of the Operation of God: And you being dead in your Sins, hath he quickned together with him. You ſee he mentioneth both, as he doth here; and it is evident, he ſpeaks of the Reſurrection which we have through Faith, through the Work of God upon us here in this Life. And that the Work of Faith is a Reſurrection, I remember I opened at large, upon the 19*th* Verſe of the firſt Chapter.

And that which yet addeth to this Difficulty is this; That the Apoſtle here ſpeaks of this Reſurrection, as a thing that is already done, like as he did of quickning before: He hath quickned us, ſaith he, and hath raiſed us up, and he hath made us ſit together in heavenly Places.

But yet for all this, I find that moſt Interpreters, (and I confeſs my ſelf of that Mind alſo) do judg it to refer rather to that glorious Reſurrection of the Body, which is to come; the which, why it is ſaid, Hath raiſed us up, as a thing for the preſent, or as a thing paſt rather, I ſhall give you an account of anon. And the Reaſons are theſe:

Firſt; Becauſe the Apoſtle's ſcope is, to comprehend the whole Work of God upon us, wherein we are made conformable to Jeſus Chriſt, yea, unto Jeſus Chriſt in Glory. And his ſcope is to ſhew, that that Power which wrought in Chriſt that Reſurrection of his Body, which raiſed him up to that Glory which he hath in Heaven, the ſame Power works in us, this whole Work enumerated here. It relateth to, and correſpondeth with the whole Work upon Chriſt, ſpoken of in the firſt Chapter, verſ. 18. and ſo on; where he ſpeaks of Chriſt, (who is there made the Pattern of this Work upon us,) and ſaith thus, According to the working of his mighty Power, which he wrought in Chriſt, when he raiſed him from the Dead, and ſet him at his own right hand, in the heavenly Places. Therefore now in making up the Redition, or the Parallel upon us, and of the Mercy and Grace towards us, which he works in us, conformable to what he wrought in Chriſt, he muſt intend the whole Work of our Salvation firſt and laſt, and eſpecially that in Glory, becauſe he ſpeaks of that mighty Power which wrought in Chriſt, in raiſing him up to Glory. He ſpeaks there alſo of a Power which is begun in us, that ſhall go on, and never leave us, till it hath made us like to Chriſt in all things; a Power towards us, which begins in working Faith, and in quickning, begins there, and hath engaged it ſelf to do all that for us, which it did in our Head Chriſt Jeſus. Now then the raiſing up of our Bodies at laſt, and the glorifying of them in Heaven, it is the great Work of Power; and therefore he, ſpeaking of the whole Power that works in us, anſwerable to the whole Work that is in Jeſus Chriſt, he muſt mean the whole Work of Salvation under theſe three Heads, of quickning, and raiſing us up, and making us ſit in heavenly Places in him.

Secondly;

Secondly; That these two Works, Hath quickned, and, Hath raised us up, are distinct, there are these three clear Appearances for it, from the Text here.

1. Do but consider, that he severs, as it were, quickning from being raised; for when he had said, Hath quickned us together with Christ, he comes in with this Parenthesis, (By Grace ye are saved,) as putting not only a Period, but a Partition there, e're he went any further, by that Parenthesis, as a Note upon that, then shewing them those two parts of Salvation which are to come, (whereof he had spoken, when he had said, By grace ye are saved,) that at the Resurrection, and that in Heaven. And then,

2. Having severed them thus by a partition, you see he yokes and joins these two, [Hath raised us up, and made us sit together in heavenly Places,] together, as Works and Benefits of a sort and kind: And therefore, as sitting in heavenly Places, pertains to the Glory to come; so also, hath raised us up, refers to the Resurrection of the Body, which is the foundation of that Glory, and indeed is the preparation to, and foundation of it.

And further, to shew that he did intend this distinction, when he speaks of quickning, he addeth, τῷ χριστῷ, Together with Christ; but when he comes to speak of these two, to shew that they are Works of a kind, he doth not say, Hath raised us up together with Christ, a second time; but he defers the mention of Christ, till he added the other, which is of the same kind with it, Hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly Places in Christ Jesus; that same [in Christ Jesus] referring to both in common. Whereas if that quickning and raising up had been all one in his intention, he would have added [with Christ] after this word [raised us up,] or in common added here rather than with quickning, and so have made the Period there: But you see, he doth not only sever them thus by a Parenthesis, making a full Period of the other, viz. of quickning, and adds [with Christ] to it, and then joins these two together, but he brings in [in Christ] in common as to both. So that now, as we are said to sit now in heavenly Places in Christ Jesus, in respect of that Glory we shall one day have; so we are said to be raised up also in Christ Jesus, in respect of that Resurrection we shall then likewise have. But,

Thirdly; That which most of all convinceth me, is this: That when the Apostle speaks of these two latter, [raised us up, and made us together sit in heavenly Places,] he adds the Phrase [in Christ Jesus]; but when he speaks of the other, viz. of quickning us, he doth not put in ἐν τῷ χριστῷ, hath quickned us together in Christ Jesus, but, hath quickned us together with Christ Jesus. Which evidently and critically intendeth to hold forth this, as a main and eminent difference between these two latter Works, and that other of quickning, which is worthy your observation: That when he speaks of quickning, it is a Work already done in us, as it was once done in Christ for us, so it hath had its accomplishment in a measure, therefore we are said so to be quickned together in Christ, as also with Christ, (for that is a true Rule, that those Works which were done in Christ for us, after they are begun to be wrought in us, we are said to have them wrought in us together with Christ, as I shall shew, you anon.) But when he comes to those Works which yet are to be wrought in us, (as this Resurrection, and this sitting in heavenly Places is, which are but in hope,) of these he only saith, that they are wrought for us in Christ, but not they are wrought in us with Christ, because that we are not yet actually in our Persons Partakers of them, but only as yet in our Head; but when he saith, We are quickned together with Christ, (as likewise in Col. 2. the Phrase is,) his meaning is, that we have been actually Partakers in our own Persons of quickning, as well as Christ was; but I say, when he comes to speak of these, he saith only in Christ.

And let me throw in another Observation towards it.

What is the reason, that the Apostle in the beginning of his Speech, at the 19*th* Verse of the first Chapter, whereof this is the conclusion, speaks of the mighty Power of God, which works in them that believe; and here in this place, when he comes to make up the Return and the Reddition, he ſpeaks of Grace, and Mercy, and Love? The reaſon is plainly this, becauſe tho his Power is engaged by Grace, and Mercy, and Love, to this Reſurrection to come, and to ſetting of us in heavenly Places in Chriſt; yet notwithſtanding his Power is put forth only in quickning of us; but Grace, and Mercy, and Love, is put forth both in quickning of us, and in raiſing us up again, and making us ſit in heavenly Places in Chriſt; by Grace we have theſe two latter now: We are not only quickned by his Power already working in us, but by Grace we are raiſed together in Chriſt, and by Grace we ſit in heavenly Places in Chriſt; but by Power we do not yet, that is, the Power that hath engaged to work it one day, it hath not already wrought it, not wrought it with Chriſt, only wrought it for us in Chriſt our Head.

Serm. XVI.

And this is a far better and more obſervable Criticiſm, than that of Muſculus's; for it notes out one of the greateſt Truths of the Goſpel, that is, the Repreſentation of Jeſus Chriſt for us: That he as a common Perſon hath received all Benefits for us, and we in him are ſaid to have received them; for that is ſaid to be done for us in Chriſt, which yet is not wrought upon us.

And as for that which he obſerves, That [hath raiſed us up] is added by the Apoſtle, to ſhew that it is quickning from the Dead; there needed no ſuch addition, becauſe he had ſaid in the words before, When we were dead, he quickned us. Now a Man cannot be quickned when he is dead, but it muſt needs be a Reſurrection; and therefore the Reſurrection of the Soul in this Life is fully included in thoſe words, and theſe words [hath raiſed us up] needed not be added to ſhew the manner of quickning, as he would have it. And ſo it is an Argument rather for the contrary; for he would not have repeated the ſame thing again, if he had meant by quickning and raiſing again, one and the ſame thing.

And for that in Col. 2. where riſing with Chriſt, and quickned with him, are both mentioned as here, and both as paſt: I anſwer; Firſt, It is not ſaid there, we are raiſed in Chriſt only, as here, but with Chriſt. And beſides, the Apoſtle here puts a diſtinction alſo, to ſhew the difference; for he ſaith, We are riſen with him, through the Faith of the Operation of God. If he had ſaid ſo here indeed, we muſt needs have concluded, that [hath raiſed us up] is meant of that Reſurrection of the Soul, which is all one with quickning.

So that to conclude, tho that quickning of us, and raiſing us again, are Terms equivalent, and one is often put for the other in the Scripture, (as was obſerved before, and is plain in John 5. 21.) yet there is a double Reſurrection, and a double Quickning: the one of the Soul in this Life, and that the Apoſtle means, v. 5. and the other of the Body after this Life, and that the Apoſtle intends here in this Verſe. You ſhall find them both in John 5. 24, 25 verſes compared. There was a double Reſurrection wrought in Chriſt; there was one of his Soul, as I may ſo ſpeak, when it was made heavy to the Death, when the Brunt of his Father's Wrath was over, when he cried, It is finiſhed, (for I take it, that word, It is finiſhed, hath relation to that Conflict he had with his Father, which began in the Garden, and ended upon the Croſs: and indeed as thoſe Pangs that ſeized upon his Soul, which made him ſay, My Soul is heavy unto the Death, were the greater of the two; ſo, that Reſurrection was the greater of the two.) Then he had a Reſurrection of his Body, which was raiſed up the third day, and I take it, both theſe are included in Acts 2. 24. as I ſhewed in handling the 19*th* and 20*th* Verſes of the firſt Chapter. Now then, the Apoſtle here intending to ſhew, how that we are raiſed up anſwerably to Jeſus Chriſt, firſt, he he mentions the Reſurrection of the Soul in this Life, under that of quickning; and then brings in the Reſurrection of the Body under this Phraſe, And hath raiſed us up; and then the Glory of Heaven in this, Hath made us ſit in heavenly Places in Chriſt.

And ſo much for the firſt Difficulty.

The ſecond Difficulty is this: How the Apoſtle can ſpeak in the time preſent, or in the time paſt, and intend the Reſurrection of the Body to come, and our being in Heaven, and ſay, Hath raiſed us up, and hath made us ſit together in heavenly Places in Chriſt?

To

Serm. XVI.

To aſſoil this Difficulty alſo:

Firſt; Jerome, and others upon this place, they refer it to God's Decree; ſay they, What God hath decreed to be done, tho it be to come, the Scripture ſpeaks of it as if it were now preſent, yea, as if it were paſt. As in Rom. 8. 30. Whom he did predeſtinate, them he alſo called; and whom he called, them he alſo juſtified; and whom he juſtified, them he alſo glorified. Becauſe in God's Decree theſe things are ſo ſure, as if they were done at the preſent, yea, as if they were paſt, they are tanqaam præteritum, as things paſt, which cannot be undone again.

But tho this be a truth, yet it is not ſo ſpoken here, in reſpect of God's Decree only or chiefly, that we are ſaid to be raiſed up again, and to ſit together in Chriſt in heavenly Places: For if you mark it, it is ſomething that was done upon Jeſus Chriſt's having been raiſed up, and ſet at God's right hand firſt, as a Head, (as v. 20 of the firſt Chapter hath it) that we are thereupon ſaid to be raiſed up, and to ſit together with him. He doth not therefore wholly refer this to God's Decree, but he refers to what was done in Chriſt, when he was raiſed up, and now ſitteth in heavenly Places. He doth not, I ſay, refer to God's Decree, which was before all Worlds; but to the Reſurrection of Chriſt, which was done long ſince the World began.

Others, they ſay this, That it reſpecteth the Work of Faith and Hope in us; for by Faith, and by Hope, we may ſee our ſelves raiſed, and ſet in heavenly places; and we believe we ſhall be raiſed with Chriſt, and ſhall ſit together with him in heavenly places. And becauſe that Faith doth make things to come as preſent, therefore ſay they, the Apoſtle doth ſpeak in the Language of Faith: He hath raiſed us up, and he hath made us ſit together in heavenly Places in Chriſt. Nos cum illo in Cœlo per ſpem, & ille cum nobis per ſpiritum: He is here with us below by his Spirit, and we with him in Heaven by Faith, and by Hope. And this alſo is a Truth. Rom. 6. 8. If we be dead with Chriſt, we believe that we ſhall alſo live with him. And as all things are preſent to God that are to come, who calleth things that are not, as if they were: ſo it is true, that all things are preſent to Faith; for it enableth us to look upon things in our proportion, as God doth: As in Rom. 8. 11. If the Spirit of him that raiſed up Jeſus from the Dead, dwell in you; he that raiſed up Chriſt from the Dead, ſhall alſo quicken your mortal Bodies, by his Spirit that dwelleth in you.

Now for this meaning alſo, I deny not, but that it is part of it, as I ſhall ſhew you anon; but it is not all: For if ſo, (as Zanchy well obſerveth) then in the firſt place, they in the Old Teſtament, who by Faith ſaw the Promiſes afar off, might believe themſelves raiſed, and ſet together in heavenly places, in Chriſt Jeſus that was to come. But I ſay ſtill, the Apoſtle here pitcheth upon what was actually done in Chriſt already, after the time of the Old Teſtament, when Chriſt did riſe again; and upon his being raiſed, and ſet in Heaven, we are ſaid to be raiſed, and to ſit with him. And then, in the ſecond place, it is not ſaid to be paſt, becauſe Faith believes it ſhall be done; but it is propounded here as really done in Chriſt, and therefore propounded to our Faith to believe in it; ſo as Faith believes it, becauſe in Chriſt it is done for us.

You will then ſay to me, what is it that is imported here?

I take the Words to import our being raiſed in Chriſt, as in a Head, as in a common Perſon, and in his being raiſed, and ſitting in heavenly places, we are ſaid alſo to be ſo. For the diſtincter underſtanding of this:

Some do interpret the Words [we are raiſed in Chriſt] and impute it only to this, that Chriſt having raiſed our Nature in himſelf, it is as a Pawn that we ſhall be advanced likewiſe, and ſo though Chriſt roſe but as a ſingle Man, yet becauſe the Human Nature is carried up to Heaven, that is an evidence that our Nature ſhall come thither too; that he being advanced, we being his kindred, ſhall be advanced alſo: and ſo now it is a Pledg of our Reſurrection. And this alſo is a great Truth, for when Chriſt went to Heaven, there were mutual Pledges given of our coming thither, he carried our Nature to Heaven, to ſhew, that our Nature being carried thither, is a Pawn of our coming thither likewise: John 14. 3. I go to prepare a Place for you, and if I go to prepare a Place for you, I will come again, and receive you to my self, that where I am, there ye may be also. And as he carried our Nature thither, so he being in Heaven, he gives us his Spirit, as an earnest, that we shall come thither also; as in Rom. 8. 11. If the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the Dead, dwell in you; he that raised up Christ from the Dead, shall also quicken your mortal Bodies, by his Spirit that dwelleth in you: Therefore the Spirit is called the Earnest of our Inheritance. This, I say, is a blessed Truth, and a certain Evidence we shall come to Heaven, yet it is not all that is held forth by this Phrase: For tho the Spirit dwelling in us be a Pawn we shall be raised, and thereby our Resurrection is made sure, because we have the Spirit in us that raised up Christ, who therefore is a working Spirit, and will never leave what he takes possession of, to dwell in, till he hath raised it up; yet we are no where in the Scripture said to be raised in the Spirit, but we are said (as here in the Text) to be raised in Christ, therefore it must be more than having a Pawn of our Resurrection in Christ's Resurrection. And yet if that were the intent of it, it might as well be said, we are raised in the Spirit, as in Christ; for the Holy-Ghost is a Pawn of that himself, as well as Christ's Resurrection: Yea, we are said to sit in Christ.

Serm. XVI.

Others therefore interpret it thus, that we are said to sit together in Christ, because of a Conformity we shall be wrought to, like to Christ; that look as Christ was raised up from the Dead, so shall we be, we shall have the same Resurrection of the Body which he had, and the same Glory in Heaven, in our measure, which he hath. But mark it, still I say, it is not said, that we are raised as Christ is raised; that the Apostle eminently holds forth in Rom. 6. but here it is said we are raised in Christ.

Others say, That we are raised by Right, that by Christ's Resurrection a Right is conveyed to us to rise again; we have a right to sit in heavenly places, which is made good by Christ's sitting there, therefore we are said to be Co-heirs with Christ, Rom. 8.

This Sence I should determine and rest in, if the full foundation of that Right be taken in also, which is, that Christ as by Death purchased it for us, so in our Names and stead hath taken possession of it for us, which is more than all the former, and yet supposeth them all, and includes them; namely, That by way of representation, he is there in our stead, being as a common publick Person representing us, he being raised, and he rising as a common Person, he sitting in Heaven, and he sitting there as a common Person for us, that in this respect we are said to be raised up, and to sit together in Christ, in Christ as our Head. And so Chrysostom also doth interpret it: The Head sitting there, the Body must needs be accounted to sit there also, and for this cause he addeth, in Christ. And this is certainly the most genuine meaning of this place, (tho it may include many of the other Sences in it.) For first, in chap. 1. v. 22. Christ is not only said to sit in Heaven himself, but he sits there as a Head: He gave him to be a Head (saith he there) over all things to the Church; as for influence (as there) so also (as here) by way of representation. So that in him, representing us as the Head doth the Body, we are said, being united to him, to sit there also.

This Notion, of Jesus Christ being a common Person, and representing us, I have at large handled, and shewed the Parallel made between Adam and Christ herein. In Rom. 5. we are all said to have sinned in Adam, In whom all have sinned, (saith Paul, speaking of Adam,) and were cast out of Paradise in him, to have died in him, and we were all cursed in him: In the day thou eatest thereof, thou shalt die the Death; this brought an universal Law upon all Mankind to die, in Adam all died by virtue of this: So in Jesus Christ, in his being raised again we are raised, in his sitting in heavenly places we sit. But I will not enlarge upon this, any thing to what formerly I have spoken. Jesus Christ sits in Heaven, not only as a Person receiving Heaven for us: As a Guardian, that hath received from a Father Jewels and Writings to be kept for a Child; thus indeed Jesus Christ did receive Heaven, and all things else for us, in God's everlasting Purposes: as in Timothy there is mention of a Grace given us in Christ before the World began; began; and ſo you have it in Epheſ. 1. 5. God bleſſed us with all ſpiritual Bleſſings in Chriſt Jeſus, before the World began. But Jeſus Chriſt is gone to Heaven, as one legally authorized to take poſſeſſion of Heaven in our ſtead, ſo as that poſſeſſion of it which he takes, ſhall be in Law reckoned as if we our ſelves had taken it. The Notion of a publick Repreſentative, to do Acts that in Law are counted theirs whom he repreſents, is common amongſt all Nations. You know that Rachel is ſaid to have worſhipped Joſeph, tho ſhe was dead long before, becauſe ſhe was repreſented in Jacob her Huſband. So Levi, before he was born, is ſaid to pay Tithes to Melchiſedec in Abraham; and ſo we are ſaid to ſit in heavenly places in Chriſt; for all theſe publick Perſons, and all theſe Types, they were but Repreſentations of what Jeſus Chriſt is to his Church, and of that Union which Jeſus Chriſt and his Church hath. Chriſt therefore, he is called, the Firſt-fruits of them that ſleep; and he is called, the Firſt-begotten from the Dead. Now the Firſt-fruits, they were bleſſed; and when they were bleſſed, all the Crop that ſtood in the Field was bleſſed alſo, tho it was not reaped. And that Bleſſing of the Crop in the Firſt-fruits, it was not only jure, or poteſtate, in reſpect that it had a right to Bleſſing, but it was actu; only with this difference, not in their own proper Individuals, but in the Firſt-fruits that repreſented them, yet it was an actual beſtowing of it, and may rightly be ſaid ſo. Therefore becauſe that when Jeſus Chriſt roſe, he repreſented us in his Perſon, and now he ſits in Heaven he repreſents us in his Perſon, therefore we are ſaid to be raiſed in him, and to ſit in heavenly Places in him. And we have it not only by Faith, or by Hope, not olny poteſtate & jure, but actu; but how? Not in our own Perſons, but actually poſſeſs'd thereof by ſuch a legal Act, as by Law it is attributed unto us, becauſe our Head hath done it in our ſtead. And ſo much now for that ſecond Difficulty.

There is yet a third appearance of a greater Difficulty than either of theſe, which I muſt alſo remove. You ſee he puts here [he hath raiſed] after [he hath quickned.] Now if this [hath raiſed] and [hath made us ſit in heavenly Places in Chriſt,] ſhould be meant of a repreſentative ſitting in Chriſt; and that he by way of repreſentation in our ſtead, bearing our Perſons, our Perſons are reckoned to ſit there in him, when he began to ſit there, and ſo our being raiſed when he firſt roſe. And then if ſo, here lies the Objection: Theſe Epheſians might be ſaid to have been made to ſit in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus, long before they were converted, even from the firſt time that Chriſt did ſit down there, and might alſo be ſaid to have been raiſed again long before they were converted, even when Jeſus Chriſt was raiſed; for in theſe Acts he, as a common Perſon, repreſented them according to this Interpretation. But if you eye the words, they will ſeem to ſpeak of ſuch Mercies under them, as we come to have in Chriſt, after or together with our quickning: God (ſaith he) who is rich in Mercy, hath quickned us, and hath raiſed us, and hath made us ſit together in heavenly Places in Chriſt, namely, upon our quickning. Whereas I ſay, if it ſhould be meant of a repreſentative ſitting of Jeſus Chriſt in Heaven, and ſo they in him, that was done long before they were quickned; for from the firſt time that he ſat down there, he did it in the Name of all Believers.

Now to aſſoil this Difficulty, which hath troubled me more than all the former.

Firſt; I would ſay this, That theſe Epheſians were ſaid to be raiſed up, and to ſit in heavenly places, even long before they were converted, in Chriſt as a repreſentative Perſon; but why then doth he mention theſe, after quickning, that Work of Converſion? He mentions them, becauſe that theſe are Mercies to be wrought in us after quickning. All were wrought in Chriſt, and done at once; but if you come to the execution of them, to the degrees of accompliſhment, quickning is firſt, being raiſed is next, and ſitting in heavenly places is laſt: and becauſe they are laſt in execution, hence it comes to paſs that he names theſe after the other. So that the reaſon why that theſe come in after quickning in the Apoſtle's Rehearſal, it is not that they were not true of them before, but it is that they are in order of execution performed afterwards.

But

Serm. XVI.

But then there is a ſecond anſwer, and that is this; that though we are made to ſit in heavenly places in Chriſt, before Converſion, Coram Deo, before God, between Chriſt and him, and it may be ſaid of all the Elect in the abſtract, that they are ſo before their Converſion; yet we muſt conſider that here the Apoſtle ſpeaks to theſe Epheſians, by way of Application. Mark it, for it is a real anſwer. Paul He could not perſonally have applied it to theſe Epheſians before their Converſion; but being quickned, that he might add this moreover, God hath raiſed you up; he hath not only quickned you, but now you may ſee with open Eyes, that God hath done more for you when you knew not of it; you have a Head in Heaven, in whom, and by whom, and with whom you are quickned; in whom alſo you are raiſed up, and ſit together in heavenly places, and have done ſo, ever ſince Chriſt aſcended thither. So that now, becauſe he ſpeaks to the Epheſians by way of Application, and that he could not have applied it thus in concrete to them perſonally, before they had been quickned, therefore he mentioneth quickning firſt: For then comes the Comfort of what was done for them in Chriſt before. And ſo he holds forth the Greatneſs of the Mercy and Grace God hath ſhewn, that he had not only quickned them here, by the virtue of Chriſt's Reſurrection already, but he had made proviſion for their being in Heaven long ago, by their Head being there; one of theſe coming in, in his rehearſal after the other, not that they were not true before, but that now they have the comfort of them, and that now they are applicable to them, and not before. The mention of theſe two comes in therefore moſt fitly after quickning, for the comfort of their Faith, though long before; and this becauſe they ſeeing the Power of God, which he tells them was engaged towards them, ver. 19. of the firſt Chapter, that it had already ſhewed it ſelf in quickning them, and had ſhewed it ſelf by virtue of this, that they had been quickned in Chriſt, when he was quickned and raiſed, this might be an evidence to them, that one day they ſhould be farther raiſed up in their Bodies together with him, and ſit in heavenly places, and in the mean time they did ſit together in him. It comes in therefore, I ſay, well after quickning, becauſe that quickning is a Pawn, an evidence to them that they do ſit in Chriſt, and ſhall ſit together with him one day. And thus the Apoſtle doth clearly reaſon, from what is already wrought, to what is done for us in Chriſt, and ſhall be one day wrought. Rom. 6. 5. If we have been planted together in the likeneſs of his Death: we ſhall be alſo in the likeneſs of his Reſurrection. And ver. 8. If we be dead with Chriſt (mark the Phraſe, for he ſpeaks of Mortification begun) then we believe that we ſhall alſo live with him; and ſo be raiſed: Why? becauſe (ver. 9.) As Chriſt was raiſed up, dieth no more, but liveth unto God; So (ver. 11.) reckon your ſelves to be dead indeed to Sin, but alive unto God: for you may ſee your Perſons to be in Chriſt, and you may have hope to be raiſed one day with him, becauſe you ſee already, that by virtue of your Communion with Chriſt, the Power of God hath wrought ſomething of what Chriſt hath done for you, by way of repreſentation; you are dead with Chriſt already, and are quickned with him, and therefore ſhall one day be raiſed up together with him, and ſit together with him in heavenly places.

But laſtly, to give yet a more full anſwer to this Objection, I do grant theſe two or three things.

1. That upon a Man's being converted or quickned, he may be ſaid a new to be raiſed up in Chriſt, and to ſit together in heavenly places in him. There is a new act done by which Chriſt becomes, upon a new engagement, a publick Perſon for thoſe who are thus quickned. I ſhall expreſs my ſelf to you in this, as clear as I can, becauſe there is a difficulty in it. My Brethren, I lay this for a ground, that upon any new kind or degree of Union or being in Chriſt, all we have Communion with Chriſt in, is anew confirmed to us, and that not only between Chriſt and us, but between God and Chriſt alſo. All muſt needs grant this, that our Union or Oneneſs with Chriſt, it is the Foundation of our Communion and Fellowſhip with him, and being made partakers with him of all he did for us: that we are ſaid to be riſen with Chriſt, as in a common Perſon, and to ſit in heavenly places in him, it is becauſe we are one with him, for theſe things whereby we have Fellowſhip with him. Now then upon any new way of Union and Oneneſs with Chriſt, there muſt needs be a further Communion or Fellowſhip, Degree or Declaration, or Authorization at leaſt, of Communion with him of all the Bleſſings

we

we are to have in him. Now I ſay, when we are turned to God, there is certainly a new freſh Union made before God, and the Angels, and all, of our Union with the Lord Jeſus. In Phil. 3. 12. (which place I quote for this purpoſe, and you ſhall ſee it will come home to the Point in hand, of the Reſurrection, and Heaven, and all by and by.) Saith Paul there, (ſpeaking of his ſeeking to attain unto the Reſurrection of the Dead,) I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which alſo I am apprehended of Chriſt Jeſus. He ſpeaks of his Converſion unto God; he had ſpoken of the Reſurrection from the Dead, and that State which the Text here mentioneth, as that which in his own Perſon he had not yet attained: I have not attained it (ſaith he) not in my own perſon, he ſpeaks of the Reſurrection from the Dead, in the perfection of it: If by any means, ſaith he, I might attain unto the Reſurrection of the Dead; it is ἐξανάςασιν, it is not only ἀνάςασιν, ſimply, as Grotius well obſerves; it is that perfect ſtate of the Reſurrection, which Death ſhall have no dominion over. Now as Paul fully aimed to apprehend this, ſo he did it under this Notion, that Jeſus Chriſt had, for this and all elſe that was to be wrought in Paul, apprehended him when he was turned: That (ſaith he) I may apprehend that for which I am apprehended of Jeſus Chriſt. Clearly then here is the meaning of it: When Paul was firſt turned to God, when Jeſus Chriſt firſt took him by the hand, and put him into this way, then did Jeſus Chriſt own him as his, publickly before God and himſelf in Heaven, and ſent his Spirit into his Heart; and owning him as a publick Perſon, he declares, This Soul is one with me, to be perfectly raiſed up one day with me, and to be perfectly glorified one day with me, and to that end I do ſend my Spirit into his Heart, that he by degrees may come to attain and apprehend all that for which I now do comprehend him. This I take to be clearly the meaning of the place. And if this be true, here is now a new Declaration, a new way indeed of Union with Chriſt, a new Act of Union, rather than a degree added to what was before. My Brethren, do not ſtumble at this, I'le tell you why: We were one with Chriſt before the World was, there is one way of Union then; Jeſus Chriſt in the human Nature cometh down, and repreſents us, doth what we have to do; here now is another way of Union; why? this is the reaſon, for we were one with Chriſt by his undertaking for us only from everlaſting, but we were one with him by an active repreſentation when below on Earth, he acting all he undertook when he was here below: Now anſwerably, when he is in Heaven, and turns any Soul unto God, he ſeizeth upon that Soul by his Spirit, comprehends it, and declares that he owneth it, for to attain by his Spirit all that which he, as a common Perſon, before-hand did for him. Now then, upon our quickning we may very well be ſaid, as here in the Text, to be raiſed up in Chriſt, and to ſit in heavenly places in him: Tho it was done before by way of repreſentation in one reſpect, yet now there is a new Authorization, a new Declaration of it, not only between Jeſus Chriſt and that Soul, but between God and Chriſt, who now doth, before the other two Perſons of the Trinity, (perhaps the Angels themſelves know ſo much, for there is Joy in Heaven at the Converſion of a Sinner,) he takes this Soul, for to work in it all that he as a common Perſon hath wrought for it. Jeſus Chriſt he comprehended us then, to raiſe us up perfect one day. Therefore ſaith Paul, I aim to attain unto the Reſurrection of the Dead; why? Becauſe Jeſus Chriſt, when I was turned, comprehended me, that I might attain this; and he comprehendeth us to ſit together in Heaven with him. And therefore now, as you will ſay, by virtue of that Act which Chriſt performed when he roſe again, that we roſe in Chriſt, as in a common Perſon; and we may be ſaid to ſit in Heaven, when he firſt began to ſit there: So upon this new Act, of Chriſt's comprehending us when we were firſt turned to him, and did publiſh and declare this; all theſe are ratified to us afreſh, and we have now a new and farther act or degree (as I may ſo ſpeak it) of Chriſt in becoming a common Perſon for us, and ſitting in Heaven for us, a new publick act in Heaven; Jeſus Chriſt preſenteth himſelf to his Father as he that roſe, for that Soul, that it might riſe both Body and Soul, therefore he putteth in his Spirit to raiſe up the Soul now, and the Body afterwards: Jeſus Chriſt preſenteth himſelf, as ſitting in Heaven in the room of that Soul, and ſendeth his Spirit to quicken it, with a Life that is heavenly; and that Spirit ſhall never leave till he hath brought the Body to

Heaven

Serm. XVI.

Heaven alſo. Theſe things Chriſt comprehendeth us for. You read in the Revelations of two Books, though they come all to one: the one is the Book of the Lamb, and the other the Book of Life. There is a regeſtring as it were upon publick Record of our Names in both: Our Names are recorded in the Book of Life, by eternal Predeſtination and the Decree of God; when Jeſus Chriſt comes to comprehend a Soul, our Names are a new written, there is a new Record made between God the Father, Son, and Holy-Ghoſt, that he owneth ſuch a Soul, that he repreſents it, takes that Soul to work, all that in it which he did repreſentatively as a publick Perſon for it. Therefore in this ſence it might well be ſaid, that we are raiſed in him, and ſit together in heavenly places in him: we are reckoned as riſen in him, and as ſitting in Heaven in him, from that day he quickned us. For from that day he comprehendeth us that we may attain thereunto.

2. However in the ſecond place, by Faith by which we are quickned, we may be ſaid to poſſeſs the Reſurrection of the dead, and to ſit in heavenly places in Chriſt: upon quickning therefore it cometh in afterwards. Faith inſtateth us into all theſe, in ſuch a manner as not before; and theſe things are all likewiſe things to come; for though Jeſus Chriſt hath repreſented us, when firſt he went to Heaven, yet every moment he ſitteth there, he ſtill repreſenteth us: therefore after quickning, this may well be ſaid of us, and we may then reckon our ſelves alive to God, as fully as Chriſt is, or as ever we ſhall be. Faith aims to comprehend all that for which we are apprehended, and comprehended by Jeſus Chriſt, and ſo poſſeſſeth it ſelf of it. And now as Heirs, will pleaſe themſelves aforehand, with the thinking of what they will do with their Eſtate, before they come to it: So Faith doth, it ſetteth us down in Heaven, ſetteth us upon the Shore of the other World, thinketh of the glorious condition we ſhall be in there, and what a Glory will be put upon Body and Soul, when we ſhall ſit in heavenly places with Chriſt: Why? Becauſe as the Apoſtle ſaith, We ſee Jeſus Chriſt already crowned with Glory and Honour. Therefore now he that believeth is ſaid to be entred into Reſt, in Heb. 4.6, 9, 11. and yet that Reſt is to come. Nay in Heb. 6. 19. we are ſaid, to caſt Anchor within the Vail: And in Heb. 10. 21, 22. compared with all went before, We do by Faith enter into the Holy of Holieſt, and have boldneſs ſo to do. Alas! the poor People of Iſrael they ſtood without, and no Man was to look within the Vail, but we enter into the Vail, and caſt Anchor there, and may with boldneſs come there: Why? Becauſe we have an High-Prieſt ſitting there. Now becauſe that upon quickning, Faith begins to work thus, hence the Apoſtle therefore mentioneth theſe two, our riſing again, and ſitting in heavenly places, after quickning; and makes them as it were a new Work upon quickning, becauſe that Faith then comes to apprehend them, and to have the Comfort of them.

I might add now in the third place, that when a Man is thus quickned and turned to God, the ſtate of that Man is altered, even in this reſpect, that he doth now actually ſit with Chriſt in Heaven: before, the threatnings of Death to hold him in the Grave, they were (according to that ſtate he ſtood in) good againſt him, good againſt him in Foro verbi, according to the Covenant of the Word, which God will judg all Men by: but now his ſtate is ſo altered, that all theſe threatnings cannot come out againſt him: Why? Becauſe he is ſo comprehended by Chriſt, as that he ſitteth in Heaven for him, and he below is in that ſtate, as that all the threatnings of Hell and the Grave, have nothing to do with him: they had nothing to do with his Perſon, in reſpect of God's Decree before, but in reſpect of his ſtate, and in Foro verbi they had.

I ſhall now give you an Obſervation or two, and ſo end. The great Obſervation, which I thought to have largely handled is this.

That in Chriſt as a common Perſon, and as a Pattern of us, we may be ſaid to have done, what Jeſus Chriſt did or doth, or what befalleth him; and we are reckoned by God to have done it. My Brethren, this is one of the greateſt Hinges of the Goſpel.

But

Serm. XVI.

But the ſecond Obſervation that I make is this;

That our Salvation is in God's Gift; and in Chriſt's perſonating of us and apprehending of us, it is perfect and compleat; though in our Perſons, as in us, it is wrought by degrees. This you ſee is clear, for he tells us, that the Grace and Love and Mercy of God is ſuch, as he hath quickned us with Chriſt, but for the reſt it is done in Chriſt. Our Salvation (my Brethren) hath been perfected, between God and Chriſt, over and over and over. It was perfected in God's Eternal Decrees, he then did beſtow all Grace and Benefits upon us before the World began, and he hath bleſſed us with all ſpiritual Bleſſings in heavenly things, before the World was. When Jeſus Chriſt was here upon Earth, the Text tells us, in Heb. 10. 14. That by one Offering he hath perfected for ever them that are ſanctified. When he roſe, he perfected our Reſurrection for ever. When he ſat down in Heaven, he perfected our ſitting down there for ever. When we are converted, when he comprehendeth us anew, then he doth own us, as thoſe for whom he did all this, and profeſſeth to repreſent us, and profeſſeth to ſend his Spirit down into our Hearts, to work all that in us, for which he hath comprehended us. And upon that Paul's Heart and Deſires are in a Flame, after the reſurrection of the Dead, no leſs could ſerve him: for ſaith he, Jeſus Chriſt hath comprehended me for that end, when he firſt turned me to him. All this, my Brethren, hath been wrought over, and over, and over; our whole Salvation hath been perfected between God and Chriſt, by I know not how many acts, and each do make the whole ſure, ſure over and over. Here now is all the difference, when it comes to be wrought in our Perſons, there indeed he goes by Degrees, as it is applied unto us. The Truth is this, that God the Father in beſtowing Bleſſings upon us at once, in Election, he found Jeſus Chriſt work to purpoſe: Chriſt he came, and by Degrees he did purchaſe it, fulfilled the Law, died, roſe again, aſcended, ſitteth in Heaven: By theſe Acts once done, doth Jeſus Chriſt find the Holy-Ghoſt work for ever, and the Holy Ghoſt he is a perfecting for ever of what God the Father intended and gave at once, of what Jeſus Chriſt did as a common Perſon both purchaſe for us, and did for us by way of repreſentation. And as Man was a making ſix days, ſo we are by degrees a perfecting for Heaven, and what God will do for us there we know not. And take this for thy comfort, hath Chriſt begun to quicken thy Heart with Spiritual Life? Do as Paul did, ſet upon attaining the reſurrection of the dead, if by any means thou mayſt attain that Holineſs thou ſhalt have there; for Jeſus Chriſt hath comprehended thee for it, and he ſitteth in Heaven now, preſents himſelf to his Father as he that roſe for thee, to the end the reſurrection of the dead may be compleated in thee: he preſents himſelf as ſitting in Heaven in thy ſtead, thy Name is entred into the Lamb's Book, and therefore ſay with thy ſelf as Paul doth, though I have not yet attained unto the reſurrection of the dead, yet this is my ſtate in Chriſt, this is that for which I am comprehended of him. My Brethren, the Truth is this, that all the Grace and Happineſs we ſhall have, it is nothing but Life; for what is Chriſt? He is ſtill called Life, So Joh. 1. 4. and 1 Joh. 1. 2. And theſe three things here, are but three ſeveral Degrees of Life: Firſt, your Souls are quickned; then your Bodies and Souls ſhall live another Life, the Body ſhall be raiſed up a Spiritual Body: this is done in Chriſt. And then you ſhall be taken up into Glory, and live with God: Your Hearts ſhall live for evermore. It is all but the Life of Jeſus Chriſt, which doth ſpring and by degrees riſe up in us, and he as our Life doth ſit in Heaven for us, as the Apoſtle tells us, in Col. 3. Obſerv. 2.

A third Obſervation I would make is this.

That God, as he hath perfected our Salvation (as you ſee he hath done over and over) So he would have us for our Comfort take a view of that whole that God will do for us, and by Faith he would have us to take it that he hath done it, and he hath made ſure work for it in our Redeemer Jeſus Chriſt. We ſhould not therefore only look to what is behind, but look to what is before. My Brethren, Jeſus Chriſt he waits in Heaven, till all he did for us as a common Perſon, be perfected Obſerv. 3.

Ser n. XVI.

fected and compleated; and in the mean time he comforts himſelf with this, that we ſhall be ſuch one day, and he goes over it in his Thoughts again and again: and ſo ſhould we. Reckon your ſelves, ſaith the Apoſtle, go and take a Leap over the ſtate of this World, and reckon your ſelves alive in Chriſt; we tranſlate it, through Chriſt, but the Truth is, it is in Chriſt, for he ſpeaks there of Chriſt's being raiſed again, and ſitting at God's right hand; Reckon your ſelves, ſaith he, alive in Chriſt, as he is. And we ſhould do this both to provoke us to attain to this Life, (for it did provoke Paul) to labour to have as much of your Portion here as you could, to get as much of the Reſurrection as you can. Therefore ſaith the Apoſtle, in Phil. 3. Our Converſation is in Heaven, why? becauſe Chriſt hath comprehended us, as ſitting in Heaven for us, and he hath comprehended us, for to attain to whatever he hath done for us: That is another Conſequence Paul makes of Jeſus Chriſt comprehending us. My Brethren, when you come to die, reckon your ſelves, I am riſen with Chriſt, and this Grave muſt give up my Body again, I commit it unto it as to a Jaylour: I thank my God through Chriſt, ſaith Paul, that hath given me victory over the Body of Death; and he gives the ſame thanks, in 1 Cor. 15. for the victory over the Death of the Body. God would have us conſider theſe things, that we might act all as Men in Heaven: Would a Man ſitting in Heaven do this. If you be riſen with Chriſt (ſaith the Apoſtle, in Col. 2.) Why as though living in the World are ye ſubject to Ordinances? Take you as Worſhippers, ſaith he, you are not to receive neither the Doctrine of Faith, from Men in a worldly way, neither are you to receive the Commands or Inventions of Men in Worſhip; and he urgeth it upon this Ground, becauſe they were riſen in Chriſt, therefore ſaith he, act accordingly; Seek the things that are above.

The fourth Obſervation, I have out of theſe Words, is this in General; for theſe are but Generals.

Obſerv. 4.

You ſee now that we may apply all in Chriſt, piece by piece, to the like to be done in our ſelves. The Apoſtle here doth apply Jeſus Chriſt his being raiſed in his Body, and that Body raiſed a Spiritual Body, to this, that we alſo ſhall be raiſed, and that we are raiſed in him: the Reſurrection of Chriſt, to our Reſurrection; and his ſitting down in Heaven at God's right hand, to our ſitting there, as the cauſe of it. It is a Queſtion now, whether yea or no, we ſhould reckon the active Obedience of Chriſt, as that which ſtandeth in ſtead of our active Obedience; the paſſive Obedience of Chriſt, as that which ſtandeth in ſtead of what we ſhould have ſuffered? I anſwer, yes, even as his ſitting in Heaven, is the cauſe of our ſitting, that part is the cauſe of this part, in a more eminent manner. It is not but that the whole, is the cauſe of the whole; my Sins are forgiven by the active Obedience of Chriſt, as well as the paſſive; and the paſſive Obedience of Chriſt, ſtandeth for the fulfilling of the Law: yet for my Comfort, I may apply every piece in Chriſt, to what I would have from him; So the Apoſtle you ſee doth, for what is in Chriſt is but the Idea, the meer Pattern and Exemplar of a Chriſtian.

The laſt Obſervation I will make is this.

Obſerv. 5.

You ſee the diſtinction between in Chriſt, and with Chriſt. We are ſaid to be quickned with Chriſt, why? becauſe that that work as it is wrought in Chriſt once for us, hath now ſome accompliſhment in us; but ſpeaking of the Reſurrection to come, he doth not ſay, we are raiſed up with Chriſt, but raiſed up in Chriſt. Do but learn to diſtinguiſh, for the want of this makes many Men miſtake. A Man before he is called, he is juſtified in Chriſt, but not with Chriſt, that is, it is not actually applyed to the Man's Perſon, his Perſon is not put in Foro verbi in the State of Juſtification. Learn I ſay, to diſtinguiſh between receiving a thing in Chriſt, and receiving it with Chriſt. You receive it with Chriſt, when it is actually applyed to your Perſon. We now ſit together in Chriſt, in Heaven; would you deſire no other ſitting in Heaven, with Chriſt, than now you have? certainly you would: As you ſit in Chriſt, ſo likewiſe you would ſit with Chriſt. So take a Man before ſuch time as he believeth, and is converted to God, would he have no other Sanctification? Would you have for your Child, ſuppoſe you believe him to be Elect, or had an immediate, infallible Warrant ſo to think, no other Sanctification or Juſtification than he hath then; No, you would have him ſanctified with Chriſt, and juſtified with Chriſt, which is to have that which he had in Chriſt, applyed to him; and he put actually in his own Perſon, in the ſtate of it. The want of the conſideration of theſe things, cauſeth a great miſtake in this Age. You ſhall find, that ſtill the Scripture, uſeth that Phraſe, of thoſe things, which we not only have in Chriſt, but have ſome actual poſſeſſing of them, in our own Perſons. I yield, it is attained in Chriſt as in a common Perſon, but it muſt be applyed to our own Perſons alſo; for would any Man deſire, to be no more glorified than he is now? yet we are perfectly glorified in Chriſt now, ſo we were perfectly juſtified in Chriſt, when he roſe, and perfectly juſtified from all Eternity; who ſhall condemn the Elect of God? ſaith the Apoſtle: Yet theſe muſt be applyed to our own Perſons, and our Perſons muſt actually be put into this Condition. When we come to Heaven, then he ſaith, we ſhall ſit with Chriſt in his Throne, Rev. 3. but while we are here on Earth, then it is ſitting in Chriſt. The Conſideration of this Diſtinction, would in a Word clear the great Controverſy, that is now between the Antinomians (as they call them) and others, about being juſtified before Converſion, whether a Man be juſtified before Converſion or no? or whether he be not ſo juſtified afterward, as in ſome ſence he was not before? I ſay, we are juſtified in Chriſt from all Eternity, and we are juſtified with Chriſt, when we believe.

no

Ser. XVII.

SERMON XVII.

EPHES. 2. 6.

6. And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus.

FOR the opening of these Words, I endeavoured to shew two things the last Discourse, and spent most of the time in clearing the Difficulties of the Text.

1. That the Resurrection here mentioned, it is distinct from that of quickning, and referreth to that great Benefit, which at the latter day shall be communicated to us.
2. How that all these are said to be already done in Christ.

These were indeed but Generals to the Words. I shall now speak something to each Particular, for the opening of them.

There are you see here, two degrees of our exaltation in the World to come.

1. Our rising again.
2. Our sitting in heavenly places.

And the one is the preparation to the other. And herein there are to be considered.

I. The things themselves. Raised up, and sitting in heavenly places.

II. The Adjuncts of them. As,

1. That both these are said to be done already; He hath raised us up: and He hath made us sit in Heavenly places.
2. That we are raised together, and sit together. And,
3. In Christ Jesus.

III. The Greatness of this Mercy, and Love of God in both these. To shew forth which, is indeed the Apostle's Scope, both in the Words before, the exceeding Greatness of his Love towards us, in quickning us, in raising us, in setting us in heavenly places, in Christ: and in the Words that follow, at the 7th verse, To shew forth the exceeding Rickes of his Grace.

I shall begin to speak to the first, the things themselves raised up, and sitting in heavenly places.

When I opened the Words before, I told you, that all that God bestows upon us, both of Grace and Glory, it is but Life, opposed here to Death: For Jesus Christ he is appointed to be our Life. Now of this Life there are several Degrees, several Parts of it more eminent. The one is that of quickning: the other the Resurrection and Union of Soul and Body at the latter day. And the last is the sitting in heavenly places. So that indeed that Life which God intends to bestow upon us, you see it is perfected by Degrees. He begins with dealing with the Soul here in a way of quickning. And then he doth raiſe the Body: and this of the Soul, it is the pawn of the other: as Tertullian ſaith, by the quickning of our Souls, our Bodies are alſo inaugurated into that Reſurrection, which is in the World to come. My Brethren, when the Spirit firſt comes to dwell in our Hearts, he maketh our Bodies his Temple, as well as he doth our Soul: you have it, in 1 Cor. 6. 19. where our Body is called the Temple of the Holy-Ghoſt, and there he is ſaid to dwell: Now where ever God dwells, he hath took up his ſeat to dwell for ever, he will never be put out of Poſſeſſion. The God-Head dwelling in our Saviour Chriſt's Body, as he ſaith, Deſtroy this Temple, and I will raiſe it up again. Now the ſame Spirit dwelling in us, that dwelt in Chriſt; and our Bodies being likewiſe made the Temples of the Holy-Ghoſt: hence therefore (though we owe a Debt to that great Statute that came forth, that it is appointed for all Men to die) yet we are raiſed up again.

here

Ser. XVII.

The ſecond thing, you may obſerve is this; That the Apoſtle paſſeth by that Happineſs, which the Soul hath, between our Death and Reſurrection. He doth not mention that, you ſee, but next to that of quickning the Soul, he mentions the Reſurrection of the whole Man. Not that there is not a Happineſs, and a Bleſſedneſs of the Soul, either that the Soul ſhould die, or that the Soul ſhould ſleep: No, the New-Teſtament is ſo clear for it, as for nothing more. To day ſhalt thou be with me in Paradiſe. The poor Thief deſired Chriſt to remember him when he came into his Kingdom. Now Jeſus Chriſt was to poſſeſs his Kingdom when aſcended, and he ſhall poſſeſs it fully at latter day: Why, ſaith Chriſt, I will remember thee, before I come into my Kingdom; that is a long while thither: I will remember thee this day, and thou ſhalt be with me in that Paradiſe, which my Soul (for he expreſſeth the ſtate of Souls) is going to. And I take it alſo, that in 2 Cor. 12. the Raptures of Paul into the third Heavens, and into Paradiſe, are two diſtinct things. He was caught up to ſee and view that Happineſs, which in the utmoſt top of Heaven the Saints can enjoy, and becauſe he might think much to ſtay ſo long, therefore he was permitted to ſee alſo, what in the mean time the Souls enjoy, and ſo was carried into Paradiſe, the place where Jeſus Chriſt's Soul was untill his Reſurrection, which is alſo Heaven; as the 2 Cor. 5. throughout doth ſhew. But you ſee here that the Apoſtle paſſeth by that, and pitcheth upon the Reſurrection of the Body: And the Reaſons why he doth ſo, I take it are theſe.

Firſt, Becauſe that of the Soul it is comprehended under quickning: For all that Chriſt ſhall do upon the Soul ſingly, is here by a Synechdoche expreſſed by that Word: what he ſhall do in uniting Soul and Body, that comes under raiſing us up in Chriſt; and the Glory which he will put upon both, comes under ſitting in heavenly places. Now therefore, becauſe it is but upon the Soul, which is but a part of a Man, which is the chief thing that is quickned in ſight; therefore here he doth not mention that.

But indeed the greater Reaſon of the two is this; Becauſe the Reſurrection of the Body, is the great Point and Principle of Chriſtianity. The Heathens, they would eaſily be perſuaded of a Paradiſe, and of a Comfort, which the Souls enjoyed, which they thought to be immortal; but the Reſurrection they generally denied. So did many of the Jews, as you know the Sadduces did. In the 1 Theſſ. 4. 12. it is one Character, the Deſcription of Heathens, and their Doctrine that they mourn for thoſe that are dead, without any hope of the Reſurrection: So that one that hath no hope of the Reſurrection, is all one with an Heathen. And ver. 14. of that Chapter, the Apoſtle makes this the common Principle of all Chriſtianity; If we believe (ſaith he) that Jeſus died, and roſe again: then we believe alſo, that them who ſleep in Jeſus, God will bring with him: the meaning whereof is this; We, all Chriſtians, believe this, we take it for granted, we are no Chriſtians elſe. I ſay, this is one great Point of Chriſtianity, which therefore the Apoſtles, where-ever they came, ſtill preached both to Jews and Gentiles. To the Jews, in the very beginning of the Church, in Act. 2. 4. And to the Gentiles, So Paul in Act. 17. 18. At his comming to Athens, preached to them the Reſurrection. For it is a Fudamental Point. Therefore in 2 Tim. 2. 17. it is made an evidence of Damnation, to deny the Reſurrection; and ſaid to be an over-throwing the Faith: inſomuch ſomuch that he is fain to put a Nevertheleſs, in the Words after, Nevertheleſs (ſaith he) God knows who are his, and ſo he will (though theſe fall away, and overthrow the Faith thus) keep his Elect. And in the 1 *Cor.*15.2. in which Chapter he ſpeaks of the Reſurrection of Chriſt, and of ours in the whole Chapter afterwards; Theſe things (ſaith he) we preach to you, by which alſo ye are ſaved: you cannot be ſaved without believing them, take it in the influence, the contrary Doctrine hath, and the Soul not now under the Goſpel.

Ser. XVII.

But then the chief Reaſon of all is this. Becauſe that the Reſurrection, it is the great preparation and beginning of that World to come; of that new State, and alteration, and qualification, and fitting of the whole Man for that Glory, which God raiſeth us up unto. It is the beginning, as I may ſo ſpeak, of that new World. You ſhall find therefore this reaſon given, in 1 Cor. 15. 53, 54. why there muſt be a Reſurrection, For (ſaith he) Fleſh and Blood cannot inherit the Kingdom of God, therefore, ſaith he, thoſe that do not die, they muſt have ſomething analogous to the Reſurrection, they muſt all be changed; Behold, ſaith he, I ſhew you a Myſtery, we ſhall not all ſleep, but we ſhall be changed; for this corruptible, muſt put on incorruption; and this mortal, muſt put on immortallity: We cannot poſſeſs Heaven elſe. You have the very ſame, in 1 Theſſ. 4. 14. where he tells you the Story of the other World, from firſt to laſt; and he ſaith, that before ſuch time as we go to meet the Lord, and to be for ever with him; we muſt either riſe again, or thoſe that do not riſe again muſt be changed; which is the very ſame that he ſaith, in that 1 *Cor.*15.

And laſtly, There is a greater degree of Glory, infinitely greater, to what the Soul hath now in being with Chriſt; ſo much greater, that the Apoſtles generally ſlip that by (though there be ſome few places that hold forth that Glory in the mean time) when they ſpeak of the Glory to come, and uſually tell us rather of the Glory of the Reſurrection, and of the Reward that ſhall be at the Reſurrection, becauſe comparatively to that, all that the Soul receiveth before, it is exceeding ſmall. You ſhall ſee the Scripture abundant in it, 1 Pet. 1. 4. To an Inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reſerved in Heaven for you; it follows, ready to be revealed in the laſt time, Joh. 6. 40. when Chriſt promiſed Life and Happineſs upon believing, He that believeth ſhall have everlaſting Life, he adds, And I will raiſe him up at the laſt day. Luk. 14. 14. Thou ſhalt be recompenced at the Reſurrection of the Juſt. And in *Joh.*5.29. it is called the Reſurrection of Life, as if that Life did but then begin. Nay in Joh. 6.39. Chriſt ſpeaks, as if we were loſt, if we ſhould not be raiſed again; Do but mark his Words: This is the Father's Will, which hath ſent me; that of all which he hath given me, I ſhould loſe nothing; but ſhould raiſe it up again at the laſt day. So that although the Soul be in Happineſs before, and therefore ſtiled, The Spirits of juſt Men made perfect, yet notwithſtanding, that is reckoned as nothing, in compariſon, becauſe of that exceſs of Glory, which ſhall be when Body and Soul ſhall both meet together; which will infinitely tranſcend all that was before: For then, Jeſus Chriſt ſhall come to be glorified in his Saints, and to be admired in all them that believe, as if they had ſeen no Glory before, 2 Theſſ. 1. 10. And therefore becauſe the Reſurrection is that time, wherein there ſhall be ſuch an eminent exceſs of Glory, it is called, in Heb. 11. a better Reſurrection, a Reſurrection in meliorem ſtatum, to a better Condition.

The third thing, I would have you obſerve, is this; that we are ſaid, to be Now raiſed. He hath raiſed us, ſaith he, and He hath made us ſit together in heavenly places. For as before God, and as in his view, we are ſo. There were thoſe that did teach, that the Reſurrection was paſt, as in 2 *Tim.*2.18. which Paul there makes a damnable Hereſy; but although it is not paſt, yet to God it is as if it were; and he vieweth us as now raiſed, and as now ſitting in heavenly places; though we are in the midſt of our Sins. In Mat. 22. 32. where Chriſt argues for the Reſurrection; Have ye not read (ſaith he) that which was ſpoken by God; ſaying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob: God is not the God of the dead but of the living. He is the God of the living, ſaith he, and therefore they are reckoned as alive; for ſo doth Luke interpret it, in Chap. 20.38. adding this, for all live unto him, the meaning whereof is this, that Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, do all now live unto God. In Rom. 8. 10. it's ſaid that the Body is dead, by reaſon of Sin; but the Spirit is Life, by reaſon of Righteouſneſs: that is, in reſpect of what is in the view of God, unto whom all things to come are preſent. Ser. XVII.

all

Fourthly, We are ſaid to be raiſed, in Chriſt. I muſt ſpeak a Word or two to that, for [in Chriſt] muſt refer, to raiſed us up, as well as to made us ſit in heavenly places. Now we are ſaid, to be raiſed in Chriſt, in reſpect;

Firſt, That he is the cauſe of our Reſurrection. He is,

The { Efficient / Meritorious / Exemplary } Cauſe.

I. He is the Efficient Cauſe; for he putteth his Spirit into us. But I will not ſtand to open that now.

II. He is the Meritorious Cauſe; for by his Death he merited our Reſurrection. By his Death, he did merit his own Reſurrection; for though he had a Right to riſe, as he was the Son of God; yet he had a Right, likewiſe by virtue of his own Blood and Death: ſo you have it, in Heb. 13. 20. The God of Peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jeſus, that great Shepherd of the Sheep, through the Blood of the everlaſting Covenant. Do but mark; it is an alluſion to that in Zachary: By the Blood of thy Covenant, I have ſent forth thy Priſoners out of the Pit; that is, out of the Grave: and as God delivers Priſoners, ſo he delivers Chriſt himſelf; for that you ſhall find in Scripture, that what is ſaid of Chriſt, is applied to his Church; and what is ſaid of the Church, is applied unto Chriſt. As therefore, his Priſoners were brought back from the dead, by the Blood of the Covenant; ſo here (the Apoſtle alluding to that) Chriſt's being brought back from the dead, is ſaid to be the purchaſe of his own Blood, he was brought back, ſaith he, through the Blood of the everlaſting Covenant. Now then, if Chriſt himſelf, was brought back from the Dead, through the Blood of the Covenant; certainly we much more are brought back again from the dead, through the Blood of the Covenant. Therefore you ſhall find, that our Reſurrection is aſcribed as well to the Death of Chriſt, as to his Reſurrection. 1 Theſſ. 4.14. If we believe that Jeſus died, and roſe again, even ſo them alſo which ſleep in Jeſus, will God bring with him: or as the Word is in the Original, he will bring them that ſleep, through Jeſus, with him; for ſo indeed it is in the Greek, therefore Chryſoſtom refers it, as well to the Words that follow, as to ſleeping in Jeſus.

III. He is likewiſe the Exemplary Cauſe of our Reſurrection. That, look what ſtate his Body and Soul were in, when he roſe again, what ſpiritual and heavenly qualifications were in him, the ſame likewiſe ſhall be in His. And therefore we are ſaid to be raiſed up in Chriſt; becauſe, we have the ſame endowments put upon us, which Jeſus Chriſt's Body and Soul had. You have this expreſly, in the 1 Cor. 15. 47. ſpeaking of the Reſurrection, ſaith he; The firſt Man is of the Earth, Earthy: the ſecond Man is the Lord from Heaven. As is the earthy, ſuch are they that are earthly; and as is the heavenly, ſuch are they alſo that are heavenly. And as we have born the Image of the earthly, we ſhall alſo bear the Image of the heavenly. Our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, he is ἄνθρωπος, he is a Man indeed, above the Heavens, that is, he hath a Body fitted to that State; there is nothing in him, not a Member of his Body, that is earthy: Now look, what qualifications he had to fit him for that place he is now gone to, he being advanced far above all Principality and Powers; the ſame, ſaith he, ſhall we have alſo, and even as we received an earthy frame of Body from Adam, which did fit us for this earthly World, and for all the Comforts of it, ſo we ſhall have an heavenly Body, and an heavenly ſtate put upon that Body, like unto Jeſus Chriſt, conformable to his Body; as you have it in the Philippians, which I will not ſtand upon. Therefore ſome of our Divines ſay, that our Saviour Chriſt, did not ſimply merit the Reſurrection of the Dead, for that however they muſt have riſen again, and be brought Ser. XVII. brought to Judgment: but these glorious qualifications, the Saints have at the Resurrection, which is the preparation to the Glory in Heaven, this indeed he merited. This some Divines say.

But then the chief and the last thing for which we are said to be raised up in Christ, is, because that in his Resurrection he was a common Person, and represented us, and therefore when he rose, we are said to have risen. I shall give you some Scriptures pertinent to that of the Resurrection. I will not handle the Point in General as I thought to have done.

Col. 1. 18. He is called, the Beginning, the First-born from the Dead. He is called the Beginning, to shew, that he is the Cause, the Meritorious Cause, and the efficient Cause, of all the Glory the Saints shall have, and of all the Glory they have. But then besides being the Cause, and the Beginning, and the Foundation, he is also called, the First-born from the Dead. Now the First-born, and all the Children that followed were alike: It argues therefore, that Jesus Christ was the exemplary Cause, that look, what State he had after his Resurrection, the same shall we have. But that is not all: The First-born of the Males that opened the Womb was consecrated and dedicated unto God, and they were to pay a Ransom, which was for all the Children that followed, and then they were all freed, by virtue of that Ransom, that was paid for the First-born; so that the First-born, according to the Old Law, did represent all the Children that followed. So now doth Jesus Christ, he is called, the First-born from the dead, for when he opened the Womb of the Grave and came forth, we were all freed too, by virtue of the Ransom, which he paid, and then the Bars of the Grave were broken open too, for us in him.

And to give you another similitude, which is an elegant one. In 1 Cor. 15. 23. the Apostle giving us there an account why we rise, saith he, Every Man in his own Order, Christ the First-fruits, afterwards they that are Christ's at his coming. And, v. 20. Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the First-fruits of them that sleep. This the Apostle sets out by an elegant similitude, which I shall a little open to you, to shew you that it hath this Scope that I now mention. For you shall find at the 37*th* verse, that he compares our dying, and our rising again, to a Grain of Corn that is sown in the Earth, which cometh up out of the Ground again: Thou Fool, (saith he) that which thou sowest is not quickned, except it die: And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that Body that shall be, but bare Grain. And our Saviour Christ himself, in John 12. 24. speaking of his own death, and rising again, useth the same similitude, Except a Corn of Wheat fall into the Ground, and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit: Therefore, saith he, the Son of Man must die, and rise again, that he may bring forth fruit. Now mark it, if you have recourse to the old Law, you shall find, that the first-fruits of the Grain that was sown, and came up again, it was consecrated unto the Lord, and by virtue of that Consecration, all the Corn that stood upon the Ground unreaped was consecrated too, and dedicated to an holy use, and therefore Men might then enter upon the use of it. Now of all the Grains that shall be sown of the Bodies of Men, there is Fruit to come up at the Resurrection; but of them all Jesus Christ was the First-fruits: as he was the first-born from the dead, so he was the First-fruits of the rising of all these Grains that fall into the Earth. And he is the first-fruits in this respect, that whilst he riseth, they all that are sown in the Ground, or shall be sown, (for a common Person may represent those to come) they are also said to rise, they are all consecrated to that state; even as waving and offering the first-fruits to the Lord, all the Corn that stood upon the Ground unreaped was also consecrated. You shall find this Metaphor used also in Isa. 26. 19. Thy dead Men shall live, together with my dead Body shall they arise: Awake and sing, ye that dwell in the Dust; for thy Dew is as the Dew of Herbs, and the Earth shall cast out the Dead. I bring the place but for this, to shew that the Scripture useth the Metaphor of the Fruits rising out of the Ground, to express the Resurrection: and the Elegancy of it, that the Apostle calleth Christ the First-Fruits, because he representeth all the rest, and they all rise in him. And therefore, in 1 Cor. 15. towards the latter end, when he had spoken of Christ's and of our Resurrection, he endeth all with a Thanks unto

God:

God: O Death, where is thy Sting, O Grave, where is thy Victory? &c. Thanks be to God, which giveth us the Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. The Victory is given already, and we can by Faith, saith he, triumph over the Grave and Hell and Death already, which giveth us Victory, saith he.

And my Brethren, Because that Christ and we are one, he as a common Person representing us, (It is a Notion, that will help you to understand the quotations of Scripture out of the Old Testament and the New) therefore you shall find that what is applied to the Church, is likewise in the New Testament applied unto Christ. As for Example, In Isa. 50. 8. It is God that justifieth, who shall condemn? This is the Speech of Christ there: Look now into Rom. 8. 32. And the Apostle applys the very Speech to all the Elect. Why? Because Christ and the Church are one, and he represented them. On the other side, promises made to the Church, because they were first true of Christ, as the First-fruits; therefore in the New Testament, they are applied unto him; as in Hos. 11. 1. Out of Egypt have I called my Son; it was spoken there of the Church, but because the deliverance out of Egypt, was by virtue of Christ being delivered out of Egypt himself, therefore in Mat. 2. 15. it is applied unto Christ. So in Heb. 13. (the place I quoted even now) He brought again from the dead, our Lord Jesus, through the Blood of the everlasting Covenant; This in Zech. 9. 11. is applied to the Church, By the Blood of thy Covenant, I have sent forth thy Prisoners of hope, out of the Pit. And yet you see this is applied to the Resurrection of Christ; because that Christ in his Resurrection, was one with his Church, and the Prisoners of Hope in Zechary, were delivered by that Blood, by which Jesus Christ himself was brought again from the the dead also.

So also that place, in Hos. 6. 2, 3. After two days he will revive us, in the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight. This though it is spoken of the Church, yet still it hath an allusion unto, because of a Conjunction with, the Resurrection of Christ; and because that Christ and they are as one, and he is a common Peson representing them, therefore that which is applied to Christ, is applied to the Church too. So that, in Isa. 26. 19. Thy dead Men shall live, together with my dead Body shall they rise. All these, I say, are mutually applicable to Christ, and to the Church both, And this is a great Key, for you to understand many of those places, which the Apostles quote out of the Old Testament, which otherwise, if you take them in their Context, you will hardly make them out that they are directly spoken of Christ; but when it is spoken of the Church, who is one with Christ, and to whom Christ was the First-fruits, therefore what is said of the Church, is more eminently fulfilled in Christ, because it is said of the Church by virtue of being first done in Christ. So much concerning this; that they are raised together in Christ.

I might also urge it, out of the 1 Thess. 4. 14. The Apostle there doth take it for granted, that all Christians believe, that Jesus Christ died, and rose again; if you believe that, saith he, then he infers this connection from it infallibly, God shall bring those that sleep, through Jesus, with him; or, through Jesus, God shall bring those that sleep, with him. For indeed they all died with him, and rose with him; therefore when he shall come again in Glory, they shall be brought with him: for he is made the Captain of their Salvation, in bringing many Sons to Glory, and the common Person representing them all. There lies therefore the inference of it, Jesus Christ is our Head, and he died and rose again; therefore we are said, to be raised in him.

I will add but one thing more, for the full opening of this Clause, and that is this: That of the Elect only, and of those that are quickned and are Believers, it can be said, that they are raised up together in Christ. For you see here that the great Mercy and Love of God is shewn in quickning and in raising us up together in Christ. Wicked Men they are not raised up upon those terms or grounds that the Saints shall be raised up by. They are not raised up in Christ. Wicked Men they rise indeed, but they do not rise by virtue: First, Of the Merit of Christ's Death, it is not by the Blood of the everlasting Covenant; And the reason is clearly this, because the purchase of Christ's Merits, must needs be Mercy, but to raise wicked Men up at latter day, it is to Punishment; They that have done good, saith he, in Joh. 5. shall rise to the Resurrection of Life, and they that have done evil to the Resur- rection of Damnation. And it is certain, that what ever Mercy God shews to wicked Men here through Christ (as indeed he doth, for all Mercy must be through him, for his sake, for he bought the World of God;) they shall be sure to have none at latter day. Therefore their Resurrection is not by virtue of his Death. And the Similitude of the First-fruits, and of the First-born, evidently argue, that as they do not rise by virtue of Christ's Merits, so they do not rise in him, as a common Person representing them. For the First-fruits did not consecrate the Chaff, but the Grain, that is of its own kind: Now Christ, as I shewed, is made the First-fruits of them that sleep. The place is clear, in the 1 Cor. 15. 20. Christ is risen from the dead, and become the First-fruits of them that sleep: what of all? Read the 23. verse; They shall all rise, but every one in his own order, Christ the First-fruits, afterward they that are Christ's. So that he rose as the First-fruits only to them that are his, and are one with him.

Ser. XVII.

And by the way, this will open another Scripture too; It will be objected, that as in Adam all die, so in Christ shall all be made alive; and you know it is often objected, that Christ and Adam are both universal; the one to all Men in respect of conveying Sin, and the other dies for all. So that some would have it, that in Jesus Christ all Men rise, because the Apostle useth the Expression as large of the one as of the other. But what All? All that are his, so the 23 verse hath it. As all that are Adam's die in Adam, so all that are Christ's rise in Christ. And this also will help you to understand that place in Rom. 5. which is objected for the universality of Christ's Death.

It is much for the Consolation of the Faithful, that they are raised upon other Terms, that they are raised with Christ, and in Christ. The other indeed, they are raised by the Power of Christ, that I must acknowledge; for that place in John 5. is express for it: The hour is coming, (saith he, v. 28.) in the which all that are in the Graves shall hear his Voice, and shall come forth: They that have done good, to the Resurrection of Life; and they that have done evil, to the Resurrection of Damnation. So that you see, that both good and bad, they are raised up by the Power of Christ; but yet, mark it, not by the Power of Christ as Mediator, but by the Power of Christ as Judg; for he had said, v. 22. that the Father hath committed all Judgment unto the Son. And hence now, in Acts 17. 31. Paul tells us, that God hath appointed a Day in the which he will judg the World, by that Man whom he hath ordained, whereof (saith he) he hath given assurance unto all Men, in that he hath raised him from the Dead. My Brethren, if you could suppose that Christ had not been, it was necessary that Men should be raised again to come to Judgment; for the Threatning was given out, that Man should die, Body and Soul; and if he must have a death of the Body first, it necessarily argues, that there must be a Resurrection, if a Judgment. Now Christ, he is appointed the Man to judg, and all Judgment is committed unto him; and hence, by virtue of this judicial Power that is committed unto him, he raiseth them: he brings them out of Prison indeed, but it is as you bring Malefactors out of Prison, to be condemned, and then executed; and they are not raised in Christ: He hath raised us up together in Christ, saith he.

So much now for that first part of the Text. I come to the second.

And hath made us sit together in heavenly Places in Christ Jesus.

That you may understand both the Phrase and the Thing, I will open first the word, [Sit.]

The Apostle had used it of Christ, chap. 1. v. 19, 20. He hath set him at his own right hand in heavenly Places. It noted out there, the advancement of Jesus Christ to that Glory and Happiness which he hath in Heaven, at God's right hand; and it must needs imply as much done for us, only here he leaves out [at God's right hand,] and the reason you shall see anon. It is as much as to make us Partakers of the same Kingly State, of all the same Pleasures and Honours, and Power, and Glory of this Kingdom, which Jesus Christ himself possesseth. The raising up, is but the fitting of the Body with those heavenly properties, such as Jesus Christ had, that he might be fit for the Glory and Pleasure of Heaven, as I ſhewed you out of 1 Cor. 15. Now when he hath put ſuch Endowments upon the Body at the Reſurrection, then he placeth them in the midſt of that Glory, and thoſe Pleaſures which Chriſt is in; and look what Seats of Glory he runs through, they ſhall run through too, and be Partakers of. In a word it is thus: Jeſus Chriſt is the King of the other World, and you all ſhall be Nobles of that World, of that Kingdom, and ſit together with him; even as it is ſaid of Joſhua the High-Prieſt, in Zech. 3. 8. Thou, and thy Fellows that ſit before thee: For ſo indeed in the great Sanhedrim, in the Meetings of the High-Prieſt, and the other Prieſts, they ſate in a Ring, and ſo they ſate all before him, but yet they ſate all with him. This is a Type, and was a Type of Jeſus Chriſt and his Fellows, as they are called in Pſal. 45. and that in reſpect of Glory, they being Partakers of the ſame Kingdom with him. And in that place of Zechary, he ſaith, that theſe Men that ſate before Joſhua the High-Prieſt, were Men of Wonder, or Men of Signs, as I ſhall ſhew you by and by; the word is taken for being Types and Signs, as for being Men wondred at, tho our Tranſlation ſeems rather to incline that way: but I ſay, it holds forth as well the other; for Joſhuah, and all thoſe Prieſts that ſate before him, were all but Types of our great High-Prieſt that ſits in Heaven, and of all that ſit there with him.

as

As it was thus typified out in the Old Teſtament, ſo you ſhall find in the Evangeliſts, that when the Kingdom of Heaven is ſpoken of, ſtill this expreſſion of ſitting is mentioned: So that ſitting in heavenly Places, is to be Partakers, as Nobles, together with Chriſt, of all the Honour, Glory, and Pleaſure, that that Kingdom affords. In Mat. 20. 21. you have the expreſſion, Grant that theſe my two Sons may ſit, the one on thy right hand, and the other on thy left, in thy Kingdom. Chriſt doth not deny there, but that there is ſuch ſittings, and ſuch advancement in his Kingdom, but only it belonged to ſome body elſe than to theſe two. I quote the place, only to ſhew you that the Phraſe of ſitting is there. You have it likewiſe in Mat. 18. 11. Many ſhall come from the Eaſt and Weſt, from all Quarters of the World, and ſhall ſit down with Abraham, and with Iſaac, and with Jacob, in the Kingdom of Heaven. So that it is a ſitting, as Kings and Nobles, together with Chriſt in the Kingdom of Heaven. So in Luke 22. 29. I appoint unto you a Kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me; and what follows? You ſhall ſit on Thrones, judging the twelve Tribes of Iſrael. And to give you one place more for it, that ſuiteth this Phraſe, (for that is it I am to open,) Rev. 3. 21. To him that overcometh will I grant to ſit with me in my Throne, even as I alſo overcame, and am ſet down with my Father in his Throne. So as indeed, my Brethren, it is all one to be Partakers of that Kingdom Jeſus Chriſt is advanced unto, to be Heirs, and to be Co-heirs with him.

Now if you would know more particularly, what this Phraſe [ſitting] doth imply; you ſee it implies a Kingdom, and in that Kingdom it implies theſe things:

Firſt; It implies the Pleaſures of that Kingdom. My Brethren, heavenly things are uſually expreſs'd to us by earthly, as you ſee this Phraſe of ſitting is from what is uſed upon Earth. Now it is familiar in the Old Teſtament, and in the New, that follows the Language of the Old, to expreſs the Pleaſures of Heaven by ſitting at a Table, to banquet it with the great King that maketh that Feaſt. So in that Luke 22. 29. That you may eat and drink at my Table, in my Kingdom. And in Mat. 8. 11. when Chriſt would expreſs the Pleaſures of Heaven in the Language of the Old Teſtament, he ſaith, They ſhall ſit down with Abraham, and with Iſaac, and with Jacob; as being the chief Gueſts that were known in the Old Teſtament. Therefore Heaven is called Abraham's Boſom: For as when Chriſt ſate at Meat, John, who was the chief Gueſt, leaned upon his Breaſt, or lay in his Boſom; ſo the Pleaſures of Heaven are ſet forth by an alluſion to that Cuſtom which was then amongſt the Jews, (for the faſhion was, when Chriſt was upon the Earth, to ſit at Meat in a leaning way, and the Cuſtom of the Romans made it more general among the Jews,) altho indeed the more ancient Cuſtom was ſitting, as appears in Gen. 43. 33. where it is ſaid, that Joſeph's Brethren ſate before him at Meat. And you ſhall ſee the manner of their sitting at the King's Table, in 1 Sam. 20. 25. where it is said, that Saul sate upon a Seat by the Wall, and there was room for all the Nobles; there was Jonathan and Abner sate by the King's side, and David's place was empty, it was reserved for him; and saith the 24*th* verse, They sate down to eat Meat. And some have interpreted that in Cant. 1. 12. While the King sitteth at his Table; the word in the Original is, While he sitteth at his round Table, because he doth not sit alone, as Saul did not, but he hath Seats for all his Nobles round about him, as the manner of the ancient Kings was, that those whom they would honour sate at Table with them; so David offered Barzillai that Honour and Pleasure to sit at the King's Table. The meaning of all is this, that they shall enjoy all the Pleasures that Heaven affords; for by sitting at a Feast, because it is that which Men usually place Happiness in, is that meant. Therefore in Isa. 25. 6. the Pleasures after the Resurrection are expres'd by a Feast of fat things, and of Wine on the Lees: And it is clear, he speaks of the State after the Resurrection; for the Apostle in 1 Cor. 15. 55. quoteth the words in Isa. 25. of Death being swallowed up in Victory. Hence the Poets set forth the Pleasures of Heaven by Nectar and Ambrosia, which was but an imitation of the Jewish and Scripture-Language. The same our Saviour Christ useth in the New Testament, in Mat. 26. 29. upon occasion of the Sacrament, where they all sate, and he had given them his Flesh to eat, and his Blood to drink, and given it them under the Blood of the Grape, saith he, I will not henceforth drink of this Fruit of the Vine, till I drink it new with you in my Father's Kingdom. Christ being now to part with his Fellows and Companions, which had now eaten and drunk with him, he speaks after the manner of Men, of the next happy and joyful Meeting they should have: I must part with you now, saith he, and must drink no more of this Blood of the Grape, but we will feast it in another manner when we meet next, we will drink new Wine in my Father's Kingdom, (just the Language of the Old Testament); and he calls it new Wine, not that there is any such thing in Heaven, for the Phrase implies that it was another thing he meant, it was Fulness of Pleasures at God's right hand, Rivers of Pleasures, of which they were to drink for evermore. He calls it new Wine, because it was Wine of another kind. The Jews always called what was most excellent, new; and therefore when they would express the heavenly and spiritual Jerusalem, as different from the material upon Earth, they called it the new Jerusalem: So saith he; new Wine, implying it was another kind of Wine. And therefore we need not have recourse for the interpreting of that place, to his drinking with his Disciples after his Resurrection; for it is clearly meant of his drinking with them in Heaven, after he hath delivered up the Kingdom to God the Father; for we shall sit in Heaven then, and enjoy this new Wine, which is the Holy-Ghost filling us with the Godhead, that is, filling us with Pleasures and Blessedness that is in God himself.

Ser. XVII.

Here then is one thing that sitting in heavenly places doth imply, it is enjoying the same Pleasure and Happiness that our Lord and Saviour Christ himself doth. My Brethren, you know that God doth sometimes make his Children Partakers of Heaven here, filleth them with Joy unspeakable and glorious, which indeed is but a taste of that Glory which is to come; it is an having us into the Wine-Cellar, and giving us somewhat of what we shall have hereafter; it is called in the Revelations, a coming to us to sup with us. Now alas! what is all the Joy you have here? It is but a Crum from the King's Table, a Bit from off a Dish, in comparison of what we shall have in Heaven. I allege all this, to open the Phrase, sitting, as implying the Pleasures of that Kingdom: He hath made us sit together in heavenly places.

Secondly; It implies not sitting only, as at a Table, but it imports also the Honour and the Power of that Kingdom; that we are all Fellow-Nobles with Jesus Christ, and sit also as Judges upon Thrones. This you have in Luke 22. 30. You shall sit upon Thrones, judging the twelve Tribes of Israel: And, Rev. 3. I will grant them to sit upon my Throne. And therefore, you know, the Mother of Zebedee's Children, knowing that Christ's Kingdom would be the highest Kingdom that ever was, she asked, that one of her Sons might sit at the right hand, and the other on the left, in his Kingdom, to be Partakers of that Honour and Power Power that Jeſus Chriſt himſelf hath, for ſhe knew it to be the higheſt Honour. Ser. XVII.

Thirdly; The word [ſitting] importeth alſo a ſecure and a firm Condition; you ſhall ſit, and ſit ſure. In Rev. 18. 7. when Babylon is at her height, and is ſecure, what ſaith ſhe? I ſit as a Queen; that is, I am ſecure, it is impoſſible that I ſhould ever be moved. I allege it to open the Phraſe. My Brethren, Man in innocency did but ſtand, and he got a Fall, he did not ſit ſure: Man that ſtandeth in Honour abideth not. But in Heaven you ſit, and you ſit in Chriſt, ſo ſure you ſit, you have the ſureſt Seat, the Seat muſt fall if you fall. You ſit in Chriſt now for ſureneſs; when you come thither, you ſhall ſit with Chriſt, in God indeed, as the Phraſe is in Col. 3. 2, 3. Sitting, I ſay, implies the firmneſs of all this, and the ſtability of thoſe Pleaſures, and of that Honour and Power you ſhall have.

Fourthly; It imports Reſt after Labour and Wearineſs. In John 4. 6. when Jeſus Chriſt was wearied with his Journey, the Text ſaith, he ſate on the Well. And, Rev. 14. 13. Bleſſed are the Dead, for from henceforth they reſt from their Labours. And 2 Theſſ. 1. 7. To recompence to you who are troubled, Reſt with us. We do not read of the ſitting of the Angels in Heaven, we read of their Principalities, and Powers in heavenly places; but they are ſtill preſented as ſtanding, and as miniſtring Spirits, it may be for this reaſon, becauſe ſitting implies Reſt after Wearineſs; but I rather think, becauſe there is an advancement of the Saints in Chriſt above them. It implies, I ſay, Reſt after Wearineſs; for as ſitting imports reigning with Chriſt, (as afore) ſo it is reigning after ſuffering: If we ſuffer with him, we ſhall alſo reign with him; that is, we ſhall ſit with him: To him that overcometh I will grant to ſit, Rev. 3. 21.

Laſtly; It will import alſo, at leaſt-wiſe it is not againſt degrees of Glory in Heaven. Even as here, in a higher Houſe of State, tho all ſit as Peers together with the King, yet there are degrees and ranks of Nobles. The Apoſtles ſhall have twelve Thrones; it is made their Privilege more eminently, tho all ſit in his Throne, as Rev. 3. hath it. The Mother of Zebedee's Children, ſhe came and asked, that one might ſit on Chriſt's right hand, and another on his left; for in old Iſrael, the next Seat to the Prince was for the Elders of the Tribe of Judah, and of the Tribe of Joſeph, one on the right hand, and the other on the left, and thoſe were the more honourable places, Now Chriſt doth not deny, but there ſhall be a right hand and a left, but not reſerved for thoſe two Sons, it may be for Peter and Paul: You aſk (ſaith he) you know not what. It is not that they asked that which was not to be in Heaven, but that which follows ſhews the meaning of it: ſaith he, If ye knew what Sufferings they muſt have that are to ſit there, you would not have asked it: Can you drink of the Cup that I ſhall drink of, and be baptized with the Baptiſm that I ſhall be baptized with? For as there are degrees of Glory, ſo it ſhall be proportioned in moſt likelihood to the degrees of Suffering for Chriſt here. Thus again, that other Speech, They ſhall ſit down with Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, imports theſe degrees; why with Abraham? &c. They were the chief Gueſts of all the Saints in the Old Teſtameht; but when all the Elect ſhall meet together, who ſhall be the chief Gueſts, next to Jeſus Chriſt, we know not. And that all are ſaid to ſit in Chriſt, it hinders not, but that there may be theſe degrees; for they ſit there now in Chriſt, as repreſented by him, namely, in that proportion of Glory they ſhall have: As when Chriſt hung upon the Croſs, look what portion of Wrath any particular elect Child of his deſerved from God for their Sins, Chriſt bore it for them, but it muſt not be ſaid that he bore alike for every one, but according to that proportion that he in his Sufferings repreſented them for.

The next thing to be explained is this, In heavenly places, or, in Heavenlies; for [Places] is not in the Greek, but it is inſerted by our Tranſlators. It imports theſe things.

Firſt;

Ser. XVII.

First; The Place of this Kingdom, it is Heaven; for you know that Heaven is called the Throne of the great King, Mat. 5. 34. and chap. 23. 22. And there Christ's Throne is, and Earth is but his Footstool. Therefore now to shew you the place of this Kingdom, he saith, in Heavenlies. In Ephes. 3. 10. Angels are called, Principalities, and Powers in heavenly places, because that Heaven is the place which they belong to, whereof they are Peers, (and as there are degrees amongst the Angels, there are Principalities and Powers, so there are also in these Heavenlies; I only cast that in to confirm the former.) The place, I say, is Heaven, there is his Throne, and the Footstool of this great King is the Earth, and all the Glory of the Earth is trampled under his feet; what is Heaven then? I think it is the meaning of that in Heb. 11. 16. where speaking of Abraham, and the rest of those Worthies, when it is said they desired a better Country, he adds, that is, an heavenly; and that therefore God is not ashamed to be called their God, for he had prepared for them a City. Had they had no other Happiness and Blessedness than here below, God being so great a God, would have been ashamed that his Children should have no better condition, but he had provided a City for them; therefore he is not ashamed to be called their God, because he had prepared so great a Happiness for them, a Happiness like to that himself enjoys, and such as was fit for the Children of so great a King. My Brethren, it is for God's Honour to make infinite Happiness there; and for him that is so great, to profess and promise so great Entertainment there, and when we come, not to have it, would cause shame: In my Father's House (saith Christ) are many Mansions, if it were not so, I would have told you; for I would not shame my self when you come thither.

Secondly; As the word [sitting] implies Power and Pleasure, so this word [heavenly] argues the kind of Power and Pleasure which we shall enjoy. As it is a sitting as at a Feast, to note the Pleasure, and upon Thrones, to import the Power; so saith he, understand it rightly, it is all heavenly. Therefore in 2 Tim. 4. 18. it is called his heavenly Kingdom; heavenly, that is, a better, infinitely better than what is here below, as Heb. 11. 16.

But you will ask me, Why is it Heavenlies, in the plural Number?

I observe this, in the New Testament, when the Heaven of Heavens is spoken of, it is seldom called Heaven in the singular Number in the Greek, but Heavens, as here. And that,

1. In regard of the eminent Excellency thereof. The Jews were wont, (as Grotius observes) when they spoke of the Heaven of Heavens, to silence the first, and to use the latter expression only, Heavens, or Heavenlies, as here, as not else knowing how to express the excellency thereof. And so still, as that place, namely, the Heaven of Heavens, is spoken of, the first is silenced, and it is called Heavens. I could give you a multitude of Places for it. But,

2. After the Resurrection there is a sitting in two sorts of Heavenlies: For, first, when Jesus Christ comes to Judgment, he will bring Heaven down with him: Even as at the Earl of Strafford's Trial, the Parliament was removed from the usual place unto Westminster-Hall, and the Nobles, and House of Commons, they all met in that made Parliament-House, and it was the Parliament-House, and in all the State of it. You shall sit, saith he, (that is, during the Day of Judgment,) upon twelve Thrones, judging the twelve Tribes. There is no judging after the Day of Judgment, therefore the Glory that accompanieth presently after the Resurrection, before we go to the Heaven of Heavens, it is heavenly; Jesus Christ cometh in the Glory of the Father, and as I said, brings Heaven down with him. And then there is Heavenlies afterwards, we shall sit in the third Heavens, whither Paul was rapp'd.

And sure there are varieties of these Glories, (that is another reason too,) and of good things there. Wicked Men for their great Sins deserve a thousand Hells, so the Saints (if we may so express it) shall have a thousand Heavens; they sit in the midst of Heavenlies. Therefore whatever things are useful and delightful,

Heaven

Heaven is ſet out to us by them. Here the alluſion, you ſee, is to ſitting; it is likewiſe compared to walking, to walking in Shades, and Woods, and pleaſant Places: Zech. 3. 7. If thou wilt keep my Charge, (ſaith he to Joſhua and his Fellows) I will give thee Walks; it is to ſhew the variety. It is likewiſe compared to an Houſe, and when ſo, he ſpeaks in the Plural, you ſhall have Houſes enough: ſaith Chriſt, In my Father's Houſe are many Manſions; ſtill in the Plural, as noting the copiouſneſs and abundance to each Saint. Some allege that place to prove ſeveral degrees in Glory, but that was not pertinent to Chriſt's ſcope, which was to aſſure them all univerſally, and every oue of them, of the Greatneſs of that Glory to come; all ſhall have ſo much, as that none ſhall envy another: Non notat diſparitatem Hæreditatis, ſed magnitudinem & amplitudinem, quæ tanta eſt, ut ſit ἀφθονία, Græci eleganter ἐυπορίαν, abundantiam vocarunt ἀφθονίαν, cum unicuiq; tantum ſuppetit, quantum ſi poſſideat, nemini invideat. All in a Man, Body and Soul, and every thing in him, there ſhall not be a Toe or a Finger that is not heavenly, and there ſhall be none of theſe but ſhall have heavenly Objects for them. Therefore he placeth us, I ſay, in the midſt of Heavenlies, as he hath done Chriſt himſelf; for the Phraſe is uſed of him, chap. 1. verſ. 20. He hath ſet him at his own right hand in Heavenlies; it is in the Plural there too. Ser. XVII. Camer. Tom. 2. p. 326. in Locum.

But then you ſee, our Tranſlators have put in the word [Places] but it is not in the Greek, it is there only Heavenlies; but this was taken in to anſwer the Phraſe of ſitting, becauſe we are ſaid to ſit, therefore they have made up the Sence, and added [Places.] But my Brethren, it is not to be underſtood only of Places or Dignities, or Thrones, but that we are ſet in the midſt of heavenly things; in Heavenlies, ſaith he. Even as Earth is one thing, and earthly things another; ſo Heaven is one thing, and heavenly things another. You ſhall find the Phraſe uſed of all the things in Heaven, be they what they will, in Heb. 8. 5. Who ſerve, ſaith he, unto the example and ſhadow of heavenly things. All the things of the Goſpel, are called all, ἐπουρανία, heavenly things; and chap. 9. 23. you have the ſame: It was neceſſary that the Pattern of things in the Heavens ſhould be purified with theſe, but the heavenly things themſelves with better Sacrifices: Heavenly things themſelves, not Places only. So that to ſit in Heavenlies, is as much as to ſay, that you ſhall ſit there, as a Man ſits in his Houſe of which he hath poſſeſſion, ſits in the midſt of all that is there, having all at command. All there, I ſay, is heavenly, all the Objects, all the Company; yet notwithſtanding I do not deny, but that to ſit in Heavenlies refers alſo, and the Metaphor will carry it neceſſarily, unto the Place it ſelf, and the Dignities there.

The Obſervations which I ſhall make from hence are theſe:

Firſt; That all your Places, and what Happineſs you ſhall have in Heaven, are ready for you. That is clear and plain out of the Text, for you are ſaid to ſit now in heavenly Places in Chriſt. It may be theſe Obſervations would have come in better afterwards, but being mentioned, I will go on with them now. In 2 Cor. 5. 1. We know, that if our earthly Houſe of this Tabernacle were diſſolved, we have a Building of God, eternal in the Heavens. He ſpeaks in the preſent Tenſe, it is ready for me, ſaith he, if my Soul were out of my Body. I told you before, out of 1 Sam. 20. that it was the manner when the King ſate at Meat, every Noble-man had his Seat, and if he came not, no Man took up his place, his Seat was empty; for it is ſaid, that David's Seat was empty; the place according to every Man's Rank was left empty. We do now ſit in heavenly places in Chriſt, all our Places are made ready, and they do but wait till the Souls of Men come thither, and till the latter day. Therefore in 1 Pet. 1. he ſaith, We are begotten to an Inheritance immortal, &c. reſerved in Heaven for us, ready to be revealed. It is kept for you, your places ſhall never be taken over your Heads, and are ready; there you ſit, and Jeſus Chriſt poſſeſſeth them till you come thither; you ſit in Chriſt now, and when you come thither, you ſhall ſit with Chriſt. Obſerv. 1.

Secondly; You ſee that we are all here upon Earth but Strangers. He ſaith, we now ſit in Heaven in Chriſt, our places are there. They confeſſed themſelves Strangers, Heb. 11. 13. altho they had a Land promiſed them here. There is a Houſe Obſerv. 2.

Ser. XVII.

House of Peers, a Kingdom there, and the places are made ready for them; and thou that art a Believer, and art quickned together with Christ, all the while thou livest here, thou art out of thy place; even as if a Star should be fixed here in the Earth, it is out of its place. As it is said of Judas, that when he died he went to his own place; Hell was his place, tho he lived and walked here, he was a Stranger upon Earth: Wicked Men are so, they shall not live here in this World, tho they carry the World before them, their place is Hell. So our place is Heaven, and there our places are all prepared for us. Saith the Apostle, in 2 Cor. 5. 6. Whilst we are at home in the Body, we are absent from the Lord. It is a great Elegancy in the Greek; the Body he calls our home, and yet we are Strangers: It is true indeed, the Body, saith he, is your natural home, according to the Language of Nature, and of the first Creation; but yet you are not at home, for you are absent from the Lord, and Strangers from him, who hath enfranchised, and preferred, and made you Denizens of another Country: We are absent, we are out of home from the Lord; where he is, that is our home. Now tho, I say, he calls the Body our home, because the natural condition for the Soul and Body was to be united together; yet notwithstanding in that our Estate by Christ, the Lord is our home: Therefore our Body, it is called but the Tabernacle, in 2 Cor. 5. 1. The Soul is at home in the Body, but it is at home but as in a Tabernacle; it is Heaven that is called the House, and we stay here but as the Apostle speaks, v. 5. Till we are wrought for the self-same thing, till we are made meet for that place which is made fit for us.

Ἐνδημοῦντες ἐν τῷ σώματι, ἐκ δημοῦμεν ἀπὸ τοῦ κυρίου.

And then, Thirdly; That we are said to be set in Heavenlies now with Christ, it argues the Number of the Elect is set; they are all before God, he hath appointed all the places that are there. As he knows the Number of the Stars that are in the Heavens, so he knows the Number of all those Stars that shall fill up that Heaven above. I will not stand to enlarge upon these things.

There are yet two other Phrases to be opened, that is, In Christ Jesus, and Together. I shall speak something to each of these, and so end.

In Christ Jesus.] When the Old Testament did express Heaven to us, or the New in the Language of the Old, when the Old was in force, it doth express it thus, To sit down with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; or else you shall have Walks with them that stand by, you shall have the Happiness that the Angels have; Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, these were the chief Guests. But now when the New Testament comes to be opened, then it is, Sit in heavenly Places in Christ Jesus. Sit down with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, why? because God made the clearest Promise unto Abraham, that ever he made afterwards to any Man in the Old Testament: I will be thy great Reward, saith he; that is, I will be thy Heaven: and you know that God is All in All, that's the highest expression. And Gen. 15. 15. Thou shalt go in (or into) Peace, and be gathered to thy Fathers; expressing the State of Soul and Body after this Life till the Resurrection. And Christ, he used the Phrase of sitting down with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, because the Jews would not so much as eat with the Gentiles: Why, saith he, the Gentiles shall come from the East and West, and sit down with your Fathers, seeing you will not come in to me.

Now we are said to sit in Christ; they in the Old Testament were never said to sit down with Abraham, for Abraham did not represent them in Heaven; but now we, till we shall enjoy Heaven personally, and sit down there with Christ, we are in the mean time set down in Christ.

In Christ, (I may run over all that I said afore,) as the efficient Cause of our coming thither. It is the Law of Nations, that Forreigners cannot inherit till they are naturalized; no more could we, till he that was of our Kindred and Nature was naturalized to Heaven, as indeed he is, for it is his natural place, he is the Lord from Heaven. He is the Cause, I say, of our coming thither; Mankind, I think, had never come there else.

In Christ, secondly, as the exemplary Cause. We shall have the same Glory that he hath: As is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly, 1 Cor. 15.

My

My Brethren, what can you desire more, than to have the same Glory that Christ hath? John 17. 22. The Glory which thou gavest me, I have given them. And, Rev. 3. 21. They shall sit with me in my Throne. It is not only, where I am there there they shall be also, but they shall have the same Glory I have, they shall sit like Nobles, sit about me, even as I am set with my Father in his Throne. Only with this difference, when the Apostle had spoken of Christ's sitting in heavenly places, in chap. 1. vers. 20. he expresseth it thus, He hath set him at his own right hand in the heavenly places; there he is, at his own right hand: But when he comes to make the reddition in this Chapter, of what we are in Christ, and through Christ, he leaves out, his own right hand: No, To which of all the Angels said he, Sit thou at God's right hand? Or to which of all the Saints? Yet notwithstanding he as a King, and we as Nobles, and Fellows with him, and Coheirs of the same Kingdom with him, shall have the same Glory, and the same Pleasures. As God will be All in All to the human Nature of Christ, so he will be to us; we shall have the same Glory that Christ hath, for the kind of it, tho not for the degree. 1 John 3. 2. When he shall appear we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is. This is it that makes Heaven Heaven, that you sit together with Christ, that you have his Company, that he is the Cause and the Example of all your Happiness. Therefore the Apostle, in 1 Thess. 4. 17, 18. when he would have them comfort one another with these words, what were they? And so, saith he, we shall ever be with the Lord; for it is he that makes Heaven. We sit in Christ now, and we shall sit with Christ then, or else sitting in Heavenlies alone would not make us happy.

Lastly, We sit in him, as a Person, representing us, he is gone thither, and entred as a fore-runner, to prepare the place for us. I could give you many places for it, that Jesus Christ being a High-Priest, is entred into Heaven, not only bearing our Sins (for so he did upon the Cross) but bearing our Names and Persons; for so the High-Priest did in a peculiar manner, when he went into the Holy of Holiest. He bore our Sins in his own Body on the Tree, and it is true he bore our Persons too; but more eminently, the Scripture speaks of bearing our Persons in Heaven: And as he is said to prolong his days upon Earth, while Saints are upon Earth, so the Saints are said to sit in Heaven, while he is there.

It is in Christ Jesus; let me say something to that, for here is not an idle word; I take it, we have in him a double right to Heaven, In Christ, as he is a common Person, and in Jesus as he is a common Person too.

First, As he is Christ, take him simply as he is the Son of God, that is a Head to a Church as his Members. The Apostle argues the Glory that we shall have after the Resurrection from this, in 1 Cor. 15. 46, 47. Because saith he, he is the Lord from Heaven, and as is the heavenly such are they also that are heavenly; that is, to whom God hath appointed him as a Head of Union to, as he is considered as a heavenly Man, as he is Son of God, having taken up our Nature, and so is become a Head to all that are Members of him. So we come to Heaven by virtue of him, and not only by virtue of his Death. And then,

Secondly, There is not one drop of Glory, but he did purchase it as he is Jesus. The High-Priest entred into the Holy of Holiest with Blood, so did Jesus Christ, he went to Heaven, and he sprinkled it with his Blood, because Blood purchased all the degrees of Glory the Saints shall have in Heaven. And though after the day of Judgment God shall be all in all, yet still the ground and right of our Union with God and God's communicating himself to us is in Christ.

In a Word, I say, our sitting in heavenly places, in and with Christ for ever, it is by virtue of his being Christ; that is, he as being Head to so many Members was chosen to that Happiness with those Members, which they shall have in Heaven. And they having fallen into Sin, this Christ is become Jesus, a Saviour, to save them out of Sin, and by being Jesus purchased Heaven anew. This is plainly the meaning of it according to my Sence. I somewhat opened it when I handled the third verse of the first Chapter.

I will add but this one Notion about it. We have two Sacraments, Baptism and the Lord's Supper: In both there is a representation of Christ held forth to us, as a Person representing us. But these two eminently share these two things betwixt them. Baptism doth more eminently hold forth his Death and Resurrection, and Ser. XVII. Jeſus Chriſt as a common Perſon, who was baptized with that Baptiſm, and in token of it we are. You have this expreſt in Rom. 6. we are baptized into Chriſt, and ſo into the likeneſs of his Death and Reſurrection: yea and becauſe he dyed and liveth too, God reckoneth your ſelves to be dead and to live unto God, ſealed up to you in Baptiſm. And then you have the Lord's Supper, and truly to me Chriſt ſeemeth to hold forth therein, our ſitting with him in heavenly places: When he had ſate at Table and eaten and ſerved them, he takes occaſion from thence to tell them, that one day they ſhall ſit at his Table, and eat and drink with him in the Kingdom of his Father, and ſhould ſit upon twelve Thrones, judging the twelve Tribes of Iſrael. But their ſitting at the Table of the Lord, at the Lord's Supper, and eating and drinking of that Body and Blood, did hold forth to them their State in Glory: And therefore in all the Evangeliſts, you ſhall find that the Diſciples underſtood ſome ſuch thing about a Kingdom, though they miſapplied it, they fell out amongſt themſelves who ſhould be greateſt in that Kingdom. This ſitting and eating in that Kingdom was imported to them in that great Supper.

There is now only one Phraſe remaining; and that is, Together, raiſed together, and ſit together. There may be ſome queſtion about it, whether it refers to the Perſons of Believers? or, whether it refers to Chriſt? whether that we Believers ſhall all ſit, or do all ſit together, with Chriſt? or whether we ſit, together with Chriſt?

It is evident that when he ſaith, he hath quickned us together with Chriſt, that there it refers to Chriſt, the Particle with, and together, doth; and ſo our Tranſlators have rightly rendred it, quickned us together with Chriſt. But when he comes to ſpeak of the Reſurrection, and of ſitting in Heaven, which yet are to come, he doth not put in any Particle, as to ſay, together with Chriſt; neither doth he content himſelf to ſay, we ſit together, but he addeth, in Chriſt. And indeed, together with Chriſt, and in Chriſt (as I ſhewed in the laſt Diſcourſe) import two diſtinct things: One when we perſonally come to enjoy the ſame things that Jeſus Chriſt did for us; when we come to Heaven, then we ſit together with Chriſt; but in him, in the mean time. So that in a Word, that which [together] here refers to, is to the Perſons, we all together, we that were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, we Jews and Gentiles, Apoſtles and all, we all together are raiſed in Chriſt, and ſit in heavenly places in him, as a common Perſon repreſenting us all. If it ſhould refer to Chriſt, as the other, their being quickned together with him, doth, it would have been redundant here, for [in Chriſt] is enough to relate to his being a common Perſon; therefore it muſt here have a ſpecial Eye, and relate to the Perſons that ſit, and are raiſed. Now what Perſons are theſe?

Firſt, We Jews and Gentiles: that is evident, for he had carryed that along through the whole firſt Chapter, and this ſecond alſo, ſpeaking of their Miſery and of their Redemption and the like. The Gentiles ſhall ſit down in heavenly places as well as the Jews, for ſo Chriſt tells us, They ſhall come down from the Eaſt and from the Weſt, and ſit down in the Kingdom of my Father. Becauſe the deſire of all Nations is now come, in Jeſus Chriſt, all ſhall ſit down together. And therefore as God promiſed to Abraham and the Patriarcks a City; ſo the Apoſtle ſaith, We are Fellow-Citizens with the Saints, and of the Houſhold of God. But I ſhall have occaſion to ſpeak more of it, when we come to the latter part of the Chapter, which ſhews the Union between Jew and Gentile. We together, we Apoſtles and all Saints elſe; for tho the Apoſtles are ſaid to have 12 Thrones to ſit upon more eminently, becauſe there are degrees of Glory, yet read Rev. 3. 21. and there it is ſaid, that to every one that overcomes, to them will I grant to ſit in my Throne. Therefore I ſay, all the Saints, Apoſtles and all. What ſaith the Apoſtle for this, in 2 Cor. 4. 14. it is an excellent place to this purpoſe: Knowing that he which raiſed up the Lord Jeſus, ſhall raiſe up us alſo by Jeſus, and ſhall preſent us with you. He had ſpoken of the Labours and Sufferings that he, and the reſt of his Fellow-Apoſtles had; but that which comforts me is this, I ſhall be raiſed up together with you, and preſented together with you to God: God will preſent you and me and all of us to himſelf in and by Jeſus Chriſt. It is a good Obſervation that one makes upon it, he doth not ſay, he will preſent you with us, but us, us Apoſtles with you: for the Saints have the ſame right to Heaven that the Apoſtles have, and they ſit together in heavenly places, therefore it follows, All things are for your ſakes

* Laſtly,

Ser. XVII.

Laſtly, It relateth to the General Aſſembly: For there is a ſpecial reaſon why [together] here when he ſpeaks of raiſing and ſitting in Heaven, ſhould refer to the Perſons of all the Elect; for at the Reſurrection all ſhall come together, and be raiſed together, and in Heaven all ſhall ſit together, that is the Glory of it, and that is the ſtate of it, that is it which makes Heaven, Heaven, the company of Chriſt and of the Saints when they are all together, And, my Brethren, God, though we are poor Sinners here upon Earth, yet in his eternal Decree, and likewiſe in Chriſt, he conſiders us all raiſed, and all ſitting there in him; All live unto God, as Luke ſaith, ſpeaking of the Reſurrection of Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob.

There is this difference between Adam's being a common Perſon and Chriſt's, becauſe they were decreed who ſhould come of Adam if he had ſtood, yet in a manner it needed not to have been, though God decrees and purpoſeth every thing. But it is otherwiſe now, it is by a ſpecial decree of Predeſtination that all are in Chriſt, therefore God hath them all before him, he hath them all in his Eye, and he will bring them all together with him, there will be the general Aſſembly of all the Saints; therefore it is called the gathering of the Elect from all the four Corners of the World. You have an excellent place for this, in Joh. 6. 38. and if you mark it, there is an Emphaſis upon it, This is the Fathers Will which hath ſent me, that of all which he hath given me, I ſhould loſe nothing, but ſhould raiſe it up again at laſt day. He will not have a Corn wanting whereof he is the Firſt-fruits. Heaven is the general Collection of all the Saints, therefore in the mean time till we come thither, Chriſt being a common Perſon for us, we are all together, all the Saints are at once raiſed up in him: We are not all quickned together in him, one is quickned in one Age, and another in another, but we are raiſed together in him, and the Reſurrection ſhall find us all together, and the Judgment ſhall find us all together, therefore the ſtate of theſe two days are repreſented by Chriſt's being a common Perſon, and we are raiſed up together, and made to ſit together in heavenly places, in Him.

SERMON XVIII.

EPHES. 2. 7.

That in the Ages to come, he might ſhew the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in his kindneſs towards us in Chriſt Jeſus.

THis Chapter (as I have told you) ſets out the Proceedings of God, and the Contrivements of his Decrees, to magnify that rich Grace which is in himſelf, in the Salvation of poor Sinners: How when they were fallen into that dead and damnable Eſtate, dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, and Children of Wrath, that God being rich in Mercy, and bearing ſo great a Love to them, took an advantage of that condition, to magnify his Love ſo much the more, not only delivered them out of it, but with an addition of an infinitely greater advancement. And the Apoſtle ſhews by what degrees God doth proceed to bring Salvation to its accompliſhed perfection. He begins with our Souls firſt here, they being dead in Sins, and he quickneth them; and he hath beſides that done this for us now, that in Chriſt he hath raiſed up our Souls and Bodies, (the whole Man I mean) and he hath ſet us in heavenly places in him. The firſt we received, and have received in our own Perſons, together with Chriſt, here below: The other two, they are indeed received for us by Chriſt, and in Chriſt; they are made ſure to us, but yet they are not accompliſhed and perfected; and of theſe the Apoſtle had ſpoken in the 4th, 5th, and 6th verſes, Now in the words that I have read to you, he comes to that which was God's end, or indeed which is it ſelf the end of all, the perfection, the concluſion of all, it is contained in this 7th verſe; that which God had in his eye as the perfection of Salvation, as the utmoſt accompliſhment of all that he had done, the Crown, as I may ſo ſay, of all the former: And that the Apoſtle tells us, is, That in the Ages to come, he might ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in his kindneſs towards us in Chriſt Jeſus.

In expounding every Verſe, I have taken this Courſe: Before I have given a particular Explication of every word apart by it ſelf, with Obſervations, I have firſt endeavoured to fetch out the general Scope, and to fix that; the general Scope in every Text being that which is the meaſure of the Interpretation of every particular. And yet notwithſtanding in doing of that I am oftentimes enforced to expound each word, to ſhew how it agrees to that general Scope. I ſhall now be enforced to take this Courſe, there being indeed a very great Difficulty in theſe words, ſuch as I could not have imagined to have been in them.

Now the words which occaſion this Difficulty are theſe, [In the Ages to come,] For otherwiſe if theſe words had not been put in, the Sence would have run currently, and been eaſy and plain, that the end that God aimed at in his permitting Man's Fall, that he ſhould be dead in Sin, and then he ſhould be thus quickned, raiſed, and the like, in Chriſt; that all this was done to the Praiſe of the Glory of his Grace, as in chap. 1. v. 7. you have it ſimply and abſolutely, and there is an end: there would have been no more queſtion, but the words would have been ſimply and ſolely ſo taken. But theſe words, [In the Ages to come, or, in the Worlds to come,] coming in, they have occaſioned two Streams of Interpretations, whereof if the one ſhould be excluſive of the other, and if both ſhould not ſtand together, (as I hope they may) the truth is, I ſhould hardly know which to prefer. Ser. XVIII.

I lay this for a Premiſe to the opening of theſe words, that they muſt needs have a moſt vaſt and comprehenſive meaning; and that not only becauſe (as Chryſoſtom ſaith) his Eloquence riſeth here in [the exceeding Riches of his Grace,] which is an Epithete given no where elſe in the Scripture to the Grace of God; but becauſe it is evident that theſe words are the concluſion, the cloſe, the period of the longeſt continued entire Diſcourſe, that I know is in the whole Book of God. The Apoſtle had begun in the 18*th* verſe of the firſt Chapter, and prayed there for them, That they might know what is the Riches of the Glory of his Inheritance in the Saints, and the exceeding Greatneſs of his Power, &c. And he never made his Diſcourſe fully compleat, till the end of this Verſe. So as indeed this 7*th* Verſe is another Deſign like that in the 10*th* verſe of the firſt Chapter, which contains as it were the perfection of God's Decrees about us; and this is the ſummary concluſion of the execution of God's Decrees, as I take it.

All (my Brethren) do acknowledg this, that here is contained God's end in ſaving Man, to magnify the exceeding Riches of his Grace; but then the queſtion is of the Time, what ſhould be meant of theſe Ages to come? and of the manner and kind of the demonſtration of theſe Riches. There are, I ſay, two Interpretations.

1. Some ſay, that this ſhewing forth the Riches of his Grace here intended, is, that diſpenſation and communication of the Riches of his Grace under the Goſpel in after Ages; God holding forth, in that kindneſs which he had ſhewn to theſe Epheſians, and to the Jews, and all thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, whom he had converted out of ſo deſperate and damnable a condition, an Aſſurance in theſe words, of a communication of the like exceeding Riches of his Grace, in all Ages to come, to the end of the World, whereof they were the Patterns and Examples. I find moſt of the Proteſtant Writers run this way, and the moſt judicious of the Papiſts.

2. Others ſay, That this ſhewing forth, or demonſtration of the Riches of his Grace in Ages to come, is to Eternity, after the Reſurrection, which he had ſpoken of in the words immediatly before; and that theſe words do contain the utmoſt accompliſhment, the manifeſtation and breaking up of the hidden Treaſure, which ſhall be expended in the World to come, and requires an Eternity to be ſpending in; beſides the Riches of Grace which he hath ſhewn us here, in quickning us; beſides what he doth for us repreſentatively, in ſetting us in heavenly places in Chriſt, and the like. And I find this latter to be the Sence that all the ancient Interpreters run upon, not one exempted, and ſome of our Proteſtant Writers, and moſt of the Papiſts. And of theſe two Interpretations, I confeſs the reaſons on both ſides are ſo ſtrong, that I do not know which to exclude; and I believe it will be found to be the Truth, that this being the concluſion and winding up of the Apoſtle's Diſcourſe, he had them both in his eye. The Reaſons for this I ſhall give you anon.

Now I ſhall do this: I ſhall firſt give you a fair account of the Reaſons on both ſides, either which I find in others, or which God hath ſuggeſted to me; Reaſons taken from the Coherence, and the Aſpect of the words of the Text, both backward and forward, and the opening of the Phraſes therein. And then I ſhall lay open to you, what I conceive to be clearly and fully the ſcope of the Apoſtle in them.

I will begin with that firſt Interpretation, and that is this, That God in beſtowing ſo much Grace upon theſe, both Jews and Gentiles, in converting them, and in doing ſo much for them, aimed to hold them forth therein, as Patterns to all Ages to come, who may expect the like Grace in all Ages, and that he will diſpenſe the like Grace to all Ages, to the end of the World. And,

Firſt;

Ser. XVIII.

Firſt; The Phraſe here, [In Ages to come,] it hath a relation comparatively to the Times of the old Law, which were paſt: Now under the Old Teſtament, when Chriſt was not aſcended, nor was ſitting in Heaven, ſo as the Saints then could not be ſaid to ſit in Heaven in Chriſt, he being not perſonally there, as God-Man, the Riches of Grace were not revealed, or but to a few. But now that Jeſus Chriſt hath poſſeſs'd Heaven for us, he hath diſperſed the Goſpel over all the World; and the doing this in the Primitive Times, is a Pawn and Pledg, that he will continue to break up thoſe exceeding Riches of his Grace in all Ages, one after another, to the end; and the example of theſe Epheſians is a real demonſtration of this: and ſo now [Ages to come] ſhould reſpect Ages paſt. And therefore this Interpretation is confirmed by that in chap. 3. verſ. 5. ſpeaking of the Myſtery of the Goſpel, which (ſaith he) in other Ages was not made known, that is, in Ages paſt; but now being made known to theſe Epheſians, and to other Gentiles in their Converſion, God did ſhew, that for the Ages to come, he would break open alſo the exceeding Riches of his Grace, as he had done comparatively to what was done before. And hence it is, that the Time of the Goſpel is called, the Day of Grace, the Day of Salvation, as in 2 Cor. 6. 2. And, Tit. 2. 11. The Grace of God that bringeth Salvation, hath appeared unto all Men.

And they give this Reaſon, why they are the Ages of this World, that are here intended: Becauſe they are the Ages that do follow one upon another, which do ſupervenire; the word is, ἐπερχομένοις, they do one come and follow upon the neck of another, ſucceed one another, as one Wave doth another: whereas if it refer to the Time after the Reſurrection, (ſay they) this would not be ſo. And hence it is that he calls them, exceeding Riches of Grace, an Epithete which he gives no where elſe: He calls them Riches of Grace elſewhere, but here, exceeding Riches of Grace: why? Becauſe God had broken open ſuch a Mine, as ſhould never be drawn dry, no, not to all Generations, tho he meant to diſpence the Goſpel, and to gather Souls out of all the Corners of the World. And,

Ἐν τοῖς αἰῶσι τοῖς ἐπερχομένοις.

Secondly; To confirm this Interpretation further, they ſay, that the Converſion of theſe Epheſians hath ſomething of a Pattern and Exemplar, to confirm Poſterity in it; and to that end they urge, and truly, that the word ἐνδείξηται, which is here tranſlated [to ſhew] is to ſhew forth as in a Pattern or Example; it is not ſimply to hold forth, but to give an example of it, to evidence it notoriouſly, by a Token, or by a Sign, as it were. The word is ſometimes ſo uſed, as in Rom. 9. 17. ſpeaking of Pharaoh, ſaith he, For this ſame purpoſe have I raiſed thee up, that I might ſhew my Power in thee, might make thee an Example, (for he is brought in there as an Example of all Rebels); it is not ſimply and barely to make him an Example of Juſtice, but an Example to all Ages; for ſo it follows, That thy Name may be declared throughout all the Earth. And to cut ſhort other places, for I could give you many, as that in 2 Cor. 8. 14. I ſhall only inſtance in that famous place which is parallel with it, in 1 Tim. 1. 16. where Paul ſpeaks of his Converſion, as here he doth of himſelf and the Jews, and theſe Epheſians; having ſaid the Goſpel is a faithful Saying, he confirms it by this: For this cauſe I obtained Mercy, that in me firſt Jeſus Chriſt might ſhew forth all Long-ſuffering, (it is the ſame word that is uſed here,) for a Pattern to them which ſhould hereafter believe on him to Life everlaſting. Every word is emphatical, to ſhew that Paul was an Example: To me firſt, ſaith he, and then, ſhew forth, as making me an Example, (the word implies ſo much) and then, as a Pattern.

And to this end, in the third place, the words that follow, [In his kindneſs towards us in Chriſt Jeſus,] do fitly, and in a natural way, ſerve this Interpretation, for they ſeem to bear and carry this clear Sence, that in this Kindneſs which God had ſhewn to them, in quickning them when they were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, and in ſetting them in heavenly places in Chriſt, who repreſented them, he hath manifeſted and held forth what he means to do unto others, and what they may expect. The word [kindneſs] here being taken (as they would have it) both for the manner, (that is, by ſhewing and ſeeing how liberally, and bountifully, and graciouſly God had dealt with theſe Epheſians, in quickning them, and ſaving them, who were Heathens, and ſerved Idols,) and alſo for the effect; as oftentimes both in Scripture, and in our ordinary Phraſe it is; we uſually ſay, I thank you for your kindneſs, that is, for the Love that you have beſtowed. In thoſe Benefits fore-mentioned, in the Verſes before, (ſaith he) he hath held forth a Pattern of that exceeding Riches of his Grace, which he meaneth to communicate to others, even as he had done to them. Ser. XVIII.

quickning

And then again, this is confirmed, in the fourth place, by this: That it is the manner of God to make the firſt in any kind Examples to others: Thus he made Sodom and Gomorrah, and the old World, (as Peter hath it) to be Examples, to confirm all his Threatnings, and to ſhew how juſt a God he would be under the Old Teſtament, and ſo under the New too, to them that continue in the ſame Sins againſt the ſame Means. So now under the New Teſtament, (it being Regnum Gratiæ) he makes theſe Primitive Chriſtians to be Patterns and Examples of the exceeding abundant Riches of his Grace, (as the other were of his Juſtice) which he meaneth afterwards, under the New Teſtament, to communicate in all Ages to the end.

Laſtly; There is this alſo to confirm it: That God in after Ages meant to have a Church Catholick in all the World; and the Converts of the Primitive Chriſtians, both Jews and Gentiles, being the Firſt-fruits, they ſhould be Examples unto us, to confirm that Promiſe, both to Jews and Gentiles. And this is exceedingly ſtrengthned by this, That the Apoſtle, throughout the former part of this Epiſtle, both in the firſt Chapter, and alſo in this ſecond, had ſtill carried equally both Jew and Gentile in his eye. In the firſt Chapter, when he ſpeaks of the Benefits we have by Chriſt, Election, and the like, and applies them to Men whom they belong to: Firſt, he applies them to the Jews, chap. 1. verſ. 11, 12. In whom we have obtained an Inheritance, who firſt truſted in Chriſt: In whom ye alſo truſted, v. 13. that is, ye Gentiles. When he comes to lay open the State of Nature, chap. 2, verſ. 1. Ye were dead in Treſpaſſes and Sins; that is, ye Jews. Then, v. 3. Among whom alſo we had our converſation, (that is, we Gentiles,) and were by Nature Children of Wrath even as others. And ſo now, when he comes to ſpeak of their Converſion, he tells them, that God had quickned them all both together: both ye Gentiles, By Grace ye are ſaved; and us, he hath quickned us. And he hath herein made us Patterns of that Mercy and good Will, which he means to beſtow upon Jews and Gentiles in the Ages to come. Wherefore it follows, v. 11. Remember, that ye being in time paſt Gentiles in the Fleſh, ye were then without Chriſt, &c. And he would have all Poſterity remember what their Fore-fathers were.

The only Objection againſt this Interpretation, and which I confeſs is a ſtrong one too, is this: That the Jews were not an example of the like Grace to be communicated to their Poſterity that followed; for we ſee, that hitherto in the Ages to come, it hath not yet fallen out, that any of the Jews are called and converted unto God, but even in the Apoſtle's time they were broken off.

But let me tell you, that in the latter Days, in the Ages to come, they ſhall be called; and altho indeed they were broken off for many Ages, yet in the latter days there ſhall be the greateſt breaking open of the Riches of free Grace, of any other. He ſhewed Mercy unto me firſt, ſaith Paul. That ſame [firſt] as many think, is ſpoken in relation to his own Countrymen, the Jews, who ſhould be found Injurious, Blaſphemers, Perſecutors, as he himſelf was; and ſhould alſo be converted in that manner, namely extraordinary, as he was. And, my Brethren, the Riches of Grace here in the Text, ſerveth to illuſtrate this exceedingly; for when is it that the Riches of God's Grace, and his Mercy is held forth in the Scripture, but when the calling of Jews and Gentiles are mentioned? Rom. 10. 12. There is no difference between the Jew and Greek; for the ſame Lord over all, is rich unto all that call upon him. Therefore now, when he ſpeaks of the breaking up of that Grace which ſhould continue both to Jew and Gentile in Ages to come, whereof theſe were Pawns, and Pledges, and the Firſt-fruits, he calls it, the ſhewing forth of the exceeding Riches of his Grace. And in Rom. 11. 12. the Converſion of the Jews is called the Riches of the World. For,

my

Ser. XVIII. my Brethren, there were Ages indeed between the Apoſtle's days and this, in which the free Grace of God was clouded exceeding much, tho in all Ages the Saints have had recourſe to it; but in the latter days, when the Jews ſhall be converted and brought in, God will break open thoſe Manifeſtations of it which yet we know not; for they are the days of freee Grace.

And ſo now I have given you the Reaſons for that firſt Opinion; and the Obſervations out of it are of infinite moment to us, and infinitely to our comfort; as, That the Days of the Goſpel are the Days of Grace; and, That all the Grace and Mercy that God hath ſhewn in the Ages paſt, to the Apoſtles themſelves, and thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, for the quickning of Mens Souls, and the like, we that live in theſe ſixteen hundred years after, may even expect the very ſame: And that God, in his kindneſs to theſe Epheſians, and to the Jews that were then converted, hath confirmed to the World, both to Jews and Gentiles, that they ſhall have the like Grace that their Fore-fathers had. There are, I ſay, theſe and many more Obſervations, that are natural to this Interpretation; and the Interpretation it ſelf ſeems to be exceeding natural alſo.

But I ſhall not ſtand upon theſe now, but go on to the ſecond Interpretation, which I ſhall be more large in, becauſe it is laid aſide; and indeed I think it to be as much the ſcope of the Apoſtle here, if not more, than this I have now mentioned: And if both cannot ſtand together, I ſhall rather caſt it, to exclude the other, and take this; but I confeſs I am in Paul's Strait in it, as he ſaith in another caſe: For, my Brethren, to interpret it of the exceeding Riches of his Grace to after Ages, that they hereby ſhall have a confirmation, that God will ſhew them as much Grace as to theſe Primitive Times, is exceeding comfortable to us: But to interpret it of Heaven, and of that World to come, and the breaking up of that Riches of Grace there, as the final Cloſe of all; this I ſay is beſt of all.

Now then for this ſecond Interpretation: That [In Ages to come] ſhould refer to the other World alſo, and to the breaking up of thoſe Riches of Grace there; that after God hath thus gone on in manifeſting his free Grace under the Goſpel, in quickning and gathering his Elect together, and that when the Time comes, that they ſhall ſit not only in Chriſt as now, but with Chriſt in heavenly places; that then as the Cloſe of all, he will manifeſt and ſhew forth an unknown Treaſury, a Treaſury that ſhall be anſwerable to the Thoughts of the Mercy and Grace that is in the great God, and anſwerable to that Dignity of being conformed unto Jeſus Chriſt, and made like unto him.

For to confirm this Interpretation to you, I ſhall lead you along through theſe ſeveral Reaſons put together. And,

First; I will begin with the Phraſe, [In the Ages to come,] that that, I ſay, ſhould reſpect, not only the Ages and Times of this World, but alſo reſpect the World to come, and the Ages of Eternity: For, my Brethren, firſt, in oppoſition to this preſent World, and theſe Ages now, you know the Scripture calls the next, the World to come, or Eternity to come; for αἰῶν here, which is tranſlated, Ages, is called the World to come often in the Hebrew, and it is the very ſame word, Ages to come, I ſay, in oppoſition to this preſent World, as the Apoſtle calleth this in Gal. 1. 4. You have the very Phraſe in the firſt Chapter of this Epiſtle, verſ. 21. which I ſhall anon make further uſe of; he ſaith there, That Jeſus Chriſt is ſet far above all Principality and Power, not only in this World, but alſo in that which is to come, ἐν τῷ αἰῶνι. The word tranſlated there [World to come] is the ſame that is uſed here for Ages. And in Heb. 6. 5. they are ſaid to have taſted of the Powers of the World to come, it is the word which is here uſed for Ages. It is true indeed, in Heb. 2. 5. the State of the Goſpel is called a World to come, οἰκουμένη, but that in Heb. 6. 5. is αἰῶν, the word that is uſed here, tho in the ſingular Number, μέλλοντος αἰῶνος.

But

Ser. XVIII.

But it will be objected, Are Ages in the Plural, taken for the Times after the Day of Judgment to Eternity, where there is no Flux of Time?

For that (my Brethren) the Scripture often expreſſeth in the Plural alſo. You read of the Phraſe, for ever and ever, you have it in the Revelation again and again, We ſhall reign with Chriſt for ever and ever; it is for Ages and Ages, if you will, or for Evers, for Eternities; you have the ſame in Rom. 16. 27. If you will but look into the third Chapter of this Epiſtle, verſ. 22. you ſhall find, that it is in the Plural as well as here: Unto him be Glory in the Church by Chriſt Jeſus, throughout all Ages, World without end. He means not only this World, but the World that is to come too; and why? Becauſe that to come is the Age of Ages, it is the Secula Seculorum, it hath all Ages within the circumference of it. The Days of Darkneſs, they are many; and the Days of Glory, they are many too. And God hath ſo much Riches of Grace to ſhew forth, which is the concluſion of all, as it requires an Eternity to do it in, therefore he hath taken time enough to do it in: In the Ages to come, (ſaith he) to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace.

And then, ἐπερχομένων, is not only Ages ſucceeding one another, but to come upon; and yet if ſo, why ſhould there not be Succeſſion in the World to come? There is not a variation diſtinguiſhed as ours is, by Births and Deaths of Men, as we make Ages. But it is no more but this, the Ages that ſhall come upon us; for Time of duration, it is extrinſecal, it is an external thing to us: as the Phraſe in Dan. 4. 16. imports, Let ſeven Times paſs over him. So that Time of Eternity doth paſs over us, come upon us, it is an eternal Flux of Time. And altho there be not a variation, ſuch as ours, yet there is a ſucceſſion of Duration: and tho there be no Sun, or Moon, or Years, and we ſhall not there meaſure Time by the ſame Glaſs, or by the ſame Clock, as here; yet it is a continued Flux of Time, an eternal Succeſſion, that muſt needs accompany Creatures; for it is God only that gathers all Time in one Moment, and in his vaſt Being encircles it, and contracts all to one Center and Moment. It is a fooliſh Diſpute the Schoolmen have, that there ſhall be no ſuch Succeſſion in Eternity; the wiſeſt of them, Scotus, and the holieſt of them, Bonaventure, are of another mind. Indeed in Rev. 10. 6. it is ſaid, Time ſhall be no longer; but that is meant of the Time of the Perſecution of the Church of God.

The Phraſe then not being averſe to this Sence, let me now ſhew you the ſtrength of this Interpretation, for indeed nothing will greaten Heaven to us more than this. I ſhall argue all ſorts of ways.

Firſt; I ſhall argue this Sence and Meaning, and in arguing open the words, and ſee how all give up themſelves with parallel Scriptures to this Interpretation.

In the firſt place, Do but conſider, that here is God's ultimate and higheſt end that he hath in the Salvation of Man held forth. All in a manner acknowledg this: He that is rich in Mercy in his own Being, as v. 4. here, the final Cauſe that moved him, or which he aimed at, is, that he might manifeſt to the utmoſt thoſe Riches of Mercy. And as it is the final Cauſe, ſo the utmoſt of his Deſign concerning Man's Salvation is held forth; he mentions it therefore in the Cloſe of all, in the Language of a final Event, That in the Ages to come he might ſhew the exceeding Riches of his Grace. Now then conſider but theſe two things; it is evident that the Apoſtle had in this Chapter two things in his eye: He had, firſt, the magnifying and ſetting forth the Kindneſs of God towards theſe Epheſians, and other the Elect of God; and this Grace ſet forth in their Salvation, in all the parts of Salvation. And by ſhewing the Greatneſs of this Salvation, in all the parts of it, he comes to magnify the Greatneſs of this Grace, as well as by the depth of Miſery that Men were taken out of. The ſum of all is clear to be this, to magnify Grace, and to magnify Salvation, as the utmoſt perfection of what God meant to bring Men to. This, I ſay, is clearly his Scope. If then his Scope be, to magnify the Riches of Grace in the height of it, (and therefore he uſeth the higheſt expreſſion, he ſpeaks, you ſee, the higheſt thing of it, [the exceeding Riches of his Grace,] becauſe it contains the utmoſt of his Ends moving him, or Iſſue of his Deſign intended,) that muſt needs reſt in nothing but in the utmoſt manifeſtation of that Grace; and where is that? In Heaven, no where elſe. The Goſpel reveals to us infinite Grace to us, but the exceeding Riches of Grace ſhall be broken up in the World to come, there is a Reſerve of it for Eternity, ſuch as we cannot now comprehend. Therefore now here is intended the actual enjoyment that thoſe Saints, which God hath now quickned, and ſet in Heaven in Chriſt, ſhall have in the Ages to come, of thoſe exceeding Riches of Grace which Chriſt hath taken poſſeſſion of for them in Heaven. The utmoſt of God's Deſigns in Man's Salvation, namely, to ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, is not attained, till Heaven come: therefore theſe words, That in the Ages to come he might ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, ſhews the actual enjoyment of that which Chriſt hath now taken the poſſeſſion of for us.

And then let me alſo argue from this: Obſerve his Order in diſcourſing of our Salvation, which is the ſecond thing that he ſets himſelf here to ſet out to us, and the exceeding Riches of the Grace of God therein. He ſets out Salvation in all the gradual accompliſhments of it, till it is made fully perfect and compleat. As his Scope in ſhewing our Miſery was, to ſhew it in the utmoſt extent of it, in all the degrees of it; ſo in laying open our Salvation alſo, he takes the ſame courſe. Firſt, he ſhews what is begun upon our own Perſons, in quickning of us: He tells us, ſecondly, how Heaven and Reſurrection is made ſure to us, tho we do not yet enjoy it; v. 6. He hath raiſed us up together, and made us ſit together in heavenly Places in Chriſt. Now then here in the 7*th* verſe, as the Cloſe of all, to perfect that Salvation, and to fill up what Jeſus Chriſt hath taken poſſeſſion of, he ſhews how that God will ſpend to Eternity the exceeding, the utmoſt Riches of that Grace, there he will ſhew it, and then he will bring it forth. God's utmoſt end is not attained, till you come to this; and our Salvation (as I may ſo ſpeak) tho it is made ſure in Chriſt, is yet uncompleat; but in thoſe Ages of Eternity, in the World to come, he will bring forth all his rich Treaſure, and then ſhall Salvation be compleat, and there ſhall be the utmoſt demonſtration of it. So that the Apoſtle, take but his Scope, doth clearly hold forth both God's utmoſt Deſign, of magnifying free Grace, which is not, till in Heaven we have had all the Riches of it broken open, and ſpent upon us there; it is not only by quickning of us, and ſetting us in Heaven in Chriſt, which is done already, but it is by ſpending an Eternity in Heaven with God, and ſitting with Chriſt for evermore. And now then (ſaith he) tho you Epheſians ſee a World of Grace in what God hath done for you already, he hath quickned you through his Grace, he hath ſet you in Heaven together in Chriſt; he hath yet a further and a greater thing for you, which is the end and iſſue of all, whereof theſe are the prepatative, and that is, That he may in Ages to come, (which quickning and all tendeth unto,) ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace; the real performance cometh then, which theſe went before to make way for.

And ſo now having argued from the general Scope of what is in this Chapter, I ſhall proceed in opening every part of the Verſe, and every word therein, and ſhew you that they all do give up themſelves to this Interpretation.

In the firſt place, Do but take the Coherence with the words immediatly before; he tells us, that God hath ſet us in heavenly Places in Chriſt, that in the Ages to come he might ſhew forth, &c. The meaning is to me clearly and plainly this, as if the Apoſtle had ſaid, Our Lord and Saviour Chriſt hath taken up your Rooms for you in Heaven, there he ſits, and that degree of Glory which you ſhall have at the Reſurrection, and for ever there, he hath taken it up for you; but know withall, that he hath taken up ſo much at once (for he perfects every thing he doth, as done in him for us, at once,) as it requires an Eternity of Time, for you to receive that which Chriſt hath received for you. Jeſus Chriſt (my Brethren) in Heb. 10. is ſaid to perfect our Salvation at once, and ſo he hath received perfectly all the Glory we ſhall have at once; but as what he did at once purchaſe by his Death, he hath Ages to come for to accompliſh; ſo ſaith the Apoſtle, his having taken poſſeſſion for you in Heaven, it requires Ages to come, for God to give forth what Chriſt hath now took Poſſeſſion of, and for what he ſitteth in Heaven repreſenting you, to that end that one day you may have it. In thoſe imperfect notes of Mr. Bayns printed, which I believe in a great part are his, I obſerve, he hath this Expreſſion, God (ſaith he) did draw the Lineaments which he would be perfecting of for ever: that is, in Jeſus Chrtſt he hath laid out your Line in Heaven, the place and compaſs of Glory you ſhall have, and there you have Poſſeſſion of it in Chriſt, there is a Model of it in him, that even to Eternity and in Ages to come God might build upon this, and might ſpend the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in beſtowing that which Jeſus Chriſt hath now took up for us. This I ſay, is a natural and full coherence, which holds forth a Sence of a great deal of Glory. So I proceed. Ser. XVIII.

It anſwers to the Parallel that the Apoſtle did intend to make, between Chriſt and us in the firſt Chapter of this Epiſtle. He tells us there that the ſame Power works in us who believe, that wrought in Chriſt when he raiſed him from the dead, and ſet him at his own right hand in heavenly places: and here you ſee in the 6th verſe (the verſe juſt before the Text) he brings in the Parallel, he hath quickned us, ſaith he, and hath raiſed us up, and made us ſit in Heaven, in him. Now mark it, what is it that is ſaid of Chriſt ſitting in Heaven, That he ſits there far above all Principality, and Power, and Might, and Dominion, not only in this World, but alſo (ſaith he) in that which is to come. To make up this redition now on our parts, he ſhews us in this Chapter, that Chriſt not only ſits in Heaven for us, and in our ſtead, but as he hath a World to come, in which he ſhall reign and ſit for ever; ſo ſaith, he, have you, you have Worlds to come (for it is the ſame Word, only one is the plural and the other is the ſingular) for to ſit with Chriſt, and you ſhall have all the Riches of God's Grace, bringing in Joys and Happineſs to you to Feaſt you with unto Eternity. And ſo by adding this now, the Apoſtle he hath made the redition full, this World is to come here on our parts, ſitting with Chriſt in Heaven, anſwers to that ſitting of Chriſt for ever, over Principalities and Powers in his World to come. With this Difference, that he ſitteth at God's right hand, which we are not ſaid to do.

Then again, the Phraſe [ſhew forth] will exceedingly fit this Interpretation alſo, and comes in clearly to this Sence (I ſhall ſhew you by and by, that this Word doth not only import to hold forth in an example, but to hold forth glorioufly) for theſe Epheſians Hearts might think thus, and they might ſay, you tell us of a great deal that God hath done for us, he hath ſet us yonder in Heaven, and raiſed us up together in Chriſt, but when ſhall this be accompliſhed? when ſhall it be performed to us? we ſee none of this, it is yet hidden to us. Why ſaith the Apoſtle, you ſit now in Chriſt, but God hath placed you there but to this end, that in a World to come, he might there ſhew forth to you, and upon you, ſitting together with Chriſt, that Glory which now is hid; as the Word [ſhewing forth] imports. It hath relation to what is now hid, what they ſaw not. For we do not ſee now otherwiſe than by Faith the Glory of Chriſt, much leſs do we ſee otherwiſe than by Faith, that he hath taken up Heaven for us, nor do we ſee that Riches of Glory which he hath taken poſſeſſion of in our ſtead: But, ſaith he, after the Reſurrection, when the World to come ſhall come, and in thoſe Ages and Evers to come, he will ſhew forth, he will make an open Demonſtration of thoſe Riches which Jeſus Chriſt hath taken Poſſeſſion of. And ſo it is a parallel place with that, in Col. 3. 3, 4. where he had ſaid (ver. 2.) that we are riſen with Chriſt (even as he here ſaith, that we are raiſed in Chriſt, and ſit in Chriſt in Heaven) and he addeth, Your Life is hid with Chriſt in God, but when Chriſt who is your Life, ſhall appear, then ſhall ye alſo appear with him in Glory. So becauſe, that theſe Riches of Glory which Jeſus Chriſt hath taken Poſſeſſion of, are now hidden, therefore he doth purpoſely uſe the very Word here, he will ſhew forth what is now hidden, he will break open that hidden Treaſure which ſhall laſt even to Eternity.

And my Brethren, to ſhew forth in an Example, it is not the only force of this Word, it doth not always import that alone; but ſometimes to ſhew forth in a notonotorious, in a manifeſt and glorious way, to the view of all. I ſhall give you a place for it: it is, in Rom. 9. 22. where the ſame Word that is here uſed for ſhewing, it is not there to ſhew as in a way of Example, to others to come; for it is ſpoken of ſhewing his Wrath upon all the Reprobates of the World, and that ſhall be found at the Day of Judgment; and it is there uſed only for this, to make known: Mark the Words, What if God, willing to ſhew his Wrath (it is the ſame Word) and make his Power known. So that now [that he might ſhew in the Ages to come, or, in the World to come] it is but this, what follows afterward, in that Rom. 9. 23. that he might make known the Riches of his Grace, which there he calls, the Riches of his Glory. And the Truth is, this Rom. 9. 23. is as clear a parallel to this in the Text, as the 1 Tim. 1. 16. is a parallel to it in the other Sence before mentioned. I could give you other Texts, wherein the Word here uſed, is not only to ſhew by way of Example, that God will do the ſame to others, but that God will do it openly and glorioufly; as in 2 Theſſ. 3. 4. and in Heb. 6. 11. but I will not ſtand to quote and heap up places.

Ser. XVIII.

This Word likewiſe [exceeding Riches] agrees excellently well with this Sence: For what is the manner of a great Treaſure? It uſeth to be hid. Iſa. 45. 3. I will give thee the Treaſures of Darkneſs, and hidden Riches of ſecret Places. So becauſe, theſe Treaſures which God means in the Ages to come to bring to Light, are now hidden, he puts theſe two together, that he might ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace. Where (my Brethren) doth he uſe the addition of the exceeding Riches of his Grace? No where, that I know of, but here; and why? Becauſe he ſpeaks of the utmoſt Manifeſtation, Demonſtration and Accompliſhment of the heighth of the Riches of his Grace, which ſhall not have their Accompliſhment till then.

And then there is another Confirmation alſo of this Interpretation, and that's this; I told you at firſt, that the Apoſtle had continued a Diſcourſe begun at the 18*th* verſe of the firſt Chapter. It is the longeſt continued Diſcourſe that is in all the Scripture. Now how begins that 18*th* verſe of that firſt Chapter? He prays there, that they might know what is the Riches of the Glory of his Inheritance in the Saints, and ſo he goes on, and it is a continued Diſcourſe to this very verſe, which is the Concluſion of it, and the only Concluſion, and he was not come to a period till now. And then here he comes (and with that he concludes all) and ſaith, there is a World to come, which is the deſign and end of all, wherein God will ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace to come. And ſo now you have the beginning of the Apoſtle's Sentence, and the end of it, meeting in one Circle of Glory, as I may ſo expreſs it; Riches of Glory, he began with, and the expence of the Riches of Grace to procure that Glory, and to work that Glory, is his Concluſion. And ſuch a glorious Circle that involves ſummarily all things concerning our Salvation, even Heaven and all, I know not in the whole Book of God. He begins his Sentence with Riches of Glory, and ends with the Riches of Grace, to be ſhewn forth in the World to come, as the accompliſhment of our Perfection, and of God's Deſign. The Holy-Ghoſt did ſtretch the Apoſtle's Mind to the utmoſt expanſe to incloſe in this Diſcourſe of his, all the great and glorious things that concern our Salvation.

But you will ſay, why doth he uſe the Expreſſion, Riches of his Grace, if he intends the beſtowing of Glory in the World to come, and the accompliſhment of our Salvation: why doth he not uſe the Phraſe [Riches of Glory] as he had done, Chap. 1. 18. and Rom. 9. 23?

The Anſwer is ready, and it confirms my Interpretation: For in the firſt place, his ſcope here is to ſhew the Fountain, which he would magnify, of thoſe Riches of Glory ſpoken of, Chap. 1. 18. His ſcope is here to magnify God, as Rich in Mercy, and as having in his Eye to ſhew, before he had done, the exceeding, the abundant, all the Riches of his Mercy and of his Goodneſs. Now then, Riches of Grace, being the Cauſe and Fountain of all the Glory we have in Heaven, therefore when he comes to magnify and glorify it, (that being all his ſcope) he ſpeaks here in the Language of the Cauſe; he doth not ſay, God will ſhew forth the Riches of

Glory,

Ser. XVIII.

Glory, but the exceeding Riches of his Grace: how? in beſtowing ſo much Glory as a God that is rich in Mercy, and hath nothing but Love in him to his Saints, and ſets himſelf to love them, can beſtow; that look what Riches of Glory in God, ſuch Riches of Grace in him, can procure, you ſhall have them all. It is the greateſt Argument to ſhew the greatneſs of Glory in Heaven, as could be imagined. My Brethren, Grace is at all the Coſt, it is Purſer of all his Expences, there is the Mine of all: therefore he would have us now gather and collect, what a Riches of Glory muſt needs be there, when God ſhall begin to ſhew forth ſuch a Treaſure as the Goſpel is almoſt mute about it, tells us of it, but cannot ſpeak a Word of it, but ſhall then be ſhewn forth, and requires an Eternity of time to manifeſt it in.

But it will be further ſaid, If it be meant of the ſhewing forth of his Grace in the accompliſhment of our Salvation in Heaven, why doth he add [in his Kindneſs towards us?]

Thoſe Words, you ſhall find that they will ſuit as much and as fully God's Diſpenſation in Heaven, as they will ſuit the other Sence of making the Epheſians the Example of his Grace to the Ages to come. I ſhall make this plain and manifeſt to you, and thereby I ſhall fully open every Word of this Text. And, Firſt, it is not [in his Kindneſs] in the Original, for the Word [his] is not there, but is inſerted by our Tranſlators, as leaning to the other Sence. Now there are two Reaſons why theſe Words are added, to ſhew the Riches of his Grace; ſtill keeping this Interpretation, that it is meant of the accompliſhment of our Salvation in Heaven.

1. That Reaſon which Grotius gives, who indeed carries it in this Sence we are now upon. He adds, ſaith he, this Word [in his Kindneſs] unto Grace; becauſe he knows not how to uſe Words enough. And it is the manner of the Scriptures, when they would magnify any thing, to inculcate with variety of Words, the ſame thing again and again, and eſpecially in magnifying of Grace and Gifts thereof: the bleſſed Apoſtles, and other Writers, the Prophets, have done ſo. There is that famous Inſtance, in Iſa. 63. 7. where ſpeaking to magnify the Love of God, in all the benefits he beſtows upon us, ſee how he multiplies Phraſes; I will mention the loving kindneſs of the Lord (that is, the Benefits which proceed from his loving kindneſs) and the Praiſes of the Lord, according to all that the Lord hath beſtowed on us, and the great Goodneſs towards the Houſe of Iſrael which he hath beſtowed on them, according to his Mercies, and according to the multitude of his loving Kindneſſes. You ſee here how he heaps up, loving Kindneſſes to Mercy, and great Goodneſs to loving Kindneſs, and multitude of loving Kindneſs to great Goodneſs; he can ſcarce fill it up with Words enough: the Holy Prophets did ſo abound, and truly ſo doth the Apoſtle here, to magnify the Greatneſs of the Grace of God, he contents not himſelf to ſay, the exceeding Riches of his Grace, but he adds, in his Kindneſs towards us.

There is a ſecond matter contained in this [Kindneſs] in the redition, if it be referred to Heaven. For the Word Kindneſs ſuperaddeth to Grace. I told you in opening the difference of Mercy, and Love, and Grace, that there is a difference in all theſe three, ſomething expreſſed by the one which the other did not. My Brethren, here is Kindneſs, which the Apoſtle puts in, and puts in, in a very good place, when he comes to ſpeak of Grace beſtowing Heaven upon us. It is the fulleſt Word that can be, it doth not only import Grace and free Favour, it doth not only import Mercy, but it is a ſweet Word, it imports ſweetneſs of Diſpoſition, it imports Friendlineſs in it, it is a familiar Word, a condeſcending Word, it is an overplus to Love, and to Mercy, and to Grace and all: for Grace imports a Sovereignty in God to ſhew Favour, that he doth it freely like a Lord, and the great King of the World; for great Perſons are properly ſaid to be gracious. And Mercy, that is a good Word too, but it is a Diſpoſition to ſhew Pity, and to relieve one in Miſery; but χρηστης, the Word here, it implies all Sweetneſs, and all Candidneſs, and all Friendlineſs, and all Heartineſs, and all Goodneſs and Goodneſs of Nature. And he ſuperaddeth this, to manifeſt thereby both the Root of,

and

Ser. XVIII.

and also the way of God's shewing Love to his People; and the meaning is, that God doth not now dispense Heaven, and Glory, and Happiness meerly out of Grace, and out of his Prerogative, meerly to shew forth his own Glory and Riches, as the first importeth, and it is well for us he doth so, for that argues it to be the great Happiness; but further saith the Apostle, he doth it with the greatest Kindness that can be, with a Benignity, with a Rejoycing, with a Heartiness. My Brethren, all these sweet Words that are put for Goodness and Sweetness and the like, the Septuagint use this very Word for them all, throughout the whole Old Testament. To give you one Instance, it is, in 1 Pet. 1. 10. That you may tast how good the Lord is; it is the same Word that is here, how sweet he is! All Dispositions of Sweetness and Friendliness are implied in this Word Kindness; How great is thy Goodness which thou hast laid up for them that fear thee! the Septuagint reads it, How great is thy Kindness! It is distinct from Mercy, and superaddeth to Mercy. Eph. 4. ult. Be ye kind one to another, and tender hearted, &c. It is distinguished from long-Suffering, in 2 Cor. 6. 6. It is made the root of Mercy and all in God, in Tit. 3. 4. saith he, we are thus and thus, But after that the Kindness and Love of God our Saviour towards Man appeared, then so and so. Kindness there (as one well observeth,) is the Root, his native Sweetness of his Disposition, which inclineth him to Love, which as the effect thereof follows. Therefore the Apostle goes to the bottom of God's Heart, when he adds this, His Kindness towards us in Christ Jesus.

It implies this, that God is glad of all the Glory he bestows upon us, that he rejoyceth over us, as the Phrase is, in Jer. 32. 41. I will rejoyce over them to do them good, saith he, so God will rejoice over you in glorifying of you: It imports that he will not do it meerly to shew his Riches, as Ahasuerus made a Feast, and invited all his Nobles, to shew the Riches of his glorious Kingdom; God indeed will bring us to Heaven, and shew the exceeding Riches of his Grace, and that is the chiefest end he aims at: But now Ahasuerus, he did not do this in Kindness, it was more to shew his Riches and Glory than his Kindness; but God, as he will there shew forth the exceding Riches of his Grace, for the glorifying of it, so he will do it in all the sweetness and kindness that your Souls can desire or expect.

My Brethren, it is well for us, that the proportion of glorifying us will be answerable to the exceeding Riches of his own Grace, and the Glory that he shall have from thence; and that that shall be the measure of our Happiness. But to add this to it, for the manner of it, that he will do it with all Affection, with his whole Heart, and in all Kindness; this infinitely sweetens it to us. It is therefore, I say, a good word indeed, and comes in well, In kindness to us, the word [his] not being in the Greek. The Phrase fitly serves to shew the manner of his dispensing to be thus in a bountiful way, and in a benign, kind, and willing way; and so Interpreters carry it: Quam liberaliter, quam magnificè, &c.

And then [in kindness] may be added: He will then shew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in his Kindness towards us; that is, in the same kindness wherewith he hath begun to quicken us. You may see how kind he will be in Heaven, by finding how kind he is now, by the very same Kindness he will dispence all Glory to you in the World to come. And so much now, why that [in his Kindness] is added to the manifestation of the Riches of his Grace.

The next thing is, [towards us.] You know the former Interpretation carries it thus, that he made these Ephesians Instances of the Grace he will then shew forth in the Ages to come. But if you refer it to Heaven, there is more in it; or when the Apostle tells them, that God would make them Patterns of his Grace to others, the Comfort will be to others, not so much to themselves; but when he saith, God will shew forth towards them all Glory in the World to come, this falleth personally upon themselves, and comforts them immediatly. And, my Brethren, this could not but mightily raise their Hearts indeed: For when we shall hear, that God intends in Heaven to lay forth the Riches of his Grace, that may be supposed to be meant indefinitely, as the common condition of all the Saints; but when he shall add, [in his Kindness towards you,] you are the Men that shall be the Objects of all this Kindneſs, and of all this Grace, how wonderfully will this affect our Souls! And to this purpoſe, to comfort and raiſe their Hearts, doth the Apoſtle here bring in this, In his kindneſs towards us. And in that they are Examples to all Believers that follow; for the [us] here, is not the Epheſians alone, but all the Saints and Elect; even as when he ſhewed that we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, he ſpeaks in the Perſon of the Epheſians, but he would have all Mankind to apply it to themſelves. So that indeed they need not be Examples in this, but it being the common condition of all Believers, it is carried fully enough in them. And the meaning in a word is this, that God will not only ſhew forth Riches of Glory in Heaven indefinitely, but he hath choſen out you; you, out of a ſpecial Kindneſs which he hath born towards you, out of which he will glorify you; and you are the Veſſels of that Mercy, upon which he will ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace. Therefore now he brings in [towards us] again, tho he had mentioned it before to affect their Hearts the more.

*

this

But why is this word [in Chriſt Jeſus] added, which he had uſed ſo often before, again and again?

Not only becauſe he would have us never to leave Jeſus Chriſt out. I do not know who can ſet up without Chriſt, or continue without Chriſt, for I am ſure the Apoſtle never leaves him out, no, not in Election and Adoption, nor in any thing, ſo not now, when he comes to Heaven; but ſtill whatſoever he ſpeaks of, Chriſt cometh in. But I ſay, this is not all, his meaning is this likewiſe, that all the Glory that the Saints ſhall have from the exceeding Riches of his Grace in Heaven, it ſhall all be in Chriſt. He had told them, chap. 1. v. 3, 4. That God had bleſſed them with all heavenly Bleſſings in Chriſt. If as heavenly, and all ſuch that then we have upon Earth, we have them all in Chriſt; much more then, the more heavenly, they are more in Chriſt. Indeed out of Chriſt God could not love any Creature, nor would love any Creature, much leſs would ſuffer any Creature to be ſo near him, but that he hath bleſſed them, and will continue kind to them in Chriſt.

But then in the 2d place, it comes in to a greater, I mean, to a more emphatical purpoſe, (for a greater cannot be than this mentioned,) and that is, to ſhew that all that God will beſtow upon us in Heaven, it ſhall be out of the ſame Kindneſs which he beareth to Jeſus Chriſt himſelf. He will uſe you kindly when you come thither. Do but think how kindly he uſed his Son, how welcom he made him when he came to Heaven, when he ſaid, Sit thou here, till I make thine Enemies thy Footſtool: Why, the ſame Kindneſs he bears to Chriſt, he bears to us, and out of that Kindneſs he bears to Chriſt he will entertain us there for evermore, and heartily and freely ſpend his utmoſt Riches upon us; for he will glorify the Head and Members with the ſame Glory. Therefore the Apoſtle ſhewed in the firſt Chapter, that he ſet up Jeſus Chriſt as the Head, and that the ſame Power that wrought in him, and raiſed him up, and ſet him in Heaven, works in us, and ſhall accompliſh it in us. Here he ſhews that it is the ſame Kindneſs; the ſame Kindneſs wherewith he embraced Jeſus Chriſt as the Head, he embraceth the whole Body alſo, and out of that Kindneſs will entertain them everlaſtingly, as he hath done Jeſus Chriſt. As we and Chriſt make but one Body, ſo God's Love to Chriſt and us is but one Love: There is one Father, one Spirit, and one Love, and indeed one Chriſt; for both Body and Head make one Chriſt. I need not ſtand upon this, you have it in John 17. 23. Thou haſt loved them, as thou haſt loved me; and, v. 22. The Glory which thou gaveſt me, I have given them. And what can be ſaid more to ſhew us what great Glory that in Heaven will be, whenas Jeſus Chriſt is not only a Pattern and Example of it, but when it proceeds out of the ſame Kindneſs, that God's Heart is ſet upon towards Jeſus Chriſt himſelf?

And thus, my Brethren, I have opened to you this Text, and indeed every word in it, and that to two Sences, of as great moment as can be found in any place; ſo great, and ſo comprehenſive, that they are well worthy to be the concluſion of ſo glorious a Diſcourſe as the Apoſtle had proſecuted, (even himſelf out of breath) if we may ſo ſpeak, from the 18*th* Verſe of the firſt Chapter,

until

Ser. XVIII.

until now; the words that follow [By Grace ye are saved] they are but a resuming of one particular, which he had scattered by a Parenthesis in this grand Discourse, which he explaineth a little further, but otherwise here is the Close.

I need not tell you which of the Sences I lean to: the truth is, if they will both stand together, I can hardly tell which to take; but I incline to the latter, as that which is most worthy to be the conclusion of so magnificent and glorious a Discourse as the Apostle had made.

I have gone by this Rule ever since I began to open this Epistle to you, that is, to take in all the Sences in any Scripture, that will consist and stand together; and I think the Excellency and Glory of a Scripture (as of all Sayings of weight and moment of wise Men) lies in this: Take a wise Saying of a wise Man, and the more depth of Sences can be fetched out of it, the more aspects of meanings it hath, the more several ways it looks, the deeper is the Sentence, and the fuller of Wisdom, as in Sayings of Wit also; and so it is in the Sayings of the Holy-Ghost. Now oftentimes there are Sences cannot stand together, but I hope it will prove that both these may, and then the Sum of it is but thus: The Apostle's Intent is to hold forth God's great Design, whereof he had given these Ephesians Instances and Examples, and of his Grace to them in their Salvation; and saith he, he hath intended, and doth confirm to all the World, by what he hath done to you, that for all the Ages to come, to the end of the World, he will shew forth the like Grace, to call in a World of his Elect, whereof you are the First-fruits and Fore-runners; and when he hath thus, by shewing forth that exceeding Riches of Grace, quickned all his Elect, and gathered them to Jesus Christ, then begins another World in Ages to come, in which he will break open the Riches of his Grace, which is the utmost Accomplishment of our Salvation, and the utmost Design of Free-Grace, and where he will shew so much Glory, as to hold proportion with the exceeding Riches of the Grace of the great God, and of his Loving-kindness. And this I take to be the meaning of the Words, which doth comprehend both the Sences and Interpretations.

SERM.

SERMON XIX.

EPHES. 2. 7.

That in the Ages to come, he might ſhew the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in his kindneſs towards us in Chriſt Jeſus.

THe Words that I have read to you (as I told you in the laſt Diſcourſe) they are the Concluſion both of God's Deſign of Man's Salvation, and of all the contrivements of the execution of it; and they are the Concluſion alſo of the longeſt continued Diſcourſe that I know of, in the whole Book of God; the Apoſtle having indeed begun at the 18*th* verſe of the firſt Chapter, and not ended till now. And there are of theſe Words three Interpretations, whereof I mentioned two in the laſt Diſcourſe: all which I believe, will be fully comprehended in the intent of the Holy-Ghoſt in them.

The firſt of them (which I then mentioned not) is general to the other two, and takes in all, and it is this; That here the Apoſtle propounds the End of God in the Salvation of Men ſimply, as it reflects and reſpecteth his own Glory, and eſpecially of his Grace. He holds forth here the higheſt End as it reſpects the Glory of God, which is, To ſhew forth in the Ages to come the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in his Kindneſs towards us through Chriſt Jeſus. That look now, as in the firſt Chapter, he had made this, as it were, the cloſe and the burthen of all [To the Glory of his Grace] thus ver. 6. having ſpoken of Election, he ſaith, To the praiſe of the Glory of his Grace; having ſpoken of the forgiveneſs of Sins, ver. 7. according to the Riches of his Grace. Having ſpoken of Faith, and of the work of Faith, ver. 12. That we (who have Faith wrought in us) ſhould be to the praiſe of his Glory. So likewiſe here; only becauſe that this is the Cloſe of all, when he meaneth to part with it, he adds an heightning Expreſſion; he riſeth in his Epithets of it, and he ſaith here; The exceeding Riches of his Grace.

Now that which confirms this Interpretation (as I told you what proves the other) they are theſe particulars.

Firſt, That God's Glory made known is the ſupream End of all, and in God, the Glory of his Grace; and therefore ſeeing here he bringeth in a Cloſe, a Concluſion of all about Man's Salvation, he ſhould therefore intend this moſt chiefly and principally; namely, that God's End was to manifeſt the Riches of his Grace, and the Glory of his Grace, as it reſpecteth his own Glory.

And this Secondly, cohereth with the Words which go before, and follow after. He had ſhewn in the Words before, the Cauſes of our Salvation; and he begins thus, God that was rich in Mercy for the great Love wherewith he loved us; He mentioneth there Riches of Mercy in God, as the Cauſe προηγούμενοι, the inward Diſpoſition inclining him in his own Heart thereunto. Here now he mentioneth the final Cauſe to be the making known of thoſe Riches of Grace and Mercy laid up in himſelf unto Mankind, and that God being ſo rich in his Nature, and ſo full of Love, hath contrived all to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace to the uttermoſt.

Serm. XIX.

And then again in the third place, this being made the final cauſe of all; namely, the glorifying the Riches of the Grace of God, is mentioned here, after the Deſcription of ſo great a Sinfulneſs in the Perſons ſaved, and after ſo great a Salvation in all the parts of it, deſcribed in the verſes before, to that end to make this Salvation credible. The next Words are, For by Grace ye are ſaved, and that through Faith: His ſcope is, to make Men believe that God indeed had done, and would do, ſo great things for Sinners, that had deſerved nothing at his Hands, yea the contrary: and therefore gives you the bottom reaſon that was in God's Heart, to take off the wonder; and it is, ſaith he, meerly to ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his own Grace; and to that End it was that he contrived this depth of Miſery, and this greatneſs of Salvation, to ſet forth the Riches of Grace in himſelf, ſo much the more. My Brethren, when Men hear of ſo great a God, that hath done ſo great things, for the Salvation of his own ſinful Creatures, either they are apt to think that there is ſomething in themſelves for which he ſhould do it, or elſe indeed and in truth their Hearts believe it not. Now therefore the Apoſtle doth give a plain account of it, to work belief in them, and he diſcovereth the ſupream end, which he inculcateth again and again, that all was to manifeſt the Glory of his own Grace to the full: So although you ſee no reaſon, and God himſelf did not, why he ſhould thus ſave them, yet ſaith he, he ſaw full reaſon in his own Heart, he had a full, adequate Motive in his own Breaſt to do all this, which in it ſelf is ſo incredible.

And then Fourthly, the Words themſelves do give up themſelves readily to this Sence alſo.

Firſt, The Words [to ſhew forth] is the Antecedent put for the Conſequent, as oftentimes in Scripture it is. The meaning is this; he puts that which ſhall be the occaſion of glorifying of him, for glorifying of him; the occaſion and the way of glorifying of him is ſhewing forth the Riches of his Grace: So that indeed the meaning comes to this, that his ſcope and intent was, that Men ſhould glorify him by his ſhewing forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, it being known to that End that it might be glorified. And in Rom. 9. 22. theſe two are made equivalent, to ſhew forth his Wrath, and make his Power known: ſo here, to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace, or, to make it known, to that end it may be glorified.

Secondly, The Phraſe [Ages to come] implies thus much (take it as it reſpects ſimply the Glory of God) that it is ſuch Riches of Grace which God manifeſteth in the Salvation of Men, as deſerveth in all times, in this World, and in the World to come, to be celebrated, to be magnified, and glorified, even by all Creatures, and ſhall be laid open to the full at the day of Judgment, by Jeſus Chriſt himſelf; and deſerveth eſpecially to be magnified and glorified and celebrated even to Eternity, by the Perſons themſelves who are the Subjects of this Grace.

Thirdly, [in his Kindneſs towards us] doth ſuit even to this Sence alſo. It hath been queſtioned by ſome, whether yea or no, the firſt moving Cauſe to move God to go forth to ſave Men, was the manifeſting of his own Glory, or his Kindneſs and Love to Men which he was pleaſed to take up towards them? I have heard it argued with much appearance of Strength, that however God indeed in the way of ſaving Men, carries it as becomes God, ſo as his own Glory and Grace ſhall have the preheminence; yet that which firſt moved him, that which did give the occaſion to him, to go forth in the manifeſtation of himſelf, which elſe he needed not, was rather Kindneſs to us, than his own Glory: yet ſo, as if he reſolved out of Kindneſs and Love to us to manifeſt himſelf at all, he would then do it like God, and he would ſo ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, as that that alone ſhould be magnified. Now the Truth is, this Text compounds the buſineſs, and doth tell us plainly and truly, that the chief End is that God ſhould glorify his own Grace, (for I aſſent not to that which I mentioned) it puts the chief and original End upon the ſhewing forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace; yet ſo, as he hath attempered and conjoyned therewith the greateſt Kindneſs, the greateſt loving Affection, for the way of manifeſting of it, ſo as in the way of carrying it, it ſhall appear it is not ſimply to glorify himſelf, but out of kindneſs towards us: he puts that in, as that which ſhall run along with all the manifeſtation of his own Glory. And therefore now he makes in the 4*th* verſe, Mercy and great Love to us, to be as well the Fountain and Foundation of our Salvations, as the manifeſtation of the Riches of his Grace here. Serm. XIX.

loving

And then likewiſe thoſe other Words [towards us] come in here, to ſhew alſo thus much, That God in pitching upon glorifying his free Grace, did not do it upon Men in the general, as ſome have conceived the Counſels of God firſt lay, viz. that he reſolved firſt in himſelf to glorify his free Grace upon ſome in the general and indefinite, and then he thought of Perſons; and ſeeing he had laid that concluſion, it was all one to him (ſay they) whom he ſhould have choſen; ſome he muſt have if he would accompliſh that Decree, and ſo he pitched upon thoſe he did. Now to ſhew the contrary, that even from the firſt, that all along when he firſt pitched upon manifeſting the Riches of his Grace in the Salvation of Men, he had the Perſons in his Eye whom he would manifeſt this upon, and that it was not an after-Thought, a Thought of indifferency, therefore the Apoſtle here ſaith, in his Kindneſs [towards us.] That general and indefinite way, is derogatory from that ſpecial Love and Kindneſs which he beareth towards us in Jeſus Chriſt, as the Apoſtle here ſpeaks. He joins you ſee a reſpect towards us, as having [us] in his Eye in particular, together with the utmoſt end he had in reſpect to himſelf, which was the glorifying of his own Love. He never had a purpoſe of glorifying himſelf, but he had withal a purpoſe at the ſame inſtant to make us the Veſſels and Objects of his Love.

Laſtly, [In Chriſt Jeſus] is added, for He is adequate to all God's Counſels. God ſhews not one Dram, nor caſts one Beam of Favour upon any Soul but in Chriſt: He hath choſen us in him, and never conſidereth us out of him, nor him without us, no nor his own Glory neither, but as involving Kindneſs, he loved us altogether. And ſo now you have a ſummary Interpretation of theſe Words to that more general meaning, which indeed doth comprehend the other two I gave in the laſt Diſcourſe.

I confeſs this Interpretation I now have given, that is, that theſe words ſhould reſpect the Deſign God had, as aiming at his own Glory, the Glory of his Grace, it was that which when I looked upon the words afar off, I thought had been the only meaning of them, and he that runs may read this to be the general Scope of them; but when I approached nearer to them, there were two other more narrow (let me ſay ſo) Interpretations, (yet glorious ones too,) which did further appear to be of them, which I ſpake to largely in the laſt Diſcourſe. And,

The firſt of them is this, (I ſhall repeat it briefly) That beſides this general End that God had, as it reſpects himſelf ſimply, he made the Salvation of theſe Epheſians, and of thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, to be Patterns and Examples of what Grace and Mercy he would ſhew forth to Poſterity, in all Ages to come, under the Times of the Goſpel. And by ſhewing, that he then converted Idolatrous Heathens all the World over, he did thereby give a Pawn and a Pledge of that Riches of Grace, which he had broken up under the Times of the Goſpel, and meant to go on to diſpenſe in after Times, both to Jews and Gentiles. And to this Sence alſo doth every thing in the Text, (as I ſhewed you in the laſt Diſcourſe) give up themſelves, to make theſe Primitive Chriſtians Patterns of Grace to all Ages to come.

The word [to ſhew forth] here, it is to give Proof, it is to give aſſurance by a Pattern; as in 2 Cor. 8. 24. and 2 Tim. 1. 5. and eſpecially in 1 Tim. 1. 16. He ſet me up as a Pattern, ſaith he, that in me he might ſhew forth (it is the ſame word) all Long-ſuffering, &c. And ſo now this ſecond Sence, as the other is for the Glory of God, ſo this is mightily for our Comfort and Encouragement, and all our Poſterity that ſhall live in after Ages, to bring in what Mercies, what ſaving Mercies God vouchſafed to theſe Epheſians, and other Chriſtians, as a Pattern and

Serm. XIX.

Pledg of what Grace we might expect: And there is no reason to exclude this, and it comes well in under that General I mentioned even now.

There is also a second Sence I then named, a third Sence indeed, and all in the Text gives it self up to it likewise: For these words being the conclusion of so long a Discourse, the Holy-Ghost hath the greatest summing up of all in them concerning Man's Salvation, that is included in any Scripture; and that third Sence is this, That whereas the Apostle had set out our Salvation as begun, He hath quickned us together with Christ, he hath set Christ in Heaven, and there he hath given him our Portion; that is, he hath put, as into the hands of a Feoffee in Trust, all the Glory we shall have for ever; he hath in him raised us up, and in him set us together in heavenly places; all the Glory we shall have in the other World, which we are to possess, is now put (saith he) into the hand of Christ; To what end? That he might shew forth in Ages to come, even to Eternity, the Riches of that Grace which he hath intended us in Christ, which he hath already given us in Christ representatively, which Christ hath taken possession of, which (saith he) is so great a Glory, as it requires Ages to come, an Eternity of Time, for to spend that Treasure which is thus given us in Christ; it requires, Ἐν τοῖς αἰῶσι τοῖς ἐπερχομένοις, as the word is, Ages of Ages, to spend them, and to manifest them; which when those Times shall begin, then shall begin the Accomplishment of our Salvation, and so it shall be compleat. And because he would shew how great that Salvation is, he describes it to us, first, by the Fountain of it: Look what Riches of Grace in Christ he hath to bestow upon them he loves in his Son; look what will require an Eternity of Time for to exhaust so great a Glory he hath designed unto them, whom he hath placed in heavenly places in Christ Jesus. And this Sence I shewed you to be as genuine as any of the other. I will not stand to repeat any thing of that, because I mean to spend the rest of the Time in Observations upon these Interpretations.

Only in a word, I shall first give you an account why I take in all these Interpretations. I lay this for a Ground, (which I do not know, through so many Instances in Scripture, how any Man shall beat me from it) namely, that all those Sences that can stand together, especially, that are subordinate one to another, and may be included one under another, how to exclude any such Sences, but to take them all in. I confess, if I meet with so many Sences in Scripture, whereof one cannot stand with the other, then of necessity we must take that which is evident to be the principal Aim and Scope, and exclude the other. But, my Brethren, all these three are no way contradictory one to another; the Holy-Ghost hath penn'd the Words in so vast and comprehensive a meaning, as to involve, and include, and grasp in all the three: For indeed, that God should aim at the manifestation of the Riches of his Grace, to magnify himself; that that should be the meaning, no Man can deny: And that the other two I mentioned in the last Discourse, may well come under that, be subordinate thereunto, and stand together, is easy to imagine also; because it is but two Accomplishments of the demonstration of that Grace. He that intended to glorify his rich Grace, he hath two Accomplishments of it: the one is, from the Ascension of Christ, until the Day of Judgment, when he will, in the Conversion through all Ages, and through all Nations of his Elect, more abundantly than under the Law, shew forth the Riches of his Grace, the Truth of which he hath held forth in the Example of these Ephesians, and other Primitive Christians: and then at the Day of Judgment, when that Execution and Manifestation of his free Grace shall have an end, at the gathering in of his Elect, then he hath a new Treasure (as the ultimate design of all) for to break up. Tho God had spent so much Grace in the Conversion and calling in of these, and quickning of them, and giving Jesus Christ as their Portion afore-hand; yet saith he, Know this, that there is a hidden Treasure, which will ask an Eternity of Time for them to spend, and for to exhaust the Riches of Grace he hath laid up for them in the Lord Jesus.

Now

Serm. XIX.

Now then I ſhall come to ſuch Obſervations, as ſhall be made out of all theſe Sences, for they may all ſtand together; and I ſhall begin with that firſt Sence I delivered in this Diſcourſe.

The firſt Obſervation, which belongs to that firſt Sence given, namely, That it holds forth the higheſt End of God, the Manifeſtation of his own Glory and Grace, is this:

That God's utmoſt End in Man's Salvation, is, the ſhewing forth of what is in himſelf, and the making of it known, that it may be glorified, eſpecially to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace. This is the natural Coherence of theſe Words. My Brethren, God is glorified by being made known, and that was it that moved his Will to ſhew forth what was in him. You have an expreſs place for it in Rom. 9. 22. What if God willing for to make known the Riches of his Glory? What the Nature of God is, none can know in it ſelf; therefore it muſt be ſet forth in Effects. In 1 Tim. 6. 15. the Apoſtle there ſhewing us the reaſon, why Jeſus Chriſt ſhall one day come and appear in Glory, and in the Glory of the Father, as himſelf tells us; he ſaith it is this: Which in his time (ſaith he) he ſhall ſhew, (ſpeaking in the words before, of the appearing of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt,) who is the bleſſed and only Potentate, the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords: Who only hath Immortality, dwelling in the Light which no Man can approach unto; whom no Man hath ſeen, or can ſee; to whom be Honour and Power everlaſting. Amen. I take the meaning of the words to be this: God (ſaith he) is in himſelf a God bleſſed, infinitely bleſſed in himſelf; he is a Sovereign, one that may chuſe whether he will communicate this Bleſſedneſs to any Creature, yea, or no; he dwells in Light inacceſſible, which no eye can ſee: there muſt therefore be a ſhewing forth, ſome way or other, of this Glory of his, if that ever we come to know it, or be Partakers of his Bleſſedneſs. He hath (ſaith he) ſent his Son, and he means to ſend him principally again at the latter Day, to this end, That he that is the bleſſed God in himſelf, that is the only Potentate, the Sovereign Lord, that doth dwell in Light no Man can ſee into, that in his Son we may behold him, that he may manifeſt himſelf, that he may make known, that he may ſhew forth and communicate that Bleſſedneſs which is in himſelf. Now as this is the reaſon why Jeſus Chriſt ſhall appear at the latter Day; ſo this is the Reaſon alſo, why God hath ſhewn forth any thing of his Grace, or of his Goodneſs before the latter Day, unto the Sons of Men: and becauſe that God cannot manifeſt himſelf to the full, he hath therefore invented ſo many ſeveral ways, he hath therefore taken an Eternity of Ages to do it. Obſerv. 1.

A ſecond Obſervation is this: That of all things in God, the chief and utmoſt thing he deſireth to ſhew forth is, the Riches of his Grace. And the reaſon of it is clearly this, Becauſe it is his Riches, that is, it is his Excellency. The word here, ὑπερβάλλοντα, which we tranſlate exceeding, it is attributed to Power, in the 19*th* verſe of the firſt Chapter, The exceeding Greatneſs of his Power: But when he comes to ſpeak of Grace, he ſaith, The exceeding Riches of his Grace, becauſe, I ſay, it is his Excellency. Obſerv. 2.

And, my Brethren, becauſe it is the Manifeſtation of the Riches of his Grace, it argues alſo, that his end of manifeſting himſelf, was not wholly for himſelf, but to communicate unto others; why? Becauſe Grace is wholly communicative; there can be no other Interpretation of ſhewing Riches of Grace, but to do good unto others. If he had ſaid, that the ſupreme End had been the Manifeſtation of his Power and Wiſdom, it might have imported ſomething he would have gotten from the Creature, not by communicating any thing unto them, but manifeſting theſe upon them: he could have ſhewn his Power and Wiſdom upon them, as he hath done upon Men he hath caſt into Hell, and yet communicated no Bleſſedneſs to them. No, ſaith God, my higheſt and chiefeſt End is not ſo much to get any thing from you, but to ſhew forth the Riches of my Grace towards you. That look as Faith, which is the higheſt Grace in us, it is meerly a receiving Grace from God: So take Grace, which is the chief thing God would exalt, what is it from God? A meer beſtowing, communicating Property and Attribute; it imports nothing elſe but a communication unto us. It is well therefore for us, that God hath made that to be the higheſt End of our Salvation in Himſelf, when he will aim at Himſelf too, to be that which ſhall communicate all to us; it is (ſaith the Text) to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace.

it

Serm. XIX.

And then again, the third Obſervation from this Interpretation is this: I told you, the Apoſtle did it to give an account, ſo as to ſtrengthen all Mens Faith in the matter of Salvation; he was fain to bring forth the Bottom-Reaſon in God's Heart: Men would never believe, that the great God ſhould ever do ſo much for Men, and Sinners too. The Obſervation is this:

Obſerv. 3. That this ſhould be the great Strengthner and Upholder of our Faith, to believe that God hath done, and will do ſuch things for Sinners, namely this, becauſe the ſupreme End of ſaving us is, the glorifying of the Riches of his own Grace. It comes in on purpoſe to take off the Wonder of Unbelief, after he had told this ſtrange Story of God's Love, and Man's Salvation; and to this end to ſtrengthen our Faith, that by Grace we are ſaved, as the words following have it. If God had told us how much he had done for us, out of Love unto us meerly or chiefly, the truth is, we could never have believed it, when we are once humbled; for we could never have ſeen that proportion between us and God in any kind, that ſhould have moved him for to have ſaved us, and pardoned us ſo much as he hath done. But when he ſhall tell us, that the utmoſt thing that moved him, was the Manifeſting of the Riches of his own Grace; and that he accounteth the Riches of his Grace his chiefeſt Riches, and the greateſt Glory he affects is to be gracious, this lets a Man ſee ſo far into God's Heart, as the Soul reſteth ſatisfied, ſees a reaſon why God may ſave Sinners, ſuch a reaſon as the Heart muſt needs reſt and acquieſce in it. And the Truth is, tumble up and down from one Doctrine to another, there is no other Doctrine will ſatisfy the guilty Heart of a Sinner in the point of Salvation, but only this, that God's utmoſt End was to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace. My Brethren, this takes off all Objections; and the ſtronger the Objections are (give me leave to ſay it) it gives a Man the more hope; he is the apter to believe it, when once Faith begins by the Beams of the Spirit to enlighten him; why? Becauſe all Objections become but matter for God's free Grace, to ſhew forth more Riches of Grace upon him. Therefore you know the Scripture runs upon that altogether; Iſa. 54. Know that I forgive your Sins for my own Names ſake, I do it for my ſelf, not for any thing in you. And God ſpeaks this not only that his own Glory ſhould be advanced, but that our Hearts ſhould be ſetled and ſatisfyed, and ſee reaſon why we ſhould be ſaved, in that God's own End, and higheſt End he could have, runs along with our Salvation.

Obſerv. 4. The next Obſervation is this, You may ſee here the Greatneſs and the exceeding Riches of his Grace. I remember when I handled the 4*th* verſe, I made a reſerve, when I ſpoke of Riches of Mercy in God, to handle and ſpeak further of that Riches, when I came to this Text, the exceeding Riches of his Grace. I handled it then cauſally, that is, as Riches of Mercy were the efficient Cauſe in God; I ſhall handle it now demonſtratively or manifeſtatively; namely, that God intended to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace to the utmoſt. You may ſee, my Brethren, how that here the expreſſions of the Apoſtle riſe: he begins firſt low, God (ſaith he) that was rich in Mercy, for the great Love wherewith he loved us, hath quickned us, &c. But when he comes to ſhew forth the utmoſt End God had in ſaving of Men, his Stile ſwells higher, Exceeding Riches of Grace. Let me tell you this, when thou wert firſt turned to God, and when thou wert quickned thou didſt find him to be rich in Mercy unto thee; he pardoned thy Sins beyond all that thou couldeſt imagine, the Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt (as Paul ſaith of his own Converſion) was exceeding abundant to thee; why, as the Apoſtle here, the further he goes on, the more he riſeth in his Expreſſions, from rich in Mercy, to exceeding Riches of Mercy: ſo ſhalt thou find Goodneſs be; the further thou goeſt on, ſtill the more gracious; and thou wilt ſtill find that all God's contrivements and ways towards thee, are but to ſpend ſtill more Riches of Grace upon thee, until he hath exceeded. If he ſhewed rich Mercy in converting thee at firſt; he will ſhew exceeding Riches till he hath done ſaving of thee, he will ſpare no Coſt, no Mercy, to procure all ſorts or any kind of Bleſſings for thee: whatever Riches of Grace he hath, they ſhall all ſerve for the ſaving of thee, until ſuch time as thou ſhalt ſay as the Pſalmiſt doth, The Lord hath dealt bountifully with me, he hath indeed dealt exceeding richly with me. That Grace which ſprung at firſt in thy Converſion, it was a little Spring, but the longer it goes on to Eternity, the more the Banks widen till it grows into a great Sea.

thee,

Now, my Brethren, give me leave to ſpeak a little to the exceeding Riches of Grace that are in God, and that in our Salvation.

The Riches of Mercy and Grace, in reſpect of abundance and variety, I ſhewed you, when I ſhewed you that God was rich in Mercy. But I reſerved then ſomething to ſpeak to this point; namely, the excelling Properties of this Grace, and the excellencies thereof, which the Word [exceeding] hints to me. The Word ὑπερβάλλων, which is here applied unto Riches and which we tranſlate Exceeding, it rather ſignifies ſupereminent, excellent Riches of Grace. Whenever that Word is uſed, it notes the excellency of that thing, in its kind, to which it is applied. You have it applied to his Power, in the 19*th* verſe of the firſt Chapter, ὑπερβάλλων, that is, the ſupereminent Greatneſs of Power that is in him. If it be applied unto Glory (as in Scripture it is) it implies a ſuperexcellent Glory; in 2 Cor. 3. 9. The Glory (ſaith he) περισσεύει that excelleth, it is a Word of Affinity with this. And the Apoſtle ſpeaking of the Love of Chriſt, in the 3*d* Chapter and 19*th* verſe of this Epiſtle, he uſeth the ſame Word, ὑπερβάλλουσαν τῆς γνώσεως ἀγάπην, a Love, ſaith he, which paſſeth Knowledg, which excelleth Knowledg. I ſay, this Word notes out the excellency of every thing in its kind which it is applied unto. Here you ſee it is applied to Riches of Grace. Now then let me ſpeak a little to that.

You ſhall find that the Apoſtle, in 1 Cor. 12. ult. ſpeaking of the Love that Man ought to have to Man, in the laſt verſe of that Chapter, he calls it a more excellent way, καθ' ὑπερβολὴν ὁδὸν, a Word that hath Affinity with this in the Text, a way of an excellency: and then in the 13*th* Chapter, from the 4*th* verſe to the 8*th* you have him reckoning up the excellent Properties of that Love, Charity (ſaith he) ſuffers long, envies not, believes not it ſelf unſeemly, rejoiceth not in Iniquity, beareth all things, believeth all things, &c. You ſee when he would ſet out the excellency of that Love, he doth it by theſe and theſe Qualifications. Now, my Brethren, I ſhall do the like, I ſhall mention ſome two or three of the Properties and Qualifications of Excellencies, of ſupereminent Excellencies that are in the Grace of God, which he manifeſteth in our Salvation, and I will do it briefly; And,

Firſt, They are ſupereminent Riches, in reſpect of the Bounty and Liberality of God, both in giving and forgiving. In 2 Cor. 8. 2. they are called Riches of Liberality: and there are exceeding Riches of Liberality in God, ſeen both in forgiving and alſo in giving, and therein he hath a ſuperexcellent Riches of Grace. And,

1. For Forgiving. I will not inſiſt much upon Mic. 7. 18. Who is a God like unto thee, that pardoneth Iniquity, and paſſeth by the Tranſgreſſion of the Remnant of his Heritage, and that becauſe, he delighteth in Mercy, Mercy pleaſeth him? In Exod. 34. 6, 7. he is ſaid to be The Lord, The Lord God, merciful and gracious, and what follows? Forgiving Iniquity, Tranſgreſſion and Sin. He heaps up Words as Lawyers uſe to do, when they would be ſure to take in all things, and exclude nothing, that there may be no exception; ſo doth the Holy-Ghoſt, he is not content with ſaying, Forgiving Iniquity, but he adds, Tranſgreſſion and Sin alſo. Yea, God therefore to ſhew the ſuperexcellency of his Grace in forgiving, he hath ordered in his Providence, that ſome elect Child of his or other, ſhall fall into all ſort of Sins; there ſhall be found among the Elect all ſorts of Sins, of what Nature and Degree ſoever, ſaving that againſt the Holy-Ghoſt. Every Blaſphemy, every Sin, ſaith our Saviour Chriſt, Mat. 12. ſhall be forgiven; he not only ſaith it may be forgiven, but he expreſly ſaith, it ſhall be forgiven. But I ſay, I will not inſiſt upon the the Riches of his Grace in Forgiving, for that belongs more properly to Mercy.

Serm. XIX.

2. He is as rich, and exceeding rich in giving. 1 Tim. 6. 17. Truſt in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy. The truth is, the Apoſtle ſpeaks there of the common Mercies which the Elect partake of here in the World, and yet he ſaith, He giveth us all things richly. My Brethren, was it not a rich Gift to give the Sun to enlighten this World? what a mighty Gift was it? Was it not a mighty Gift to give this Earth, which is full of ſo much Riches? Go take the common things, which are Pawns to the People of God of what they ſhall have in Heaven, how doth God give all things to them richly? My meaning is, that all thoſe Benefits which poor and rich enjoy, how rich are they? The Apoſtle inſtanceth in them to help their Faith; and know, ſaith he, this God is the living God, and he hath a World of Riches to ſhew you in Ages to come, which there he ſpeaks of afterwards. It is ſaid in Iſa. 32. 8. that the liberal Man deviſeth liberal things. Go take a Man that is of a liberal Heart, and his Wiſdom will be inventing of magnificent Works, and he will conſult with his Power, and with his Riches, what he is able to do, and what he is able to beſtow. But, my Brethren, when the great God, the liberal God, ſhall deviſe liberal things, what great things think you there will then be given? In 1 Chro. 17. 19. ſaith David, According to thine own Heart haſt thou done all this Greatneſs, in making known all theſe great things. David ſpeaks of the Mercies which God vouchſafed to him: O Lord, for thy Servants ſake, ſaith he; ſo we read it: the Septuagint reads it, For thy Word's ſake, namely, Chriſt, and according to thine own Heart. When God means to give, and to ſhew forth his Grace in giving, what doth he conſult withal? He conſults with his Chriſt, and he conſults with his own Heart; and when he gives, he gives like the great God: for ſo it follows there, v. 20. O Lord, there is none like thee, neither is there any God beſides thee. My Brethren, think with your ſelves now, when infinite Wiſdom, that is able to invent and deviſe what is beſt, and to ſtudy liberal things; when that ſhall meet with a Power anſwerable, to do whatſoever it can deviſe; and both theſe ſhall be ſet in a Heart full of all Largeneſs, full of all Bounty and Generoſity, that reſolves to be gracious to the utmoſt of his Wiſdom and Power; what may you expect from ſuch a Heart? Thus it is with God, who is God bleſſed for ever, who is the only Potentate, that hath a Heart to give out of the Riches of his Grace whatſoever he can think of, who is able to do not only above all that we can ask or think, but he is able to do whatſoever he himſelf thinketh and conceiveth, hath a Heart to give according to his own thoughts; ſo ſaith David, when he viewed with the Eye of Faith, the Covenant made with him, and with his Sons.

* Eph. 1. 19. ὑπερβάλλον μέγεθος τῆς δυνάμεως. Eph. 2. 7. τὸν ὑπερβαλλόντα πλοῦτον τῆς χάριτος.

The Apoſtle, you ſee, in the 19*th* Verſe of the firſt Chapter, and in this 7*th* Verſe of this ſecond Chapter, joins two Exceedings* together: the one of his Power, and the other of his Mercy; why? Becauſe whatſoever Power can procure and do, that his Heart, through the exceeding Riches of his Grace, is willing to beſtow. Saith the Pſalmiſt, in Pſal. 84. 11. He will give Grace and Glory, and no good thing will he with-hold. For certain, God knows all the good things that are, he is inured to Bleſſedneſs, the height of it; now he plainly tells us, that he will not with-hold any good thing, or he hath a Heart to beſtow whatſoever is good, to beſtow all the good he can think of. If then there be any thing better than other, you will find that God will beſtow it. Conſider but a little the Riches of his Grace in giving, for that indeed is proper unto Grace.

He hath a Son to give. He deviſeth with himſelf, I will give him, ſaith he, and I will give him in the beſt manner to make a Gift of him, I will give him crucified, I will give him in all the Relations he can bear to you, and I will give him for you beſides. Is not here Riches of Grace? And when you have him, you ſhall have all freely with him; and there are unſearchable Riches given with him, for God's Son muſt needs bring a great Portion. There is one Gift.

He hath a Spirit, and he poureth him forth richly, ſo ſaith the Text in Tit. 3. 6. (for ſo the words are in the Original.) He will not give half Kingdoms, no, he will give whole Kingdoms or none; and he will not give Kingdoms only, but Worlds, and he will give them freely.

He hath a Heaven to beſtow, and he will beſtow it; and that Heaven ſhall be to exhauſt, if it were poſſible, the exceeding Riches of Grace that are in him to Eternity. Serm. XIX.

Secondly; As the Excellency of his Grace is ſhewn thus, both in forgiving and in giving; ſo alſo in this, that he giveth freely every way. And you muſt know that Freeneſs is the ſuper-excellency of Grace, the Freeneſs of Grace is the Riches of Grace. Now his Grace excells in Freeneſs, and that in theſe things,

1. The fewer Motives that there are to move him, the more eminent his Grace is in reſpect of the Freeneſs of it. In 2 Theſſ. 1. 11. all that God doth is ſaid there to be the fulfilling of the good Pleaſure of his Goodneſs; O it is a good Phraſe that. All that he doth for his Children, it is but the fulfilling of his good Pleaſure; he doth but act his own Heart, he doth but pleaſe himſelf in it, he doth but pleaſe his own Goodneſs in it: It is the fulfilling (ſaith he) of the good Pleaſure of his Goodneſs. My Brethren, let me ſay this to you, Mercy and Love may have ſomething to move them, in the things loved, or the things pitied. Theſe things in God, I confeſs, import not any thing in God to move him; but in the Nature of the things themſelves, as amongſt Men, they do. But take Grace, that always imports ſuch a Freedom as is moved with nothing, but it is meerly out of the good pleaſure of ones own Goodneſs; that is properly Grace. For Miſery now will move to Pity, and ſome Good in the Creature may move to Love; but to move to be gracious, and to ſhew Riches of Grace, that denotes and imports meerly the good Pleaſure of his own Will.

Now then, that there are no Motives, that Grace is every way free, do but conſider theſe Particulars.

1. There is no Worth in any that God reſpects, when he ſhews Mercy, when he pitcheth his Favour upon them, In Deut. 9. 4, 5. ſaith he, Speak not thou in thine Heart, after that the Lord thy God hath caſt them out from before thee, ſaying, For my Righteouſneſs the Lord hath brought me in to poſſeſs this Land: But for the Wickedneſs of theſe Nations, the Lord doth drive them out from before thee. Not for thy Righteouſneſs, ſaith he, that is, not for any outward Righteouſneſs; or for the Uprightneſs of thy Heart, that is, for any inward Grace or Holineſs that is in thy ſelf, any habitual Grace, (for under thoſe two he comprehends all that is, or may be ſuppoſed to be in Man); for neither of both theſe doeſt thou go to poſſeſs their Land. The truth is, (ſaith he) that which moveth me to throw them out of the Land, (and all this is ſpoken in a Type) is their Wickedneſs; but on the other ſide, come to thee, and there is nothing of Righteouſneſs in thee, nothing of Worth to move me. My Brethren, that God ſhould be moved to puniſh and condemn Men, and throw them into Hell, as he hath Motives within himſelf, Anger, and Wrath, and Juſtice, and Hatred of Sin; ſo external Motives in the Creature, out of himſelf, to ſtir up theſe. But for his Grace, there is nothing but what is ſolely in Himſelf, that Grace doth terminate it ſelf upon. Hatred in him, hath Sin in us, to terminate it ſelf upon; but Grace hath nothing in the Creature, but meerly that the Creature is, and that is from God, for it was nothing; and when it is, that it is capable of God's Favour, and of being loved; nothing elſe in it. Yea,

2. The Freedom of Grace, and ſo the Excellency of it in that particular, is ſhewn in this, that there is not only no Worthineſs, but nothing but Unworthineſs. You may read ſo in that of Deut. 9. 6. when he had not only ſtripp'd them of all Worth in themſelves, he adds, Thou art a ſtiff-necked People. Mercy, my Brethren, reſpects Miſery properly; but it is Grace only that reſpects Stiff-neckedneſs, Obſtinacy. Why? For what will Mercy ſay? I pity one in Miſery, but as for this Man, he is wilfully miſerable, and the Fault lies in himſelf, and all that I can do will not help him. But now what ſaith Grace? Grace comes with a Sovereignty, and ſaith, Tho he be ſtiff-necked, tho he be obſtinate, yet (as you have it in Iſa. 57. 18.) I have ſeen his Ways, and I will heal him; I ſee he will never be better, I muſt mend him my ſelf. This is the Language of Grace, which ſhews the Freedom, and ſo the Excellency of it. Yea,

Serm. XIX.

3. The Excellency of Grace appears in this, that it doth subdue, and it shews Favour notwithstanding all abuses of Favour and of Mercy whatsoever. As God is said to be kind unto the Evil and Unthankful, so he is said to be gracious even unto them that abuse his Grace: and herein lies the superexcellency of his Grace. In 2 Sam. 12. 8. when David had run into those great Sins of Murther and Adultery, what saith God to him? I gave thee thy Masters House, and thy Masters Wives into thy Bosom, and I gave thee the House of Israel and of Judah, and if that had been too little, I would moreover have given thee such and such things. Wherefore hast thou despised the Commandment of the Lord? why hast thou despised my Favour, and abused the Mercy and Grace I have shewn thee? And yet for all this, ver. 13. The Lord hath put away thy Sin. Here is exceeding Riches of Grace, that even pardoneth turning of Grace it self into Wantonness. When God's Heart is wounded, broken with unkindness, yet he healeth such a Soul; this is a superexcellecy in Grace. If you will take it in the importance of it, it is a Strain beyond Mercy, it is Grace, it is the exceeding Riches of Grace. Again,

4. The excellency of his Grace lies not only in forgiving, and in giving, and in the freeness of both, but in a condescending also to the neareſt and most intimate Relations, and Unions, and Fellowship, with those whom he hath set himself to love. Were not this supereminent Grace in a King, that not only forgives Murther and Treason, yea Obstinacy, Abuses of Pardon, and Grace it self, and not only gives Gifts to the half, to the whole of his Kingdom; but more than all this takes up him whom he thus favours into the most intimate Familiarity and Friendship, into his Bosom, into all sorts of Relation? God doth so. And this Favour my Brethren is more than all he giveth, or than all he forgiveth, that he is pleased over and above all, to become a Father, and a Husband, and a Friend, and a Brother, and infinitely more transcendently than these Relations are found to be amongst Men. This is Riches of Grace indeed. When Saul had advanced David to be his Son-in-Law, to have that neer Relation to him; David accounted it more than all the rest of the Favours shewn him. Now, we have Fellowship and Communion with God, under all Relations whatsoever. Our Fellowship, saith the Apostle, is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ, 1 Joh. 1. 3. and therefore saith he, chap. 3. ver. 1. Behold what manner of Love, the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the Sons of God; to have so near a Relation to him. This is exceeding Riches of Grace, this is more than Heaven it self, my Brethren.

Lastly, The Grace of God is so eminent and superexcellent, that it contents not it self in giving and in forgiving, in entring into all these Relations, and to do all these freely too: But it will be at the Cost, at an extraordinary Cost to purchase all that which it means to give, and which it might give without that Purchase. This is a strain and the highest strain that can be thought of supereminent and superexcellent Grace; meerly because he would shew forth the supereminent and superexcellent Grace. When Araunah did offer unto David Oxen and Sheep to sacrifice, in 2 Sam. 24. 24. Saith David, Nay, But I will surely buy it of thee at a price, neither will I offer Burnt-Offerings unto the Lord my God of that which doth cost me nothing. He spake this, because he knew, that would be more accepted by God to make it a free-will-Offering, not to offer that which was given him, but which he must pay for. So it is with God, saith God with himself, I could have saved these Men, and brought them to Heaven, I could have entred into all these Relations, I could have given them my Son to become a Redeemer, and a Head for them, and so I might have become their Father; I could have given them my Spirit, and have given them Grace and Glory, I could have done all this immediately without any Cost. No, saith he, I will be at a price, I will not shew Favour unto these Men, out of that which shall cost me nothing. He would needs give his Son to Death to purchase all that which Grace it self could have bestowed, and bestowed without the Death of his Son. And this he did meerly, that he might shew forth the more Grace; why? Because it is his own proper Cost and Charges he doth it at: and he triumpheth more that the Grace he bestoweth cost him thus much, than in the Gifts themselves, which he casteth out of Favour upon the Creature. God did think it too little to give these things immediately. As when he would humble the Creature, to have the Creatures humbled simply as Creatures, in that Consideration, in the diſproportion between them and him; the Creature was not low enough, he would permit them to be Sinners alſo, he would have them laid as low as Hell, put their Mouths in the Duſt. So when he would advance Grace, to ſhew Grace and Favour immediately, and to give ſo out of Grace as that it ſhould coſt him nothing, this was not to ſhew Grace enough; no, his Grace muſt be ſupereminent Grace, it muſt needs have a deep die, an higher ſtrain. It was a ſmall matter for him to give Grace and Glory to us as unto the Angels; he muſt be at Coſt to purchaſe it, and purchaſe it at the higheſt Rate, by that which is deareſt unto him, even his Son. He is not only contented that he beſtows on us all things for nothing, but he will not do it ſimply for nothing in himſelf, he will have his Sons Blood for it. The Death of Jeſus Chriſt is ſo far from derogating from Grace, or that God hath received a Price, that becauſe it is his own Price, and he himſelf ſet the Price, and he would be at the Coſt, and he would have his Son die in Obedience to him, that here comes the Huperballon, the Exceeding Riches of it: It is Grace died in Grain, Grace died in Grain, if I may ſo expreſs it, Grace died in the Blood of Chriſt. And the Truth is, if I ſhould ſpeak of it never ſo largely, I could ſay no more to commend the ſupereminent Riches; the Huperballon, the exceeding Riches of this his Grace, than to take it in the ſuperexcellency of it, as conſidered as Grace. I may truly ſay of it, even as David ſaith, when he ſtands admiring at the Grace of God towards him, in that place of Samuel I quoted even now, What can thy Servant ſay more? Indeed there is but this more to be ſaid, that there is an Eternity of time, and the Riches of his Grace doth require that Eternity of time, to exhauſt theſe Riches of Grace laid up in him, and to ſpend them in. Serm. XIX.

the

The fifth Obſervation that I make out of this firſt Interpretation is this:

That all the good that God beſtows and bears us, though he aimeth at the Glory of his own Grace, yet it is in Kindneſs towards us. My Brethren, mark what I ſhall ſay unto you. The Lord requires that you ſhould love him, in a proportionable way, as he hath loved you, and loved himſelf in loving you: therefore do but ſee the Reaſon, how juſt it is that you ſhould ſet up God above all; for mark the Analogy, when God requires you ſhould love him, and love him above your ſelves, yet he ſo orders it, that you have the greateſt Self-love that you can bear to your ſelves, whilſt you do love him, and love him above your ſelves. You could never be Happy, if that your Happineſs lay not in this, to love God, and ſo to delight in his Happineſs more than your own: Now though God requires that you ſhould love him above your ſelves, yet he doth allow you in the uttermoſt Latitude, to love your ſelves alſo: And all the Motives, all the Ends the Scripture runs upon, they run upon Self-love. He would have you ſo in your Hearts advance the Riches of his Grace, as ſtill to be kind to your ſelves. So now, when God did ſeek his own Glory, what doth he do? It's true as he would have your Love above your ſelves, ſo he did aim at Himſelf above your Salvation; the chief thing here is to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace; but yet ſo, as it is in Kindneſs towards you; To ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, ſaith he, in his Kindneſs towards us. And look as he alloweth us to love our ſelves in a ſubordination to loving of Himſelf; ſo He, in plotting our Salvation, had a ſubordinate proportionable Love unto us concurring in his Heart with aiming at his own Glory. To ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in his Kindneſs towards us, ſaith the Text. Obſerv. 5.

The ſixth Obſervation, I make out of this Interpretation, is this.

That the ſhewing forth the Riches of his Grace unto any Soul, is ſo glorious a thing, as it deſerves to be remembred to all Ages, by the Parties themſelves and others: That he might ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace, ſaith he, in the Ages to come. The Lord (ſaith the Pſalmiſt, in Pſal. 111. 4.) hath made all his Works to be remembred, eſpecially his Works of Grace; for ſo it follows in the next Words, The Lord is gracious and full of Compaſſion. Wherefore Remember and forget not, ſaith Moſes, having ſpoken of the Grace of God, in Deut. 9. 7. If God had ſaved but one Man to praiſe him for that Grace and Riches of Grace ſhewn in that one Man's Salvation, it had been worthy to have taken up the Tongues of Men and Angels Obſerv. 6.

Serm. XIX.

to Eternity. That he might shew forth the Riches of his Grace, in the Ages to come. And because that the Ages to come of this World are not sufficient to magnify his Grace unto Men, therefore Jesus Christ will come on purpose, when he will break up and tell the Story of free-Grace, as he will at the latter day: And as he will come to convince all that are Ungodly of their ungodly Deeds, which they have ungodlily committed, as Jude saith; so he will come as to tell the Story of your Sinfulness, so to lay open the Riches of his Grace in pardoning. It is the great Work which Christ will do then; and all the Grace which God shews Men here, is, that in those Ages to come there may be matter laid up to magnify that Grace when our Lord shall come. When God did cast off Pharaoh, the Text saith in Rom. 9. 17. that it was, that his Name might be declared throughout all the Earth; So now, God saved those primitive Christians, Paul and the rest of them, that all Ages might ring of the exceeding Riches of his Grace towards them; Grace deserveth to be so much celebrated there. The whole Earth, saith he, shall be filled with his Glory, speaking of the Kingdom of Christ, and the Conversion of the Gentiles to it, in Psal. 72. 19.

Lastly, Here is [in Christ Jesus] added; for all God's Kindness, and all his Grace towards us, it is in Christ. It is an infinite magnifying of the Lord Jesus, that he alone being in Heaven, is able enough and worthy enough to take into his Possession all the Glory, and all the Grace that ever God means to bestow upon his Children. He hath done it, my Brethren. Had not he been a Person answerably Glorious, we could not have been said, To sit in Heavenly Places in Christ Jesus, or, That the Riches of his Grace should be shewn in his Kindness towards us in him: But so great a Person is Jesus Christ, God and Man, that look as the Sun, if there were ten hundred thousand Stars more to be created, and the Heavens to be filled with them all, there is Light enough in the Sun to enlighten them all; so there is in Christ. And therefore, my Brethren, never think to set up without this Lord Jesus Christ. Do not think that he only serveth to bring you unto God, and there to leave you; No, he will never leave you to Eternity. All the Kindness that God shews you to Eternity, it is in Christ Jesus.

SERM.

Serm. XX.

SERMON XX.

EPHES. 2. 7.

That in the Ages to come, he might ſhew the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in his kindneſs towards us in Chriſt Jeſus.

WHen I diſcerned, that theſe Words were the Concluſion of that large and long continued Diſcourſe about Man's Salvation, firſt and laſt, which the Apoſtle had begun at the 18*th* Verſe of the firſt Chapter, and continued until now; and that the Scope in theſe Words was, to hold forth God's great Deſign therein: I concluded with my ſelf this, That theſe Words muſt neceſſarily have the moſt vaſt and comprehenſive Sence, ſeeing into them all the parts of the foregoing Diſcourſe, as ſo many Rivulets, fall and determine, as into a great Sea. Now to ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of Grace, that that ſhould be God's deſign, is univerſally acknowledged, and the Words themſelves do hold it forth. But then this Deſign of God's, to ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, is ſaid by Interpreters, to look three ſeveral ways.

Firſt; Immediatly to God himſelf, and to hold forth his utmoſt End, as it relates to himſelf and his own Glory, namely, to ſet forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace in Man's Salvation; and that unlimitedly and generally, only exemplified in his Kindneſs towards theſe Epheſians; the Glory of his Grace, and Riches of his Grace to be ſuch, as is worthy in all Ages to be celebrated: Even as in the firſt Chapter, the Apoſtle had made the End, and the Burthen of all in our Salvation, to be to the Praiſe of his Glory, and, to the Glory of his Grace, as you often read it there.

Secondly; This Deſign of God to magnify his Grace, is ſaid to have a reſpect to all Mankind in future Ages, both of Jews and Gentiles, that God having ſhewn ſo much Mercy, and ſo much Grace, and ſo much Kindneſs to theſe Epheſians, in converting them, whenas they lay in that miſerable and inextricable Condition with the reſt of the World, his ſaving ſuch as theſe with ſo great a Salvation, it is a Pattern and an Example, (as the words, to ſhew forth, oftentimes ſignifie) what a Treaſury of rich Grace God had to beſtow upon After-Ages, which then he did begin to break up, and to give example of in theſe Primitive Converts.

Thirdly; It is alſo ſaid, that the Deſign of God's ſhewing forth his Grace here in the Text, doth reſpect theſe Epheſians, and Primitive Chriſtians themſelves, to have been added to raiſe up their Expectations, by what God had already done for them in themſelves: He had quickned them when they were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, together with Chriſt; and what he had done for them in their Head Chriſt, he had in him raiſed them, and ſet them together in heavenly Places, as the words before are: That ſo by this their Expectations might be raiſed, what an exceeding Riches of Grace God had yet to be ſhewn to all Eternity, that is, in all Ages to come, in the World to come. So that the Accompliſhment of our Salvation in Heaven, and after the Day of Judgment, (whereto the Words before are but a Preparation, and a Foundation,) is the meaning of theſe Words.

I ſhall give you in a word, the Differences of all theſe Sences, and compare them one with another.

The

Serm. XX.

The firſt Sence makes the Deſign to reſpect immediatly the Glory of God, to have a reſpect to him in all that he hath done about our Salvation, to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace.

The ſecond makes the Words to be intended for the Comfort of future Ages, in the Mercy ſhewn to theſe.

The third, to be intended for the further perſonal Comfort of theſe Believers, by what God had done already, from thence to collect what infinite Riches of Mercy they were to expect in the World to come.

The firſt Sence makes the Words to be a doctrinal Concluſion, holding forth God's whole and utmoſt Deſign and Contrivement about Man's Salvation, worthy to be celebrated in all Ages.

The ſecond makes the Words to be as it were a Note of Encouragement, brought in by the way, as an Inference, for the Comfort of us that were to come and live after, that we may gather from his dealing with theſe Epheſians. And,

The third, doth make them an Uſe of Application, (if I may ſo ſpeak) and to be a further Enlargement upon what he had ſaid of our Salvation already, in the words before, of what great things afterwards were to be expected.

I have gone over all the Words, and ſhewn you, how that the Coherence of the Words before, and all the Words in the Text, will naturally and genuinely give themſelves up to every one of theſe Sences: So as indeed theſe Words being the Concluſion of the whole, I ſhall be exceeding loth to exclude any of them, if the one may conſiſt with the other, as knowing by much experience, how that the Scriptures have a various and comprehenſive meaning.

But if you ask me now, Which of all theſe Sences I do in the firſt place refer to?

I anſwer, clearly the firſt Sence of all the reſt, namely, That in theſe Words is intended God's Deſign, as it immediatly reſpects the ſhewing forth, or making known (which is all one, as Rollock well obſerveth) the Glory of his Grace. And my Reaſons are theſe:

Firſt; Becauſe it is the moſt unlimited Sence, and the moſt general.

Secondly; Becauſe it is evident, his Scope is to ſet forth the final Cauſe of Man's Salvation, and that in the Heart of God. It is therefore to be preferred before the other two; for the ſecond Sence doth not make immediatly God's Glory to be the thing here ſo much ſhewn forth, as to be a Note of Encouragement to after Ages, that God would ſhew them the like Grace. And the third Sence doth not make it ſo much the final Cauſe in the Heart of God, as the Event, the Iſſue, the Upſhot, the Concluſion of all that God pitched upon, the ſhewing forth of the Riches of his Grace. And then again, the two latter are more narrow and limited: the one is limited to the Comfort of Poſterity; the other, to the Comfort of theſe Epheſians, in the Accompliſhment of their Salvation in Heaven. But the firſt, which reſpects immediatly the Glory of God's free Grace, is general, it is univerſal, it is the whole adequate End of all Mens Salvation, and of all the parts of it whatſoever.

If you ask me, Which of the two latter I prefer?

I anſwer, the third. I ſhewed you, in the firſt Sermon I made upon theſe Words, my Reaſons that this Interpretation was natural and genuine, viz. To interpret it of the Manifeſtation of the Riches of God's Grace in the World to come. Now I ſhall give you my Reaſons, why I prefer that rather than the ſecond, which would make the Words to refer only to an Encouragement to Poſterity, that God in Ages to come would ſhew the like Grace that he had done to theſe Epheſians. And my Reaſons are theſe:

Firſt;

First; Becauſe if that ſecond Sence ſhould be the only or the chief Meaning, the Words come in but as a Parentheſis, or Note of Inference by the by; they come in but as an Uſe of Encouragement, from the former Narration of what God had done for theſe Epheſians. But if the Apoſtle ſhould go on here ſtill, to comfort the Epheſians themſelves, and in them all Believers, with what great things in Heaven they are to expect, the Riches of his Grace to be manifeſted there, by what he had ſhewn already; ſo the Words come in more directly, they do not come in by the by, but more homogeneal, and in the way of a continued Diſcourſe made to the ſame Perſons, (ſo the former words were) and concerning them alſo.

And then again, I prefer this third Sence to the ſecond, becauſe his Scope is to ſet out the final Aim of God in Man's Salvation, (as the words [That he may ſhew] do import) and the Greatneſs of Man's Salvation in Heaven, on which God will expend ſuch Riches of Grace, being the ultimate Iſſue and Crown of all in God's Intentions. Therefore, I ſay, this ſhould be rather intended and held forth.

Thirdly; His Scope would ſeem to be rather to magnify the thing, namely, Salvation it-ſelf, (which he is ſpeaking of) and the Greatneſs thereof, which God had deſigned us in the World to come, which ſhould hold a proportion with thoſe exceeding Riches of Grace which we had in this World, whereof God had given aſſurance in Chriſt, both at his Reſurrection, and ſitting in Glory, as the words before ſhew. And this is rather the meaning, than meerly to ſhew by the by, that God would ſhew the like Riches of Grace to others in time to come. My Brethren, methinks when I look upon that Interpretation only, it falls too low, and too flat, in compariſon of the other two, to come in to the end of a Diſcourſe, which had contained the greateſt things that the Goſpel doth afford, about the Salvation of Man; it would rather ſeem therefore to heighten the Greatneſs of Salvation it ſelf.

Fourthly; That God would ſhew the like Riches of Grace unto all Believers and others, is ſufficiently implied in what he had done to theſe Epheſians, and it might be ſuppoſed: For theſe Epheſians, they are made the Standard of all Mankind, for their natural Miſery and Condition, in v. 1, 2, 3. and ſo for their Salvation in theſe. And therefore, altho their Example had not been propounded in a ſet way to confirm this to us, yet it is implied in the thing it ſelf.

I have gone over, I ſay, all theſe Sences, and I have ſhewn you, that they are all in themſelves ſuch, as both fully ſtand with the Coherence, and do fully ſtand with theſe Words which are here in this Verſe; and I have interpreted every Word in the Verſe to each of all theſe Sences. For my part, I plainly and truly conceive, (to deliver my own Opinion of this and many other Scriptures) that the Holy-Ghoſt hath a comprehenſive meaning, and he hath penn'd the Words on purpoſe that all theſe might be taken in. If he had left out theſe words, [In Ages to come] the truth is, then the Words had plainly referred to the Glory of God, ſimply the ſhewing forth of the Glory of his Grace; but putting in that, and [in his Kindneſs towards us,] it makes the Words to incline and to lean to this meaning, that he intends the Comfort of Poſterity. And how it ſuiteth alſo with the Perfection of Salvation, which he means to beſtow in Heaven, I ſhewed you in a whole Sermon at large. I have weighed every thing to the full, and I find nothing in the one Sence that will exclude the other, or in the Words, that all theſe may not ſtand together. Unto all theſe three Sences I ſhall now ſpend this Diſcourſe, in giving you Obſervations thereupon, a Story of Obſervations. I gave you Obſervations upon the firſt Sence in the laſt Diſcourſe, and I ſhall now give you ſuch Obſervations as do give themſelves up to the other two, which (for my part I think) are but two ſeveral degrees of Accompliſhment of the Demonſtration of Grace: the one here, to Millions of Elect in after Ages, whilſt this Life laſts; and the other to all his Children, to break open a new Treaſury of Grace in the World to come, and the one to ſucced the other: even as you ſhall find many Prophecies in the Old Teſtament, and in the Revelations alſo, to have ſeveral Accompliſhments.

Now

Serm. XX.

Now then to begin with that ſecond Sence, namely, That God had pull'd theſe Epheſians, and thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, out of that Condition of Miſery wherein they lay by Nature, and had quickned them, and ſet them in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus, that they might be Examples, holding forth what Riches of Grace God under the Goſpel had begun to break up, and would ſhew to after Ages. The Obſervations that do ariſe from this Sence, as I have opened it to you, are theſe:

Obſerv. 1. Firſt; That God doth give Examples of his Grace and Mercy in others, to help our Faith. God doth bleſs the Conſideration of what Mercy he hath ſhewn to others, for the helping forward, if not the begetting of Faith in us. There are Promiſes of Grace, and there are Examples and Patterns of Grace; and the Examples, they confirm thoſe Promiſes. That God hath Riches of Mercy in his own Nature, there is one Foundation of our Faith; that he hath made large Promiſes of Mercy and Grace to Sinners indefinitely, and ſo put forth thoſe Riches out of himſelf, there is another Confirmation and Ground of our Faith. And thirdly, that he hath ſhewn Riches of Grace to others, that have been as bad as we. Look now, as Examples uſe to confirm Rules, ſo do Examples of Mercy confirm our Faith in Promiſes: That he may ſhew forth, ſaith he, ſhew forth as in an Example, as I ſhewed you in opening 1 Tim. 1. 15, This is a faithful Saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Chriſt came into the World to ſave Sinners; there is his Rule: Of whom I am chief; there is his Example: And for this cauſe I obtained Mercy, that in me he might ſhew forth (as in a Pattern) all Long-ſuffering unto others, which ſhould hereafter believe on him to everlaſting Life.

Obſerv. 2. Secondly; It affords this Obſervation alſo: That the Primitive Chriſtians, were intended as Patterns of Grace to us. He had ſhewn this Mercy to theſe Epheſians, that he might ſhew forth in them the Riches of his Grace to all Poſterity afterwards. God did ſet them up as the great Lights which after Ages ſhould not exceed; they were the Firſt-fruits, and after Ages ſhould not exceed them, but be like to them. And therefore, you ſee, the Apoſtles called upon Chriſtians then, to be Followers of them; and ſo thoſe that were firſt converted, others were the Followers of them: In 1 Theſſ. 1. 7. You were Enſamples to all that believe, in Macedonia and Achaia. Thoſe firſt Chriſtians, God poured forth abundantly the Riches of his Grace upon them, and ſet them up as Lights to all after Ages. And therefore, my Brethren, let me exhort you to this: Read the Story of the Life of Religion and Chriſtianity in thoſe Primitive Saints, read the Epiſtles of the Apoſtles written to them; and there is nothing more effectual, or more powerful to quicken your Hearts in Holineſs than that. Sit down, and view their Graces, and thoſe Sparkles of Light and Holineſs, which break forth of their Writings, and of their Examples, for God intended them as Patterns unto us. But then, Obſerv. 3. Thirdly; God did not intend them only barely as Examples or Patterns, but as Pawns and Pledges, that he would go on as he had begun, in after Ages, to pour forth the Riches of his Grace. Paul's Converſion was not only an Example, but it was a Pawn, and a Pledg, as he hath it in that 1 Tim. 1. 16. And ſo is their Converſion made here.

Now from hence, that it is not only a Pattern, but a Pawn and a Pledg, you may raiſe theſe Meditations to your Selves: Viz.

Firſt; That the Scriptures of the New Teſtament, they are to continue in all Ages, to the end of the World, and to be read and minded by Chriſtians: for how ſhall God's making theſe Epheſians, and thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, Examples of his Grace, and Pawns and Pledges of it, be apprehended to the Comfort of Poſterity, unleſs that the Epiſtles themſelves, and the Story of theſe Chriſtians, ſhould continue, and be read, to the end of the World. It is evident, (I ſpeak it to thoſe that wickedly deny theſe Truths, and make them but as other common Writings, that we ſee are loſt in the vaſt Gulf of Time); it is evident, I ſay, that before a word of this New Teſtament was written, Chriſt meant it ſhould be written; for ſaith he in Mat. 26. 13. Whereſoever this Goſpel ſhall be preached in the whole World, there ſhall alſo this that this Woman hath done be told for a Memorial of her; and the Evangeliſts wrote not of a long while after. Saith Paul, in his Epiſtle to Timothy, 1 Tim. 6. 13, 14. I charge thee, that this Commandment be kept, until the appearing of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. If the Epiſtle ſhould not have continued, how could this Commandment thus charged, not upon Timothy perſonally only, but upon all Saints, and Churches, and Miniſters, to the end of the World, how could this be kept? And ſo likewiſe here, how could the Converſion of theſe Primitive Chriſtians, yea, of theſe Epheſians, be intended by God, (as the Apoſtle here writes of them to be) as Examples and Pledges of his Grace to after Ages, if that this Epiſtle was not ordained by God, to be continued, and to be read, in all Ages, throughout the Chriſtian World, as indeed it is. Serm. XX.

Secondly; It is not only what ſhould be preached in all Ages, but the Words hold forth a Promiſe, that God would do the like. It is not only what we may comfortably ask at God's hands, becauſe he hath ſhewed the like Mercy in thoſe Primitive Times; but it holds forth what we may confidently expect from him. The Converſion of thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, they were to God as the Waters of Noah, as he himſelf ſpeaks in the Prophet, that he would convert of their Poſterity, as we ſee he hath done; for the Chriſtian Religion hath generally held its Intereſt, tho with much Corruption, yet in the Fundamentals, throughout the Chriſtian World to this Day; and where Jeſus Chriſt did ſet in a foot for his Kingdom, he hath kept that footing even till now. They have had, and might have thoſe, that have and do tyrannize over them, as the Grecian Chriſtians are by the Turks; but they remain Chriſtians ſtill, and even amongſt thoſe Grecians the Fundamentals of Chriſtianity are ſtill profeſs'd. It was not only, I ſay, what ſhould be preached, but what God would do, which is exceeding comfortable to us. Therefore thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, they were called the Firſt-fruits, as we read of the Firſt-fruits of Achaia; and in the firſt Chapter of this Epiſtle, v. 12. there is mention made of Us who firſt truſted in Chriſt.

Fourthly; Let us conſider, as a fourth Head of Obſervations out of theſe Words, wherein the Primitive Chriſtians are Patterns unto us, and that for our Comforts.

1. They are Patterns to us in reſpect of their natural Condition. The Apoſtle had ſaid, they were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, that they were Children of Wrath, that they were Slaves of Satan: So Men in after Ages ſhould be, and yet notwithſtanding ſhall be pull'd out of that Condition, and quickned together with Chriſt. I was a Blaſphemer, ſaith Paul, but the Grace of God abounded in me, as a Pattern of Long-ſuffering; ſo the word is in 1 Tim. 1. 16. It had not been a Pattern of Long-ſuffering, if he had not continued in that Eſtate, as many of God's Elect do. Here is our Comfort. And it may ſpeak likewiſe a Word of Encouragement, to thoſe that apprehend their natural Condition; all theſe Epheſians, they are Patterns unto thee even in that, and of God's dealing with them. The moſt in Heaven were once as bad as thou art, they needed as much Grace to ſave them as thou doſt, and thou needeſt no more than they; the ſame ſort of Chriſtians that were then are now: Not many wiſe, but the fooliſh, and poor of the World, God choſe then; ſo he doth now, he keeps to his Pattern. πρὸς ὑπο-τύπωσιν.

2. They are Patterns of the like Grace. Whatever might advance the Riches of God's Grace, therein they were Patterns unto us.

3. They are Patterns of the ſame Grace, for Sanctification, and Pardoning, and all thoſe Privileges. We receive like precious Faith with all thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, yea, with the Apoſtles themſelves; ſo Peter ſaith, 2 Pet. 1. 1. We have the ſame, or may have and obtain the ſame Fellowſhip with the Father, and with the Son, which thoſe Primitive Chriſtians, and the Apoſtles themſelves likewiſe had. So you have it in 1 John 1. 3. That which we have ſeen and heard declare we unto you, that ye alſo may have fellowſhip with us; and truly our Fellowſhip is with the Father, and with his Son Jeſus Chriſt. In Acts 15. Peter ſpeaking in reference to them that were ſaved in former Ages, ſaith, We believe that we ſhall be ſaved by the Grace of God, even as they. And ſo likewiſe we, even in theſe Ages, we believe we ſhall be ſaved by the Grace of God even as they. It is ſaid even of the Apoſtles themſelves, in Rom. 8. that they received the firſt Fruits of the Spirit.

Serm. XX.

Yea let me add this to it, which is exceeding conſiderable; and it is the Obſervation of one of the beſt Commentators, Muſculus: Wherein (ſaith he) are theſe Epheſians, and Primitive Chriſtians Patterns? Why of the exceeding Riches of the Grace of God in the matter of Salvation: in being quickned, in being converted, in having the ſame Faith wrought in us, in having the ſame Priviledges, that we ſhall be raiſed up together with Chriſt, and ſit together in heavenly places with him. But he doth not ſay they are Patterns for their Gifts in all things. It is for the exceeding Riches of Grace, that concerneth Salvation, my Brethren, that theſe Chriſtians are here held forth as Patterns to us. And the reaſon is clearly this, Becauſe, that what concerns Salvation is Subſtantial, and all muſt come to the ſame Union of the Faith of the Son of God; as the Apoſtle ſaith, Eph. 4. And he hath therefore given Paſtors and Teachers in all Ages, and he hath kept his Promiſe; for the Paſtors and Teachers in all Ages, have kept the Saints to the Fundamentals of Faith generally. But if the Promiſe of the ſame extraordinary Gifts which the Apoſtles had, as the Gift of Miracles and the like, which you have reckoned up, in 1 Cor. 12. had been to all Ages, certainly God would have given Men in ſome Age or other Faith to have believed it; for God never gave a Promiſe Ordinary (that is, a Promiſe that ſhould always continue) but he gave Faith Ordinary. If therefore he had intended the beſtowing of thoſe Gifts, and the Promiſe of them for all Ages to come, he would have given Faith to ſome or other. Where is this Faith of Miracles? or who hath it? or who works them by virtue of that Faith? upon whom is the Gift of Tongues? and where are the ſigns of Apoſtles as were then? No, my Brethren, it is for Graces, it is for the ſubſtantial Priviledges of Salvation, herein they are Patterns indeed; That he might ſhew forth in Ages to come, the exceeding Riches of his Grace, as the Words are. And let me add this Notion; that it is evident theſe extraordinary Gifts, they were given for Teſtimonies to ſettle the Goſpel at firſt; the Apoſtle in Heb. 2. 3. clearly ſaith, that thus in the beginning of the Goſpel God did confirm it, At firſt, ſaith he, it began to be ſpoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him; God alſo bearing them Witneſs, both with Signs and Wonders, and with divers Miracles and Gifts of the Holy-Ghoſt according to his own Will. But now thus much common Education doth do in the Chriſtian World, and in the Church of Chriſt where Religion is profeſſed; for Miracles then what did they ſerve for? Not to beget a true Faith, for that was the Word that was the Promiſe. I ſay they ſerved not to beget a true Faith, that is a ſaving and juſtifying Faith, but to make Men to attend to that Word and to receive it, as that which might have Truth in it. Now I ſay, common Education ſerves ſo far, it ſtands now inſtead of what Miracles and extraordinary Gifts did then.

Fifthly, Another Meditation that ariſeth from the Interpretation of the Words in this Sence, is this: You ſee the Apoſtle makes theſe Epheſians and other Primitive Chriſtians, to be Patterns to all Ages to come. How comfortable is it to ſee how God hath fulfilled this Promiſe. I confeſs this, that the reading of the Writings of Men in all Ages, hath always fill'd my Heart with this Comfort, that not only I ſee that God in all Ages hath kept the Fundamentals of Chriſtianity that ſhould ſave Men, but that in all Ages he hath ſtill had a handful, who have profeſſed his Truth and held forth his Name, and have cleaved to the Doctrine of Free-Grace. We ſee, my Brethren, how this Promiſe hath been fulfilled; and in our Age now we ſee the virtue of this very Promiſe and Prophecy, which the Apoſtle here gives, in the Preaching of the Goſpel and ſhining forth thereof from under the darkneſs of Popery, which had mingled with the Grace of God, abundance of Corruption, even well nigh to the overthrowing of it; I mean ſo to overthrow it as Men ſhould not have been ſaved, but that God did preſerve ſo much Truth as might ſave them; even under thoſe corrupt Opinions whilſt not held againſt Light. We that live now in the 1600 years, or 1500 years after Chriſt, (as thoſe that firſt began to Preach the Goſpel with more clearneſs did) ſee this very Promiſe and Prophecy here fulfilled; God engaged Himſelf that in the Ages to come the Riches of Free-Grace ſhould be laid open, and ſo he hath performed it.

that

And to our Comfort we ſee wherein the Main of Reformation lies; it lies in opening the Doctrine of the Subſtantials of Salvation, concerning the Eſtate of Man by Nature, the Work of Converſion, the Priviledges we have in Chriſt; it lies in clearing the Doctrine of Free-Grace, and the way of Faith which lays hold upon it, By Grace ye are ſaved, through Faith, as it follows afterwards. We ſee the Truth of this Prophecy, riſeth up more and more to the view, in the latter Ages of the World, and we enjoy the Fruit of it more clearly and fully than our fore-Fathers did; and God will never leave till he hath brought his Saints and Children to that firſt Pattern, to that Doctrine of Grace in the Purity and Perfection of it, which was then taught.

You ſee likewiſe, wherein the Riches of the Goſpel lies; it lies in the Doctrine of Free-Grace, and therefore thoſe that firſt preached it were called Evangelici, Goſpellers, and their Preaching was called a New Goſpel; becauſe they did but begin to ſever the Grace of God, from what was in Man in point of Salvation, which was abuſed by thoſe blind Guides that led the Blind in thoſe former Ages. And, my Brethren, know this, that by virtue of this Prophecy, the Doctrine of Free-Grace having begun to be cleared, and ſhining ſo abundantly upon us, it ſhall be cleared every day more and more to the end of the World; and as the Apoſtle ſaith, in Rom. 11. If the cutting off of the Jews be the Riches of the World, what ſhall their reſtoring again be? The Doctrine of Free-Grace hath in all Ages been opened and ſtill cleared, and cleared more in theſe latter days than (as we find by the Writings of Men) it was in former Ages: And in the latter days it ſhall clear up more and more; the nearer we come to the Kingdom of Glory, the more bright will the Kingdom of Grace ſhine. For Antichriſt himſelf ſhall be deſtroyed by the brightneſs of the coming of Chriſt in the revelation of the Goſpel of him. God began ſparingly in the World, and there was little of Free-Grace taught, it was vail'd, and under Types and Ceremonies in the Old Teſtament, and before Moſes; and it was called the Law of Moſes. That Age of the World, may rather be ſaid to be under the Law of Nature, than under the Law of Grace; and Chriſt ſaith, the Law and the Prophets were until John, but now the Goſpel is taught. God I ſay, began ſparingly, but he reſerved to the Ages to come the breaking open of the exceeding Riches of his Grace: as now he hath Multitudes of Elect, a Catholick Church, and Saints over the Chriſtian World, and hath had in all Ages, ſo he alſo breaks up the Doctrine of Free-Grace more in their Hearts.

Sixthly, Hath God engaged Himſelf thus, when he converted theſe Primitive Chriſtians, to ſhew like Riches of Grace, exceeding Riches of Grace, not to that Age only but to all Ages to come, and ſtill to the latter Ages more than to the former: then let this help your Faith, and that in reſpect of your ſelves. Did God ſhew Grace to thee when he firſt turned thee to him, did he pardon thee then the Sins of thy Age paſt, out of the exceeding Riches of his Grace? He will continue, fear not, to ſhew Mercy, and to continue his Grace in pardoning and keeping of thee for the reſidue of the Age thou art to live. Thou ſeeſt he hath done it unto Ages paſt, and hath promiſed to do it unto the Ages to come to the end of the World. God is as rich as ever; and as the Sun that hath ſhined theſe five thouſand years and upwards, hath as much Light in it now as ever; ſo hath God of Grace and Mercy in him. Can God ſhew ſuch Mercy to the World that is Evil and Unthankful, to the World that hath perſecuted his Saints and Children in all Ages, that he ſtill continueth to ſhew forth his Grace Age after Age, as he doth, and cannot he ſhew Mercy to thee for thy little ſpan of time, having ſhewn thee ſo much Mercy already? Certainly he will go on to do it, for he hath Exceeding Riches of Grace for Ages to come, ſo ſaith the Apoſtle here.

Laſtly, I ſhall only add this Meditation, out of theſe Words interpreted in this ſecond Sence. When all theſe Ages to come, that is, to the World's end, ſhall be all run out; O my Brethren, at the latter Day, what an infinite Riches of

Serm. XX.

Grace will appear that God had in him, which had ſaved Men in all Ages! When all Men ſhall meet together, when all the accounts and reckonings of the World ſhall be given up, what a great expence will there be found that God hath been at, that in all Ages he hath taken in ſo many and ſaved them; ſome as bad as theſe Epheſians were! And let the Conſideration of that help thy Faith. If thou wert at the Day of Judgment, and ſaweſt all the Saints brought together before God, and all ſaying, We have committed theſe and theſe Sins, and God hath pardoned us, and pardoned us all (for that will be the Concluſion of the Accounts of the World) when thou ſhalt ſee ſuch Riches of Grace ſpent upon the Saints in all Ages. Do but begin now and by Faith think of this, and never ſtand diſtruſting of God, as if thy Caſe were worſe than all theſe.

And ſo much now for that ſecond Interpretation, as it reſpecteth Poſterity, making the example of theſe Epheſians Inſtances to Poſterity of the like Grace and Mercy.

I come now to the third Interpretation and Sence, which begins to take Accompliſhment when the other endeth; therefore, I ſaid that they are but ſeveral Accompliſhments of the ſame Deſign. When God ſhall thus have ſhewn the exceeding Riches of his Grace unto his Saints in all Ages, in pulling them out of their natural Condition, in converting them, in quickning them, and they ſhall all meet at the latter day together, and be gathered unto Jeſus Chriſt: All this is for this End, that to the Ages then to come afterwards, he may ſhew forth a hidden, an unknown Treaſury of Grace, which he will break up in Heaven and at the Day of Judgment, even unto Eternity. The Reaſons for this Interpretation are ſo ſtrong, that if the other I gave laſt and this could not ſtand together, for my part I ſhould certainly exclude the other, and embrace this. I gave you my Reaſons for it when I firſt opened it. The Phraſe here [in Ages to come], doth moſt naturally (according to what the Scripture ſaith) import the time of Eternity, the Ages of Eternity in the World to come. Now the Obſervations that flow from this Interpretation, I reduce to two Heads.

I. Such as ſet out to us ſomething about Heaven.

II. To ſhew how great that Salvation muſt needs be, according to the ſcope of theſe Words.

Concerning the firſt Head, I give you theſe ſeveral Particulars.

Firſt, That all the Glory that God beſtows upon his Saints in the Ages and World to come, and after the Day of Judgment, it is only Grace that is the Fountain of it. He ſhews forth therein his Grace, yea the exceeding Riches of his Grace. It is not only Grace, but it is the perfection of Grace, it is the richneſs of Grace in the heighth, and the higheſt Riches of it, it is the higheſt graciouſneſs of Grace (as I may ſo expreſs it) to beſtow Heaven upon us. The Papiſts acknowledg Grace in Converſion, though they mingle much of Man's Will with it, yet they acknowledg a preventing Grace. But when they come to ſpeak of his going to Heaven, there they thruſt in Merit, they do not make Salvation to be of Grace, ſo much as Converſion it ſelf. But it is Grace, and Grace to Eternity, and the heighth of Grace. Rom. 9. 23. That God might make known the Riches of his Glory on the Veſſels of Mercy: the Apoſtle you ſee, when he ſpeaks of Salvation and Riches of Glory, he calls the Subjects of it Veſſels of Mercy. And why? The Coherence of the Text here naturally clears it, and ſhews you why, when you are in Heaven, you are eternally Veſſels of Mercy, and all the Riches of Glory is therefore converted into the Riches of Mercy as the cauſe thereof: why? Becauſe you were once by Nature Children of Wrath, and conſidered in your ſelves you are ever ſo. As a Man is to look upon himſelf after he is juſtified, as Ungodly in himſelf: It is ſaid of Abraham, that he believed on him that juſtifieth the Ungodly; ſo he is in himſelf to Eternity. We were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, we were Children of Wrath by Nature, Hell was our place; How came we hither then? It is the exceeding Riches of his Grace that pulls Men out of that miſerable Condition, and

ſets

ſets them upon that Height and Top of Bleſſedneſs and Happineſs in the World to come. It is thy Mercy (ſay they in the Lamentations) that we are not conſumed; thy Mercies fail not. It is the Mercy of God that we are not in Hell; and when we are in Heaven, it is Mercy that hath brought us thither; and becauſe we were once thus and thus in our ſelves, it is Mercy and Grace that continues us there for ever.

There are two Treaſuries, to which there are continual Additions by Mens ſinnings. Take wicked Men, they, as it is ſaid in Rom. 2. 4. by abuſing the Goodneſs and Long-ſuffering of God, treaſure up unto themſelves Wrath againſt the Day of Wrath. Take godly Men, or Elect Men rather, tho indeed they, by ſinning before Converſion (conſidered as in themſelves) did treaſure up Wrath unto themſelves: yet all their Sins did but ſerve to make Room for, and a Capacity of a Treaſury of Grace the greater, when Salvation ſhould come to be revealed to them: And all their Sins after Converſion ſtill increaſe this Treaſury, they need ſo much more of the Riches of Grace to ſave them. And therefore ſaith the Apoſtle here, that you who were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, that you ſhould be quickned, and ſit together in heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus; this ſhews and magnifies the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in all that he will do to you, and for you, in the World to come. If I might compare Heaven, and what God doth beſtow upon us, and the Glory there, with what he doth for us at our Converſion; then certainly, if the one muſt be acknowledged Grace, (as the Papiſts themſelves do) the other muſt needs be much more, or as much every whit. We are as paſſive in all the Glory beſtowed upon us, as we are in Converſion. Our Bodies are raiſed again out of the Duſt, by that Power that ſubdues all things, and they are raiſed up ſpiritual, glorious Bodies, that we may be fitted for Glory: Therefore the Reſurrection is called in Scripture a Regeneration, even as well as Converſion it ſelf. And when our Souls are filled with Bleſſedneſs in Heaven, they are paſſive rather in it, nay, they are more paſſive, if it may be conſiſting with a Liberty of Will, and of a Creature rational, and of Underſtanding, than in all the Actions of Grace, that here, when we are converted, are put forth. We ſay, we being acted by God, we act, and it is true in all the Good we do in this Life: But the Bleſſedneſs put upon us in the World to come, is rather a thing beſtowed upon us, than acted by us; we glorify God here, we are glorified of God hereafter. Therefore it muſt needs be Grace, and exceeding Riches of Grace. So Chriſt ſaith, I have glorified thee upon Earth: He ſpeaks actively, when he ſpeaks of what he did in this World; but when he comes to ſpeak of the World to come, then ſaith he, Glorify me. Therefore the Scripture, when it ſpeaks of Heaven, it ſpeaks as if we were but paſſive there; all that is beſtowed upon us therefore is all of Grace: Mortality is ſaid to be ſwallowed up of Life; and we are ſatiated with the Rivers of his Pleaſure; we are watered, they are poured upon us, as the word ſignifies in Pſal. 36. The Joy that the Holy-Ghoſt works in us, which is the Earneſt of Heaven, we are Recipients, if I may ſo expreſs it, rather than Actors in it.

O my Brethren, hate Popery, it is a curſed Doctrine, that that wherein the Height, the Top, the Riches, the Graciouſneſs of Grace moſt appeareth, they ſhould not only mingle Works with it, but mingle them as Merits too, as the Cauſe thereof: That he might ſhew forth (ſaith the Apoſtle) the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in that World to come. There are many Papiſts, that do indeed interpret theſe Words of Heaven; but how do they mince it, to ſalve up their own Doctrine of Merit? What do they ſay? It is true, God gives Glory, ſay they, for the Merits of Men, and yet it is Grace; why? Becauſe that God doth glorify Men far beyond their Merits. Thank them for nothing; ſo Men are thrown into Hell, and there puniſhed leſs than they merit and deſerve; and ſo Grace is as much ſeen in the one as in the other.

A ſecond Obſervation is this: That in the World to come, there are Ages, and many Ages to come, in Eternity. Unto the Scriptures I gave you then, I ſhall only add that in 1 Tim. 6. 17. and compare it but with thoſe other Scriptures I gave you then. The Apoſtle, when he ſpeaks of this World there, he ſaith, Charge them that are rich in this World; ſo we tranſlate it: it is, in this Age, in Obſerv. 2.

Serm. XX.

in this [now] World: He expreſſeth it in the ſingular Number, and he ſpeaks it plainly in oppoſition to the World to come, which in v. 19. we tranſlate the Time to come, but in the Original it is, Ages to come; if he calls the one an Age, he calls the other an Age of Ages. In Rom. 16. ult. we tranſlate it for ever, but it is indeed for Ages, and ſo you have it in Epheſ. 3. 21. My Brethren, the Time of Heaven, the Eternity there, it is ſo vaſt, that it is reckoned by Ages, and by Ages of Ages. In this Life here, Time is reckoned by Days, and by Years: The Days of Man, they are ſo and ſo; and, Teach us to number our Days; and, The Years of Man are threeſcore and ten, &c. They are eaſily numbred; for ſo the Schoolmen uſe to diſtinguiſh the Time that now is, from that to come: The Time that now is, it is a Duration that may be numbred, and that by Days, and Months, and Years, becauſe they are ſo few; few are the Days of Man, and fewer are the Years of Man, and therefore may be eaſily numbred: but the Time of Heaven is reckoned by Ages, and by Ages of Ages, not by Days and by Years; and it paſſeth away ſo; that tho it be Ages, it is not numbred by Ages of Years, as our Ages are, they are numbred in the Lump rather, Ages of Ages.

There is alſo this difference between God's Eternity and ours. In this both of them agree, That as the Eſſence of God is the ſame in all Ages to Eternity; ſo the Subſtance of our Souls and Bodies will be ſtill the ſame, without alteration: but yet there is this difference betwixt his Eternity and ours: His Eternity is not divided into Ages, as ours is; why? Becauſe, as Anſelm well ſaith, ſpeaking unto God, Thy Eternity, O God, is always preſent to thee. He poſſeſſeth the Joys of all Time in one Inſtant continual; for all things, paſt, preſent, and to come, are all preſent unto him: And as his immenſe Being incompaſſeth all Beings, ſo his immenſe Duration doth all Time, and there is but one Now of Eternity to Him. But it is not ſo with us: Nos habemus de noſtra Eternitate quod ſemper eſt futurum, We have of our Eternity that is ſtill to come, for we can take in but as Creatures, one thing after another; and that is the reaſon why God hath appointed Ages, Eternity it ſelf to manifeſt the Riches of his Grace to us, for leſs will not ſerve the Turn.

Obſerv. 3.

Thirdly; Another Obſervation from this Interpretation is this: That all our Time ſpent in Heaven, it ſhall be but paſt away eternally in Kindneſs: To ſhew forth, ſaith he, in the Ages to come, the exceeding Riches of his Grace, [in Kindneſs.] It is not, In [his] Kindneſs, but, In Kindneſs, to ſet an Emphaſis on it, wholly in a way of Kindneſs; it is [his] Kindneſs too, for it is that makes Heaven. I gave you an account of the Addition, and the Meaning of thoſe Words, when I opened them to this Sence, That God doth not only ſhew his Prerogative of Grace for his own Glory in Heaven, but he doth all, beſtows all, with the greateſt Heartineſs, with the greateſt Kindneſs, with the greateſt Sweetneſs, (for the word implies all this) with the greateſt Communicativeneſs of Himſelf (rejoycing over us to do us good) that can be. As a King now is gracious to his Subjects; but if he be of a loving diſpoſition, he is kind to his Wife, and all the Grace he ſhews her is in Kindneſs: So it is between God and his Saints. All the Converſe we have with God in Heaven, and all that God beſtows upon us there, is with infinite Familiarity, and Kindneſs, and Sweetneſs, and is ſo carried on; and therein doth lie, as to us, the heighth of Bleſſedneſs. In Prov. 27. 9. Solomon calls it, the Sweetneſs of a Man's Friend, for ſuch the Kindneſs of a Friend is. You ſhall obſerve therefore, when Heaven is ſpoken of, it is ſtill ſpoken of in terms and words of Kindneſs. Our Saviour Chriſt compares himſelf to a Wooer, and that Great Day to be his Marriage-Day, and the Church to be his Bride, and he to be the Bridegroom; and all that he doth there afterwards for ever, is in the Kindneſs of a Bridegroom, in the heat, in the higheſt affection of Love. He acts the part of a freſh Wooer all along. When the new Jeruſalem comes down from Heaven, the Bride is ſaid to be made ready, and He, as a Bridegroom, rejoyceth over his Bride for ever, as the Prophet ſpeaks in Iſa. 62. 5. which indeed is a Promiſe of the calling of the Jews, when God will take that People again into his Marriage-Bed, yet ſo, as in Heaven it holds much more. He continually acts the part of a Bridegroom; ſaith he, I go to prepare a Place for you;

as

as Woers do for their Brides, to bring them home to their Father's Houſe: it is ſpoken in the Language of Kindneſs. And then he takes them, and brings them to his Father's Houſe: In my Father's Houſe are many Manſions, and there I will entertain you, ſaith he; all ſpeaks Kindneſs. In John 20. 17. when Mary would have come, and familiarly have embraced him, whether his Feet or otherwiſe, ſaith he, Touch me not, for I am not yet aſcended. 'Tis not a Reproof, ſo much as a ſtaying her from the preſent enjoyment, with the Hint of a Time, wherein Kindneſs was to be ſhewn yet to come; and is as if he had ſaid, There is Time enough, we ſhall be familiar in Heaven; but now thou art to go about thy Buſineſs, now tell my Diſciples that I am riſen: This I take to be the beſt Meaning of that Place. In Pſal. 36. 8. How excellent or precious is thy Loving-kindneſs, O God! He ſpeaks of the Loving-kindneſs which he ſhews to them that truſt in him here, having compared this with that ordinary Favour which he ſhews to Man and Beaſt in the Words before, and ſhewing how it excells. But his ſhewing Kindneſs indeed is yet to come, whereof this here is but the Love-token; for what follows? They ſhall be abundantly ſatisfied with the Fatneſs of thy Houſe, and thou ſhalt make them drink (it is a paſſive word, as I ſaid before) with the River of thy Pleaſures. He ſpeaks in the Language of Kindneſs ſhewn us, Entertainment. Jeſus Chriſt brings them to his Father's Houſe, and there the beſt things he hath he brings forth, there they ſhall have a Banquet, yea, the choiceſt Banquet, that which God himſelf liveth upon: Thy Pleaſures, ſaith he, he brings them all forth, becauſe he ſpends the Time in Kindneſs. Henceforth (ſaith Chriſt) I will not drink any more of the Fruit of the Vine, till I drink it new with you in my Father's Kingdom. This is all the Language of Kindneſs, and of Entertainment. And this, my Brethren, is it which makes the Entertainment ſo ſweet in Heaven, all the Coſt and Glory there ſo ſweet, it is the Kindneſs, the Sweetneſs of a Friend, and of God a Father, and of Jeſus Chriſt, a Bridegroom, that rejoyceth over us to do us good. In Prov. 15. 17. A Dinner of Herbs with Love, how ſweet is it! How much more to be at a continual Feaſt, with the River of God's Pleaſures, to drink thereof, and to be fed with the Fatneſs of his Houſe, and all this out of infinite Loving-kindneſs? This is better than Life, it is better than the Glory and Happineſs it ſelf, ſimply conſidered, for it is this which makes it to be Bleſſedneſs. When you were firſt turned to God, how kind perhaps was God to you then, or have you found him in ſome Paſſages of your Lives! and you think, If God ſhould be always thus kind to me, how would it raviſh my Heart! Thou ſhalt have enough of it in Heaven. God is angry ſometimes here, and ſeems to take things unkindly at our hands, but in Heaven nothing but Kindneſs. It is an excellent place, and it is the meaning of it, in Pſal. 30. 6. His Anger endureth but for a moment, but in his Favour is Life. Life is there oppoſed to a Moment, it is Life for ever, eternal Life. You have the like in Iſa. 47. 7.

My brethren, in Heaven there are no Affections, but Love and Kindneſs on both ſides, on God's part, and ours. In us there is no Affection elſe ſtirring; There is no Sorrow for Sin, tho that be ſweet, for all Tears are wiped away from our Eyes; there is no Fear, for perfect Love caſteth out Fear; there is no Deſire, for there is continual Satisfaction.

There is nothing but theſe three things in a Man, the Knowledg and Sight of God, the Love of God, and Joy in God; there is this Trinity (if I may ſo ſpeak) of Diſpoſitions in the Soul. On the other ſide, in God, tho there be Power, and Juſtice, and all Attributes in him, yet they all have a Tincture of Loving-Kindneſs. Therefore God is not ſaid ſo much to be Wiſdom in reſpect of us, as Love; where have you Him called Juſtice, or Power? But he is called Love. And tho God is All in All, and all in Him is ours, yet it is all in Loving-kindneſs: He ſhews forth the Riches of his Grace, in Kindneſs towards us, in thoſe Ages to come, in Chriſt Jeſus.

I might add this, In Chriſt Jeſus; for tho God be All in All in Heaven, yet it is God's Love in Chriſt to us, that doth make the Union everlaſting, and is the Foundation of it. The Creature could not ſtand under that Love of God, if it were not conveyed to us in Chriſt, it would be too weighty for it. God

choſe

Serm. XX.

choſe us in Chriſt at firſt, when he ordained us this Glory in Heaven, and therefore he continues to ſhew Kindneſs towards us in Heaven, and that in Chriſt, to everlaſting.

The ſecond Head of Obſervations I make out of theſe Words, upon that third Interpretation, is this, To ſhew you from hence how great a Glory Heaven is. I ſhall do it exceeding briefly.

Firſt; You ſee it is called Riches. When the Scripture ſpeaks of Heaven, it ſtill ſpeaks of the Glory there under the Notion of Riches, under the Notion of a Treaſury: 1 Tim. 6. 19. Laying up in ſtore for themſelves, a good Foundation for the Time to come. When our Lord and Saviour Chriſt ſpeaks of Heaven, ſtill he expreſſeth it under the Notion of Treaſure and Riches: Mat. 6. 20. Thou ſhalt have Treaſures in Heaven. And, Mat. 19. 21. Luke 12. 33. and Mark 10. 31. and Luke 18. 33. It is the familiar Language of Chriſt, and ſtill he calls them Treaſures, in the Plural Number.

Secondly; They are called, Exceeding Riches of his Grace, to be ſhewn forth then, in compariſon of what God hath done for us here; for in the clear natural Coherence of theſe Words with the former, the Scope is this: God, ſaith he, hath pull'd you out of that natural Condition you were in, he hath quickned you together with Chriſt already, he hath in Chriſt repreſentatively raiſed you, and ſet you together in Heaven, Chriſt having taken poſſeſſion of that for you, which for ever you ſhall enjoy. This (ſaith he) is but a Foundation, it is all but a Preparation, that he may ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace in the Ages to come. He had ſaid, God was rich in Mercy, in quickning them: God, ſaith he, who is rich in Mercy, for his great Love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in Sins, hath quickned us together with Chriſt, v. 4,5. And in chap. 1. v. 7. That our Sins are forgiven, he ſaith, it is according to the Riches of his Grace. But what doth all this tend to, that is done here in this Life? It is but a Foundation, it is but a Preparation, that he may ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace. He puts that in, when he comes to ſpeak of Heaven, that altho God hath done much for us already, yet he hath hidden Riches to ſhew forth then. Do but then conſider with your ſelves, my Brethren, by what God hath done for us here, and by what he had beſtowed and expended upon theſe Epheſians, what a World of Riches of Grace, what a Treaſure that is, that muſt be then broken up, and ſhewn forth. Did it coſt God nothing to pardon your Sins? What Expences do you put him to every day? What Riches of Grace is there, in pouring forth of his Spirit, in Juſtification, in Sanctification, in Adoption? And yet what are all theſe? What is Pardon of Sin to Heaven? It is but ſo many Riches buried in the Foundation. What is the Spirits pouring forth here? It is but the Earneſt of that Riches which is to come, All that he hath done here, it is but that he might ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace on us, in Ages to come, in Kindneſs towards us in Chriſt Jeſus. All that is done for us here, it is but like a lighter Metal; as always in Mines you ſhall have a lighter Metal, before you come to the Mine it ſelf: All the Riches of Grace expended upon us here, they are but that lighter Metal, to that great Mine that is then to be broken up: That he might make known (ſaith the Apoſtle, Rom. 9. 23.) the Riches of his Glory on the Veſſels of Mercy, which he had before [prepared] unto Glory: All that is done here, it is but a Preparation to thoſe Riches of Glory, that are to be made known on the Veſſels of Mercy. As the Sorrows of this Life, they are unto the Wicked but the beginning of Sorrows; ſo all that God doth for his Saints in this Life, it is but the beginning, and the ſprinklings of thoſe Riches he will expend to Eternity, and which he hath layed up for them in Heaven, as the Apoſtle phraſeth it, in Col. 1. 5. Saith the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. 23. 6. ſpeaking of this Love, Mercy and Loving-kindneſs ſhall follow me all my days. Take any of the Elect Children of God, what a World of Mercy and Loving-kindneſs doth follow him, and purſue him! Even as we are bid to follow after Peace, and to purſue it; ſo doth God purſue thee with Loving-kindneſſes, one after another; but when thou comeſt to Ages to come, Loving-kindneſs ſhall overwhelm thee, ſwallow thee up.

My

My Brethren, if God have done ſo great things in the bringing us to Glory, as the preparation to it, he did let us fall into Sin, delivered us out of it, ſent his Son to die for us; if theſe be but the Preparations, what will the Riches be? And yet all this is but Preparation, That he might ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in the Ages to come, in Kindneſs towards us in Chriſt Jeſus.

Thirdly, What is it that God will expend upon us in Heaven? He will expend upon us the exceeding Riches of his Grace.

My Brethren, The exceeding Riches of God's Grace muſt be laid out in ſomething which ſhall be proportionable to it. If a King ſhould ſay, Go take all the Riches in my Kingdom, and expend it upon ſuch an Entertainment, if the maker of the Entertainment be Faithful and Wiſe, the Entertainment ſhall be ſuitable to thoſe exceeding Riches that are laid forth and expended. If we ſay, that ſuch or ſuch a thing doth coſt a Man ſo much, we reckon it folly in him that is the Purchaſer or Procurer of it at ſuch a Rate, if it do not hold ſome Proportion to the Coſt. Now then if God will ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, that Happineſs and Glory that muſt hold a Proportion to this, and come up to it and be worthy of it, that Entertainment which God himſelf is the maker of, and therefore he will not caſt away any whit of his Grace, but his Saints ſhall have it out in Glory, how great muſt that Glory be! And it is to make a ſhew, on purpoſe to ſhew forth. Saith God, I will ſhew how great a God I am, how Gracious I am, how well I can love Creatures, and how kind he will be when he meaneth to be kind. If Ahaſuerus being a great King, will make a Feaſt to ſhew the Riches of his Glorious Kingdom, how great, how magnificent ſhall the Feaſt be? If God will make Creatures happy, and and undertakes to do it, to ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, and this before all Ages, all Men, when all the World is gathered together, how great muſt this Glory be? And I beſeech you conſider, who are the Stewards of all theſe Riches that are in God? Here is Grace and Loving Kindneſs; we are therefore like to be well entertained. You ſee Grace is at the Coſt, and gives Commiſſion to Loving Kindneſs to ſpare for nothing. If it be to ſhew forth the Riches of Grace, Grace will be ſure to provide for its own Glory, to ſhew it ſelf to the utmoſt, and when Kindneſs towards us, ſhall have the command of Grace's Purſe; that will be ſure to think nothing too good for us. If a Prince ſhould employ one to make Entertainment, that is of a profuſe and prodigal Spirit, and a deep Obſerver and Favourer of the Perſons to be entertained; he will be ſure to lay on Coſt enough. Eſpecially if the Prince ſet open his Coffers, and bid him take out what ever he will for that Entertainment; what an Entertainment will you expect ſhall be made by this Man? Saith God to Loving Kindneſs, here is all my Riches, take whatever you pleaſe: And my Brethren, to be ſure that is profuſe enough.

And then again, It is made God's ultimate Deſign here of all he hath done for us, it was the firſt thing in his Intention and Thoughts, which he had in his Eye as the End and Concluſion of all. Therefore he did let us fall into Sin, dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, Children of Wrath, therefore he ſent Jeſus Chriſt, therefore he quickned us in him, therefore he ſet us in heavenly places in him; what is the Deſign, the ultimate End in God's Heart of all this? That he might ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace in the Ages to come. The Truth is, this God that is rich in Mercy, had ſo much Riches by him, that he thought of all profuſe and expenſive ways to lay it out; as if one ſhould have ſo much Riches by him, that he knew not how to expend you. God might have brought us to Heaven immediately, but he let us fall into Sin, to draw out infinite Riches in pardoning, and yet this is but by the way, what then is the goodneſs of God that is laid up for the Sons of Men for Eternity?

Serm. XXI.

Fourthly, It is ſo much Riches of Grace that God hath deſigned to beſtow upon us in that World, as requires Ages to come to exhauſt it. It is a Notion of the higheſt Comfort to us, that God hath taken up ſo much Love, the firſt moment he loved us, as requires Eternity to manage it. Here you have a Scripture for it, That he might ſhew forth, even to Eternity, the exceeding Riches of his Grace. It was ſo much Riches as required an Eternity to manifeſt and to expend; ſo much Riches as though we ſhall ever be ſpending, they ſhall never be ſpent.

We ſay of Hell, that the demerit of Sin is ſuch, that therefore Hell is to Eternity, becauſe that the Creature cannot in a ſhort time undergo all that Wrath that is due to him for his Sin, and therefore there is an Eternity of time for him to ſuffer in. So it is here, we may truly ſay of Heaven, of the Riches of God's Grace which he hath laid up for us, to ſpend upon us, it is ſo infinite a Treaſure, that the Creature being not able to take it in at once, muſt have Ages to come to take it in.

My Brethren, this is one of the higheſt Exaggerations of the Glory of Heaven to us, that it is not only to Eternity ſimply, but that it requires Eternity to expend that which God hath deſigned to us. When thou comeſt to Heaven, thou mayeſt, and thou mayeſt now by Faith ſay, Soul take thy reſt, thou haſt Goods laid up for many years, thou haſt Riches of Grace laid up for Ages of Ages; which cannot be ſpent, ſpend as faſt as thou canſt.

In Pſal. 36. 9. Speaking of Heaven, and of drinking of the River of God's Pleaſures, he calls God there the Fountain of Life, and why the Fountain of Life? Becauſe the Fountain is continually bubling up new freſh Water, it is ever doing of it. God himſelf hath infinite Goodneſs in him which the Creatures cannot take in at once, they are taking of it in eternally. All that God doth for us for ever is but the fulfilling of his good Pleaſure, as you have it, in 2 Theſſ. 1. 11. it is but filling up that good Pleaſure of his, which he hath conceived towards us.

There are two things in God. Simplicity of Being; and Infiniteneſs of Being. Now although by reaſon of the Simplicity of his Being, we ſee God at once every Moment, and as his Eſſence is ſimple, ſo that Beatifical Viſion is one ſimple act. Yet by reaſon of the Infiniteneſs of his Being, it is like Sayling over an eternal Sea, where you ſee nothing but Sea, and yet you are to Eternity Sayling it over, you have a new Horizon every Hours Sayl you Sayl. So is it here, therefore they are called Rivers of Pleaſure, becauſe in God and from God by reaſon of his Infiniteneſs they are continually freſh. The Papiſts ſay that the Saints in Heaven ſee all things here below in God. What do our Divines ſay to that? No ſay they it cannot be, though they ſee God in whom all things are, and in whom all things may be ſeen, yet they do not ſee all things in God at once. The Saints (even as Aquinas himſelf ſpeaks, and reaſon acknowledgeth it too) ſee in God ſtill things freſh, which they ſaw not in the beginning of their Bleſſedneſs. The Angels that ſee God's Face in Heaven, yet they ſtretch out their Necks to learn continually even of the Churches below the Myſteries of Chriſt; much more in Heaven.

My Brethren, It is for Ages to come, the infiniteneſs of this Being of God holds us ſeeing, and knowing, and viewing over afreſh even to Eternity, and yet it is not, it cannot be comprehended by us, therefore Ages to come, are appointed.

Fifthly, It is in Kindneſs towards [Us] My Brethren, when God ſhall have ſhut out all the World, ſhut up all wicked Men in Hell, when he and his Children ſhall be alone, and all the World beſides excluded, and none elſe there but his Children, and they all together with him, then will he break up the exceeding Riches of his Grace, and he hath reſerved it unto that time.

Laſtly,

Laſtly, It is in Kindneſs towards us in Chriſt Jeſus; loving us with the ſame Love wherewith he loved Chriſt Jeſus. Look what Glory he hath beſtowed upon our Head, the ſame he will beſtow upon us, and with the ſame Kindneſs, and how great muſt that needs be? Do but read the deſcription of that Glory, which the Apoſtle on purpoſe made of Chriſt, in the firſt Chapter; out of the ſame Kindneſs he will beſtow the ſame Glory upon us.

And ſo much now for Obſervations upon that laſt Senſe and Interpretation, and ſo I have done with this Verſe.

Serm. XXI.

SERMON XXI.

EPHES. 2. 8, 9, 10.

8. For by Grace ye are ſaved through Faith, and that not of your ſelves; it is the Gift of God:

9. Not of Works, leſt any Man ſhould boaſt.

10. For we are his Workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus unto good Works, which God hath before ordained, that we ſhould walk in them.

THeſe Words which I have now read unto you, they are an additional Piece, added to that Diſcourſe of the Apoſtle before, concerning the Cauſe and Parts of our Salvation, in ſhewing the exceeding Riches of Grace, in the Application of Salvation to us, laid forth by free Grace from everlaſting, and purchaſed by Chriſt.

The Words here, they are one of the great Forts of the Proteſtant Doctrine, a Place which all our Divines, in handling of Juſtification, and Salvation by Faith, and by free Grace, and not of Works, have recourſe unto, as wherein Salvation by Faith is ſpoken of, tanquam in propria ſede, as in its proper place: And therefore it is reckoned as the Sum (as indeed it is) of all the Apoſtle had ſaid concerning this, both in the 3*d* and 4*th* Chapters to the Romans, and in the 3*d* to the Galatians.

I will not ſtand to repeat any thing which I delivered for the opening of the Words formerly, until I am over the tenth Verſe: I ſhall, tho not much, yet ſomewhat more enlarge, becauſe I conceive, that the Truths delivered therein are of exceeding great Moment.

To begin therefore with the Expoſition of each word apart.

Here is the Apoſtle's main Aſſertion laid down, and that is, that by Grace we are ſaved; and it is uſhered in with this Particle [For] For (ſaith he) by Grace are ye ſaved; which is a Particle of Coherence and Connection, and ſo muſt refer to the former Words.

The word is ſometimes uſed for an Introduction to an Aſſertion, or further Explication of a thing formerly aſſerted; ſometimes as giving a reaſon of what had been ſaid before. And I take it, that both do ſtand here, in relation to two ſeveral references that theſe words have.

1. They refer to what he had ſaid in the 5*th* Verſe, when he had but begun to mention the Application of Salvation to us, in quickning of us; his Heart being big with it, ſaith he there, by way of Parentheſis, By Grace ye are ſaved. He lets fall there a brief Word, which yet was the Center that all his Motions and Rounds about the Text were directed to. Now then, he having but hinted this by the way there, when he had made an end of that Vein of Diſcourſe, which he had in hand, and was engaged in, he now comes to reaſſume that which he had before but ſcattered by the way; and to hold up this as the eminent Thing, as the Center, and the Upſhot of what he aimed at in his whole Diſcourſe. And ſo he enters upon a new Common-place of Matter, to ſhew how by Grace we we are ſaved, in the Application of Salvation to us; he clears it by way of ſeveral ſhort Theſes. And ſo now the word [For] hath relation to what he had ſaid before in the 5*th* Verſe, By Grace ye are ſaved; and it is a Note of reaſſuming the ſame thing again, and uſhereth in a further clearing and explication of what he had there ſaid, as if he ſhould ſay, For you muſt know, that by Grace ye are ſaved; and ſo he goes on to enlarge upon it.

2. If you take the Words in reference more immediatly to the words foregoing in the 7*th* Verſe, ſo they are a reaſon of what is delivered in that 7*th* Verſe. He had ſaid there, that the utmoſt end of God was, In the Ages to come to ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace, in his kindneſs towards us in Chriſt: For (ſaith he) by Grace ye are ſaved. One Interpretation I gave of thoſe Words in the 7*th* Verſe, was this: That to ſhew the exceeding Riches of his Grace, was God's utmoſt end in the Salvation of Men. Now here follows a Demonſtration and Evidence of it: [For] (ſaith he) by Grace ye are ſaved. This being the Fountain, the Original, the Alpha and Omega, the Beginning and End, the Contriver of all the Salvation of Man, He hath contrived all ſo, that the whole ſhall manifeſt it ſelf to be by Grace. And to evidence it to them, he inſtanceth in the Salvation we have in this Life, in the Application of Salvation to us, ſhewing, how in the whole, and in every part of it, it is ſo contrived, as it ſhall eminently appear that we are ſaved by Grace: And by that alſo, ſays he, you may gueſs, that even to Eternity, and in all the Ages to come, God ſtill drives on the ſame Deſign, even to ſhew forth his Grace, and the Riches of it more and more; and by what you have now found in this Work of Application, For ye are ſaved by Grace; you may eſtimate what Riches of Grace in the World to come (which was another Interpretation I gave of the Words) are to be ſpent upon you. This as to the Coherence in both thoſe Senſes.

I may add this: I told you likewiſe, that in thoſe words in the 7*th* Verſe, [That he might ſhew forth the exceeding Riches of his Grace in the Ages to come,] his Scope was, to ſhew forth the Riches of his Grace in converting us, in the example of theſe Epheſians. Now then the Apoſtle comes in with this word [for] as by way of exemplification, For by Grace ye are ſaved; if ever there was an Inſtance of the Riches of Grace to after Ages, it is in you. Becauſe he had propounded them as the Pattern, as the Model of like kindneſs to others in after Ages, he doth now enlarge, and ſhew, how that in them, and in their Converſions, Men that were ſo eminently wicked and ſinful, God had ſhewn forth ſo great and rich a Grace, in ſaving of them: For ye (ſaith he) are ſaved by Grace.

Only I ſhall make this Obſervation by the way: In that the Apoſtle doth reaſſume and dilate upon it, (viz. Salvation by Grace, and that through Faith, and not of Works, &c.) in that he ſo indigitateth this, and inſiſts on this, having let it fall before, and now again proſecuting of it, (you have ſcarce the like in any Epiſtle) it argues that this is the great Point of the Goſpel, Salvation by Grace, through Faith, and not of Works, (which is the Sum of theſe Verſes) it is that great Point which all the Writings of the Apoſtles, and of the Prophets before them, center in. There are two things to which all the Prophets are ſaid to give Witneſs: And the one is, the coming of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, and the Glory which ſhall follow upon his coming; which you have in Acts 3. 21. As he hath ſpoken by the mouth of all his holy Prophets, ſince the World began. And it is called in Rev. 10. 7. The Myſtery which ſhall be fulfilled, which (he ſaith) hath been ſpoken of by his Servants the Prophets. Now the other Point that all the Prophets have teſtified, (and if we ſearch them we ſhall find) it is Salvation through Grace, and through Chriſt, by Faith alone. You have it in one place of Paul, in Rom. 3. 21. The Righteouſneſs of God without the Law, is manifeſted, being witneſſed by the Law and the Prophets. And, Acts 10. 43. To him give all the Prophets witneſs, that through his Name, whoſoever believeth in him ſhall receive Remiſſion of Sins, or have Juſtification by Faith, or by believing, and without the Works of the Law; which is both Paul's Scope in that Rom. 3. and Peter's Scope in this Acts 10. This is a Point which all the Prophets gave witneſs to, and therefore in Rom. 1. 17. the Sum of the Goſpel, it is delivered to us by this, that the Righteouſneſs of God is therein revealed from Faith to Faith.

and

Serm. XXI.

For by Graee ye are ſaved.

I confeſs, I thought I ſhould have found no difficulty at all in this; for when I viewed the words, I thought the Apoſtle's Scope, when he ſaid, 'By Grace ye are ſaved, had been comprehenſively to mean all the Benefits we have, which belong and appertain unto Salvation, and all the ſtanding Works of God upon us, Calling, and Quickning, and Sanctification, and whatever elſe that are all by Grace: And ſo, 'By Grace ye are ſaved, runs currantly from firſt to laſt, both becauſe theſe are all things appertaining to Salvation. and becauſe that they are all by Grace. That Grace that juſtifies us, and adopts us Sons, that Grace it is that alſo calleth us, ſanctifieth us; Electing Grace doth the one as well as the other: And all proceed immediatly from that Grace which is in the Heart of God towards us, freely, and without Works. And that which did incline meſtill to think this ſhould be his meaning, is, becauſe that [by Grace ye are ſaved] comes in preſently after Quickning, v. 5. and ſo it would ſeem here alſo to include the very Work of Regeneration, and the new Creature, which he in this very Paragraph ſpeaks of, v. 10.

Now the truth is, this Interpretation would run currantly, but for one thing, and that is this, 'By Grace ye are ſaved [through Faith.] Mark it, now this Addition here croſſeth it, taking Salvation here for the whole Work of God in us, and upon us, and towards us, comprehenſively; why? Becauſe, firſt, Faith it ſelf is a part of Salvation, it is a Work toward Salvation, and unto Salvation in us. And tho it is true, as the Apoſtle ſaith, in Acts 18. 27. that Men believe, through Grace, as the efficient Cauſe of their believing; yet notwithſtanding we cannot be ſaid to have Faith through Faith. And therefore at leaſt here Faith muſt be excluded out of theſe words, when he ſaith, 'By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith; for otherwiſe there were a Proceſſus ad infinitum, as we uſe to ſay.

But then again, I thought, as the Apoſtle ſaith in another caſe, when he ſaith, All things are put under him, it is manifeſt, that he is excepted which did put all things under him; ſo now Faith is excepted here, becauſe he ſaith afterwards, and that as an Addition, And not of your ſelves.

But then on the other ſide, there are many things beſides Faith, (if you will take Salvation for the whole, and all that God doth in us, and for us) that tho all is by Grace, yet all is not conveyed to us by Faith, for Regeneration it ſelf is not. A Man doth not firſt believe, and then is born again; but a Man muſt firſt be born again, before he believeth, as you have it in 1 John 5. 1. He that believeth is born of God. It is true indeed, that Regeneration (whereof one Principle is the Principle of Faith) is not of Works, it is wholly of Grace; for the new Creature is created unto good Works, but yet ſtill it is not through Faith, (mark it) unleſs you would make, (as ſome do) which to me is unnatural, that the firſt Act of Faith is without any Principle at all in us, which is to make a Man to ſee without having an Eye. Now it is true, I ſay, that all theſe are by Grace, but they are not through Faith. You muſt give Grace leave to go further than Faith: and yet notwithſtanding here, when he ſaith, By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith, he makes them adequate and commenſurable one to the other.

Then again, that which narrows the Words yet more, is, That take all the Sanctification, and new Obedience, that is wrought in us after we are born again, altho it may be ſaid in ſome ſence it is through Faith, yet it is not through Faith alone; but the Salvation which he ſpeaks of here, it is by Grace through Faith: We are juſtified freely by his Grace, through Faith, &c. Now oftentimes in Scripture [Saved] is taken ſtrictly for Juſtification, as, He ſhall ſave his People from their Sins, in Mat. 1. 21. and, Saved from Wrath to come, in Rom. 5. 9. And many like Inſtances might be given, tho here he ſtates all under the firſt word [ſaved.]

But then methinks this ſhould be too narrow for the Apoſtle's Scope here, whereas we find that Salvation may be taken more largely: and let us enlarge it as far as poſſibly we can, ſo we make theſe two meet together, By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith, and through Faith only. Serm. XXI.

as

I do lay, for the interpreting of theſe Words, having ſhewn you wherein the Streſs lies, theſe three things, as Premiſes to aſſoil this Difficulty.

1. That only that of our Salvation is here ſpoken of: as it is given by Grace, ſo it is received by Faith, as I ſaid before; theſe are both adequate. Therefore we muſt not extend Salvation here further, or think any thing is included in it, further than what is conveyed to us by Faith, tho all be of Grace.

2. That methinks the Whole of our Salvation ſhould be here meant, (how, I ſhall ſhew you by and by) a whole and a compleat Salvation. Ye are ſaved by Grace, that is, ye are fully ſaved, or elſe the Apoſtle's Scope would not be here ſatisfied, and made fully up, unleſs his Expreſſion ſhould reach to this; he having ſpoken ſuch great things in the words before, of God's ſhewing Riches of Grace in the World to come, and making this as a Proof of what he had ſaid before.

3. That he ſpeaks of Salvation, as applied in this Life, it is not the poſſeſſion of Salvation in Heaven, that muſt neceſſarily be left out; for he ſpeaks, I ſay, of Salvation, as it is applied; and it is manifeſt, becauſe (ſaith he) it is through Faith.

Now then to aſſoil this Difficulty in a word, that I may make this clear to you, for upon it depends the Underſtanding of theſe Words in the Text: I conceive that Salvation imports two things, or if you will, Salvation hath two Parts.

The one is, of ſuch Benefits as do conſiſt meerly in the Actions of God upon us, and towards us, which indeed and in truth are properly Salvation, in compariſon of the other, as making us Sons and Heirs, pronouncing us juſt, redeemed, reconciled, graciouſly accepting our Perſons in his Son, giving us a Right to Heaven, and to Life.

And the other is of the Workings of God in us, which are unto this Salvation, as Calling, and Sanctification, and Obedience, &c.

I find, Saved, is thus diſtinguiſhed, when he ſpeaks, as here he doth, of Grace, and not of Works. And that Text which we have often occaſion to recur to in the point of Free Grace, is an opener of this Place; it is in 2 Tim. 1. 9. Who hath ſaved us and called us, not according to our Works, but according to his own Purpoſe and Grace, which was given us in Chriſt Jeſus. Here if you mark it, Saved us, is made diſtinct from Calling; he hath both Saved us, and Called us, and both by Grace, and not of Works. Now if you take in the whole Work of Calling, God doth not call us by Faith, not by Faith alone, for Calling includes Sanctification and Regeneration; we are Saints by Calling as well as Believers by Calling; yet we ſee that he diſtinguiſheth Salvation which is the work of God upon us, from Calling which is the work of God in us.

Or if you will, you may take this diſtinction to clear it, which may help your Underſtandings more in it, and that is, that that Salvation which is applied here in this World (for we exclude Heaven) is not through Faith, not through Faith alone; for in 2 Theſſ. 2. 13. we are choſen to Salvation through Faith and Sanctification both: it is a medium through which he carries us.

Or if you will, we may alſo diſtinguiſh thus of Salvation it ſelf. That there are two ſorts of degrees of the application of it, and both called Salvation.

1. One is, an inveſting us with a Right, a Title, a Tenure, an Intereſt in all Benefits of Salvation be they what they will; to give us a formal, ſure, legal, authentical Intereſt, according to the rules of the Word, to all Benefits of Salvation whether in this World or in the World to come.

2. Or in the ſecond place, there is an actual Poſſeſſion, or if you will, rather call it an Accompliſhment of all the parts of Salvation and Works of God in us, which God carrieth on in us by degrees, works Holineſs in us by degrees, whereof quick-

ning

Serm. XXI.

ning is the beginning; works Glory in us by degrees, firſt raiſing us and then filling us with Glory in Heaven, as I ſhewed out of the 6th verſe.

Now theſe are evidently diſtinct, and yet they are both called Salvation. There is Salvation in Hope, that is, having the Title of it, Rom. 8. 24. And there is σωτηρίαν τῆς ψυχῆς, an obtaining of Salvation, or Salvation obtained; as you have it, in 2 Tim. 2. 10. There are ſome Benefits indeed, which we have not only a Right to, but we do as fully poſſeſs them as we ſhall do in the World to come; and that is being juſtified, we are as much Righteous as ever we ſhall be in Heaven, and have as full a Poſſeſſion of it; only at the latter Day there ſhall be a fuller enjoyment of it, therefore Sins are ſaid to be pardoned in the World to come.

This diſtinction of Salvation thus, in the Right and Title of it, and of Salvation in the full accompliſhment of it by Degrees, time after time, is evident in Scripture. 1 John 3. 2. Now are we the Sons of God. Now, the whole Right of Sons is ours, and God himſelf can give us nothing which he hath not given us a Right unto; and yet ſaith he, it doth not appear what we ſhall be: Look what our Right to Sonſhip gives us a Title to, that is yet to be manifeſt, what it will bring with it, we know not; it doth not yet appear what we ſhall be, but when he ſhall appear we ſhall be like him. So take Sanctification it ſelf, you are not perfectly ſanctified, you have not that part of Salvation compleated and accompliſhed, as it ſhall be in Heaven; you have as much Right to all the Sanctification that you ſhall ever have; now, as you ſhall have in Heaven: All that is prepared by Grace in Election from Eternity, the whole Title to it is given us at once, and God doth but parcel out by Degrees that Salvation, which he giveth in the Title of it at firſt. I will not ſtand to enlarge upon this.

Accordingly now you ſhall find, that our Divines do diſtinguiſh, and exceeding rightly. Say they, when we are ſaid to be tranſlated from Death to Life, and our State is altered from the State of Nature to the State of Grace, from Damnation to Salvation, there is a double Change wrought in us.

One is a Relative Change, which conſiſteth meerly in Title. And The other is a real Change, which conſiſteth in Works in us.

The Relative Change in us conſiſteth in all thoſe things which depend upon God's accounting, and reputing, and actual reckoning as ſuch. As now go take Juſtification, in Rom. 4. 5. it is ſaid there to be an accounting, and reckoning for Righteouſneſs to us, therefore it is oppoſed to Condemnation, in Rom. 8. 32. Reconciliation or reckoning us Friends, it lies in accounting us ſo, 2 Cor. 5. 19. reconciling the World to himſelf, not imputing their Treſpaſſes unto them, but accounting them Friends, for that is the Poſition of it. So take Adoption, it lies in reputing, in God's accounting us Sons, in giving us the Right and Title to it; 1 Joh. 3. 1. That we ſhould be called the Sons of God, that is, reckoned ſuch: as the Child that is in the Cradle, hath the Title, and Intereſt, and Right of a Barony, or of a Kingdom.

Now all theſe Benefits, in which the main and indeed the whole of Salvation lies in this Life, are in a way of Reputation, and conſiſt in a Right, in a Title, before the Poſſeſſion: ſuch a Right as will bring all the Poſſeſſion after it. And therefore to ſee the Wickedneſs of the Church of Rome, how one Abſurdity draws on another. They, to maintain that we are juſtifyed not by being accounted Righteous, but by being inherently Righteous, ſay that our Adoption doth not conſiſt in a Relation to God as a Father, but in the Image of God wrought in us. Why, if that Adoption did imply a real Change in the Perſon that is made a Son, it muſt make a real Change in the Father, for Father and Son are Relatives; and ſo when God becomes a Father to us, you muſt make a real Change in him, for always for things that are relata there is the ſame Reaſon, as we uſe to ſay. Therefore now being a Son, what doth it lie in? it lies in a Title, in an Authority, in a Charter, in a Commiſſion as we ſay, as it is in Joh. 1. 12. He gave them Power, that is, he gave them a Charter, a Commiſſion, to be the Sons of God: as the King gives a Man a Charter or a Commiſſion to be a Noble-Man, or to be a Judge, gives him a Title to be ſo. In 1 Cor. 8. 9. and in 1 Cor. 7. 12. there the ſame Word is uſed for a Priviledg or for a Liberty.

Now

Now take Salvation thus, as it is endowing us with all the Title and Intereſt of whatſoever God means to beſtow upon us, and this is wholly by Grace, and wholly through Faith. Theſe three are adequate. 1. Such Benefits as are by imputation or reckoning. 2. By Grace, out of us. 3. Received only by Faith. Serm. XXI.

Here now is the ſolution of the Text: here is whole Salvation in the very lump, it is all given at once, given at firſt; the whole of it as it lay in the Womb of God's Decree and Free Grace, it is compleatly, according to the Right and Title of it, beſtowed upon us at once, and it is received through Faith. By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith, ſaith he; that now ſolves all the Difficulty. They are, I ſay, all beſtowed upon us at once, all that are, or as they are acts of God upon us, that great Salvation, ſo great Salvation, as the Apoſtle calls it, is given all at once: and by Grace ye are thus ſaved, compleatly and fully, and this as ſoon as you believe, eodem die, as Jerom ſpeaks. Here is the greateſt Gift that ever was given, not of your ſelves, ſaith he, it is the Gift of God. The Apoſtle hath penned the Words ſo, that they will refer as well to Salvation as to Faith. It is not of your ſelves, it is the Gift of God, the whole Lump of Salvation is. And, by Grace ye are thus ſaved, Salvation in the Lump of it, it is given to you by Grace, and received by Faith.

Now there is this difference between theſe two, that the one is given at once, and the other the Lord doth give by degrees, and go on to perfect it one after another: the one is an act of God upon us, towards us, and therefore is a meer act of Free Grace, immediately reſiding in God, and doth not import infuſing any thing into us. In Rom. 3.22. the Apoſtle ſpeaking of Juſtification, mark his Phraſe, Righteouſneſs (ſaith he) unto all, and upon all them that believe; not in all, but unto all and upon all.

Now then, this ſame Right to Salvation, and to the whole of Salvation, and all that ever you ſhall have, it is truly and properly called Salvation. Why? you were once Sinners: for you to be ſaved from your Sins, ſaved from Wrath, to have a Kingdom added to it, and to have a Right to all the Bleſſings that ever the Grace of God means to beſtow, and to have all this reputed yours, this is to be ſaved truly and properly; it is to be ſaved in Title, as the other is to be ſaved in Execution. You know the word Saved, in our ordinary Phraſe, it is taken in a double Senſe; we either ſay a Phyſician ſaveth a Man's Life, or we ſay, a King ſaveth a Man's Life if he pardons him, and eſpecially if he advanceth him to any great Place. Now when he ſaith, God ſaveth us, his meaning is, he ſaveth us as a Judg, as the Sovereign Lord of Heaven and Earth, by endowing us with the Pardon of all Sin, and of Righteouſneſs, and Adoption, and what ever elſe; which are all forinſecal Actions, Actions of a Judge, without us. Therefore now when he ſaith, by Grace ye are ſaved, he means theſe Acts, which indeed are properly Salvation. As we uſe to ſay of Inſtitution and Induction into a Benefice, the Man hath the whole given him by Inſtitution, but he hath not Poſſeſſion but by Induction: ſo here, by Grace ye are ſaved; all that belongs to Salvation it comes immediately through the Hands of Free Grace, and is communicated to you by Faith.

And my Brethren, Salvation taken thus, in this Senſe, agrees with the ſcope of the Apoſtle, and the Words of the Text every way.

Firſt, He ſaith, Ye are ſaved, compleatly ſaved. This now can be no way meant but in reſpect of the whole Title and Tenure of Salvation. He ſaith not, ye ſhall be ſaved, but, ye are ſaved, fully aud compleatly ſaved.

And then again, if you mark the Words, the Apoſtle doth ſever this Salvation in the Title, conveyed to us by Faith, from the workings of God upon us: For after he had affirmed, by Grace ye are ſaved, through Faith, he then ſhews how over and above all that is wrought in us in this Life, it is by it too, and by Grace alſo. He ſevers therefore the whole of Salvatton in the Title and in the Right of it, from thoſe things which are the means of Salvation, as taken from the Poſſeſſion, which are both Faith, and the new Creature, and good Works, and the like. This I ſay is natural to the Text, that beſides giving Salvation by Grace at firſt, which Faith only receiveth, it ſhews that Grace doth all in all in us beſides, it maketh that Faith, and the new Creature, and every thing elſe in us.

Serm. XXI.

And let me add this: you will not find a Scripture, where Believing, or where Sanctification is called Salvation it ſelf; they are ſaid indeed to be unto Salvation, and they are means, but they are not called properly and ſtrictly Salvation. And accordingly as there is Salvation in the Title of it given to us in one Lump, and the Works of Salvation wrought in us: ſo you ſhall find that the Scripture puts the ſame Diſtinction between Grace: there is either the Grace that brings Salvation, in the offer of it, as it is called in Tit. 2. 11. that is big with it, that hath all Salvation in the Lump to beſtow, and which it offers to inveſt us with when we are Called. And there is Grace alſo taken for that diſpenſatory Grace, as I may ſo call it, which doth work Grace in us. and gives us a Poſſeſſion, by a Power in us which Grace ſets a-work: And this is called Grace too, in 1 Cor. 15. 10. Not I, but the Grace of God which was in me, or, with me. He means there the Grace of God as working in him, or with him. Therefore let me tell you this, though it is Grace that ſaveth, and Grace that ſanctifieth, and it is Grace that glorifieth, yet Grace ſaveth not in the ſame manner that it ſanctifieth and glorifieth: For how doth it ſanctify? It is the ſame Grace efficiently indeed, and immediately, the ſame Grace that doth juſtify us doth adopt us; but how doth it ſanctify us? It ſanctifieth us by infuſing Grace into us; and there is, as the Apoſtle ſaith, the Grace of God which is in me, and which is with me; which is in God working with what he puts into me, which is the Grace of God with me, or in me. But when Grace is ſaid to ſave or to juſtify, there it is pure Grace, that is, it is not by working any thing in me, but by a meer Act that reſideth in God, yet entitleing me and inveſting me to the whole of Salvation. And this is ſaid to be received through Faith, all this whole Salvation is ſo received. And as it cometh immediately and purely through the Hands of Free Grace, and doth not conſiſt, doth not mingle it ſelf with any workings in me, ſo Faith is that which doth immediately receive it, receive the whole of Salvation, as I ſhall ſhew you anon.

As now, take Juſtification, being ſaved from Wrath, and ſaved from Sin, the Scripture is clear in it that you receive it by Faith, being juſtified (ſaith he) by Faith.

And ſo Adoption, and Son-ſhip, being made Heirs of Life (which you may in ſome Senſe make a part of Juſtification, and ſo the Scripture doth, yet notwithſtanding) we are ſaid to receive it by Faith, Gal. 4. 4, 5. and Gal. 3. 26.

Take both in, Remiſſion of Sins, and being Heirs of Life, you receive them both through Faith, and through Faith alone; you have a place for it in Act. 26. 18. a Speech of Chriſt ſince he went to Heaven, unto Paul, ſaith he, there, That they may receive Forgiveneſs of Sins, and Inheritance among them which are ſanctified by Faith that is in me. He divides the whole of Salvation into theſe two things, into Forgiveneſs of Sins, and inheritance among them which are ſanctified; he cuts off from theſe two Faith and Sanctification; he makes Sanctification a Qualification of that Perſon God means to ſave; but he makes Faith the thing that receiveth the Right and Title, and ſo receiveth Salvation compleatly, both the one and the other, and this from the Hands of Free Grace immediately. But I will not ſtand to enlarge theſe things, being clear and evident. And therefore although I might ſhew you that Faith hath a great Hand in all parts of Salvation, yet I could not ſhew you that it had a ſole Hand. I could ſhew you how it cauſeth Repentance, how it is the Spring of all good Works, of all Obedience, how it is that which goeth out unto Chriſt to fetch in Holineſs and Strength, how it ſanctifieth and purifieth the Heart, how it brings in aſſurance of Salvation, which is called Salvation: all this might be ſhewn that Faith doth; how you are kept by the Power of God unto Salvation, and that through Faith. But none of theſe, or the moſt of theſe which I have named, are through Faith alone; they are not, I ſay, communicated to us through Faith alone; Faith alone doth not ſanctify us, as the Papiſts would ſlander us, though Faith alone juſtifieth us and ſaveth us. Now here the Apoſtle ſheweth what Faith alone doth, and therefore we muſt exactly keep to that whole Lump of Salvation, which at firſt is beſtowed upon us. And ſo now you have the meaning of theſe Words, For ye are ſaved.

'By Grace,'] It implies the principal Cauſe. By Grace, is meant the free Favour in the Heart of God out of us, as I ſhewed at large, when I opened that Scripture, 'By Grace ye are ſaved, v. 5.

And

And therefore to add but a Confirmation or two to it. In Tit. 2. 11. where he ſaith, The Grace of God hath appeared to us, in ch. 3. v. 4. he ſaith, The Kindneſs and Love of God hath appeared. And in Exod. 33. 19. that which is ſaid there, I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and I will ſhew Mercy on whom I will ſhew Mercy: In Rom. 9. 15. it is, I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have compaſſion on whom I will have compaſſion; implying not a Grace in us, but a Grace that is in God.

The Papiſts anathematize thoſe, qui ſtatuunt Gratiam quâ juſtificamur, eſſe tantùm favorem Dei. Conc. Triden. Seſſ. 6. c. 11. Now when we ſay, by Grace that is, the Favour of God out of us, the Queſtion is not, Whether, firſt, Grace in Scripture be taken ſometimes for the Gifts of Grace to us? We grant it: Nor ſecondly, is the Queſtion, Whether inherent Holineſs, &c. be joined with Salvation, or to flow from Grace? but that we even are ſaved thereby. And therefore it is the greateſt height of the Myſtery of Iniquity that ever was among the Papiſts, who do not hold, that we are not juſtified at all by the Grace of God out of us, no, not ſo much as the Forgiveneſs of Sins, not that part of Salvation. Altho they ſeem to pretend to it, and talk of Forgiveneſs of Sins, yet in truth rhey do not hold Forgiveneſs of Sins to conſiſt in a free Favour, pardoning as one Man pardons another: but they make Remiſſion of Sins to be nothing elſe but the Deletion, the blotting out of a Man's Sins. And therefore Vaſques, one of their greateſt Schoolmen, ſpeaks out, for he ſaw it is that which muſt neceſſarily come upon them, according to their Tenents; for what do they ſay? They tell you, that there is but one Cauſe of Juſtification, and that is the Infuſion of Holineſs into us. Now mark it, if they held a Forgiveneſs of Sins by Grace, then they muſt hold two Parts, or two Cauſes of Juſtification: one to lie in Remiſſion of Sins by the free Grace and Favour of God, and the other in God's making us righteous inherently in our ſelves: And ſo our Juſtification ſhould have two heterogeneal, two uniform Parts, which were not like one to the other; one part of their Juſtification muſt lie in the Grace of God, without them wholly and meerly, and the other part muſt lie in inherent Righteouſneſs infuſed into them. Now to avoid this Abſurdity, they do clearly and plainly ſay, and argue for it, that the true Remiſſion of Sins lies in the blotting out of Sin; and as Darkneſs is done away by the coming in of Light, ſo there is no other Pardon of Sin, but Holineſs and Righteouſneſs infuſed, which doth expell it. And this, I ſay, their greateſt Schoolman, Vaſques, doth expreſly and clearly ſay. I do not ſay, (ſaith he) that Sin is pardoned by a Grace and Favour out of our ſelves, but it lies in this, (he ſays it expreſly, without an Addition of a new Favour) in having an inherent Holineſs infuſed into us. What a damnable and deſperate Doctrine is this! (beſides the Derogation that is in it to the Grace of God) for no Man then can believe that his Sin is pardoned, until he ſee it expelled out of him. And therefore, my Brethren, hate Popery, for this is the Tenent of it.

By Grace ye are ſaved, not only by having Sin pardoned, but being acounted Sons, and being accounted righteous. When you come to have the whole of Salvation beſtowed upon you, it is meerly the Grace that is in the Heart of God, about which Faith deals immediatly.

Now there is the Grace of God in Election, which is the Original Grace; and there is the Grace of God, which doth make Application of all to us: It is for ſubſtance the ſame Love, only I make this diſtinction, as the Scripture alſo doth: I ſay, there is firſt, the Grace of God in Election, which doth beſtow all that Salvation upon us, and that in Chriſt; ſo you have it in 2 Tim. 1. 9. He hath ſaved us according to his own Purpoſe and Grace, which was given us in Chriſt Jeſus before the World began. There was a Grace given us, and beſtowed upon us in Chriſt, before the World began; this is the Original Grace: Now, ſaith he, when God comes to ſave you actually, he doth it according to that Grace. Mark that Phraſe, it is uſed there, and it is likewiſe in Tit. 3. 5. According to his Mercy he ſaveth us; ſo in 1 Pet. 1. 3. According to his abundant Mercy he hath begotten us again; that is, according to that Original Grace, which from everlaſting he beſtowed upon us, that Favour which he did caſt upon us in his Son, that Love continued now, the very ſame, according to the Model, Purpoſe, and Deſign thereof, is Salvation beſtowed upon us. And of this Grace he ſpeaks here, a diſpenſatory Grace, as I may ſo call it, that is, when Elective Love continued to us, doth upon the ſame Terms out of which he firſt choſe us, beſtow all that Salvation upon us. The Uſe of this Diſtinction you ſhall ſee afterwards in the next Diſcourſe.

Serm. XXI.

I will not ſtand to lay open to you the Riches and Greatneſs of this Grace, for that I did before: I ſhewed how all of Salvation depended upon it; I ſhewed you the Riches of this Grace, I have done it again and again.

Now when he ſaith, By Grace, you muſt take in the Grace of all the three Perſons, the Favour of them all; he doth not ſay by the Grace of God only; he doth not mention Jeſus Chriſt in this, therefore I ſay take all in, the Grace of the Father, which is called the Grace of God, who is ſaid to be the Saviour, in Iſa. 43. 3. I am the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Iſrael, thy Saviour: And the Grace of Jeſus Chriſt, 'tis his Favour alſo that we are ſaved by: It was the Grace of God that gave Jeſus Chriſt, he died by the Grace of God; ſo you have it in Heb. 2. 9. It was his Love, or a Grace in the Heart of Jeſus Chriſt, that cauſed him to become the Author and Purchaſer of all Salvation to us: You know the Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, (ſaith the Apoſtle in 2 Cor. 8. 9.) that tho he was rich, yet for your ſakes he became poor, that ye through his Poverty might be rich. And, Gal. 1. 6. it is called the Grace of Chriſt. And then it is the Grace of the Holy-Ghoſt likewiſe, for all three Perſons concur in it; and becauſe the Apoſtle doth faſten it neither upon the Father, nor upon the Son, nor upon the Holy-Ghoſt, let us take them all in: Rev. 1. 4. Grace be unto you from the ſeven Spirits, that is, from the Holy-Ghoſt: For, to ſay that Grace ſhould be wiſhed from any Creature; or to take ſeven Spirits for created Gifts, or for Angels, as ſome have done, and to join them to the other two Perſons which he had ſpoken of before, is extremely abſurd; therefore he means the Holy-Ghoſt, who is therefore called the Spirit of Grace, in Heb. 10. 29. Now it is Grace alone, that is, the free Favour of God the Father, and of God the Son, and of God the Holy-Ghoſt, that beſtows all Salvation upon us; why? Becauſe this Whole of Salvation conſiſteth in a reckoning us to be Heirs and Sons; now whatſoever is thus by way of Reckoning and Account, it is by Grace.

When he comes to beſtow Salvation upon us, is it not an infinite thing, my Brethren, that that God who loved us from everlaſting, when he comes to call us, and work Faith in us, ſhould in a moment, in an inſtant, reſpecting nothing in us, poſſeſs us of all Salvation! Reſpecting nothing in us, it is therefore Grace. Rom. 3. 24. We are juſtified freely by his Grace. The word there [freely] is to ſhew that it is meerly Grace, it is without cauſe, it is Grace died in Grace, as I uſe to ſay, gracious Grace; for ſo that Phraſe, Freely by his Grace, will warrant ſuch Expreſſions: Prorſus gratis, as Auſtin calleth it, that beſtows all of Salvation.

And as it doth do it without reſpecting any thing in us, ſo he doth do it notnotwithſtanding all that he ſeeth in us. A Soul may ſay, O Lord, thou doſt freely give, not finding ſomething why thou ſhouldeſt ſave, but all why thou ſhouldeſt damn, and yet beſtoweſt the Whole of Salvation upon us. And what an infinite Gift is this! that the pooreſt Believer that is, hath the Whole of Salvation in that moment that he believeth, and he receiveth by it the Whole of Salvation! It may not only be ſaid of him, that he ſhall be ſaved, but that he is ſaved: It is made ſure to all the Seed by Grace, as the Apoſtle's expreſſion is in Rom. 4. But I will not ſtand to enlarge upon theſe things now.

You have had theſe two things expounded:

1. What is meant by Saved?
2. What by Grace? And how the Whole of Salvation is given to us by the free Grace of God towards us.

The next thing now that I ſhould come to, is, To ſhew you, how all this is conveyed to us by Faith, that the Whole of it, I ſay, is conveyed to us by Faith.

In

Serm. XXI.

In the opening of this I ſhall (becauſe it is the main) ſpend a little time upon it now, and in the next Sermon,. And firſt, I ſhall open to you all theſe Particulars which are natural and proper to the Text.

1. That as the whole of Salvation is given by Grace, ſo it is wholly received by Faith, and by Faith only; and there is nothing in Man that could have received this whole Gift of Salvation, or lay hold on it, or apprehend it, or have been capable of it, but only Faith, not Works, nor any thing elſe.

2. I muſt ſhew you what this Faith is, and that out of the Text, that this Faith which hath the Grace of God, and the Grace of Chriſt for its Object, and hath Salvation for its aim, this Faith and no other doth receive and doth poſſeſs us of the whole of Salvation.

3. I muſt likewiſe ſhew you, how this Faith doth poſſeſs us of all this, that it is conveyed through this Faith, and what kind of Conſideration this Faith ſhould have in our being ſaved by it, whether as a Condition, or an Inſtrument, or what.

I ſhall ſpeak to all of theſe things briefly; and the firſt two are implyed in the Word Faith; and the other in the Word through Faith; and ſo I ſhall clear it to you what is meant by this, through Faith, and ſhew you how through Faith it is conveyed to us, which indeed are ſome of the Controverſies and Agitations of theſe times.

That which I ſhall do at this preſent, it is only this, (for I ſee I cannot finiſh it) That as the whole of Salvation doth come immediatly out of the Hand of God and his Free Grace, ſo there is no Principle in Man, or that can be ſuppoſed to have been in Man, which could have received this whole of Salvation, but only Faith. As Grace, I ſay, is the thing that gives all, ſo this Principle in Man, Faith, is that which ſuits this Grace wholly and fully, and nothing elſe could.

You read in Rom. 3. 24. of three Cauſes, as I may ſo expreſs them, but I will not call them all Cauſes, I ſhall ſhew you what Influence Faith may be ſaid to have into our Salvation, by and by. Ye are juſtifyed (ſaith he) freely by his Grace, through the Redemption that is in Jeſus Chriſt, whom God hath ſet forth to be a Propitiation, through Faith in his Blood. You have theſe three, by Grace, through the Redemption that is in Chriſt, and through Faith in his Blood. Now by Grace there, is meant, all the Favour in God's Heart towards us, which did contrive and intend all ſort of Benefits to us, to the praiſe of it ſelf. But yet this Grace that was in the Heart of God, needed Jeſus Chriſt as a Mediatour (if you will have me ſo ſpeak) in reſpect of compounding it with Juſtice, therefore it is added there, through the Redemption that is in Jeſus Chriſt. And Grace pitch'd upon the fitteſt Inſtrument, the fitteſt Servant it could have, to execute all its Will, and to derogate nothing from it ſelf, that is Jeſus Chriſt. Look what Salvation you do deſign ſaith Chriſt, I will purchaſe, and notwithſtanding my Purchaſe you ſhall give all freely; (for though it be given through the Redemption that is in Chriſt, and ſo as in reſpect of Chriſt, it is not free, yet as it is to us it is free) and ſaith he, Grace ſhall not be robbed by me one whit, but advanced, the Revenue of it ſhall not be one whit impaired by me, no, the giving of me, and that I die by Grace (as the Phraſe is, Heb. 2.) it ſhall magnify Grace ſo much the more, and make it double Grace. So that now the Grace that was in God, hath a Saviour for us fitted to his own Heart. Well, but now ſaith God (that I may expreſs it in this familiar manner) I ſee how that the giving of Jeſus Chriſt, and his Redemption, will very well ſtand with my Grace, and advance it: But I muſt come and apply this Salvation, the whole of Salvation, out of meer pure Grace, reſpecting nothing in the Creature, and I muſt make the Creature ſenſible of this, and what is it that I ſhall do it by that ſhall magnify both my Grace and this Chriſt? If I can now but get an Inſtrument, ſomething in Man's Heart, that doth no more derogate from Grace than Chriſt's Redemption doth, then Grace is advanced indeed. Now my Brethren, as Jeſus Chriſt was ſo fit an Inſtrument, and a Servant to all Free Grace's Ends and Purpoſes; the Truth is, ſo is Faith every whit, it is ſuited to the very Spirit and Strain, it is according to Free Grace's own Heart too, let me tell you ſo. As

Grace

Serm. XXI.

Grace is the eminent thing in God, ſo Faith in us, ſuited to it, doth ſerve all its Ends; As Grace gives all that is in God without us, ſo it is pure Faith that receives it: As the whole of Salvation beſtowed, the Right to it, is out of us, and conſiſteth in God's reckoning and accounting of it to us, ſo this Faith it is a meer going out of a Man's ſelf to Grace for this Salvation, it is conformed to all the Contrivements of Grace, to give Glory to it. As it is not of a Man's ſelf, ſo Faith doth not look to a Man's ſelf. Even (as I may ſo expreſs it) as the Marygold, it opens and ſhuts with the Sun, and turns continually round, and holds a correſpondency with it, ſo doth Faith to Grace.

The Papiſts ſay wickedly and wretchedly, that Love is the Form and Soul of Faith. The Truth is, the Free Grace of God is as the Form of Faith, if we may ſo ſpeak, and what is Faith in a Man? It is juſt like the firſt Matter God created, in Gen. 1. it hath no Form, no Shape in it ſelf at all, but capable to take in and to receive all the Free Grace that is in God, and all that Salvation which he hath propoſed to beſtow, and to give unto Free Grace the Glory and Honour of it, that nothing but Grace ſhall ſhine and be as the Soul of it. It will take no Form and Impreſſion but what Free Grace ſtamps upon it, and it will return its own Impreſſion to himſelf again in Glory. Free Grace can ſay nothing to magnify it ſelf, but that Faith in the Heart of a Believer, acted by the Spirit, can take it in, and give him the Glory of it his own way. The Truth is (that I may in a way of ſimilitude make a Parallel in this Caſe) as the Human Nature of Chriſt being united to the Son of God, had that inſtinct, and that Law in his Heart (as it is called in Pſal. 40.) that he did not act as a Perſon by himſelf, he had not a Will of his own, but was reſolved wholly in the God-Head, being united to it; ſo Faith, it doth uot take upon it as a Grace, and as a work, or any of theſe things, it loſeth it ſelf, it reſolves it ſelf, and meerly takes the Forms and Impreſſions that the free Favour of God moulds it into. And the Property of it is thus to advance the Grace of God, and that is the Reaſon (I ſhall give you a Scripture for it by and by, than which to me nothing is ſtronger) that Grace in beſtowing the whole of Salvation will brook Faith well enough. It will go and ſave through Faith; it riſeth up againſt Works as all Rebels, Salvation (ſaith he) is of Grace, through Faith, not of Works. And Free Grace will truſt Faith with all its Glory in beſtowing of Salvation, when it will not endure Works to come in ſight, not in point of giving Salvation and the right of it.

In Rom. 4. 4, 5. and compared with verſe 16. ſaith the Apoſtle, Now to him that worketh is the Reward not reckoned of Grace, but of Debt. Why, might not a Man ſay, I wrought it? But Works you ſee will not ſtand with Grace, and Grace will not ſtand with Works, but if God means to beſtow Salvation out of Grace, by way of Reputation, and accounting us Righteous, and Sons, and Heirs, &c. Faith will quickly ſerve the turn of Free Grace; therefore it follows, But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that juſtifieth the Ungodly. But there is a more full Expreſſion in the 16*th* verſe, which is more clear than this, and truly to me it is a ſtrange one, and I wondred at it when I conſidered it; It is of Faith (ſaith he) that it might be by Grace, ſpeaking of the whole Inheritance of Salvation (for as he calls it ſaved here, he calls it an Inheritance in the 13*th* and 14*th* verſes.) I take the meaning of the Words to be this, that when God was to apply Salvation, and to give the Right of it, and that purely and meerly out of Grace, he did as it were conſult with himſelf, what in Man he ſhould take that ſtill it might be Grace, and nothing of it might be impaired, and ſo he pitch'd upon Faith; for that is clearly the Apoſtle's Scope, he ordained Faith, ſaith he, that it might ſtill be of Grace. That look as it was meerly Grace when it was in God's own Heart to give, ſo when he works Faith in a Man, and cauſeth him to believe, it is as much Grace as it was before, and nothing is derogated from Grace at all. It is therefore of Faith, ſaith he, therefore God choſe and ſingled out Faith, that ſtill it might be by Grace, that Grace might ſtand unimpaired, and be as fully by Grace as if there were no Faith, as if Grace had ſaved a Man without working any thing in him: Though God doth work Faith, which is an Act of his, and an Act of the Soul too, yet it is as much by Grace, ſaith he, as ever.

My

My Brethren, Although we hold all the Tenure, and actual Right to all of Salvation, through Faith (for ſo the Scripture ſpeaks, it is of Faith, and through Faith, &c.) yet ſtill it alters not the Tenure one whit, it is only and meerly by Grace ſtill, it holds as much upon the Original Grace as before: And Faith is taught to cauſe the Heart to do ſo, even as if God had wrought no Faith, nor nothing elſe as an Inſtrument, but had ſaved him without any Act of his at all. Thus you ſee that Faith ſuits with Grace, and it ſuits with Grace in beſtowing Salvation.

I ſhould now enlarge upon this, giving you the Reaſon, why by Faith: And then Secondly, by what Faith? the Faith that is pitch'd upon Grace, this Faith. And then, how through Faith, and how that nothing is derogated from Grace by it.

As the whole of Salvation is a meer free Gift of Grace, ſo is Faith a meer Receiver, and Faith only could receive: For if there be any thing given by Grace, and Grace be acknowledged the Giver, you muſt have ſomething that muſt receive, and in receiving muſt give all back again to Grace, and that is nothing elſe but Faith (for now I am ſhewing you the Reaſon why Grace pitched upon Faith when it would beſtow the whole of Salvation upon us.) I ſay, as Faith ſuiteth with Grace only, ſo it is Faith only that can receive, it is that Grace alone that can receive the whole of Salvation from God. And therefore you ſhall obſerve in the Scripture, how that ſtill receiving is put upon Faith, as giving upon Grace. They received abundance of Grace, and the Gift of Righteouſneſs. The Gift of Righteouſneſs, the whole of Salvation is of Grace; now what in the Scripture is it, that is ſaid to receive it? Not your Love, nor your Works, nor your Holineſs; no, they have nothing to do with it in the Point of Salvation, but that Principle of Faith doth it. You ſhall find it through the whole Scripture: As many as received him (and that is interpreted to be thoſe that believed on him) to them he gave Power to be the Sons of God. Son-ſhip is ſaid to be received by Faith, Gal. 4. 4. Remiſſion of Sins, which is a part of Salvation out of meer Grace, it is ſaid to be received by Faith, Acts 26. 18. The Inheritance of Heaven and Life, the whole Eſtate of it, is a free Gift of God, purely and meerly, it is ſaid to be received by Faith, in the ſame place. The Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, is called the Gift of Righteouſneſs, in Rom. 9. Faith is ſaid to be that which apprehends it, it is called an Apprehenſion or laying hold of Righteouſneſs, ſo in Act. 4. 12. and Act. 10. 43.

I ſay, run throughout the whole New Teſtament, you ſhall find mention of this Act of receiving, and it is only aſcribed unto Faith.

And how doth it receive? It meerly receiveth, it doth not give to God any thing, it doth not return, as Love doth. It was a Speech of the Ancients, that Faith only is the apprehending and receiving Principle, takes all in, but Charity is that which gives out, and returns ſomething to God. Now God did not like that, he would not go and ſay, Grace ſhould ſave us by that which ſhould return ſomething to him, but by that which ſhould be only a Receiver. If he had ſaid, he had ſaved us through Love, or ſaved us through Holineſs, and given us the whole of Salvation through theſe, or any part of them, or the Right unto it, what would Love have ſaid? I have given you Love again for your Love. God doth not like that: for who hath given unto him, and it ſhall not be recompenced unto him again? But God takes that which is but a meer Receiver, that returns nothing again, and that is Faith.

Therefore though you would ſay, Is not Faith an Act?

It's true, it is in a Grammatical Signification an Act, but in the Senſe, in the true real Import of it, it is meerly Paſſive. Faith doth not give any thing to God, as Charity and Love doth, but it only ſuffers God to be good to it, it takes in that Salvation which Grace would beſtow upon it. My Brethren, the Hands of all other Graces are working Hands, but the Hands of Faith are meerly receiving Hands; now ſaith the Apoſtle, Not to him that worketh, but believeth. So that this

Faith

Serm. XXI. Faith as it believeth to Salvation, it is not reckoned a Worker, nor doth it look upon it ſelf as ſuch, but a meer Receiver, a meer Emptineſs, a meer firſt Matter and Chaos, the Form whereof is Grace, if I may ſo allude. No Grace could have been choſen in the Heart of Man, ſuitable thus to the Grace that giveth, and to the Gift it ſelf, as this Grace of Faith is.

And there is nothing in Man that anſwers the Promiſe: For this Grace hath put it ſelf out into Promiſes; as the Original lies in the Heart of God, ſo he hath made a Copy out of himſelf in the Promiſes, and nothing anſwers this but Faith.

And indeed, nothing could have given the intire Glory unto Grace, but only Faith. It is juſt as a meer Looking-Glaſs, when the Sun ſhines it is a glorious thing, O how glorious is that Looking-Glaſs when it ſhineth! But what is the Glory? It is nothing elſe but the very Sun's ſhining on it: ſo is Faith, and the Soul believing the Free Grace of God in Chriſt, receiveth Salvation from him.

SERMON XXII.

EPHES. 2. 8, 9, 10.

8. For by Grace ye are ſaved through Faith, and that not of your ſelves; it is the Gift of God:

9. Not of Works, leſt any Man ſhould boaſt.

10. For we are his Workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus unto good Works, which God hath before ordained, that we ſhould walk in them.

THeſe Words do contain the great Contrivement of God's Free Grace, in the Application of, and bringing us to Salvation through Faith. As the Words before had ſpoken of the Manifeſtation of an unknown Treaſury of Grace to be broken up and ſpent in after Ages, in Heaven, for ever: ſo amongſt other Coherences of theſe Words with the former, they come in as a Demonſtration to raiſe up their Minds to conſider how infinite God's Contrivements will be in ſhewing Riches of Grace in Heaven, and when that time is come, ſeeing that in the Way and in the Foundation of it laid here in the Works of Faith and Application by the Spirit, he had ſhewn forth and given ſo great a Declaration of the Riches of his Grace. And ſo now the Word [For] (as I ſhewed laſt Diſcourſe.) I refer even to the Words immediately foregoing in that Sence.

My Brethren, The Doctrine of the Free Grace of God in the Application of Salvation to us, hath been in all Ages ſubjected to Corruption, and a derogating from that Free Grace, either by denying of the Application at all, or not regarding it, or elſe by attributing that to the thing wrought in us, which ſhould be attributed to Free Grace it ſelf which works it.

The Free Grace of God, take it in the Spring and Fountain of it (give me leave to preface this by the way) that is, as it was in God's Heart from everlaſting, purpoſing and contriving our Salvation, as it reſideth in God's own Breaſt, it is moſt pure and Criſtaline: for as ſo conſidered, it had no other Spring, but only the pure Thoughts of his own Love. And again conſider this Grace in the Current and Streams of it, as they run through the Heart of Chriſt, and are manifeſted in the works of his Mediation, performed by himſelf, although there they are mingled with a full Price paid for all that Free Grace hath done for us, yet ſtill there it nothing loſt of its Glory, nothing of its Freeneſs; but ran on clear, pure Grace ſtill, notwithſtanding a price of Chriſt's Blood mingling with this Grace and paying a ſatisfaction to it. And the Reaſon is this, becauſe ſtill it was in the Hand of one that was God, who would detract nothing from it. But the hazard of prejudicing this Grace, is when Free Grace ſhall come to apply and bring home the Salvation purpoſed by God, and purchaſed by Chriſt, to our Hearts. When through Grace wrought in us, he ſhall endow and inveſt us with the whole and entire Title to Salvation, in our own Perſons through Faith. And my Brethren, as it runs through our Hearts, as it comes there, there is a danger of contracting Mud from the mixture of Man's Will, and Self, and Leaven of Grace wrought in Man, with this Free Grace of God brought home to Man. And this comes to paſs through the Pride and Self-conceit of Man, which is apt to attribute thoſe Works of Grace in us (without which Salvation cannot be applyed and made ours) to ſomething or other that ſhall be to the diminution and impairing of that Grace that ſaveth us, and is the Author of all.

Ser. XXII.

In all Ages, but eſpecially in theſe latter Ages of the World, there hath been many Attempts and Devices in the Hearts of Men to detract and diminiſh from the Soveraignty of Free Grace: and if not to pull down that Soveraignty, yet to weaken it, and to undermine that Throne which God hath invincibly erected for it; and it is evident In all thoſe goings forth, in all the Progreſſes of it towards our Salvation, eſpecially in theſe of Application of Salvation to us, whereof the Text ſpeaks.

Now although that in God's Heart, Grace runs pure from Everlaſting, yet notwithſtanding Attempts have been made to detract from that Grace, even from electing Grace, either by making it univerſal, or making Faith foreſeen to be a motive to God of this Grace; or to make Jeſus Chriſt's Merits to be the Foundation of his Love to us; which it is certain they were not, for he did give his Son out of that Love. Yet all theſe Attempts have been to corrupt even that very Grace which is in the Heart of God towards us from Everlaſting. Now if Men will dare to defile theſe Springs of Grace, as reſiding wholly in God's Breaſt, as they are eminent Acts contained within himſelf and riſing out of himſelf, if they will go and mingle their Dirt and Dung, for ſo Faith and Works and all things elſe are in compariſon of this Grace (Give me leave to uſe the Compariſon that Paul doth, ſpeaking of his own Righteouſneſs in relation to Chriſt's, ſo I ſpeak in relation to this Grace) I ſay, if Men will dare to Mud this pure Spring as it runs in God's Heart, and mingle Faith and Works and Chriſt's Merits; how much more the Streams of Grace bringing Salvation to us, when they ſhall come to run and flow into the Heart through Faith, and run through Holineſs, carrying us on to Eternal Life, till it hath made us Poſſeſſors of it, how much more will, I ſay, the Heart of Man corrupt the Doctrine of Grace here? the Danger doth eſpecially lye when it comes to this. Therefore the Apoſtle here ſpeaks ſo eminently of Grace, it being the Controverſy of thoſe times (for ſo it was) It was the great Controverſy in thoſe two Churches of Jeruſalem and Antioch, viz. about Works and Grace, in Acts 15.11. where Peter before the whole Council delivers his Opinion, We believe, ſaith he, that through the Grace of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, we ſhall be ſaved even as they. Mark, through the Grace of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, that was all they believed to be ſaved by. It was in oppoſition to Works. This Controverſy likewiſe troubled the Church of Galatia, therefore Paul ſpends whole Chapters upon them concerning it: it troubled the Church of the Romans too, and he ſpends whole Chapters in his Epiſtle likewiſe upon them. But theſe Epheſians were not tainted with it, but yet, to fortify them againſt it, he draws in this piece here, By Grace ye are ſaved, through Faith, and that not of your ſelves, it is the Gift of God, and ſtates the Controverſy as exactly as it can be ſtated for the exaltation of Free Grace.

My Brethren, many of thoſe who have kept the Doctrine of God's Free Grace in Election pure and unſtained with any thing in Man, yet in the Application of Grace unto us, they have miſcarryed, attributing more to Faith, or to Repentance, or to the new Creature, than the Free Grace of God will bear, and Chriſt's Blood. Many of the Papiſts have been ſound in Free Grace, as it hath been in God's Election; yea they are as right as can be in the buſineſs of Redemption, take it as it hath been wrought by Chriſt: they give as much worth to his Merits, and value to his Satisfaction as any other, and cry up both as much as we, and upon the ſame Grounds; but when it comes to the Application of Salvation, and to this [Our ſelves] as here, and when it comes to what Salvation ſhall be attributed to, whether to Faith or Works or what elſe, in this they miſcarry, this is the great ſtumbling-ſtone they all fall upon, and which Multitudes are broken to pieces with, and ſo it hath been in all Ages. When it comes that this ſame Grace, and Chriſt's Redemption ſhould be applyed to us, then what do they do? They ſet up the new Creature, this Workmanſhip of God created in Chriſt Jeſus unto good Works, to be made our Righteouſneſs, and not the Righteouſneſs of Jeſus Chriſt. They ſet up Grace within us, and not Grace without us. It will not be yielded ſo much that Chriſt's ſatisfaction is reckon'd ours for the pardon of Sin. And with others, thoſe good Works which are the Fruit of the New Creature, muſt be preferred to the Honour and Title of Merit, to procure Heaven for us. And the Truth is, with them, God's Free Grace and Chriſt's Righteouſneſs may very well think themſelves ſatisfied, if they be remotely, and at a diſtance, and at ſecond hand taken notice of. It is enough Honour to Chriſt's Merits with them, to have ſo much worth in them as to merit, as our good Works merit: and ſo Free Grace is, they think, honoured enough if it be faintly acknowledged that all is from Grace, becauſe the New Creature and all is from Grace aſſiſting us. Ser. XXII.

that

And my Brethren, Even when it comes to the Work of the New Creature, they go half ſhare with God. They ſay it is of our ſelves as well as of Grace. Yea, they make our Wills the Lords of Grace therein, that is, that Grace doth but meerly like a Servant help us, either to chooſe if we will, or we may refuſe if we will. But our Wills are the Maſters.

And others, That of late Years, ſeem to diſtinguiſh themſelves from Popery, by denying the Merit of good Works, yet in the mean time teaching Works to be for Juſtification as much as Faith, and both equal and alike Evangelical Conditions of Salvation.

And thoſe again that would reject Works, yet notwithſtanding will needs ſet up Faith even whether it will or no; whereas Faith is the moſt modeſt Grace that ever was in this point: but I ſay, they would ſet up Faith or ſomething that muſt have a Throne and Share with Chriſt and Grace. Some would have the very habit of Faith, whilſt aſleep, a miſerable thing; they will take it aſleep, when it hath neither done good or evil, and ſay we are ſaved by Faith in that Senſe. And others would have the act of Faith; yea and in ſo doing would put off Grace with this, that it is and ſhews the more of Grace to take ſo ſmall a thing as Faith, a Pepper-Corn, and they think that Jeſus Chriſt is enough honoured, and all is for his ſake.

Thus I ſay, In the way of Application, ſtill Free Grace hath been ſubject to loſe its Right. I will not ſtand to enlarge upon it. The Apoſtle therefore in regard of this aptneſs that is in the Heart of Man to incroach thus upon the Grace of God, he doth here ſet down the Royalties of Free Grace in this reſpect, reduceth all that is wrought in Man, to their due place or bottom, there to keep them from lifting up a Hand, or raiſing up a Thought, or taking in above what is meet or due to them. And my Brethren, it is a matter of as great Concernment to preſerve the Doctrine of Grace in its Soveraignty, in the work of Application, as it is to attribute a Sovereignty to it in Election and Redemption. And our Comfort is this, that God hath entruſted one that is God too even with this Work alſo, who will be ſure to carry it on, and work out all Mud in the Hearts of his own People, if they mingle any with it, and that is the Holy Spirit. And were it not a great deal of Pity, that after all the Glory of God which Grace hath in Election, and which Jeſus Chriſt hath in Redemption, when it ſhall come to Diſpenſation and Application, in the winding and cloſing of all, he ſhould be robbed of it again? As if a King or great Prince, his whole and entire Revenue ſhould be truly recorded and ſet down, and by his Treaſurer faithfully raiſed and collected, yet when it comes to be expended and laid out in his Family, as it goes through under-hand Officers, he ſhould be cheated, and that waſted and ſpoiled to his Diſhonour. This Diſhonour is the Grace of God, and of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt ſubject unto. It concerned therefore both God and Jeſus Chriſt to look to this back-Door. Therefore they have ſhewn as great a Wiſdom in its kind in this Work of Application, as in the Contrivement of the Work of Election or Redemption; and as in Creation, they created all in Number, Weight and Meaſure, ſo they ordered all here, leſt they ſhould loſe any thing; that though they had it given them in the Lump, in that work of Redemption, they ſhould by Retail come ſhort of their Glory and Honour: that when Free Grace ſhould come to be minted and ſtamped in our Hearts, it ſhould come to be embaſed and loſe of its value. The Apoſtle therefore is vehement in it, in all his Epiſtles; you ſee here how he heaps up Negatives one upon another, Not of your ſelves, not of Works, ſaith he. It is one of his Maſter-pieces, and indeed the Maſter-piece of God himſelf, for to ſet down the right Limits, and what is to be attributed to Grace, and to ſhew how that our Salvation is ſo ordered and contrived, that nothing of Grace is diminiſhed or impaired at all. I may compare this Free Grace of God to a Diamond; as it came out of the Rock it came pure and whole and fair; and it was as curiouſly cut (as I may ſo expreſs it) by our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, that all the Luſtres of it might have their utmoſt Advantage: but now all the hazard is, when it comes to be ſet in the Ring, ſet in our Hearts, ſet in Faith (though Faith be Gold) leſt it ſhould be ſo unskilfully ſet, as that any of the Luſtres of this Diamond ſhould be impaired, that though there be never ſo much in us, good Works or what ever it be, yet all may ſay (Faith ſpeaking in the Name of all the reſt) we do but ſerve to hold forth the Glories of this Grace, and the full brightneſs of them without obſcuring any. And therefore, I ſay, God hath entruſted one that is God, and that is his Spirit: and the Spirit hath here through Paul's Hand delivered to us the Truth herein: and the Apoſtle he doth prevent all the Corruption of the Hearts and Spirits of Men in this Doctrine, as I have in part ſhewed, and as in the opening of it will appear. And ſo now I come to the opening of the Words, having thus given you by way of Preface the Scope of them.

Ser. XXII.

Here are two things, which I ſpoke to in the laſt Diſcourſe.

I. What is meant by Grace?
II. What by Saved? By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith.

By Grace, (as I ſaid) is meant the Free Favour of God out of us. He uſeth no leſs than four Words to expreſs it by, from the 4*th* Verſe, to the Words I have read to you, Mercy, Love, Kindneſs, Grace, You have all the very ſame Words uſed in Tit. 3. 4, 5, 6, 7. you have Kindneſs and Love, ver. 4. After that the Kindneſs and Love of God toward Man appeared: you have Mercy, ver. 5. according to his Mercy he ſaved us: and you have Grace, ver. 7. being juſtified by his Grace. All theſe are Synonimous; if Mercy, if Love, if all theſe be things out of us in God himſelf, Grace is alſo.

Only there is one Queſtion, which I did not ſpeak to ſo fully in the laſt Diſcourſe, and that is, Whether that applying Grace (as I may call it, that being the Subject of this Text) diſpenſatory Grace, that applys Salvation to us, be the ſame with electing Grace, yea or no?

For anſwer to this (for it is a Matter of Moment, and the want of conſidering it, is the Ground of Miſtakes in ſome) I take it, that there is,

Firſt, The Grace of God (that I may give you the Diſtinction the Scripture gives) purpoſing of Salvation and all things to us: which you have in that famous place, 2 Tim. 1. 9. Who hath ſaved us according to his own Purpoſe and Grace. And this is proper to the Father.

But then there is, in the ſecond place, a purchaſing Grace, which we are ſaved by too, and that is, the Grace of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt; as you have it in 2 Cor. 8. 9. Ye know the Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, ſaith he, that though he was rich, yet for your ſakes he became poor, and thereby did purchaſe all that God did purpoſe towards us.

Then again, thirdly, There is, (as the Apoſtle to Titus expreſſeth it, Chap. 2. 11.) The Grace which bringeth Salvation; both that which revealeth it, as in 1 Pet. 1. 13. Truſt in the Grace that is brought to Light (its tranſlated to be brought to Light) at the revelation of Jeſus Chriſt, (not the Revelation of Chriſt to come, but it is that of the Goſpel.) And then again, it is a Grace bringing Salvation, becauſe as it reveals it, ſo it actually beſtows it.

Now if you ask me, Whether it be the ſame Grace that electeth, that alſo doth call us and ſave us?

I anſwer, firſt, It is certain, its the ſame Love, the ſame Grace, that juſtifieth, ſanctifieth, glorifieth and electeth, and all; it is the ſame Love continued to us.

In

In the 4th Verſe of this Chapter, ſaith he, For the great Love wherewith he loved us, he hath quickned us, &c. And in 2 Tim. 1. 9. According to the Grace given us in Chriſt, he hath ſaved us, and called us, &c. Ser. XXII.

Yet, ſecondly, you muſt conſider this, That this Grace of Election meerly, nihil ponet in nobis, it wrought no alteration at all in the Men, in the Perſons themſelves; but this Grace, when it comes to apply, it works an alteration in the Perſons: And therefore in that reſpect it may truly be ſaid to have a difference; a difference, namely, between electing Love, and that which juſtifies and ſanctifies, tho it is but the ſame electing Love continued to us. As it imports the ſame Love in God that doth elect, and that doth juſtify; ſo withal it imports a Love working a Work in us, even in Application. As now by way of Parallel, it is the ſame Love that doth ſanctify which doth juſtify; yet in the Work of Juſtification God works nothing in us, but only reckons ſomethings ours; it is an Act out of us, in God himſelf; but Grace ſanctifying, is a Work in us: So likewiſe is it here; Electing Grace, it did ponere nihil in nobis, it did put nothing upon us at all, for we were not; only we had that Grace given us in Chriſt, who then was in exiſtence, as you have it in that 2 Tim. 1.9. But this, I ſay, doth ponere aliquid: We are ſaved by Grace through Faith; and tho not of Works, yet there is a Workmanſhip created. It is the ſame Queſtion, as if you ſhould ask me, Whether that Love of God which was from Eternity, was the ſame, and no other, that gave Jeſus Chriſt up to Death in the Fulneſs of Time? How would I anſwer it? I would ſay, it is the ſame; for that God (as the Apoſtle ſaith) did in the fulneſs of Time ſend his Son, it was out of that Love that was from everlaſting: God ſo loved the World, that he ſent his only begotten Son, &c. Yea, and it may be truly ſaid, that Jeſus Chriſt his coming into the World was but the Manifeſtation of that Grace, which was given us before the World was, as you have it in 2 Tim. 1. 10. But yet withal, for all that, to ſend Jeſus Chriſt into the World, was a new Grace too; and therefore in Heb. 2. 9. he is ſaid to be put to Death by the Grace of God. And ſo now, tho Electing Grace is the ſame with that which juſtifies, yet when the Holy-Ghoſt cometh to work, and to apply, (for all three Perſons muſt have a like Honour) it may be ſaid to be a new Grace, even as the ſending of Chriſt into the World was; for ſo far forth as there is a newneſs in the one, there is a newneſs in the other. As now, it is a Grace of God, to make a Promiſe long before of any Mercy to his Creature; and when he performs it, it is all according to his Promiſe, yet it is a new Grace for him to do it: So it is here.

And therefore, in the third place, I deſire you to conſider, that ſtill when the Scripture ſpeaks of calling us, it uſeth this expreſſion, According to the Grace given us before the World began. So you have it in that place ſo often quoted, 2 Tim. 1.9. which indeed is a place parallel to, and openeth this: He hath ſaved us, ſaith he, and called us, according to the Grace given us in Chriſt before the World began. That place ſheweth, 1. That it is a Grace out of us, for it was given us before the World began: 2. That it is a Grace without us; and, 3. That Calling likewiſe is a Grace, the Holy-Ghoſt therein working according to the Pattern of what was given to him. Now add to this, that in Rom. 9.11,12. a place pertinent to this purpoſe, (the end why I ſpeak this you ſhall ſee by and by) The Children being not yet born, (ſpeaking of Jacob and Eſau, and of the Prophecy that God gave out of them long before) neither having done any good or evil, that the Purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand, not of Works, but of him that calleth. I quote this place to this end.

You have here, firſt, a Purpoſe of God in Election, which was towards Jacob.

Secondly, You have a Purpoſe that ſtood; the very ſame when Jacob was in the Womb, it did continue to ſtand, [That the Purpoſe of God according to Election, ſaith he, might ſtand,] and out of it he called Jacob in the end; and that is called the Foundation of the Lord. But yet,

Thirdly, If you mark it, he addeth theſe words, That the Purpoſe according to Election might ſtand, not of Works, but of him that calleth. Here is Grace now, when it comes to call, it hath an eye to that Purpoſe which was from everlaſting, which Purpoſe ſtandeth ſtill, and out of it calleth. And as the Grace of God looked looked not at Works in Election; ſo when it comes to call, it looks neither to Good nor Evil; And therefore propheſying of the Calling of Jacob, and not of Eſau, he ſaith, it is, That the Purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand, before they had done either Good or Evil.

Ser. XXII.

Therefore I conclude thus with it, that as ſpeaking of Chriſt's Redemption, we would uſe this Phraſe of Speech, That the Purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand, not of Works, but of him that redeemed us; ſo in like manner, when he ſpeaks of Application, That the Purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand, not of Works, ſaith he, but of Him that calleth us. Look therefore now, as Jeſus Chriſt did act the Work of Redemption according to the Plat-form laid, and ſo it was according to that Grace which was given us in him before the World began, and yet it was a new Grace too; ſo when the Holy-Ghoſt cometh to call, he acts according to the Pattern of the Grace of God in Election.

Now then here lies the Queſtion: Whether that God did love us with the ſame Love from everlaſting, which he loves us withal when he calls us?

My Brethren, it is clear that it is the ſame Love, the ſame Grace continued; yet let me ſay this withal, that there is a new Grace in it. The Inſtance of Chriſt's Redemption ſo clears it, as nothing more; for it was according to the eternal Purpoſe of Grace, that Jeſus Chriſt came to redeem us, yet it was a new Grace. Jeſus Chriſt came not only to manifeſt the Love of God, tho he did that, but he came to work Salvation for us: So likewiſe here, when the Holy-Ghoſt cometh to apply, it is not only the Manifeſtation of this Grace of the Son, and of the Father, or it is not only the ſame Grace; it is a new Grace, tho according to the old Grace.

And let me tell you this, that the Holy-Ghoſt is as great a Perſon as the Son, and therefore there is a Work left for him, that ſhall have a new Grace in it, as well as in the Son's Work: It ſhall be left for him to do us as great a Favour in his kind, as Jeſus Chriſt did do us in his kind. And ſo now I paſs from that [By Grace.]

Ye are ſaved.] I told you, that the whole Right of Salvation was here intended by [Saved,] but I will not ſtand upon that. Only let me decide this Queſtion too by the way, which follows immediatly upon the other.

Queſt. Whether is a Man ſaved ſo, when the Work of Application begins through Faith, as he was not before?

I anſwer clearly, that it may be ſaid of him, that he is now ſaved as he was not before, and that it is not a meer Manifeſtation of his Salvation. The Text is ſo clear for it in the Coherence, as nothing more; for do but mark it, Ye are (ſaith he) by Nature Children of Wrath; by Grace ye are ſaved: there is an Oppoſition between theſe two Words, for Salvation hath Relation to Wrath, as you have it in Rom. 5. 9. We are ſaved from Wrath through him. Now if when we are ſaid to be ſaved, it were only the Manifeſtation of Salvation to us, then when we are ſaid to be Children of Wrath, it were only the Manifeſtation of Wrath to us too: but we were Children of Wrath really, and therefore we are ſaved really now, in a true real Senſe. And if it were a meer Manifeſtation of being ſaved, and we were always ſaved, in a true and proper Senſe, then we were Children of Wrath Metaphorically and not really; if the one be real, the other is real, or both are not ſo, and if ſo, then I ſay, this was not a real Truth, that we are Children of Wrath by Nature.

Now then if you ſay, Did not God love us? Doth not the Text ſay, You hath he quickned for the great Love wherewith he loved us?

I anſwer, He hath ſaved us, and called us according to his Grace given us, as he ſaith, in that 2 Tim. 1. 4. It was given us in Chriſt indeed, and it is out of that Love he now calleth us and ſaveth us; and yet there is a true Senſe, in which reſpect we are not to be ſaved till now. A King in ſaving a Traitor, privately bears a good Will

to

to him, yet there muſt be a Legal Act paſs from the King, before this Man is ſaid to be pardoned, not till ſuch time as his Pardon is read at the Bar, and he is acquitted; yea, tho the King had ſealed the Pardon before, yet this Man is not reckoned pardoned, till this legal Sentence of it. And therefore in Rom. 5. 11. we are ſaid, by Chriſt to have now received the Atonement: It is an emphatical expreſſion. And in the 19*th* Verſe of that Chapter, there is a notable variation of the Phraſe, which is obſervable, ſpeaking there of the Parallel of Adam and of Chriſt, ſaith he, By one Man's Diſobedience, many were made Sinners; ſo by the Obedience of one, ſhall many be made Righteous: The one is in the Future, the other in the Preter-perfect Tenſe. What's the Reaſon of the variation of the Phraſe? Becauſe that all Men, as ſoon as ever they are made Men, (he ſpeaks of that Multitude) in Adam they are all Sinners; but there are a Multitude of Elect, that are Men, and do exiſt, that ſhall be made righteous.

My Brethren, when the Scripture ſaith, We are ſaved by Faith, and juſtified by Faith, and not of Works, there muſt needs be more meant than a Manifeſtation; why? Becauſe our Salvation is manifeſted to others by good Works, as well as by Faith; as you have it in Jam. 2. 24. But what ſhall we ſay to all thoſe places? He that believeth not, is condemned already? John 3. 36. It will be ſaid, He ſhall be condemned? It is true, but yet you ſee that Text ſpeaks further, and is expreſs in it, that He is condemned already, and the Wrath of God abideth on him. And it muſt not be put off with this, That he that believeth not, hath the apprehenſion of Wrath; but he is really under Wrath, and that is his State.

How we are ſaved, and how we are not ſaved, I ſhall give you a diſtinction by and by.

The Holy-Ghoſt hath left unto him a Share (as we ſay) to effect about our Salvation, as really as the Father or the Son had before. We were elected to Salvation before the World was. I ask you this, When Chriſt came to redeem us, whether did he ſave us by his Redemption? You muſt needs ſay, Yes. If we were ſaved before, I ask, How we are ſaved by Chriſt? Did Chriſt only ſave us manifeſtatively? Did not he do it really? We ſhall otherwiſe make Chriſt an improper Saviour. I ask again, Was not God's Love as much to us before Chriſt died, as after? Aſſuredly his Love was as much to us before as after; why? Becauſe he did out of that Love give Jeſus Chriſt for us, and Chriſt did commend his Love to us.

If it be ſaid, as it is by ſome, that Jeſus Chriſt was only for the continuation of the Love of God for ever; I ask, When we were choſen in Chriſt before the World began, was not that Grace then given us for ever? What needed then the Death of Jeſus Chriſt for the continuation of the Love of God? Now, my Brethren, if notwithſtanding God's Purpoſe of Grace from everlaſting, Jeſus Chriſt be really a Saviour, and he ſaveth his People from their Sins; then notwithſtanding Grace from everlaſting, and Jeſus Chriſt's dying, there may be ſtill left a true Sence in which the Holy-Ghoſt ſaveth us too, when he cometh to apply Salvation to us; for he doth run an equal Share in Honour with the Father, and with the Son: Were it his Work, only to make manifeſt what the Father and the Son hath done, his Share were leſs. So that whilſt Men ſet up Free-Grace in this reſpect, they detract from the Holy-Ghoſt, and the Grace of God in Chriſt.

As Chriſt became the Author of Salvation unto all them that obey him, it was not a bare Manifeſtation of Salvation to them, but an Alteration of their State: So it is when the Spirit ſaveth us.

But you will anſwer me, How can this be, that we ſhould be Children of Wrath, and yet that God ſhould love us, and out of that Love call us, and yet the Love be the ſame?

If they will anſwer me another Queſtion, I will anſwer that; and that is this, How was Jeſus Chriſt beloved, and a Curſe at the ſame time? Do but anſwer me. How were they in Rom. 11. Enemies, and beloved at the ſame time? Whether did not God actually and really lay the Sins of us all upon Chriſt, who yet at the ſame time was without Sin? And again, Was not Chriſt when on the Croſs,

Ser. XXII.

Croſs, really made Sin; and yet now he is in Heaven, he is without Sin, even in that very reſpect wherein before, when on Earth, he was Sin? Was not Jeſus Chriſt once made Sin in a true real ſence? Certainly he was: And is not now Jeſus Chriſt without Sin in the ſame ſence? So the Apoſtle ſaith. Now then anſwerably, we may be Enemies, and yet loved of God: we may be Children of Wrath, and condemned already, in reſpect of that ſtate we ſtand in, and afterwards ſaved as truly, as once Jeſus Chriſt was made Sin: He will appear the ſecond time without Sin, ſaith the Apoſtle, Heb. 9. 28. Is there ſuch an Alteration made in Chriſt's Condition, and a real one? Certainly there may be the like in ours. In 2 Cor. 5. ult. the Parallel is exact: Him did God make to be Sin for us, that knew no Sin, that we might be made the Righteouſneſs of God in him. As on Chriſt's part, there was a Time when God laid all our Sins upon Chriſt, and then another Time in which he took all our Sins off from him, when he had ſatisfied for them: So on ours, there is a Time when God doth lay the Righteouſneſs of Jeſus Chriſt upon us, and takes off that State of Wrath that we were in in our own Perſons. And as it were abſurd to ſay, (as ſome) that our Sins are tranſlated upon Chriſt then when we believe; ſo that we were then made the Righteouſneſs of God in him, before we are call'd and believe, in that ſence that the Apoſtle there ſpeaks. The Parallel then lieth in this, That as there was a Time when God laid our Sins on Chriſt, made him Sin, which was on the Croſs, when alſo at the ſame time he was perſonally without Sin: So there is a Time, when God accounts perſonally to us Chriſt's Righteouſneſs. And again, as there ſucceeded a time when Chriſt that was made Sin, and remained under it for a while, is without Sin (as now for ever he is) ſo there was a time when we, who are now juſtified, were not juſtified but were Sinners and Children of Wrath, and that truly before God as truly as that now we are ſaved before God. And that is certainly to me the meaning of that in Rom. 8. 4. The Righteouſneſs of the Law is fulfilled in us. Do we fulfil the Righteouſneſs of the Law? No, but as it was fulfilled in and by Jeſus Chriſt before, ſo the ſame being applied unto us, when we believe, is ſaid to be fulfilled in us, that is, is made good in us, as we may ſo expreſs it; in that diſcharge of his, we, as conſidered in him, are made the Righteouſneſs of God.

But you will ſay, How are we ſaved in Chriſt and juſtified in Chriſt upon believing, when we were juſtified from our Sins, in Chriſt when he roſe, &c. and had Sin taken off from him, did not he repreſent us then?

Adam's Inſtance will clear all. Were not all Mankind condemned in Adam? yet no Man is condemned in his own Perſon till he is born, yet repreſentatively in Adam all died. So it is here. So far as we take Chriſt as a common Perſon repreſenting us, what was done in him, was done for us in him, and ſo from Eternity, before Chriſt died, we were ſaved in him, in that Sence, According to the Grace was given in Chriſt before the World began, ſaith he, in 2 Tim. 1. 9. Chriſt himſelf purchaſed it, with a reſerve till we believe and repent, or elſe we are not to have the Benefit of his Death. The Bond lay in God the Fathers Hand till we ſhould come in to him for it. I do not know that the Scripture uſeth the Word ſaved from Everlaſting, but only that the Grace was given us in Chriſt, and that Chriſt died repreſentatively. But when we come to exiſt in our own Perſons, then it is applyed to us, and we are ſaved in our own Perſons by that Grace, which once made Jeſus Chriſt a common Perſon for us.

The great miſtake in this thing to me is this. It is one thing what God doth in his own Breaſt as God, ſimply conſidered, and another thing what he doth as a Judg, as he will come forth to the World, and proceed by a Rule in the Eyes of all Mankind, and give an account of all at latter day: what Acts are in his own Breaſt, and what are in his Breaſt with Relation to the Creature externally. Now to ſave, and to condemn, theſe are Acts of God as a Judg. Juſtification and Salvation, is a forenſical Act, it is an Act where there is an accuſing and where there is an acquitting, as in Rom. 8. you have it, and often in other places. Now though God as God hath ſaved us from Everlaſting, in his own Breaſt, yet take him as a Judg, that profeſſeth therefore to go by a Rule, and ſo we are not ſaved, according ding to that Rule, till ſuch time as he applyeth Salvation to us by his Spirit. By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith, ſaith he. Ser. XXII.

Take the Inſtance of Jacob and Eſau. God might Propheſy, as God, that there ſhould be a Jacob and Eſau, and that his Love ſhould be upon Jacob, before he was born, before he had been conceived, he might have done it, and after he was born, if he lived in an unregenerate Condition, by way of Prophecy he might have ſaid, Jacob have I loved; yet notwithſtanding ſtill, if he will proceed as a Judg, according to that Rule which he hath ſet in his Word, Jacob is not ſaved till Jacob believe.

The Ground of this Miſtake lies in this, Men do not diſtinguiſh between the Grace of God decreeing, and the Grace of God executing according to his Decree. Application is the execution of God's Decree; and as he decreed our Salvation, ſo he decreed this Order and this way of Execution. My Brethren, God doth not ſave us meerly by Predeſtination, he doth not glorify us meerly by Predeſtination; would you never be otherwiſe glorified than now you are in God's Decree? But he ſaveth us by Predeſtination that works Faith. By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith. The miſtake lies in this, that becauſe it is out of that Love, and becauſe that when God begins to work, it is out of that Grace he chooſeth, therefore they conclude there is no other Grace, there is no alteration of the State of a Man, when this Grace comes to apply all to him.

Again, another Ground of the Miſtake is this, the not conſidering of this Diſtinction (I ſpeak this to clear it as far as I am able, though I ſhall do it largely) it proceedeth, I ſay, from the Ignorance of this Diſtinction, That firſt there are immanent Acts which lie in God's Breaſt, as we call them abiding in himſelf; the Lord knoweth who are his, and this is called the Foundation of the Lord; which he purpoſed in himſelf. And then ſecondly, There are Acts which though they do reſide in God's Breaſt, or account of his Act, wherein yet he doth proceed by a Rule external; as he is a Judg, as now to give us the Right of Salvation, of Heaven, and Glory, and Happineſs, and to acquit us from Condemnation, it is an Act meerly in God's Breaſt, and conſiſts in his Account, yet ſo as withal; it is an Act relating to an external Rule, given forth by which he doth this, for it is an Act in which he doth go by, a Rule which he hath ſet in his Word. But then thirdly, There are Acts of God (which are out of the ſame Love that both theſe) and yet they work ſomewhat in us, as Glorification, and Sanctification. Now to me here lies the pure and true Miſtake, that Men do not diſtinguiſh between thoſe Acts that are purely in God's Breaſt as God, known to himſelf; and thoſe which though they are in his own Breaſt, and work nothing in us, as Juſtification and Adoption do not, ſimply conſidered, they are Acts towards us indeed, but are not Acts in us, but in God only, yet they relate to an external Rule, they are in God as a Judg: and upon that reſpect there is ſome legal Act paſſeth in our Hearts upon which the Lord doth as a Judge acquit us. Of which by and by.

And ſo much now for the clearing of that, By Grace (in this Sence) ye are ſaved, of which I have given you my Thoughts briefly.

Now then to proceed.

By Grace ye are ſaved, through Faith.

1. What is the Reaſon that God when he came to apply Salvation to us, choſe out Faith?

I ſhall only mention the Reaſons in the Text.

1. Becauſe there is a ſpecial Simpathy between Faith and Free Grace; ſo as that Faith and Faith only will give Free Grace all its Due and Honour. So that if the Holy Ghoſt muſt have a Work upon us, by which we muſt be ſaved, that he may have the Glory of Salvation as well as Chriſt and the Father, there could be nothing elſe choſen but Faith. I ſhewed you this in the laſt Diſcourſe. You have it in Rom. 3. and Rom. 4. where the Apoſtle ſaith plainly and clearly that it was of Faith that it might be of Grace; it was of Grace becauſe it was of Faith. I am now to apply this Salvation (ſaith he) to this Soul, and I would have my Grace exalted ſtill, therefore I will have Faith. It was of Faith that it might be of Grace. But I will not ſtand to open that.

Ser. XXII.

2. The Apoſtle you ſee maketh Salvation a Gift, for thoſe Words [it is the Gift of God] the Holy Ghoſt hath ſo penned them, that the Grammar of them may refer as well to Salvation as to Faith: now if that Salvation, the Right to Salvation, be an entire Gift that is given at a Lump, then there was no Grace that was ſo fit in the Heart of Man to anſwer this Gift, as Faith. For Faith is a meer Receiver. That which is ſaid of Lydia, in Act. 16. that God opened her Heart to attend, it is in the Original to take them to her, namely, the things that Paul ſpake, and he opened her Heart to take them in, ſhe did but receive them, ſo elſewhere. That they might receive Remiſſion of Sins and an Inheritance through Faith, Acts 26.18. I could give you many places for it. Now,

1. It is Faith of all Graces elſe that doth firſt receive; and it receiveth by a Revelation, The Righteouſneſs of God is revealed from Faith to Faith. Love and Joy, that are other Graces, do but flow from this. It is Faith that gives the firſt Entertainment to that Grace, and Salvation brought by Grace, and others take it in by Faith.

2. It is Faith that is only a Receiver, that is, it doth nothing elſe but receive; it returns not. Doth the Hand of a Beggar that takes an Alms, return any thing to the Man that gives? No, it only takes it. The Beggar indeed doth other Actions, puts off his Hat, he bows to him and gives him Thanks, and in theſe there is a Return, but the Hand that takes it, is nothing but a Receiver, and that Act is only receiving. Love it doth Reverence to God, and it is officious and laborious, the labour of Love as it is called, but Faith it doth nothing elſe but receive.

3. No other Grace could receive it immediatly but Faith, Fidei cum ſolo Deo ex Chriſto res eſt charitatis cum Deo et proximo. Faith worketh by Love, Love therefore ariſeth from Faith, but it is Faith only that immediatly receiveth: For the Right of Salvation cometh immediatly out of the Womb of Free Grace, as it lay there from Everlaſting, purchaſed by Jeſus Chriſt; what is there in the Soul that immediately receiveth it? only Faith. There are two Acts of Faith; the one is upward to God, and the other is downward. Actus elicitus (as we call it) and Actus imperatus. The one brings forth without the help of any other Grace, that is, to receive the Grace offered in the Goſpel, and the other works by other Graces. It is Faith only glorifies God immediatly, other Graces by the help of Faith.

4. There is nothing elſe but Faith could have took in the whole of Salvation compleatly. We are ſanctified by Degrees, we ſhall be glorified many years hence, it is Glory reſerved to the latter Day, we have it by parcels in the Poſſeſſion. What Grace is there that could take in the whole at once? that could look to all that is to come and to all that is paſt? Nothing elſe but Faith. The Apoſtle when he ſaith here, ye are ſaved, he referreth to what he had ſaid before, we ſit (ſaith he) in heavenly places in Chriſt, and, we are riſen with Chriſt; theſe are things to come, if we reſpect the actual beſtowing of them. The Right, we have now, what can take this Right in? Nothing but Faith can make me ſee my ſelf ſit in heavenly places with Chriſt, and ſee my ſelf riſen with Chriſt. Faith can take in all that was done before the World was, can take in all that God means to do, yea and give a Subſiſtence thereunto. Love cannot do this, Love may make a Fancy of the Party, but it cannot make the Party preſent; but Faith makes all theſe things preſent.

And then again, the Lord hath put all Salvation and Grace that he means to beſtow, in the Promiſe: nothing elſe in us anſwers the Promiſe but Faith, ſo you have it in Rom. 4. 13. and Gal. 3. 22. I will not ſtand to enlarge upon this.

By

By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith.

Ye were Children of Wrath before, ye are ſaved by Faith. I told you, there was an Alteration of the State of a Man, from being a Man condemned, according to the Rule of the Word, which God as a Judg will go by; and it is upon believing.

Now what of Salvation doth Faith then receive, which not before, and to which Works add nothing? Not of Works.

I anſwer, The whole Right of Salvation. This is clear out of the Words, when he ſaith, Through Faith, and not of Works. Upon believing, or with believing (I ſhall explain it by and by) the whole Right of Salvation is given us; but all the Holineſs and Works we have, do not ſerve for the Right, but only we are led through them to the Poſſeſſion of it. You have it ſaid in 2 Theſſ. 2. 13. that we are ſaved through Faith and Sanctification: But the Apoſtle here orders them, how through Faith, and how through Sanctification. He ſpeaks in common of both, there; here, ſo through Faith, as not through Sanctification: Not of Works, ſaith he. How ſhall we ſalve that? This is the clear Diſtinction of it: We are ſaved through Faith, as that which gives us the preſent Right, or that which God doth then give as a Judg, when we believe, before Faith hath done a whit of Work elſe; but we are led through Sanctification, and good Works, to the Poſſeſſion of Salvation. Diſtinguiſh the Right and the Poſſeſſion, and you have clearly the Apoſtle's meaning; for ſaith he, He hath ordained good Works, that we ſhould walk in them, as being already ſaved through Faith, which he ſpeaks before that.

But had not we the Right before? you will ſay. Truly, my Brethren, as Copy-holders have the Right to their Land, when their Fathers die; but yet they muſt take it up at the Court of the chief Lord, before they enter upon the actual poſſeſſion: So it is here. We enter into Reſt by Faith, as the Apoſtle ſaith. It is a mighty Expreſſion, that in Acts 26. 18. By Faith we receive Remiſſion of Sins, and an Inheritance. Let any one now go and interpret thoſe Words. How is a Man by Faith ſaid to receive an Inheritance? He doth not receive the Poſſeſſion of Heaven by Faith; for Viſion, not Faith, gives him that Poſſeſſion: How doth he receive it then? I anſwer, In the Right of it: For upon believing, God as a Judg doth pronounce this Man an Heir of Eternal Life, and as a Judg, he will own him to be ſo at the latter Day. He had before bequeathed him an Inheritance by the Will of Chriſt, who died to make a Teſtament; he had a Right bequeathed him from everlaſting; but the actual Poſſeſſion he enters upon by Faith. It is called an Inheritance, when he giveth the Reaſons why it is by Faith. In Rom. 3. you ſhall find, that he uſeth that expreſſion of an Inheritance: Abraham, ſaith he, was juſtified by Faith, that the Inheritance might be by Promiſe; and in John 1. 12. To them that believe he gave Power: The word is, he gave Dignity; as a King doth create a Baron, it is a legal Form and Act: He gives them a Dignity, and then beſtows it upon them.

Therefore clearly to me, thoſe that ſay, that Faith only ſerveth for the manifeſtation of Juſtification or Salvation, are miſtaken. Saith Paul in Gal. 2. 16. (and he ſpake it as guided by the Holy-Ghoſt, in the Name of all the Apoſtles) Even we believed, that we might be juſtified by the Faith of Chriſt, and not by the Works of the Law. If Faith be only the Manifeſtation of Juſtification it ſelf, then they believed, that they were juſtified to be juſtified; but ſays he, We, knowing that a Man is not juſtified by the Works of the Law, believed, that we might be juſtified. Did they know only, that Juſtification would never be manifeſted by the Law? No, they knew that they could never have a real Juſtification by the Law, and therefore, We believe, ſaith he, that we might be juſtified, that is, really, as the Oppoſition carries it, Acts 13. 39. (which being added to the other clears it) By him all which believe are juſtified from all things, from which they could not be juſtified by the Law of Moſes; as really by the one, as we could not really by the other.

Ser. XXII.

Again, that Opinion muſt needs make all Faith Aſſurance, and ſo condemn a Multitude of the Generation of the Juſt; for if Faith be only the Manifeſtation of Juſtification, every Man that believeth, hath his Juſtification made manifeſt to him, and ſo is aſſured of his Salvation: And it makes Juſtification alſo an improper thing, as I ſhall ſhew you by and by.

When the Scripture ſpeaks of our being juſtified, it doth not mean a Juſtification manifeſted to us only. Read but the 3*d*, 4*th*, and 5*th* Chapters of the Romans, and mark the Coherence. When he had proved, that we are juſtified by Faith, and that before God, (it is not only in our own Conſciences) in chap. 4. he doth by this prove, that Abraham was not juſtified by Works, becauſe then he had not been juſtified before God, and he would have had wherewith before God to have boaſted: If he had not ſpoken of a Juſtification before God, and but of the Manifeſtation of it to us, this had not been a good Argument of the Apoſtle's. And that he clearly diſtinguiſheth between Juſtification really given to us when we believe, and the Aſſurance of it, is clear, by chap. 5. v. 1. compared with the former: Being juſtifyed by Faith, we have Peace with God, ſaith he: By whom alſo we have acceſs by Faith, and rejoyce in Hope of Glory, &c. So that he makes Peace with God, and Aſſurance of Salvation, and the Love of God ſhed abroad in our Hearts, and Joy in God, &c. to be the Fruit of Faith. Now this could not have been, if that our Salvation and Juſtification had been only the Manifeſtation of our Juſtification, and of the Love of God to us.

The truth is, this Opinion, firſt, it makes our Juſtification a meer Trope and Figure in Rhetorick; where Glorification is not, theſe would not be glorified by a Trope only: Whom he hath predeſtinated, them he alſo juſtified; and whom he juſtified, them he alſo glorified: Why ſhould not Juſtification be taken in a real Sence, as well as Glorification, or Calling.

It, ſecondly, makes all Faith to be Aſſurance, as was ſaid.

Thirdly, If you will ſay, that there may be any kind of Manifeſtation of Election and Salvation by Signs, be it but probable; and ſo far all grant, and an Uſe of them all do grant, after the Revelation of Juſtification by the Spirit, which is mediate: Then if Juſtification be only the Manifeſtation of Salvation, ſo far as they may ſerve to concur to the Manifeſtation of Juſtification, we muſt needs hold that we are juſtified by Works; but the Text ſaith clearly, that we are juſtified by Faith, and not of Works: By Grace ye are ſaved through Faith.

Next you will enquire, How through Faith?

Firſt; Some ſay, by it as an Inſtrument. The truth is, when you reſolve that Phraſe into its right Logick, it is the Habit of Faith is the Inſtrument, rather than the Act of Faith.

Many Queries may be, How through Faith? As,

Firſt, Whether it be to be conſidered as an Inſtrument of God's juſtifying of us?

The truth is, when you reſolve that Aſſertion into its right Logick, it is the Habit of Faith, rather than the Act, muſt be called the Inſtrument of either. And thus the moſt judicious Divine I know in that Point, and in the Point of Juſtification, acknowledgeth it. There is (ſaith he) the Principle of Faith, and there is the Act of Faith; now properly it is the Principle of Faith, that muſt be called the Inſtrument, the Act is the way or means thereof: And if ſo, then more is attributed to the Habit, than the Act.

Vid. Gerard Loc. com de Juſtif. p 1325. Habitus eſt Inſtrumentum, actus, ratio, & modus, &c.

Then

Then again, Whether through Faith as a Condition, or not?

I would have this Word laid aſide, I ſee both Parties ſpeak faintly about it. Perkins upon the Galatians, he will hardly acknowledg it a Condition; another in a Book called, The Triumph of Faith, ſaith, it is improperly a Condition. If it be not, why do they uſe the word? There is a Danger in it.

Firſt, A Condition may be pleaded: I may go and plead this, I have believed, &c. Will any Man make this a Condition between the Giver and Receiver, I will give you an Alms, if you will receive it? It is not a Condition.

Secondly, All thoſe Expreſſions, If a Man believeth, he ſhall be ſaved, &c. import, that he that doth ſo ſhall be ſaved in the event, which the Elect only are, to whom he giveth Faith. And it is a Phraſe that imports a Pleading. A Priſoner is not pardoned, unleſs he plead his Pardon, or hath his Pardon read at the Bar; will you ſay, this Act of his is the Condition of his being pardoned? It is that without which he is not legally pardoned, he doth not ſtand abſolved elſe. Waſh, and be clean: He could never have been cleanſed, if he had not waſhed; was his waſhing a Condition? No, he did not ſtand upon a Condition with him in it: It was indeed a Duty, it was likewiſe a Means or a Manner, by which God did cleanſe him.

My Brethren, the Nature of Faith, it is modeſt, it never makes a Plea for it ſelf, it wholly pleadeth Grace, and nothing elſe. The truth is, if it were a Condition, a Man might plead it before God, as the Apoſtle ſaith, Rom. 4.

That it is called the Law of Faith, and therefore this muſt be the Condition, it follows not: It is the Duty, and it is the Command of the Goſpel, without which God ſaveth no Man; and is not that enough? It ſeems to me to import, as if there were an univerſal Grace, and that it is the Condition terminateth it to this Man, and not to that.

Then again, Whether it be the Act of Faith that juſtifies, or that is accounted a Man's Righteouſneſs, when we are ſaid to be ſaved through Faith?

Surely no, for God might have took Works as well; if he would have took it as an Act, he might have took any Act, Love it ſelf.

There is this Reaſon lies in the bottom of my Spirit againſt it, beſides all that elſe the Scripture ſaith againſt it: That if when I go to God to be juſtified, I muſt preſent to him my Believing, as the Matter of my Righteouſneſs, and only Chriſt's Death as the Merit of it, what will follow? Two things clearly to me; Firſt, that the Heart is taken off from looking upon the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt wholly, and diverteth to its own Righteouſneſs in the very Act of Believing, for Righteouſneſs, and preſenteth that to God, which the Scripture is clear againſt. I ſay, it doth take the Heart off from the Righteouſneſs of the Lord Jeſus, or the eying of that, and cauſeth it to divert into it ſelf, and preſent its own Faith to God. Secondly, Every Man that will believe to be juſtified, and go to God, and ſay, Lord juſtify me; he muſt have an evidence that he hath Faith, for how elſe can he preſent that as the Matter of his own Righteouſneſs? Now Millions of Souls cannot do this, they were in a poor caſe if they ſhould be put to it.

The Apoſtle ſaith, It was of Faith, that it might be ſure. If Juſtification had been founded on the Act of Faith, it had been as ſure on Works as Faith; for that Faith that draws out an Act of Love, is as apt to fail, as that Act of Love. But here is no uncertainty, while I believe to be juſtified by the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, but my Faith is ſwallowed up there; tho I may doubt of my Faith relying on him, yet I have a ſure Object, I have a ſure Matter to repreſent to God for me: whereas if Believing was that I had to repreſent to God to be juſtified by, ſuppoſe my Faith fail me, I have not a ſure Matter of Righteouſneſs to repreſent to God.

The very Object Faith believes on is a contradiction to this, that the Act of Faith ſhould be the Matter of my Juſtification. I yield this, When God doth juſtify, he takes notice of the Act in its kind, of the degree of it: Abraham was ſtrong

Ser. XXII. ſtrong in Faith, but in the Point of Juſtification he takes notice of Chriſt in the Heart. The truth is, boaſting would be as much of Faith, as of Works, if I were juſtified by the Act of Faith; whereas the Apoſtle ſaith, Not of Works, leſt any Man ſhould boaſt.

But how ſhall we underſtand this thing, through Faith?

It is not for Faith, it is through Faith. This word denotes out Cauſality, then it notes out a Way: What is Faith? It is the way he ſaves us by: Prepare the Way, Mat. 3. 3. It is alſo aptly expreſſed by entring in at the ſtrait Gate, Mat. 7. 13.

How are we ſaved by Grace through Faith?

4 Faith lets in that Salvation, lets in that Grace whereby we are ſaved, (as the Sun comes in at the Window, when the Shuts are open) and the Soul receives that Grace by Faith, and take John's Expreſſion, Joh. 20. ult. that believing you might have Eternal Life, by Grace you are ſaved and that through Faith; becauſe Faith lets Chriſt into the Soul, and he comes to dwell in the Soul; God ſees Chriſt there, and he ſo juſtifies us and ſaves us in and through Chriſt, through Faith, and that not of your ſelves. This Word, and that, it refers to Faith, it is the Gift of God, that is a diminitive Phraſe, he ſaith, he ſaves through Faith, and this little thing Faith, it is the Gift of God, he magnifies Grace, he took the leaſt thing in us, whereby to account us ſaved, which is our Faith. If Chriſt were now to appear, what is the leaſt thing you could do, or could be expected that you would do, you will ſay it were to look up to ſee him, and to hope for Salvation from him. Iſa. 45. 22. Look to me, all you ends of the Earth, and be ſaved, I require nothing elſe, by Grace you are ſaved, it is but a look, and that not of your ſelves, and you ſhall be ſaved by that Grace. How much of Self is againſt Faith I have ſhewn, his Scope is here to magnify Grace in Application. There is a great Controverſy in the World, which is the greater Grace, this, or for God to vouchſafe to Man, that he ſhould go and make an univerſal Grace and Love to Mankind, and give every Man Means to aſſiſt him by Degrees, ſo that if he will not refuſe thoſe Means, he ſhall be ſaved, his own Grace having a ſhare with God in it. And he ſhall be Co-Partner with God, ſo it ſhall be of his Free Will, this puts much on the Spirits of Men, and it ſerves (ſay ſome) greatly for the clearing of God. Tho I think, to clear God there need not be this Doctrine; but we ſay, it is not in him that Wills, or Runs, but in God that ſhews Mercy, he works the Will and the Deed, and by Grace you are ſaved, and you are ſaved through Faith, and the working of this Faith is of God not of your ſelves, he carries on the Will of Man, opens the Underſtanding by a Spiritual Light, which the common Works of the Spirit give not. The Queſtion is, which of theſe two magnifies Grace more? ſure the latter. If the way of Salvation had been through Faith, partly of our ſelves, and partly of Free-Grace, all Mankind would have fallen every day one after another. There is the greateſt Inſtance that can be, (that of the old World) Noah was a Preacher of Righteouſneſs, the Spirit of Chriſt preached unto thoſe Souls of Men that are now in Hell. And, ſays God, my Spirit ſhall not always ſtrive with Man, Gen. 6. 3. The Holy-Ghoſt did ſtrive with Man, gave him aſſiſting Grace, there was not a Man ſaved by that Grace. It is the higheſt Inſtance that can be, only one Man ſaved and his Family, when all Mankind thus fell, and every one fell, one after another; how came he to be ſaved, it was not with that common Grace; it is ſaid, Noah found Grace in the Eyes of the Lord, Gen. 6. 8. by Grace he was ſaved, not of himſelf, it was by a ſpecial Grace that gave him Faith; it was not of himſelf, when all the reſt fell away by that common Grace Men plead for, he was ſaved by the ſpecial Grace of God. The Text hath another Inſtance, by Faith ye are ſaved, you that were without God in the World, without the Promiſe, lead away with dumb Idols, in whom the Devil ruled, you were remote from Faith, if you had been left to Free Will, what would have become of you? how comes it to paſs that you are ſaved who are Gentiles, when the Jews are caſt off? if common Grace would have got it, the Jews had the Advantage: but by Grace you are ſaved, not of your ſelves, what is the Reaſon, that Chriſt when he came, ſaid that after his Aſcenſtion, then the World ſhould come in, and that God ſhould ſay in Ages to come he would ſave Men, through this Grace? It is meerly his Free Grace. By Grace you are ſaved, and that through Faith, which is the Gift of God; It is given to you to believe, you are not able to think a good Thought of your ſelves, to you it is given. Salvation is a Gift, Chriſt a Gift, and Faith is a Gift; when I have found out a Chriſt, I muſt find out a Faith to lay hold on him; all our whole Salvation goes by Gift. The Grace given before the World began gives Chriſt for us, and us to Chriſt. Thus Chriſt is a Gift, and Faith alſo is a Gift; God gives that to us. By Grace you are ſaved, through Faith, and that not of your ſelves, it is the Gift of God.

of

Ser. XXII.

SERM-

SERMON XXIII.

EPHES. 2. 8, 9, 10.

8. For by Grace ye are ſaved through Faith, and that not of your ſelves; it is the Gift of God:

9. Not of Works, leſt any Man ſhould boaſt.

10. For we are his Workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus unto good Works, which God hath before ordained, that we ſhould walk in them.

I Shall proceed ſtill, as I propounded in the opening the Nature of that Faith, which ſaves and juſtifies us, and never ceaſes till it hath put us into the Hands of Chriſt. I handled ſomething of it in the laſt Diſcourſe. I ſhewed you what a glorious Grace this is, and how it will of all Graces elſe be found to the Praiſe, Honour, and Glory of Chriſt, 1 Pet. 1. 7.

I ſhall now Demonſtrate the Greatneſs of it in reſpect of its Workings, and ſhall alſo diſcover the vaſt diſproportion, that is between our Selves and our Hearts, in which it is wrought, and this Grace it ſelf. How hardly it is attained, and that it is fetched out of the Rock, by an Almighty Power. To that end I have choſen this Text, and it is the particular Head; That not of your ſelves, it is the Gift of God: which I will by way of Common-place explain to you.

Only in General, take the Scope of the Apoſtle before in this Chapter. His Scope is to magnify the Free Grace of God, as the ſole Author of our Salvation, which he magnifies in two Reſpects;

1. By ſhewing that Miſery, which Man lay in, whan God firſt ſet his Heart upon him; dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, deſerving a thouſand Deaths, Children of Wrath; as you have in, ver. 1, 2. and yet that God had provided a Salvation, and a great Salvation for ſuch a forlorn Creature.

2. He magnifies it in reſpect of the way of bringing us to Salvation, and imports thus much to us, that ſince Free Grace was the Contriver of our Salvation, its great End was to magnify it ſelf, and being to make its own Laws, it would be ſure to order Man's Salvation ſo, That tho of Neceſſity ſomething was to be wrought in Man, or elſe he could not be ſaved; yet it would pitch on ſomething, that ſhould have an Ingredience into Salvation, and yet ſo that as little as could be, ſhould be attributed to Man, and all ſhould be aſcribed to Grace.

There are two things required of us, Faith and Works. He puts a difference between theſe two. In that Faith is taken up into Commiſſion with Grace, [By Grace you are ſaved through Faith,] which Works are not [not of Works] the Works are required as well as Faith, yet God ſaith, he will not own you in Commiſſion with his Grace, not of Works. The Reaſon is, this Faith (as I ſhewed you) is that Grace, which ſo glorifies God; that he was not jealous to put it into Commiſſion with himſelf. Now when God required but as little as could be, yet he muſt require that we ſhould know his Grace, and lay hold on it, ſince otherwiſe Free Grace will be loſt: but yet in this laying hold on it, Faith will give all to Free Grace. But you will object, May not a Man ſtep in, and ſay, I have Faith, and I have contributed ſomething by Faith to my Salvation? No, ſaith the Apoſtle, it is not of your ſelves, but it is the Gift of God; and this is enough for the opening of the Words. Ser. XXIII.

and

I ſhall now manifeſt this to you, That ſaving Faith is not of your ſelves; there is nothing in you that contributes to Faith. My End in it is this: To open the Nature of Faith to you, that you may ſee, that all in your ſelves, and all you can do, can no way help you any thing unto the Attainment of it. By what the Apoſtle denies, that they have any thing of it in themſelves, you will ſee the falſe ways Men take, and you will ſee in the Negative, clearly what the way of believing is, and what the Nature of Faith is; you will likewiſe ſee what the inability of Man is to attain it. It will empty you of your Selves, and you will be convinced not only, that you are not able to believe on Free Grace, but you will be forced to come to God, who will enable you to believe on him, and on his Free Grace; and when you alſo ſee how you are loſt, and that tho God only requires ſincere Faith, yet you are not able to do any thing towards it, you will ſee what you are, and of what weak Abilities, and you will be thankful to God for what little Faith you have, as being his Gift, not from your ſelves, and you will go on to perfect Faith in a way of dependency on him; thoſe therefore that think Faith is ſo eaſy to be had, may be convinced they have no Faith.

When I ſhall purſue the proving theſe Words to you, it is not of your ſelves, I ſhall not go about to ſhew you the greatneſs of Converſion in General, that it is not of your ſelves; but I ſhall keep cloſe to the point of Believing. And therein I ſhall not ſpeak ſo much to the workings of the Habits of Faith, as bring you to the Acts of Faith, as clearly renouncing a Man's ſelf, &c.

I ſhall perform theſe Particulars, by ſhewing you, that all that is in Man, or from Man, can no way help a Man to this Faith, yea all that is in Man, and from Man is againſt it; therefore certainly it is not of our ſelves, but it is the Gift of God. Theſe two Heads ſhall be the Particulars I aim at, That only in the General I will premiſe this, which I will but touch on; that is, That if we take our Nature in Innocence, in Adam, to believe ſuch things as we believe, would have been above ſuch a Nature. I will not ſtand to diſpute whether Adam, yea or no, had that Habit, or Principle which we have, only this is that I ſay, That if he had that ſame Principle of Faith we have, yet to believe thoſe things, which when we believe to Salvation, we do believe, it was infinitely above what his Faith was put to believe. If that the Wheels be the ſame, yet if there be a new Spring put in, that turns all the Wheels another way. So whereas Adam ſought Salvation by doing, and continuance in well-doing, and the Faith he had, ſet all the Wheels going that way: Here to us under the Goſpel comes a new Spring, that turns all the Wheels another way, and is as a new Inſtinct and Genius to carry the Heart to Chriſt to be ſaved, different from what the Genius and Inſtinct of Adam's Faith carried him to; The Law of Faith is different from the Law of Works.

Adam believes that God made him, and that he made the World, for he did not ſee it was made. I will not diſpute, whether his Faith may be reſolved to Senſe, or ſanctified Reaſon, yea, or no? but this, I ſay, was an eaſy thing for him to believe that all that was made, was by him, that ſaid, Let us make the World. But if he had this ſame Principle of Faith, yet I believe it was ſo low, that he could not try it further without new Principles. Indeed for him to believe, that the Soul that ſins ſhall die, and that he ſhould die that Day he did eat; it was eaſy for him to believe this, becauſe he found that by doing the Will of God, he lived; therefore he might believe the contrary, that if he tranſgreſſed, he ſhould die. But what if God had ſaid to him, that God himſelf ſhould die, and that he ſhould be made Sin, who knew no Sin. If ſuch a thing as this is ſhould have been propounded to his Faith, and the Devil ſhould have come and contradicted it, it would have put his Faith to it. For Adam to believe, that while he pleaſed God in all things, he ſhould continue in his Favour, it was eaſy for him to believe it; becauſe he had a Principle in his Conſcience, which told that he ſhould have Peace, if he did it.

Ser. XXIII. There was the Juſtice of God, whereof he had the Image in his own Boſom, that might aſſure him. But to believe that God will juſtify the Ungodly, and to apprehend my ſelf Ungodly, and yet to believe that he will juſtify me: To believe that God will account an Ungodly Perſon as Godly, and Righteous, as all the Angels in Heaven, this would have poſed his Faith. Further, when that Ungodly Perſon juſtified ſhall continue Holy, and yet not have a Dram of Power in himſelf, but he muſt go and fetch it from another: without me you can do nothing: All theſe would have been Paradoxes, and thoſe too great even for Adam to believe. Therefore well may it be ſaid, Faith is not of our ſelves, it is the Gift of God.

But beſides, A ſecond Conſideration may be this, That in the beginning, if Adam had Power to do all theſe things, yet now it is above our ſelves, for we all have loſt it, and have ſo loſt it, that of all things elſe, we are weakeſt in the point of Believing. Beſide the general Reaſon which is common to all Grace, there is a ſpecial Reaſon, why that in loſing that which he had, we are utterly diſenabled for ever, of our ſelves, as to any Power of Believing. For conſider where was it that the Temptation entered in? It was certainly in a way of Unbelief. The Devil firſt deſtroyed Adam's Faith, and through that Breach wounded him to Death, hath God ſaid, Thou ſhalt not eat, &c. If a Man be kill'd with a Shot in his Eye, tho that Shot piercing the Eye, it kills the whole Man, it muſt be Almighty Power to raiſe that Man to Life; yet there is a further Power required to raiſe that Eye, than to raiſe the Man; ſo it is with us, Rom. 11. We are ſaid there to be ſhut up in Unbelief, that he may have Mercy upon all. God hath concluded, or hath ſhut them up altogether, (that I may fit it to that thing I have in Hand) namely, that we are diſenabled to Faith of all things elſe. He compares unbelief to a ſpecial Priſon; ſuppoſe this Man had Life, that he could help himſelf, yet if he be ſhut up, he is utterly diſenabled. It imports in the firſt place, That God hath in a ſpecial manner, ſhut up all in Unbelief; other Sins are the Sins for which God impriſons us, but that we may be ſurely impriſoned, he makes Unbelief the Goal, we are ſhut up with a Door of Unbelief on us, and therefore he makes the greatneſs of the Mercy of God to lie in giving Faith; God hath ſhut up all in Unbelief, that ſo he may have Mercy: he hath ſhut them up in Unbelief over and above all other Sins. Gal. 3.22. he ſaith there, that the Scripture hath concluded all under Sin, that he might have Mercy upon all; there are outward Priſons of all Mens other Sins, but here he makes Unbelief the Inner Priſon; ſo God ſhews a further Mercy in giving Faith, than any other Grace. So that I may expreſs it thus to you; the Scripture hath concluded all under Sin, that the Promiſes by Chriſt might come; the Promiſes may come, and knock at the Priſon Doors, and ſay, we have come to all other Sins, and may come and ſay to a poor Sinner, believe, and tell him thus; If you will come and but believe, do but come out of your Dungeon you are in, and you ſhall be ſet at freedom and be ſaved. Now ſaith the poor Soul, if all other Priſons be open, tho there be free acceſs to God from all other my Sins, yet ſaith the poor Soul, I cannot come out of this Priſon; I am ſhut up, I cannot believe. The Promiſe of Faith in Chriſt is given to them that believe, and as the Promiſe is given to them that believe; ſo the Text ſaith here, Faith is the Gift of God; all the Promiſes may knock at the Priſon Door, but in vain, unleſs God open the Door, as there the Expreſſion is, in Acts 4. 17. we are in a ſpecial manner ſhut up in this Eſtate of Unbelief, it is not therefore of our ſelves to believe.

Now the courſe I ſhall take to demonſtrate it ſhall be this, to go through ſome of the Particulars. I might manifeſt this to you, by going through all the pieces in you; take your Underſtanding, Will, and Affections, you ſhall find all theſe cannot help your Faith in the Truth, all that is in us, is againſt this, all that is in us will ſtill under-work all its Workings; unleſs the Power of God come with it, there is nothing in the Heart that is conducing to it; and all that is in a Man, or comes from him of Duties, Endeavours, &c. cannot attain to true Faith. Faith is not of our ſelves. I might I ſay, go through all the Faculties of a Man's Soul, and diſcover how little they can contribute to Faith; but at preſent I ſhall only inſtance in his Underſtanding.

Firſt,

Ser. XXIII.

First, We will begin with our Underſtandings. All the parts of Wit and Wiſdom, that all the Men of the World have had, or ſhall have, if they were all in one Man's Heart or Head, they could not help him to look up to a Saviour, 1 Cor. 2. 5, 6, 7, 8. that your Faith ſhould not ſtand in the Wiſdom of Men, but in the Power of God; and in 1 Cor. 1.18,19. he there proſecutes it to the End,he ſaith, God hath a deſign by ſetting up Faith in the Hearts of Men, to ſave them thereby; and to confound all the Wiſdom of the World, ſaith he, the preaching of the Croſs is to them Fooliſhneſs, but unto us that believe, it is the Power of God. It pleaſed God by the fooliſhneſs of Preaching to ſave them that were loſt. He ſhews that as God had in Man's Redemption (as appears in that in Geneſis) an Eye to confound the Devil; and ſo chuſeth out that which is the moſt excellent thing,Faith; ſaith he, I will do it by the moſt fooliſh means, as by that Man that is crucified,and by the fooliſh means of Faith and Preaching, which all the wiſeſt Men ſhall not attain to; he doth not ſay he will confound the wiſe Men, but the Wiſdom of Men. Some wiſe Men are ſaved, but he ſaith, he will confound Wiſdom,for they muſt lay their Wiſdom aſide when they come to believe; he uſeth two or three Words, he ſaith in the 19*th* Verſe,he will make no uſe of Wiſdom; then he ſaith, he hath made it Fooliſhneſs, he hath put a ſcorn upon it; as in the 20*th* Verſe, he ſhews that the Wiſdom of Men is the fooliſheſt thing in the World.

Then my Brethren, If you would know the Reaſon,why God does ſo,and know the Reaſon,why that Wiſdom in Man cannot thus attain to Faith:the Reaſon why he doth it,is,that he may confound that which is in Man, the chiefeſt Excellencies, and that it may be in his Power to ſave whom he will, and that it may be in his Power only to raiſe Men up to what degrees of Grace he himſelf ſhall pleaſe. This he doth while he makes not uſe of Wiſdom,becauſe fooliſh Men he can make believe as much as the wiſeſt Men,nay he uſually raiſes Faith up to a greater degree in the fooliſheſt Men,than the wiſeſt in the World, than what by their Learning they can attain to.

Let me not only tell you that Wiſdom falls ſhort of it, and is not able to do it, but natural Wiſdom is in it ſelf a hinderance to it, and all the Wiſdom and Reaſon in a Man is againſt the way of Faith. Saith Wiſdom, I think by my Brains and Wit to attain this, which a fooliſh Soul ſhall not do.Pride is oppoſite to Faith,and Knowledg puffs up Pride.No Man is more oppoſite to Faith, than he whoſe Heart is lifted up in him. The Juſt ſhall live by Faith, Hab.2. He whoſe Heart is lifted up in him, is not Right: therefore nothing ſo oppoſite to Faith, as Pride and Wiſdom. And Knowledg ſince it puffs up, when the wiſeſt Men in the World, and great Men in the World come to believe, Faith lays them as low as the pooreſt Man in the World; ſuch a Soul will ſay, I would not care if I were a Fool, the pooreſt Beggar in the World, ſo I had a Dram of Faith.

Then Reaſon, which is alſo joined with Wiſdom, being the Form of a Man, as he is a Man, it is it that conſtitutes the Man, and ſo it is the higheſt thing till Faith comes, and then Faith oppoſeth it,ſubdues it, as Reaſon ſubdues Senſe; and then Reaſon riſeth up againſt Faith, when it comes to be put from its Kingly Power and Dignity, which it hath had all its Days. When a Stranger comes and tells Reaſon of a ſtrange thing in another World, which Reaſon never took in before, and on the News of this he muſt lay down his Reaſon at the Feet of this ſame Teſtimony, and take the Law at his Mouth; Reaſon which hath been the ſupream Principle in Man's Heart,will never do this; ſaith Faith, I will have all theſe Reaſonings and Principles put from you, Reaſon ſtands on them; Rom. 4. 19. ſaith Reaſon, conſider your dead Body; Abraham being not weak in Faith,he conſidered not his dead Body; Reaſon would have put in many Objections, but he conſidered not his dead Body, but gave himſelf up to Faith.

In the third place, The ſtronger Reaſon any Man hath when he comes to believe, he will find the harder pull of it; Men of Parts,the larger their Knowledg is, they are againſt believing the more: why? becauſe they will find out Arguments againſt themſelves; and all a Man's Reaſon and Parts will but ſerve to make his Indictment more againſt himſelf,and the more ſhroudly a Man will argue, (and eſpecially being a Man of ſtrong Reaſon) he will reaſon againſt himſelf, to the amazement of all Men, and as before Faith, you will never believe till you ſee your loſt Condition. What makes Men ſay that Conſcience tells them ſo, but they will not acknowledg themselves to be in such a State? but because carnal Reason useth all the Strength it hath to build up high Towers, and plods how to get plausible Shifts and Pretences how to flatter a Man's Soul; And a Natural Man thinks he is in a good Condition, therefore all the Reason a Man hath is mainly exercised in this Dispute of his Conscience, and reasoning in his Heart, about the Goodness of his Estate. But when a Man comes to be humbled, and believes, all these reasonings turn on the other side, and use as much Strength to object, why he should not have Mercies, and that he must do thus and thus before he comes to believe? Never any comes to believe, if he will go the way of reasoning, while he considers his dead Soul; as Abraham, if he had considered his dead Body, would not have believed. Self-Flattery in a Man is the general Reason that leads him on in a way contrary to Faith, for he thinks he is in a good Estate, for he must lose such Opinion of himself, before he can believe; then when Self-Flattery is kill'd, and Faith comes to lead up all her Forces, then comes Unbelief and fires Conscience, and turns all the Word another way; that there is more ado to raise a Man up to bottom his Heart, and to rest in Christ, than to humble a Man and to let him see his Natural Condition. You see that Wisdom and Reason (all of it) conduceth not to Faith, but is all against it.

Ser. XXIII.

You have another Principle in you, there is a great deal of hope from that which is a good Principle, and that is your Conscience, it is indeed the best thing in a Man. But take Natural Conscience, tho never so much enlightned, let it remain still in that Estate which by Nature a Man was in, and it conduceth nothing to believing; nay it is the greatest Enemy to Faith that a Man hath. Conscience I confess is a good Principle, it hath Goodness in it; tho it is defil'd, yet there is a Moral Goodness in it; it tells him of his Sinfulness, but it will not help him a whit to believe. Come to Conscience, it will set you on doing the clean contrary, and put you out of the way, and it will not direct you one Foot of the way of Faith: what the Law says, it hath an Ear to that, but it is Deaf to what the Gospel saith; as for Moses we know him, but this Man we know not. Nay, which is more, your Conscience enlightned, will help to discover all sorts of Sin, but Conscience alone will never discover Unbelief to you in the bottom of it; of other Sins Conscience enlightned, will tell a Man roundly, but not of Unbelief, John 16.8. It is the Spirit that convinceth of Sin. Two Sins there are, which (the Truth is) are out of the Jurisdiction of Conscience to set home on the Heart, ordinarily one is the Guilt of Adam's first Sin; Here a Man's Conscience alone cannot help him, it is through Spiritual discerning he must see the Corruption of Nature. The other is the Vanity of Thoughts. What comes in the compass of the Law, that the Heart and Conscience will tell a Man of: But come to a Man that is troubled in Conscience, he will make no Conscience of believing, as if there were no command for it. They think they do well to argue against themselves, and refuse the Promises, it is ordinary for them to do so; Men will cavel at the Promises, but to look on Faith as the great Comfort, and to have an Heart discerning, and to have Unbelief set home on a Man's Soul, and to say that I must of necessity believe; Conscience will not do, it is the work of the Spirit on our Hearts that must do it. This is a great Truth, nothing will help you so to know the Nature of Faith as this thing. I am to speak of Conscience not subordinate to Faith, as in Man it is not; it is the greatest Enemy to Faith as can be, it is the greatest hindrance of believing, in respect of the guilt of Sin. What is a great hindrance to you in the way of believing? it is the greatness of your Sins, your Hearts mis-give you. I shall not shew you how to take it away, for that is another thing; But this is all, I intend to shew you the Guilt of Sin as on the Conscience: which Conscience is it that raiseth it up, and conjures it up. It is Conscience is the Subject of it. It's call'd an evil Conscience, that represents to a Man that Sin is good, yet it's call'd evil also, because that the State of a Man is evil. What keeps Men from believing? the greatness of their Sins. When Conscience is awake (what presents their Sin still to them is Conscience) all your discouragement is from your Conscience unsprinkled with the Blood of Christ. Conscience hath not learnt the Lesson from Faith; it hath not dipt it self in the Blood of Christ: If it had, it would be quiet, and not be suggesting Sin, so as to discourage a poor Soul when he looks on Sin so sinful, and when he looks on Sin so as to discourage him. When Conscience doth this, he bids Christ depart from him; for he is ſinful, Heb. 10. 22. & Heb. 9. 14. A Man muſt have his Heart ſprinkled from an evil Conſcience. What is it that ſprinkles it? it is Faith that doth it by taking the Blood of Chriſt. The Holy-Ghoſt in the Soul by Faith ſprinkles the Conſcience, and that quiets it. Heb. 10. 14. That he may purge your Conſcience from dead Works. Now then there is nothing that will ſatisfy your Conſcience, in reſpect of the Guilt of Sin, but only the Blood, Death and Reſurrection of Chriſt. While Conſcience ſhall be ſuffered to ſpeak louder than Faith, it will cry the Blood of Chriſt down, as in Iſa. 59. 12. ſay they, Salvation is far off, as for our Iniquities we know them. Slight thoughts of Sin further Preſumptions, but Sin diſcovered of it ſelf hinders Faith, you all feel it. But there is a ſecond way, wherein Conſcience, if it be not ſubordinate to Faith, hinders Faith both ſecretly and cloſely, and draws all your Hearts its way, that I ſay of all that is in Man, there is not a greater Enemy to Faith. Ser. XXIII.

for

This I will ſay in the General to you, There are two Covenants, the Covenant of Grace, and the Covenants of Works, and theſe two are incompatible one with another. Take the Law as it is a Covenant, it is incompetent with the Covenant of Grace. Theſe two, are two Vice-gerents in Man's Heart; the Law hath Natural Conſcience in Mens Hearts to keep its Courts, and the Goſpel hath Faith in the Heart to keep Chriſt's Court. Now all Men in the World, let them be never ſo much enlightned, and have not ſaving Grace, they are under the Law, therefore Conſcience is the Supream Principle in them; all Men that are Godly are under Grace, Rom. 7. 1. Rom. 6. 4. therefore they are under Faith. Now here lies the great Myſtery of it; that ſtill Conſcience would be the Supream Principle, it would act according to the Tenor of the Law in a Man's Spirit, it would keep a Man under the Law; for it is true to its Maſter, which naturally its appointed to ſerve, and doth oppoſe the Dignity of Faith, and therefore only God can ſo ſubdue Conſcience unto Faith, as the Law ought to be ſubdued to the Goſpel.

SERM-

SERMON XXIV.

EPHES. 2. 11.

Wherefore remember that ye being in time paſſed Gentiles in the Fleſh, who are called Uncircumciſion by that which is called Circumciſion in the Fleſh made by Hands.

I Shall not open theſe Words by way of Expoſition; but ſhall only ſingle out a Point which is of great Uſe, and which I ſhall handle and finiſh at this time. And it is this, What Uſe and Advantage and Improvement Believers ſhould make of their having been in the State of Nature, as you know all once were, whether converted ſooner or later. Wherefore (ſaith the Apoſtle here) remember that ye were once Gentiles in the Fleſh.

There are two Ways of handling this Doctrine.

The one is by ſhewing the End that God hath, in leaving his Children in ſuch an Eſtate and Condition: And with that I will not at all meddle here at this time.

The ſecond is the Uſe and Improvement, that is to be made of that Condition by them. And what Uſe or Improvement may be made of a Man's ſinful Condition, while he was in the State of Nature, the ſame alſo may withal be made of thoſe Sins a Man hath fallen into ſince he was in the State of Grace.

The Holy-Ghoſt here you ſee, doth exhort us to Remember [Wherefore remember, ſaith he.] He had diſcourſed at large of the State of Nature in the former Verſes, and ſaith he, Let this for ever ſtick with you, let it be ever in your Eye: Wherefore remember.

And we may make the following Improvements, of what the Apoſtle enjoyns to theſe Epheſians.

Firſt, It ſhould ſerve us to this End, to magnify the greatneſs and freeneſs of God's Grace to us: Do but ſee what Paul ſaith (for I ſhall give you his Inſtance and Example) in 1 Tim. 1. 12. I thank Chriſt (ſaith he) for putting me into the Miniſtry; why ſo? Becauſe I was a Blaſphemer, a Perſecutor, and Injurious; but ſaith he, I obtained Mercy, becauſe I did it Ignorantly through Unbelief; and the Grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant with Faith and Love, which is in Chriſt Jeſus. If a Man had been but in Paul's Heart, and but ſeen when he conſidered that, I that was a Blaſphemer, &c. obtained Mercy, how he brought Blaſphemer and Mercy together, and what a mixture of Affections it wrought in his Heart. My Brethren, That is that which God aims at, to bring contraries at once into a Man's Soul, and by them to work the moſt glorious mixture of Affections in us, both of Confuſion in our ſelves, and of triumph in the freeneſs of his Grace. To that end, he brings in and preſerveth the Senſe both of his own Free-Grace, and of our own Vileneſs, to work this mixture of Affection in us. In this ſame 2*d* of the Epheſians, where the Apoſtle had diſcourſed of their having been in this Natural Condition, you ſhall find that he ſaith twice, By Grace ye are ſaved, he contents not himſelf to have ſaid it once, but he ſaid it again; ſo you have it ver. 5. By Grace ye are ſaved; ſo you have it again again, ver. 8. For by Grace ye are ſaved. If thou haſt acknowledged it once, acknowledg it again. You know that Rule, (which is an infallible one, and everlaſtingly holds true) that of the Apoſtle in Rom. 5. Where Sin hath abounded, there Grace aboundeth much more. (I will not ſtand to enlarge any more upon that;) For it is one of the Ends that God had (which I will not now inſiſt upon) for which he did ſuffer his Children to lye in ſuch a Condition.

Secondly, You may improve it too for a help to your Faith. Though the Guilt of Sin is in it ſelf, take it in a direct way, one of the greateſt oppoſites to Faith that can be, yet God improves it in the Heart of a Believer, to be the greateſt help to Faith many ways that could have been. As,

1. It helpeth our Faith, in reſpect of a Senſe of our own emptineſs. There is nothing that doth move a Man to ſelf-emptineſs more, or gives him a greater experience of it, than the Conſideration of that Condition he was once in by Nature. For to be ſure that then thou hadſt not the leaſt Power, not the leaſt Ability, not the leaſt Faculty, to think one good Thought, or to put forth one Holy Aim towards God, to do any thing that might help forward thine own Salvation, or magnify and advance the Glory of God. There was but one Mean to Salvation, and that was, to believe. God provided a Remedy in Jeſus Chriſt, a Remedy without us which requireth nothing within us but Faith. Take any Man that was in his natural Eſtate, let him but remember that, and he muſt needs remember this, that he had not the leaſt Power to believe; for he was dead, he was empty of all Grace, and Abilities to exerciſe Grace. And therefore the Apoſtle ſaith here in the 8*th* verſe of the 2*d* of the Epheſians, By Grace ye are ſaved, through Faith, and that not of your ſelves neither, it is the Gift of God. He makes this a Corollary from this, that they had been dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes, that they had formerly been in an unregenerate State and Condition. A Man by the Conſideration thereof hath Experience, that tho God provided a Remedy, yet he had not a Hand nor a Heart to lay hold upon it, but he ſhould (if left to himſelf) have periſhed everlaſtingly; and that as God found him a Chriſt, ſo he muſt find him Hands to lay hold upon him, or he had been undone.

2. It helps forward this Perſwaſion in Faith (which is the Spirit of Faith) that a Man can never be juſtified by any Works of his own: and, I ſay, this doth naturally riſe from the Conſideration of his once being in the State of Nature. It is the ſtrongeſt Argument (I will not much inſiſt upon it, only ſo much as may now clear it) to perſwade or convince the Soul, that he can never be juſtified by his own Righteouſneſs, though he hath never ſo much given him afreſh and anew by God; why? Becauſe he was once in the State of Nature. He hath ſaved us (ſaith the Apoſtle, in Tit. 3. 3, 4, 5.) not by Works of Righteouſneſs which we have done; why? by what doth he prove it? Becauſe we were ſometimes our ſelves Fooliſh and Diſobedient, &c. (he mentioneth their Natural Condition in the Verſes before) Our once having been in the State of Nature, it ſpoils, it diſenableth all Holineſs wrought in us by Chriſt, ever to juſtify us before God. My Brethren, the Argument why we cannot be juſtified by our own Works, doth not only lie in this, that our Works are imperfect; for know, they ſhall be perfect one day, and God if he pleaſed might make them perfect here: but ſuppoſe he had made us perfectly Holy in this Life, yet notwithſtanding ſtill we ſhould not be juſtified by it; why? Becauſe we were once in the State of Nature, ungodly Perſons, and this Righteouſneſs which we have now, it is a borrowed Righteouſneſs, by virtue of a new Covenant, the Covenant of Grace, and therefore it can never avail to juſtify, as Works under the Covenant of Works did, for I ſay it is but borrowed. And therefore ſee what the Apoſtle ſaith, in this Eph. 2. 9, 10. Do but mark the ſcope of thoſe two Verſes (it is punctual to what I drive at, and now have mentioned) We are not ſaved by Works (ſaith he) leſt any Man ſhould boaſt. Why are we not ſaved by Works? have Believers no Works? Yes, but they can never be ſaved by Works; Why? For (ſaith he) we are his Workmanſhip created in Chriſt Jeſus to good Works. Here is his Reaſon; and his Scope is manifeſtly this, ſaith he, there was a time when you had no Grace, no Holineſs, nor nothing in you, you were utterly dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes (ſo he ſaith in the former Verſe.) Well now you have Holineſs wrought in you, you are a Workmanſhip created in Chriſt Jeſus to good Works,

but

*Ser.*XXIV. but becauſe it is newly created in Chriſt Jeſus, hence therefore you can never be ſaved by it. This is a manifeſt and clear Corolary and Deduction from this Truth, that once they were in a Natural Condition, as we all were: For if we receive a new Workmanſhip created to good Works in Chriſt Jeſus, it is then meerly by Grace; and we therefore receive it by Chriſt Jeſus, becauſe once we were dead in Sins and Treſpaſſes; we were in our Natural Condition, hence therefore theſe Works that flow from this new Workmanſhip can never ſave or juſtify a Man.

3. It doth teach us in the way of believing one Leſſon, which we ſhould never have learned but only for the Conſideration that we were once in the State of Nature; It is the higheſt Leſſon in Faith's School (ſo I may call it) and it's this, That whenſoever a Man comes to Chriſt for Juſtification, he ſhould look upon himſelf as an Ungodly Perſon: that although he have never ſo much Grace in him, yet becauſe he once was in the State of Nature, and an Ungodly Perſon, he is to conſider himſelf (as in himſelf) ſo for ever. There is that clear place for it, in *Rom.*4.5. The Apoſtle had proved, and he doth prove there, that we are juſtified only by Faith; and he proves it from the example of Abraham our Father, and he takes the Example of Abraham after he had lived long in the State of Grace; for he quoteth that Scripture in Geneſis, He believed God, and it was counted unto him for Righteouſneſs, ver. 3. Now what ſaith he, Not unto him that worketh, but to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that juſtifieth the Ungodly (he works this out from Abraham's Example) his Faith is accounted for Righteouſneſs. So that now Abraham when he did come to believe twenty, thirty years after he was converted unto God, he ſtill believed upon that God that juſtifieth the Ungodly. Saith Abraham; I was an Ungodly Perſon once, and an Idolater, and what ever Grace I have now in me, what ever I have done ſince, that goes upon another Account, but ſtill as in my ſelf, when I come to look for Juſtification and for Righteouſneſs, I look upon my ſelf as an Ungodly Perſon, as if I had no works at all. And that is the meaning of it, to him that worketh not, that is, that regardeth not in the point of Juſtification, that is, as if he wrought not, but believeth on him that juſtifieth the Ungodly, is his Faith accounted unto him for Righteouſneſs. This is the Faith that is the Faith of Righteouſneſs, and we ſhould never have had occaſion for ſuch a Faith as this, had not it been for that Condition in which we all lay in by Nature.

4. It may help us againſt Temptations of all ſorts; Thou that livedſt in thy natural Condition, it may be many years, and didſt begin to ſee thy ſelf a loſt Man without the Lord Jeſus, it was a very bold adventure of thee when thou didſt firſt put forth thy hand to lay hold upon Jeſus Chriſt; thou cameſt then trembling to Chriſt for Pardon of Sin, whenas thou ſaweſt nothing in thy ſelf, nothing at all, there was not any ſuſpicion of Grace to be in thee, nothing but the contrary; and yet thou didſt believe then: it may be God fell upon thy Soul, aſſured thee of his Love too upon thy believing and throwing thy ſelf upon him. Mark, thou canſt never be put more to it (take thy whole courſe to thy dying day) than thou waſt then; for the worſt Temptation that can befal thee, is that thou art in ſuch a State and Condition. Why when thou didſt firſt begin to believe, thou wert in that Condition (that's certain) therefore now it is but putting forth ſuch an Act of Faith now in the midſt of ſuch a Temptation as thou didſt put forth at firſt, or as all Believers do put forth at firſt; it is but to live by that Faith at worſt which thou didſt at firſt begin to live by. My Brethren, Men uſe to eaſe their Faith by looking to what is in themſelves; but look upon your ſelves as Ungodly: Suppoſe your ſelves ſo, ſuppoſe the worſt (I do not ſay, take it for granted that your State is ſuch) in your ſelves you are ſuch; but ſuppoſe it; it is but making that venture upon Chriſt which you made at firſt. So that now that firſt Act of Faith thou putteſt forth upon the Conſideration of thy former State and Condition, doth but teach thee and prompt thee, what Faith thou art to live by in all Temptations whatſoever.

5. It is a great help to ſtrengthen a Man's Faith for Perſeverance. Thou wenteſt on perhaps, as many of the Saints have done, many years in a way of Sin; thou canſt not be, nor art now in a worſe Condition than thou wert then in; the Lord did then, when thou wert broke, ſet thee up again; why he will do ſo again tho thou art fallen into Sin: all the Sins of thy whole Life lay upon thee then, and thou cameſt to God for the Pardon of them; what doth the Apoſtle ſay in Rom. 5? (it is a uſe he makes of this very thing) If when we were Enemies (ſaith he, ver. 10.) We were reconciled unto God by the Death of his Son; did God pardon you, ſaith he, when you firſt came to him, having lain in your natural Condition all your days before, being Enemies unto him? now ſaith he, being reconciled, being now entered into an Eſtate of Covenant and Friendſhip with him; much more (ſaith he) being reconciled we ſhall be ſaved by his Life: that is, he putteth the Emphaſis both by comparing the effectualneſs of Chriſt's Death, and Chriſt's Life in us; as I have elſewhere ſhewn, but what I quote it now for is, that if God pardoned you then, when you were Enemies, and came to him out of your Natural Condition (therefore remember but that Condition) ſurely now having reconciled you to himſelf, you ſhall be ſaved by the Life, by the Interceſſion of Chriſt. My Brethren, If we ſhould remain in a mixt Condition of Sinning, ſuch as we have here in this Life, even to Eternity, God could pardon us, and he would do it: But relieve your Hearts thus, make but a compariſon of what you were in your former Eſtate before you were converted, and make the compariſon thus: I went on many years in ſuch a way of Sin, I knew not God; God all that while loved me, his Heart was upon me, and he relieved himſelf all that while with this, I will let him alone, for I ſhall have him come to me in the end; (and my Brethren it is certain that God did ſo. Before ever Paul was converted, God had an Eye upon him all that while, he had appointed the time in which he would turn him:) Anſwerably now, thou haſt ſtill Sin in thee which breaks out again and again, and thou thinkeſt it will undo thee; How doth God relieve himſelf now? There is a time (ſaith God) that I will take this Soul up into Heaven, free him from all Sin, and it is but bearing with him, and pardoning of him till then; I did it before, I did but bear with him, and forbear him till my Spirit turned him to me; now it is but bearing with him ſo much the longer, till ſuch time as my Spirit ſhall fully ſanctify him, and he be taken up unto my ſelf. Thus, I ſay, help thy Faith: and the Conſideration of God's Love to thee, and to his Children before they were converted, is an evident ſtrengthning of our Faith. Ser. XXIV.

thou

6. And laſtly, It may help our Faith, by moving us to take the faſter hold upon Chriſt. My Brethren, though it is the Power of the Holy-Ghoſt that doth help us to believe, and gives us ſtrength to believe, yea every degree of Strength; that we take a faſter hold upon Chriſt every day than other, it is from the Holy-Ghoſt: yet the Holy-Ghoſt uſeth Motives and Conſiderations, he deals with a Man herein as with a reaſonable Creature. Now when a Man ſhall look back upon his whole Life, and conſider the Sins of his unregenerate Condition, and all his Sins ſince; may that Man think with himſelf, if all theſe Sins ſhould now be mine, and I ſhould anſwer for them my ſelf, what a Condition ſhould I be in? But here is my Lord and Saviour Chriſt, who frees me from them all. This moves a Man ſtill to run to him as to a City of Refuge, to lay faſter hold upon him, to renew ſtronger Acts of Faith every day than other. And remember it for that end; If a Man hang upon the top of a Pinacle (as I may ſo expreſs it) the further off the Ground it is, and the more danger he ſees in falling, the faſter hold he will be ſure to take; ſo is it here. And that's the Reaſon (my Brethren) why poor Souls when they come firſt out of their natural Condition, make ſo eagerly and deſirably after Chriſt, and after Faith; it is becauſe they have all the Sins of their unregenerate Condition at once before them, which doth drive them to the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; to him they run as unto a City of Refuge, the cry of their bloody Tranſgreſſions purſuing them. Therefore now that Faith ſhould grow every day ſtronger and ſtronger, we have a greater Motive unto it, for we have every day before us a greater Proſpect of Sins. And ſo in all theſe reſpects it may ſerve to help forward Faith; Wherefore remember, ſaith the Apoſtle, &c.

Thirdly, Another Benefit, is, Love unto Jeſus Chriſt. (Theſe Advantages which I mention, many of them may ariſe from Sins committed ſince God called you as well as before, and ſo may this.) You know that Mary loved much, becauſe it is ſaid, much was forgiven her. I will give you an Inſtance of Paul, in that place I quoted even now, (1 Tim. 1.) though not to that purpoſe I now quote it. I, ſaith he, before was a Blasphemer, and a Persecutor, and Injurious, but I obtained Mercy, &c. and (saith he) the Grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant, with Faith and Love which is in Christ Jesus. What means he here by Faith and Love? Doth he mean the Faithfulness and Love of Christ unto him? No, but Faith and Love in himself wrought toward Jesus Christ; and his meaning is this, that look as I having been a Persecutor, and a Blasphemer, and Injurious, as I had abounded in all these before; now when God did turn me, the Grace of Jesus Christ did make this Advantage of it, it made me love him the more; The Grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant in Faith and Love. And remember this: The Love God shewed thee when he first turned thee to him; all the time before (as I said even now) his Heart and Eye was upon thee, himself had appointed a time, a fulness of time, in which he resolved to turn thee; and as he set a fulness of time for Christ Jesus his Son to come into the World, and to take our Nature upon him; so he hath set in his eternal Purpose and Decree a fulness of time in which the Holy-Ghost shall come into every Man's Heart to turn him, and he faileth not a moment of the time; as Christ failed not a moment, but he came in due time, as the Text saith, Rom. 5. I say, all the while before still his Heart was upon thee; and as he saw Nathaniel under the Figtree, so he saw thee when thou wast in such and such Courses, and he thought with himself, well this Sinner will come home one day, and Oh (as the Prophet Jeremy speaks) when shall it once be! He longed for that time, for that time in which thy Soul should actually be married unto Jesus Christ by his Holy Spirit; and when that time was come which he longed for so much, when that thou didst but begin to think of turning to him, and as it is said of Ephraim, in Jer. 31. 20. didst but smite upon thy Thigh, when thou beganneſt first to express but the least Affection to God, the least purpose of turning to him, His Bowels stirred within him, I will remember him still, I will surely have Mercy upon him, saith the Lord.

Ser. XXIV.

Fourthly, It likewise may be a Treasury to thee for matter of Godly Sorrow. My Brethren, it is a very great Errour, that we may cease Mourning for Sin, when it is once pardoned: No, it is the fittest season then to mourn, and of all Graces else take your fill of that. As I heard one once say, when he was upon his Death-bed, a day or two before he died (and as he did indeed spend the time before) saith he, I shall not mourn in Heaven, and so he took his fill of Mourning, (out of the Sense of the Love of God) for the Sins he had committed here. Therefore now be humbled for Sin, mourn for it; if not in order to the pardon of it (which thou art assured of) yet to the further manifestation of that Pardon; if not in relation to that, yet because it is pardoned; as you have it, Ezek. 36. ult. That thou mayst be confounded (saith he) and never open thy Mouth more, when I am pacified towards thee for all thine Abominations. It is a very great Question, whether the Love of God should break our Hearts more for the Sins we have committed since we have turned unto him, or those committed before? There are Aggravations on both sides, which we may take in their Proportion, to work upon our Hearts. If we consider the Sins, since God wrought upon us, there is this to aggravate them, that we have sinned against that God that hath manifested his Love to us, and we have sinned against the manifestation of that Love. But then on the other hand, the Sins before Conversion have this heigthning in them too, to make us mourn, that tho we knew not then that God loved us, yet certainly he bore a love to us all the while, and out of that Love he forbore us, and out of that Love he intended to convert us and to turn us unto him.

Fifthly, We may improve it for this End, to make us more zealous for God. It is an improvement which may be made either of our living long in our Natural Condition (we may remember it for that End, to quicken our Zeal for God) or it is an Improvement also of Sins committed since we knew God. It was this that fired Paul so much, inflamed his Heart so much, that made him labour more abundantly than all the Apostles. None of the Apostles persecuted the Church of Christ. Peter denyed him it is true; and it was a means certainly to intend his Zeal; but saith Paul, none persecuted it but I; which as it laid him low, so it made him him labour more than they all; he thought he had never done enough. It is the Motive which the Apoſtle Peter uſeth, 1 Pet. 4. 2,3. That he (ſpeaking of a Chriſtian) ſhould no longer live the reſt of his time in the Fleſh, to the Luſts of Men, but to the Will of God; for the time paſt of our Life may ſuffice us to have wrought the Will of the Gentiles. As if he had ſaid, if it were fit for you to have the Pleaſures of Sin, yet you may be content with what you have had, let that ſuffice you that you have ſpent ſo much and ſo long time in it; you owe nothing to the Fleſh, therefore it may very well ſuffice that it hath had ſo much of your time already, that for the time paſt of your Life you have wrought the Will of the Gentiles (that is, have wrought the Luſts of the Gentiles:) Now ſaith he, you ſhould no longer live the reſt of your time in the Fleſh to the Luſts of Men, but to the Will of God. As it is a ſtrong Motive to be more Holy, the leſs of a Man's time remaineth in the Fleſh, (that's the Apoſtles Argument, The day is ſhort, ſaith he, and ſo in Heb. 10. by how much the more the day approacheth;) ſo it is as ſtrong an Argument, by how much more of his time paſt hath been loſt unto God. As by how much the leſs is to come (for the time to come) ſhould be a Motive unto Holineſs, ſo ſo much of the time paſt ſpent in a vain Converſation ſhould be a Motive too. In 1 Pet. 1. 18. having been redeemed from our vain Converſation (that's the Apoſtle's Expreſſion there) therefore (ſaith he) paſs the time of your ſojourning here in Fear: therefore be Holy as he is Holy. That's the Exhortation he makes, and theſe are the Motives he uſeth, compare but the 15. 16. and 18. verſes together. Such Grounds as lye Fallow, when you till them you expect the greater Crop from them; and ſo doth God from thoſe who have ſpent much of their days in Sin: and certainly that Soyl that doth bring forth Weeds moſt, will alſo be fruitful of Herbs when it is ſown; and this God expects.

Motive

Ser. XXIV.

Laſtly, You may make this Improvement of the remembrance that your ſelves were once Gentiles in the Fleſh (as the Apoſtle here ſpeaks.) Haſt thou any Friends that thou haſt prayed for long, that are ſtill in their Natural Condition, and thou thinkeſt there is no hope of them? Do but remember what thou thy ſelf once wert, and how long; remember how long many of thoſe that are now in Heaven did lie in that Condition ere God called them; Such (ſaith the Apoſtle, in 1 Cor. 6.) were ſome of you. This is a certain Truth, that there is never a Sermon that hath Power in it, but the Devil is afraid of every Man in the Church that is in his Natural Condition, he knows not but that the Holy-Ghoſt may ſeize upon that Man at that time: anſwerably have thou hope at every Sermon, of thoſe whom thou haſt prayed for. In 2 Tim. 2. 24. ſpeaking of the Miniſters of the Goſpel, he ſaith, They muſt be gentle, and apt to teach, patient, in meekneſs inſtructing thoſe that oppoſe themſelves, if God peradventure (ſaith he) will give them Repentance to the acknowledging the Truth. If there be but a peradventure that God may do it, and though they oppoſe too (for ſo the Apoſtle's Expreſſion is) yet be patient, ſaith he, wait; ſo the Miniſters of God ſhould do for thoſe they preach too; and ſo ſhouldeſt thou do for thoſe whom thou prayeſt for, and haſt ſought God to turn them. As Paul ſaith to Wives, he bids them not to leave their Huſbands, (in 1 Cor. 7. 16.) ſends them home to them again with a what knoweſt thou, O Wife, but thou mayſt be a means to turn thy Husband? So, haſt thou prayed, and prayed long, for a Child, for a Huſband, for a Friend, and ſtill they oppoſe (put the caſe ſo, for ſo Paul doth in that place of Timothy) yea ſuppoſe they have been under a powerful Means, and have not been won by the Word (the Apoſtle Peter puts that caſe too, in 1 Pet. 1. 3.) yet after all this, what knoweſt thou? Still pray, ſtill uſe Means, it may be ſome little croſs (tho they have had many to break their Hearts) ſhall work more than all the reſt, ſome by-Speech ſpoken may fall into their Hearts, and turn them when many pertinent Exhortations that reſpect their Conditions avail not, tho it may be thou haſt wondred how they could ſit under ſuch Exhortations without being moved. And when they have not been won by the Word (ſaith Peter) 1 Pet. 3. 2,3. they may be won by thy Converſation.

And ſo much now for this Point, which is indeed a Point of great uſe unto us, and which we are apt when we have lain long in the State of Unregeneracy to forget, and fail out of the ſight of it. You ſee the Apoſtle here exhorts theſe Epheſians to the remembrance of it, and himſelf the higheſt Chriſtian that ever was, lived in the continual ſight of it: Theſe and ſuch like Uſes are to be made of it.

FINIS.

Thirteen

SERMONS

PREACHED

On Diverſe Texts

OF

SCRIPTURE,

UPON

Several Occaſions.

PART. III.

BY

THOMAS GOODWIN, D.D.

LONDON,

Printed by J. D. and S. R. for T. G. 1681.

To the Reader.

THat I might not be wanting to your Satisfaction, I have here added ſome Sermons of the Author, preached on ſeveral Occaſions. I have choſe them, rather than other of his Treatiſes, becauſe more congeneal to the foregoing Parts of the Book; the firſt four eſpecially had a right to their Place in it, being Sermons on ſome Verſes of the ſecond, third, and fifth Chapters of the Epheſians. They do not indeed compleat the Expoſition of it: Nor were they deſigned ſo by the Author, who purſued the Expoſition in his Lecture Sermons, which you had before; but being called from it by Providence, he ſtopt at the 11th Verſe of the ſecond Chapter, and never proceeded further afterwards. But theſe Sermons that follow were preached on other Occaſions. This I thought neceſſary to inform the Reader, leſt he ſhould think, that the Author had gone through the whole Epiſtle, and that having loſt part of the Expoſition, I had ſet before him the remaining broken Pieces, but I can aſſure him, that here is all, that ever was preached by him on that Epiſtle.

To ſatisfy any one, that is ſo curious as to enquire, when the following Sermons were preached, ſince the Title of them tells him it was on ſeveral Occaſions. He may know that the firſt of them on Eph. 2. 14, 15, 16. was preached at St. Mary's in Oxford. And was formerly printed, and may be found added very often to his Works publiſhed before. The other Sermons on ſeveral Texts of Scripture were preached in his younger Time at Cambridge in his Lecture at Trinity Church. Thoſe two on Col. 1. 26, 27. An. 1625. The firſt Sermon on Zeph. 2. 1, 2, 3. was preached on a Solemn Faſt, 1628. and the other in the following courſe of his Lecture.

I call this the firſt Volumn of his Works, becauſe he has left ſeveral Treatiſes perfected, and ready for the Preſs, which I intend to publiſh in a ſecond Volumn, as God ſhall give me Opportunity.

T. G.

A SERMON

On EPHES. 2. 14, 15, 16.

14. For he is our Peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the Wall of Partition between us:
15. Having abolished in his Flesh the Enmity, even the Law of Commandments contained in Ordinances, for to make in himself, of twain, one new Man, so making Peace.
16. And that he might reconcile both unto God in one Body by the Cross, having slain the Enmity thereby, (or, in himself.)

IT were a manifest Folly in the Judgments of most knowing Men, to go about to use in any set way, exhortatory Motives, to persuade to Peace and Reconciliation the People of God amongst us. The Provocations are so high, and Exasperations so fresh and encreasing, that if I had an Audience made up of those alone that have the swaying Power of either, and together therewith, their most favourable Attention, and Interest in Affection, without prejudice, I should not know how to attempt it with any hope of Success. But tho the Animosities of Mens Spirits, augmented by coincident Circumstances, are gone beyond the Power of the Persuasions of Men in this present Paroxism; yet they are not above the Power of God's Wisdom and Providence, nor the Force and Efficacy of Christ's Blood. You may therefore, in the midst of all contrary Appearances, give me leave, tho I cannot hope to persuade, yet to believe, (the Catholick Church, and the Communion of Saints, they are in my Creed) and because I believe, therefore to speak, and so to give you an account of my Faith as to this issue. Let your Faith but wait, and give God time for it, and leave him to effect it his own way. And to this end I have taken this Text, Christus Pax nostra: For he is our Peace, who hath made both one, &c. And my Inference is, That therefore the Saints shall, and must be one, and reconciled in the end. And this is the best News which in these Times can be told you, the seasonablest we can hear of, and is indeed one great part of the glad Tidings of the Gospel it self, without which it were imperfect, which Christ himself, our Peace, (who came to purchase it, as these words shew, so) came to preach, as the very next Verse (v. 17.) hath it.

The main and principal Intendment of these Words is, To give an eminent Instance of the Efficacy of Christ's Mediation, in slaying the Enmities that are amongst the People of God themselves, and of his being our Peace in that respect; instancing in that, the greatest that ever was, between Jew and Gentile, Whom yet (as here) he hath made both one, and hath broken down the Partition-Wall between us: And however he mentions in the 16*th* Verse, our Reconciliation made with God, (of which elsewhere he treats more largely) yet (here) but by way of confirmation of our Faith in this other, of Reconciliation amongst our selves. For the Aim of its Introduction here is but to shew, how that Christ, in reconciling us to God himself, carried it so, and did it under such a consideration and respect, as necessarily drew on and involved our Reconciliation one with another; namely this, That he reconciled us unto God in one Body, among our ſelves. It is an happy Clauſe, that Addition [one Body] and on purpoſe inſerted thereinto, to ſhew, that when God was to tranſact our Peace and Reconciliation to and with Chriſt, hanging upon the Croſs, he would not, nor did not acknowledg himſelf, to him, then reconciled to us by him, upon any other Terms, than as withall we were look'd at, and repreſented to him by Chriſt, as one Body, and therein reconciled one to another, whilſt we were reconciled to himſelf.

The Connection of the 16*th Verſe with the* 15*th, diſcuſſed: And how that Reconciliation to God in one Body,* v. 16. is to be underſtood; whether of that Reconciliation wrought for us, or in us.

I Meet but with one eminent Difficulty in the Coherence and Contexture of theſe words, and that is the Connection of theſe two Verſes, *v.*15,16. as namely of theſe words, And that he might reconcile us to God, v. 16, &c. with the former, v. 15. Having aboliſhed the Enmity, &c. Now this Enmity mentioned v. 15. is evidently intended of the Enmity between Jew and Gentile, as is clear by its Connection with verſ. 14. Who hath made of twain one, and broken down the Partition-Wall: Having ſlain the Eumity. Now the twain, or the two, thus made one, (between whom this Enmity was) is not God and we, but the Jews and the Gentiles, (of whom he had ſpoken in the former Verſes) for he adds, That he might create both in one new Man, which could not be ſaid of God and us.

Now then the Difficulty is, What Reconciliation to God in one Body that ſhould be, v. 16. which the Apoſtle makes the Conſequent of having ſlain the Enmity between theſe Jews and Gentiles? For the Connection ſeems to import the one a Conſequent of the other, and the Words to run thus: Having ſlain the Enmity between themſelves, v. 15. that he might reconcile them unto God, v. 16. Now this Reconciliation to God, muſt be either meant of the Work of Reconciliation wrought in us, whereby we turn unto God, as 1 Cor. 5. Be ye reconciled unto God; or, that Reconciliation which Chriſt wrought for us unto God: And, whether of theſe ſhould be intended? is the Queſtion; and ſo withall the Queſtion is, Whether thoſe words, v. 16. And that he might reconcile both unto God, are to be caſt unto the 15*th* Verſe, as a part of the Diſcourſe thereof, or do not rather begin a new and entire Diſcourſe, full and compleat within themſelves?

For the firſt ſtand many Interpreters, and the chief Reaſon for that Opinion is, the Coherence of theſe Words with thoſe next immediatly foregoing, Having aboliſhed the Enmity, that he might create in himſelf, of twain, one new Man, and that he might reconcile both unto God, &c. The Reſolve of which ſeems to be this, That Chriſt having on the Croſs wrought in himſelf this great Work for us, to ſlay the Enmity between us, and make both one, by the Sacrifice of himſelf, and this as the antecedent Work: That yet there remained two other, as conſequent Works, as the Effects that follow therefrom: Namely,

1. To create both one new Man, ſo making actually Peace between themſelves. And,

2. To bring them both into an actual State of Reconciliation with God, by working Reconciliation in them towards God, ſo making them one Body.

And the Reaſon for this Interpretation further is, That both theſe two are brought in and yoked in the like Tenour of Speech, That he might create, &c. And that he might reconcile; as if they were like parallel Fruits of that antecedent Work, ſlaying that Enmity, mentioned v. 15. And according to this Parallel, look as creating them both into one new Man, is and muſt be acknowledged to be underſtood of a Work wrought in them, viz. the new Creation; ſo alſo that other, the reconciling them to God, muſt be underſtood of the Work of Reconciliation unto God wrought in them alſo: And ſo the new Man they are created into, v. 15. anſwereth but unto that one Body they are reconciled unto, v. 16. being one and the ſame.

And

And that which encreaſeth the Difficulty is, That if it ſhould be underſtood of Reconciliation unto God himſelf, wrought by Chriſt upon the Croſs, how ſuch a Reconciliation ſhould be the conſequent of his ſlaying firſt the Enmity between the Saints themſelves; ſo as it ſhould be ſaid, He ſlew the Enmity among the Saints, that he might reconcile them to God? This is not conſonant to Reaſon, ſeeing rather (that according to the Harmony and Dependence of Theological Truths) his reconciling them unto God upon the Croſs is the Antecedent, and Cauſe of his ſlaying the Enmity of them mutually; becauſe our Reconciliation one with another is rather depending upon, and the Fruit of Reconciliation with God himſelf, who being firſt reconciled to us, all things elſe are reconciled one to another: as Subjects that have been at variance, when reconciled to their Prince or Head, become reconciled one to another among themſelves.

But yet I rather incline to think, that other kind of Reconciliation between God and us, wrought by Chriſt for us on the Croſs, to be intended, v. 16. and ſo to be brought in as a Parallel with that former Reconciliation wrought by him alſo on the Croſs, between and on behalf of the Jew and Gentile mutually: And ſo this 16*th* Verſe to begin a new and entire Diſcourſe, apart and ſejunct from the other, namely, of our Reconciliation with God, as the former Verſes had diſcourſed of that Reconciliation which is wrought for us between our ſelves.

And ſo the main Proportions of this Parallel are theſe: That as that Reconciliation between Jew and Gentile, wrought by Chriſt on the Croſs, had two parts, 1. Poſitive, making both one. 2. Privative, the removing the Impediment that cauſed the Enmity, v. 15. (the Conſequent of which is, the creating of both into one new Man): So the Apoſtle diſcourſing, v. 16. of this other Reconciliation with God, he therein intends to make like two parts thereof, anſwerable to the other, only with a tranſpoſition of Speech. 1. Poſitive, Reconciliation to God in one Body. 2. Privative, Having ſlain that Enmity, namely, againſt God. The reſolution of all which is, as if he had ſaid, Whereas there was a double Enmity, one to God, another among our ſelves, Chriſt that is our Peace hath dealt with both: He having ſlain the Enmity between themſelves, hath made both one; and having ſlain in like manner the Enmity to God, hath reconciled us unto God.

Now that which clears and confirms this Connection, is:

Firſt; That this renders a more full and juſt Analyſis of the Words, which is this:

1. That in v. 14. he in general proclaims Chriſt our Peace. And then,
2. In the next words proceeds to the two particular Branches, wherein Chriſt is made our Peace.

1. Between our ſelves mutually.
2. Between God and us. And then,

3. In the handling of either, obſerveth this Parallel in either, namely, between a privative part, ſlaying the Enmity, and a poſitive part, reconciling, and making one, ſo enumerating the compleat Requiſites to either.

Then, Secondly, To ſhew that theſe are indeed two disjunct and compleat Diſcourſes, of two ſuch Heads of Reconciliation, he ſevers the firſt, v. 15. from the ſecond, v. 16. by adding a full Period, and as it were a Selah to the firſt, thus ſealing up the 15*th* Verſe, So making Peace; namely, fully and compleatly, that Peace which had been ſpoken of among Jew and Gentile, that ſo he might enter anew and diſtinctly from this, upon that other, of reconciling both unto God, which he doth, v. 16.

Then, Thirdly, For the Cloſe of that 16*th* Verſe, that he ſhould in like manner bring in a ſecond time theſe words, [Having ſlain the Enmity] upon occaſion of his mentioning our Reconciliation to God, argues ſtill more his Aim to be, to cut off the 16*th* Verſe from the 15*th*: For if thoſe Words, v. 16. That he might reconcile us to God, had referred to that other, [Having ſlain the Enmity, v. 15.] as a part of that Sentence not made compleat; then this ſecond [Having ſlain the Enmity] needed not to have been: but doth rather ſhew, that there is another Enmity between God and us, diſtinct from the former intended by him; and ſo the ſlaying thereof, joined properly and genuinely with it's fellow-conjugate, namely, Reconciliation unto God, as the former, v. 15. had in like manner been connected with it's conjugate alſo, making both one among themſelves. If indeed the Apoſtle had carried his Speech in v. 15. thus, Having aboliſhed the Enmity between them, that he might create one new Man, and that he might reconcile both unto God in one Body, and ſo ended his Diſcourſe of it, then theſe two in their reference could not have been parted: but he moreover adding to their Reconciling to God, a ſecond time, theſe words, Having ſlain the Enmity, namely, that between God and us, he ſo maketh the 16*th* Verſe an entire Sentence and Period of it ſelf, as the 14*th* and 15*th* do make in like manner a full Period of themſelves: and ſo the 14*th* and 15*th* are to be read and joined thus: Chriſt hath made both (Jew and Gentile) one, having ſlain the Enmity, (that was between them); thus Beza and others: and anſwerably the 16*th* to this Sence, with an eaſy and fair Tranſpoſition, And having ſlain, or, And hath ſlain the Enmity, (namely, between God and them) that he might reconcile both unto God in one Body by the Croſs, on which he alſo ſlew that Enmity.

And whereas it will be ſaid, That the word [καὶ] or [and] which the 16*th* Verſe begins with, ſeemeth to caſt the reference of this upon the former ſlaying the Enmity, v. 15. and ſo the latter to be but an emphatical Repetition of the ſame: I anſwer, That that [and] v. 16. is but all one with moreover, as it is often uſed, as introducing a new and diſtinct Diſcourſe, added to a former. And ſo, Fourthly; As thus underſtood, the Parallel is rendred yet more full; for as there is here found a double Enmity, and an anſwerable double ſlaying of each, in order to a double Reconciliation, ſo to make up the Parallel (which the Apoſtle intended) yet the more full, there are two further Clauſes added to each, fitly anſwering one to another: For as of the one he ſays, Having aboliſhed the Enmity [in his Fleſh] v. 15. So of the other (the latter) in like manner he ſpeaks, Having ſlain that Enmity [in himſelf] v. 16. as the Greek bears, and the Margin varies it.

Now as to any Difficulty propoſed, that which is left as material to be conſidered is only this, How his having ſlain that Enmity between us our ſelves firſt, ſhould be conceived to be the Antecedent to reconcile us to God?

Now for Anſwer hereunto.

Firſt; Beſides, that according to that Connection which I have given, that the 16*th* Verſe ſhould thus make up a full Period of it ſelf, and doth keep it ſelf entire within it ſelf, (as the fourteenth and fifteenth Verſes alſo do) and ſo not at all referring to the ſlaying the Enmity, v. 15. as hath been explained, which Coherence doth at once cut off the whole of that Objection at firſt made: But beſides this, (ſuppoſing it might take in, and refer to that ſlaying the Enmity, v. 15. among Saints, as the Antecedent, or at leaſt, Ingredient unto their Reconciliation with God) there may perhaps this juſt Aſſoilment be given thereto.

That, Secondly; In order of Nature, all Enmity muſt firſt be ſuppoſed removed, ere Friendſhip, or (as here) Reconciliation can be ſuppoſed to be procured: the reaſon of which is obvious to any Judgment; firſt, Peace, by ſlaying Enmity, and then good Will. And ſo upon this, and the like grounds, theſe words, That he might reconcile unto God in one Body, may well be ſuppoſed to have a ſecondary aſpect to his having firſt aboliſhed the Enmity between our ſelves v. 15. as well as our Enmity againſt God, v. 16. And the Apoſtle's adding [in one Body] (which he ſtudiouſly hath done) ſhews, that they being under that notion and reſpect reconciled unto God, by Chriſt upon the Croſs, that then withall at the ſame time, yea, in order of Nature, firſt, their Enmities one againſt another were removed, as well as againſt God himſelf: All ſorts of Enmities being to be removed, ere any ſort of Reconciliation attained, ſurely under that Notion they cannot be conſidered reconciled to God, but withall it muſt be ſaid, they are at peace, and ſo made one among themſelves; at leaſt, theſe two do mutually argue each the other. If indeed there had been room left for us to conceive, that our Reconciliation with God had been ſo wrought by Chriſt for us, as for each Perſon conſidered only ſingle and apart, (tho even ſo it was intended, namely, for each and every Perſon; and this is involved in that other) then indeed it might have been ſuppoſed, that their Enmities to God had been ſlain and done firſt away, and Reconciliation wrought with him firſt, by one primary Act, and then after that, ex conſequenti, as a ſecondary Work, our Reconciliation amongſt our ſelves had been caſt in, and followed thereupon; or which is all one, wrought and procured by a ſecond Act or Intention of Chriſt's. But if in one and the ſame very individual Act, and Intention of their being reconciled to God, they were conſidered as one Body, and that this was put in as an involved Ingredient thereinto; ſo you muſt neceſſarily ſuppoſe their own mutual Enmities done away alſo, at leaſt, together therewith, by one and the ſame individual Act alſo; and this Conſideration, if there were no other, is a ſufficient Salvo to the fore-mentioned Difficulty. Now how this Reconciliation unto God in one Body was performed by Chriſt on the Croſs, I ſhall handle afterwards.

I ſhall trouble you no further with untying this Knot, or the drawing out into one ſmooth and continued Line, the Series of this Coherence: For however (take the 16*th* Verſe in which of theſe Sences you pleaſe) the Words in the 14*th* and 15*th* Verſes are ſufficient Bottom for the Heads of that whole Diſcourſe I intend; for theſe Words, v. 14, 15. do undeniably (as all muſt confeſs) treat of the Reconciliation of the People of God among themſelves, and ſufficiently hold forth theſe two Generals.

1. The Work of Chriſt upon the Croſs to procure it: He hath made both one, having ſlain the Enmity in his Fleſh; and hath virtually (in the virtue of his Death) broke down the Partition-Wall that occaſioned it, which in his Providence he after ruined. And,

2. The Work of Chriſt by his Spirit in us, creating both one new Man in himſelf.

And now take the other Words, v. 16. in either Sence, or in both, (which are not inconſiſtent) however this is obſervable even therein, That the Apoſtle was not content to have ſetly purſued the Saints Reconciliation among themſelves, in thoſe two whole Verſes, the 14*th* and 15*th*, but when he ſpeaks of Reconciliation with God alſo, v. 16. he muſt needs add and put in that Clauſe alſo, In one Body; the mutual Reconciliation then of the Saints is, upon all accounts, the principal Intendment of the Apoſtle here.

The Diviſion of the Words: The principal Heads of this Diſcourſe ſet out, which are four.

NOw for the Diviſion of the Words, that will fall according to either the larger, or elſe the more ſpecial Scope of the Words. If we take them in that firſt and largeſt comprehenſiveneſs, as treating of both our Reconciliation with God, and between our ſelves alſo, and how Chriſt our Peace is both, ſo they admit of this Diviſion and Analyſis.

I. That the general Theme and Argument of the whole ſhould be premiſed in theſe Words, Chriſtus Pax noſtra, Chriſt is our Peace; which is the Inſcription of a Proclamation of him under one of his eminent Royal Titles, Chriſt the great and perfect Peace-maker. And then,

II. Proclaiming him ſuch, in all the Branches or Particulars thereof, that may argue him ſuch.

Firſt; As an univerſal Peace-maker, as both being a Peace between all ſorts of Perſons at variance, and alſo extending his Mediation to the removing of all ſorts of Enmities: Firſt, Perſons; as,

1. Between us, v. 19. that is, among our ſelves, aboliſhing τὴν ἔχθραν, that Enmity, v. 15.

2. Between God and us, ſlaying that Enmity alſo, v. 16. thus an univerſal Peace-maker.

Secondly; The Eſtabliſher of a through and perfect Peace, both for time paſt, and time to come.

1. Who hath already made and concluded it, as in his own Perſon, ὁ ποιήσας, he hath made it, λύσας, he hath diſſolved and broke down, and ſo not now to be done. And,

2. The ſame ſecured for the future, even for ever; theſe Enmities being aboliſhed, v. 14, 15. that is, utterly aboliſhed, as never to get head; ſlain, v. 16. never to revive.

Thirdly; Our compleat Peace, as in reſpect to all parts that concur to it, and ways of Peace to accompliſh it, and make it ſure. Firſt, in reſpect of Parts: Both,

1. Negative, by removing and deſtroying even the very occaſion of the Enmity, the Partition-Wall of Ordinances, breaking that down; and again, v. 16. ſlaying the Enmity it ſelf.

2. Poſitive, expreſſed in two words, Reconciling, v. 16. Making both one, v. 14, 15. Then, Fourthly; By all ſorts of ways accompliſhing it.

1. Repreſenting us in his Perſon, as in one Body, v. 16, perſonating all his People, and under that conſideration reconciling them to God, and one another.

2. Meritoriouſly, taking on his Perſon (as repreſenting their Perſons) all their Enmities, [in his Fleſh] or the human Nature, ſays the 15*th* Verſe, hanging on the Croſs, v. 16. and ſo offering up that as one common Sacrifice to God for all, (he is ſaid to reconcile all in one Body by the Croſs, v. 16.)

3. Efficiently, by his Spirit, creating both into one Man; of all Conjunctions the neareſt, and that Creation wrought in himſelf, of all Foundations of Union the firmeſt; for they being both created one new Man, and united in and to himſelf, he is able, and will be ſure to hold them for ever together. And to put the more evident Notice upon all he had ſaid, or ſhould ſay of him in this reſpect, he intermingleth in the midſt of his Diſcourſe, this Selah, or Note of Obſervation, So making Peace, (take notice of it, ſays he) So, or thus, univerſally, perfectly, compleatly, and eternally.

of

And this is one Account of the Words, and indeed of the whole, and every part and particle thereof.

But if we ſingle forth that more ſpecial and principal Aim before-mentioned, Chriſtus Pax noſtra, as in relation to making Peace amongſt us, the Elect of God; ſo, inſtead of any accurate Diviſion of them, I ſhall only draw forth theſe four Propoſitions, which will ſuck into themſelves the Strength of what theſe Words have in them, as to this great Point. Namely,

I. The Story of the Greatneſs of that Enmity, (the greateſt that ever was) between Jew and Gentile, before Chriſt's coming, and a while after, by reaſon of thoſe Jewiſh Rites and Ordinances of the Ceremonial Law, which the Apoſtle by a Metonymy, termeth therefore the Enmity.

II. The Story of Chriſt's Tranſactions on the Croſs, by which he virtually ſlew and aboliſhed this Enmity, and meritoriouſly made them both one, and reconciled both in one Body.

III. The Story of their actual Accord, and becoming one, as the Records of the Acts of the Apoſtles, and they in their Epiſtles, have preſented it unto our view; and the Principles by which, and the Providences whereby, that Partition-Wall was broke down, and the Enmity allayed, chiefly by creating both one new Man in Himſelf.

IV. That the Inſtance of all this was intended by God as a Precedent, and leading Cauſe under the New Teſtament, to aſſure us, that whatever ſhould fall out in after Ages, of Difference amongſt the Saints, yet ſtill however, they both might and ſhould in the iſſue be reconciled, and their Differences in a like manner allayed and compounded; as alſo to ſhew the Ways and Principles whereby to effect it.

I. The Greatneſs of that Enmity, which was between Jew and Gentile, until Chriſt purchaſed their Reconciliation.

For the firſt, I have to preſent you out of this Text, with an Inſtance of the deepeſt, and moſt laſting Enmity, between two ſorts of Men, choſen to be one Body unto God, that ſhared as then the whole World between them, (Jew and Gentile) that ever was, or will be in all Ages, which yet was compounded by Chriſt. View we it firſt in the General, through thoſe Expreſſions the Text uſeth of it.

The Apoſtle ſets it forth to us, not barely by Terms of Diſtance and Diviſion, calling them, τὼ δύο, both or two, and τὰ ἀμφότερα, twain, not ſimply of being Enemies in an ordinary way, but ſpeaks of an Enmity in the Abſtract, τὴν ἔχθραν, a ſpecial Enmity it was, not that which is common to Man againſt Man, (who, as the Holy-Ghoſt that knows our Nature tells us, are mutually hateful to, and hating one another, Tit. 3. 1.) but a knotted, twiſted, combined Enmity; that the word, λύσας, diſſolved it, v. 14. imports. A ſtirring active Enmity, that lay not ſleeping; this the word, καταργήσας, v. 15. implies: He made it inefficacious, took away the Strength, the Energy, the operative Virtue of it. Yea, and if you will take in, and borrow from the expreſſion, v. 16. ἀποκτείνας, he ſlew it. It was a living ſpriteful Enmity, yea, that had a Rage in it, (we on the contrary call ſuch an one deadly, becauſe it aims at Life.) The * word bears up to this, Non tam occidit, quam trucidavit, Chriſt did not barely kill it, but bloodily, with a rage, as provoked with the Fierceneſs of the Enmity it ſelf; for the Rage thereof was cruel, and reach'd up to Heaven, as the Scripture ſpeaks.

* ἀποκτείνειν, magis quam occidere, ſignificat, occidere cum ſævitia. Hieron. Mat. 1. v. 18.

Likewiſe

Likewiſe an old Hatred, (as the Prophet Ezekiel in his Time termed it, ſpeaking of that between the Philiſtim-Gentiles and the Jews; but this was now grown much older, in all of two thouſand years continuance,) even from the firſt Time wherein God ſeparated the People from the reſt of the Nations, as in Abraham by Circumciſion he did; a Wall of Separation, (if I may purſue the Metaphor in the Text) whoſe Foundation was laid in Abraham's Time, when Circumciſion was firſt given, (for that began the Quarrel) reared up higher by Moſes's Rites, further lengthned and ſtretched out in all the Times of the Prophets, throughout all Ages, until Chriſt, who came to aboliſh it, and break it down.

Ezek. 25. 15.

And laſtly, an univerſal Hatred in the Jews to all Nations, and in all Nations to the Jewes; even all that were called, τὰ ἔθνη ἐν σαρκὶ, Gentiles in the Fleſh, and Uncircumciſion, by that which is called Circumciſion, v. 11. as all Nations were termed and reckoned by them.

Thus God fore-ordained, that as to honour his Son in reconciling us to himſelf, he permits the greateſt Sins and Enmities to be in the Hearts and Lives of thoſe he intends to ſave, againſt himſelf: ſo likewiſe, that the higheſt and tougheſt Animoſities ſhould be found amongſt thoſe, (when he ſhould come upon Earth) that were ordained to be his People, to ſhew the Sovereign Power and Efficacy of his Mediation, in conſtituting them one new Man in Himſelf. Theſe but in General for a Foundation out of the Text.

The Story of the Particulars of it hath two Branches:

1. What it was between them before Chriſt, and the Converſion of either to the Chriſtian Faith?
2. What after Converſion, and that both equally had embraced Chriſt?

Firſt; Take the Elevation of it before, both out of the Scripture, and other authentick Teſtimonies: Both,

1. Of the Jew againſt the Gentile.
2. Of the Gentile againſt the Jew.

And I ſhall withall, by the way, make a Parallel of the one with the other.

1. Of the Jew againſt the Gentile. The Quarrel was begun indeed by them; they out of their carnal fleſhly boaſting of their Privilege to be the only People of God, (as they were) ſcorned and contemned the poor Gentiles. The 11*th* Verſe inſinuates this, Ye were Gentiles, who were called Uncircumciſion, by that (Nation, namely) which is called the Circumciſion in the Fleſh. It began in Nick-names, and the Jews were they that began to call Names firſt, as Interpreters have obſerved. And it began early, almoſt from the Time when the Seed of Abraham received that firſt Badge of Difference. You hear on't in Jacob's Time: To give our Siſter to one that is uncircumciſed, that were a Reproach to us, Gen. 34. 14. And after, amongſt all the Race of the Jews, both good and bad, in all Ages, the ſame was uſed as a Reproach: as by Sampſon, Judg. 15. 18. by Jonathan, 1 Sam. 14. 16. by David, chap. 17. 26, 36. by Saul, chap. 31. 4. They judging it (tho but a Circumſtance, yet) far worſe than Death it ſelf, to die by the Hands of the Uncircumciſed, or have the Daughters of the Uncircumciſed triumph, 2 Sam. 1. 20. And in the Prophets, uncircumciſed and unclean are all one, Iſa. 52. 1. When they would accurſe one to the moſt accurſed Death, (as all Nations, according to what they have eſteemed the worſt of Deaths, they have accordingly expreſſed ſuch like Curſes, as Abi in malam crucem, among the Romans) Let him die (ſaid the Jew) the Death of the Uncircumciſed, as Ezek. 28. 10. When they imprecated the moſt ignominious Burial, Thou ſhalt lie in the midſt of the Uncircumciſed, Ezek. 31. 18. A Perſon excommunicate, accurſed, and a Heathen, was to them all one, Let him be as an Heathen, Mat. 18. And they diſtinguiſh themſelves from the Gentiles, by appropriating the Title of Sinners wholly to the Gentiles: We that are Jews by Nature, and not Sinners of the Gentiles, Gal. 2. 15. And God foreſeeing how apt their Spirits were to grow from hence into an Abhorrency of all other Nations, made a ſpecial Law to prevent it, concerning ſome particular Nations: Deut. 23. 7. Thou ſhalt not abhor an Edomite, for he is thy Brother; thou ſhalt not abhor an Egyptian, becauſe thou wert a Stranger in his Land.

an

Next ſee this Enmity expreſſed in their Carriages and Dealings with the Gentiles: They not only not communicate with them in Sacris, in holy things, but their Zeal was ſuch, and this after the Light of Chriſtianity appeared to them, that they would have killed Paul, Acts 21. 31. for no other Crime but this, v. 28. This is the Man that hath brought Greeks (that is, Heathens) into the Temple, and hath polluted the holy Place, Nay, they accounted it an abominable thing, ἀθέμιτον. (as in 1 Pet. 4. 3. the word is rendred, abominable Idolatry, and ſo the Vulgar here) to keep company, that is, familiarly, yea, or ſo much as to come (unneceſſarily) to one of another Nation, founding all this upon that which was a peculiar Command, upon a ſpecial Ground, againſt the Ammonites and Moabites, Deut. 23. 6. Thou ſhalt not ſeek their Peace, nor their Proſperity, all thy days, for ever. This they extended to all Nations, and this to that rigidity, that they would not do ordinary Courteſies of common Humanity:

Non monſtrare Vias eadem niſi Sacra colenti. Lib. 14. Satyr.

Says Juvenal, not tell a Mans way to a poor Wanderer, an Act of Civility: Non ad Fontem deducere, to lead to a Well for Water, which was an Act of Charity. The Woman of Samaria therefore wonders at Chriſt, John 4. 8, 9. How is it that thou being a Jew, askeſt Drink of me, who am a Woman of Samaria? for the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans. Each one of you (ſays Chriſt) will, and that on the Sabbath Day, looſe his Ox or his Aſſe from the Stall, and lead him away to watering, Luke 13. 15. But they would not do thus much for an Heathen, tho ready to periſh for Thirſt, not ſhew him a Well hard by, ſays the ſame Juvenal, in the ſame place,

Quæſitum ad fontem ſolos deducere Verpos:

Not give a Cup of cold Water, which Chriſt makes the leaſt of Courteſies, ſave only to their own * Verpi, as we ſay, Vermin, and circumciſed Ones. So Juvenal ſcoffs them; Et hoc Judaicum Jus, This is the Jewiſh Law.

* The word ſignifies both Worms and Circumciſed.

And no wonder of all this, for indeed they accounted all the Heathen, as Beaſts made to be deſtroyed, upon the Miſtake of their Commiſſion concerning thoſe ſeven Nations, Deut. 7. 11. given up by God the Judg of the World (in whoſe Sovereignty it was) into their hands. Even Chriſt, ſpeaking in the common Language of the Jews, calls the Syrophenician Woman, and all the Gentiles, Dogs, Mat. 15. 25, 26. as the Turks call Chriſtians at this day. Yea, out of their own Records, ſome of the Rabbinical Interpreters, upon Deut. 21. 11. they have delivered, That they accounted them Feris deteriores, worſe than Beaſts, & nuptias eorum innuptas, their Marriages no Marriages; and therefore, nec Homicidium, nec Adulterium, in eos committi poſſe: That it was no Adultery to abuſe their Wives, no Murther to kill any of them, no Robbery to take from them, by never ſo much violence. Which Joſephus Albo juſtifies, in his Diſputation adverſus Chriſtianos, giving this reaſon, That he that lived without their Law, aud worſhipped falſe Gods, he was a common Enemy, & in eum illicitum nihil, and nothing can be unlawful, that is done againſt him by them. Hiſpanus.

Can Malice be ſuppoſed to riſe any higher? and yet in that Nation it did againſt theſe poor Gentiles. 1 Theſſ. 2. 16, 17. Contrary they are to all Men, and it follows, Forbidding us to preach to the Gentiles, that they might be ſaved. The Apoſtle ſpeaking it by way of aggravation of their Malice, ſeems to intend it not only conſequenter, that they denied them the Goſpel, without which they could not be ſaved; but further, intentionaliter, what was in their Intentions, that ſuppoſe they had thought the Goſpel a means of Salvation, they would have forbad it to be preached to them, that they might not be ſaved. Is there not Work for a Peace-maker now? This on the Jews part.

And can we think the Gentiles were behind hand with them? and yet the truth is, the Gentiles were the more moderate of the two, as the 11*th* Verſe here, and the Parable of the good Samaritan, that poured Oil into a Stranger's Wounds, and the Story of the Samaritan Woman, all ſhew; for ſhe lays fault on the Jew, that he would not ask Water of a Samaritnn, and not è contra. It were too much to reckon up all that might be, out of their Poets and Hiſtorians. I will but ſo far make mention of ſome Teſtimonies of the Gentiles Hatred againſt the Jews, as they make up a Parallel with what hath been ſaid of the Jewiſh Enmity againſt the Gentiles; thereby to manifeſt, that the Gentiles were even with them if not in Malice, yet in Jeers and Scorns.

1. Did the Jews reproach them as uncircumciſed, as you heard? The Gentiles, on the contrary, ſcorned the Jews as much for Circumciſion, calling them Apellas, Judæus Apella; Curtos, ſo Horace*; Recutitos, ſo † Martial; and ‖ Perſius, Verpos, as alſo Juvenal. There is Wit in theſe, but ſo unſeemly, as I muſt forbear to Engliſh them. They were Jeers at their Circumciſion.

* 1 Serm. Sat. 5.
† Lib. 7.
‖ Sat. 5.

2. Did the Jews abhor the Gentiles, and not converſe with them? The Gentiles, on the other ſide, would hold their Noſes at the Jews, when they met them, and cry, * Fœtentes Judæos, ſtinking Jews: † Vel fortuitum eorum occurſum oculis horrebant, animo perſequebantur: They abhorred the Sight of them, if by chance they met them. And,

* Malvenda Hom. de Antichriſto, c. 3.
† Baron. An. 72. c. 31.
Ammian. de Marco, lib. 11.

3. Eſteemed them of all Nations the worſt: So Marcus the Emperor, but paſſing through Judæa to Egypt, and obſerving their Manners, dolenter dicitur exclamaſſe, O Marcomanni, O Quadi, O Sarmatæ, tandem alios vobis deteriores inveni; which was, as if when we would expreſs the Wretchedneſs of any Nation we accounted moſt vile, ſhould ſay, O you Cannibals, yea, barbarous Savages, that are found amongſt the wildeſt Africans or Americans, we have at length found and light upon a Generation of Men worſe by far than you. In this manner doth he ſpeak of theſe Jews.

Ibidem

4. As the Jews turned it into a Curſe to be a Gentile, as you heard; ſo the Gentiles in their Curſings turned the like upon the Jews. Jer. 24. 9. And I will deliver them to be removed into all the Kingdoms of the Earth for their hurt, to be a Reproach, and a Proverb, and a Taunt, and a Curſe, in all Places whither I ſhall drive them. It was God's own retaliation upon them, and fulfilled. As we now, ſo the Heathen then imprecated on themſelves, I were a Jew, if I did ſo or ſo; and thus in all Places, as the Prophet hath it; yea, Jer. 42. 18. they were made an Execration, an Aſtoniſhment, and a Curſe. What can be more?

5. As they eſteemed all other Nations as Dogs and Beaſts, the Gentile doth the like by them, and reckons them but as Swine, the moſt contemptible of Beaſts, and this in a witty Retortion from the Jewiſh Practices, putting this Interpretation upon their forbearance to eat Swines fleſh, that Mankind and Swine were alike to them.

Nec diſtare putant humana carne ſuillam.

6. As they hated all Nations, ſo the Gentiles reſented accordingly this Catholick Spirit in the Jew againſt them all, which turned their Hearts univerſally to hate them. Ahaſuerus had one hundred and twenty ſeven Provinces, amongſt which the Jews (as we read) had Enemies in them all, Eſther 8. 9. & 9. 16. compared, whom the King's Letters reſtrained with difficulty from falling on them in every Nation. And they accuſe and arraign the Jews,

1. As hurtful to Kings and Provinces, Ezra 4. 15. as continually moving Sedition; in the ſame place, Ezra 4. 15. They are a People, that of old time have moved Sedition. And the ſame Aſperſion went currant among the Romans and Greeks many hundred years after: Theſe Men being Jews, do exceedingly trouble our City, Acts 16. 20. ſay the Philippians to the Magiſtrates of the City. They lay their Accuſation, that it was the Genius of the Nation: it is their known cuſtom ſo to do.

* Diod. lib. 5. Μόνας ἁπάντων ἐθνῶν ἀκοινωνήτους εἶναι τῆς πρὸς ἄλλο ἔθνος φιλίας.

2. As unſociable to the reſt of Mankind. Antiochus's Friends in * Diodorus, pleaded thus againſt the Jews: That they alone of all Nations were unſociable, and not not capable of any mixture or coaleſcency with them, no, not at Table: μηδενὶ ἄλλῳ ἔθνει τραπέζης κοινωνεῖν τὸ παράπαν. In Eſther you have the ſame intimated, ch. 3. 8. There is a certain People (ſpeaking of the Jews) ſcattered abroad, and diſperſed among the People, whoſe Laws are diverſe from all People, &c.

3. The Gentiles accuſed them as Enemies to all Nations; ſo in that of Diodorus, μηδὲ εὐνοεῖν, that they wiſh'd well to none; and not only ſo, πολεμίως ἐπιλαμβάνειν πάντας, to account all others Enemies. So alſo Tacitus, lib. 5. Adverſus omnes alios hoſtile odium, an hoſtile and deadly Hatred is in them againſt all others; yea, μισάνθρωποι, Haters of Mankind; ſo alſo it follows there in Diodorus. 'Tis ſtrange the Apoſtle ſhould expreſs it in the very ſame manner, and near the ſame words, They are contrary to all Men, and God they pleaſe not, 1 Theſſ. 2. 16, 17.

4. As they founded their Hatred againſt the Gentiles on this, that they were Worſhippers of other Gods; ſo the Gentiles accuſed and deteſted them, as Hoſtes immortalium Deorum, Enemies of the immortal Gods. And Religion was the cauſe of all this, theſe Rites here were the Partition-Wall.

And laſtly; Under the Notion of ſuch a manner of Perſons as theſe, were they univerſally hated by all Nations, as the Books of the Prophets do ſhew, eſpecially Ezekiel and Jeremy, where the Cup is carried to all Nations, for no other Crime than their Enmity to the Jews; likewiſe the Books of Eſther and Ezra: And accordingly perſecuted they were upon that account; baniſhed out of Rome again and again, as by Claudius, Acts 16. 20. ſo by other Emperors; and at laſt they deſtroyed both their City and Common-Wealth.

You have ſeen the Enmities of both; and was there not cauſe to wiſh and pray, as David, Pſal. 14. upon the like occaſion, O that the Salvation (or Saviour and Meſſiah) were come out of Sion, or, The Deſire of all Nations were come.

This for the Story of their Enmity before their Converſion; that of their Enmity and Diſſentions that continued after, tho proper to this, yet comes more fitly in, and cannot be disjointed from the third part of this Diſcourſe, where it will have its place in order, to ſhew, How thoſe Enmities were actually allayed and compoſed between them?

PART II.

What hath been done on the Perſon of Chriſt himſelf on the Croſs, virtually, and repreſentatively, towards our Reconciliation mutual? A twofold Reconciliation between the Saints themſelves, in and by Chriſt, held forth in the Words, and diſtinguiſhed.

THis ſecond is to unfold the Tranſactions, by which Chriſt hath virtually ſlain and aboliſhed all this Enmity, and procured this Peace.

Now to make way for the diſtinct handling of what belongs to this ſecond Head, from what is to follow in the third, and to ſever the one from the other, I deſire, that in the Text this Difference may be obſerved, between the things that Chriſt hath done for the effecting and accompliſhment of that Peace.

1. What was tranſacted and done ſimply and abſtractly in his own Perſon alone, for the procurement of it, on the Croſs.
2. What he works efficiently in us, (tho concretely, in Himſelf, upon us) by his Spirit, and through Providences, to the full accompliſhment thereof.

The firſt of theſe belongs to this ſecond Head, the laſt of theſe takes up the third Head.

Only for the clearing of this Method, I ſhall deſire it may be noticed, how evidently in the Text theſe two ſorts of workings by Chriſt are diſtinguiſhed each from other, and ranged there in the Order I have propoſed them.

Here is manifeſtly a double making of theſe twain one: the one expreſſed in time paſt; the other as to come, and to be perfected. Firſt, ὁ ποιήσας, who hath made both one, v.14. and, λύσας, having aboliſh'd, v.15. in his own Fleſh perſonally. Secondly, ἵνα κτίσῃ, That he might make both one. The firſt antecedent, and already done; the other conſequent, and to be accompliſhed; the latter diſtinguiſhed from the former, as the Conſequent or Effect from its Cauſe: He hath made both one, that he might create both into one new Man; the Influence and Virtue of the firſt bringing about the latter. And,

Secondly; Accordingly in the Original, theſe two are further diſtinguiſhed by words of a different import, (tho our Tranſlation hath taken no notice of it, but hath folded them up each under one and the ſame word [making one] ſo making them one indeed) the firſt, ποιήσας, making one, v. 14. is of a more large ſignification, and is applicable and extendible to expreſs (as here alſo is intended) a virtual, influential making us one in his own Perſon, before we are made one in our ſelves. The latter, κτίσῃ, (more reſtrictive) properly and ſtrictly ſignifies Creation, [creating both one] or making both one by a new Creation: And therefore [in one new Man] is added, as the product of this ſecond kind of making. And this imports a phyſical efficiency, and working upon us, a moulding and forming us, by Creation, into this Oneneſs among our ſelves, altho the Mould in which this latter is wrought and caſt, is his Perſon alſo, [in himſelf]; yet not in himſelf, conſidered perſonally and alone, but as uniting us to himſelf, and ſo working upon us concretely, through, in, and by himſelf. And therefore,

Thirdly; They differ, the firſt being performed in himſelf ſingly, perſonally, when he was in this World, and eſpecially on the Croſs, and is therefore expreſs'd as paſt, Hath made both one, as a Buſineſs done and perfected already, as much (in reſpect of ſuch a way making one) as ever it ſhall be; the other to be effected afterwards in us, in our ſeveral Ages; and by degrees, as the new Creature is: That he might create of two, one new Man.

To illuſtrate the Difference of theſe two makings one, but in one parallel Inſtance, (altho the like Duplicate is found, and Diſtinction holds in all kind of Works done in us, and for us, by Chriſt) becauſe it is the next akin to this: The Parallel is, that of Reconciliation, or making peace between God and the Saints. Theſe two Works, as they are the neareſt Twins of all other done for us by Chriſt, ſo are they herein exactly parallel and alike. Now unto the accompliſhment of our Reconciliation with God, a double Reconciliation is neceſſary: The one wrought out of us, in Chriſt's perſon for us, God was in Chriſt, reconciling the World; the other in us, We beſeech you to be reconciled unto God, 1 Cor. 5. 19, 20. The like holds in this our Reconciliation mutual. Or to ſet the likeneſs of theſe Gemelli to your view in another Glaſs, (that is, another Scripture) that gives forth the nearneſs of the Reſemblance of this ſort of Reconciliation, in parallel words and lines to thoſe in the Text, it is Col. 1. 20. He ſays firſt, Chriſt having made Peace by the Blood of his Croſs, to reconcile all to himſelf: This is a Work already done, and done for all at once, meritoriouſly, and repreſentatively, as there it follows, [In the Body of his Fleſh through Death, v.22.] After which he ſpeaks of another Reconciliation of us, wrought in us, towards God too, in theſe words, And you that were Enemies hath he now reconciled. This latter therefore, wrought ſince and after the former, was perfected as the effect of it. The very ſame, or like here, you have expreſſed of that Reconciliation, or making one of the Saints mutually, which we have in hand: Firſt, He hath made both one, v. 14. in his Fleſh, v. 15. in one Body by the Croſs, v. 16. Thus meritoriouſly and repreſentatively. Secondly, That he might create of twain one new Man; ſo efficiently: Both muſt go in their ſeveral Seaſons and Succeſſions to the effecting thereof, or there would not be peace.

I have given you the Grounds for theſe general Heads out of the Text: I come to ſuch particular Branches of each, as into which the Text alſo ſpreads it ſelf, and is a Root unto them.

Two Branches of what Chriſt did in his own Perſon on the Croſs, to reconcile the Saints: 1. By way of Sacrifice, and taking on him their Enmities. 2. Of Repreſentation [in one Body] in himſelf.

THat which is proper (as was ſaid) to this Part, is, What hath been done in Chriſt's own perſon? The Particulars hereof are two, which I find in the Text, (to the Materials of which I confine my ſelf, and ſhall take them in that Order wherein they lie.)

1. By way of Sacrifice, having taken on him before God the Enmities of both againſt each other, and ſo offering up his Fleſh as a Sacrifice for both.

2. By a voluntary aſſuming and gathering the Perſons of all the Elect into one Body in himſelf, he repreſenting and ſuſtaining their Perſons, and ſo [in one Body] reconciling them unto God.

Both are expreſly and diſtinctly mentioned:

The firſt in theſe words, Having aboliſhed the Enmity (namely, between them) in his Fleſh; which Fleſh, taking on him their Enmities, was made a Sacrifice on the Croſs; and therefore, in the 16*th* verſe, By the Croſs, is added.

The ſecond in theſe words, That he might reconcile both to God in one Body.

And tho both theſe were performed at once, and by one individual Act; yet that Act is to be look'd at, as having theſe two diſtinct Conſiderations concurring in it; and the firſt, in Order of Nature, making way for the ſecond, as in opening the Connection of the 15*th* and 16*th* Verſes I have already ſhewn: I muſt handle them therefore each apart.

How Chriſt's offering up himſelf as a Sacrifice to God, and his ſtanding as a common Perſon in our ſtead before God, ſhould aboliſh all our Enmities againſt God himſelf, and reconcile us unto him? This is ordinarily and generally apprehended, and were proper to ſpeak of, if our Reconciliation to God himſelf had been the Theme ſet out to be treated of. But how theſe very ſame Acts and Tranſactions of Chriſt ſhould, together therewith, conduce to our Reconciliation one with another? This only is genuine at this time, and to be eyed, as the direct and proper Level of what doth enſue, altho even this is ſo involved with that other, that this cannot be explicated, without ſuppoſing and glancing thereat: This but to ſet and keep the Readers Eye ſteady to the ſingle Mark aimed at.

The first Branch: Two things to explicate the first Branch. 1. That Christ's offering himself was intended as a Sacrifice for Enmities between the Saints, as well as against God.

TWo things are distinctly to be spoken unto for the clearing of these things:

1. That the offering up Christ's Flesh on the Cross, was intended as a Sacrifice, as well for our Reconciliation mutual, as for Reconciliation with God.

2. How according to the Analogy of the Ends, Use, and Intent of Sacrifices of old, the offering up of Christ's Flesh should be intended and directed as a Sacrifice to take away these our own Enmities, and make Peace and Friendship amongst our selves.

For the first, which is the ὅτι of this Point, That as a Sacrifice it was so intended, the whole Frame and Contexture of these Words doth evince it.

First; When he says, v. 15. That he hath abolished the Enmity in his Flesh, he doth undeniably intend that Enmity which was between these twain, the Jew and Gentile, (this hath been proved before) and therefore he is found particularly to instance in the Rites of the Ceremonial Law, (which by a Metonymy he calls the Enmity) as the outward occasion of that bitter Enmity in each others Hearts. Now then,

Secondly; That this Enmity was taken away by his Flesh as a Sacrifice,

First; The laying together the Phrases of the Text evinceth it; as when he says, He hath abolished this Enmity in his Flesh,

1. In saying, the Enmity in his Flesh, it necessarily imports his having taken that Enmity in or upon his own Flesh, to answer for it in their stead. Even as well, as when in the 16*th* verse he is said to have slain the Enmity (namely, against God) in himself, thereby is intended, that he took that Enmity on himself, undertaking to pacify and allay, and by being himself slain, to slay it.

2. In saying in the time past, that he hath abolished it in his Flesh, this notes out a virtual Act perfectly done and past, (as in him) by virtue of which it is to be destroyed actually in us after. Unto which,

3. Add that in the 16*th* verse, there is an additional word [by the Cross] put in, which, ἀπὸ τοῦ κοινοῦ, or in common, is to be referred to the abolishing of this Enmity in his Flesh, v.15. and reconciling us mutually, as well as to the slaying of the Enmity against God, mentioned v. 16. as that which equally and alike shews the way, how we are to understand, that in his Flesh he hath perfectly abolished both these Enmities, namely, by taking on his Flesh that Enmity, and offering it up upon the Cross as a Sacrifice for it: For to say, By the Cross, or, by the Sacrifice of himself on the Cross, is all one; so as what the one Verse wants, the other supplies: In his Flesh, says the 15*th* verse, By the Cross, says the 16*th*. And (which will warrant this) we have elsewhere both put together, Colos. 1. 20, 22. By the Blood of his Cross, in the Body of his Flesh, through Death.

Secondly; The parallelling this place with that of Col. 2. argues this: The Enmity here instanced in by a Metonymy, is the Rites of the Ceremonial Law, which he is said to have made void or weak. Thus expresly, v. 15. Having abolished in his Flesh the Enmity, the Law of Commandments in Ordinances. Now the abolishing thereof is, in that second to the Colossians, expresly said, to have been by the Sacrifice of his Flesh on the Cross; or, which is all one, that by his being nailed to the Cross, he nailed it to his Cross: Col. 2. 14. Blotting out the Hand-writing of Ordinances that was against us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his Cross, which fully accords with this Text, He abolished it in his Flesh by the Cross.

Lastly;

Laſtly, (for a winding up of this) the Parallel which the Apoſtle obſerveth in his Diſcourſe, between his effecting our Peace and Reconciliation with God, and this our Peace and Reconciliation one with another, will induce to it. He being firſt alike in common termed our Peace, v. 14. in reſpect to either: Then to demonſtrate each apart, a double Enmity (as I obſerved at firſt) is diſtinctly and apart mentioned by him; the one, v. 15. the other, v. 16. Of the one he ſays, he hath aboliſhed; of the other, he hath ſlain it: of the one he ſays, he hath aboliſhed it in his Fleſh; of the other, in himſelf, (as the Greek hath it, *v.*16.) And ſo thoſe words, by the Croſs, are common to each, as thoſe firſt words, He is our Peace, were to all that followed. And ſo as the Parallel hath hitherto run along in theſe Particulars, ſo it holds on, that look how in this, or by that way he ſlew the Enmity between God and us, on the Croſs, by the ſame way he aboliſhed the Enmity between the Jew and Gentile, or the People of God mutually. But he ſlew the Enmity between God and us on the Croſs, by taking theſe our Enmities againſt God on himſelf, and they being found on him, he was ſlain and ſacrificed for them on the Croſs, and thereby ſlew them, and reconciled us to God: In like manner then it is to be underſtood, that he firſt took all our Enmities againſt one another on his Fleſh, [in his Fleſh] ſays the Text, (and it was the general intent of Sacrifices, to be offered up for what was laid upon them, or reckoned to them) and ſo our Enmities being there all found in his Fleſh, that Fleſh was offered up for them; and ſo they were all diſſolved, and aboliſhed, and made weak, as the Text ſpeaks of them, in his being diſſolved, or made weak, (as 2 Cor. 13. and Phil. 3. ſpeak in like manner of him.)

So then as there was a double Enmity, and a double Slaying, which the Apoſtle mentions; ſo there muſt be in this one Sacrifice a double Conſideration, in the intention thereof: It is a Sacrifice ſerving at once to ſlay and aboliſh both the one and the other, he being in common alike and indifferently termed, our Peace, as in relation unto either; there being nothing alſo done for us by Chriſt, but the like was firſt done on himſelf.

The ſecond thing to explicate the firſt Branch: That one End or Uſe of Sacrifices, both among Jews and Gentiles, was to ratify Peace between Man and Man, as truly as between God and Man; and that Chriſt's Sacrifice holds an Analogy herein to other Sacrifices.

THis being cleared, I come to the ſecond, the διότι, namely, to demonſtrate how, according to the Analogy of the Ends and Uſe of Sacrificing of old in the Shadow, Chriſt's Sacrifice was likewiſe intended and directed to make Peace between Man and Man, Jew and Gentile, as truly and as genuinely as between God and Man.

For the illuſtration of this, we muſt know and conſider, that of old Feuds or Enmities between Man and Man were removed and put to an end by Sacrifice; and alſo Leagues of Amity and Friendſhip, even between Man and Man, were anciently ratified and confirmed, and Reconciliation eſtabliſhed by Sacrifices: And as by Sacrifices, ſo likewiſe after Sacrifices, or over and beſides Sacrifices, by eating and feaſting together; and this both among Jews and Gentiles, (of which latter, namely, That by eating together Friendſhip was ſealed, we ſhall have further uſe anon, to confirm and explicate this very Notion in hand.) I ſay, Leagues of Peace and Friendſhip were uſed to be ratified by Sacrifices ſolemnly before God: ſo to make ſuch Covenants a matter of Religion, (to bind the ſtronglier) and not to be meerly the Obligations of humane Faith and Honeſty; even by this, that Men did find them ratified in the preſence of a Deity, which they worſhipped as their God, by ſo ſolemn and religious an Action, which did withall invocate from God, a Curſe upon the Infringers of that Peace and Friendſhip made thereby. This to have been their Uſe, I am to clear.

Lignet quod apud Iſraelitas fœdera partim eſulis, partim ſacrificiis inita fuiſſe & ſancita. Vide River. in Gen. 31. Exercit. 135.

We may conſider, that tho all Sacrifices were offered up before and unto God, yet not all only by way of Expiation or Atonement made unto God, or as Expreſſions preſſions of Thankfulneſs unto him; but ſome were Sacrifices of Pacification, and federal in their Intention, between Man and Man, being offered up before God, as a Witneſs and Avenger. This to have been one Uſe of Sacrifices, is evident both among Jews, and likewiſe Gentiles, (who were in their Sacrifices, and the Rites thereof, Imitators of the Jews.)

Firſt; The Jews. Jer. 34. from v. 8, &c. we read, That Zedekiah the King made a ſolemn Covenant with the People, and they with their Servants, to let them go free, according to God's Law on that behalf made, Exod. 21. 1. and Deut. 15. 12. And this Sacrificial Covenant was ſolemnly performed in God's Houſe, and before God, as v. 15, and 18. the Rites of it were, They cut a Calf in twain, and paſſed between the parts of the Calf, even the Princes, and all the People, v. 19. in token that it was one common Sacrifice between all thoſe Parties, Maſters and Servants, and the joint Act of each: which being thus ſolemn, before God, carried with it an implicit or tacit Execration, That if either brake this Covenant in this manner confirmed, then let God ſo deal with them, as this Calf ſacrificed was dealt withall. And therefore theſe having broken this Covenant, v. 11. (which Breach of Faith was the occaſion of this part of Jeremy's Meſſage to them) God threatens to bring the Curſe, invocated, and ſignified by that Rite, upon them, and to retaliate the like unto them: v. 18. I will give the Men that have tranſgreſſed my Covenant; (ſo he calls it, becauſe the Matter of it was his Command, and it had been ratified before him, as it follows) which have not performed the Words of the Covenant which they had made before me, when they cut the Calf in twain, and paſſed between the parts thereof: That therefore [I will give,] it is Verbum ſimilitudinis, (as 'tis often uſed) whoſe meaning is, I will make them as that Calf, I will anſwerably deal with them, and ſo it is explained: I will give them into the hands of them that ſeek their Life, and expoſe them to the Sword of the Slayer, to ſlay at his Pleaſure, as you have done this Beaſt, which you have ſacrificed: And their dead Bodies ſhall be for Meat to the Fowls of Heaven.

The like Intendment of Sacrifices, with the ſame Rite, and like Imprecation to confirm Leagues and Covenants, and end Feuds, was in uſe among the Heathen, as might be evidenced by many Quotations, which I have met withall. To inſtance in one out of Livy, which is moſt punctual to the thing in hand, and parallel to the former out of Jeremy: * They cut a Beaſt in two; the midſt, and the Head, with the Bowels, were placed at the right hand of the Way, and the hinder Parts on the left hand, and both the Armies (that made the League) paſſed between this divided Sacrifice. And as the ſame Rites with the former are expreſſed in this; ſo the ſame Imprecation is recorded at the making of this Covenant, and by Sacrifice confirmed, recorded by the ſame Author, when theſe two Nations, Albans and Romans, made this League: Qui prior defecerit, tu illum Jupiter ſic ferito, ut ego hunc porcum hodiè feriam: Let God ſtrike him that breaks it, as I ſtrike this Swine, ſaid the Sacrificer.

* Caput, medium, & prior pars ad dextram, poſterior ad lævam vice; pariter inter hanc divinam hoſtiam hoſtiam copiæ armatæ traduntur. Liv. lib. 39.

Et cæsâ jungebant fœdera porcâ. Æneid. Virgil. lib. 8.

The Latin, Fœdus à feriendo, and hence percutere, elicere fœdus, to ſtrike a Covenant with us: Thus Ments and tum, Lib.

The Holy-Ghoſt ſpeaks in like Language, My People that have made a Covenant with me by Sacrifice.

Sanctio à ſanguine, which that of Tacitus confirms, Sacrificiis conſpiratio ſancitur: Agreements and Combinations had their Sanction and Confirmation by Sacrifices; and Fœdus cruore ſacratum, Lib. Annal. 12.

To bring all this home to the Point in hand: There being to be a perpetual League and Covenant of Peace, to be ſtrucken between Jew and Gentile, and all other the Elect of God, who ſhould be at variance, in any Age; and Chriſt having interpoſed himſelf as a Mediator for us to God, he did withall undertake to be an Arbiter between them, (and us all) among our ſelves, for all our Differences alſo. And as he offered up his Fleſh as one common Sacrifice upon the Croſs, at once to be expiatory to God, to blot out the Sins and Enmities of ours againſt God himſelf; ſo alſo pacificatory between Man and Man, Jew and Gentile, and all other the Elect; and therein anſwering to, and fulfilling one true and End and Intendment of Sacrifices, as well as in the other of making atonement to God. And the Text, you ſee, having ſaid firſt, that he is made our Peace, in making both one, v. 14. and then pointing us to his Fleſh, as in which he bore their Enmities, v. 15. and then carrying us to the Croſs, v. 16. it evidently (as was ſaid) argues, that he was made our Peace, by being thus made a pacificatory Sacrifice for both. And ſurely, (if there were no other reaſon to confirm it) all Sacrifices, in all their Ends and Uſes, having been but Shadows of this; and his Fleſh, and the ſacrificing it, being the Subſtance: this eminent Sacrifice of his muſt needs be ſuppoſed (as ſuch) to have the Perfection, Uſe, and Efficacy, that all other Sacrifices could any way be ſuppoſed ſubſervient unto, or it had not been the compleat perfection of them; eſpecially there being this need of having his Sacrifice directed to this end, as well as to that other, there falling out ſo great Animoſities among thoſe that were Members of him; which, as it call'd for a Sacrifice to be offered up, to allay and deſtroy them; ſo Chriſt in ſacrificing Himſelf, would not leave out or loſe this part of his Glory and Perfection in this reſpect.

Hence accordingly, as here he is termed our Peace, ſo elſewhere, the Covenant of the People, and both in the like latitude of Sence and Meaning. When here he is called our Peace, the meaning extends not only to his being our Peace between God and us, but between our ſelves alſo; ſo when he is called, the Covenant of the People, it intends, not only his being a Covenant unto God for us, but a Covenant before God of us; or (as there 'tis expreſſed) of the People of God, namely, among themſelves. He is twice ſo called, and with much evidence as to this Sence: Iſa. 42. 6. I will give thee for a Covenant of the People, (that is, ſays Sanctius, to the Jew) and for a Light of the Gentiles; and thus a Covenant of both. And chap. 49. 8. For a Covenant of the People, to eſtabliſh the Earth; that is, to this end, to ſettle in Peace the whole Earth, both Jew and Gentile; ſo then a Covenant of the People (as you ſee) even in this very reſpect: Peace on Earth among Men, as well as, Good Will towards Men, from God in Heaven, being the foot of that Song that was ſung at his Birth, and the Sum of what is here ſaid: He is our Peace.

The Analogy between the Rites of ſuch pacificatory Sacrifices, and this Sacrifice of Chriſt's, as offered up for our mutual Enmities: And how this End and Intention of Chriſt's Sacrifice is held forth in the Lord's Supper.

NOw obſerve further, a Correſpondency unto thoſe Rites mentioned, that were uſed in thoſe Sacrifices of Peace, alſo held forth in this Sacrifice of his. The Beaſt in ſuch caſes was divided and cut in twain, for both Parties to paſs through, and ſo Peace to be made between them: And Chriſt, to make both or twain one, (as here) was divided and cut (as it were) in twain, the Godhead for a time forſaking the Manhood: My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? His Soul alſo being by Death ſeparated from his Body, his Joints looſened, to diſſolve this Enmity; the Vail of his Fleſh rent, to rend the Partition-Wall. Thus he was cut in twain, as one common Sacrifice between both.

And again, as the Sacrificing of the Beaſt cut aſunder, was reckoned the common joint Act of both Parties in ſuch a caſe, and they were eſteemed by God, and by one another, each to have an hand in the ſacrificing of it, and as conſenting to the Covenant and Peace that was intended to be entred into, and ratified by it: ſo here in this. And tho we then perſonally exiſted not, yet all we being conſidered in him by God, (who gave us to him) and by himſelf, that voluntarily ſuſtained our Perſons, and he offering up himſelf as a Sacrifice on our behalf, and for our behoof, and in our Names; hence his Will in offering up himſelf, was Voluntas totius, the Act and Will of the whole Body whoſe Perſons he ſuſtained; our Wills were thereby involved in his Will, his Act was our Act: and it may be truly ſaid, that a Covenant of Peace was then made before God, by us, and for us; for he was our Prieſt therein for us, as well as our Sacrifice.

And hence, in a further correſpondency to the maner of thoſe typical Sacrifices, therein altho the Prieſt only offered up the Sacrifice for the People, and in their Name and Stead; yet to ſhew it was their Act, they uſed to eat of it after, or of that which was offered up with it. The Interpretation of which eating thereof by the People, the Apoſtle gives us to be this: 1 Cor. 10. 18. They that did eat of the Sacrifices, were Partakers of the Altar; that is, thereby they declared the Sacrifice to be theirs, the offering it up to be their Act, that they partook, and had an hand in it, as if they had been at the Altar with the Prieſt himſelf. Juſt in like manner, to ſhew that we were reckoned conſenting to, and Partakers in this Sacrifice of Chriſt our Prieſt, and that it was our own Act, we do in like manner partake of that Sacrifice by eating of it; the Lord's Supper being, as Tertullian rightly termed it, Participatio Sacrificii, which Notion the Apoſtle there confirms in a Parallel of the Lord's Supper, in this very reſpect, to the caſe of thoſe Sacrifices then, (for unto this purpoſe it was, that he brings in that Inſtance of the Sacrifices, v. 16.) The Bread which we break, ſays he, is it not the Communion of the Body of Chriſt? Namely, conſidered, as ſacrificed once upon the Altar of the Croſs, and ſo by eating thereof, we are all Partakers of that one Bread, as the thing ſignifying, and of that one Body ſacrificed, as the thing ſignified; and ſo by this way of partaking therein, namely, by eating thereof, is ſhewn, as in the Sacrifices of old, that it is our own Sacrifice. And this not only as Eſtius* upon the place, who ſays, That by eating they were accounted Partakers of the Sacrifice, as that which was offered for them; but further, as †Grotius, (ſpeaking of the Lord's Supper, upon Mat. 26. 25.) They are in Chriſt's Intent, ſays he, through their eating thereof, ſo Partakers of this his Sacrifice, quaſi ipſi hoc obtuliſſent, as if themſelves had offered it up. And thus to hold forth this previous conſent of theirs, was one part of Chriſt's intent in inſtituting Eating and Drinking in the Lord's Supper, in a correſpondency to the like myſterious Intent in the Peoples eating of the Sacrifices of old. Grotius indeed puts the reaſon, why it is to be eſteemed as if we had offered up that Sacrifice, only upon this, Becauſe it was offered up by him (ſays he) that had taken their Nature: But I add out of this Text, Becauſe he had took on him their Perſons, in one Body, and their Enmities, and ſtood in their ſtead, as their Prieſt, as well as their Sacrifice; and ſo it was to be reckoned their Act on his Croſs, as much as the Peoples then, who uſed to bring the Sacrifice to the Prieſt, who there offered it alone upon the Altar; whereas here we our ſelves were brought to Chriſt by the Father to undertake to be a Prieſt for us, and he voluntarily undertook our Perſons. And ſo as Levi is accounted to have offered Tithes in Abraham his Father, when he paid them to Melchiſedech; ſo we much rather to have offered up a common Sacrifice of Peace amongſt our ſelves, when Chriſt offered up himſelf.

*Edendo cenſebantur ipſius ſacrificii tanquam pro ipſis oblati fieri participes. Eſt. in loc.

† Chriſtus vult in ſe credentes participes fieri ejus Sacrificii, plane, quaſi ipſi hoc ſacrificium obtuliſſent, quia oblatam a eo qui naturam eorum ſuſceperat.

And hence alſo likewiſe, as in thoſe pacificatory federal Sacrifices between two Parties of Men, whoever of them went about to violate or infringe the Terms of Peace that Sacrifice was intended to confirm, did (by reaſon it was his Act) bring upon himſelf the Curſe, which ceremonially and viſibly was inflicted on the Beaſt or Sacrifice ſlain: ſo here this Act of ſacrificing of Chriſt for mutual Peace, being thus interpretativè ours, and our Conſent involved, hence I ſay, in like manner, whoever goeth about to break this Covenant, and ſeeketh to uphold the Enmity among the People of God, he doth not only renounce his own Act, but what in him lies, fruſtrates that Intention of it, and ſo further incurs the Imprecation infolded in it, and brings upon himſelf the Blood of the Covenant, as in alluſion to this Curſe, (according to the implied Intent of ſuch a ſacrificial Covenant) the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Heb. 10.

Now further to finiſh this Branch, let this be added: That Chriſt was not ſimply offered up as a Sacrifice to confirm a meer or bare League of Peace and Amity between us, (ſometimes ſuch Sacrifices before ſpoken of, were deſigned only to make and bind new Leagues and Covenants between ſuch Parties as never had been at variance) but here in this Caſe of ours, as there was a Covenant of Amity to be ſtruck, ſo there were Enmities to be aboliſhed and ſlain, as the Text hath it, and that by this Sacrifice, and ſlaying of his Fleſh; which cannot be conceived otherwiſe to have been tranſacted, but that, as in other Sacrifices offered up, the Treſpaſſes were laid upon the Head of the Sacrifice, and ſo in a ſignificant Myſtery ſlain and done away in the death of the thing ſacrificed: And that as in that other way of reconciling us to God, The Lord did lay upon him the Iniquities of us all, namely, againſt himſelf, as Eſay ſpeaks in alluſion unto the Rites, (and the Signification thereof in thoſe Scacrifices) to which this Text ſimularly ſpeaks, when it ſays, He ſlew the Enmity in himſelf, v. 16. So anſwerably it was in this, (which is its Parallel) all the Enmities, and mutual Injuries and Feuds, between us the People of God, were all laid upon him, and he took them in his Fleſh, and in ſlaying thereof ſlew theſe alſo, and aboliſhed them, that ſo he might reconcile them in one Body. And ſo the ſame Nails that pierced through his Hands and Feet, did nail all our Enmities, and the Cauſes and Occaſions of them, to the ſame Croſs, as Col. 2. inſinuates. So as we are to look upon Jeſus Chriſt hanging upon the Croſs, as an equal Arbiter between both Parties, that takes upon himſelf whatever either Party hath againſt the other. Lo, here I hang, (ſays Chriſt dying) and let the Reproaches wherewith you reproach each other, fall on me; the Sting of them all fix it ſelf in my Fleſh, and in my death die all together with me; lo I die to pacify both: Have therefore any of you ought againſt each other? quit them, and take me as a Sacrifice in Blood between you: only do not kill me, and each other too, for the ſame Offence; for you, and your Enmities, have brought me to this Altar of the Croſs, and I offer my ſelf as your Peace, and as your Prieſt; will you kill me firſt, and then one another too?

And thus if taking all your Sins againſt God himſelf upon his Fleſh, and ſacrificing it for you, is of prevalency to kill and ſlay that Enmity, much more is it of force to kill theſe your Enmities alſo. Thus like as by aſſuming the Likeneſs of ſinful Fleſh, he killed the Sin in our Fleſh; ſo by taking theſe our Enmities and Animoſities in his Fleſh, he ſlew and aboliſhed them; and as his Death was the Death of Death, ſo of theſe. And like as he cured Diſeaſes, by taking them on himſelf by Sympathy, 'tis ſaid of him (when his healing of them is recorded) Himſelf took our Infirmities, and bore our Sickneſſes. And as not our Sins againſt God only, but our Sickneſſes by Sympathy; ſo not our Enmities againſt God only, but our Animoſities one againſt another; and by bearing them, aboliſhed them; by dying as an Arbiter between us, ſlew them: And therefore in the Text, he is called our Peace, not our Peace-maker only, (when this Peace among our ſelves is ſpoken of) to note out, as Muſculus obſerves, that he was not only efficiently our Peace-maker, the Author of our Peace, but our Peace materially, the Matter of our Peace, by the Sacrifice of himſelf. God is ſtiled our Peace-maker, our Reconciler, God was in Chriſt, reconciling the World; but not, our Peace: This is proper to Chriſt, and why? but becauſe he only was the Sacrifice of our Peace, and bore our Enmities; even as he is not only called the Redeemer, (ſo God alſo is) but Redemption it ſelf. Rom. 8. 1 Cor. 15.

Now for a Coronis to this firſt Branch, and withall to add a further Confirmation yet, that Chriſt's Death was intended as a Sacrifice to theſe ends, for Amity and Unity among God's People, we may clearly view and behold this Truth in the Mirrour of the Lord's Supper; one moſt genuine and primary Import whereof, and End of the Inſtitution of it, being this very thing in hand, (I ſhall have recourſe thereto again in the next Branch alſo, upon the ſame account that now.)

The Lord's Supper, in its full and proper ſcope, is, as you know, a ſolemn Commemoration of Chriſt's Death offered up upon the Croſs; or if you will, in the Apoſtle's own words, it is a ſhewing forth his Death till he comes: And do this (ſays Chriſt) in remembrance of me, namely, in dying for you; and ſo withall to commemorate with application to themſelves, the principal Ends and Intendments of that his Death, which is therein acted as before their Eyes. Hence therefore I take this an undoubted Maxim, which no knowing Chriſtian will deny, (and it is the Foundation of what I am now a building): That look what principal Ends, Purpoſes, or Intendments, this Supper, or Sacrificial Feaſt holds forth in its Inſtitution unto us; thoſe muſt needs be looked at by all Chriſtians, in the like proportion, to have been the main Ends and Purpoſes of his Death to be remembred. So that we may argue mutually, from what were the Ends of Chriſt's Death, unto what muſt needs be the deſigned Intendmenis of this Sacrament: And we may as certainly conclude and infer to our ſelves, what were the Intendments of his Death, by what are the genuine Ends of that Sacrament. Theſe anſwer to each other, as the Image in the Glaſs doth to the principal Lineaments in the Face; the Impreſs on the Wax, to that in the Seal; the Action, the Sign, and Remembrances, to the thing ſignified, and to be remembred.

Now it is evident, that Chriſt upon his Death inſtituted that Supper, as to be a Seal of that Covenant of Grace between God and us, ratified thereby; ſo alſo to be a Communion, the higheſt outward Pledg, Ratification, and Teſtimony of Love and Amity among his Members themſelves. And accordingly, it being in the common nature of it a Feaſt, look as between God and us, 'twas ordained to be Epulum fœderale, a Covenant-Feaſt between him and us, (the evidence whereof lies in this, that he invites us to his Table as Friends, and as thoſe he is at Peace withall, and reconciled unto): So in like manner between the Saints themſelves, it was as evidently ordained to be a Syntaxis, a Love-Feaſt, in that they eat and drink together at one and the ſame Table, and ſo become, as the Apoſtle ſays, one Bread. And again, look as between God and us, to ſhew, that the procurement of this Peace and Reconciliation between him and us, was this very Sacrifice of Chriſt's Death, (as that which made our Peace) God therefore invites us, poſt Sacrificium oblatum, after the Sacrifice offered up, to eat of the Symboles of it; that is, of Bread and Wine, which are the Signs and Symbols of his Body and Blood ſacrificed for Peace: So in like manner doth this hold, as to the Peace between our ſelves. And we may infer, that we were, through the offering up thereof, reconciled one to another, and all mutual Enmities ſlain and done away thereby, in that we eat together thereof in a Communion, which was a Sacrifice once offered, but now feaſted upon together; and doth ſhew, that Chriſtians, of all profeſſions or relations of Men, have the ſtrongeſt Obligations unto mutual Love and Charity; for the Bread broken, and the Cup, are the Symbols of their Saviour's Body and Blood once made a Sacrifice; and therefore they eating thereof together, as of a Feaſt after a Sacrifice, do ſhew forththis Union and Agreement to have been the avowed Purchaſe and Impetration of the Body and Blood ſo ſacrificed.

There was a Controverſy of late Years fomented by ſome, through Popiſh Compliances, That the Lord's Supper might be ſtiled a Sacrifice, the Table an Altar, which produced in the diſcuſſion of it (as all Controverſies do in the iſſue ſome further Truth) the diſcovery of this true Deciſion of it: That it was not a Sacrifice, but a Feaſt after and upon Chriſt's ſacrificing of himſelf, Participatio Sacrificii, as Tertullian calls it, a ſacrificial Feaſt, commemorating and confirming all thoſe Ends for which the only true and proper Sacrifice of Chriſt was offered up, and ſo this Feaſt a viſible Ratification of all ſuch Ends, whereof this is evidently one.

A Digreſſion, ſhewing, 1. That Eating and Drinking together, eſpecially upon and after a pacificatory Sacrifice was a further Confirmation of Mutual Peace, hath among Jews and Gentiles: And, 2. That the Eating the Lord's Supper, hoth the ſame Intent and Accord thereunto. The Harmony of all theſe Notions together.

NOw therefore to draw all theſe Lines into one Center, and to make the Harmony and Conſent of all theſe Notions the more full, and together therewith, to render the Harmony more compleat between the Lord's Death, and its being intended as a Sacrifice to procure this Peace, and the Lord's Supper as a Feaſt after this Sacrifice, holding forth this very thing as purchaſed thereby, and ſo further to confirm all this. Look as before I ſhewed, (as in relation to the demonſtration, that Chriſt's Death was intended as a Sacrifice for ſuch a Peace) that that was one End and Uſe of Sacrifices, both among Jews and Gentiles, to found and create Leagues of Amity between Man and Man: So it is proper and requiſite for me now to make another like Digreſſion, (as in relation to this Notion of the Lord's Supper) to ſhew, how that alſo by eating and feaſting together, (eſpecially after or upon ſuch a kind of Sacrifice) theſe Leagues of Love were anciently uſed to be further confirmed and ratified: that ſo it may appear, That as according to the Analogy of ſuch Sacrifices, Chriſt's Death was a Sacrifice directed and intended to that end; ſo alſo, that according to the Analogy of ſuch Feaſting in and upon Sacrifices, this Eating and Feaſting together upon the Symbols of that Sacrifice, by Believers, is as genuinely intended a Seal of this Reconciliation amongſt them, and that in a due correſpondency and anſwerableneſs to the genuine Intent of that Sacrifice it ſelf, as that which had purchaſed and procured it.

I might be as large in this as in the former. When after a Grudg and Enmity paſt between Laban and Jacob, Laban, to bury all things between them, would enter into a Covenant of Peace: Come, (ſays he, Gen. 31. 44.) let us make a Covenant, I and thou, and (that by a Sign, for he adds) let it be a Witneſs between thee and me: Now what was that Sign and Witneſs? In v. 46. 'tis ſaid, They took Stones, and made a Heap, and did eat there; and, v. 54. (after an Oath paſſed, v. 53.) Jacob offered a Sacrifice on the Mount, and called his Brethren (or Kinſmen) to eat Bread; and early in the morning Laban departed. The like did Iſaac with Abimelech, Gen. 26. 28. David with Abner, 2 Sam. 3. 20. I ſingle forth chiefly thoſe two, 1. Becauſe the Parties that uſed and agreed in this ſignal Rite, were the one Jews, as Iſaac and Jacob; the other Gentiles, as Abimelech and Laban: to ſhew at once, that this way of Covenanting was common to them both, as the former by ſacrificing was alſo ſhewn to be.

And further, that this Rite of eating together the Gentiles themſelves did uſe, eſpecially after ſuch Sacrifices as were federal, unto this intent, that by that ſuperadded cuſtom of eating together, upon or after Sacrificing, they might the more ratify and confirm ſuch Covenants, firſt made, and begun by ſacrificing. This ſeems to be the Intendment, Exod. 34. 15. Leſt thou make a Covenant (God ſpeaks it to the Jew) with the Inhabitants of the Land, and thou go a whoring after their Gods, and do Sacrifice unto their Gods, and one call thee, and thou eat of their Sacrifices; namely, upon pretence of confirming that Covenant, which having

Some Inſtances have been collected by Mr. Meade, Diatr. 2 par. upon Mal. 1. 11. as alſo by R. C. after him, Grotius, Rivetus, of the Cuſtoms of ſeveral Nations, ancient and modern, to ſhew Eating and Drinking together to have been intended Teſtimonies and Ratifications of Amity. I ſhall only caſt in one from the Cuſtom of the Eaſt-Indians, (as in the Stories of whom there are found, as well as in other Eaſtern Nations to this day, many Footſteps of like Cuſtoms to the Jews of old.) Sir Tho. Roe, Ambaſſador there, in his Journal Obſervations relates, how he was invited by one of the great Ones of the Court to a Banquet, with this very expreſſion, (ſimular to thoſe which thoſe Authors allege, as in uſe among other Nations) We will eat Bread and Salt together, to ſeal a Friendſhip which I deſire. Purchas Pilgr. 1 part. p. 348.

firſt been contracted and agreed on, they might further be drawn on to ſacrifice, and ſo eat of the Sacrifices alſo with thoſe Heathens, in token of confirming ſuch a League, as was the known common manner and cuſtom of each to do.

Yea, and thoſe that were more barbarous and inhuman among the Gentiles, when they would put the more binding Force into their Covenants, or ſome ſuch more ſolemn Conſpiracy, they uſed to ſacrifice a Man, (a Slave I ſuppoſe) and eat his Fleſh, and drink his Blood together; which becauſe they judged the more ſtupendious, they judged would carry with it the deepeſt and moſt binding Obligation. Thus we read in Plutarch: Thoſe Roman Gallants entring into a Covenant, drank the Blood of a Man, whom firſt as a Sacrifice they had killed. And the ſame Plutarch ſays of another Company, (thoſe Conſpirators with Catiline) that they ſacrificed a Man, and did eat his Fleſh; ſo to bind and unite each other, more firmly to ſtick faſt and cloſe together in ſo great an Undertaking, by the moſt ſure and firmeſt way that their Religion could invent. And Pſal. 16. 4. makes an expreſs mention of ſuch among the Heathens, terming them, Their Drink-Offerings of Blood. See alſo Ezek. 39. 17, 18, 19. Men and Nations leſs barbarous, took Wine inſtead of Blood, to confirm their Leagues after Sacrifices, it being the likeſt and neareſt unto Blood, the Blood of the Grape.

Σφαγέντ' ἀνθρώπε ἐπιστρεπτὰ πιόντες αἷμα.

Καταθύσαντες ἄνθρωπον ἐγεύσαντο τῶν σαρκῶν.

Now then, to bring all this home to the Point in hand: Chriſt our Paſſeover (and ſo our Sacrifice for us) having been ſlain and offered up for our mutual Peace, hath inſtituted and ordained us Believers to keep this Feaſt, (it is the Apoſtle's own Alluſion, agreeing with, and founded on the Notion we have been proſecuting) and that to this end, That by partaking of it as a Sacrifice, and by ſhewing forth his Death, we might hold forth all the avowed Ends of that Sacrifice with application to our ſelves. The eminent Ends of the one as a Sacrifice, correſponding and anſwering to the eminent Ends of the other, as a Feaſt. A Feaſt it is of God's providing, and he the great Entertainer of us at it, in token of Peace between Him and us; for He it was, who prepared the Sacrifice it ſelf, and unto whom, as a whole Burnt-Offering, Chriſt was offered up. But God is not as one that ſits down and eats with us, tho he ſmelt a ſweet ſavour in it; we are the Gueſts, and He the Maſter of this Feaſt; and yet he thereby proclaims and profeſſeth his being reconciled, in that he cauſeth us to ſit down at his Table. And this is the prime and moſt eminent ſignificancy of it; and to hold forth this Intent thereof, as between God and us, others have proſecuted this Notion. But there is another, (more conſpicuouſly ſuited to the Notion which hath been driven, and) which is no leſs in the intention of the Inſtitution it ſelf, and indeed of the two, more obvious to outward Sence, and that is, That the Perſons themſelves for whom it is prepared, that do viſibly ſit down, and do eat and drink (in proper ſpeech) the Bread and Cup together, that they are agreed, and at peace each with other. God is but as an inviſible Entertainer, but our eating and drinking together is viſible to all the World; we outwardly ſhew forth his Death, and do withall as viſibly ſhew forth this to have been the Intent of it. Yea, and if we could raiſe up thoſe Nations of old, both Jews and Gentiles, and call together the moſt part of the World at this day, and ſhould but declare, that this is a Feaſt, eſpecially a ſacrificial Feaſt, a Feaſt after a Sacrifice, offered once up for our Amity and Peace by ſo great a Mediator; the common Inſtinct and Notion which their own Cuſtoms had begot in them, would preſently prompt them, and cauſe them univerſally to underſtand, and ſay among themſelves, Theſe Men were at enmity one with another, and a Sacrifice was offered up to aboliſh it, and to confirm an Union and Pacification amongſt them, and lo therefore they do further eat and participate thereof, and communicate therein; a manifeſt profeſſion it is, that they are in mutual Love, Amity, and Concord one with another; and thereby further ratifying that Unity, which that Sacrifice had been offered up before for the renewing of. This is truly the Interpretation of that ſolemn Celebration, even in the ſight of all the Heathens, and unto the Principles of all the Nations, among whom Sacrifices were in uſe; yea, and this they would all account the ſtrongeſt and firmeſt Bond of Union, that any Religion could afford. And add this: The more noble the Sacrifice was, as if

of

of a Man, being a more noble Creature, the more obliging they accounted (as was obſerved) the Bands of that Covenant made thereby.

Now our Paſſeover is ſlain, our Peace is ſacrificed, not Man, but Chriſt God-Man; he ſanctifying, by the Fulneſs of God dwelling perſonally in him, the Sacrifice of that his Fleſh, and humane Nature, to an Infinity of value and worth. He hath become a Sacrifice of our mutual Peace, was cut in twain: and to compleat this Union among our ſelves, he hath in a ſtupendious way appointed his own Body and Blood to be received and ſhared as a Feaſt amongſt us, ſucceeding that Sacrifice once offered up: The Bread we break, is it not the Communion of the Body of Chriſt? The Cup, the Communion of his Blood? (ſo ſpeaks Paul, a moſt faithful Interpreter of theſe Myſteries) and a Communion of many, as one Body? (as it follows there.) 'Tis ſtrange that an Heathen, ſpeaking of one of their ſacred Feaſts, intended to confirm an Agreement between two great Perſonages, ſhould uſe the ſame Expreſſion: Communicârunt Concordiam, They are ſaid to have communicated Concord; and this becauſe they communicated together in the ſame Feaſt dedicated to their chief God, and which was ordained to teſtify Concord between them. The Apoſtle calls it in like manner, a Communion, whereby many are made one Bread, in that they eat of that one Bread, which whilſt they eat and drink in, they eat and drink the higheſt Charity and Agreement, each with and unto other.

1 Cor. 10.

Scipio, Jovis epulo, cum Graccho concordiam communicavit. Valer. Max. lib. 6. c. 2.

But that this Sort of Peace and Love, namely, mutual among the Receivers, was an avowed Intendment of our partaking of the Lord's Supper, needs not to be inſiſted on; this Import of it hath took the deepeſt Impreſſion upon the moſt vulgar Apprehenſions of all that profeſs Chriſtianity, of any other, To be in Charity with their Neighbour, &c. hath remained inall Ages of the Church, upon the Spirits of the moſt ignorant and ſuperſtitious, when thoſe other higher Ends and Intendments of it were forgotten. My Inference therefore is ſtrong and ſure: That what was thus eminent an Intention of this Feaſt upon a Sacrifice, muſt needs be, upon all the former Accounts, as eminent an Intention of that Sacrifice it ſelf, as ſuch.

Only let me add this: That tho all the People of God will not, ſome of them not at all, many not together, eat of this Feaſt, through difference of Judgment, (and it is ſtrange, that this which is the Sacrament of Concord, ſhould have in the Controverſies about it, more Differences, and thoſe more dividing than any other part of Divine Truth or Worſhip) yet ſtill however this ſtands good to be the native original End and Inſtitution of the Ordinance it ſelf, and ſo by inference, this to have been the Intent of Chriſt's Death, as a Sacrifice to the ſame end; of which Death, to be ſure, they all muſt partake, and unto which Chriſt they muſt have recourſe, even all and every Perſon, that are, or ſhall be the People of God: And by ſo doing, they find themſelves, upon all theſe accounts forementioned, engaged and obliged unto Peace and Concord with all the Saints in the World, how differing ſoever in Judgment, in Him who is our Peace, and by that Sacrifice hath made both one.

And thus much for this Branch, which treats of what Chriſt hath done in his own Perſon to procure this Peace.

The ſecond Branch, What Chriſt did by way of Repreſentation of our Perſons: That Phraſe [in one Body] explained.

THe ſecond Branch of this firſt Head is, What Chriſt did by way of Repreſentation of our Perſons, and how that conduceth to this mutual Reconciliation of the Saints among themſelves? This we have in that ſmall Additional which is found, v. 16. That he might reconcile both unto God [in one Body] by the Croſs, having ſlain the Enmity. The meaning whereof is this, that he did collect and gather together in one Body all the People of God, that is, did ſuſtain their Perſons, ſtood in their ſtead, as one common Perſon in whom they were all met, repreſenting them equally and alike unto God, and ſo reconciled them to God in one Body. As you heard, he bore their Enmities in his Fleſh, and ſo aboliſhed them; ſo withal he bore their Perſons, conſidered as one collective Body, and under that conſideration reconciled them to God.

And this ſuperadds to the former Conſideration, of being a Sacrifice for their Enmities mutually, for that he might have been, and have performed it for each of their Perſons, conſidered ſingly and apart; but further, we ſee he was pleaſed to gather them into one Body in Himſelf.

If you ask me, where and when this Repreſentation of all the Saints was by Chriſt more eſpecially made? and when it was they were look'd at by God as one Body? The Text tells us, On the Croſs, by which he thus reconciled us to God in one Body.

I will not now inſiſt on that, which at firſt, to make my way clear, I was ſo large upon: That that kind of Reconciliation of us, wrought by Chriſt for us on the Croſs, is here intended; to all which this may be added, That it was that Reconciliation, which at once took in and comprehended all, both Jew and Gentile, in all Ages, into one Body; which was never yet ſince actually done, but therefore then was done in Himſelf. That which is now only left for clearing my way, is the opening the Import of thoſe words [in one Body] which Clauſe is that I take for my foundation of this ſecond Paragraph.

There is a Queſtion among Interpreters, Whether by this one Body in the Text, be meant the Church only, conſidered as one myſtical Body in Chriſt? or only the Body and humane Nature of Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, hanging upon the Croſs: I would, to reconcile both Sences, take in both, as conducing to the Reconciliation of us.

1. Suppoſing (which is neceſſary) Chriſt's Perſon, his human Nature, or His Fleſh, v. 15. to be the Ubi, the Subſtratum, the Meeting-place, and Rendezvouze of this other great Body of the Elect, where this whole Company appeared, and was repreſented, ſo to be reconciled unto God. For indeed what the Apoſtle mentions here apart, and at diſtance each from other: His Fleſh, v. 15. and Body, v. 16. theſe elſewhere he brings together, Col. 1. 22. Having made Peace in the Body of his Fleſh, through Death.

2. Which Body, as hanging upon the Croſs, was cloathed upon (when moſt naked) with this other Body, which he himſelf took on him to ſuſtain and repreſent, and to ſtand in their ſtead, even the whole Body of his Elect; his Body (perſonally his) becoming by repreſentation one with his other Body, (myſtically his.) In ſum, in the Body of Chriſt perſonal, as the Body repreſenting; the whole Body of Chriſt myſtical, as the Body repreſented, was met in one before God, and unto God. And in that one Body of Chriſt perſonal, were all theſe Perſons (thus repreſented) reconciled unto God together, as in one Body, by virtue of this Repreſentation.

The Influence, that our being reconciled to God in one Body, hath into our Reconciliation mutual, in two eminent reſpects.

IF any ſhall ask, What Influence and Virtue this their being conſidered as one Body, met in his Body, and under that conſideration reconciled to God, hath into their Reconciliation one with another? I anſwer, Much every way; neither is it mentioned laſt, as laſt in Order, but as the Foundation of all other Conſiderations thereto belonging.

1. In that they were thus all once met in one Body, in the Body of Chriſt, both in his intendment, and his Father's view, this Conſideration (if no more) hath force enough in it to bring them together again in after Times. Even this clandeſtine Union (ſuch indeed in reſpect of our knowledg of it then, yet having all three Perſons the Witneſſes in Heaven preſent) this Pre-contract, this anticipated Oneneſs, this forehand Union hath ſuch virtue in it, that let them afterwards fall out never ſo much, they muſt be brought together again, and be one. Heaven and Earth may be diſſolved, but this Union once ſolemnized, can never be fruſtrated or diſſolved; what God and Chriſt did thus put together, Sin and Devil, Men and Angels, cannot always and for ever keep aſunder. His Father's donation of them to him, and Chriſt's own repreſentation of the ſame Perſons to his Father again, have a proportionable like virtue in them; for there is the ſame reaſon of both. Now of the one Chriſt ſays, All that the Father giveth me, ſhall come to me, John 6. 37. Chriſt mentions that Gift of them by the lump to him, by the Father, as the reaſon or cauſe (rather) why they could not ever be kept from him: And as none can keep them from him, becauſe given of the Father to him, in like manner, and for the like reaſon, the whole Body of them cannot be kept one from another, becauſe preſented by him again to the Father: Chriſt mentions both theſe Conſiderations, as of equal efficacy in that Prayer, whereby he ſanctified that Sacrifice of himſelf, John 17. Thine they were, and thou gaveſt them me: All mine are thine, and thine are mine: And I pray, v. 21. that they all may be one, (and that in this World) as we are. Chriſt then not only died for his Sheep apart, that they might come to himſelf, as John 10. 15. but further, that they might be one Fold, as it follows there. And as the Evangeliſt interprets Caiphas's Prophecy, He died, to gather together in one the Children of God that were ſcattered abroad, John 11. 51, 52. To make ſure which gathering to come, he in and at his Death gathered them together repreſentatively, they met all in him, and aſcended the Croſs with him, as Peter's Phraſe is of all their Sins, (therefore much more their Perſons) 1 Pet. 2. 24. ὃς αὐτὸς ἀνήνεγκεν ἐν τῷ σώματι αὐτοῦ ἐπὶ τὸ ξύλον, He himſelf carried up in (or together with) his Body, our Sins up to the Tree: Aſcendere fecit ſurſum ſimul cum ſeipſo. The Croſs was the firſt general Rendezvouze in this World, appointed for him and his Members, where they were crucified in him, and with him, as the Apoſtle often ſpeaks. Chriſt told the Jews, If I be lifted up, John 12. 32. (ſpeaking of his Death on the Croſs, v. 33.) I will draw all to me: And here you ſee the reaſon of it, for in their lifting up him, they lift up all his with him, as hung to, and adjoined with him in one Body, in his Body. This great and univerſal Loadſtone, ſet in that Steel of the Croſs, having then gathered all theſe leſſer magnetick Bodies, Pieces of himſelf, into himſelf; the virtue thereof will draw them all together in one again, as they come to exiſt in the World: They may be ſcattered, they may fall out; but as Branches united in one Root, tho ſevered by Winds and Storms, and beaten one from and againſt another, yet the Root holding them in a firm and indiſſoluble Union, it brings them to a quiet Order and Station again. And if the now ſcattered Jews muſt one day come together, and make one Body again, becauſe thoſe dry Bones (the Umbræ, the ghaſtly Shadows of them) were ſeen once to meet in Ezekiel's Viſion; how much more ſhall the Elect coaleſce in one new Man, becauſe they once met in him, that is the Body, and not the Shadow? If thoſe Jews muſt meet, that the Prophecy, the Viſion might be fulfilled, theſe muſt much more, that the end of his death, and his hanging on the Tree, may be fulfilled, in whom all Viſions and Promiſes have their Amen and Accompliſhment. As in his Death, ſo in his Reſurrection alſo, they are conſidered as one Body with him, Iſa. 26. 19. Together with my dead Body ſhall they ariſe, ſays Chriſt, and both in Death and Reſurrection, one Body, to the end they may be preſented (together) in one Body all at laſt, *Col.*1. 22. And in the mean time in the efficacy of theſe forehand Meetings, are they to be created into one new Man, v. 15. and that even εἷς, one individual Man, Gal. 3. ult. not ἕν, one Bulk, Body, or Thing only. This one new Man, which they are to grow up into, anſwereth exactly to that one Body, which was then gathered together, repreſented and met in him on the Croſs, bearing the Image of it, and wrought by the Virtue of it.

The ſecond is, That if ſuch a force and efficacy flows from their having met once, as one Body, then much more from this, (which the Text adds) that they were reconciled to God in that one Body. This Clauſe [in one Body] was on purpoſe inſerted together with their Reconciliation to God, to ſhew, that they were no otherwiſe eſteemed or look'd at by God as reconciled to him, but as under that repreſentation, view, and reſpect had of them (as then) by him, that ſo, dum ſociaret Deo, ſociavit inter ſe: Their Reconciliation with God was not conſidered, nor wrought only apart, ſingly, Man by Man, (tho Chriſt bore all their Names too) but the Terms were ſuch, unleſs all were, and that as in one body and community, together among themſelves, reputed reconciled, the whole Reconciliation, and of no one Perſon, unto God, ſhould be accounted valid with him. So as their very Peace with God was not only never ſevered from, but not conſidered, nor effected, nor of force, without the conſideration of their being one each with other in Chriſt. Inſomuch as upon the Law and Tenour of this Original Act thus paſt, God might according to the true intent thereof, yea, and would renounce their Reconciliation with himſelf, if not to be ſucceeded with this Reconciliation of theirs mutually. And altho this latter doth, in reſpect of execution and accompliſhment, ſucceed the other in time, (the Saints do not all preſently agree, and come together as one Body) yet in the original enacting, and firſt founding of Reconciliation by Chriſt, theſe were thus on purpoſe by God interwoven and indented, the one in the other; and the Terms and Tenure of each interchangeably wrought into, and moulded in one and the ſame fundamental Charter and Law of Reconciliation mutual, than which nothing could have been made more ſtrong and binding, or ſure to have effect in due time.

The Reconciliation of the Saints to God conſidered, as in one Body; held likewiſe forth in the Adminiſtration of the Lord's Supper: And one eminent Foundation of the Inſtitution of fixed Church-Communion, hinted therein.

THe Impreſs and Reſemblance of this, namely, Chriſt's reconciling us to God in one Body, we may likewiſe perceive: (And I ſhall mention it the rather, to make the Harmony of this with all the former ſtill more full) in the Adminiſtration of the Lord's Supper, in which we may view this Truth alſo, as we have done the other.

That Supper being ordained to ſhew forth his Death, look as he died, ſo it repreſents it: As therefore Chriſt was ſacrificed, repreſenting the General Aſſembly of Saints, and ſo in one Body reconciled them to God; ſo this Supper was ordained, (in the regular Adminiſtration of it) to hold forth the Image of this, as near as poſſible ſuch an Ordinance could be ſuppoſed to have done it: For anſwerably the Seat, the ἐδώδιμα of it, is a Communion of many Saints met together in one Body, and not otherwiſe. Thus 1 *Cor.*10.17. For we being many are one Bread and one Body. He had ſaid, v. 16. That the Lord's Supper it was the Communion of the Body of Chriſt, &c. that is, a Communion of Chriſt's Body, as to each, ſo as of a Company united together among themſelves; and accordingly the Apoſtle ſubjoins this as the reaſon, For we (whom you ſee do ordinarily partake of it) are many (not one or two apart) and thoſe many are one Bread, and one Body: one Bread, as the Sign; one Body, as the thing ſignified.

And

And thus we are then conſidered to be, when Chriſt as dying is communicated by us: For to ſhew forth his Death, is the end of this Sacrament. The Seat therefore or Subject of partaking in this Communion, of Chriſt's Body and Blood, and which is ordained for the publick participation of it, is not either ſingle Chriſtians, but a many, nor thoſe meeting as a fluid Company, like Clouds uncertainly, or as Men at an Ordinary, for running Sacraments, (as ſome would have them) but fixed ſetledly as incorporated Bodies. Which Inſtitution having for its Subject ſuch a Society, as then, when Chriſt's Death is to be ſhewn forth, doth ſuitably and correſpondently ſet forth, how that the whole Church, the Image of which whole Univerſal Church (theſe particular Churches do bear, as a late Commentator hath obſerved upon that place) was repreſented in and by Chriſt dying for us, under this conſideration, of being one Body then in Him.

Omnes qui eidem menſæ ſacræ pariter accumbimus, & unam facimus φεϱτείαν, quæ φεϱτεία totius Eccleſiæ gerit imaginem. Grot. 1 Cor. 10. 17.

And there is this ground for it, That the whole of that Ordinance was intended to repreſent the whole of his Death, and the Imports of it, as far as was poſſible. So then look as the Death it ſelf, and his bitter Paſſion are repreſented therein, both of Body, in breaking the Bread, which is the Communion of his Body; of the Soul in the Wine, which is called the Communion of his Blood; and this is the Blood of the New Teſtament, ſo expreſſed in alluſion to that of the Old, in which the Blood was choſen out, as the neareſt viſible Repreſenter of the inviſible Soul, that could be. The Life lies in the Blood, (for the Spirits, which are the animal Life, do run in it) ſo ſpake the old Law, and the Poet the ſame, Sanguine quærendi reditus animâq; litandum. Virg. 11. Æn.

He terms the Sacrifice of the Blood, the Sacrifice of the Soul; and ſo Wine was choſen, as the neareſt reſemblance of Blood, being alſo the Blood of the Grape.

As thus the Death it ſelf, in all the parts of it; ſo the Subject for which he died, his Body, and that under that very conſideration he died for them, [as one Body] is in like manner as viſibly and plainly held forth; every particular Church bearing by Inſtitution the Image of the whole Church, (as therein it hath alſo all the Privileges of it) fitly ſhewing forth thereby, not only that Chriſt died for them ſingly and apart conſidered, (which yet is therewith held forth here, in that each perſonally doth partake thereof) that might have been ſufficiently evidenced, if every Perſon or Family apart had been warranted to have received and eaten this Sacrificial Feaſt alone, (as they did the Paſſeover, and the Sacrifices, Levit. 7. 18.) but the Inſtitution is for many, which very word Chriſt mentions in the Inſtitution, This is the Blood of the New Teſtament, ſhed for many, which word I believe the Apoſtle had an eye unto, when he ſaid, We being many, are Partakers, &c. Chriſt indeed principally aimed therein, to ſhew, that his Intent in dying was for a Multitude of Mankind, the whole Body of his Elect; yet becauſe he inſerts the mention hereof, at the delivery of thoſe Elements, and that the Ordinance it ſelf was ſuited to hold forth this Intent, the Apoſtle takes the hint of it, and adds this Gloſs and Conſtruction upon it, as glanced at in it: That according to the Inſtitution and Import of this Ordinance, the Partakers hereof are to be a many, (not one or two alone) and theſe united into one Body, to the end that thereby may be held forth this great Intendment in his Death, That he died for the many of his Church, as one collective Body. This however we are ſure of, that this way of partaking this Supper, as in one Body, was to the Apoſtle a matter of that moment, that we find him bitterly inveighing in the next Chapter, that the ſame individual Church of Corinth, when they came together in one, for that and other Ordinances, ſhould, of all Ordinances elſe, not receive this Ordinance together, in ſuch a community; but perverting that Order, ſhould, even in that place appointed for the Meetings of the whole Church, divide themſelves into private ſeveral Companies, and ſo make this as a private Supper, which in the nature and intendment of the Inſtitution of it, was to be a Communion of the whole Church or Body together: Inſomuch that he ſays, This is not to eat the Lord's Supper; for in eating (namely, this Sacramental Supper) every one takes before (others perhaps do come) his own Supper, together with the Lord's, and ſo maketh it as a private Collation, or as ἴδιον δεῖπνον, Wherefore, my Brethren, when you come together to eat (that Supper) tarry one for another, to make a full Meeting of the whole Body; and as for other Suppers, every Man is at liberty to take them at home, as he pleaſeth, v. 34. The Apoſtle is thus zealous in it, as he had reaſon, becauſe hereby is ſhewn forth one principal Myſtery in Chriſt's Death; for from this, at leaſt upon occaſion of this particular, as well as any other, doth the Apoſtle utter this great Maxim, Ye ſhew forth his Death till he comes, v. 26. Of ſuch moment in their import and ſignificancy are things, thus ſmall and mean in the Eyes of ſome, that yet are full of Myſtery in Chriſt's intendment. And thus much for the ſecond Head.

A SERMON

On EPHES. 3. 17.

That Christ may dwell in your Hearts by Faith.

Some general Premiſes touching the whole Prayer.

THis Prayer of Paul's for the Epheſians, is according to the utmoſt Elevation, or height of his own Experience of what he could pray for. I give ſome general Animadverſions, as Premiſes upon the whole Prayer firſt, ere I enter upon this particular part of it.

1. That all the three Perſons, and the Diſpenſations of each of them, are all of them mentioned; though the order of them be inverted: for he begins with the Spirit, the laſt Perſon, That ye may be ſtrengthned with all Might by the Spirit: that's the firſt Petition. Secondly, that Chriſt (who is the ſecond Perſon in the order inverted) may dwell in your Hearts by Faith. Thirdly, That you may be rooted, and grounded in Love: that is, of the Father; to whom Love is eſpecially attributed in Scripture. And then ultimately, and laſt of all, that the God-head, and ſo the communication of all three Perſons, may be manifeſted in you, and to you, and upon you: that you may be filled (ſaith he) with all the fulneſs of God: that is the firſt, that all the three Perſons are here mentioned.

2. In the ſecond place, That which he prays for, is, what diſpenſations of Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt, have towards us after Converſion. He writes to Saints already, and he doth not pray for their Converſion; or what Operations, or Influences the three Perſons have in Converſion: he ſuppoſeth that: but the things he prays for, are what are after Converſion. As when he ſaith, that Chriſt might dwell in their Hearts; He ſuppoſeth them to have been already in Chriſt. Dwelling is a continuance of In-being. Alſo when he adds, that ye may be rooted, and grounded in Love: he ſuppoſeth them to be firſt planted into the Love of God.

3. He prays for what in this life is to be obtained: as when he prays that Chriſt may dwell in their Hearts by Faith: now Faith in the other World ceaſeth.

4. I add this, It is for what is attainable by all Saints, though not attained but by few: He prays indeed that All Saints may comprehend; not only you Epheſians, but all Saints: that ye may compreheud with all Saints. But alas! the moſt of Saints complain that they have not this; that they perceive not that Chriſt dwells in their Hearts by Faith; that they are rooted, and grounded in Love: but want a ſetled Aſſurance; which is a being rooted in Love: Nor are they filled with all the fulneſs of God.

There are two things I ſhall proſecute upon this Paſſage.

I. That Chriſt dwells in us.
II. That He dwells in our Hearts by Faith.

I. An Explication of Chriſt's dwelling in us, and of his Union with us: whether by his Perſon firſt and immediately, or only by his Spirit, and Graces effectively.

I ſhall explain this great Point, by way of Anſwers to ſeveral Queries.

Query. 1. How is it ſo peculiarly attributed to Chriſt that he dwells in us, ſeeing we find in Scripture that the other two Perſons dwell in us alſo?

1. The Father dwells in us: John 4. 12, 13. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us: And hereby know we, that we dwell in him, and he in us, becauſe he hath given us of his Spirit. And, v. 15. Whoſoever ſhall confeſs, that Jeſus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God. Now it is evident, that it is God the Father ſpoken of, for he ſpeaks of Him in the next words, v. 14. Who ſent his Son to be the Saviour of the World; and he ſpeaks of God, as diſtinct from Chriſt: Whoſoever ſhall confeſs, that Jeſus is the Son of God, there is Chriſt: God dwelleth in him; who? the Father.

My Brethren, by the way I obſerve, this ſeems to have been a Phraſe to expreſs a Man to be a Chriſtian by, that God dwelt in him, and Chriſt dwelt in him: Thus in the Primitive Language; for you ſee he brings Signs of it: Hereby we know that we dwell in him, and he in us; and ſo again, in 1 John 3. 24. He that keeps his Commandments dwells in him, and he in him: And hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us: So that he makes this to be the Character of a Chriſtian, that he is one in whom God dwells, and Chriſt dwells; and this to be the Sign of it, that he keepeth his Commandments, and hath his Spirit in him. The like Language you have in 2 Cor. 13. Know ye not that Chriſt is in you, &c. This of the Father, that he dwells in us. But,

2. The Spirit dwells in us: Rom. 8. 11. He that raiſed up Jeſus from the Dead, ſhall alſo quicken your mortal Bodies [by his Spirit that dwelleth in you.] Here is the Holy Ghoſt dwelling in us too.

3. You ſee Jeſus Chriſt dwells in us too. That you have here in this place. So he prays, That Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith. So that all the three Perſons dwell in you, that is the firſt Animadverſion, which is introductory to others that follow.

Query 2. But then you will ſay to me, (and it is the ſecond Query for the explication of the Text) How are theſe diſtinct? How is it that God the Father dwells in us? And how is it that God the Son dwells in us? And how is it that God the Holy-Ghoſt dwells in us?

Truly, Brethren, it is a very hard thing to diſtinguiſh it: Yet often you find ſome eminent Character, or other attributed to one Perſon by an Eminence which is proper to him, and not to another; whereby, there is ſome diſtinction which ariſeth unto us: Now take this of dwelling in us, and you ſhall find that diſtinction thus:

1. God the Father is ſaid to dwell in us by Love: God the Father doth more eminently dwell in us by our apprehenſions of him in Love; both in his Love to us, and our loving of him: ſo you will find it in 1 John 4.16. And we have known and have believed the Love that God hath to us: God is Love: and he that dwelleth in Love, dwelleth in God, and God in him. Brethren, a Man that hath great apprehenſions, or any true apprehenſions of the Love of God to him, and his Heart is kept dwelling, and abiding on them, he doth thereby dwell in God the Father. If you look to the whole Scripture, the eminent Property that is aſcribed to the Father is Love: the Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and the Love of God the Father: though Chriſt Loves us too, yet 'tis the Father, his Love is the Original of all: the more you apprehend the Love of the Father, whether you do it in aſſurance, or whether you do it in adoring that Love, and cleaving to that Love, and following after that Love you apprehend in the Father: the more you do this, the more doth God the Father dwell in you: therefore the Apoſtle prayeth, that

Chriſt

Chriſt may dwell in your Heart by Faith, that ye being rooted, and grounded in Love: but 'tis in the Love of God the Father. But,

2. Jeſus Chriſt dwelleth in us by Faith! ſo 'tis ſaid here: and we live in Chriſt by Faith: Gal.2.20. I live, yet not I but Chriſt liveth in me: and the Life which I now live in the Fleſh, I live by the Faith of the Son of God: But doth not Chriſt dwell in us by Love too? It is certain that Jeſus Chriſt dwelleth in us by Love too: for he is our Huſband; and therefore it muſt be that he alſo dwelleth in us by Love. But yet for all that, though he dwell in us by Love as well as the Father, yet our Converſes with him are more eminently by Faith; he dwelleth in us by Faith: not but that the Father dwelleth in us by Faith too: but Chriſt more properly. And in Acts 20.21. it is called Repentance towards God, and Faith towards our Lord Jeſus Chriſt: not but that we repent unto Chriſt too, but Faith is the moſt eminent thing towards Chriſt in this Life. But

3. The Spirit is ſaid to dwell in us alſo: but my Brethren, the Spirit is not ſaid to dwell in us by Faith: which yet is not to be underſtood as if we do not believe in him. But that the Soul doth exerciſe the main of its acting of Faith upon Chriſt, as its more ſpecially delighted Object: but the Spirit lies as it were hid in the Heart, and works Faith in us towards Chriſt, and Love in us towards God. I do not ſay that we are not at all to exerciſe Faith, and Love upon the Spirit: there is Faith in the Spirit, [It's ſaid, in the Creed, I believe in the Holy Ghoſt] and Love to the Spirit in a Chriſtian: as you find Rom. 15.30. it is ſaid there for Chriſt's ſake, and for the love of the Spirit: So that there is a Love towards the Spirit in a Chriſtian; a Love in us to the Spirit, for the Spirits own Love to us. As alſo becauſe it is the Spirit, that ſheds abroad the Love of God in our Hearts. The Spirit works in us Love to God, and Faith in Chriſt Jeſus: but he lies hid, and as it were dormant in our Hearts, and we little perceive how he is in us.

I ſhall add another Query for the further explanation of the Text.

Query 3. Doth Chriſt dwell in our Hearts only by Faith? Or doth he not otherwiſe dwell in us, than by the exerciſe of our Faith upon Him? Doth not the Perſon of Chriſt himſelf dwell in us, and not only by our Faith?

I anſwer, according to that light I have, (and I humbly ſubmit what I ſhall ſay) Chriſt himſelf dwells in you immediatly by himſelf: That's my Anſwer, and I oppoſe it to thoſe that either ſay, that he dwells in us only by his Spirit; or to many others, who would lowen that alſo, and ſay, That both Chriſt's, and the Spirit's dwelling in us, is but by the Graces they work in us; for ſtill in their ſpeaking of this Union, they expreſs no more; and not ſo only, but alſo ſo limit it thereto herein: It muſt be acknowledged, that their Graces do dwell in us, and that they with their Graces. Yea, others ſay, That his very dwelling in us by Faith, is but by Faith as it is a Grace, which were all one and to ſay, He dwells no otherwiſe in us by Faith, than as he doth by our mourning for Sin, and by every Act that is holy, which we put forth, for they are Graces. Even as ſome have ſaid of late, that we are juſtified by Love, and Mourning for Sin, and every Grace, as well as by Faith: No, Brethren, Jeſus Chriſt dwells in us by Faith, taking him as its moſt proper Object appointed for it, and by going out of our ſelves to him: *Gal.*2.20,21. I am crucified with Chriſt: Nevertheleſs I live, yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me: And the Life which I now live in the Fleſh, I live [by the Faith of the Son of God,] who loved me, and gave himſelf for me. And Faith by letting him into the Heart, is as the Eye, which lets in the Sun, or any other beautiful Object into the Fancy, and the common Sence, ſtirring the Affections; and this is peculiar unto the Grace of Faith to do. But to ſay, Chriſt dwells in us only by his Graces, how doth this bring thoſe great things which Chriſt himſelf, John 14 & 17 chap. (and other Scriptures do) ſpeak of this Union, unto ſo great a lowneſs. As when Chriſt is ſaid to be our Life, Col. 3. 4. (which yet ſome would have underſtood only cauſaliter, meerly as the Cauſe of our Life, or Grace in us.) But *Gal.*2,20. ſpeaks, if not further, yet more clearly, 'Tis not I that live, but Chriſt lives in me. And it is certain, all Principles of Life, (what ever Life it be) muſt be the moſt intimate Indwellers in them which are ſaid to live live thereby: The animal and vital Spirits, and the Blood, that are ſaid to be the Life of a Beaſt, (as in the Old Teſtament) do run and dwell within the Body, and Veins, and Arteries, and may be ſaid to be the moſt proper Inmates: And ſo the principal parts of the Body, as the Heart, &c. that are the Fountain of Life; eſpecially the rational Soul, that acts all in us: And this holds true of Chriſt much more; he is Intimior intimo noſtro.

Muſculus upon the Text.

Rolloc (both in his Engliſh Sermons upon the Coloſſians, and his Latin Comments on the Galatians, and the Coloſſians alſo urgeth this: The manner of Speech, (ſaith he) Chriſt our Life, notes this, That that ſpiritual Life we begin to live here, is not ſo much a Life different from his Life, as it is the very Life that Chriſt lives himſelf, the very ſame in Number; that ſame very Life, and no other extends to us, ſo far as we are capable: Liveth the Body another Life than the Head? There is but one Life in the Man, and that the Head hath, the ſame the whole Body hath, and it quickneth every Member of the Body. And there is a nearer Conjunction and In-being betwixt Chriſt and us, than there is between this Head of ours, and the Body. And in the Galatians, the Apoſtle ſays not, (ſays he) 'By Chriſt I live, but it is, Chriſt liveth in me.

Ut non ſit alia hæc vita noſtra ſpiritualis ab illa vita Chriſti in nobis viventis, ſed una eadémq; eſt numero: ſit vita noſtra & Chriſti. Quemadmodum nou eſt alia atq; alia numero vita corporis & capitis naturalis, ſed una eadémq; re & numero utriúſq; vita, propter arctiſſimam illam conjunctionem; & quanto magis Chriſti & noſtra, quanto arctior & major eſt capitis Chriſti & noſtri conjunctio: Ut verbo dicam, vita noſtra ſpiritualis nihil aliud eſt, quàm vita Chriſti viventis in nobis. Roll. on 2 Gal. 20. And upon Col. 3. 4. Non dicit, vitam noſtram eſſe ex Chriſto, vel per Chriſtum, ſed Chriſtum eſſe vitam noſtram: quâ locutione innuit nos, non tam vivere vitam quæ quidem ſit ex Chriſto, & ſcaturiat ex illo fonte vitæ quæ in ipſo eſt, diverſa tamen reipſa ſit ab ipſa illa vitâ Chriſti, quam vivere ipſam & illam Chriſti vitam, ipſiúsq; vitam & noſtram unam eandémq; re & numero eſſe: Uno verbo, vita noſtra ſpiritualis nihil aliud eſt, quàm Chriſti vita nos irradians.

And the Compariſon that the Holy-Ghoſt uſeth about Chriſt's being our Life at the Reſurrection, (and the ſame holds of all ſpiritual Life begun here) in 1 Cor. 15. That as Adam was made a living Soul, that is, a rational and animal Soul dwelt in a Body, and animated, inſpiring it with Life; that ſo in like manner Chriſt is to us a quickning Spirit: And by Spirit, it is not the Holy-Ghoſt who is there meant, for it is ſpoken of Chriſt himſelf, the ſecond Adam; and Paul ſays, The Lord is that Spirit, 2 Cor. 3. 17. and he ſpeaks of Chriſt, as quickning our Souls. And the Parallel in that 1 Cor. 15. in reſpect of us, runs thus, That as the Soul dwelling in Adam's Body, made him to be a living Soul; ſo Chriſt, as the Lord, that Spirit dwelling in us, quickens us, enliveneth us, both here and hereafter.

If there were an Head ſo full of Life, as if joyned to a Body wholly dead, or having the dead Palſy, and could yet quicken it ſo far as it ſhould live, and be a living active Animal; this muſt be done by its Union with it, and diffuſing its own vivific Life and Spirit into the Members of that Body; now this is the caſe between Chriſt and us. He not only raiſeth us up from the dead, by an efficient Power, but alſo he doth by himſelf quicken us, and therefore dwells in us as the Soul that enlivens the Body. And this is by his God-head or divine Nature, that he is thus able to dwell in us: which is called the Spirit of Holineſs in him, Rom. 1. 4. and Heb. 9. 14. the Eternal Spirit by which he offered up himſelf. And that divine Nature, as dwelling firſt in his own Humanity, doth by coming into us as a Sovereign Soul into our dead Souls, he quickens us; and ſo lives in us: as Gal. 2. And is not as one wholly without us; that by an external Power raiſeth, as he will do wicked Men, much leſs by another only, viz. his Spirit (the Holy-Ghoſt) only, but himſelf immediately; and ſo he is the primum vivens in us, in reſpect of Spiritual Life. And whereas you will ſay, the Graces wrought are an inward Principle of Spiritual Life; vitale principium as the Schools calls them: yet he is intimior intimo noſtro; more within us, than we our ſelves are within our ſelves, or our own Graces. And hence it is, that when Paul ſpeaks of this Life of Graces; And of our Spiritual Life as it is in us, (whilſt comparing it with Chriſt's living in us) he doth as it were renounce that of his Graces to be his Life, or the chief inward Principle of living (in that Gal. 2. 20.) not abſolutely, but in compariſon unto Chriſt his being our Life: Nevertheleſs it is not I that live, but Chriſt lives in me: and that [not I] is not only his carnal corrupt I, or ſelf which he renounceth ceth (ego non ſum ego) but even his Spiritual [I] As in that like abrenunciation it is to be underſtood, Yet not I, but the Grace of God that is with me: 'tis his Spiritual [I] as 'tis his own, he renounceth that Speech likewiſe, in Rom. 7. when he ſays it is not [I] but Sin, the I or Self there, is his regenerate ſelf; it is his inward Graces, which yet in compariſon unto Chriſt he denies, in Gal. 2. It is obſervable alſo, that there is this difference in Scripture Language, and we find it in both thoſe places: Gal. 2. and Col. 3. That when he ſpeaks of our dying to Sin, he puts that indeed upon a Conformity with Chriſt, and the Operation of Chriſt: I am crucified with Chriſt, but he ſays not, that Chriſt died in him: But when he comes to expreſs our Life, he ſays, It is not I, but Chriſt that lives in me, for the reaſon aforeſaid. The Body of Sin in us, which is our ſelf, dies with him; but in, or by, or with its dying in us, through the Body of Chriſt, as Rom. 7. Chriſt is never ſaid to die in us: But then when he comes to that Point of his being our Life, and that the Life we have by him be ſpoken of; then we are not only ſaid to be alive with him, but plainly, that He lives in us.

I find that Divines ſay, That our Union with Chriſt is a ſubſtantial Union; that is, it is an Union of the Subſtance of his Perſon, and of ours, which the Lord's Supper is the Symbol of, and is ordained to ſignify; and therefore not only by his Spirit or Graces.

Query 4. But the far greater Queſtion will be, Whether Chriſt dwells in us, and is made one with us, only by his Spirits indwelling in us firſt and immediatly, and not that Himſelf firſt and immediatly?

Now towards this I muſt firſt ſay, (which I ſhall after explain) I could never ſee any reaſon againſt this, that the Perſon of the Son of God, in and with the Divine Nature of Him, may not (by means or reaſon of his Union with the Manhood, in which He perſonally dwells firſt) and then through his Relation to us thereby, may not (I ſay) dwell in us, as well as the third Perſon the Holy-Ghoſt doth, which our Divines very generally affirm; yea, and that he ſhould as immediatly dwell in us, as the Spirit.

1. What! hath the Addition of the Manhood unto his Perſon, made that Perſon, as he is God, uncapable of dwelling in us immediatly, as well as the Perſon of the Spirit? Is he diſprivileged thereby, when as indeed by reaſon of his relation to us as God-Man, it is that he doth dwell in us any way.

2. It hath alſo ſeemed ſomewhat ſtrange to me, that he that is ordained to be the Means of our Union with God, and is the prime Object and Terminus of our Union, the deſigned Bridegroom that is to be married, the Perſon to be one and in conjunction with us: I in them, and thou in me, that they alſo may be one in us, as in John 17. It were ſtrange, I ſay, that He who is the Perſon, in whom and by whom the Union is effected with himſelf, and the other two Perſons, and is the Perſon moſt concerned in this matter of Union; that Himſelf ſhould be married, and come to be in his neareſt conjunction with us, only by a Proxy, viz. the Holy-Ghoſt, and him to be ſent into our Hearts only to dwell in his ſtead: Inſomuch as I have been much inclined further to think, that Chriſt joins himſelf to us firſt and immediatly, and then we are made one with the Father, and then he ſends his Spirit into our Hearts.

Brethren, you have heard lately ſomething of God's electing us to Union with Himſelf; but you have heard withal, that Chriſt is the Means of that Union with God, and the immediate Means, yea, and the firſt Means: and ſo it is propoſed in thoſe Scriptures, where the weight of Union is put upon the Foundation of it; in John 14 & 17 chap. God united his Son immediatly into one Perſon with a Man, and then ordained him, and that Union of his, purpoſely, among other things, to bring about an Union of us with Himſelf: That they may be one in us, ſpeaking to his Father, (ſays Chriſt there): how one in us? As thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee; that ſo they alſo may be one in us; then take the 23*d* v. Mark the Order, I in them, and thou in me. Therefore our being one with the Father lies in this, that Chriſt is firſt in us: I in them, and thou in me. So as I take theſe (ſays Chriſt) to be one with me; and ſo thou Father comeſt to be in them by me. You have the like in John 14. 20. I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you. The Perſon of the Father dwells in the Perſon of the Son, yea, in the Man Jeſus: And ſo far as the thing is capable, he prays for a like Union between us and themſelves, but by means of himſelf. And therefore firſt now, we are capable to have the Perſon of Chriſt dwell in us immediatly, and yet to have room left of an infinite diſtance, between the Son of God dwelling in the Man, as perſonally one Perſon with him, and his Perſon to dwell in us immediatly, and not by Graces only. Other Divines have expreſſed this thus: That it is a ſubſtantial Union, or dwelling in us ſubſtantially, whereby I underſtand, and I believe it to be their meaning, that the Perſon of the Son doth dwell in our Perſons, tho not as one Perſon with us; which is the Man Jeſus's ſole and only Privilege, who is the Founder of this our Union: But we have the next Union unto that, which can be ſuppoſable, or which we are capable of. And ſurely he that dwells, as he is God, in common in all the Creatures; his Perſon and Godhead may well be thought to dwell in us by a ſpecial appropriated Inhabitation, as in his own Houſe, which we are, (ſays the Apoſtle) Heb. 3. yea, and not only ſo, but his Body alſo. And this Union did Chriſt (in whoſe human Nature the Godhead dwells bodily, or perſonally) bring in for us, not only ſuch an Union as Adam had, in whom 'tis true that the Spirit dwelt but by Graces, which were the only Bond of that Union; and therefore when Graces were forfeited and failed, that Union was inſtantly diſſolved: for the Spirit's Union was founded thereupon. And verily the forementioned Speeches which Chriſt expreſſeth our Union by, do give the loud ſound of higher things by far, than that Union with God which Adam had, as to be one in us, &c. John 17. by an Union next degree unto that, which the Man Jeſus, as then and now one Perſon with the Son, had and enjoyed, and thereby with the other two Perſons of the Trinity. And perhaps if our Union with himſelf, (who is there made the means of our Union with the Father) had needed to have been firſt and immediatly made by the third Perſon, the Spirit, he would have ſaid, The Spirit in them, which Spirit is mine, and I in the Spirit, and thou in me. And this had been meet and requiſite to have been ſaid, if the Spirit had neceſſarily been the Perſon, who ſhould firſt have come between Chriſt's ſelf and them, ere Chriſt could have been united to us; but he there mentions not the Spirit explicitly at all. The Father dwells not in the human Nature of Chriſt, but by the Spirit; and then why may it not be allowed, that the Perſon of Chriſt ſhould dwell firſt in us by himſelf immediatly, and then to ſend his Spirit? Yea, I would have it enquired, whether at all Chriſt is ſaid to dwell in us by his Spirit? Indeed that the Spirit of Chriſt is in us, and that the Spirit of the Son dwells in us, is often ſaid; but this is far from ſaying, that he dwells in us by his Spirit, much leſs, that his Perſon dwelleth in us but as by his Spirit dwelling in his ſtead.

Query 5. You may ask now in the fifth place, What need the Spirit of God to dwell in us, if that the Perſon of Chriſt, the Son of God, in his own Perſon, immediately dwell in us, and doth all for us, and in us?

Brethren, ſhall I give you a ſhort Anſwer: 'Tis ex abundanti, out of the Abundancy and Fecundity of the Godhead, which hath three Perſons in it, and the Exuberancy of the Love of God, and of all the three Perſons in the Godhead, towards you; that ſo you may have the whole of the Godhead, both Divine Nature, and all the three Perſons, to dwell in you: yet ſo as Chriſt's Perſon is ſtill to be underſtood to be the Medium or Means of this Union of the other two; and that not only by meriting or purchaſing this Union with the other Two for us, and with Himſelf, but by his own Inhabitation firſt and immediate in us.

I ſhall give you a plain Inſtance: You know that the human Nature of Jeſus Chriſt is now perſonally united to the Son of God: I will but ask him (that asks the former Queſtion) the very ſame Queſtion concerning Chriſt, that this Queſtioniſt asks concerning us: Why and how doth the Spirit dwell in that human Nature? Is it not that by the ſecond Perſon's perſonally dwelling therein, the Fulneſs of the Godhead, and all thoſe glorious Fulneſſes do dwell in that Man alſo? And doth not the ſecond Perſon dwell in him, and fill him immediatly by his perſonal preſence preſence in him, and with him, with all Graces? And doth not he, and is not he fully ſufficient to act all in him, that is any way to be acted by him? Was not that human Nature raiſed up by that Spirit of Holineſs, that is, the Divine Nature in him? as Rom. 1. 4. What needed he then to have the Spirit above meaſure? The ground is, that where one Perſon is, there the other muſt needs be alſo: and therefore the Gifts and Graces in the Man Jeſus without meaſure, are attributed to the Spirit, as well as to the ſecond Perſon, the Son in him; and his being raiſed up is aſcribed to the Power of his Father in him, as well as to the ſecond Perſon, Rom. 6.

To bring this home to this Point in hand, of Chriſt's dwelling in us, you muſt know, that take the human Nature of Chriſt, conſidered as ſuch, and the Holy-Ghoſt dwells no otherwiſe therein, for the manner or kind of his Indwelling, than he doth in us, altho in two things there is a vaſt difference: Firſt, in the meaſure or degree; ſecondly, in the right or ground of his doing it, there is an infinite difference; but for the kind or manner he is in us as in him, and but in us as in him.

'Tis true, that the Union of the ſecond Perſon, the Son, with his human Nature, is of an higher and ſuperior kind, than that Union which the Holy-Ghoſt hath with him as he is Man: for the ſecond Perſon is one Perſon with that Man, but ſo is not the Holy-Ghoſt, nor is the Father, nor in that manner united to that Nature. 'Tis true alſo, that take the ſecond Perſon, conſidered ſimply as God, and a Perſon in the Godhead, without the aſſumption of the Manhood, that then it muſt be ſaid, that the Father and the Spirit did and do dwell in him, ſo as not in us, by a Circum-inceſſion, as the Schoolmen term it: which I cannot ſtand to explain. And ſo they dwelt in that Divine Perſon, before the human Nature was taken up into union with it, and does ſtill in an appropriate manner, and ſhall, and muſt do ſo to Eternity; But withal 'tis as true, that in the Human Nature that is taken up, and made into one Perſon with the Son, both the Father, and Spirit do dwell therein, as ſimply conſidered; but with the ſame kind of Union, wherewith they dwell in us. And the reaſon hereof is, for their dwelling in the Human Nature is not that they are perſonally united thereunto, ſo as it might be ſaid, that the Father is one Perſon with the Man Jeſus; or that the Holy-Ghoſt is one Perſon with that Man: No, 'tis only the Man, and the Son of God, that are become one Perſon; much leſs is it to be ſaid, that the Man is eſſentially become God. And if neither of theſe, then it muſt remain that the Holy-Ghoſt dwells in him as Man; but by the Inhabitation both of his Perſon, and by the ſame Holy-Ghoſt's Perſon, filling him with Gifts, and Graces above meaſure; now thus in our meaſure, and Proportion alſo it muſt be ſaid that he dwells in us. And again, if the Man Chriſt were united in one Perſon with the Father, and into one Perſon with the Spirit; then one, and the ſame Human Nature, would be indeed the Three, by virtue of ſuch a Perſonal Union, if any ſuch were: He then muſt be ſaid to be one Perſon with All of them together, and with each of them aſunder. He might be termed the Father, and the Spirit, as well as the Son of God: Now if theſe two Perſons, the Father, and the Spirit, dwell not thus in that Human Nature Perſonally, nor each as one Perſon, reſpectively with the Man Jeſus; then it remains that they dwell but in the ſame kind, or in that manner, in that nature, wherewitn they dwell in us; which is that their Perſons dwell in us, with their operations of Graces; but not perſonally.

2. As to the right whereupon the Spirit, and the Father, dwell in the Human Nature of Chriſt; that is infinitely tranſcending this of the Spirits dwelling in us: For the Father, and Spirit do dwell in his Human Nature, as he is now become one of the Perſons; the Man, God's Fellow, in their communicative Society together.

For lay but theſe things together: Firſt, All three Perſons are eſſentially one God; although Perſons diſtinct enjoying that God-head. And thus the Father, and Spirit do dwell naturally, or eſſentially in him; as he is the ſecond Perſon, ſimply conſidered: And thus do each of the Perſons dwell one in another, and hold an intimate in-dwelling, and converſe one in and with another; though as Perſons diſtinct. And this mutual Union of the Perſons one in another, is the higheſt, and neareſt that can be; and is indeed founded on the Identity of the God-head. But then Secondly, come to that Union which the Perſons of the Father and Spirit have, with the human Nature in the Son; which is founded not upon an eſſential Oneneſs with the Son, but is meerly Perſonal: that is, in its being One Perſon with the Son. And ſo Thirdly, From theſe two doth ſpring forth a right to that Human Nature, by way of Priviledg; he being one Perſon with one of them; namely the Son: that the Perſons both of the Father, and the Spirit, ſhould dwell therein, according to its utmoſt capacity of having Union with them; which is not Perſonal. And this is a neceſſary Conſequent of the two former Aſſertions. But ſtill it riſeth not up, that they ſhould be perſonally united unto that Man, who is thus perſonally united to this one diſtinct Perſon, the Son: And but ſo united to him alone.

From whence two things follow;

Firſt, That for the kind of their Union, it is the ſame that is in us; for it is lower than that of a Perſonal Union, with that Man.

Secondly, There is a right due to that Human Nature, ſuppoſing its Perſonal Union with the Son, that they ſhould dwell in that Nature; which right is not to be found in us to our Union. And this right is of that Manhood, founded upon a double account;

1. For elſe the Man who is now one and the ſame Perſon with the ſecond Perſon, ſhould be deprived of a Perſonal Priviledg, appertaining neceſſarily to him; which is to participate in the moſt near and intimate Communion with thoſe other two Perſons, Father, and Spirit; into Fellowſhip with whom he is now ſo highly admitted, unto the utmoſt, that as a Man ſo united he is capable of. And therefore as of theſe three Perſons it is ſaid to be, (conſidered as they are Perſons) that the Father is in the Son, and the Son in the Father; ſo this Priviledg muſt of right deſcend unto the Man, to enjoy the moſt intimate in-dwelling of them in Himſelf, which a Creature now made a Perſon with them, can be capable of: And ſurely above what all other Creatures have a fitneſs, or right to receive. Yea,

2. The Divine Perſon of the Son would be diſhonoured, if they did not ſo dwell in this Human Nature, according to his utmoſt receptivity of having them to dwell in him: it is the natural Efflux, or overflow of their dwelling in the Perſon of the Son, ſimply conſidered, that breaks forth into an Union with the Man; that when the Man is united once, they having their Divine In-being in that ſecond Perſon, (which is eſſentially;) ſhould break forth into an In-dwelling, and Poſſeſſion of that Man-hood: (And God forbid I ſhould make any compariſon at all, between the In-dwelling of them in us we ſpeak of, and That their In-dwelling in Chriſt's Human Nature, in theſe reſpects, thus ſtated;) But as for that other reſpect, the kind of it, mentioned therein, the likeneſs and ſimilitude may and doth hold; (the infinitely diſtant Proportions for Degrees, &c. being obſerved:) And we are as capable to have the Perſon of the Spirit to dwell in us for the kind of In-dwelling, as the Human Nature of Chriſt is: But our right to the Spirits In-dwelling in us, is wholly derived, and but by Chriſt's right for us; and by our Relation to Chriſt, and alſo by his purchaſe of the Spirit for us; which are all ſecondary, and wholly precarious, and borrowed.

Theſe things being forelaid, as to the Points forementioned, which have been given in the Anſwer to the foregone Queries; I come to confirm them by Inſtances, from the example or ſimilitude of the Spirits dwelling in Chriſt's Humanity; to be in that kind that in us: My Aſſertion being this,

That Christ's (and so the Holy Ghost's) dwelling in us, is not only, or Primarily for, and by that his Person works such, and such Graces in us, and the actings thereof; But that his Person first gives himself, and comes into us, in order to work these Effects.

This I confirm from the similitude, or likeness of the Spirits dwelling in Christ's Human Nature.

1. I would ask, doth the Spirit dwell in the Human Nature of Christ, by his Graces, and Operations only joining himself to it? No, but the Person of the Holy-Ghost fills the whole substance of that Nature, with his own Person: that precious Ointment, the Spirit which Christ's Humanity is anointed withal, doth wholly, diffuse himself into the whole and Inwards of him; and thereby, and from thence, and therewith fills that holy One with those odours of Gifts, and Graces which he so infinitely abounds in. And as concerning us, it is in Rom. 8. 11. thus spoken of us, and of the Spirit in us; that he that raised up Christ from the dead, shall also quicken our mortal Bodies by his Spirit (or as it is in the Margent, because) his Spirit that dwelleth in us: the Holy Spirit dwells in our Bodies when dead, and in the Ground. Our Bodies are his Temples, (1 Cor. 6. 19, 20. What, know ye not that your Body is the Temple of the Holy Ghost, which is in you; which ye have of God, and ye are not your own? for ye are bought with a Price, therefore glorify God in your Body, and in your Spirit, which are Gods:) as well as our Souls, and he never ceaseth to dwell in them, after he is once come into them; as he did not withdraw from Christ's Body: and I am sure you will not say (as to what concerns us) that he dwells in the Bodies of the Saints when they are dead, by his Graces; the Soul carries them all to Heaven with it and in it; it is therefore his Person, that having once taken them into his Possession, and acted in them, keeps Possession in them until the Resurrection.

2. Another part of this likeness, between these two In-dwellings is, that look as because the Son of God the second Person dwelling first in, and possessing the Human Nature of Christ, as one Person with him; that then and thereupon the Spirit comes to dwell in that nature also; and that so it is in his In-dwelling in us, as to this respect that Christ first dwells in us, and then sends his Spirit to dwell in us; though upon another ground, and right, as was said, than that whereupon the Spirit dwells in Christ.

3. As for that Point of Christ's Divine Nature, or as he is second Person and subsisting in that Nature, his dwelling as such immediately in us; I argue thus from what hath been said, that this Divine Nature, and he as second Person, (and so the Divine Nature in him,) is as capable, and able to dwell immediately in us, as the Spirit the third Person is: whose Person many Divines acknowledg to dwell immediately in us, and in our Persons, and not by his Graces only; and then, why may not the second Person also and the Divine Nature of him? why may not that Person fill us immediately with his God-head? for as such he is a Spirit, yea that Spirit in that he is God, Joh. 4. And Spirits do, and can easily mingle; the God-head, that is a Spirit can readily join with our Souls that are Spirits, and be both in them, and through them, as Paul speaks. Satan a Spirit, can possess your Bodies, yea he doth fill the Hearts of Men oftentimes, in that intimate way and manner, which a Man is not able to do, as the Scripture speaks. Can Satan do it because he is a Spirit; and cannot Christ, and the Spirit of God much more intimately, and closely, who is God, and as he is God? And it is his Divine Nature that is termed Spirit in Christ often in Scripture, in distinction from his Humanity, which in a contradistinction is stiled his Flesh; doth his being united to that Man debar him, or hath it made him incapable of this? Surely no, for even after the day of Judgment, when it is said, that God shall be All in All; many understand it (and it cannot well be understood otherwise in its Coherence) that God, Father, Son, and Holy-Ghost, and the God-head in them All, shall in an immediate manner be All in All to the Saints for ever, and immediately dwell in us for ever. And yet the second Person shall not then lay down his being Man, no not to all Eternity; for it is in respect thereof that Christ is said in that very place to be Subject 1 Cor. 15.

to his Father for ever, and therefore continues God-Man for ever; for in reſpect thereof it is, that his Father is greater than he, and ſo that he continues ſubject to his Father: There is then no Obſtacle, that the ſecond Perſon ſubſiſting in the Divine Nature ſhould be united to us immediatly, from this his perſonal Union with the Man. And that there is a capacity, that he as ſecond Perſon may do this, may further appear, in that both Father and Spirit are now, and ſhall one day be ſo united to us, (as hath been now obſerved) tho indeed at that day, the Effect of that immediate Union, or of God's being All in All, will be an anſwerable immediate Communion and Enjoiment of Father, Son, and Spirit, which is ſuſpended in this Life, but then conſummated.

But you may ſay: Doth not this hinder? That now ſince the ſecond Perſon is united to the Human Nature, that whatever he doth, he doth only through the Humanity, and by it, and ſo unites himſelf to us only by it? Likewiſe that he unites himſelf to us as he is Mediator, and therefore as God-Man, and not ſimply as ſecond Perſon; for that were but what is common to the other two Perſons, if his Divine Nature, as ſuch, ſhould thus (as I ſeem to affirm) unite himſelf unto us? And therefore the Divine Nature unites Himſelf no otherwiſe to us, than by the Union firſt of the Human Nature with us, and not immediatly his Divine Nature, or as ſecond Perſon?

For Anſwer unto which I give theſe following Cautions and Explanations.

1 Caution: This foregoing Aſſertion of mine is not to be underſtood, as if the ſecond Perſon did perform this Act of Union of Himſelf with us, ſingly conſidered, as ſecond Perſon ſeparate from the Human, or without all conſideration or relation had to the Human Nature, either of his actual Union with it, which hath been from his Incarnation, or of God's Ordination, he ſhould be Man, and his own Undertaking ſo to be, which was before his Incarnation.

No: But firſt, I affirm, that unleſs the ſecond Perſon had been actually united to the human Nature, as now he is; and withall, unleſs he had been ordered by God ſo to be, he had not united himſelf unto any of us Men, neither before his Incarnation, nor ſince.

Hence, ſecondly, When I ſay, the ſecond Perſon ſubſiſting in the Divine Nature doth immediatly unite himſelf to us, I mean not by that Immediatneſs, that the ſecond Perſon, conſidered as ſeparate from, or without all conſideration of his Union with the Human Nature, doth, or ſhould have ever come to dwell in us; but by Immediatneſs I underſtand it, immediate putting forth of an Act of uniting his Divine Nature unto us: So that tho the Union of the Divine and Human Nature, be either in actual Aſſumption, or God's Ordination, as before the Aſſumption, the neceſſary Prerequiſite unto the Divine Nature's actual Union with us, and in the virtue of which, as neceſſarily preſuppoſed, it always comes to paſs, that the Divine Nature of the ſecond Perſon is united unto any, either under the Old Teſtament or the New; yet that Human Nature is not, nor was not the Medium, or Organ, much leſs the ſole Way or Means by which the Divine Nature is united unto us, but it is his own immediate exering that Act: Not to be underſtood as to this ſence, that the Human Nature in Chriſt were the only immediate Uniter, by which alone the Divine comes to be one with us, and ſo it ſelf to be but mediatly united; as the Soul in the Body takes hold of a thing by the hand only, immediatly, but it ſelf doth not ſo much as touch it immediatly. It is one thing for one to do a thing by reaſon of another, and another to do it by the means and intervention of anothers doing it, or as by the ſole immediate Act of another. As the Soul doth many rational Acts immediatly it ſelf, whilſt it is in the Body, and by reaſon of its dwelling in the Body, or to the Things and Perſons in the World it hath to do with, by reaſon of its being in the Body, and not otherwiſe, (which if ſingle and ſeparate it would not do) wherein yet it uſeth not the Body, as by which it doth them. One may do a thing himſelf immediatly, and yet upon the virtual intuition or conſideration of ſome other Thing or Perſon he is joined with, which have the influence of a moral Cauſe: But to do a thing by another, as the neceſſary Organ, or phyſical Cauſe, as when a Man's hand cannot immediatly cut, but by the intervention of a Knife or Sword. Here,

3. I utterly deny, that the Divine Nature in Chriſt ſhould work an Act of Mediation in us, and for us, but by the phyſical Virtue or Inſtrumentality of the Human Nature, and particularly this of Union with us, for which to me there is this evidence: The Saints of the Old Teſtament were united to Chriſt as their Head, as truly as we; but it could not then be by the phyſical Virtue put forth by the human Inſtrumentality of ſuch a kind: for that Nature was not in reſpect of phyſical exiſtence extant, who then muſt be the immediate Uniter, by his own Vis or Power exerted in it; and it is certain, ſuch a Power muſt have been exerciſed in it: Who but the ſecond Perſon ſubſiſting then in the Divine Nature, or if you will, the Divine Nature ſubſiſting in the Perſon; and it could be no other, that either ſhe who was extant then muſt himſelf immediatly do it; or there was no immediate Union of Chriſt at all to any Saint, under that Diſpenſation. And this may well ſtand with what was ſaid in the ſecond Caution, That the virtual conſideration of the Human Nature to be one day united, and in the virtual intuition thereof, this Union with the Saints was then made as well as now; yet it was not ſo, as that any Vis, or phyſical Virtue of that Nature, could be inſtrumental, as by which it might be ſaid, that the Divine Nature did it by the Hnman; the Divine Nature of the ſecond Perſon, that was the immediate Cauſe of it. A Man doth a thing in the virtue of a Law, or Order of State, but yet himſelf doth the Act immediatly: So the ſecond Perſon, that then acted in the virtue of God's Ordination of the Manhood, and his own undertaking that he ſhould be Man, and ſuſtaining that Perſon. And ſurely if he did thus unite himſelf before, he may do it now the Humanity is aſſumed; for (beſides the former Reaſons, which will reach to prove this) otherwiſe the Saints of the Old Teſtament ſhould have an higher Union, and ſo a greater Privilege thereby, than we now under the New have: For their Uuion was the immediate Act of the Divine Nature, and the Godhead in the ſecond Perſon dwelt immediatly in them then, which now dwells in us but mediately, by our Union with the Human Nature, and the Divine Nature dwells but ſecondarily in us; it might have been ſaid of them, that they were Partakers of the Divine Nature in ſuch a manner as we are not. Hence,

4. Altho the ſecond Perſon, as he is God, be immediately united, yet the Ground of this Union is ſuch, as is proper and peculiar to him, as he is God-Man: As it may not be alledged as an Abſurdity upon this my Aſſertion, That if the ſecond Perſon ſo dwell, as God, in us, that then upon the ſame account the other two Perſons may be ſaid to dwell in us too, for they are God as well as he: Thus the Papiſts urge.

But for Anſwer, the Fallacy lies in this, That tho his Union with us be as he is God, as the Subject of this Indwelling, yet for the Ground of that his uniting himſelf, as God, to us, it is not as God ſimply conſidered, but as dwelling, or ordained to dwell in our Nature perſonally, which Additional empower'd him for that Union; but this additional Ground is wanting in the other two Perſons: And altho the Perſons of them dwell in us, ſubjectively conſidered, as they are God, as well as he; yet they take of his, for the ground of that their dwelling in us, they borrow that from him. It is certain, that had not the Divine Perſon in Chriſt had perſonal Union with that Man Jeſus, that neither God the Father, nor the Spirit had ever come to dwell in us, nor the ſecond Perſon himſelf neither; 'tis in the virtue of this, that they all dwell in us. And ſo this my Aſſertion, as it introduceth not a Ground common unto the other two Perſons with him, the ſecond Perſon, and ſole Mediator, but borrows (as it were) the Ground of their Indwelling from him, and that of his; ſo it may be improved to prove, that he as God is the Ground, yea, the ſole Means of our Union with the Deity, and ſo may well be allowed, in the application of, or effecting this Union in us, to be the firſt Indweller himſelf, and firſt to unite himſelf unto us: And thereby is it, that the other Perſons come and make their habitation with us; that Father, Son, and Holy-Ghoſt come, and make their abode with us, as Chriſt ſays.

But ſecondly, it may be added that his Union with the Human Nature was not only the Ground of that of the other two Perſons dwelling in us and his own, which is an Honour proper to him, But further, that there is ſome ſpecial peculiarity in the Union it ſelf which he hath with us, that is not found in the Union of the other two Perſons with us; for he unites himſelf to us as our Huſband, and ſo in an appropriate way the Relation of Huſband ſpeaks Union, as the ſpecial Fruit of it, or indeed in which it conſiſts, and diſtinguiſhes the Perſon of him, that is ſo, from all others. Now that Relation as Zanchy obſerves, is properly Chriſt's, and ſo, as not the Fathers nor the Spirits; It was the Voice of the Son before the Human Nature aſſumed, Hoſ. 2. 19, 20. I will betroth thee unto me for ever, yea I will betroth thee unto me in Righteouſneſs, and in Judgment, and in Loving Kindneſs, and in Mercies. I will even betroth thee unto me in Faithfulneſs, and thou ſhalt know the Lord. And he is the Lord there utters it, whom they ſhould know, as a Wife her Huſband; there muſt be ſome further ſpecially eminent thing in our Union with Chriſt as our Huſband, that is not in our Union with the other two; for as the Relation of Union is, ſuch muſt the Union it ſelf be.

is

Hæc fuit vox filii ante carnem aſſumptam ad ſuam Eccleſiam. Zanchius de ſpirituali conjugio.

3. That it is by virtue of his being our Mediator in both Natures, that his Divine Nature cometh to dwell immediately in us, and all the whole virtue be fundamentally in him as he is God, and ſecond Perſon, and that is the virtue of drawing us into Union with himſelf; as it is the Load-ſtone it ſelf, that draws the Iron, yet it exerts this more efficaciouſly, when ſet in Steel, yet ſtill ſo, as each Nature works in every Mediatory Act proper to each Nature; hence the Divine Nature in the ſecond Perſon dwells in us as he is God. The Man Jeſus dwells in us according to his Capacity, as he is Man, yet both joining ſtill ſo to do according to their hability proper to each.

Theſe things have been concerning our Union with Chriſt, but the main thing Fourthly, is Chriſt's dwelling in our Hearts by Faith; let there be an Union of Chriſt in us, as hath been ſpoken before, yet you will ſay, what is all this to his dwelling in us by Faith? why do you make this Query? Why his dwelling by Faith in us, is only on our parts, whereas now his Perſon dwelling in us, as hath been diſcourſed, that as his dwelling in us is on his part; and the Apoſtle doth not pray here that Jeſus Chriſt's Perſon might dwell in our Perſons, but that we acting Faith upon him on all occaſions (and we have all occaſion ſo to do) he might thereby manifeſt himſelf in our Hearts; Chriſt dwelling in us by Faith is not the dwelling of his Perſon in our Perſons; for he takes hold of us before we believe, and works Faith in us, but it is when our Faith hath taken hold of him. He dwells in us by the continual acting of our Faith upon him; and this is after our Converſion.

My Brethren, There is a three-fold Union with Chriſt; The Firſt is Relative: whereby we are ſaid to be His, and He ours: As you know he is called our Huſband, and the Church is called his Wife; and before Huſband and Wife company together there is ſuch a Relation made by Marriage; and the Huſband may be in one place, and the Wife in another, ſo that there can be no communion between them, and yet be Man, and Wife. So is the Union between Chriſt and you as compleat in the Relation, before he act any thing upon you (though he be in Heaven, and you on Earth) as if you were in Heaven with him. The ſecond is an actual In-being of his Perſon: which is as the Soul dwells in the Body. The third is Objectivè: by way of Object: when by Faith we view Chriſt, as the Faculty doth view an Object; as the ſight of a Perſon doth let down the Idea of him into the Heart of another: Chriſt as the Object of Faith is ſaid to dwell, and to dwell in us ſo far as we act Faith towards him; this is that the Apoſtle prays for. He prays not that his Perſon may dwell in them, but that he might dwell in them by Faith. Brethren, to explain this to you, what is it for Chriſt to dwell by Faith: I ſhall give you theſe Aſſertions to explain it.

1. Aſſertion; it is an operative dwelling: the Perſon of Chriſt may be in us, and is in us when Faith doth not operate, and work in us; there may be that real In-being: As when a Man is in a Swoon, his Soul is in him: and when the Arm is out of Joint, it is ſtill united to the Body, and the Head, but it cannot operate; which is the caſe of Men when they fall into preſumptuous Sins. For Chriſt to dwell in us by Faith, is that there may be a continual eying of Chriſt, and acting on Chriſt by us, as an Object who hath virtue to convey into us, and to come in upon our Hearts, and work upon our Souls; that is the firſt; for Chriſt to dwell in our Hearts by Faith, is by operation, and working, whereof Faith is the Inſtrument.

to

2. Aſſertion; That the Perſon of Chriſt dwelling in us, there are thouſands of Operations and Influences of Chriſt's Perſon in us, whereto our Faith contributes nothing: Chriſt's working in us is not to be limited to that, it were ill for us if it were ſo. Jeſus Chriſt works a thouſand, and a thouſand Operations in our Souls, to which our Faith concurs nothing; it were ill for us if Chriſt did work no more in us, than we have Faith for; our Faith is too narrow to limit and bound his Operations by. I will give you an Inſtance: there were two Diſciples went to Emmaus, but they knew not that Chriſt talked with them, yet ſaid they he warmed our Hearts; and yet they did not believe nor act Faith upon him. Chriſt dwells in us, and works in us when we act not, and know not our Union, nor that it is he that works. But ſaith the Apoſtle, I pray that Chriſt may do nothing, but that your Faith might go along with him in it. Oh that were bleſſed and glorious indeed: that Chriſt ſhould do every thing in you, and for you through your believing, and exerciſing your Faith on him for it; and ſo that through your Faith on Chriſt all might be derived unto you: and that the whole management of the Diſpenſations of God towards you might be by Faith; and that we might attain the higheſt In-dwellings, and Operations in us through Faith.

3. Aſſertion; That when the Apoſtle prays, that Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith, it is not only by Faith as juſtifying, but all ſorts of ways whatſoever, whereby we are to exerciſe Faith upon Chriſt, and that through all ways whatſoever; and that thereby Chriſt might ſtill take their Hearts, and dwell in their Hearts, be the occaſion what it will be; whatſoever it be in Chriſt that is conſidered and eyed by them. My Brethren, Jeſus Chriſt (whole Chriſt) contains a wonderful deal more than as the object of your Faith juſtifying; Jeſus Chriſt is a mighty large thing for your Faith, and your Thoughts to work upon. All that you know of his Perſon, all that you know he hath done, and will do; all theſe are matter for the exerciſe of your Faith on Chriſt. Jeſus Chriſt ſerves for infinite other things than to juſtify us, and Faith ſerves for infinite other things than to juſtify us; yet this I muſt add, that no Man can act Faith upon Chriſt heartily, ſpiritually, or effectually, for other things, that hath not firſt acted Faith upon Chriſt for Juſtification; if a Man have not acted Faith for his Juſtification on Chriſt, he will have no Heart to go to him for Sanctification, Deliverance, Freedom from Wrath, Hell, and other things: No, according as we act on him for Juſtification, we ſhall act on him for other things; but all I drive at here, is to ſhew that Faith is acted on Chriſt for other things beſide Juſtification. Gal. 2. 19. I am dead to the Law, ſaith the Apoſtle, that I might live unto God; to live to God is the whole Life of a Chriſtian, and not only to live the Life of Juſtification; and then he adds, v. 20. I am crucified with Chiſt; nevertheleſs, I live: yet not I, but but Chriſt liveth in me; and the Life which I now live in the Fleſh is by the Faith of the Son of God. Hence I gather that Chriſt's living in him, extends not to Juſtification only, but to the whole Life of a Chriſtian; he adds alſo that Chriſt's living in him is by Faith, and that the whole courſe of his Life in this World is by Faith: So that this I gather as a ſtrong Argument, that all the Life of the Apoſtle to God, every manner of way, whether Natural, or Spiritual, it was by Faith on Chriſt.

My Brethren, take the whole of Jeſus Chriſt, whatſoever you can know of him, or learn of him, for you to act Faith upon him, to view him as ſuch; thereby Jeſus Chriſt is let down into your Souls dwelling in you; making Impreſſions upon your Souls according to what you know of him; and he doth accordingly work in you diſpoſitions to him, adorations of him, according as you know him; ſo he works alſo in you Affections to him, and all holy Impreſſions whatſoever: ſo he works in you according as you act Faith on him, or think of him in any conſideration whatſoever; whether in his Death, or Reſurrection, or any other Conſideration.

Brethren, Set your Hearts to think on Chriſt as dying for your Sins, and ſee what diſpoſitions of Heart this works in your Souls unto Chriſt; and ſo go over other conſiderations of Chriſt; inure your Hearts thus to think of Chriſt, and join Prayer to God to work with you, and you will find that going from one thing to another, all of Chriſt will affect your Heart; and Jeſus Chriſt hereby works upon you, applieth himſelf to you, ſupplies you, and changeth your Heart into his Likeneſs and Image.

Grace in us ſhould be ſo wrought in us to ſuch a height, as that nothing but the Image of Chriſt ſhould be in the actings of our Hearts; and that there ſhould be in us diſpoſitions ſuitable to every thing we know and believe of Chriſt, that ſo Chriſt (thus in his Image) may indeed dwell in your Hearts by Faith; for the Image of Chriſt in you is called Chriſt: and I might give you Scriptures for it.

Act Faith on Chriſt as dying for you, and you ſhall ſee that it will make a Luſt to ſhrink and die in you; as one ſaid of a Luſt at a Sacrament, that when he acted Faith on Chriſt as dying, his Luſt ſhrunk and ſculk'd preſently; ſo it would be with us: and indeed we need no other Religion but this, to act Faith upon Chriſt conſtantly, and then we ſhould find all this in us; though we are apt to be diſcouraged that we find it not preſently.

The

The Second

SERMON

On EPHES. 3. 16, 17, 18, 19, 20. 21.

16. That he would grant you according to the Riches of his Glory, to be ſtrengthned with Might by his Spirit in the inner Man.
17. That Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith, that ye being rooted and grounded in Love,
18. May be able to comprehend with all Saints, what is the Breadth, and Length, and Depth, and Height:
19. And to know the Love of Chriſt, which paſſeth knowledg, that ye might be filled with all the Fulneſs of God.
20. Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the Power that worketh in us,
21. Unto him be Glory in the Church, by Chriſt Jeſus, throughout all Ages, World without end, Amen.

IT is a Prayer of the Apoſtle Paul, according to the elevation of his own Experience, which he wiſheth and prayeth that all Saints may be brought unto; That with all Saints you may be able to comprehend, what is the Length, and Breadth, &c. There are ſeveral Petitions, and you need ſeek no Connection of them one with another, as you do not in the Lord's Prayer; they are as Pearls upon a String.

The Apoſtle doth involve and inwrap into this Prayer here, the principal Intereſts and Efficacies of all three Perſons, and what they do for us after our Converſion. Here is the Spirit, and what he is principally to do for us, To ſtrengthen us in the inner Man with Might by his Spirit: Here is what more perly concerns Jeſus Chriſt to do for us; it is, That Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith: Here is what concerns the Father, That you may be rooted and grounded in Love, in his Love, and may be able to comprehend with all Saints, what is the Breadth, and Length, and Depth, and Height: I underſtand theſe Words to belong to the Father, becauſe it follows; but here might know the Love of Chriſt. And there is the height of all. and Holy-Ghoſt: That you may be filled with all the Fulneſs which is in God. That is the firſt Obſervation, It Perſons.

I put it in, It is what they do for us after Conver Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith, he doth converted, but he ſuppoſeth an inner Man; it Chriſt after dwelling in us, it is what is done for Men ſuppoſed already converted; he already Saints. So as this thing concerns

The third is, He prays for ſuch th Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by doth not ſo dwell here in our H all Doubts and Diffidences of ſ the Soul juſti- through the Word here in John, and ; that is, You are now, y Faith, you are regene- hat I have ſpoken to you: n me, and I to dwell in you, us made clean, that is the next s a twofold Union with Chriſt, and ereby he takes upon him the relation of being all ſorts of ways, which the Relations of Uni- is fully and compleatly done, when firſt we are turned other conſiderations of Chriſt; inure your Hearts thus to think of Chriſt, and join Prayer to God to work with you, and you will find that going from one thing to another, all of Chriſt will affect your Heart; and Jeſus Chriſt hereby works upon you, applieth himſelf to you, ſupplies you, and changeth your Heart into his Likeneſs and Image.

Grace in us ſhould be ſo wrought in us to ſuch a height, as that nothing but the Image of Chriſt ſhould be in the actings of our Hearts; and that there ſhould be in us diſpoſitions ſuitable to every thing we know and believe of Chriſt, that ſo Chriſt (thus in his Image) may indeed dwell in your Hearts by Faith; for the Image of Chriſt in you is called Chriſt: and I might give you Scriptures for it.

Act Faith on Chriſt as dying for you, and you ſhall ſee that it will make a Luſt to ſhrink and die in you; as one ſaid of a Luſt at a Sacrament, that when he acted Faith on Chriſt as dying, his Luſt ſhrunk and ſculk'd preſently; ſo it would be with us: and indeed we need no other Religion but this, to act Faith upon Chriſt conſtantly, and then we ſhould find all this in us; though we are apt to be diſcouraged that we find it not preſently.

The

The Second

SERMON

On EPHES. 3. 16, 17, 18, 19, 20. 21.

16. That he would grant you according to the Riches of his Glory, to be ſtrengthned with Might by his Spirit in the inner Man.
17. That Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith, that ye being rooted and grounded in Love,
18. May be able to comprehend with all Saints, what is the Breadth, and Length, and Depth, and Height:
19. And to know the Love of Chriſt, which paſſeth knowledg, that ye might be filled with all the Fulneſs of God.
20. Now unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the Power that worketh in us,
21. Unto him be Glory in the Church, by Chriſt Jeſus, throughout all Ages, World without end, Amen.

IT is a Prayer of the Apoſtle Paul, according to the elevation of his own Experience, which he wiſheth and prayeth that all Saints may be brought unto, That with all Saints you may be able to comprehend, what is the Length, and Breadth, &c. There are ſeveral Petitions, and you need ſeek no Connection of them one with another, as you do not in the Lord's Prayer; they are as Pearls upon a String.

The Apoſtle doth involve and inwrap into this Prayer here, the principal Intereſts and Efficacies of all three Perſons, and what they do for us after our Converſion. Here is the Spirit, and what he is principally to do for us, v.16. To ſtrengthen us in the inner Man with Might by his Spirit: Here is what more properly concerns Jeſus Chriſt to do for us; it is, That Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith: Here is what concerns the Father, That you may be rooted and grounded in Love, in his Love, and may be able to comprehend with all Saints, the Height, &c. I underſtand theſe Words to belong to the Father, becauſe it follows, That ye might know the Love of Chriſt. And there is the height of all, the Father, Son, and Holy-Ghoſt: That you may be filled with all the Fulneſs of God, and that which is in God. That is the firſt Obſervation, It comprehends all three Perſons.

I put it in, It is what they do for us after Converſion; for when he ſays, That Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith, he doth not mean, that you are to be converted, but he ſuppoſeth an inner Man; it is not the Union with Chriſt, but Chriſt after dwelling in us, it is what is done for us after Converſion: He prays for Men ſuppoſed already converted; he prays for them, and all Saints, who are already Saints. So as this thing concerns Men converted already.

The third is, He prays for ſuch things as are attainable in this Life, why? That Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith. Faith is not in the other Life, Chriſt doth not ſo dwell here in our Hearts, neither are we ſo rooted in Love, againſt all Doubts and Diffidences of the Love of God towards us: And this that is the laſt, to be filled with all the Fulneſs of God; there is a Forerunner of what is in Heaven, in the Hearts of Believers here.

Fourthly, Obſerve, That they are the higheſt things attainable by Chriſtians. Paul prays here according to the utmoſt latitude he would have Chriſtians attain unto, when he prays here, That they may comprehend with all Saints, the Height, &c. His meaning is not, that all Saints did attain it, but he prays that they may attain it, to enjoy all the Fulneſs of God the Father, Son, and Holy-Ghoſt. It is the higheſt thing in Heaven, when God ſhall be All in All; it is a thing beyond the Love of God, and the Love of Chriſt, it comes after all; it is the higheſt thing he prays for, yet attainable. And becauſe it is the higheſt he could ask, therefore it is he concludes his Prayer thus: Now unto Him that is able to do exceeding abundantly, above all that we are able to ask or think, according to the Power, &c. The meaning I take to be this: He here asks ſuch high things for you, as are beyond the thoughts, the ordinary thoughts of Chriſtians; he doth not intend to ask Heaven now, but to ask what is in this World to be given, and they are ſo great things, as you need go to a God, that is able to do above what you are able to ask or think, in the abundancy of his Grace; above all you are able to think, by what experiences you yet have had, and ordinarily have attained unto: It is as if he had ſaid, There are things attainable comprehended in what I have prayed for, beyond what you think, and beyond what I have asked, and yet they are attainable.

Fifthly; They are attainable by all Saints, tho not attained: Therefore he prays, That they may comprehend with all Saints; not that they do, but that they may: and therefore they are attainable.

The Uſe of theſe Animadverſions or Obſervations.

Firſt; It is matter of Comfort. Moſt Saints will ſay, I have not the experience of theſe things in that height he ſpeaks of; but thou mayeſt be a Saint notwithſtanding.

Secondly; Another is an Uſe of Provocation, that we would ſet our ſelves to ſeek God for theſe things. In reſpect of ſpiritual Attainments that we ne're thought of, we content our ſelves, and think it a great matter to be in the ſtate of Grace, and to have an Intereſt in Chriſt; but be not ſo content, but ask for things that are above what you are able to ask or think: ſo doth the Apoſtle here. I have done with the General.

I come to the ſecond Petition, v. 17. That Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith. This I would open as my preſent Task and Work; I ſhall do it by degrees, attend from one ſtep to another.

There may be theſe Queſtions made upon it.

Queſt. 1. Why doth (he mentions the three Perſons, as you heard) why doth he not ſay, That the Spirit may dwell in you by Faith? That God the Father may dwell in you by Faith? He aſcribes that as more proper to the Spirit, That he ſtrengthens them in the inner Man; but when he comes to Chriſt's part, That Chriſt may dwell in your Hearts by Faith: Why is Faith and Chriſt thus coupled?

The Anſwer is eaſy: It is becauſe Chriſt is appointed between us and the Father, as the Means by whom and through whom he conveys all to us, and that through Faith: Rom. 3. 24, 25. Whom God hath ſet forth to be a Propitiation through Faith in his Blood, &c. He hath ſet him forth, and there he is for you to exerciſe your Faith upon. As he hath ordained Jeſus Chriſt to be the great Medium or Means betwixt us and himſelf; ſo he hath ordained Faith, as the principal Inſtrument in us to treat with Chriſt. Look in Acts 20. 21. To preach Repentance towards God, and Faith towards our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. You ſee, that Converſion Converſion, or turning the Soul, that is attributed to God, to him as the Object of it eſpecially; but Faith is pointed to Jeſus Chriſt: Repentance towards God, and Faith towards our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

I will not enlarge further upon this, than thus: Brethren, when the Soul turns to God, the orderly Method is, That it ſhould go to Jeſus Chriſt, immediatly and firſt to him, and through him to God, and in him to God, for Pardon, and all elſe: John 14. 6. No Man comes to the Father, but by me, (they are places well enough known to you) therefore in John 6. 45. They ſhall be all taught of God to come to me, ſays our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. The Father, when he means to ſave a Soul, he directs that Soul to his Son; the Soul comes humbly before God the Father, and God the Father ſays, Go to my Son; he ſecretly teacheth the Soul: No Man can come unto me, except the Father which hath ſent me draw him: It is written in the Prophets, they ſhall be all taught of God: Every one therefore, that hath heard and learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

Brethren, It is certain, that of all things elſe, we in our own natural diſpoſitions are moſt remote in going to Chriſt: We go to the Father, and to God, that all Nations do by a natural inſtinct; they have in their Hearts ſome knowledg of a God, and will run to their own Performances, and they will turn to God, and leave their Sins, and ſet up Duties that God requires, which they have omitted, but ſtill they will not go to Chriſt, till the Father put an inſtinct into them. Why did the Beaſts go into the Ark? God put an inſtinct into them, that they ſhould go by couples; ſo God puts an inſtinct into the Soul to go to Chriſt: and hence, He that hath learned and heard of the Father, comes to me, ſays he. And therefore Faith and Chriſt are coupled, as you ſee, and yoaked in this place. And when the Soul hath come to Chriſt, by obſerving and ſeeing, as Joſeph's Brethren did the Countenance of Joſeph, what his Countenance is, what his Entertainment is, how he looks upon them: 2 Cor. 4. 6. Therein we ſee the Glory of God, in the Face of Jeſus Chriſt.

That is the Anſwer to the firſt Queſtion, Why Faith and Chriſt are thus coupled together in a more immediate conjunction, that when he would pray, that he ſay, That Chriſt may dwell in the Heart by Faith?

Another Queſtion is, How Chriſt is ſaid to dwell by Faith, and how the Holy-Ghoſt is ſaid to dwell?

But a ſecond thing I would ſpeak to, is this: What is this ſame dwelling in Chriſt by Faith, and the Extent of it?

Truly, Brethren, I ſhall anſwer it at laſt more fully: In the mean time, it is not juſtifying Faith only, when we hear of Chriſt and Faith, preſently we think it is putting forth an Act of juſtifying Faith: No, Brethren, it is not ſo here, Chriſt doth not dwell in us only (nor moſt properly) by Faith juſtifying. It is called juſtifying Faith, becauſe it juſtifies; but this is a dwelling, Chriſt dwelling: Chriſt juſtifying us, is but one Act, or one Benefit, which he beſtows; but here is a dwelling, and this extends further. The Apoſtle ſuppoſeth the Soul juſtified, but that he may dwell: John 15. 3, 4. Now are ye clean, through the Word that I have ſpoken to you: Abide in me, and I in you. Abiding here in John, and Chriſt dwelling, in Paul, are all one: Says he, You are clean, that is, You are now, through my Grace and Spirit put upon you, purified by Faith, you are regenerated, and it hath been wrought much by my Word that I have ſpoken to you: what remains? All the reſt of your Lives to dwell in me, and I to dwell in you, Abide in me, and I in you. Now that you are thus made clean, that is the next thing you are called upon to do.

My Brethren, you muſt know there is a twofold Union with Chriſt, and Chriſt with us.

1. A Relative Union, that is, whereby he takes upon him the relation of being a Huſband, and to be one with us all ſorts of ways, which the Relations of Unity do expreſs. And this Union is fully and compleatly done, when firſt we are turned turned to God, and when Chriſt firſt takes us, as ever it ſhall be. Your Relation doth not increaſe, it hath not degrees; your Union with Chriſt, that he is one with you, and you with him, in reſpect of the relation to him, is compleat. As in Marriage, you know that Perſons, before they come to communion one with the other, are as much Man aud Wife as ever they ſhall be, for the relation; but then he takes her home to his own Houſe, and dwells with her, forſakes Father and Mother, and cleaves to his Wife, and, as the Apoſtle Peter ſays, they dwell together: Juſt ſo it is here, the relative Union, whereby Chriſt is one with us, and we with him, (as Man and Wife) as all Relations elſe that ſpeak Oneneſs, is full and compleat at firſt; when you are in Heaven, you are not more in Chriſt, than when firſt turned.

But after he hath taken you, there is both a ſubſtantial Union, and a communicative Union, which is expreſſed here by In-dwelling, whereby he communicates to you all thoſe things, which the relative Union ſerves for. A Man is married but once, but they do communicate one with the other all their Lives, dwelling together, being Helps one to the other, being one Fleſh, &c. This gives ſome light to John 17. 22, 23. The Glory thou gaveſt me I have given them, that they may be perfect in one: Perfect in one! not till they are in Glory. So then, the Communication of Holineſs, and the Communication of Glory, are but ſtill conſummating that Union which the Relation firſt brought in. So then, you may underſtand, what it is for Chriſt to dwell in the Heart: Take the firſt, it is for him to communicate all good things, that the Father hath appointed him to beſtow upon us; but then, ſecondly, it imports, that we receive them by Faith, and by Faith fetch them from him. This is the Ground why it is called an Indwelling, and what is meant by it.

The next Queſtion will be, What Faith is towards Chriſt, by which he dwells in us, as the Apoſtle here prays?

Brethren, It is not Faith juſtifying only, I do not find that Chriſt is ſaid to dwell in us by that, (tho it is part of it) but it is that Faith wherewith we any way deal with Chriſt, for any thing whatſoever. Faith in Chriſt is not only Faith juſtifying; Faith hath to do with Chriſt for a Multitude of things to be communicated to the Soul, beſides Juſtification. I uſe to ſay, there are three things adequate one to the other: There is God the Father's Grace beſtowing, Jeſus Chriſt's Redemption meriting and beſtowing, and there is Faith in us to apprehend and apply all theſe. Theſe three are adequate, that is to ſay, of like extent in the ſubordination of the one to the other. For example: All that was in God's Heart to beſtow, all Grace, of what kind ſoever, that Jeſus Chriſt was made the Inſtrument of purchaſing; there is not any thing which God the Father means to beſtow, but God the Son hath purchaſed it, and ſerves God and his Purpoſes in beſtowing it upon us: So as there is not that thing in the Heart of God to be given to us, but Jeſus Chriſt anſwerably procures it, and endows us with it. So that Chriſt is adequate to all God's Purpoſes whatſoever. Then come we to our ſelves: There is a little Principle called Faith, which goes out of it ſelf both unto God and unto Chriſt; and (mark what I ſay) all that ever Jeſus Chriſt purchaſed, and that Jeſus Chriſt ſhall beſtow on us, Faith is the Inſtrument that ſhall receive it, and go to Chriſt for it. There is not that thing in the Heart of God, but Chriſt hath purchaſed; there is not that thing Chriſt hath purchaſed, and means to beſtow, but Faith is the Inſtrument to apprehend and apply it. Now Juſtification is but one piece, but there are many things, I know not how many things elſe, which Chriſt hath to beſtow upon us beſides juſtifying us; and we have a Principle, namely, Faith in us, that ſerves not only for juſtifying, but ſanctifying, for Strength, Obedience, every thing. Hence then, it is not only Faith juſtifying, but Faith upon Chriſt all ſorts of ways; Faith anſwers to the whole of Chriſt, and it is not only Faith juſtifying, but Faith in the whole extent of it, wherein we do receive, or may receive any thing from Chriſt, and thereby he dwells.

The next Queſtion is, What it is to have Chriſt thus dwell in the Heart by Faith.

Suppoſing Faith taken in this large Sence, I ſhall anſwer two ways.

1. By the reality of the thing.
2. By the Metaphor of Dwelling.

Firſt, By the reality of the thing; Take it as the Apoſtle prays for it, and he prays for the higheſt: It is to have a Spiritual Sight and Knowledg of Chriſt, which makes him preſent to the Soul, whole Chriſt, and eſpecially his Perſon, and with him all that we know of him, or hear of him, as occaſion is to make uſe of it; which Sight and Knowledg doth withal let Chriſt down into the Heart, and affects all there, takes poſſeſſion of the Heart, and doth this in a Conſtancy; this, as Paul prays for it, is the In-dwelling of Chriſt by Faith: I ſhall ſpeak to every one of theſe.

Firſt, It is to have Jeſus Chriſt continually in ones Eye, an habitual ſight of him. I call it ſo, becauſe a Man actually thinks not always of Chriſt; but as a Man doth not look up to the Sun continually, yet he ſees the Light of it: So here Faith, in Joh. 6.40. is called the ſeeing of Chriſt, Every one that ſeeth the Son, and believeth on him. And our Lord and Saviour Chriſt, ſpeaking of himſelf, ſays, Pſal. 16. I have ſet the Lord always before me: So therein ye ſhould carry along, and bear along in our Eye the Sight and Knowledg of Chriſt, ſo as ſtill there is at leaſt a preſence of him accompanies you which Faith makes.

Secondly, It is a Spiritual ſight of him, it is to know him as the truth is in Jeſus, really, that makes Faith to differ from all the Faith that is in the World.

Thirdly, It is whole Chriſt to dwell, and the whole of him, to dwell in you by Faith, 'tis Chriſt in the Text, not Chriſt as juſtifying or dying only, but the whole of him; for there is that in Faith that is capable to take in the whole of him, and for him to affect the Heart accordingly. There is a Parallel Scripture to this, Gal. 1. 16. When it pleaſed God to reveal his Son to me: For Chriſt the Son to reveal himſelf to a Man, it is for the whole of himſelf to dwell in the Heart by Faith. It is not only revealing Chriſt to me, but it is revealing Chriſt in me. Oh it hath been a vain and wicked Imagination, that every Man hath a Chriſt within him, only it is not revealed, and the work of Salvation is but revealing what is in the Heart already: whereas for Chriſt to be revealed in us, is for Chriſt to be ſo revealed, as to be in the midſt of us, and for Jeſus Chriſt to dwell in the Heart continually, receiving in abundance of him, and to have the Image and Repreſentation of all he is, and that I know by him in my Heart, and it is whole Chriſt, not one piece of Chriſt, Brethren, the whole of Chriſt, and not one piece of him only, all his words, and all his Speeches, is Chriſt dwelling in you by Faith; you receive all them, it is whole Chriſt.

Fourthly, It is all of Chriſt, all about him. You read of a great many things of Chriſt, of his Dying, Riſing, how he walk'd, what he is to his People, in his Relations, in his Dealings; If Faith hath Chriſt preſent with the Soul, and knows but any one thing, more and more of Chriſt, thereby is Chriſt ſaid to dwell in the Soul, by letting him into the Soul, and into the Heart, and affecting the Heart with him. Saith the Apoſtle, Gal. 4.19. I am in travail with you till Chriſt be formed in you. He ſpeaks it, of the point of Juſtification. Chriſt juſtifies by reſtoring their Faith to that again, and drawing their Hearts to ſeek it in Chriſt: this is Chriſt formed in them, for that thing to take my Heart and poſſeſs my Soul, is for Chriſt in and by that particular thing to dwell in me. John 15. If you abide in me, and my Words abide in you, &c. abiding is dwelling, Let him dwell and have a Power upon my Soul, this is for Chriſt to abide, every Beam of Chriſt, is Chriſt dwelling himſelf being preſent by Faith to the Soul.

Fifthly;

Fifthly; When Chriſt, and all of Chriſt, every Beam of him, is not only known, but takes and affects my Heart. You ſee the Heart is made the Subject of Chriſt's dwelling; it is not to dwell in the Notion, in your Brains: You have no more of Chriſt dwelling, than as your Hearts are affected. This is expreſs, 2 Cor. 3. ult. We all behold with open face the Glory of the Lord, and are changed into the ſame Imago, from Glory to Glory, by the Spirit of the Lord. Firſt, there is ſpiritual beholding; he ſpeaks of Chriſt: and of what of Chriſt? not only of his Perſon, but of all that is to be known of Chriſt. Adam's Graces had not Glory, but all of Chriſt hath. It is ſuch a beholding, as letting Chriſt and his Glory into the Soul, doth change it, turn it, leave the Impreſſions upon a Man; and this is done by the Spirit of the Lord. By the Spirit of the Lord, the Holy-Ghoſt is not meant; for he ſaid in the words before, The Lord is that Spirit: Chriſt himſelf is, and he by his force and power, when he comes into the Soul, doth change it, fill it, quicken, ſtrengthen it, and leaves Impreſſions upon it. As the Burning-Glaſs contracts all the Beams of the Sun to a point, but it is the Beams of the Sun, that ſets on fire the Cloth; ſo it is the Spirit of the Lord that fires our Hearts. Thus to know Chriſt, is to dwell in him.

Laſtly; I ſaid, in a Conſtancy; that is it Paul prays for, the very word [dwelling] imports ſo much: What! by Faith as ſleepy, idle? No, it is by Faith as acting: What! to poſſeſs him by Fits? No, to enjoy him, and to have the Heart taken with him, for ſome conſtancy. The expreſſions for dwelling in Scripture are plain: Abide in me, (ſays he) do not ſtir out of doors from me, for I dwell in you, do you abide in me, and I in you. Jeſus Chriſt is ordained to be (if we had Faith enough to keep him in our Hearts) a conſtant Dweller by Faith, and he dwells actually: We will come and make our Abode with him, ſays he, John 14. 23. By this you have explained, what it is for Chriſt to dwell in the Heart by Faith.

To give you ſome Particulars.

Firſt; Take the Perſon of Chriſt, to have a ſight of his Perſon, to have that along in the preciouſneſs of it, in the valuation of it: I have ſeen the King of Glory, ſaith Eſay: He ſpeaks it of Chriſt: To have Chriſt dying, and Chriſt riſing, and Chriſt aſcending, and not only ſo, but Chriſt himſelf. Brethren, the Intercourſe between this Indweller and our Souls, is between Perſons, thoſe that dwell in the ſame Houſe, the familiarity is between Perſons: therefore our Eyes are to him: To you he is precious, ſaith he, John 14. I will manifeſt my ſelf to him. That is one Particular.

This is attainable, nay, it is the ſtrength of the Import of Chriſt's dwelling by Faith, as you heard out of the 16*th* Pſalm, I will always ſet the Lord before me. This ſhould ſo take the Heart, that your Souls ſhould always have the Impreſſion, the Image of the Grace of that Perſon, of his Meekneſs, Holineſs, Fear of the Lord: He was quick in underſtanding, diſcerning what was the Will of God, and what not; he had the Fear of God upon him, he was aiming and ſeeking the Glory of God continually: Theſe were the Graces of his Perſon. To have the Impreſſions of theſe Graces left upon the Soul: this is for Chriſt to dwell in you by Faith. You ſhall not need to be told, Chriſt was meek and lowly; no, this is more than a Sermon concerning Chriſt.

Again, It is to know Chriſt in all his Work of Mediation, what he did: That he was circumciſed, that he was derided, crucified, died, roſe again, aſcended, ſits in Heaven; Faith taking all theſe things of Chriſt, if it be high, raiſed, ſpiritual Faith, ſuch as Paul here prays for, it will leave the Image of all theſe Acts upon your Hearts.

Brethren, tho we content our ſelves with an inner Man, which inner Man is a Conformity to the Law of God, and his Grace, ſuch as Adam had, and ſuch as Saints under the Old Teſtament had; and that it is true, and perfect, and good Grace, I acknowledg: and it is a piece of Chriſt; for Jeſus Chriſt had the Law written in his Heart, hating Sin, loving Righteouſneſs, as well as we, as Pſal. 40.

ſhews

ſhews. But there comes upon the holieſt Conformity to the Law in us, (which is the new Creature) a new Tincture. The ſubſtance was, the Conformity to the Law, the Holineſs that is agreeable to the Law; but Faith comes and reveals Chriſt, and God by Faith reveals his Son in us; and what then? Whereas I had Hatred to Sin before, I looking upon Chriſt crucified, I die to Sin, upon the Faith and conſideration of it. Here Hatred of Sin is now dying with Chriſt, after the ſimilitude of his Death. Here what Chriſt did by way of Mediation for us, leaves Impreſſions, and frames the Heart accordingly. Faith ſhould be ſo powerful, that we ſhould no ſooner think of Chriſt's dying but Luſts ſhould die: In like manner, that Jeſus Chriſt roſe, that when I conſider, that Jeſus Chriſt roſe again for me, (Chriſt is riſen alive, as the Primitive Chriſtians uſed to ſay) that therefore the Soul ſhould be moved to live in newneſs of Life, finding a virtue to come from the thoughts thereof. Here Faith brings in by ſpiritual Sight the Reſurrection of Chriſt, leaves Impreſſions ſuitable; and the Image of theſe things are wrought in the Soul, and become Motives to a Man to die to Sin, and riſe to Holineſs.

O Brethren, that all of Chriſt were but turned into our Hearts, ſtill as we know him, and think of him; no ſooner to think of his Death, but to die withall to the World; no ſooner to think of his being crucified, but to find Luſts tortured and ſhrinking; ſo no ſooner to think of Chriſt circumciſed, but to caſt off the Foreskin of your Heart, which is Self-love. So as not only a Conformity to the Law may appear in it, but that Chriſt ſhould come over again with a new Image of his, in all things whereby we may be affected of him.

Further, if you grow up to Aſſurance, (for here he prays for ſuch as are rooted and grounded in the Love of God) let Aſſurance of theſe things come in, that Chriſt did all this for me; and then let the Soul deal with Chriſt about every Particular of him, in their kind, as done for it. And O how powerfully will every Particular affect the Heart, with ſuitable Reflections anſwering thereunto! The Love of Chriſt ſhewn in every Particular, will conſtrain us into Affections correſpondent thereunto. Such a Faith working by Love, will work directly and naturally, diſpoſitions towards Chriſt in the Heart.

Now Faith of Aſſurance will be able to apply all that ever Chriſt hath done, as done for it ſelf: ſuch an one will run over all the Scriptures, again and again, and when there he finds Jeſus Chriſt died for Sinners, this is for me, ſaith he, God laid the Iniquities of us all upon Chriſt, and I am one of the Number, he bore my Iniquities, God laid them all upon him: Jeſus Chriſt is riſen, this he did for me, that I ſhould riſe in newneſs of Life here: and in the mean time, he is gone to Heaven, and there he keeps a place for me. And this way of Application, I underſtand to take up much of Paul's Sence in that Gal. 1. He revealed his Son in me; I know all he did was for me. And this Application of Chriſt you find in Gal. 2. I live, yet not I, but Chriſt in me, who loved me, and gave himſelf for me.

And if you obtain this kind of Application of Chriſt, by way of Aſſurance, it will cauſe Chriſt to dwell in you, and your ſelves to dwell upon Chriſt to purpoſe: You ſhall not need to force your thoughts into the Meditation of him, but it will cauſe your thoughts to dwell upon Chriſt to purpoſe, that hath done thus and thus for you; and that continually your whole Life in the Fleſh (as Paul there) will be your living by Faith on the Son of God.

Thus I have inſtanced in ſome Particulars, how far off are we Chriſtians in this Age, from what was in the Hearts of thoſe Times, and was in this great Saint's experience, who prayed for all Saints after this rate, to the end of the World.

Altho we have not attained all this, yet let us ſeek after theſe things, to attain them: Let us not content our ſelves, that Chriſt is ours, as to our State; but let us ſeek, that he may operatively dwell in us thus by Faith. This we ſhould pray for, this we ſhould contend after. It is in this Life to be had, and that in ſome conſtancy, elſe he would never have prayed for it thus. Do not content your ſelves, that Chriſt hath a Relation to you; but ſeek this compleative communicative Oneneſs, which is the filling up of that Relation.

A SERMON

On EPHES. 5. 30, 31, 32.

30. For we are Members of his Body, of his Fleſh, and of his Bones.

31. For this cauſe ſhall a Man leave his Father and Mother, and ſhall be joined unto his Wife, and they two ſhall be one Fleſh.

32. This is a great Myſtery, but I ſpeak concerning Chriſt and the Church.

THe Doctrine of the Goſpel, hath been the Subject which I have deſigned to handle. And in the firſt place to ſhew that it was God's intention that the Story of Adam (which you read of in the beginning of his Book, in the Volumn of his Book, as he ſaith, Heb. 3. in the beginning of Geneſis.) ſhould hold forth a Shadow and Type of the moſt fundamental Truths of the Goſpel. So that as it was ſaid of old, that the whole Creation was but Deus explanatus, ſo we may truly ſay that the Story of Adam, is nothing elſe but Chriſtus explanatus Chriſt explained.

Firſt, I might ſhew that in Adam's Creation, in the Union of his Soul to his Body, the dwelling of a reaſonable Soul in a Body of Clay, there was a Shadow of the dwelling of the Divine Nature in the Human Nature of Chriſt, out of 1 Cor. 15. 44, 45. where the Apoſtle quotes the very words, when Adam was made and created, to be a Type or a fore-running Prophecy of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. It's true ſaith he, the firſt Man Adam was made a living Soul, the ſecond Adam, typified out hereby, is a quickning Spirit.

Secondly, Take the Condition of Adam's Soul, as it had the Image of God in it, either for Knowledg, or elſe for Holineſs, it fell infinitely ſhort of the State of Believers under the Goſpel, if their Holineſs were made compleat as his was. The Image of God, and the Knowledg of God in Adam was natural, it was but in a natural way, ſuited to the Nature of Man as he is reaſonable, and as he is Man, it was meerly but what was due to ſuch a Creature, if God would make him ſuch. But the Knowledg of God, and the Image of God that follows thereupon under the Goſpel, is every way ſupernatural, ſo as Eye hath not ſeen, nor hath Ear heard, (as the Apoſtle ſpeaks in 1 Cor. 2.) nor (as it is quoted out of Iſa. 64.) Man from the beginning of the World, no not even Adam himſelf, hath known the things that thou haſt prepared (under the Goſpel) for them that love thee. How it fell ſhort, I cannot now ſtand to declare.

Adam was made according to the Image of God; the Image of God in him was but a Shadow of that Image of God, which ſhines in Chriſt the ſecond Adam, and which he ſtampeth upon the Hearts of Believers, they being tranſlated and transformed into his Image.

As Adam in his Creation was a Type of Chriſt and his Church, ſo when God ſaid, Gen. 1.26. Let us make Man after our Image, after our Likeneſs (and he ſpeaks this of Male and Female when he ſaid it) he intended it of Chriſt and his Church, whom then he had in his Eye, and had ſet up as the Pattern of all. So as indeed our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, was the great Pattern which God had ſet up, and Man made at firſt, was but as a little Picture taken thereby. Therefore you ſhall find, in Heb. 1. that as Adam was the Image of God, ſo our Lord and Saviour Chriſt, is ſaid to be the expreſs Image of his Perſon (ver. 3.) and the brightneſs of his Glory. So that look now how the Image of a King in his Son, or how the Image of a Man in a Statue of Braſs, from Head to Foot, doth differ from his Image in a little Tablet which you carry upon your Breaſt; ſo doth the Image of God in Chriſt, differ from that Image which he ſtamped upon the Heart of Adam even in Innocency.

There was a threefold Image of God in the Perſon of Jeſus Chriſt, which exceeded that Image of God in the Heart of Adam.

There was firſt, that eſſential Image, as he is the ſecond Perſon in the Trinity, which is as inviſible as God himſelf.

But then, ſecondly, in Chriſt, as he is God-Man, in whom the Fulneſs of the Godhead dwells, there is an Image of God exceeds all the Image of God in the Angels, or in Man at firſt; and why doth it exceed it? Do but you conſider with your ſelves, if you were to draw the Picture, the Image of a Man, is there not more in the Face, in the Head, than there is in all the Body? So there is more in our Head, Chriſt, than there is in all Saints and Angels, than there is in the Church it ſelf, much more than was in Adam. If Jeſus Chriſt (as I then ſaid) had but only been ſet up in Heaven, for us to gaze upon his Perſon, and upon all the Excellencies of God that do ſhine in him, there is yet ſuch a Brightneſs of Glory ſhines therein, as doth not in all the Creatures, nor could do, tho God had made never ſo many. You ſhall ſee what David ſaith, in Pſal. 17. ult. foretelling of his ſeeing Chriſt after the Reſurrection: As for me, (ſaith he) I will behold thy Face in Righteouſneſs, I ſhall be ſatisfied, when I awake, with thine Image. His meaning is this, I comfort my ſelf, that when I ſhall awake, that is, when I ſhall riſe again, (for you know that Death is compared to a Sleep, and therefore he expreſſeth riſing again by being awakened) I ſhall be ſatisfied with thine Image, that is, with thy Son Chriſt.

Thirdly; Beſides the Image of God which ſhines in the Perſon of Chriſt, which we ſhall ſee in Heaven when we awake, as David ſhall do, there is an Image of God which ſhines in the Works of Jeſus Chriſt, which he did here below; there is an Image of all the Attributes of God, which breaks forth in the Works of Chriſt's Mediation, and in all his Offices. As there is the Glory of the Sun, and the Glory of the Beams of the Sun: ſo there is the Glory that is in the Perſon of Chriſt, and the Image of God that is there; and there is the Image of God that ſhines in his Beams, in the Works of Mediation which he hath done, and the Fruits and Benefits of it, in the Truths that have been told of him in the Goſpel. And as Jeſus Chriſt is a middle Perſon between God and us, ſo the Story of his Works of Mediation put together, preſents us with a middle Image of God, between that in his Perſon, and what is in the Creatures beſides. So as indeed God did ſet him up as an Image by which he made the little Picture of Adam. Let us make Man (ſaith he) according to our Image, and ſo Adam was but a Shadow and Type of what was in Chriſt. There is a new Edition of all the Attributes of God, which ariſeth out of the Story of Chriſt: And though as God's Perſon is more excellent than his Works, ſo the Image of God in Chriſt's Perſon, is more excellent than that Image of God which ſhines in his Works; yet even in the Works of Chriſt there is ſuch an Image of God, as excells the Image of God in Angels, or in all the Creatures beſides. Go take an Holy Man, there is the Image of God in his Heart, and there is the Image of God in his Works of Righteouſneſs, which he doth according to the Principles in his Heart, and of God's Law written there. Therefore the new Man which is created after the Image of God, is not only ſaid to conſiſt in an inward renewing of the Spirit, but in putting on Works of Holineſs, and putting away Lying and the like Sins. For the Image of God lies in Works, as well as in a Man's Heart. Anſwerably now, there is the Image of God ſhining in the Works of Chriſt: and therefore when you read that Chriſt is called the Wiſdom of God (there is one Attribute) and the Power of God (there is another) it is not ſpoken ſimply of what is inherent in his Perſon, but of what appeareth in his works, what appeareth in what he hath done, and the Fruits of it; and he is called the Wiſdom of God, and the Power of God in the Abſtract. Adam he might be ſaid to be Wiſe, and he might be ſaid to be Holy, but he could not be called the Wiſdom of God, nor could he be called the Holineſs of God, but ſo Jeſus Chriſt is. And he is not ſo called, either in reſpect of that eſſential Image, that is, as he is ſecond Perſon; or of that Image of God, which ſhines in his Perſon as he is God-Man, but of what ſhines in the Works that he hath done; as he is made unto us Righteouſneſs, and Sanctification, and Redemption, (as it follows there in the laſt verſe of that, 1 Cor. 1.) So he is called the Wiſdom of God and the Power of God, &c.

of

So as now if you take the infinite Wiſdom of God, that ariſeth out of the Story of the Life and Death of Chriſt, out of his Reſurrection, Aſcenſion into Heaven, &c. and the Fruits and Ends of all theſe, there is an higher Wiſdom of God appears, even in theſe Works of Chriſt, than appears in all the Creation beſides.

And ſo of the Power of God too: It is not only that he being God and Man, hath power to do what he will, that is proper to his Perſon; but go take the Works that he hath done, that he hath overcome Sin, and Hell, and Death, and the Wrath of God, that he was manifeſted to be the Son of God, with Power in riſing again, as Rom. 1. 4. In this reſpect he is called, the Power of God.

And ſo likewiſe, in the third place, as he hath ratified and made good all the Truths of God, as all the Promiſes of God are Yea and Amen in him, ſo he may in that reſpect be called the Truth of God.

And ſo alſo he may be called the Juſtice of God, becauſe God in him hath manifeſted ſuch a Righteouſneſs, as never elſe would have been manifeſted: He hath not only manifeſted in his Perſon, that he is righteous, but in his Works, in that he hath ſatisfied the Wrath of his Father.

And ſo likewiſe he may be called the Love of God; for the higheſt Manifeſtation of Love that ever God ſhewed, lies in what Chriſt hath done for us, in that God gave his Son, and his Son gave himſelf: Herein lies the Height, and Depth, and Length, and Breadth of the Love of God, which paſſeth knowledg, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, Epheſ. 3. 18, 19.

And laſtly, to inſtance in no more, by the ſame reaſon that he is called, the Wiſdom, and the Power of God, he may alſo be called, the Patience and the Long-ſuffering of God; for by reaſon of the Blood of Chriſt, and by an Overplus of it, into the Bargain, as it were, it is, that he is patient with all wicked Men, ſuffers them to live, lets the World ſtand to this day.

Now go take this Image of God, that thus ſhines in Jeſus Chriſt, not in his Perſon only, but in his Works, which is yet a lower Image than what is in his Perſon, and that is a lower thing too, than what is in him as he is ſecond Perſon; and I ſay, Adam was but a meer empty Shadow, in compariſon of this Subſtance which God had in his eye, when he ſaid, Let us make Man according to our Image.

Having thus ſhewn you, that Adam in all theſe reſpects was but an empty Image, in compariſon of the Man to come; having ſpoken ſomewhat of his Creation, and likewiſe ſomewhat of the Image of God in him, I will now come to ſpeak concerning his Marriage: for all that I have now ſaid, is but an Introduction to what the Text which I have read holds forth; it is but to connect what I have formerly delivered, with what I ſhall now do.

In theſe words then the Holy-Ghoſt doth make Adam to be a Type and a Shadow of Jeſus Chriſt, in his Marriage with Eve. As he was held forth his Type in his creation at firſt, as he was held forth his Type, in that he was a Shadow of the Image of God in him; ſo take his Marriage with Eve his Wife, and and the Apoſtle tells us, that therein he was alſo but a Shadow: For this cauſe (ſaith he) ſhall a Man leave his Father and Mother, and ſhall be joined to his Wife, and they two ſhall be one Fleſh: This is a great Myſtery, but I ſpeak concerning Chriſt, and the Church. Where are theſe words? Look in Gen. 2. 23. and there you ſhall find them: Adam ſaid, This is now Bone of my Bone, and Fleſh of my Fleſh: Therefore ſhall a Man leave his Father and his Mother, and ſhall cleave unto his Wife, and they ſhall be one Fleſh. The Apoſtle, you ſee, takes the ſame expreſſions, and tells us this is a great Myſtery; there was in theſe words of Adam (ſaith he) a Myſtery held forth, which I interpret of Chriſt and the Church.

Now then for the making this good, will you conſider what the Apoſtle exhorts to in the words before? He exhorts Husbands to love their Wives, and Wives to be ſubject to their Husbands, as Chriſt hath loved his Church, and as the Church is ſubject unto Chriſt; and to enforce this Argument, he brings this Pattern: For ſaith he, will you know what was tne Myſtery of Marriage at the firſt, in the State of Innocency? The Marriage of Adam and his Wife Eve, was intended as a Type and Shadow of Chriſt and his Church; and from the example of Chriſt's Love to the Church, he enforceth the Duty of the Love of the Huſband to the Wife; and from the example of the Subjection of the Church to Chriſt, enforceth the Duty of Subjection of Wives to their Huſbands. He boldly quoteth what is ſaid in Gen. 2. of the Marriage of Adam and Eve: There ſaith Adam, She is Bone of my Bone, and Fleſh of my Fleſh; ſaith Paul here, We are of his Fleſh, and of his Bone: For this cauſe (ſaith Adam) ſhall a Man leave Father and Mother: For this cauſe (ſaith the Apoſtle alſo) ſhall a Man leave Father and Mother: And this is a great Myſtery, ſaith he, but I ſpeak concerning Chriſt and the Church.

There are ſome that ſay, that this is only ſpoken by way of Alluſion, as when it is ſaid in 1 Cor. 4. 6. that God created Light out of Darkneſs, the Apoſtle there in the new Creation alludeth to the old. But my Brethren, it is not only by way of Alluſion, but by way of Type, and a Prophecy intended by God therein. And the Reaſons are clearly theſe:

1. Becauſe the Apoſtle doth found his Argument of the Duties of Husbands and Wives upon it; now Alluſions, they may illuſtrate, but they do not afford Arguments to Duty. Mark how the Apoſtle ſpeaks: Wives, (ſaith he, v. 22.) ſubmit your ſelves to your own Husbands, as unto the Lord. And v. 25. Husbands love your Wives, even as Chriſt alſo loved the Church; and why? Becauſe, ſaith he, that in Marriage, and Marriage at the firſt, the Marriage of Chriſt and the Church was intended as the great Example. It was not therefore a bare Similitude, but a Pattern; and unleſs the Marriage of Chriſt had been intended as a Pattern in the Marriage of Adam, this had been a weak Argument.

2. Therefore in the cloſe of all, he gives us an account why he had produced the Example of Chriſt and his Church; and his account is this: Becauſe, ſaith he, this was the Myſtery that was intended by it, even in the Marriage of Adam. To that end conſider, how firſt of all, he calls this Interpretation of his of the Story of Adam's Marriage, applying it to Chriſt and his Church, a Myſtery: Now what is a Myſtery? A Myſtery is that which hath one thing ſignifying, and another thing ſignified; as in Rev. 1. 20. The Myſtery of the ſeven Stars, and the ſeven Golden Candleſticks: The ſeven Stars are the Angels of the ſeven Churches, and the ſeven Candleſticks are the ſeven Churches. Mark how he explaineth what a Myſtery is; it is a thing ſignifying, and a thing ſignified. So when the Apoſtle here had quoted the words of Adam's Marriage in Gen. 2. as you have heard, and ſaid of it, This is a great Myſtery; he adds, I ſpeak concerning Chriſt and his Church: Which is all one with that John ſaith in the Revelation, as if the Apoſtle ſhould have ſaid, The Myſtery of Adam's Marriage, is the Marriage of Chriſt and the Church; that is, this is that which is intended by it, and which God had in his eye. A Parable is called a Myſtery in the Scripture, as in Luke 6. 10. Why? Becauſe it holds forth a Similitude, and a thing ſignified thereby. So in Dan. 2. 28. Nebuchadnezzar's Dream is called a Myſtery: There is a God in Heaven, (ſaith Daniel there) which revealeth Myſteries; ſo it is in the Original; becauſe becauſe he dreamed one thing, and another thing was intended by it. So Adam's Marriage is called a Myſtery; why? Becauſe the Story of it is one thing, it is the Story of the Marriage of the firſt Man, and his Wife; but the Secret, the thing intended by it is another: I ſpeak (ſaith he) concerning Chriſt and his Church.

And ſo now the meaning of the Words which the Apoſtle uſeth, is briefly this: I ſay, ſaith he, that is, I make this Interpretation of it, (and he was the firſt that did open the Myſtery of it) I tell you a Myſtery, (as elſewhere he ſaith) that which you have not known, I now hold forth to you. You read the Story of Geneſis meerly of Adam and Eve, but there was a further Myſtery in it: This that I have ſaid of leaving Father and Mother, of being Bone of his Bone, and Fleſh of his Fleſh, (ſo you read the Wife is of the Huſband, in Gen. 2.) this, I ſay, (ſaith he) belongeth εἰς χριστὸν, (ſo it is in the Original) it is to be applied only to Chriſt, I ſpeak it of him, and I apply it unto him, as the Matter ſignified thereby. And then if you mark it, in the laſt Verſe of this Epheſ. 5. he ſaith, Nevertheleſs, let every one of you in particular ſo love his Wife, even as himſelf; and the Wife ſee that ſhe reverence her Husband. His meaning is this, I would have you take the place literally notwithſtanding, do not think this is all the meaning of it; there ſtill lies a literal Duty upon you, tho there is a myſtical Sence in the thing.

And ſo much now for the opening of the Text it ſelf. I ſhall now come to ſhew wherein this Type lay, and compare Adam's Marriage, with the Marriage of Jeſus Chriſt and his Church myſtically intended by it.

There is a great Queſtion among Interpreters, Whether every Marriage, as well as that of Adam's, was intended as a Type of Chriſt? I will not ſtand to decide that, I will only handle and ſhew, how Adam's Marriage was; that [This is a great Myſtery] pointeth to him, to that Marriage of his. Adam did not underſtand it, when he ſaid, This is Bone of my Bone, &c. And for this cauſe, &c. As Caiaphas, in John 11. 51. did not underſtand, when he propheſied, that Chriſt ſhould be put to death. Thoſe words in Gen. 2. For this cauſe ſhall a Man leave Father and Mother, &c. they are made the words of God, and not of Adam; for God intended Jeſus Chriſt by it, as the Apoſtle here doth. But to come to the Particulars wherein the Type holds, I ſhall reſolve it into four Heads.

I. Let us conſider the Counſel that God had about Adam's Marriage with Eve, and it was the Type of the Counſel of God about Chriſt's Marriage with his Church; and this is a great Myſtery, even the Counſel that God held in his eternal Decrees, concerning Chriſt and his Church, ſhadowed out by what he here ſpeaks of the marrying of Eve to Adam.

1. The Lord made Adam, before he thought of a Wife for him; and ſo in order of God's Decrees, Chriſt was ſet up firſt, who therefore is called, the Firſtborn of every Creature, Col. 1. 15. and the Firſt-born among many Brethren, Rom. 8. 29. who is called the Head, and therefore was ſet up firſt. Now when God had made Adam, and made him firſt, what is the Counſel of God about him? Read Gen. 2. 18. And the Lord ſaid, It is not good that the Man ſhould be alone, I will make him an Help meet for him. So did God ſay of the Man Chriſt Jeſus, when he had ordained him in his eternal Purpoſe, It is not good for him to be alone, he ſhall have Fellows, as the Saints are called in Pſal. 45. 7. God intended, and ſaid with himſelf, he ſhall not be in Heaven alone. You have the Scripture ſpeaking in the very ſame Language, in John 12. 24. Except a Corn of Wheat fall into the Ground, and die, (Chriſt there ſpeaks this of himſelf) it abideth alone: I muſt not be alone, ſaith he, I muſt have company with me. And tho he ſpeaks this in relation to his Death, yet it was God's primitive Decree that Chriſt ſhould not be alone; and becauſe it was ſo, therefore becauſe Man fell, and could not otherwiſe be ſaved, and brought to Heaven, but by Chriſt's Death, therefore (ſaith he) I muſt die, that I may not be in Heaven alone; otherwiſe I muſt muſt be reduced to what Adam was at firſt reduced to, that was to be alone, and that is not meet.

2. The next Counſel God held about Adam was this, He went and viewed all the Creatures that he had made, and amongſt them all (ſaith, Gen. 2. 20.) there was not found an Help meet for him. So when God was in Conſultation who ſhould be the Wife and Spouſe of Jeſus Chriſt, he views the Angels firſt, but he refuſeth them; he in no wiſe took on him the Nature of Angels, *Heb.*2.16. why? becauſe he would not be a Huſband to them, and he is no where called ſo. There was none elſe, none was found to be a match fit for him, but the Sons of Men, whoſe Nature he meant to aſſume, and not all of them neither, he viewed all the Sons of Men, and he took but a Remnant out of them, The Election hath obtained it, and the reſt were hardned, ſaith he, Rom. 11. 7. He viewed all that he could have made,that's more,and out of all he choſe thoſe whom he hath elected. Herein God did but act his own Eternal Purpoſes and Counſels concerning his Church, pitching upon a few Creatures, whom he choſe out of all thoſe whom he either had or could have made, to be a meet Help for his Son Jeſus Chriſt.

You will ſay, Is the Church a Helper to Jeſus Chriſt? Wherein is the Woman a Helper to the Man? She is pleaſant to him; She is a Companion for him. The like is ſaid of the Church, She is a Helper to him in two reſpects. Firſt, She is his Glory, as in 2 Cor. 8. 23. They are (ſaith he) the Glory of Chriſt. Even as the Wife is ſaid to be the Glory of the Huſband, in 1 Cor. 11. 7. And then, Secondly, She is a Comfort to him. You will wonder that the Church ſhould be ſo to Chriſt; but you ſhall ſee it, in Pſal. 45. where, ſpeaking of the Church and Chriſt, ſaith he, v. 11. Forget thine own People, and thy Fathers Houſe (he ſpeaks in the ſame Language that he doth here) So ſhall the King greatly delight in thy Beauty. Therefore in this very Chapter, Eph. 5. v. 27. he ſaith, that Jeſus Chriſt is to preſent to himſelf a glorious Church; that as Zanchy well ſays, in Heaven he will ſet her up full of Beauty and Glory, Behold, here is She that I have made to delight in; and the Glory he will put upon her he continually preſents to himſelf to delight in. Therefore you ſhall find, in Joh. 15. that his Joy is ſaid to be in his Church, Keep my Commandments, ſaith he, ſo ſhall my Joy be in you. And in Eph. 1. ult. the Church is called his Fulneſs; which is his Body, the fulneſs of him that filleth all in all. He aſcribes as much to Chriſt as can be, he ſaith, he filleth her and all things elſe, and yet in a Senſe ſhe is his Fulneſs too. She is a Helper to him.

3. When Adam was alone, before God made the Woman, he bleſſed Adam, and in him bleſſed her afterwards to be made. This you may find, in Gen. 2. 26, 27. He gave all the World unto Adam, and in giving it to him he gave it to his Wife, and to his Seed that ſhould come of her. So was it here, when Jeſus Chriſt and God was alone in Heaven, before the World was, he undertaking to be a Huſband, God conſidering the Church in him, He did bleſs us with all Spiritual Bleſſings in heavenly places in him; He gave all to Chriſt, and in Chriſt gave all to her, and to all her Seed, and to all that ſhould come of her. All is yours (ſaith the Apoſtle) becauſe you are Chriſt's, and Chriſt is Gods, 1 Cor.3. ult. Here you ſee the Counſel that God held concerning Adam and Eve in their Marriage, it holds with God's Eternal Counſel, concerning the Marriage of Chriſt and his Church.

II. Let us come to the Creation of the Woman out of the Man, and you ſhall ſee ſtill that the Myſtery runs on.

1. Eve was made out of Adam, ſo was the Church out of Chriſt. God could have raiſed up Seed to Abraham out of Stones, out of nothing. No, but as he did take ſomething out of Adam, and made the Woman of it; ſo he took of Chriſt, and made the Church; as you have it Joh. 16. 14. Therefore it is mightily obſervable in the Text, that we are not ſaid to be Os Oſſis, in the Genitive Caſe, but ex Oſſibus ejus, as noting out the Subject Matter, out of which we were taken. All were made out of one, ſo ſaith the Apoſtle, ſpeaking of Adam; and all are made out of one, ſo ſaith the Apoſtle alſo, ſpeaking of Chriſt and his Church, Heb. 2.11. We are all ſeminally in Jeſus Chriſt, and we are Os ex Oſſibus ejus, Bone out of his Bone, and Fleſh out of his Fleſh. If you read Gen. 2.23. you ſhall ſee the the reaſon given, why the Woman is ſaid to be Bone of his Bone, and Fleſh of his Fleſh, the Text tells us, it is becauſe ſhe was taken out of Man. The Holy Ghoſt in the Greek follows the ſame emphaſis, We are (ſaith he) Ex Oſſibus, Bone out of his Bones, taken out of him. Which is true in two reſpects.

For, Firſt, Conſider the Church myſtically, as ſhe is a Church, as ſhe is Holy, and as ſhe is Glorious, and whatſoever ſhe hath, as ſhe is ſuch, it is wholly out of Chriſt, She is Bone out of his Bones in that reſpect. Of him ye are in Chriſt Jeſus, ſaith the Apoſtle, 1 Cor. 1. 30. And, We are his workmanſhip created in Chriſt Jeſus, and out of Chriſt Jeſus, Eph. 2. 10. That look what Bones Adam had, the ſame Bones the Woman had when ſhe was made; look what Fleſh he had, ſhe had likewiſe. So it is true of Jeſus Chriſt and his Church, by way of analogy, in a ſpiritual and myſtical ſenſe; as Eve received Bone for Bone, and Fleſh for Fleſh, and Eye for Eye, and Hand for Hand; ſo look what Graces Chriſt hath, the Church (take her Qua Church, as ſhe is beautified with Graces and Glory in Heaven) has Grace for Grace. There is nothing that Chriſt hath, but ſhe hath alſo, and ſo we are Bone of his Bones, and we have it out of him too, that is, from him. And therefore in the 26*th* verſe of this Chapter it is ſaid, that he ſanctifieth and cleanſeth the Church, that he might preſent it to himſelf a glorious Church. Look what Holineſs and what Glory ſhe hath, it is all from him.

But I think, Secondly, That when he ſaith, We are Bone out of his Bones, and Fleſh out of his Fleſh, there is a further thing meant. The Church is not ſo only, if you take her in reſpect of her Graces, and qualifications of Glory and Grace, having the ſame Graces that Chriſt hath, making an alluſion to Bones and to Fleſh, Members of the Body, and Graces, Members of the Mind. That is not all the Apoſtle's ſcope; but I take it further the meaning is this, That Jeſus Chriſt having an humane Nature, ordained firſt to be his, we (taking the ſubſtance of that Nature) have alſo the ſame. There is one Scripture that ſeems to contradict it, that is Heb. 2. 14. where it is ſaid, Foraſmuch as the Children are partakers of Fleſh and Blood, he alſo himſelf likewiſe took part of the ſame. It is eaſily anſwered; For Fleſh and Blood there, is meant the Frailties of Man's Nature; and ſo the Apoſtle's meaning is this, That whereas we, through ſin, had ſubjected our ſelves to the frailties of Fleſh and Blood, he took part of the ſame. It is clearly his ſcope there.

But yet, becauſe Jeſus Chriſt was ordained to the ſubſtance of an humane Nature, therefore were We ſo too; and we are choſen in him, and ſo we are ἐκ τῆς σαρκὸς αὐτοῦ καὶ ἐκ τῶν ὀστέων αὐτοῦ, Fleſh of his Fleſh, and Bone of his Bones, for the ſubſtance of our Nature. It is an excellent diſtinction One hath; Chriſt, he is Os Oſſis, Bone of our Bone, in the Genitive Caſe; but we are Ex Oſſe, Bone of his Bone, taken out of him. How came Chriſt to be the Saviour of the Church? What ſaith he ver. 23? He is the Head of the Church, and He is the Saviour of the Body. Firſt a Head, then a Saviour. Why was Chriſt ordained to die? Was that God's primitive Decree concerning him? Or did he not think of ſending Chriſt to be a Head, till ſuch time as he thought of ſending him to die? No, He thought firſt of ſending him to be a Head. How do you prove that? Becauſe he therefore left Father and Mother, for this cauſe, becauſe he was an Head. The Text is expreſs in verſe 31. He having firſt made him a Head to us, we are Members of his Body, he having ordained us to be of the ſame nature, of his Fleſh and of his Bones, therefore it was that he died. For this cauſe (ſaith he) ſhall a man leave his Father and Mother; the Apoſtle applies this to Chriſt, I ſpeak concerning Chriſt and his Church, ſaith he. He left his Father in Heaven, and his Mother on Earth, to give himſelf for his Church.

And that is the Firſt thing wherein Adam was a Type of Chriſt, in reſpect of Eves creation, ſhe was taken out of him.

2. Out of what part of Adam was ſhe taken? The Text ſaith in Gen. 2. 21. that the Lord caſt him into a deep ſleep, and then opened his ſide, and took Eve out of it. It was indeed in the letter of it, to ſhew the equality of the Wife to the Husband; ſhe was not taken out of his Foot, but out of his Side, becauſe ſhe is to be a Companion to him. In this alſo was Adam a type of Chriſt, the Church was taken out of his Side; and the Apoſtle John, *Chap.*19.*v.*34. you ſhall ſee makes a great matter of it; One of the Souldiers (ſaith he) with a Spear pierced his ſide, and forthwith came there out Blood and Water: And he that ſaw it, bear record, and his record is true; and he knows that he ſays true, that ye might believe. It is a ſtrange thing, that in the midſt of a ſtory the Apoſtle ſhould come and put ſuch an emphaſis upon this paſſage; This (ſaith he) I obſerved above all elſe, and this I bear record of. Why? It was not in reſpect of the miracle of it; for in the Pericardium, the Purſe that a man's heart lies in, there is Water for the cooling of the heart, and if you pierce that, Water will preſently iſſue out. It was not therefore, I ſay, in reſpect of the miracle of it, that he takes ſuch ſpecial notice of this paſſage, that upon the opening of his ſide there came forth Blood and Water; but in reſpect of the myſtery of it. Therefore the ſame John, (and only he of all the Apoſtles) in 1 John 5. 6. ſaith, This is he that came by Water and by Blood, even Jeſus Chriſt. He makes that the evidence that he was the Meſſiah, becauſe out of his ſide came Water and Blood, Water to ſanctifie his Church, ſo ſaith Paul here in this Eph. 5. ver. 26. He ſanctifieth and cleanſeth his Church by the waſhing of Water. She is taken out of his ſide, and Water cometh out of his ſide to cleanſe her; and Blood alſo. Water to ſanctifie and purifie her; and Blood to juſtifie her, and to make her, and to preſent her a glorious Church to himſelf, as the Text hath it alſo.

3. When was all this done to Adam? It was when Adam was a ſleep. When was it that Chriſt's ſide was opened? It was, when he was a ſleep, when he was dead; 1 *Cor.*15.20. He is the Firſt-fruits of them that ſleep, (for ſo Death is often called in the Scriptures.) *Iſai.*53. 10. He ſhall ſee his ſeed, becauſe he died, and offered up his Soul for Sin; and he ſhall ſee of the travel of his Soul, and be ſatisfied.

4. If you look the ſtory in Geneſis, the Text ſaith, That of the Rib that the Lord had taken from the man, he maae the Woman. Read your Margent, He builded the Woman; for ſhe is a more curious frame than the Man, he built her, ſhewed a great deal of art in making her. Now you ſhall find in the Scripture, that Jeſus Chriſt is called the Foundation; and what is his Church? It is his building, built up for him with a great deal of Art and Architect. In *Epheſ.*2. ult. the Apoſtle uſeth the very ſame expreſſion, Ye are built upon the foundation of the Apoſtles and Prophets, Jeſus Chriſt himſelf being the chief Corner ſtone; in whom all the building fitly framed, (or as the word is, artificially framed, harmoniouſly, with all the art and curioſity that can be,) groweth unto an holy Temple in the Lord, in whom ye alſo are built together for an habitation of God.

5. When he had taken the Woman out of the Man, what doth God do? He cloſeth up the Fleſh again; here is no hurt done, the Man is as ſound, lived as long, yea, would have lived to eternity, if he had not ſinned, for all his loſs. And what hath Jeſus Chriſt loſt by his death? Nothing; he hath got a Church by the means. He was made (ſaith the Apoſtle, *Heb.*2.9.) a little lower (or, for a little while lower) than the Angels, that he might bring many Sons unto glory. He endured pain upon the Croſs, he endured to have his ſide pierced, and his Soul wounded to have his Church taken out, all is cloſed up again, and the Man Chriſt Jeſus is in Heaven for ever, and his Church ſhall be for ever with him. This is all that is loſt.

And ſo much now for the Second Head, wherein this type holdeth. The firſt I told you was God's eternal Counſel about Chriſt and the Church, which anſwereth to the Counſel that was about Adam and Eve, when ſhe was made. The Second, was about the creating of her out of him.

III. The Marriage it ſelf. And concerning that the Text ſaith.

1. That God did bring the Woman unto Adam, *Gen.*2.22. So God, when he had choſen his Elect, he did preſent them unto Jeſus Chriſt. He did this in his Eternal Purpoſes; and he doth do it, when he calls them home unto him.

He

He did it in his everlaſting Purpoſes, he ſhewed Jeſus Chriſt what a glorious Church he would give him for him to delight in for ever; and Jeſus Chriſt was ſo taken with her beauty, that he never leaves till he hath made her as glorious as ſhe firſt roſe up to him, in God's eternal preſentation of her to him. Therefore ſaith the Text here, in Eph.5. He preſenteth to himſelf a glorious Church; it is an alluſion unto that in Gen. 2. 22. A diſeaſe was befallen her; but Chriſt doth never leave till he hath reſtored her to her Primitive beauty, in which ſhe was preſented to him. So that Jeſus Chriſt, he did not chooſe his Church, ſhe was brought unto him; Thine they were, and thou gaveſt them to me. As in God's everlaſting Purpoſes, he brought them firſt to Chriſt; ſo when Chriſt hath died, when he hath ſhed the Water and Blood out of his ſide, who is it that ſtill brings every Soul unto Chriſt? It is the Father, John 6. 44, 45. No man can come to me, except the Father which hath ſent me, draw him. It is written in the Prophets, And they ſhall be all taught of God: Every man therefore that hath heard and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me. God ſpeaks to the heart of every Soul, who cometh unto Chriſt; he ſpeaks as a Father-in-Law doth to a Daughter, whom he would have to marry his Son, ſpeaks to her heart, puts an inſtinct into it. Daughter (ſaith he, Pſal. 45.) forget thy People and thy Fathers houſe. He ſpeaks in Adam's language in this ſecond of Geneſis, giveth that counſel to his Church, and ſo ſhe cometh to Chriſt.

2. When ſhe was brought unto Adam, he conſenteth and owneth her. So doth Chriſt; thoſe whom his Father hath given him, and whom he hath brought unto him, he owneth; inſomuch as he will not pray for a Soul but them; I pray not for the World, but for them whom thou haſt given me. None other comes to him, but whom God thus bringeth; and when they are brought he owns them, he knows them all by their Names, ſo the expreſſion is John 10. Therefore in John 6. 37. All that the Father giveth me, ſhall come to me; and him that cometh to me, I will in no wiſe caſt out. For when a poor Soul (that God from everlaſting hath given him) comes to him, he inſtantly owneth that Soul, as Adam did Eve. This is that Soul I died for; this is the Soul that Water and Blood came out of my ſide for, with an intention to waſh. This is the Soul I took a view of among all the reſt, and this Soul pleaſed me, and there was a beauty put upon it then; therefore I will ſanctifie and cleanſe her by the waſhing of Water, till I have preſented it glorious to my ſelf, that I may delight in her for ever.

And ſo much for the Third Head. The laſt that I ſhall mention is,

IV. The conſequent of Adam's Marriage, which was,

1. An Union; and the ſtory of Adam's Marriage affords us ſuch an Union as no Marriage elſe beſides. Both became one fleſh; and not only ſo, ſhe was not only one fleſh with him, becauſe of her relation of Wife, and as Man and Wife afterwards were, and now are; but ſhe was one fleſh with him too, becauſe ſhe came out of him. She was both Caro una, and ſhe was alſo De carne, or Ex carne, ſhe was both one fleſh with him, and ſhe was out of his fleſh alſo. Our Children, they are out of our fleſh; but they are not Caro noſtra, as Wives are, they are not our fleſh. And Wives, they are our fleſh; but they are not Ex carne, and Ex oſſe, out of our Fleſh, and out of our Bone. But ſo it is here in Adam's Marriage, Eve, ſhe is united to him in both the neareſt and deareſt relation, Adam is both a Husband to her, and a Father.

2. For this cauſe (ſaith *Gen.*2.) ſhall a man leave Father and Mother. Did not Chriſt do ſo? John 16. 28. I came forth from the Father, and am come into the World. Chriſt, he was in the boſom of his Father, 1 John 1. 17, 18. and he left his Father, and took upon him the form of a Servant, Phil. 3. came and dwelt amongſt us, ſerved for his Church as Jacob did for Rachel. Chriſt was a Lover, he did it out of love to his Church, left his Father. Nay, not only ſo, but his Father forſook him; My God, my God, why haſt thou forſaken me?

And he left his Mother too, when he was here below. When thoſe came to him that he was to die for, and his Mother ſent for him, ſaith he, Who is my Mother, and my Brethren, but thoſe that hear the Word of God, and keep it? And when his Mother ſought him, and was careful about him, being found of her, ſaith he, Doſt thou not know that I was about my Father's buſineſs? And when he hung upon the Croſs, he left her, a poor Woman, (to die for his Church) to be taken care of by John. When he was Thirty three years old, he left her in the World, and went to Heaven to take care of his Church. And thus he left Father, and he left Mother alſo for his Church.

And, my Brethren, our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, as he is married thus to his Church, he will ſhew himſelf the moſt fond and perfect Lover that ever was. As he is the Saviour of his Church, which is his Body, ſo he will come and fetch her at the laſt unto himſelf.

I might be very large in this, but I have confined my ſelf, not only to what riſeth from the ſtate of every man's Marriage, but what was proper and peculiar to Adam's, held forth in Gen. 2. to which the Apoſtle here alludeth, when he ſaith, This is a great Myſtery, but I ſpeak concerning Chriſt and his Church. And ſo I have done with the Alluſion and with this Text, and have in ſome meaſure ſhewn, that in the ſtory of Adam, is contained a type and ſhadow of the ſtory of Chriſt and of the Goſpel.

The Glory of the Goſpel.

A

SERMON

On COLOSS. 1. 26, 27.

Even the Myſtery which hath been hid from Ages and Generations, but now is made manifeſt to his Saints.

To whom God would make known what is the riches of the Glory of this Myſtery, among the Gentiles, which is Chriſt in you the hope of Glory.

THE Apoſtle ſpends this Chapter from the 13*th.* verſe to the end in Three things principally.

1. In ſetting out Jeſus Chriſt in all that fulneſs of the riches of his glory wherewith he is arrayed and repreſented in the Goſpel from verſe 13. to 23. from whence to the 4*th.* verſe of the ſecond Chapter, he falls into a Commendation and Elogium of the Goſpel, Which is that Myſtery (as the Text hath it,) wherein is made known that rich Glory of Chriſt, the Glory of the Myſtery, which Riches is Chriſt.

And the Apoſtle doth both theſe on ſet purpoſe, (as in the 4*th.* and 8*th.* verſes he profeſſeth,) to divert and take off theſe Coloſſians minds, from theſe vain deceitful ſpeculations grounded on Philoſophy, Traditions of Men, &c. gaudily and ſpeciouſly ſet out with enticeing words. This, I ſay, ſays verſe the 4*th.* Leſt any, &c. Beware, verſe the 8*th.* leſt any ſpoil you through Philoſophy, and vain deceit. To daſh and put theſe quite out of countenance at once, he diſcovers Riches and Glory. To diſcover the beggerlineſs of theſe Rudiments, as the Apoſtle elſewhere Epithetizeth the beſt of them, Gal. 4. 9. He lays open the riches of the Myſteries of Chriſt, and diſplaies the Glory, and the excellency of it, to ſpoil, and cauſe to vaniſh, and come to nothing, the enticeing Gloſs, and luſtre of all other Wiſdom, (as 'tis 1 Cor. 1. 19.) which had well nigh ſpoiled them.

Now, In this place of this firſt Chapter, the words I have read unto you, the current of his commendation of the Goſpels excellency ſwels to the higheſt and runs with the deepeſt and ſtrongeſt Stream, within the limits of which therefore, I will confine my ſelf, as affording matter enough to ſet forth the glory of it, and that by all that doth commend unto us any Knowledge.

For

For Firſt, It is commended by the Original Author and Revealer of it, with his intent therein; God himſelf who is beſt able to diſcern what knowledge is the fulleſt of riches and glory, choſe to reveal and make known this meerly for the worth of it, Namely becauſe the riches of glory were revealed by it. The firſt ſays God would or was deſirous to make known the riches of glory that were in it that moved him to it,

Secondly, If the worth of the Subject matter revealed doth enoble a knowledge, then muſt this be glorious, for Chriſt is the ſubject matter of it, which riches are Chriſt the Lord of glory.

Thirdly, If all the properties that are excellent in any knowledge will add worth to it they centre in this.

Firſt, If depth and profoundneſs, it is a Myſtery.

Secondly, If Pretiouſneſs and Abundance, it is full of Riches and Glory.

Thirdly, If profitableneſs and uſefulneſs, it not only reveals riches of glory to the knowers of it, the Saints, out of themſelves, but makes them poſſeſſors of all the riches it reveals, and gives them certain hope of all the glory it ſpeaks, which riches are Chriſt in you, made your Chriſt with all his riches for the preſent, and to you the hope of glory.

Fourthly, If ſecrecy commends a knowledge, as it doth, it hath been hid long from the beginning of the World in regard of the clear revealing of it, but now in the end of the World it is revealed.

And Laſtly, If rareneſs, now it is revealed, it is not made common, it is revealed only to the Saints, who only know it in the riches and glory of it, To whom God would make known, &c.

You have the ſcope and meaning of the Apoſtle, mine at this time is by enlargeing on theſe particulars to ſet out the glory of the Goſpel; that part of the word which in ſtrict ſenſe reveals the doctrine of God's free grace, the work of Chriſt's Redemption, and the riches of it, Juſtification, and Sanctification, and the ſecrets hereof, for this is the Goſpel.

But you will ſay, to what end will all this be? I wiſh there were no need of it, ſo I never preached more, and that both in regard of the People and Miniſters themſelves; for the People of this Land, it were well for England, if the contempt of this Glorious Goſpel and the Miniſtry of it were not their greateſt ſin; Happy were we, if the meaſure of our Iniquities were made ſo much lighter by the want of it, I ſhould then expect to ſee many more years paſt ere it were filled than now are like to be; And is there no need to ſet forth the Glory of it? And for the Miniſters, they might add more beauty to their own feet, and Souls to God, if in their Speculations, and Preachings, they did not as the Phariſes of Old did in their practice, (if we may judge what is in the Ciſtern, by what ordinarily cometh in and out,) neglect the great things of the Goſpel forementioned, and Tithe Mint, and Cummine, pick truths of leſs moment, boult and ſift them to the bran, but leave the other unſearched into and uninſiſted on.

But, My Brethren, however we may eſteem this Doctrine of the Goſpel, and what other knowledge we may pride our ſelves in, and weare out our brains in; yet it is this which is the riches of the Gentiles and Saints, as this place ſhews and many more: The Pearl of the World, Matt. 13. 45. The Glory of the Miniſtry, 1 Cor. 2. 7. Which God ordained for our glory, namely Apoſtles, and Miniſters the Preachers of it.

The clear revealing of which was the deſire and longing of the Patriarchs and Prophets, who though they knew the legal Covenant as fully as we, yet this Doctrine of ſalvation Chriſt's ſufferings, God's grace was it they enquired into that is, ſought to God by prayer, and ſearched diligently, that is, ſearched uſing all means of reading and meditating to attain the knowledge of it; and all this diligently: Spent, and thought it worthy of the chiefeſt of their pains, which when it came to be revealed the Apoſtles counted it their Glory, which

Paul

Paul therefore who had profited ſo much in the Jews Religion, Gal. 1. 14. profeſſeth, Phil. 3. 8. that he accounted all droſs and dung for this excellent knowledge of Chriſt. He might well ſay Rom. 1. 16. He was not aſhamed of the Goſpel of Chriſt for he makes his knowledge therein his chiefeſt excellency, Epheſ. 3. 4. there is a Parentheſis wherein you would think he boaſted ſpeaking of his own writeings, Whereby when you read, (ſaith he,) you may underſtand my knowledge in the Myſtery of Chriſt.

What do I ſpeaking of the ſtudy, and glory of Prophets and Apoſtles, it is the ſtudy of the Angels, which they think worthy of their greateſt intention, look into both theſe places, 1 Pet. 1. 10. Epheſ 1. 10. Which things the Angels deſire to pry into; theſe glorious Creatures that know God in his Legal Covenant and work of Creation more fully than ever Adam did, that have the immediate participation of God himſelf, have his face to read Lectures in, Day and Night, and yet glad if they can get but a peepe and glimpſe of the way of ſaving men by Chriſt, as being a knowledge of greater excellency than otherwiſe they have any, yea, and ſo deſirous are they to learn it, that they are content to go to School to the Church, Epheſ. 3. 9. 10. That to Principalities and Powers might be made known by the Church, &c.

But what need I ſpeak of Angels. Prophets and Apoſtles, it is the great ſtudy (if I may ſo ſpeak with reverence,) the Wiſdom and great learning of God himſelf, who was the firſt profeſſor of it, called ſo κατ' ἐξοχὴν. 1 Cor. 2. 7. ſpeaking of the Goſpel, ſays he, We ſpeak the wiſdom of God in a Myſtery, and that a hidden wiſdom before the World was, hid in God, Epheſ. 3. 9. God's act and peculiar to himſelf; whereas other knowledge Men and Angels have common with us infuſed at firſt Creation to attain to, and pick out of themſelves.

But this is his Wiſdom which he alone had ſtudied, and which none knows but thoſe to whom he reveal'd it, which hath brought me to the firſt part of my Text; Setting forth the excellency of the Goſpel, that it is a Myſtery which God only makes known, and that to Saints for the riches of glory that are revealed in it.

Now, To ſhew you the Original and the intent of frameing this Miſtery, you have it expreſt in this frame following.

Our all-wiſe and infinitely bleſſed Lord who had from everlaſting riches of glorious perfections of Holineſs, Juſtice, Wiſdom, Mercy, in him, which tho he himſelf knew and was infinitely bleſſed in the knowledge of them, though no Saint or Angel had ever been, or ever knew them, yet all theſe his glorious perfections being crowned with goodneſs, both made him willing to make known what riches of glory were in him unto ſome Creatures which yet were in Chriſt, his goodneſs moved him to it, for Bonum eſt ſui Communicativum, and it is the Nature of Perfection alſo to be Manifeſtativum ſui, and that not becauſe any perfection is added to it when made known, (which makes us deſire to manifeſt our imperfections, as being perfected when made known,) but that they might perfect others: This ſet him upon ſome ways to make known his Riches, and his glory, to ſome that ſhould be made happy by it, and to that end he would have Saints, his Saints as being beloved of him, unto whom he might as it were unboſom himſelf and diſplay all the Riches of glory which are in him, into whoſe laps he might, withal, poure out all his Riches, that they might ſee his glory, and be glorified in ſeeing of it, John 17. 3. 24.

And one way he began to manifeſt his glorious backparts to Angels and man in the firſt Creation; In the Law, Covenant of Works, and works of Creation which he had done, as his eternal Power, and Godhead, and Goodneſs, in the glorious workmanſhip of Heaven and Earth, and of ſuch glorious Creatures as they themſelves were, Rom. 1. 20. His wiſdom in the ordering governing and guiding ſo great an Hoſt, and Armies of ſeveral Creatures, to ſeveral ends by ſeveral Laws his Juſtice in his Legal Covenant, giving them life whilſt they ſhould obey; threatning Damnation to the diſobeyers of it: His infinite holineſs in that perfect and exact Rule of Righteouſneſs, the Copy of his own Will written in their hearts.

Here was one way whereby God made known what glorious Riches were in him, which might have made him glorious in their eyes, and themſelves happy; and this the Angels, and Adam at the firſt had: But all this contented him not, God would make known a further Myſtery, another larger, deeper way, an act found out in the depth of his Wiſdom, Namely, this Doctrine of the Goſpel which he kept hid and cloſe in his own breaſt; not a Creature knew it, no not the Angels who were his neareſt Courtiers, and deareſt favourites; it lay hid in God, Epheſ. 3. 9. hid even from them, verſe 10.

A Myſtery which when it ſhould be revealed ſhould amaze the World, put the Angels to School again, as if they had known nothing in compariſon of this, wherein they know over again all thoſe glorious riches which are in God, and that more perfectly and fully than ever yet. And ſo after they had a little ſtudied the Catechiſm, and Compendium there ſhould then come out a large Volum, a new Syſtem of the riches of the glory of God, the Myſtery of Chriſt in the Text, which is the laſt Edition alſo, that ever ſhall come forth, now ſet out, enlarged perfected, wherein the large Inventory of God's glorious perfections is more fully ſet down, and with additions.

The Reaſons why God did thus intend to manifeſt himſelf are.

Firſt, Becauſe he would ſhew his manifold Wiſdom, which is the Reaſon given of revealing the Goſpel, Epheſ. 3. 10. That to the Angels might appear the manifold Wiſdom of God.

That his Wiſdom is ſo vaſt and large that he could vary and take more ways than one; and as he had two ſorts of reaſonable Creatures to ſhew himſelf unto, ſo a double way, a double ſamplar, a double method, a Syſtema Majus & Minus.

And Secondly, Becauſe indeed 'twas of it ſelf too obſcure and too imperfect.

Firſt, Too obſcure, for in the Goſpel, and works of Redemption, they came to ſee all that they ſaw before; and this more clearly and largely, wherein they ſee more power in Chriſt, the Power of God, 1 Cor. 1. 24. In raiſing himſelf up from death to life, declared with power, thereby to be the Son of God, Rom. 1. 4. and alſo the exceeding greatneſs of his power in raiſing us up alſo, Epheſ. 1. 19. as might eaſily be ſhewed greater than in the Creation.

Wherein they likewiſe ſee a greater and clearer inſtance and manifeſtation of his Juſtice in putting to death his own Son, takeing on him to be a ſurety for ſin, than if a World of Worlds had been damn'd for ever; And in that his Son alſo, they came too ſee a greater and more tranſcendent righteouſneſs than ever appeared either in the Law or is inherent in the Angels, for if all their righteouſneſs were put into one it could but juſtifie themſelves, it could not ſatisfie for the leaſt breach of the Law in another. But in the Goſpel, and work of Redemption we ſee a Righteouſneſs of that breadth that it is able to cover the ſins of Millions of Worlds; of that length that it reacheth to Eternity, and no ſin in God's People can wear it out or nullify the vertue of it. To inſtance in no more.

Secondly, That other was but an imperfect way in compariſon of this, for.

Firſt, Thoſe Attributes which God accompts his greateſt riches and greateſt glory, Rom. 9. 23. even his Mercy and free Grace which he intends moſt to exalt, never ſaw light till now; the Doctrine of ſalvation by Chriſt being the ſtage, wherein it is only repreſented, and elſewhere it is not to be ſeen, and upon it it acts the greateſt part, for all paſſages in it tend to this, to ſhew as Eph. 2. 5. That by Grace we are ſaved; and therefore 1 Pet. 2. 10. the whole work of ſalvation is called Mercy, all God's ways to his people are Mercy, Pſal. 25. the whole plot and frame of it is made of Mercy, and therefore the Doctrine of the Goſpel is called Grace, 1 Tit 2. 10, 11. Mercy manageth the plot, gives all other Attributes, as it were their parts to act, Mercy enters in at the beginning, acts the prologue in Election, and giving Christ continues every part of it, sets all a work, ends the whole in glory.

acts

But Secondly, Not only more of his Attributes came thus to be discovered; but further the glorious Mystery of the Trinity came hereby to be unfolded more clearly, if not the first discovery made of the Three Persons hereby, there being scarce the foot steps of them distinctly and clearly to be seen, in the works of Creation or in the Law.

But now when the Gospel came to be revealed, and the work of salvation in it, then were there discovered to be Three witnesses in Heaven, 1 John 5.7. witnesses to our salvation, and their several witnessing came to be known by Three several Seals and head works set severally to our salvation, bearing the stamp of their Three several subsistences, so as by these Three Seals, of the Election of Christ and us, Redemption and Sanctification, we may know there are Three Persons and how they do subsist. Even as in mens Seals their several Armes being Engraven, their Houses and Antiquity is known.

As, First, God the Father hath set to his Seal in Election, 2 Tim. 2. 19. The Foundation of the Lord Remains firm having this Seal, The Lord knows who are his; and in this Seal of Election you may read the similitude of his subsistence written, and the order of it. For as his subsisting is the Fountain of the other two, so is Election attributed to him which is the Foundation, (as that place says both of Sanctification and Redemption.)

Secondly, God the Son hath set to his Seal, even his Blood the Seal of the New Covenant in the work of Redemption, to the sealing up of iniquity, Dan. 9. 24. which carries in it the resemblance of his subsistence also. For as it flows from Election alone, and is next to it, so his subsistence from the Father only.

And Lastly, God the Holy Ghost hath his Seal also set to it. Ephes. 4. 30. Wherewith we are sealed to the day of Redemption; by the work of Sanctification, which bears the print and manner of his subsistence, for as it flows both from Election and Redemption, so doth his person from the Father and from the Son.

And so now in the Second place let us come to the subject of the Gospel, Christ, in whom the riches of glory is alone discovered, which Riches is Christ.

Whereas in the Law and Covenant of works these riches were not only imperfectly and obscurely discovered, but also manifested scatteredly and with broken Beams, as the Sun in Water when the Water is disturbed, one Attribute shineing in one work, another in another, and dimly too; So as a man must have read over all the larger Volumes of the World, and pickt out here and there a several notion of God out of several works; as now we are fain to study many Tongues, in which knowledge is bound up and hidden as Kernels in the Shels. In this second way of manifesting his glory, things are more full, large, clearer than ever, yet all is contracted into one Volume bound up in Christ, in whom are hid all the treasures of Wisdom and Knowledge; who is the subject of the Mystery, in whom we may fully read the glory of the Lord in Christ God-man. And therefore the Gospel is called the Mystery of Christ, Colos. 4. 3. and the Gospel of God concerning Jesus Christ. Rom. 1. 23. he being the adequate subject of it, whom he hath set up to be all in all, Colos. 3. 11. and therefore are compleat in him, Chap. 2. ver. 12. all fullness dwelling in him in such fullness, that we need no other object to represent these riches of glory to us.

For First, did we know God, or would we know him in the Creatures, we shall not need now to look on them if we know but him; who as a Creature is the First-begotten of every Creature, Colos. 1. 15. And being man if he were no more, hath the excellencies of them all sum'd up in him. He is the Compendium and Model of the World, what ever they express of God, is to be more fully seen in him.

Secondly, Did we know or ſhould we have known God by his Image ſtampt upon man, and now ſhineing in the Law more than in all the Creatures elſe, or than in man himſelf without it; Turn your Eyes on Chriſt for he is ſuch a man as is the head of men, 1 Cor. 11. 3. yea, and of Angels alſo, who are a part of the Church, Col. 1. 18. and therefore a man of thoſe tranſcendent Perfections, that as he is mere man, that Image which Adam loſt, the Angels yet wear and count their glory, it ſhines more brightly in him then in them all, it ſhould have done. Even as the Head contains more of the Beauty and Image of a man, hath more of man in it than all the Body.

But yet Thirdly, He is the Son of God, and ſecond perſon, and therefore the expreſs Image and brightneſs of his Fathers glory, the eſſential ſubſtantial Image of his Father, which tranſcends infinitely more all other draughts of him than the Image of a King in his Son begotten like him, and in a Board or Tablet. But this Image, you will ſay it is too bright for us to behold it ſhining in his ſtrength, we being as unable to behold it in him, as we were to ſee his Father himſelf, who dwels in light inacceſſible, which no Eye can attain to. Therefore that yet we may ſee it as nigh and as fully and to the utmoſt that Creatures could; this Godhead dwels bodily in an human Nature, that ſo ſhining through the Lanthorn of his Fleſh we might behold it: His Human Nature and Divine make up one perſon, and being ſo, are united together in the nigheſt kind of Union that God can be to a Creature, and the neareſt and fulleſt Communications follow always upon the neareſt Union. To him therefore as man are Communicated theſe riches of glory that are in the Godhead as nearly and fully as was poſſible unto a Creature; and being thus Communicated, muſt needs ſhine forth in him to us to the utmoſt that they ever could unto Creatures. And therefore more clearly then if Millions of ſeveral Worlds had been Created every day on purpoſe to reveal God to us. God having ſtamped upon his Son all his glory, that we might ſee the glory of God in the face of Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Cor. 4. 6.

But yet Fourthly, This is not all whereby Chriſt is made the Image of the inviſible God to us, for thus we might have ſeen the fulneſs of the Godhead ſhineing in him though he had not come as a Redeemer and Mediator, and had acted nothing, done nothing in us or for us, but had been meerly ſet up for us to look on and ſee God in, as ſuppoſing him incarnate, not in relation to Redemption. Therefore further alſo and beſides this he is made to us the Image of the inviſible God in all theſe his works of Mediation which flow from his Perſon, and in the execution of all thoſe glorious Offices of King Prieſt and Prophet. The ſtory of which when it ſhall be all ſet and viewed together, makes up yet another kind of Image and Repreſentation of all God's Attributes and glorious riches then ſhine in his Perſon as alone in it ſelf conſidered, or then doth ſhine in the Angels or man at his firſt Creation; and as he himſelf being a Mediator is become a midle Perſon between God and Man, ſo the ſtory of thoſe his works of Mediation ſhews forth and preſents us with a double Picture and Image of God, between them both there being a new and another edition of all God's Attributes in the ſtory of what he hath done, which infinitely tranſcends, and comes nearer to the life than all thoſe Images which were or ſhould have been ſtampt upon the hearts, or appeared in the works of men or Angels, a brighter, clearer impreſſion of all in God, than ſuch Tablets are capable of. And indeed comes ſo near the life, that not only in regard of his perſon, but alſo of thoſe his works of Mediation, &c. he is called thoſe Attributes in the Abſtract which appear ſhining in them. Men and Angels in regard of God's Image ſtamped on them, might have been called wiſe, but not the wiſdom of God, but Chriſt, 1 Cor. 1. 24. is called The Wiſdom of God, and the Power of God, which yet is not ſpoken of him in regard of his perſon, as he is ſubſtantially and eſſentially both theſe, as all the reſt. But as in his works he is Manifeſtative. by way of Manifeſtation to us all theſe; byreaſon that in the ſtory of his Incarnation, Life, and Death, and Mediation, &c. all theſe are manifeſted. In all theſe when told and ſet together, there appears the greateſt depths of wiſdom, that to the Creatures could be diſcovered, which the knowledge of him him discovers. So the Power of God also in the same sense in regard of the ttanscendent work of his riseing again, wrestling with and overcoming Hell, subduing sin, &c. in which the power of God appears; and there is the like rea- of all the rest of God's Attributes, as because he is the foundation of All God's great and precious promises by his blood, that they are all Yea and Amen in him. Therefore he may likewise be called the Truth and Faithfulness of God, so as through his Mediation, at his cost the World subsists, which else would fall in pieces, Colos. 1, 17. Heb. 1, 3. and that he governs it, and prays his Father for his forbearance of it. He may be called the Patience and long suffering of God. That upon him God's Justice had its full course, and by this judging the Wicked at the latter day, with the transcendency of Knowledge, Wisdom, Righteousness, &c. which will be required to so vast a work, that he may be termed the Justice of God; for in what he hath done, doth daily, and shall do, all these Attributes appear.

Now, As Christ is thus in regard of his person and works the livelicst Image and representation of God's glorious riches, which is otherwise invisible; so is the Gospel the Image of Christ, who otherwise should be invisible to us in this life, when he dwelt with men: The Apostles and Believers, who saw, and heard him and his works, saw his glory then, as of the only begotten Son of God, John 1. 14. But Christ was to be taken up to glory, John 16. 7. It is necessary that I go away. And though we shall see him when we are taken up also; see his glory which he had before the World was, John 17. 24. Yet how should believers do in the mean time to see him, and the riches of God's glory in him? Therefore hath God framed and revealed the Doctrine of the Gospel, in the preaching of which Galat. 3. 1. Christ is said to be evidently set forth or pictured, προεγράφη, before our Eyes. And as he is the livelicst Image of God, so the Gospel is the livelicst representation of Christ that could possibly be made, for it is a Glass, 2 Cor. 3. Lost, and a Glass is the livelicst way of representing things absent that ever could be invented, not in dead and lifeless Colours only, which Pictures only do: And indeed it is a midle way of representing a man, from that either when we see his person directly before our Eyes, or when we see his Picture drawn in Colours; for though it be less clear, and perfect than seeing the Man himself, yet is more lively than all the Pictures in the World; for Quod videtur in speculo non est Imago, it is more than a bare Image, which is seen in a Glass, even the person himself, though by a reflex and reverberated species, that is his likeness beaten back again to the Eyes; which otherwise when we behold him face to face is received more directly, and therefore is a more obscure and imperfect way of seeing a man, than to see him face to face, as the Apostle says, 1 Cor. 13. 12. as in Heaven we shall do Christ, yet in the mean time this puts down all the Pictures in the World. And such is the knowledge of Christ under, and by the Gospel in comparison of that knowledge which was had of him under and by the Ceremonial Law, Heb. 10. 1. under which he calls the Shadow, those representations under the Gospel, the Image of good things to come; which the Apostle calls but a Shadow of him, Colos. 2. 17. drawn in wan, and lifeless Colours, and of that sight and knowledge we shall have of him in Heaven, when we shall see him as he is, this knowledge of him in the Glass of the Gospel is as a midle way of seeing him between both, less lively than the one, yet infinitely more bright and real than the other, even as I said before, that the Image of God in Christ which shineth in his works of Mediation is a midle Image or representation between that which shone in Adam, and that which is substantial in his person.

For as it comes short of the one, it being substantial, so it exceeds the other, as I then shewed.

So that (to keep to the ſcope of the Apoſtle in this Epiſtle,) take all the knowledge of God and Chriſt diſcovered in the moſt choice and curious peeces of Grecian Learning or of the Cerimonial Law, which far exceeded their Philoſophy; both which as it ſhould ſeem by the ſecond Chapter, theſe Coloſſians ſo garriſhly doted upon: And let a believer with the Eye of Faith look upon Chriſt, as diſcovered in the glaſs of the Goſpel, and then with the other Eye look upon the other, and what will all thoſe other appear, at beſt but wan, dead and liveleſs Pictures, Shaddows, as he calls them ver. 17. whoſe Rudiments and Graved Colours are ſaid to be the Rudiments of this World, Tradition of Men, ver. 8. whoſe Varniſh alſo is but the enticeing words of mens wiſdom, ver. 4. But this is lively, real, the Colours rich, the Varniſh, Glory, Riches of Glory being beſtowed upon it; whereby as in a Glaſs we ſee the Glory of the Lord which cannot be Painted, 2 Cor. 3. ult.

But you will ſay what is the Goſpel but a verbal ſtory told us when preached, or red or meditated on, it repreſents Chriſt to us but as words uſe to do, and words are but Umbræ rerum, Shadows, Pictures, and indeed leſs lively, How comes it then to repreſent Chriſt ſo really? And to be as a Glaſs repreſenting Chriſt to us ſo truly? I Anſwer, That as a Glaſs in it ſelf is but an empty thing, unleſs the Objects to be ſeen in it be directly placed before it and by light diſcovered in it, a Glaſs repreſents nothing to us; and ſuch I confeſs the Goſpel is in it ſelf a meer verbal repreſentation, but to believers the Saints in the Text, the Spirit of the Lord joyns with theſe words, preſents Chriſt by a ſecret hidden and unheard of act to the Eye of Faith in the preaching or reading of it; Opens Heaven, and cauſes the glory of Chriſt to ſhine as preſent in it in a lively real manner. And ſo it follows in that 2 Cor. 3. ult. We all behold as in a Glaſs the glory of the Lord, even as by the Spirit of the Lord: And Laſtly, which is the ſtrangeſt of all the reſt, Are changed into the ſame Image. That whereas a man may look long enough upon other Pictures though never ſo rich and glorious, and go away as he comes, his countenance no whit altered; but this is ſuch a repreſentation as by beholding of it, we are changed into the ſame Image, and the riches of Chriſt are made ours; which riches are Chriſt in you, ſays the Text, the ſtrangeſt Glaſs and Picture that ever yet was ſeen in the World.

The next thing that commends it, is, that it is a Myſtery, and indeed how can it be otherwiſe, if God's wiſdom hath been imployed for the inventing of it, and that as the utmoſt way of manifeſting himſelf, and therefore 1 Cor. 2. 7. it is called the wiſdom of God in a Myſtery; And if the Doctrine of Popery, which in imitation of God, the Devil invented, to ſet up his eldeſt Son Antichriſt, deſerveth to be called a Myſtery of iniquity, another Goſpel, and yet not another; and if the falſe doctrine of theſe in Thyatyra be called depths, though of Satan, Rev. 2. 14. (And indeed Popery is the greateſt Myſtery that ever created underſtanding hatch'd, if all the Frame and Policies and Myſteries of it be conſidered.) Then ſurely this which is God's Goſpel, made for Chriſt, as that for Antichriſt, which is the maſter piece of his Wiſdom.

And Secondly, If Chriſt be the ſubject of it, it muſt needs be a Myſtery, called therefore, Col. 4. 3. The Myſtery of Chriſt; and in that regard it is a Myſtery, and a great Myſtery too, 1 Tim. 3. 16. Without controverſy great is the Myſtery of Godlineſs; God manifeſt in the Fleſh being the ſubject of it, coming therein to reconcile the World; Which plot, conſidering how things ſtood betwixt God and us, and laying theſe concluſions that God will not put up the leaſt wrong at mens hands, now fallen, without full ſatisfaction, which they nor any Creature is able to make, and yet that Nature that did offend muſt ſatisfy; Had it been referd to a Conſultation of all intelligible Natures, Angels and Men, that ever were or ſhall be, it would have wilderd and plunged their thoughts to Eternity how it might be done, and after Millions of years conſultation they would have returned anſwer, they could not think of nor find out any.

Great, therefore is the Myſtery of godlineſs, God to this end manifeſted in the Fleſh, and that ſo great as now it is revealed all the World that hears and ſees into the plot muſt needs acknowledge it ſo; without controverſy generally, without mouth as the word ſignifies, ὁμολογουμένῶς.

And

And in the Incarnation of his Son, and the ſatisfaction of his Juſtice, ſo many more alſo meet in this one Myſtery, Things of ſuch a ſeeming contradiction, as the Wits of men know not how to reconcile. And this in every part of it, as in Election, that God at once loves the Sinner with an everlaſting unchangable Love, and yet a Child of wrath. Which the Remonſtrants therefore quarrel; in the work of Redemption, that free Grace, and richeſt Mercy, and fulleſt Satisfaction, ſhould meet together; which the Socinians therefore are blinded in. In the work of Juſtification, That one in whom God works inherent Righteouſneſs, ſhould not ſtand righteous before God's Tribunal, but be juſtified by the Righteouſneſs of another, which the Papiſts ſtumble at, as did the Jews to their deſtruction. In Sanctification; How effectual Calling, infallible Converſion, ſhould ſtand with man's Free-will, is a riddle to the Arminians and Papiſts, who therefore cut the knot, not being able to unty it. All theſe are Myſteries, which God hath revealed and made up in this, on purpoſe to ſhew his Wiſdom, and to make wiſe his own, and to befool the World.

A Myſtery! Then it is of ſuch depths of wiſdom, as take all the poor petty plots of accommodating great difficulties, wherein the Princes and Wiſe men of the World ſpend their thoughts away to vanity, and yet magnifie and pride themſelves in; and this plot, and any one Myſtery in it, when once diſcovered, confoundeth and brings to nothing all theirs, 1 *Cor.*1.19. 1 Cor. 2.8. It all vaniſheth as meer folly; nothing.

And there are not only depths of Wiſdom, but depths of Love in it alſo, *Eph.*3.16. It reveals a breadth, height, depth of Love in Chriſt dying for Enemies, and God giving his Son for Enemies, as paſſeth knowledge. Sin is a great depth, therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, it doth abound, Rom.5.20. and is above meaſure ſinful, Rom.7.13. and ſo you will find it when you gage it to the bottom. And ſo the Devils and damned Spirits in Hell ſhall find it, whilſt they are a ſtudying their ſinfulneſs in Hell to all eternity, (that being their buſineſs,) and can never fathom it.

But yet this of God's Free grace and Chriſt's Love is a depth, which ſwallows up this of Sin, more than the Heavens do the Earth. That place ſeems to compare it to a mighty Sea ſo deep, as it wants a bottom; ſo as though the thoughts of Men and Angels ſhall be diving into it, to all Eternity they ſhall not come to ground: Of the length and breadth alſo, that it knows no ſhoar, that though they ſhall be ſailing over it with that ſmall compaſs of their Capacities for ever, yet they ſhall never come to Land; it paſſeth knowledge. And indeed, my Brethren, theſe are great incitements, eſpecially to Large underſtandings to ſearch into them. For men of Large underſtandings ſeek after depths, as good Swimmers do after deep Waters, and refuſe to go into the Shallows, becauſe they cannot have ſcope enough to exerciſe their skill, and preſently ſtrike aground.

And beſides, This having ſuch depths in it, may ſtill further be ſearched into with pleaſure, for ſtill it paſſeth knowledge. The moſt hidden things in other knowledge, and the cauſes of them, as the cauſe of the Eclipſe of the Sun and Moon. They are like Riddles, which though admired, before revealed, yet then become trivial, and as it were below the Underſtanding, and when you ſee the furtheſt of them they grow ſtale. But there are depths in this Knowledge, which for ever may be dived into with pleaſure; and by reaſon of their depth, the knowledge of them to a renewed Underſtanding will be alwaies freſh and new; every new degree makes all ſeem new, as if not known before, 1 *Cor.*13.10. Still as Knowledge grows more perfect, that which was before is done away and ſwallowed up, as if you had not yet known it, and ſo ſtill it is new. And to ſtudy and hear News all the day, the minds of men are led along with Pleaſure.

And withal this bids men, be ſure they come with reverence and fear, to hear and read them.

Thirdly, It was a Myſtery hid and kept long ſecret in regard of clear revealing of it. The Prophets, 1 *Pet.*1.11. had enquired it into it, and ſearched diligently, unto whom it was revealed, not unto them but us; which therefore is

ſaid

ſaid to be our glory, 1 *Cor.*2.7. being the priviledge we have above the Patriarchs, who yet had knowledge of the Legal Covenant as clearly as we; yet in regard of this, the leaſt in the Kingdom of God is greater than John the Baptiſt, though in regard of clearer inſight into the Goſpel he was greater than any before him.

And this both adds to the excellency of it ſo far, as to commend it to us the more, were any of theſe Secrets, which Philoſophers and Wiſe men, in all Ages, had beat their Brains about, as Qudratum circuli, &c. and the Philoſopher's Stone, found out and revealed to us in theſe Ages: How would we therefore prize it the more; as we do Printing, the Myſtery of which lay hid from the beginning. Nay, this Myſtery, and the Doctrine of it, is that which the Saints for Four thouſand years ſtudied, and ſought to God to know all of them one after another; and ſtill they could get no other anſwer but this, That not unto them, but us.

Again, Where lay it hid all this while? In God's breaſt; ἀπὸ τῶν αἰώνων, the Sæcula ſeculorum, before the World was, Generations ſince; ſo 1 Cor. 2. lay hid in God, and in his Maſter-piece, the chiefeſt of his works.

If one bit of the Choice Books of Solomon, which had lain hid till now, were yet found, a Book about the Nature of Trees, Birds, and Beaſts, how would we prize it? Much more this of God's. But you will ſay, When was it firſt revealed, it had this to commend it; yet now it is 1600 years ſince it ſprang forth, It is not therefore ſo new to us. I Anſwer; It is true, only conſider that as the Law, which though delivered in Moſes's time, yet before Joſiah's time lay hid long; like ſome Rivers, that run ſome Leagues under ground, and then diſcover themſelves again: ſo did the Doctrine of the Goſpel, after the firſt diſcovery of it, lie hid many Ages and Generations, as the Church her ſelf did in the Wilderneſs, when School-Divinity and Popery, both wanting the light of the Goſpel, did cover the World with darkneſs; when it might truly be ſaid, that the World was ſpoiled through Philoſophy and vain Deceit, Traditions of men, Rudiments of the World, and not after Chriſt.

Whereas, but within the compaſs of this Age we now live in, it hath been that the Kingdoms of the World have become again the Kingdoms of Chriſt, Rev. 11.15. and the Temple opened, and the Ark of the Teſtament, as it is in the laſt Verſe, that is, Chriſt; and all his Riches have been broken up and ſearched into, and diſcovered to the eyes of all. That as to the Popiſh part there hath been a New Indies diſcovered, full of Earthly Treaſure, that had not been known before, which hath ſo enriched them: ſo a New Indies of Heavenly Treaſure, a New World of Divinity hath been found out, that was but privately known before, which hath enriched us; and happy were we, if we prized and defended ours, as they do theirs.

And though much of the Heavenly Treaſure was digged up at firſt, yet more hath ſince, and may be, for God will find his Church digging and work of diſcovery to the end of the World. And, my Brethren, theſe are the Times.

And Laſtly, now it is revealed, it is but to the Saints. If the Secrets of it were known to all, they were no Secrets, and leſs to be regarded; but God is dainty of this Knowledge, tells it but to few. Father, I thank thee (ſaith Chriſt) that thou haſt hid theſe things from the wiſe and prudent, and revealed them to Babes. The Doctrine of God's Free Grace, are the moſt inward, practical, and experimental Secrets, and the deep things of God, as the things of the Goſpel, are called, 1 *Cor.*2.10. Which ſecrets are only with them that fear him, (Pſal. 25.14.) and he will ſhew them his Covenant. The things of the Law may be known by Natural men as fully as by others, they have a Copy of them in their Conſciences.

And this ſhews the excellency of this Knowledge, for if there be any Knowledge better than other, God will be ſure to impart it to his Friends and Favourites; John 15.15. You are my Friends, and all I have heard of my Father, I have made known to you. This he will not tell to thoſe who are barely Servants, they know not his mind, as it is there. Believers only have the mind of Chriſt, 1 *Cor.*2. ult.

But

But you will Object, This is not ſo, for this Knowledge is made common to all. God would have the Goſpel preached to every Creature; and ſo it was Coloſſ. 1. 23.

I Anſwer, As when Alexander objected to Ariſtotle, That he would make his Knowledge common, and ſo debaſe it when he publiſhed his Books. He Anſwered, They were Edita, & non edita, for none would underſtand them but his Scholars, and therefore entitled them περὶ ἀκροαμάτων. So this, though publiſhed to all the World, yet it is entituled a Myſtery, and a Myſtery hid, for none know it but the Saints, who are taught of God, and are his Scholars, Joh. 6. 45. That place ſhews, that there muſt be a ſecret teaching by God, and a ſecret learning, If they have heard, and been taught of God. Now God teacheth none but Saints, for all that are ſo taught come unto him; Every one who hath heard, and learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

Ay, But you will ſay, Do not many Carnal men know the Goſpel, and diſcourſe of things in it through ſtrength of Learning? &c.

I Anſwer out of the Text, That though they may know the things which the Goſpel reveals, yet not the riches and glory of them; that ſame rich Knowledge ſpoken of in the Word, they want, and therefore know them not. As a Child and a Jeweller looking upon a Pearl, both look on it, and call it by the ſame name; but the Child yet knows it not as a Pearl in the worth and riches of it, as the Jeweller doth, and therefore cannot be ſaid to know it. Now Matt. 17. 25. a Chriſtian only is likened to a Merchant man, that finds a Pearl of great price, that is, diſcovered to be ſo, and ſold all he had for it, for he knew the worth of it.

But you will ſay, Do not Carnal men know the worth of the things in the Goſpel, and can diſcourſe of the Rich Grace of Chriſt, and worth of him?

I Anſwer, Yes, As a man who hath gotten an Inventory by heart, and the prices alſo, and ſo may know it; yet never was he led into the Exchequer and Treaſury, to ſee all the Jewels themſelves, the Wardrobe of Grace, and Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, to ſee the glory of them; for theſe are all Spiritually diſcerned, as the Apoſtle ſays expreſly, 1 Cor. 2. 14.

USES.

Uſe 1. If it be a Myſtery which God only makes known, as you ſee it is, then go to him for it, you know how to deal with him. James 1. 5. If any lack wiſdom, let him ask it, whoſe Promiſe is in the New Covenant, to teach all his to know him. As you cannot ſee the Sun without the light of it ſelf, ſo nor the Riches of the glory of Chriſt without his Spirit, who is called the Spirit of wiſdom and revelation; who only knows the deep things of God, 1 Cor. 2. 11. as the Myſteries of the Goſpel are, as the context ſhews, that lie all at the bottom of his Breaſt. The Well is deep, we have nothing to draw.

But you will ſay, God hath revealed himſelf in the Scriptures, and it is but reading them, and I have wit enough to underſtand them.

I Anſwer, It was the Spirit that wrote the Word, which is not therefore (ſays Peter) of any private interpretation; that is no mans, nor mens private underſtanding, without the aſſiſtance of that publick Secretary of Heaven, can underſtand them.

He only hid the Treaſures of Knowledge in the field, and he only knows where they lie. What an advantage is it then by Prayer to unlock God's breaſt, and obtain the Key of Knowledge there that unlocks God's Study, and can direct to all his Notes and Papers.

Secondly,

Secondly, Get to be a Saint, to whom God will make known the Riches, &c. otherwiſe you cannot receive them, you will count them fooliſhneſs, as hath been ſhewed; if you do, you will but take them upon truſt, by the Whole-ſale, as we uſe to ſay, and in the bundle, will not be able to ſee the particular ſecrets that are in the Truths revealed in the Goſpel, and opened, and Riches laid out.

Or if you could do all this without Grace, yet a Saint hath advantage.

Firſt, In the comfort you will have in ſtudying the Myſteries of the Goſpel, Col. 2. 2. to go no further, he wiſheth them the knowledge of the Myſtery that they might be comforted; for indeed a Saint, the more he ſees into it, the more he knows his own riches; he tells them but over, and gets more evidence of his Title to them. Whereas another is but as a Lawyer, that ſtudies other mens Evidences, without any great comfort to himſelf. The choiceſt Flowers of Goſpel Truths to an unregenerate man, are of the ſtalk, and yield no ſcent, but grow up in a Saints heart freſh and comfortable.

Secondly, In that place Col. 2. 2. you ſhall find Riches of Aſſurance joyned with a Saint's knowledge, which 1 Theſſ. 1. 4, 5. is made a note of Election, and not in another. Scotus ſays, That to get a true and perfect knowledge in Divine things, Fides infuſa & acquiſita, both Faith infuſed and acquired are neceſſary.

1. A Principle of Faith infuſed, which may be an Evidence, as it is defined Heb. 11. 1. of all the Principles and fundamental Truths which are revealed in the Goſpel, and not proved, for otherwiſe all our Knowledge acquired built thereon, will want Aſſurance, will hang upon uncertainties. Things hanging upon a Pin, are no firmer than the Pin they hang on, unleſs Faith rivets the Principles of Divine knowledge into the heart, all the concluſions hang on uncertainties, and fall down in the end.

And, Thirdly, Grace will help you to get the ſtart of another. As for a Natural man, he brings only Natural parts; a Regenerate man is ſuppoſed to have as good, and moreover, hath a further power of Diſcerning given him; 1 Cor. 2. 15. The Spiritual man diſcerneth all things. It is his own Art: And as Wicked men are often wiſer, in their Art and Generation, than the Children of Light; yea, by your leave, the Reaſon will more ſtrongly hold, that a Child of Light may eaſilier be wiſer in his; and therefore Solomon ſays, The knowledge of the holy is underſtanding.

And Laſtly, If they be Saints, God makes known the ſaving Truths of the Goſpel, by the Writings and Judgments of Holy men. The Angels learn theſe Myſteries of the Church, and why ſhould not we? Pſal. 29. 9. In the Church every one ſpeaks of God's glory; or as Others read it, In the Church God utters all his glory. The Saints eſpecially, that are or have been of the Church, they ſpeak of the glory of his Kingdom, and of his Power, and make known to the Sons of Men his mighty Acts, and the glorious Majeſty of his Kingdom. The ways of Grace, and Myſteries of the Kingdom, are ſeldom made known, but unto them.

And, if God reveals the Myſteries of Grace to his Saints only, truſt not the Judgments of Natural men in the matters of Grace; this is a godly man's Art, and not a wicked man's, though never ſo learned: And a man would truſt an Artiſt in his own Trade, rather than another. The knowledge of the Holy is underſtanding, ſays Solomon Prov. 9. 10. eſpecially in ways of Holineſs.

Take the Controverſies which are now on foot; Shall they judge of Election, who are reprobate to every good work themſelves; or they, of the univerſality of God's Free Grace, who turn the Grace of God into wantonneſs? Or they, of the Power of God in Converſion, that deny the Power of godlineſs? Or thoſe, of the perſeverance of Faith, who care not to make voluntary ſhipwreck of it? Men of corrupt minds, whoſe god is their Belly, Gain their godlineſs, Preferment their Religion, and who will cut their own Opinions accordingly.

I will

I will end all with one place, Iſai. 35. 8. In the former Verſes he evidently ſpeaks of the Kingdom of Chriſt coming to preach the Goſpel, by which he ſhews there ſhould be a Way revealed, an High-way, which is the Common road to Heaven, there being but one way which Chriſt and all his go in, which ſhall be called, The Way of Holineſs. Take heed you miſ-call it not, and call it a Way of Schiſm, Faction, &c. as the Jews did call it Hereſie. But yet this Way the Unclean ſhall not paſs over; but Wayfaring men, who deſire to know the Way to Heaven (though Fools) ſhall not erre therein; but the Unclean (as the oppoſition ſhews) ſhall erre therein, though never ſo Learned.

The Glory of the Gospel.

The Second

SERMON

On COLOSS. 1. 26, 27.

Even the Mystery which hath been hid from Ages and Generations, but now is made manifest to his Saints.

To whom God would make known what is the riches of the Glory of this Mystery, among the Gentiles, which is Christ in you the hope of Glory.

WE have done with the Subject and Author of it, let us come to the Properties of it.

1. It is Rich; 2. Glorious.

First, Rich; so Chap. 2. 3. he tells us, that in it or him, that is, the Gospel or Christ, of both which he speaketh, are hid all the Treasures of Wisdom and Knowledge. Now the Riches of this Knowledge appear in Three things.

1. In Abundance; 2. Preciousness; 3. Gainfulness. And such is the Knowledge of Christ.

First, Abundant; For that place tells us that it is All Knowledge, Viâ eminentiæ: As the Metaphysick is said to be All knowledge, because of the fulness, largeness of the Subject of it; all Truths and Axioms in other Sciences being swallowed up in its Principles. Such is this Knowledge also, the Subject of it being Christ; and therefore, as Christ contains in him Viâ eminentiæ, all the Treasures of perfection that are in any Creature, and is full of Grace and Truth, Joh. 1. 14. So doth the Knowledge of Christ contain in it all the Treasures of Wisdom, and all that is worth knowing; Treasures which can never be drawn dry or exhausted, which the mind of man can never waste; but bringing in new revenews of new Notions daily, so as the more is spent, the more may be. Other Knowledges being but of the Creature, are but imperfect; for the things known are such; and cannot fill the mind with abundance of knowledge, for the things have not wherewithal to do it, though they be known to the utmost. But in him all fulness dwells, verse 19. Fulness of Truth to fill the Mind, as well as fulness of Grace to fill the Will, 1 Joh. 14. And indeed, for abundance, unsearchable riches, Eph. 3. 9.

Secondly, It is a Rich Mystery for the Preciousness of it. The Promises of it are exceeding precious, 2 Pet. 2. 4. Every Truth in it is precious, so Paul tells us, 1 Cor. 3. 12. All Truths of the Gospel, built upon the Foundation, Christ, he calls calls Pearls, and Gold, and Silver; and all the enticing words of man's wiſdom, Hay and Stubble. Yea, *Prov.*3.15,16. Solomon ſays, Wiſdom and Underſtanding, is better than Gold and Silver, which yet commands all in the World. And, 2. If Rubies and Precious Stones be more worth than Gold, She is more precious than Rubies. And what is it that makes things precious, that is not found in theſe ſaving Truths and Promiſes of the Goſpel?

1. Antiquity makes things precious; ſo ſmall pieces of Coin and Medals, if Ancient, are precious. And this was coined in Heaven, and in God before all Ages and Generations, and bears the Image of the Great King. It is the Everlaſting Goſpel, Rev.14.15.

2. Things far fetcht are precious. Not a word of this but fell from Heaven. Chriſt came from Heaven, where he heard and ſaw all the Truths revealed in it, and ſo delivered them to us, John 3.31,32. And this difference is put between the Law and the Goſpel, *Heb.*12.25. The Law was ſpoken from the Earth, the Goſpel from Heaven.

3. Things dearly bought are precious. Every Truth of the Goſpel coſt Chriſt his Blood to make it ſo; The Law came by Moſes, but Grace and Truth came by Jeſus Chriſt. As Grace coſt his Blood, ſo Truth alſo; for both coſt the ſame price. All the Promiſes are Yea and Amen in him; they had all been blanks, if he had not ſet his Blood as a Seal to them.

4. Things charily laid up are precious. The Goſpel hath had the richeſt Cabinet in the World, God's Breaſt; there is the Original of it, *Eph.*3.9. The Original Copy lies there, the Counterpart in the heart of God's Elect, 2 *Cor.*3.3. Ye are the Epiſtle of Chriſt, written by the Spirit of the Living God. In whom therefore it is ſaid to abide for ever, 1 Pet. 1. ult. Lockt up in the Church, the Pillar, and ground of Truth.

5. Things which periſh not are precious, eſpecially if ſtill they preſerve themſelves from what attempts to corrupt them, 1 *Pet.*1.7. Faith is therefore ſaid to be Precious, becauſe it periſheth not, though tried in the fire. Such are the Truths of the Goſpel, which though men have endeavoured to corrupt it, by a world of the Droſs of humane Errors and Inventions; yet God hath ſtill come with fire and tried it. And ſtill the more men labour to mingle Droſs with God's Truth, ſtill it endures the fire, and comes out clearer and clearer in every Age, *Pſal.*12.6. The words of the Lord are pure words, as Silver tried in a Furnace of Earth, purified ſeven times. There is no Truth of God, but hath been tried in one Age or other. Hereſies have been brought in, yet it remains pure, maintains it ſelf. The Truth was mingled with Droſs in Pelagius's time, and then purified. So in Bradwardine's time, and then alſo it came out purer; and ſo now with fine Droſs, but God will purifie it.

A Third thing in Riches is Profitableneſs; and in that reſpect the Goſpel to the Saints is a rich Goſpel. It talks not only of Riches as Stories do; as that of Solomon's time, when Silver was as Stones of the Streets; nor doth it open Heavens Treaſury Gates, and ſhew them the Riches of it only, as Hezekiah did the Ambaſſadours that came to viſit him. A man may thus hear and ſee the Riches of another, and be a poor man ſtill: But Riches is Chriſt in you, ſaith the Text. When he hears and receives the Goſpel aright, it fills his Lap full, he carries Chriſt and all his Riches home with him.

Well might Solomon ſay, as Prov. 3. 14, 15. Happy is the man that findeth Wiſdom, and that gets Underſtanding; for her Merchandize is better than Silver, and the gain thereof than fine Gold. And if any thing in the world be better than theſe, which yet the World hath, as Rubies and precious Stones ſeem to be; She is more precious (ſaith he) than Rubies. And if ſtill the heart of man ſhould enlarge its vaſt deſires, and wide gapings to ſome more conceived precious things than theſe, though unknown. Do, ſays Solomon, ſtretch the compaſs of your deſires to as great a wideneſs as you can; deſire what you can, And all you can deſire is not to be compared to her. It is not only exceeded, but there is no compariſon. And this he ſpeaks not of the preciouſneſs, as in it ſelf, but of the gain and profit it brings to the Poſſeſſors, Their gain, ſays he, &c.

But you will ſay, Wherein conſiſts theſe Riches of the Goſpel?
Anſwer, Which Riches is Chriſt in you. And can you make an Inventory, and ever value and prize his goods? Surely, No.

Firſt, Chriſt is worth all God is worth, as he is the Son of God; for he is the only Son, the welbeloved Son, in whom God is ſo well pleaſed, that he will not give a peny away from him; he is the Heir, and ſhall have all. And the Goſpel makes him yours with all his Riches, which Riches is Chriſt in you. Thus the Apoſtle argues and pleads the evidence of the right a Chriſtian hath to all things, 1 Cor. 3. ult. All things are yours, for you are Chriſt's, and Chriſt is God's.

God himſelf can be worth but All things, Chriſt is worth what God is, for all things that are God's are Chriſt's. And you have as much as Chriſt hath. What Riches are here? All things are given to be inherited, *Rev.*21.7. by the ſame; And as ſure a Title as Chriſt, Rom. 8. 7. we are put into God's Will, Joynt heirs with Chriſt, though not Joynt purchaſers, for he purchaſed all, and all theſe gives freely; no Debts are to be paid, nor Legacies or Portions out of them. *Rom.*8. 30. If he hath given us Chriſt, ſhall not he with him give us all things freely. Chriſt is not only worth All things, as the Heir, and We are worth ſo much becauſe Chriſt is given to us; but He paid for all things dearly. And look what the revenues of Chriſt's Blood come to, that and ſo much is a Chriſtian worth.

For Chriſt paid ready down, at his death, an invaluable ſum of Merit into his Father's hands, (as Feoffee in truſt,) as a common Stock or Bank, to be employed for the good and uſe of all his Saints, who are to have the full worth of them out to eternity. You know (ſays the Apoſtle 2 Cor. 8. 9.) the grace of Chriſt; how when he was rich, he became poor (mark it) for your ſakes, to enrich you. Now what muſt theſe Riches come to think you, which are laid up for you, whenas Chriſt was as rich as God himſelf; Thought it no robbery to be equal with God, Phil. 2. 8. as good in eſtate every whit. Now of all theſe Riches he emptied himſelf, verſe 8. left himſelf not worth one Farthing, and became poor, had not a hole left to hide himſelf in, made himſelf of no reputation, of no account or reckoning, making over all for you; And what muſt this come to? The Riches of God put out to uſe, to be received with advantage again, if poſſible, and put into ſure hands, even God the Father's, who hath bid us owe no man any thing, but love: And ſurely he loves his own too well to owe them any thing.

If they ſhould doubt he hath entred into Bond, and the Goſpel is that Bond, which is therefore called a Rich Goſpel, becauſe it is the Promiſe of all theſe Riches; *Eph.*3. 6. Partakers of the Promiſe of the Goſpel. It is the Goſpel that makes us partakers of the Promiſe, that is, the things promiſed; and they are, verſe 8. The unſearchable Riches of Chriſt. So as if you deſire particularly to have the value of them, or in groſs, the total ſum, they are unſearchable Riches, which cannot be told over to Eternity, much leſs be ſpent. Riches in Juſtification, to have all debts paid the firſt day, and that would enhance Unſearchable Riches: Set a price on all Angels, all Creatures; it would not pay one Note, the leaſt Bill. All other things are not worth ſo much; it coſt more to redeem Souls than ſo. And beſides, To have ſtill left ſo rich Righteouſneſs as purchaſed Riches of Grace; to have the Spirit poured out richly, as Tit. 3. 6. The word in the Original is Riches of Glory, Eph. 1. In reſpect of which all Riches in the World are but as Crumbs of the Rich man's Table, or Relicks given to the Poor. The Kingdom of Turky (as one called it,) but a Cruſt thrown to a Dog. And is it not a Rich Knowledge then, that enriches the Knowers of it, which ſhould invite men to learn it. For if men think other Knowledge in it ſelf ſo rich, as to be content to ſpend their Eſtates, to attain but Notions to fill their Brains, not Purſes; then how much more for this, which as it is precious, ſo it brings in all theſe Riches as the gain of it?

Angels are invited to ſearch it for the precioufneſs of it, and yet theſe Riches are not Chriſt in them, but Chriſt in you. But then do but know and ſtudy your own Riches and Evidences for them; therefore in Eph. 3. where the end of revealing theſe Riches is laid open, verſe 8. there are two ſorts of Creatures, ſays he, to whom God intended to reveal them, firſt, Men, v. 9. ſecondly, Angels, v. 10. but with this differing intent, that the Angels might know the Wiſdom which was in the Goſpel, ver. 10. The Harmony in the Plot is what the Angels are taken with; and this, though men may alſo ſee in the Goſpel, yet further the end was, that they might know the Fellowſhip of the Myſtery; that is, that they might be made partakers of it.

Fourthly, Property; As it is a rich Myſtery, ſo alſo glorious, What is the Riches of the glory, &c. which words (as other Hebraiſms are convertible) rich Glory, or glorious Riches; ſo as no man can ſay, whether the Riches or the Glory of it be greater.

Now, this glorious Title the Apoſtle gives often unto the Goſpel, as 1 Tim. 1. 11. And 2 Cor. 4. 4. Leſt the light of the glorious Goſpel ſhould ſhine into them. And in the third Chapter of that Epiſtle, throughout he fully diſplaies the glory of it, which the Apoſtle doth by comparing it with the Law or Covenant of Works, becauſe there was no queſtion of any other Knowledge never ſo excellent, yet revealed, that could ſtand on terms of compariſon with it.

The Law indeed, ſays he, it was a glorious Law, though written but in Stones and dead Letters; and therefore when it was miniſtred, the Glory of God appeared on the Mount, Exod. 24. 16, 17. to note out, That that Law was the glorious Image of his Will. And therefore alſo even the Face of Moſes, ſays that 7*th* verſe, by whoſe hands it was adminiſtred, ſhined, ſo as the People could not behold it for the glory of his Countenance. And ſo terrible was the ſight, ſaith the Author to the Hebrews, that Moſes ſaid, I quake and tremble, Heb. 12, 21.

But yet ſays Paul, verſe 8, 9. The Goſpel it exceeds in glory, yea, and ſo far exceeds, as v. 10. as the Law which was thus made glorious, had no glory in reſpect of this glory which excelleth; but like as the Sun, when it ariſeth, puts out the leſſer eyes of Heaven; dims, yea clean obſcures theſe otherwiſe glorious Tapers, ſo as they have no glory in this reſpect, ſo the Goſpel exceeds the Law. And if you ask, Wherein it exceeds in Glory? The Anſwer is, Becauſe it is the Miniſtration and diſcoverer of far more glorious things to the Saints, than ever the Law could do.

If you ask, What glorious things are communicated and revealed therein? I Anſwer out of the 3 and 4*th* Chapters, which explain the glorious work of the Goſpel on mens hearts, when they are brought to God. For when any man is converted at the preaching of the Goſpel, firſt, before the Word works, the Holy Ghoſt falls on a man; as when Chriſt was baptized, Heaven opened, and the Holy Ghoſt deſcended and reſted on him: ſo in Acts 10. 44. when the Goſpel was preached by Peter, the Holy Ghoſt fell on them; and of the Spirit, the Goſpel is the Miniſtration, and not the Law, Gal. 3. 5. I would ask of you, Received you the Spirit by the works of the Law, or of the hearing of Faith? that is, the Goſpel, for ſo Faith is taken for the Doctrine of Faith. And this Miniſtration of the Spirit, is by vertue of a Covenant made (Iſai. 59. ult.) with Chriſt; that Spirit that was in him, and Word that was in his mouth, to wit the Goſpel, ſhould not depart out of the mouth of his Seeds ſeed for ever, but it ſhould accompany his Elect.

And is not then the Goſpel a glorious Goſpel, that makes men partakers of the Holy Ghoſt, and that for ever? which Spirit is a Spirit of Glory, 1 Pet. 4 14. which reſts on his; the Spirit of Glory, becauſe it fills the man it dwells in with Glory. For look, as when God deſcended into the viſible Temple, it was filled with Glory, 2 Chron. 7. 1. And by reaſon of that Preſence, the Ark it ſelf was called the Glory, Rom. 9. 4. So when God fills the preaching of the Goſpel (whereof the Ark was a Type) with his glorious Spirit, and by it fills the heart of a man with that Spirit alſo; as Eph. 5. 18. There is a new glory put upon that man.

But

But Secondly, This Goſpel is by the power of this Spirit, the miniſtration of Righteouſneſs to the Man God means to call, and therefore alſo glorious, as the Apoſtle there argues; that is, This Goſpel, by the help of the Spirit working Faith in his heart, reveals the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt to be made his, and that exceeds in glory; for it is this Righteouſneſs which in the laſt Verſe of that third Chapter is called The glory of the Lord, viz. Chriſt; who being the Lord of Glory, the King of Glory. 1 Cor. 2. 8. what a glorious Righteouſneſs muſt this be which the Goſpel thus diſcovers? And it diſcovers it not by engraving or dead Colours, as the Law did; but as in a Glaſs: And as that Glaſs is glorious wherein the Sun ſhines, the very Image there puts down all the Stars; ſo this Glaſs, the Goſpel muſt needs be glorious, wherein the Sun of Righteouſneſs ſhines, as he is called Malach. 3 2. Neither doth it reveal it only but diſpenſeth it, it is the Miniſtration of Righteouſneſs. Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, which is the glory of the Sun, the King of glory made ours to Juſtify us: And therefore Rev. 12. 1. the Church appears clothed with the Sun, even with Chriſt himſelf and his glory, who is therefore ſaid to be our Righteouſneſs, Jer. 22. 6. Hereby as Chriſt ſaid of the Lillies, Matt. 6. 29. that Solomon in all his glory was not clothed like one of theſe; So may I ſay of all the Angels who yet are the bright morning Stars, that ſang when the World was made, Job. 38. 7. That they are not clothed with ſuch a glory as the Goſpel diſpenſeth to us, ſuch a Robe never came on their backs nor never ſhall. And is not this a glorious Goſpel then?

Thirdly, In the ſight and diſpenſation of the glorious Righteouſneſs of Chriſt, we come yet to ſee a further glory ſhining on us, and ſtill in the Goſpel, ſo in the 4. and 6. verſes of the next Chapter, 2 Cor. 4. For the Goſpel gives the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jeſus Chriſt; that is through the righteouſneſs of Chriſt we come to ſee the glorious Sunſhine of the favour of God, the Light of his Countenance lift up upon us: For when Moſes would ſee his glory, the Lord proclaimed only this, Exod. 34. 6. The Lord Merciful and gratious. And as he is the Father of glory, Epheſ. 1. 7. So his mercy is the riches of his glory, Rom. 9. 23. and Pſal. 90. 14, 15, 16. The Church praying for mercy and favour ſays, Let thy Glory be on thy Servants; and therefore is not this a glorious Goſpel that reveales this to a man alſo, that God graciouſly accepteth us in the beloved.

Fourthly, The beholding thus the glory of Chriſt, viz. his Righteouſneſs in the Goſpel, it changeth us into the ſame Image, from Glory to Glory, verſe the laſt of the Third Chapter; That is, makes Grace in us which is truly Glorious, and therefore Pſal. 45. the Church is ſaid to be all Glorious within, Epheſ. 5. 26, 27. He Sanctifies his Church, that he might preſent it a glorious Church. Juſtification not only makes us Glorious, but Sanctification alſo, and this is diſpenſed by the Goſpel, for that Sanctifies us to the end of the World, John 17. and is the Glaſs we are changed by.

Nay, Fifthly, The very light it ſelf whereby we do behold theſe things in the Goſpel, and are thus changed, is glorious, 1 Pet. 1. 4. We are called of darkneſs to a marvelous light; And the joy that ariſeth out of beholding Chriſt's Righteouſneſs as ours, and God's favour it is joy unſpeakable and glorious, 1 Pet. 1. 8.

And Laſt of all, It gives in certain hope of a further Glory yet to be revealed, as the Text hath it, and verſe 17. of the 4th. Chapter, An Eternal weight of Glory. All the glory of this World it bears no weight, κένη δόξα, Empty, Frothy, Glory, as the Apoſtle calls it, but this is an exceeding weight of Glory, which if all that glorious luſter men doat on ſo, were weighed, it would be but as a duſt ballanced againſt it; ſo weighty as fleſh and blood, that is, the Infirmity of man's Nature, if not changed and made capable could not ſubſiſt under it, 1 Cor. 15. 50.

And all the Glory here is a fading Glory, but that is Eternal, 1 Pet. 1. 24 All flesh is Grass, and all the Glory of Man as the Flower of Grass, the Grass withereth and the Flower falleth away, but the Glory of this Estate fades and [illegible] but is a Flower always green, and the reason is because the glory of [illegible] one thing, and the things another, the Grass one thing, and the Flower another, and therefore the Glory fades and is clean gon, when yet the things [illegible] But Glory in this estate, as the things above, the very essence of them is Glory it self, and called, and therefore, whilst the things remain, (as they do for ever,) their Glory doth. And is not this a glorious Gospel?

USES,

First, If the Gospel and the riches of it be thus great, then buy it, Prov. 23. 23. Buy the Truth and sell it not; he names no price, for you are not like to [illegible] this place hath been the greatest Mart of Truth [illegible] that I know under Heaven, Wisdom hath [illegible] great Cross.

[illegible] for you, and that dearly, it cost the Blood of [illegible] the sweat of many Preachers, the Prayers of [illegible] God the Riches of his Patience to see it contemned. Buy it [illegible]

[illegible] you come hither and live under those, read those [illegible] you should whilst you are here, treasure up [illegible] as you can, and grace withal to vent by retail in the Country, [illegible]

Fifthly, Enquire [illegible] Treasures are to be had, even in the Scriptures. The [illegible] the Pearl was fain to buy the Field; Ti- [illegible] ptures, and so should you do, they are able to make the man of God perfect. As the Book [illegible] known, make a perfect Physitian for the Body [illegible] Search the Scriptures, says Christ, for they speak [illegible] Treasury of all knowledge, so the Scriptures are of Christ [illegible] searched in all the Veins of the Prophets and A- postles, [illegible] pains and travel to understand them, as [illegible] seal up his Prophecy in the Letter, Many shall be instructed. That is by doing as Mer- [illegible]; comparing one with another, know-

[illegible] Warehouses of those who have laid in or [illegible] That is, use the help of Godly mens writ- ings [illegible] learn of the Church, and why not we: Even [illegible] that he might be comforted by their [illegible]

[illegible] one with another to that end, Christ hath [illegible] Ephes. 4. 12.

[illegible], some have more skil in one [illegible] Ages several truths have been deli- vered [illegible], by fragments and by pieces, and there- fore [illegible] the help of all: None [illegible] as Paul, to whom nothing can be add- [illegible]

[illegible] the Key of knowledge, Jesus Christ, Rev. [illegible] they searched and enquired, that is, they [illegible] the Apostles did spend the time in both,

[illegible] every truth, if a Fool hath a price in his hand, he hath no heart to use it, Prov. 3. because he esteems it not, count all dross and dung for the excellent knowledge of Christ, doat not on human learn- ing too much, least it spoile and rob you of this.

Fifthly,

Fifthly, Exchange all for it, ſell all for it, ſell all that you have for it, your ſins; no ſaving truths can be yours whilſt ſin is yours, Joh. 17. 17. 1 Pet. 1. 22. they purified their Souls by obeying the Truth; for if you receive the truth as you ought it will caſt out all. Eſpecially lay down pride of Parts, Pſal. 25 13. he will teach the humble his ſecrets, he will not teach proud Schollars. God will not deal nor trade with a wicked man, 1 Tim. 6.4. men being corrupt of diſpoſitions are deſtitute therefore of the truth.

Sixthly, Carry all home, and make them your own, it is not your own whilſt it is in your brains, as no more meat is your own but what you eat; Let it be the ingrafted word, James 1. 21. Be you Evangeliz'd, Matt. 11. 4.

Uſe Second, If the Goſpel be ſo precious, ſell it not, for you can never get the full worth of it; Buy the Truth, ſaith Solomon, Prov. 23. 23. And ſell it not, that is, part not with it at any hand. And this know for your encouragement, that God takes it not away from any Man or Nation, untill they willingly part with it or put it away; for why elſe doth he bid them not ſell it, his meaning is, if you do not, I will never deprive you of it.

To this purpoſe is the example of Eſau brought, Heb. 12. 16. For ſpeaking of this rich grace offered in the Goſpel, he bids them take heed that there be no profane perſon as Eſau was, that ſold his birthright. That look as God would not have deprived Eſau of the bleſſing unleſs he had freely ſold it. Jonah 28. Job. 23. 26. So nor them of the precious Goſpel.

And he adds this to enforce this Exhortation the more, That a man muſt not think to receive it when he will; afterwards he would have inherited the bleſſing, ſought it with tears, but could not, ver. 17. And as he takes it not from a particular man, ſo neither from a Nation.

In Acts 13. 46. the Church of the Jews had been the Antient Pillar of truth, and Market for the Goſpel, God had new precious Wares to be vented, which had lain hid from all Eternityas this Text ſhews; See what Paul and Barnabas ſay, who were his Factors to trade for him, it is neceſſary they ſhould firſt be ſpoken to you. 'Tis ſtrange, it was neceſſary, for God's cuſtom is not to offer his precious Wares to new Cuſtomers till the old had refuſed them. But now ſays he, you ſhew your ſelves unworthy; Lo, now we turn to the Gentiles, we will go ſeek chapmen all the World over rather than you ſhall have the offer of them any more; And as in an Eſtate of Land wherein three have a right, until all give over, it is not ſold. So in this Kingdom there are three, There are Magiſtrates, Miniſters, People; If either of theſe do what they can to keep it, it is not ſold. Therefore to theſe three doth God look Jer. 5. 1. To the Magiſtrates, to ſee if that there were a man that ſought truth. Secondly, To the Common People who know not the Law. And Laſt of all to the Prophets and Prieſts, and when all conſpired; Then What ſhall you do in the end thereof?

And if the Truth be thus rich and precious, let me ſpeak freely to you, Let the Market ſtand open, take heed how you prohibit any truth to be ſold in your Markets; but let the word run and be glorified, and let Wiſdom cry all her Wares: If every Truth be thus precious is it not an impoveriſhing of the Kingdom to hinder the Trafick of any? Nay, is it not a hindering the King's Cuſtom? Revenues of God's glory ariſeth out of the Cuſtom of theſe Wares. Thoſe times are in a great degree of ſelling away theſe Truths, that cannot endure (as Paul ſpeaks 2 Tim. 4. 3. 4.) wholſom Doctrine.

Secondly, Take heed of ſuffering Falſhood to be ſold for Truth, Rev. 2. 20. one of the Churches is blamed for ſuffering Jezabel to teach and to ſeduce Chriſt's Servants; if we do ſo, we ſhall have Popery bought for Truth, Arminianiſm for Truth, and ſo by degrees ſell away that bleſſed Inheritance which our Foreſathers left us; as Heirs do ſell away their Lands, firſt one Lordſhip, and then another, piece by piece, till all be gon; and ſo our Silver by little and little become Droſs as Iſaiah ſpeaks the 1.22. This will provoke God, (if any thing,) to ſell you into your Enemies hands for nought, Pſal. 44. 12.

But

But Thirdly, If it be thus precious, Hold it faſt, as Paul ſpeaks to Titus, 1. 9. Hold faſt the Faithful word. The word ſignifies to hold againſt contrary puſhing it away, ἀντεχόμενον. If a man would not ſell the Inheritance left him, much leſs would he ſuffer it to be taken from him. Suppoſe it be but a trifle, yet men in a caſe of right will ſpend their Eſtates to hold their own, though the Suit will not bear its own charges. But when you contend for the Truth once given, as the Apoſtle Jude exhorts, you labour to preſerve not your own only, but God's right. It is not about a trifle, but for that which Chriſt once ſpent his Blood; and it is the Faithful word, as the Apoſtle calls it, a Cauſe that will ſtick to you, and maintain it ſelf, be ſure to overcome; and not bear its own charges only, but brings a Crown with it, 2 *Tim.*4.7,8. I have fought the good Fight, I have kept the Faith, henceforth a Crown is laid up for me. Chriſt did witneſs ſo before Pontius Pilate, 1 *Tim.*6.

And Laſt of all, If it be thus Rich as well as Precious, let it dwell richly in you, πλουσίως, as the word is *Coloſ.*3.16. Give it not poor, but rich entertainment, as you would do a rich Kinſman, who means to make you his Heir, and eſtate you in all his Riches.

And to that end, Labour to grow rich in the knowledge of it, and ſpeech of it, as Paul ſpeaks 1 *Cor.*1.5. That you may be enriched in all knowledge, and in all utterance, or ſpeech about it, as men labour to know what they are worth, and love to talk of it.

2. Beſtow Riches of aſſurance on it, as *Coloſſ.*2.2. That you may have the Riches of full Aſſurance of underſtanding; and James 2.5. To be rich in Faith. Truſt in him, as men that are rich uſe to do in their Riches, Prov. 10.15. And though their Riches be uncertain, and not able to do what they expect, yet this is profitable for all things, having ſo many rich Promiſes made for you to rely upon.

3. Beſtow Riches of Obedience on it, endeavouring to grow rich in Good works, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks, 1 Tim. 6,8. Spend the moſt precious of your time and thoughts upon it.

USES of that Doctrine,

The Glory of the GOSPEL.

Firſt for Trial, Whether a man hath ſavingly received it, or no? for if it be thus glorious, then they are ſtill blinded to deſtruction that ſee it not in the glory of it. This is the direct conſequence of the Apoſtle himſelf in 2 *Cor.*4.4. For he having diſcourſed of that rich and excellent Glory which it reveals, then ſays he, Thoſe that have lived ſo long under the preaching of it, are loſt, into whoſe hearts the light of this glorious Goſpel hath not ſhined. And certainly, ſaith he, The god of this World hath blinded their eyes; that is, the Devil, by varniſhing over the vain glittering Scheme and gloſs of the things of this World, as he did to Chriſt, *Matt.*4.8. Dazles them ſo, that they ſee no more glory in the things which the Goſpel reveals, than blind men do. The fault muſt certainly be in mens Eyes; for this glorious Goſpel, wherever it ſhines, is as the Sun in it ſelf; it is Primum viſibile.

Blind men are never the better for the Sun, though they may have eyes to ſee the things the Goſpel propounds, yet not the glory, the worth and excellency of them, ſo as to be intimately and deeply affected with them, as to be content to leave, Houſe, Lands, Father, and Wife, for the Goſpels ſake, as Chriſt ſpeaks, Mark 10.29. that is, to enjoy thoſe things you hear ſpoken of in the Goſpel.

And this is that, which Chriſt expreſly out of Iſaiah ſpeaks of the blind Phariſees, to whom the Glory of Chriſt was preached in the Goſpel, John 12.40,41. For, ſays he, Iſaiah ſeeing that his Glory ſpoke this of them, That God had blinded their eyes, &c. that they ſhould not ſee; that is, not ſee that Glory of Chriſt as preached to them, ſo as Iſaiah ſaw it, and all Saints to be humbled and converted by it.

Examine your ſelves therefore; You go up and down in the World here, and you view daily the riches of it, and the pleaſures of it, the beauty, the credit, the glory of it. And from viewing theſe things, you often come here to the Word, which as a Glaſs that the Sun ſhines in, reveals Chriſt to you, the neceſſity, the worth of his Spirit, Righteouſneſs and Graces, which are laid open to your view daily. Now ſeriouſly tell me, or rather thy own heart, In which of theſe doſt thou ſee moſt glory, by which art thou moſt intimately allured? Shall I tell thee, If ever thou hadſt ſavingly ſeen the glory of the things of the Goſpel, all the Excellencies of the World would ſeem no excellencies. When thou goeſt from the Church again into the World, the Devil's varniſh would melt off, as Womens paint doth againſt the Sun. And as Candles burn dim and wan, when ſet againſt the Sun; ſo theſe.

The things thou didſt account moſt glorious, before thy eyes were opened, would ſeem to have no Glory in compariſon of this Glory, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks of the Law, 2 Cor. 3. 10. of this Glory that it excelleth, Excellens ſenſibile deſtruit ſenſum. It would put out the Carnal Eye quite and clean. This you may ſee *Iſai.*40.5,6. where the Holy Ghoſt ſpeaks expreſly of the Preaching the Goſpel by John the Baptiſt, whom in the third Verſe he calls, the Voice of a Crier; and Peter applies the place to the Preaching of the Goſpel, 1 Pet. 1. 25. Now (ſays he, v. 5.) the Glory of the Lord Chriſt ſhould thereby be revealed, and ſo revealed, that all fleſh ſhould ſee it, that is, many Believers both of Jew and Gentiles, for ſo all Fleſh is taken alſo *Pſal.*65.2. See it namely in this Mirrour and Glaſs, 2 Cor. 3. 18. and what is the effect of it? Why, All Fleſh is graſs, and the goodlineſs or glory thereof, as Peter calls it, as the flower of the field. And in their eyes now, that have ſeen the ſuperexcellent Glory, it withers and fades; all the glory of the World appears like withered flowers, for the Spirit of the Lord, which reveals this glory in the Goſpel, blaſts, blows upon them all, ſo as they loſe their gloſs and eſteem in mens hearts; they can never dote on them again as before.

What is Learning thinks the poor Soul, in compariſon of Grace? What is all the World to the Righteouſneſs of Chriſt? And then all the Glow-worm Righteouſneſs of a man's ſelf, which civil men glory in, ſo vaniſheth, which once ſhined in the dark ſo, when this Sun ariſeth. So it did with Paul, Phil. 3. Then, however a man thought of himſelf before, as thinking he had many excellencies in him, yet having ſeen this glory, he falls down, as Iſaiah did in like caſe, *Iſai.*6.5. I am undone, I am unclean; a vile wretch, that deſerves undoing and deſtruction.

Secondly, If it be thus glorious, See if thou art able to behold the Glory of it, comfortably and joyfully, without winking. This is another Conſectary, may be had out of this 2 Cor. 13. 18. where the Apoſtle brings all Believers to the ſame trial, that the Eagle doth her young ones; for as ſhe brings them to the Sun, and if they be able to behold it without dazling, or winking, then ſhe accounts them of a right breed. Now, ſo doth the Apoſtle bring all Believers to the Glory of the Lord, ſhining in the Mirrour of the Goſpel, (And we all, ſays he, with open face behold the Glory of the Lord,) to look full upon it. And ſo indeed unto Eagles are they compared in Matthew; for why their hearts are changed into the ſame image, ſo as there is a ſuitableneſs between them and it. The ſtricteſt Preaching that reveals the glory and beauty of Grace in its ſtricteſt and moſt Spiritual hue, a good heart can look full upon it and love it. That Miniſtry that darts in the cleareſt and hotteſt beams, is the moſt welcome, and hath the moſt comfortable influence into their hearts.

In the 4*th* of Malachy, where the Prophet ſpeaks of the preaching of the Goſpel by Jeſus Chriſt, as appears by the 5*th* verſe, where he ſpeaks of John Baptiſt before the day of Chriſt's appearing; Unto you that fear my Name ſhall the Sun of Righteouſneſs ariſe with healing in his Wings, and ye ſhall go forth as Calves of the Stall; that is, Jeſus Chriſt, who then ariſeth in mens hearts, when by the Goſpel, God gives the Light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Chriſt Jeſus, as 2 *Cor.*4.6. 2 Pet. 1.19. Now thoſe precious Truths, and the Beams thereof, he compares to Wings, becauſe the beams of the Sun are are ſpread forth, even as the Wings of the Eagle, brooding over all the Earth, and the Things in it, and by them flying into all the Corners of it.

So doth Jeſus Chriſt ſpread forth beams of Truth into Believers hearts, and by them comes into their hearts; as the Sun is ſaid to do, when the beams of it come into a Houſe, you ſay, the Sun comes in. Now theſe Beams, if they ſhould not heal and change our hearts into the ſame Image, they would dazle and confound mens Conſciences, therefore it is added, they have healing goes with them; and therefore now, like Calves, they can go forth, and rejoyce and leap for joy in the light of it. Whereas ſore Eyes, that are not healed, are amazed and terrified at the ſight of it; and therefore in the firſt Verſe, he ſays, They ſhall be burnt up, as they in *Rev.*16.8,9. that are ſcorched with the heat of the Sun, and ſo blaſphemed and oppoſed the word. And as in hot Countries, ſome have curſed the Sun when it ariſeth, ſo they the Goſpel and the Light of it. They hate it, rejoyce when any of the Witneſſes are dead, as they *Rev.*11.10. becauſe They tormented them that dwelt on the Earth. Like Swine laid on their backs againſt the Sun, they ceaſe not crying till they be on their feet again; or if they cannot avoid it, yet they wink with their eyes, as they *Matt.*13.15. For if men be unholy and profane, Whoremongers, Liars, &c. then the glorious Goſpel is contrary unto them, as 1 *Tim.*1.10 11.compared.

But if thou beeſt not able to behold the Glory of the Goſpel, how wilt thou behold Chriſt coming in his glory, to render Vengeance with flaming fire to them that obey not this Goſpel?

Thirdly, If it be thus Glorious, then ſee if thou endeavoureſt to glorifie and admire this Goſpel, and bring honour to it; which is a third Conſectary, whereby you may know whether you receive it in the glory of it, or no; For all things we apprehend glorious, we labour to glorifie and ſet forth as much as we may; And this I ground on 2 *Theſſ.*3.1. Pray (ſays the Apoſtle) that the Word may run and be glorified &c. that is, that it may have not only free progreſs in the World, run upon Wheels, as the word ſignifies; but when it is entertained according to the glory and worth of it, as it was amongſt theſe Theſſalonians, who received it as the Word of God, and not of Men, 1 *Theſſ.*2.13. Turning from Idols, to ſerve the living God, Chap.1.9. parting with all their ſins, and ſetting up God in their hearts; receiving it in much affliction, verſe 6. yet rejoycing in it with Joy unſpeakable and glorious, being content to part with Lands, and all, for the Goſpel's ſake, as Mark 8.35. Having a care of their Converſation in all things, that it may be as becomes the Goſpel, as he exhorts Phil. 1.27. When men contend for every Truth of it, as Paul in the next words, verſe 28. Striving together for the Faith of the Goſpel, continuing immoveable, not removing from the hope of the Goſpel, as Coloſſ 1.23. Leaving all for the hopes of what it reveals, accounting this the greateſt Bleſſing and priviledge they can enjoy in this life, to enjoy it; rejoycing in it more than in Wiſdom, Learning, Strength, Riches; glorying that a man knows God merciful and gracious, which is the Meſſage of the Goſpel, as *Jer.*9.23. As the Galatians did, Gal. 4.14,15. when they firſt received Paul, they received him as an Angel: Where was then the bleſſedneſs you ſpoke of? They ſo magnified this Mercy, that they counted it the greateſt Bleſſing of all other; that though a People be bleſſed, when their Garners are full, &c. yet, as if nothing were to be accounted of, he ſays, Happy is that People whoſe God is the Lord, Pſal. 144.ult.

Uſe II.

If the Goſpel be thus glorious, Then ſee and acknowledge what is truly the Glory of any People; and the want whereof leaves them in the moſt miſerable and inglorious condition, even the Goſpel. The Law, which as this 2 Cor. Chap.3. tells us, had not any Glory in this reſpect, yet made the People of the Jews a great Nation in the eyes of all round about them, *Deut.*4.6, 7, 8, 9. The Nation that ſhould hear of all theſe Statutes, ſhould ſay, This is a great Nation, that hath God ſo nigh them: And what Nation ſo great, that hath Statutes and Judgments ſo righteous as all this Law?

That which anciently made one Commonwealth excel another, to flouriſh more and continue longer, was the excellency and righteouſneſs of the Laws and form of Government among them. This made Lacedemonia great, hath kept the Venetian State ſtanding theſe 1300 years, and hath made them accounted a great, and a wiſe, and an underſtanding People. But all the Nations had not ſuch a Law as this, in all parts; All this Law, ſo juſt, ſo holy, it being that Law by which man in his holy ſtate was governed, which the Angels in Heaven live by, which ſet not up men as their Kings and Rulers; but ſets God up as their Protector, makes him nigh them, *ver.*7. Therefore in *Pſal.*76. 1,2,3,4. in that God was known in Judah, this made it more excellent than the Mountains of prey. He compares all the Kingdoms of the World beſides to wild waſte places, where out-Laws dwell; ſavage and cruel wild Beaſts, that prey upon one another, wanting the knowledge of this Law to civilize and tame them.

And therefore, though the Iſraelites were famous for Deliverances above all the Nations of the World, fuller of Inhabitants then any Nation, as the Sands of the Sea; which is the glory of a Kingdom, Solomon ſays, *Prov.*14. 28. flowing more with outward Bleſſings, than any Nation elſe. In a word, Though their priviledges were much every way above the Gentiles, *Rom.*3.2. yet chiefly (ſays he) That to them were committed the Oracles of God. This you ſee is made the top and height of all.

Now, if the Law made them thus glorious, and the obſcure revealing of the Goſpel, and indeed but the ſhadow, as Heb. 10. 1. the ſhine and glimmering, as it were of the glory of the Goſpel. How much more muſt that make a People glorious (when as it comes to be fulfilled) which Habakuk foretold, *Hab.*2.14. That all the Earth ſhall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the Sea. And if in any Age, or in any Coaſt, it is, or hath been full tide, it is now in England.

In 1 *Sam.*4.22. when the Ark was taken it was ſaid, The glory of Iſrael is departed. Now the Ark, which was covered with the Mercy-Seat, and the Cherubims, was the place where God appeared ſitting between the Cherubims, and ſhining bright, as *Pſal.*80. 1. And met the People, Exod. 25. 22. whence he ſpake and gave Oracles, Num. 7. 89. and therefore is called the Speaking place, Debir, 1 Kings 6.23. And therefore the Ark was called the Glory, Rom. 9. 4. and Cherubims of Glory, *Heb.*9.5. Now what was this Ark, a type of which was thus, The Glory of Iſrael, of the Goſpel? For *Heb.*9. 23. they were all pat terms of things in Heaven.

Now, as the Temple was the type of the Church under the Goſpel, Rev. 11. 1. ſo the Ark was of Chriſt, revealed in the preaching of the Goſpel, in the laſt Verſe of that Chapter. There was ſeen in his Temple, the Ark of his Teſtament, wherein Jeſus Chriſt comes and meets his People, and ſpeaks from Heaven; and wherein Believers behold his glory, 2 *Cor.*3. ult. and therefore they are called the Oracles of God, 1 *Pet.*4.11. So as when we Prophecy, men fall down convinced and ſay, 1 *Cor.*14.25. God is amongſt you. And the Cherubims between which God ſits and ſpeaks, are Miniſters of the Goſpel, as you ſhall hear anon.

So as indeed the manifeſtation of the Goſpel is called, The Glory, as the Ark was of old. So, I take it, that place is to be underſtood, 1 Pet. 1. 10,11,12. where ſpeaking of our priviledge who enjoy it, he ſays, The Patriarchs did foretel the Sufferings of Chriſt, and the Glory that followed; namely, that ſpreading of the Goſpel, ſhedding forth of the Spirit, and Gifts, which made thoſe Times glorious Times after Chriſt's Aſcenſion. Yea, in this reſpect, the Congregations aſſembled to hear this Goſpel, God manifeſting his Preſence, are called, The Glory, I ſay the Aſſemblies are, *Iſai.*4. 5. which place is to be underſtood of the Times of the Goſpel, and the Calling of the Jews; God will create upon her Aſſemblies a Cloud by day, and a ſhining Fire by night, to guide them as in the Wilderneſs; For upon all the glory ſhall be a defence; that is, upon all thoſe Aſſemblies, which for the Preſence of God thus gloriouſly amongſt them, he calls The Glory.

And

And this Goſpel hath made this Kingdom and this Town, as a Crown of Glory in the hand of the Lord; and the Glory of the whole earth, as Jeruſalem is called, *Iſai.*62. The glorious Diamond in the Ring of the World.

And this is it which did raiſe that great Opinion in the hearts of other Nations, That we were accounted a great People, as *Deut.*4. 6, 7. A wiſe and an underſtanding People, and full of Humanity and amiableneſs of Carriage; whereas others are accounted Rude and Barbarous, that want it in the Power that we have it. For when the Earth, or any Land, is filled with the Knowledge of the Lord, it takes fierceneſs and wildneſs away from the Inhabitants of it. Not from theſe only whom it converts, but whom it convinceth, Iſai. 11. from the Wolves and the Lions, ſo as not to hurt, v. 9. Emollit mores, nec ſinit eſſe feros. It makes men more noble and ingenuous, as thoſe of Berea were, having received the Goſpel, Acts 17. 11. That is it which hath ſtruck much terrour in former times into the hearts of our Enemies, as in Johoſaphat's daies; when he was careful to ſend Levites to teach in every City, Fear fell upon all the Kingdoms round about, ſo as they made no war, 2 *Chron.*17. 10. And God being known for a Refuge in our Palaces, Fear took hold of the Kings of the Earth, *Pſal.*48.3, and 6. compared.

This is it which hath been our defence; for *Iſai.*4.5. Where the Glory of God is, there is a defence upon all the Glory; that when they combined together to make an attempt, as in Eighty Eight, as it is in the ſame Pſalm 48. 4, 5, 6, 7. Kings were aſſembled, a great many, as appears by the 7th verſe, and they paſſed by all along our Coaſts, but they were troubled and they haſted away; and God broke the Ships of Tarſhiſh with the Eaſt-wind, God being known for a Refuge, verſe 3. And where the Goſpel runs without rub, and is glorified, there, when Enemies come in like a mighty flood, thinking to bear all before before them. Iſay. 9. When they fear the Name of Jehovah from the Weſt (which is thought to be meant of theſe Weſtern Churches, as they have been alwaies called,) and his Glory from the riſing of the Sun: when the Enemy comes in as a flood, the Spirit of the Lord ſhall lift up a Standard againſt him. Pſal.76. 1,2,3. In Judah is God known, and his dwelling place is in Zion: There brake he the Arrows, and the Bow, and the Shield, and the Sword, and the Battel. And ſo on the contrary, when we go againſt others on Juſt quarrels, if the Goſpel be glorified amongſt us, the Promiſe is, *Iſai.*58.8. The Glory of God ſhall be thy rereward; ſhall make an Army for us, to fight for us. This defended this Town from the Plague.

This is that which when ſought and embraced above all things, makes other Bleſſings be caſt into the bargain, as Chriſt promiſeth; and to which alſo we owe all the Peace, Plenty, and Abundance of all things, which ſince the day we had the Goſpel we have enjoyed; which, if we had not, yet it is bleſſing enough, Rom. 15. 29. I ſhall come to you in the fulneſs of the Bleſſing of the Goſpel, which whoſo enjoys they want no bleſſing. It is full of Bleſſing when it comes to a place, and it carries all away when itſelf removes. Look upon a Town where once the King's Court was kept, and then it flouriſhed and abounded with Bleſſings, which happily before was poor, as Newmarket; but when that is once removed to come no more. Look on it then again, and how poor, how deſolate doth ſuch a Town grow.

And Chriſt, where he comes in, enricheth the place He keeps Court in. He did good to mens Bodies and Souls alſo, when on Earth; and ſo now in Heaven, where his Tabernacle is pitched: But when he removes, Matt. 23. 38. Behold your houſes are left unto you deſolate; Why? For I ſay, ye ſhall not henceforth ſee me, till ye ſay, Bleſſed is he, &c. Judea, that once did flow with Milk and Honey, is now barren; Inſula Dives opum Priami dum regna manebant. Great muſt the Miſery of that place be, then, from which the Glory is departing, for then their defence is gone; and they are left naked, expoſed to the fury of their Enemies, as the People were in the ſight of their Enemies, Exod. 32. 25. ſtripd of all their Ornaments and Armour; and therefore the People mourned, Chap. 33. and then deſtruction doth certainly and inevitably follow.

Ezek.

*Ezek.*9.3. Before the Executioners of Vengeance came with their ſlaughter Weapons, the Glory of the Lord went away from the Cherub, and then the Wrath of God falls upon men to the utmoſt, as upon the Jews, 1 *Theſſ.*2.16. that is, in greater extremities than upon any other. Neither is the Tenure of us Gentiles ſo ſure as was theirs, it was as their Freehold, Rom. 9.4. To them appertained the Adoption, The Glory, the Covenants, the Promiſes. *Rom.*11.21. If God ſpared not the natural branches, take heed how he ſpare not thee: Be not high minded, but fear. Towards thee, Goodneſs, if thou continue in his goodneſs, otherwiſe thou ſhalt be cut off, verſe 22. And yet they are cut off, and have been theſe 1600 years, and that Glory which belonged to them, is departed from them, and not yet returned; and have we not cauſe to fear?

To that end, let us conſider ſome Signs of the departure of this Glory from a People; and this in thoſe degrees wherein uſually it departs.

Firſt, When thoſe outward Priviledges, which I mentioned before, which have been Pawns of its Preſence, are a going, and a People is bereſt of them; for when you ſee the Train departing, and the Followers ſent away, you expect the Court removes ſhortly. When God turneth the glory of a Kingdom into ſhame, as Hoſea 4.7. he threatneth, makes it baſe in the eyes of its Neighbours, as *Ezek.*17.14. He did that of Judah before Captivity, ſo as they are made a deriſion to thoſe to whom they were a terrour. When we ſee Bleſſings ebb, Attempts blaſted, Armies blown away, and diſſolved as Duſt-heaps in a Nation that was once honourable, victorious, terrible, proſperous. Winter is nigh, when Leaves fall off.

And ſo God did with the Jews, before that final taking of the Goſpel from them, by taking firſt away their beauty, their honour and glory, and outward Liberties and Priviledges of a Nation, which once they had enjoyed; broke the Staff of Beauty, and then of Bands, *Zach.*11. 10,14. then diſuniting and ſcattering them over the face of the Earth.

The Second thing that departs before the Goſpel departs, is, The inward glorious preſence of God's Spirit, which once did ſhine in his Ordinances. That though men enjoy the outward viſible ſigns of his preſence, have the Ark, and preaching of the Goſpel, and Cherubims among them, yet the Spirit is gone. *Ezek.*9.3. It is ſaid, that the Glory went up from the Cherubims, before the deſtruction that followed; that though the Cherubims, and Temple, and Ark ſtill remained, yet the Glory was gone. Now the Cherubims ſignified the Miniſters of the Goſpel, as you ſhall hear anon.

Now when God withdraws his Spirit from us, then the Glory goes hence; for in this 2 *Cor.*3. this is that which makes the Goſpel glorious, the Miniſtration of the Spirit: ſo that as the glory of the Body is gone when the Soul is out, ſo the glory of the Goſpel is gone when the Spirit is departed, for without it, it is but a dead Letter. For the Kingdom of God (Paul ſpeaks it of Preaching of the Goſpel,) 1 *Cor.*4.20. conſiſts not in word, but in power. So that when that Power is gone, the Kingdom is gone. Now whilſt that Power goes forth, ſo long God hath Elect to call, 1 *Theſſ.*1.4,5. Knowing your Election to be of God; becauſe our Goſpel was not in word only, but in power, and in the Holy Ghoſt, and in much aſſurance. And when the Elect is gone, God takes away the Goſpel.

But when you ſhall hear Sermons, that lay open the excellent things of the Law, and diſcover the Secrets of the Goſpel, which the Angels pry into, and yet the Holy Ghoſt withdraw himſelf, that neither wicked are convinced to fall down, and ſay, God is amongſt them. The high Fortreſſes of Carnal opinion, Corrupt practiſes, are not caſt down in the Congregations that hear them; nor are they reformed at all, but they that were filthy, are filthy ſtill. When the beſt are dead, and dull, and cold under it; their Hearts are not warmed, as they were wont, to burn with them, as the Diſciples hearts were when they went to Emmaus.

When

When God ceaseth to shew himself terrible to the Wicked in his Holy place, Psal. 68. 35. But then when the sentence of Damnation is clearly pronounced against men, yet they all hear it as the song of one can sing well; when God creates not a Cloud and a Pillar of fire upon our Assemblies, as Isai. 4. 5. To guide enlighten and clear our hearts in the ways of godliness; when few are added to the Church, and none to God, it is a sign God hath his Elect out, and that the glory is going.

The Second Temple was more glorious than the former, Hagg. 2. 9. yet the former was outwardly more glorious; If Christ be present, he makes The Glory with less learned teaching: And it is for your sakes God assists, 1 Thes. 1. 5. What manner of men for your sakes.

Thirdly, Then the Spirit is withdrawing when wicked hearts grow weary of it; (even the wicked a while rejoyced in Johns light.) And godly men are indifferent whether they enjoy it or no, this is a further sign of its departure, and an effect of the former, Amos. 8. 5. men cryed there, When will the Sabbath be gone, and Sermon over, that we may to our calling again and not loose too much time.

And what follows on this? He upon this threatneth, ver. 9. that their Sun should go down at Noon; that glorious Light God had set up amongst them, should set in the very noon, and height, when it might have run a course many years after; an eclipse, a total one came on the suddain even at noon day. And if the place should not be meant of the light of the word, as I think it is, yet ver. 11. expresly threatneth upon this, a famine of the word, &c. That word which before had rained down as Manna, and they were weary of it and would scarce go out of Doors to hear it; now they should run from Sea to Sea and not find it.

Or suppose they be not weary of it, as the godly are not, yet if they be not earnest with God by prayers for it, and continuance of it, when they do not strive together as Paul exhorts them, Rom. 15. 30. but they sit still and let all go and strive not; and if God will provide for them, and send forth Labourers, so it is; Whereas Christ tells them they must pray, Matt. 9. 38. you are bidden pray for daily bread, and it must cost you sweat besides; And do you think to enjoy bread of Heaven without praying daily for it, yea, and that, sweating in prayer also? Jesus Christ looks to be constrained to stay with a People, as with those Disciples Luke 24. 28, 29. Whereas otherwise he would have gone further, and certainly would. When the Keys are laid aside, that should unlock the Cupboord, whence the Children should have Bread, they are like to loose their suppers. Now these Keys are Prayers, if Paul be given them it must be by prayer. Philem. 22.

A Fourth sign of the departure of this Glory is when men begin to let Error and Idolatry creep in, which is an effect of the former, For 2 Thes. 2. 10. Men having no pleasure in Truth but in Unrighteousness, God gave them up to Lies, and they provoke the Lord to departure; Gal. 2. 5. In case of Circumcision, says Paul, I would not yield, or give way, not for an hour, that the Truth of the Gospel might continue with you. As if he had said, If I had given way to a small Error, it had endangered the continuance of the Gospel with you; how much more, when gross Errors, contrary to our points of Catechism, and principles of Religion, are admitted in a Church and suffered to be taught, and grow upon us; but much more must this glory departe when Idolatry gets footing, then God's glory departs amain; Ezek. 9. When did the glory go from the Cherub to the Threshold of the Door? When Chap. 8. Idolatry was committed in the secret Chambers, yea and in the Temple, in worshiping towards the East; Then there was no roome left for God, he withdrew himself to the Threshold, shewing he would fain have had a Room amongst them, but he was justled out, glad to stand at the Threshold one foot in another out, for what fellowship hath God with Idols? 2 Cor. 6. 16. God will not walk among you where Idols are.

And

And then Fifthly and Laſtly, The glory wholly departs when the Cherubims do aſcend or are removed, Ezek. 11. 22. When the Cherubims lift up their wings then the glory went from the City quite. Now, Cherubims are Angels, both Celeſtial, and theſe on Earth, namely Miniſters of the Goſpel. For if you would ſee what theſe Cherubims were, ſee Ezek. 1. 5, 6. They were Four Beaſts who had Faces of a Lyon, a Man, an Ox, an Eagle, and Wings full of Eyes. Now in the 10*th.* Chapter, ver. 1. 14. and 20. theſe are called Cherubims; Now, if you would ſee what theſe Beaſts are, ſee Rev. 4. 6. where the ſame living Creatures are in the ſame manner deſcribed with the ſame Faces, wings and Eyes. Rev. 5. 11. and there they are made diſtinct from the Twenty Four Elders. That is, the Saints and Angels, and therefore by them are meant the Miniſters and Magiſtrates, eſpecially Miniſters, whereof ſome are Lyons for Zeal and Courage, and Terror in Preaching. Others Oxen for their pains, and diligence, and conſtancy, and plainneſs. Others are men, preach more rationally to convince the Gain ſayers. Others Eagles, that have more deep inſight into Heavenly Myſteries, and ſore high and aloft.

Now, when once Error is let in, and Idolatry is admitted, then look for the Cherubims to aſcend, to be removed: And in any ſtate, or in the mean time, when a Cherub Aſcends up to Heaven, that had the face of a Man and an Eagle, from a particular place, the glory of God ſometimes goes with him, as when old Ely died, the Wife of Phinehas ſaid, 1 Sam. 4. 20. The glory was gon, not only becauſe of the Ark, but alſo becauſe of her Father in Law.

And now let me exhort you, of this place and Kingdom, ſeriouſly to conſider the ſtate and condition of the Goſpel, ſtanding amongſt you, and whether many of theſe ſigns are not fulfilled before your eyes. For the preſent, to let the Kingdom go, look homeward to your ſelves, is not the glory of this place exceedingly vaniſht of late years in mens opinions abroad? Do they not ſuſpect unſoundneſs in Doctrine, and otherwiſe? Doth God fill his Ordinances as Sails with the wind he had wont to do? Your hearts know beſt who have had experience of former times, remember the breathings and warmings of former times. It may be our faults, yet ſure I am, we are aſſiſted for your ſakes eſpecially, 1 Theſ. 1. 5. And accordingly do our Tongues cleave to the roof of our mouths; Do not our hands which ſhould be lift up to God for ſupply, even then when your loſſes and fears are greateſt, grow ſlack and flag; and your hearts faint? Do you ſeek God with mourning and weeping, and ſtir up one another to do ſo? Do not Errors bordering on Popery creep in upon us a pace, and begin to overgrow us, and our Silver to become droſs? Is not one of the Cherubs aſcended, others removed, your Sun ſet at noon, a total Eccliplſe threatned?

Yet at length, Brethren, beſtir your ſelves, Would you have the word dwell with you, Let the word dwell in you, Coloſ. 3. Get acquaintance with it, be familiar to it, keep it company in your thoughts, converſe with it, meditate in it day and night, let it ly, ſleep, wake, walk, ſit, ride with you.

Alſo be valiant for Truth, Hold faſt the things you have been taught; Rev. 2. 24.25. However other Opinions may be thruſt upon you under pretence of depths, as there are, yet hold faſt till I come; So you may enjoy it till Chriſt come.

Take heed of having pleaſure in unrighteouſneſs, 2 Theſ. 2. 10. It will give you up to lies to be damned; Turn from folly, and return to it no more, but fear the Lord, Pſal. 85. 8. 9. compared, Let them not return to folly, ſalvation is nigh to them that fear him, that glory may dwell in our Land.

Bleſs God for, and prize the meaneſt that bring the glad tidings of ſalvation in Power, and faithfulneſs, Matt. 23. 38. I will go hence, ſays Chriſt, till they ſay bleſſed is he that comes in the name of the Lord, and then will I return again.

You young ones, get you grace into your hearts, and the word rooted there, that when it dies in old men, there may be a ſucceſſion of it in you.

Aboye all be earneſt with God, pray that he thruſt forth Labourers into his Harveſt, God feeds the Ravens that cry to him, Job. 38. 44. that wander up and down, know not where to have a meals meat next; and as Chriſt argues, doth God take care for Lillies and Birds, Matt. 6. 26. and are not you much better then they? Are not you Children? And is not the Word, Childrens Bread? That is, it is theirs, appointed for them, Matt. 15. 26. No prayer of Children

pierce

pierce their Parents ear more then when they cry for Bread, for thoſe that are born muſt be kept, Lamen. 4. 3. Sea Monſters give their Breaſts to their young ones, much more God.

God is loath to remove from an antient dwelling place, as you may ſee by his lingring in *Ezek.*9.3. To the Threſhold, thence to the midſt of the City, &c.

His promiſe is to give them Paſtors according to his own heart, if there be but one or two in a City, Jer. 3. 14, 15. and there are more in this Town.

And Pſal. 132. 11. God ſwore to David, that if his Children keep my Covenant, &c. they ſhould ſit upon his Throne, and God would make it his reſt, ver. 14. It is a trouble to him to remove, and therefore at the 17*th. verſe*, he ſays, He will ordain a Lamp, that is when one Candle is out, he will give another, ſo 1 Kings 15. 4. it is interpreted.

Now, The ſame promiſes are to you all for the ſure mercies of David; I ſay are promiſed to be eſtabliſhed to all that are in Covenant, as one light is out, God will ſet up another, as of Magiſtrates ſo of Miniſters, Jer. 33. 17, 18. I ſay as Samuel, 1 Sam. 12. 22, 23, 24. For the Lord will not forſake his People for his great name ſake, becauſe it hath pleaſed the Lord to make you his People. Moreover, as for me God forbid that I ſhould ſin againſt the Lord in ceaſeing to pray for you, but I will teach you the good, and the right way. Only fear the Lord and ſerve him in Truth with all your heart; for conſider how great things he hath done for you: But if you ſhall ſtill do wickedly, you ſhall be conſumed, &c.

N A

A

SERMON

On HEB. X. 4, 5, 6, 7.

For it is not possible, that the blood of Bulls and Goats should take away sin.

Wherefore, when he cometh into the World, he saith, Sacrifice and Burnt Offerings thou wouldst not, but a Body hast thou prepared me.

In Burnt Offerings, and Sacrifices for sin, thou hast no pleasure.

Then, said I, Lo I come (in the Volume of thy Book it is written of me) to do thy will, O God.

THE Apostle Paul, in 2 Cor. 5. 18, 19, and 20*th* Verses, does summarily tell us, what is the Argument (as I may so speak) of that great Mystery of the Gospel.

The Theme it dilates upon, is Reconciliation; To wit (says he) that God was in Christ, reconciling the World.

And therefore the Title he gives the Doctrine of it is this, The Ministry of Reconciliation. And so the foot of the Angels Song, Luke 2. 14. was Reconciliation, which consists of two parts, Peace and Good will.

The full scope of the words you may conceive as cast into this frame; and withal, what is the sum of all I have to deliver to you about it.

1. The World, the whole World of Mankind being created in an estate of amity and friendship with God, as the word καταλλάγητε, Reconcile, implies. To make friends again, argues former friendship.

2. And then, This whole lump of Men, being treacherously fallen off from God into a deep Rebellion against him, and become of the Devil's Seed and Faction.

3. God, who is infinite in Love, and rich in Mercy, bearing everlasting and secret Good will to some of these Rebels in all Ages, hath alwaies maintained certain Lieger Embassadors in the World, (as verse 20. implies) to treat with this rebellious Rout, and conclude a Peace betwixt them and him.

4. And that his Agents and Dealers for him, whom in this Business he hath and doth employ, might be fully enabled to conclude it, he hath furnished them (as all other Embassadors use to be) with a large and gracious Commission; the Title of which, is the Ministry of Reconciliation, v. 18. Hath given to us, &c. Which includes in it Two things.

First,

First, The delivery of a gracious Meſſage as from himſelf, intimating and manifeſting his Royal mind and inclination, how it ſtands towards them. For when two are at variance, there can never be any hope of peace or agreement, unleſs the Party injured ſhews an inclineableneſs at leaſt to liſten to it.

Now, The effect of that Meſſage in brief is,

Firſt, That whereas they might conceive him moſt juſtly to be averſe to the very motion of it; that yet he for his part is not only contented and inclined to liſten to an agreement, but is, and hath been, ever ſo fully willing to, and deſirous of it, that as he hath been a reconciling the World; Even from Everlaſting God was reconciling, &c. hath made (as it were) his chief buſineſs, that he hath plotted and been deſirous to bring about. And though all things elſe are of him, as Verſe 30. tells us, yet this mainly above all the reſt; Totus in illo, wholly ſet upon it.

And, Secondly, Whereas preſently it might be thought, that he being ſo Juſt and ſo Jealous a God, ſenſible of the leaſt injury, ſo tender of his Glory, and jealous of the leaſt wrong to it, as that he would require and propound to have full ſatisfaction firſt, as the condition of their agreement; which that they, or any other Creature, either were able or willing to perform, was out of all hope.

Therefore, Secondly, I ſay, he bids us declare, for that alſo men need not trouble themſelves, for he himſelf hath been ſo jealous in this buſineſs, as that he hath took order for it beforehand. He hath been In Chriſt, reconciling the World; that is, in him, and by him, (as a Mediator and Umpire, and Surety between him and you,) this great matter hath been taken up and accorded. He, and Jeſus Chriſt, his only Son, have from all eternity laid their heads together (as we may ſpeak with reverence) to end the quarrel, Chriſt ſhould undertake to ſatisfie his Father for all the wrong was done him. He was made ſin, that is, a Surety and a Satisfaction for it, who knew no ſin, verſe ult. That they, &c. And God the Father upon it is ſo fully ſatisfied, as he is ready not to impute their ſins to them; but to impute all Chriſt's Righteouſneſs to them, and to receive them into favour more fully than ever. God was in Chriſt reconciling the World, not imputing their ſins, &c.

The Second part of our Commiſſion is, That he hath given us full power and authority to deal with Men about it, and to tranſact and perfect this Agreement, with charge to tell this Meſſage to all and every man in the World. And upon this ground, That Reconciliation is to be obtained from God for them, to entreat them to be reconciled. And when men accordingly ſeek it, as thus revealed to them, though by us, it is as if God had done it, v. 20. As though God, and, I in Chriſt's ſtead, ſays the Apoſtle.

And this, my Brethren, is to preach the Goſpel unto Men; which is the beſt News that ever Ear heard, or Tongue was employed to utter; which took up God's thoughts from Eternity, and lay hid in his breaſt, which none but he and his Son knew. Which, if it were but for the Antiquity of the ſtory of it, it is worth the relating, it being the greateſt Plot and State Affair that ever was tranſacted in Heaven or Earth, or ever will be.

Having by way of Preface, to the Great buſineſs of Reconciliation, ſaid thus much, I now proceed to the words of my Text. For it is not poſſible, that the Blood of Bulls and Goats ſhould take away ſin, &c.

THeſe words are a Record of the greateſt and deepeſt Myſtery of State, and the Secret paſſages thereof, that ever yet was tranſacted either in Heaven or Earth. No leſs than the Conſultation and Conference, yea, the very words that paſt between God the Father and the Son, ſpoken at the Councel Table, at which no one was preſent beſides, but the great Secretary of State, the Bleſſed Spirit, who revealed this.

And this, when they ſat upon the greateſt buſineſs of State, the Treaty of Peace between God and Men; and this, juſt at the time when God was diſpatching his Son to come down into the World, and had prepared him a Body ready for him to tranſact it in.

Then when he cometh into the World, He ſaith, &c. Which Speech of his hath yet further reference unto, and quotes a Record far more Ancient, even the firſt General Counſel kept in Heaven, and the Records of it, In the Volume of thy Book, &c.

The Book is, Liber Decretalium, the Book of God's Decrees; yea, and a Record that was written in the firſt page of that Book. In the Volume of the Book indefinitely, ſays the Pſalmiſt. But the Holy Ghoſt, who had read over and written every Leaf of it, quoting it here, ſays, ἐν κεφαλίδι τῦ βιβλίυ, In Capite, in the beginning of it, which varies not the ſenſe, but interprets it. And if you hope to find it, (as ſome have gone about to do) in the firſt words of Geneſis, In principio creavit Deus; you are deceived, 'Tis the Book of God's Decrees, there Chriſt remembers it written, that He was appointed to do God's Will.

More plainly the words contain much of the firſt part of the ſtory of the Goſpel, (The Riches of the Glory, of which I have elſewhere diſcourſed of in general;) For as there are Three Perſons, as I have formerly ſhewed, who have a joynt hand in that work of Salvation, the Subject of the Goſpel: ſo the whole ſtory of the Goſpel hath Three parts alſo; in every of which, ſome one of them bears an eſpecial part.

The Firſt part, God the Father had the chiefeſt hand in, who drew the Platform of this great Work, contrived it, made the motion firſt to his Son; as you ſhall ſee anon.

The Second, God the Son, when he came down and took fleſh, and cloathing himſelf in the habit of a Servant, tranſacted the Redemption of the World according to that draught.

As after him, when he was off the Stage, came the Spirit to apply what he had done, and all the benefits of it, whoſe work makes up the Third part.

Now this Firſt part, which is moſt hidden, being inviſibly done in Heaven, before the World was; the diſcovery of which gives light to the other two, which of all ſtories that ever were recorded is the ancienteſt.

This is the Subject of my diſcourſe, and partly of this Text; I ſhall diſcover ſo much of it as the words carry me unto, and divide and open the Text in handling of it.

And Firſt, to begin with the Buſineſs itſelf, which is the Subject of this ſtory, which was the aim and end of all. The 4*th* verſe tells us, it was The taking away of Sins. This I mention firſt, becauſe it is the Hindge, the Text, and my diſcourſe turns on.

And to accompliſh this, what needed ſo much ado? Nothing had been more eaſie for God, than to take away ſins by taking away the Sinners, both at a ſtroke, and ſo to cauſe Sin to ceaſe, as Ezekiel ſpeaks, *Ezek.*23.48. Nay, was it not a hard thing for him to keep his hands off them, (and therefore it is attributed to the greatneſs of his Power,) that he is able to contain himſelf, *Numb.*14.17. And it had been nothing out of his way, to have taken Sins and Sinners thus away, he is able enough to bear the loſs of Souls. What is it to thee if the Nations periſh? Wiſd. 12. He weakens not himſelf, as Kings do, when they cut off an Army of Rebels, and ſo are forced to forgive the moſt, becauſe their glory conſiſts in the multitude of their Subjects. No, He could create enough anew.

But this is not my meaning, but ſo to take away Sins, as the Sinners might ſtand ſtill, to ſtand and be juſtified in his ſight. There are ſome, even among Sinners, whom he bears a ſecret good-will to, and hath done from everlaſting, of whom he ſays with himſelf, as *Jerem.*8.4. Shall they fall, and not ariſe; ſhall he turn away, and not return? Some, His mind lingers after, as that place expreſſeth preſſeth it. Their ſins have ſeperated between him and them, and he would fain ſeperate their ſins as far from them that ſo he might draw nigh to them and communicate himſelf. And becauſe ſin is a burthen they can neither ſtand under nor throw off themſelves; A wounded Spirit who can bear? They can never give thanks enough for his benefits received, much leſs to ſatisfy for ſins, therefore he reſolves to have them taken off, ἀθετεῖν, as the word ſeems to ſignify; and not to take away ſins only that is but one-half of the project, the 4th. ver. mentioneth no more, becauſe the Blood of Bulls and Goats, could not do ſo much; yet the Will of God mentioned in the 7th. ver. had a further aim, not only to take away ſins that he might not hate us, but to give us ſuch a righteouſneſs again for which he might have more cauſe to love us than ever, and loving, to delight in us. His will meant not Peace to us only, or Pardon; But good will towards men as well as peace on Earth; his Will is to have us adopted, accepted graciouſly as well as pardoned.

Secondly, The Text reſolves us whence the firſt motion of this buſineſs came, and from whom, who ſet it firſt a foot, and it is behoofful for thoſe whom it concerns to know this; He who makes the firſt motion in a matter of favour expects moſt thanks. It was thy Will O God, Chriſt ſpeaks unto a perſon diſtinct from himſelf. This is not the firſt time that the name of God and Lord is taken perſonally, and not eſſentially, eſpecially when the perſons are ſpeaking one to another; Matt. 22. 44. The Lord ſaid unto my Lord; neither was this here the Holy Ghoſt, for the Spirit works from the Son, he ſends him, John 15. 26. And he takes of his, &c. Chap. 16. 15. and that it was the Father it is ſaid, Col. 1. 19. It pleaſed the Father by him to reconcile; and indeed he hath the honour and prerogative to be the only firſt propounder of all buſineſſes that paſs in the great regent houſe of Heaven, 2 Cor. 5. 18. All things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himſelf; no Graces paſs without him, eſpecially this of Reconciliation. The Son dos nothing without him, Jo 5. 19. The Son dos nothing of himſelf but what he ſees the Father do, as the Spirit doth nothing without the Son, John 16. 15. As they have all the ſame common eſſence, ſo they all concur in the ſame works. And look what order there is in their manner of ſubſiſting, the ſame is in their order of working. The Father ſubſiſts firſt, and the Son from him, and therefore all things are from him, and particularly the taking away of ſin, for he is the firſt and chief perſon offended, and therefore reconciliation is made to him in his name, for all the reſt. It pleaſed the Father to reconcile to himſelf, Chriſt goes but about his Fathers buſineſs, Luke 2. 48. 1 John 2. 7. We have an Advocate with the Father.

Thirdly, Chriſt tells us what it was in his Father that ſet him firſt a work, It was his will, To do thy will, which I therefore take notice of. For this act of Will expreſſeth more particularly that act, which in working is moſt proper and peculiar to the Father, and eminently attributed to him.

I. For as in Man Three things have a ſtroak in every buſineſs he goes about, Will, which is the firſt mover, and ſpring to all the reſt; Wiſdom, by which he plots and orders all the Wheels, and Power by which he turns them, which anſwers to the manner of the Three Perſons working works, ad extra, (for of thoſe we ſpeak,) in theſe Three. Will, is more uſually given to the Father, as Matt. 11. 26. Epheſ. 1. 3. 11. compared. The Father it is that works all according to the counſel of his will. So Wiſdom is more eminently attributed to the Son, who is the Wiſdom of the Father, Prov. 8. Power to the Holy Ghoſt, as Luke 1. 35. he is called, the Power of the moſt high.

II. As alſo to enquire no further in many of the ſtrange courſes he hath in this buſineſs of all elſe, if he doth not give a reaſon, Then reſt in this, It was his Will, though he wrought all in it according to the counſel of his own Will; Eph. 1. 11. Yet who has been his Counſellor, Rom. 11. 34. and yet becauſe one of the main Attributes that ſhine in the work of Redemption is his Wiſdom, and is therefore called the Wiſdom of the Father; 1 Cor. 1. 24. It is not ſpoken of him there there eſſentially, but manifeſtative, therefore God hath revealed many of his reaſons, and lets us at leaſt ſee the conveniencies and harmonies of this Plot.

III. It is ſaid to be his Will, to diſtinguiſh this greateſt work of all his works, ad extra, to wit, the Incarnation of his Son, as wherein the chiefeſt good did communicate himſelf to his Creatures by the nigheſt union, to the utmoſt; yet to diſtinguiſh it from his works ad extra, and ſhew that it was not neceſſary, (as Anſelm, and others have thought,) being deceived with this reaſon, Summum bonum ſua communicare Oportet. It became him indeed to do ſo, but it was not neceſſary, and it became him not as any part of his Intrinſecal perfections, to communicate himſelf, for then he had always done it; but as having infinite perfections in him it became him to perfect others by them: It is a work you ſee of his Will not of his Nature. To beget his Son as God was an act of his Nature, therefore could not be otherwiſe, but to prepare a body for him; and that he ſhould be born the Son of Man was an act of his Will, Lo when he comes into the world, he ſays, &c. As he begets us of his own Will. James 1.

Will you know how much his Will was in it, how ſtrongly ſet; know, for further explications ſake, that the taking away of ſins by the Incarnation of Chriſt, was one of his greateſt reſolutions and the ſtrongeſt that ever he took up, not ſimply a velleity or inclinableneſs ſo as he could be content it were done; But it was that upon which his Will was more ſet than ever upon any thing he was deeply and intimately affected unto, ſo as his thoughts are ſaid to run moſt upon it and to be taken up with it.

And his delights alſo, the chiefeſt of them were in it which continued it from everlaſting; all purpoſes vaniſh if not fed with delight, but this purpoſe became matter of greateſt delight: Gladder (as it were,) he was that he ſhould ſee this effected, than any thing elſe that was in his power to effect, this you may ſee ground for in Pſal. 40. 5. which place I quote, becauſe this Text is taken out of the next words, to which that 5th. verſe is a Preface, Many ſays he (in the General,) are the wonderful works which thou haſt done, and thy thoughts to us-ward cannot be reckoned, his mind hath ſo run on us from everlaſting. And then for inſtance he brings in this of giving his Son; Sacrifice and Burnt Offerings, &c. as if he ſhould have ſaid, This of all other is the greateſt inſtance of all his works of wonder, This his thoughts were moſt upon, ſo many that they cannot be numbred; this is his maſter-piece which he brings in inſtar omnium, in ſtead of all.

And add but unto this Prov 8. 13. where you ſhall ſee the curious Queſtion in part reſolved, What God did before the World was made? How he ran out that Eternity and what his thoughts and delight moſt ran upon, and you have it reſolved by one who knew his mind, was of his Counſel, the mighty Counſellor as being the wiſdom of the Father, as he is there ſtyled, That was by him before he made the World, ver. 22, 23. &c. Then was I ver. 30. (all the while,) by him, who came out of his boſom; he compares himſelf to a Child brought up by the Parent, I was brought up with him, lay in his boſom; And what did they together?

Two things.

Firſt, They delighted one with another, and one in another. The Father that he was able to beget ſuch a Son like him, Coeternal with him, I was daily his delight; and this was delight enough, though no Creature had been made; and obſerve it, that of all works ad extra towards his Creatures which he was to do, he mentions none but the diſpenſation towards the Sons of Men, and his delight therein next to the delight they had each in other.

Secondly, Rejoyceing in the habitable parts of the Earth, And my delights were with the Sons of Men which do inhabit here below, and fill the Earth.

Now, What could it be ſhould afford God thoughts of delight about the Sons of Men ſo long aforehand, to look and ſee them all at one clap turn'd Rebels againſt him, and view them muſter'd together in Troops againſt him; this could miniſter none but ſad and diſconſolate thoughts, It pained him at the heart;

Gen.

Gen. 6. 6. What was it delighted him then? Men delight only in their Friends not Enemies; was it in him as Created first in a ſtate of friendſhip, then there were but a couple to delight in: This is in the Sons of Men all the Earth over, the inhabitable parts of the Earth. He had ſome in one Age or other in all parts inhabited who were the deſire and delight of his Eyes. And beſides that fit of friendſhip which Adam was not worth the thinking of, it laſted ſo little a while, and ended in ſo great a laſting and general breach.

His delights were then in this, That he ſhould win to him, and gain the love of thoſe accurſed Rebels, in all places habitable, whom he himſelf loved ſo dearly; and ſhew, that his Love, by an unheard of way (that ſhould amaze Angels and Men) to take away their Sins, and reconcile them to himſelf by the Incarnation and Death of his Son, and tie them to him by an everlaſting Knot, which their Sins ſhould not untie again, nor ſeparate from that his Love. This took up his Delights in the Plural, he delighted to think it again and again. It muſt needs be a thing he delights in, that he feaſts himſelf with the Thoughts of ſo long before hand, even double Delights, as ſome Paraphraſe it; he delighted in them when firſt made, and that delight laſting not long, he delights in them again

But what ſhould be the reaſon, that this Plot ſhould ſo much affect and delight him. Had he not the Angels, that were conſtant Friends to him, to delight in? One would think, he ſhould have prized their Friendſhip more for the faithfulneſs of it. And if he had needed Princes, he could have created new ones; out of theſe very Stones have raiſed up a new Generation, and Seed of Well-willers, as John ſaid of Children to Abraham; and have packed us all to Hell for Rebels. He had Priſons enough to have held us, which Kings often want in a general Rebellion, and he he might have been glorified in our juſt deſtruction.

What ſhould be the reaſon of this ſtrange affection in our God? Why? The Scripture gives it, and our God being even Love it ſelf, 1 John 4. 16. Loving where he ſets his Love, with an infinite Love, as himſelf is; which Love, of all things elſe in him, he loves to ſhew to the utmoſt; and of all works, Works of Love have the moſt delight in them. Therefore, Micah 7. 18. Mercy is called his delight, his darling. He would gladly ſhew how well he could love Creatures, gladdeſt of the greateſt opportunity to ſhew it; therefore he reſolves upon this courſe to take away ſins, to reconcile Enemies, whatever it coſt, and the more they ſhould coſt him, the gladder would he be; the making of a thouſand new Friends could not have expreſſed ſo much love, as the reconciling one Enemy. To love and delight in Friends, who had never wronged him, was too narrow, ſhallow, and ſlight a way; he had heights, depths, and breadths of Love, Eph. 3. 18. which he would make known, and which nothing but the depth of our Miſery could have drawn out.

And that this is the Reaſon, ſee Rom. 5. 8, 10. God commends his Love towards us, that whilſt we were yet Enemies, he gave, not any ſmall thing, but his Son for us; not to be born only, but to die. Our being Sinners, and his giving his Son, commends, or ſets out his Love; and that he might commend it, he pitcheth on this courſe. You ſee, how it was his Will, we have done with that. And that this Love ſhould be pitched upon Men, not Angels that fell, it commends his Love yet further.

There were but two ſorts of Sinners. And that the Sons of Men are the Sinners, ſpecified as Objects of this Love; as it is a Conſideration which doth much commend his Love, ſo it is a Fourth thing diſtinctly to be conſidered, we muſt of neceſſity have ſpoken of it in the end, A Body haſt thou fitted me. It is ſpoken in oppoſition to the Angels; He took not on him the nature of Angels, Heb. 2. 16. His delights were with the Sons of Men, not the Angels that fell. Sure I am, it commends his Love to us. There were but theſe two ſorts of Sinners, whoſe ſins could be taken away; and of the twain, who would have thought but their Graces ſhould have been propounded firſt, and have paſſed more eaſily? They were fairer, and better Creatures than we; and if he regarded Services, one of them was able to do him, more than a Thouſand of us. When he had bought us, he muſt be at a great deal of more trouble to preſerve and tend us, than we were there eſſentially, but manifeſtative, therefore God hath revealed many of his reaſons, and lets us at leaſt ſee the conveniencies and harmonies of this Plot.

III. It is ſaid to be his Will, to diſtinguiſh this greateſt work of all his works, ad extra, to wit, the Incarnation of his Son, as wherein the chiefeſt good did communicate himſelf to his Creatures by the nigheſt union, to the utmoſt; yet to diſtinguiſh it from his works ad extra, and ſhew that it was not neceſſary, (as Anſelm, and others have thought,) being deceived with this reaſon, Summum bonum ſua communicare Oportet. It became him indeed to do ſo, but it was not neceſſary, and it became him not as any part of his Intrinſecal perfections, to communicate himſelf, for then he had always done it; but as having infinite perfections in him it became him to perfect others by them: It is a work you ſee of his Will not of his Nature. To beget his Son as God was an act of his Nature, therefore could not be otherwiſe, but to prepare a body for him; and that he ſhould be born the Son of Man was an act of his Will, Lo when he comes into the world, he ſays, &c. As he begets us of his own Will. James 1.

Will you know how much his Will was in it, how ſtrongly ſet; know, for further explications ſake, that the taking away of ſins by the Incarnation of Chriſt, was one of his greateſt reſolutions and the ſtrongeſt that ever he took up, not ſimply a velleity or inclinableneſs ſo as he could be content it were done; But it was that upon which his Will was more ſet than ever upon any thing he was deeply and intimately affected unto, ſo as his thoughts are ſaid to run moſt upon it and to be taken up with it.

And his delights alſo, the chiefeſt of them were in it which continued it from everlaſting; all purpoſes vaniſh if not fed with delight, but this purpoſe became matter of greateſt delight: Gladder (as it were,) he was that he ſhould ſee this effected, than any thing elſe that was in his power to effect, this you may ſee ground for in Pſal. 40. 5. which place I quote, becauſe this Text is taken out of the next words, to which that 5th. verſe is a Preface, Many ſays he (in the General,) are the wonderful works which thou haſt done, and thy thoughts to us-ward cannot be reckoned, his mind hath ſo run on us from everlaſting. And then for inſtance he brings in this of giving his Son; Sacrifice and Burnt Offerings, &c. as if he ſhould have ſaid, This of all other is the greateſt inſtance of all his works of wonder, This his thoughts were moſt upon, ſo many that they cannot be numbred; this is his maſter-piece which he brings in inſtar omnium, in ſtead of all.

And add but unto this Prov 8. 13. where you ſhall ſee the curious Queſtion in part reſolved, What God did before the World was made? How he ran out that Eternity and what his thoughts and delight moſt ran upon, and you have it reſolved by one who knew his mind, was of his Counſel, the mighty Counſellor as being the wiſdom of the Father, as he is there ſtyled, That was by him before he made the World, ver. 22, 23. &c. Then was I ver. 30. (all the while,) by him, who came out of his boſom; he compares himſelf to a Child brought up by the Parent, I was brought up with him, lay in his boſom; And what did they together?

Two things.

Firſt, They delighted one with another, and one in another. The Father that he was able to beget ſuch a Son like him, Coeternal with him, I was daily his delight; and this was delight enough, though no Creature had been made; and obſerve it, that of all works ad extra towards his Creatures which he was to do, he mentions none but the diſpenſation towards the Sons of Men, and his delight therein next to the delight they had each in other.

Secondly, Rejoyceing in the habitable parts of the Earth, And my delights were with the Sons of Men which do inhabit here below, and fill the Earth.

Now, What could it be ſhould afford God thoughts of delight about the Sons of Men ſo long aforehand, to look and ſee them all at one clap turn'd Rebels againſt him, and view them muſter'd together in Troops againſt him; this could miniſter none but ſad and diſconſolate thoughts, It pained him at the heart;

Gen.

Gen. 6. 6. What was it delighted him then? Men delight only in their Friends not Enemies; was it in him as Created first in a ſtate of friendſhip, then there were but a couple to delight in: This is in the Sons of Men all the Earth over, the inhabitable parts of the Earth. He had ſome in one Age or other in all parts inhabited who were the deſire and delight of his Eyes. And beſides that fit of friendſhip which Adam was not worth the thinking of, it laſted ſo little a while, and ended in ſo great a laſting and general breach.

His delights were then in this, That he ſhould win to him, and gain the love of thoſe accurſed Rebels, in all places habitable, whom he himſelf loved ſo dearly; and ſhew, that his Love, by an unheard of way (that ſhould amaze Angels and Men) to take away their Sins, and reconcile them to himſelf by the Incarnation and Death of his Son, and tie them to him by an everlaſting Knot, which their Sins ſhould not untie again, nor ſeparate from that his Love. This took up his Delights in the Plural, he delighted to think it again and again. It muſt needs be a thing he delights in, that he feaſts himſelf with the Thoughts of ſo long before hand, even double Delights, as ſome Paraphraſe it; he delighted in them when firſt made, and that delight laſting not long, he delights in them again

But what ſhould be the reaſon, that this Plot ſhould ſo much affect and delight him. Had he not the Angels, that were conſtant Friends to him, to delight in? One would think, he ſhould have prized their Friendſhip more for the faithfulneſs of it. And if he had needed Princes, he could have created new ones; out of theſe very Stones have raiſed up a new Generation, and Seed of Well-willers, as John ſaid of Children to Abraham; and have packed us all to Hell for Rebels. He had Priſons enough to have held us, which Kings often want in a general Rebellion, and hehe might have been glorified in our juſt deſtruction.

What ſhould be the reaſon of this ſtrange affection in our God? Why? The Scripture gives it, and our God being even Love it ſelf, 1 John 4. 16. Loving where he ſets his Love, with an infinite Love, as himſelf is; which Love, of all things elſe in him, he loves to ſhew to the utmoſt; and of all works, Works of Love have the moſt delight in them. Therefore, Micah 7. 18. Mercy is called his delight, his darling. He would gladly ſhew how well he could love Creatures, gladdeſt of the greateſt opportunity to ſhew it; therefore he reſolves upon this courſe to take away ſins, to reconcile Enemies, whatever it coſt, and the more they ſhould coſt him, the gladder would he be; the making of a thouſand new Friends could not have expreſſed ſo much love, as the reconciling one Enemy. To love and delight in Friends, who had never wronged him, was too narrow, ſhallow, and ſlight a way; he had heights, depths, and breadths of Love, Eph. 3. 18. which he would make known, and which nothing but the depth of our Miſery could have drawn out.

And that this is the Reaſon, ſee Rom. 5. 8, 10. God commends his Love towards us, that whilſt we were yet Enemies, he gave, not any ſmall thing, but his Son for us; not to be born only, but to die. Our being Sinners, and his giving his Son, commends, or ſets out his Love; and that he might commend it, he pitcheth on this courſe. You ſee, how it was his Will, we have done with that. And that this Love ſhould be pitched upon Men, not Angels that fell, it commends his Love yet further.

There were but two ſorts of Sinners. And that the Sons of Men are the Sinners, ſpecified as Objects of this Love; as it is a Conſideration which doth much commend his Love, ſo it is a Fourth thing diſtinctly to be conſidered, we muſt of neceſſity have ſpoken of it in the end, A Body haſt thou fitted me. It is ſpoken in oppoſition to the Angels; He took not on him the nature of Angels, Heb. 2. 16. His delights were with the Sons of Men, not the Angels that fell. Sure I am, it commends his Love to us. There were but theſe two ſorts of Sinners, whoſe ſins could be taken away; and of the twain, who would have thought but their Graces ſhould have been propounded firſt, and have paſſed more eaſily? They were fairer, and better Creatures than we; and if he regarded Services, one of them was able to do him, more than a Thouſand of us. When he had bought us, he muſt be at a great deal of more trouble to preſerve and tend us, than we were were able ever to requite in ſervice and attendance upon him. He muſt allow us much of our time, to ſleep and eat, and to be idle, to refreſh our Bodies; muſt tend us, as you would tend a Child; Rock us aſleep every night, Make our beds in our ſickneſs, *Pſal.*41.3. and feed us himſelf in due ſeaſon. Whereas the Angels could ſtand in his preſence day and night, and not be weary.

And beſides, The Nature of Angels had been a fitter Match a great deal for his Son; they are Spirits, and ſo in a nearer aſſimulation to him. Who ever thought he ſhould chooſe to Match ſo low as with us? Take up our Dirt? All this makes for us, ſtill the more Love, for it was the more free. The more unlikely, the more it is commended; the leſs we could do for him or for our ſelves, the more it would appear he did for us. He is honoured more in our dependance, than in our ſervice. He hath regard to the Lowneſs of his Spouſe and Handmaid, and lets the mighty go, viz. Principalities and Powers. He loves ſtill to prefer the Younger, and make the Elder ſerve them; Rom. 9. the Angels are miniſtring Spirits for their good. Among Men, he calls out ſtill the Poor, the Fooliſh; Not many wiſe, or Noble; and he makes as unlikely a choice amongſt his Creatures.

Beſides, He had Angels enough already, Thouſand thouſands, and Ten thouſand times ten thouſand. And he would have ſome Men, that ſhould ſee his glory, bleſs him, and be bleſt of him. He loves varieties, to have two Witneſſes at leaſt. He creates two Worlds, Heaven and Earth; in them two, ſeveral ſorts of reaſonable Creatures, as Inhabitants; upon them he would ſhew two ſeveral waies of Salvation, and all to ſhew his manifold wiſdom, Eph. 3. 10.

You have now ſeen the project, Taking away of Sins, who, and what in him firſt moved him to it. The Father, and his Will, and that how ſtrongly ſet to have it done; and the Parties about whom is all this ado, The Sons of Men.

Let us now view the Means in the next place, which he pitcheth on to effect this great Deſign, both to take away ſins, and to ſhew withal his Love to the utmoſt. Which is ſet out to us,

1. Negatively, Shewing what he laid aſide; Sacrifices and Burnt Offerings; with the Reaſon, Not poſſible to effect it; or if they had, he not being pleaſed with that courſe, Thou wouldeſt not.

2. Affirmatively, But a Body haſt thou prepared me. And this is the Second General Head in the Text.

And as you have ſeen it was his Will, thus ſtrongly pitched upon it as his higheſt and deepeſt Project, to manifeſt the deareſt Affections to him to the utmoſt, viz. his Love. So you ſhall now ſee his Wiſdom ſoar as high, (indeed, infinitely out of our ſight, thoughts and imaginations,) to find out a correſpondent Means, not only to effect it; but in effecting it, to ſhew both Love and Wiſdom, and give full ſatisfaction to his Juſtice, which was infinitely beyond the reach of any created Underſtanding to have found it. He works all things according to the counſel of his will; his Will works by Counſel. And look how much ſtronglier his Will is on a thing, the deeper are his Counſels about it.

Now to proceed orderly herein, Obſerve, That to take away ſins he takes Means into conſideration; why elſe are Bulls and Goats took into conſideration? And that he might have taken Sins away without any Means, or more ado, I dare not ſay the contrary, as ſome do. He means, not to uſe his ſole Prerogative in it, but to do it fairly; and though by a bare act of his Will he might have done it, yet his Will working by Counſel, he thought it not yet fit to do it. This Reaſon ſways with me, That to puniſh ſin being an act of his Will, as well as other works of his ad extra, may therefore be ſuſpended as himſelf pleaſeth. To hate Sin is his nature; and that Sin deſerves death, is alſo the natural and inſeparable property, conſequent, and demerit of it. But the expreſſion of this its deſert by Actual puniſhment, is an act of his Will, and ſo might be ſuſpended. Which Will, working this and all things elſe by Counſel, thought it not ſo fit to do ſo.

Which

Which I demonſtrate thus, I will take the ground in the Text. Conſider the Project is to take away Sins. Now, if he will take away Sins, to ſhew his Love to the utmoſt, as hath been ſhewn, then to make way for the manifeſtation of this, he was firſt to give a Law, which might both diſcover what was Sin, and what an heinous thing it was; and ſhew by a Threatning annexed, that puniſhment which it naturally did deſerve, and what the Sinner might expect in Juſtice from him.

This was neceſſary; for where there is no Law, there can be no Sin, Rom. 5. 13. Sin is not imputed where there is no Law; and otherwiſe, he ſhould have no Sinners actually capable of Mercy; none to pardon.

Giving this Law, he takes upon him to be a Judge, and the Judge of all the World; for in the very making of the Law he declares himſelf to be ſo. And ſo then, he is engaged upon many ſtrong Motives to ſhew his Juſtice againſt Sin in that puniſhment he threatned; though ſtill in that he is Judge of all the World, and the maker of the Law could, if he pleaſed, forbear to execute thoſe Threatnings, ſeeing a note of Irrevocation was not added to them. For he that made the Law, may repeal that part of it, yet moſt ſtrong Motives there are to execute them.

He ſpeaks of Blood here, *Heb.*9.22,23. he ſays, that without Blood there is no remiſſion. He will have Blood in lieu of Satisfaction; and verſe 23. makes a neceſſity that there ſhould be Sacrifices, and better Sacrifices than the Blood of Bulls and Goats, neceſſary not abſolutely, but in regard of God's reſolution to ſatisfie Juſtice. And therefore the Heathens ſacrificed to pacifie their angry gods; it being innate in Nature, that God might be ſatisfied. The Reaſons of this, why God required Satisfaction, I have ſhewed elſewhere.

For is he not, the Judge of all the World? And is it not a righteous thing with God to render Vengeance? 2 Theſſ. 1. 5. Shall not the Judge of all the World do right? Gen. 18. As ſhe ſaid, If thou do not Juſtice, ceaſe to be a King. And is he not, thereby, to ſet a Copy to all Judges elſe, being Judge of all the World? Primum in quolibet genere eſt menſura reliquorum. And is not he an abomination to him, that juſtifies the unrighteous, and condemns the Innocent? *Prov.*17.15. They may not, becauſe they are but his Juſtices: And though he might, being Supream Judge; yet, if all the World be his Circuit, and he means to condemn the Angels by that Law, and to ſhew his Juſtice on them, how will he clearly overcome when he Judges them? as Rom. 3. 4. Stop the mouths? as it is in the 19th verſe; if he ſhews not his Juſtice on thoſe Sinners he pardons. And though he might ſay to them, Pay what you owe me; What is that to you? Yet even the men he pardons, and pardons to that end, to ſhew his Mercy; would eſteem Sin leſs, and Pardon leſs, if it were procured and obtained lightly.

There is Mercy with him to be feared, not to be contemned, as the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks; And, are not all his Attributes his Nature, his Juſtice as well as Mercy, his hatred of Sin as well as love of his Creatures? And is not that Nature of his a pure act, and therefore provokes his Will to manifeſt all theſe upon all occaſions? Doth not Juſtice boil within him againſt Sin, as well as his Bowels of Mercy earn towards the Sinner? And ſhould Sin, which is the greateſt Inordinacy, not be brought in compaſs in his Goverment, who doth order all things; ſhould it be left extravagant and not regarded, and eſcape as free as Holineſs? And is not the Plot of Redemption his Maſter-piece, wherein he means to bring all his Attributes upon the Stage? And ſhould his Juſtice, and this expreſſed by a Law, keep in and ſit down? No, *Rom.*3.26. He reſolveth to be Juſt, and the Juſtifier of the Sinner too; that is, as it is in the foregoing verſes, by declaring his Righteouſneſs; that is, give an inſtance of his Juſtice againſt the ſins of thoſe he pardons, though he juſtifies the Sinner. Though Private men may put off a wrong, yet Publick perſons, that govern others, are to execute it for Example ſake.

This being his Reſolution, Obſerve, Secondly, That the way he took was by a Mediatour, that may take Sins off from the Sinner, and expoſe himſelf to ſatisfie his Juſtice, for no way elſe can be imagined. And ſo the Goats which he mentions, did in the Type ſignifie ſo much, Lev. 16. They confeſſed their Sins over them, which ſignified, That God intended a Commutation, that he ſought out ſome Party, who might take the Sins upon himſelf, and undertake to ſatisfie, be able to do it; and ſo he might ſtill be Juſt, and alſo a Juſtifier of Us, upon whom he might lay the Iniquity he took off from us, Iſai. 53. 6. and exact the puniſhment, as Junius reads the next words; that might become a Surety, Heb. 7.22. that might be made ſin, 2 Cor. 5. ult. and, under the Law, Gal. 4.4. And give and expoſe himſelf as a Ranſom ἀντίλυτρον, a ſufficient, adequate Satisfaction to that his Juſtice againſt Sin. Theſe, and many the like Phraſes, the Scripture uſes.

And if you ask, How God declares his Juſtice by this courſe, ſeeing the Law threatneth the Sinner?

I Anſwer, That the Law is the effect of God's Will, which is guided by Counſel, For he works all things according to the Counſel of his own Will; and therefore he may diſpenſe with the tenor or Letter of it. If ſo be thoſe holy ends, which his Counſel had in making of it, be accompliſhed and attained, and if the reaſon of the Law and Lawgiver be ſatisfied, then is the Law.

Now the ends and grounds of giving God's Law, were to declare and ſhew forth his Juſtice and hatred againſt Sin, wherever he found it. Now, his Juſtice and hatred of Sin is as fully manifeſted, when Puniſhment is executed upon a Party undertaking Sin, to be made a Surety for it, as if the Sinner himſelf were puniſhed, if not more, in that he doth but undertake it for another, and yet is not ſpared: As God is ſaid to hear our Prayers, and fulfil his Promiſe, when he anſwers to the ground of our Prayers, though not in the thing. So are the Cries of Sin againſt the Sinner for Juſtice, anſwered, and his Threatnings fulfilled, when another is puniſhed, becauſe all the ends of the Lawgiver are fully accompliſhed.

It is true, The tenor and letter of the Law is diſpenſed with, but not the Debt, that is as fully exacted as ever. 'Tis but a diſpenſation of the Party obliged, not of the Obligation it ſelf, or of the Debt, nor of the reaſons of the Debt. It is not wholly Secundum Legem, οὐδὲ κατὰ νόμον, οὐδὲ κατὰ νόμου· ἀλλα ὑπερ νόμον, καὶ ὑπερ νόμου. It is a ſaying no leſs ſolid than elegant; and therefore the more elegant, becauſe it was anciently uſed in another caſe.

And although the Law doth not mention or name a Surety; indeed the Malefactors ſingle Bond is only mentioned, and the Threatning directed againſt him. His Name is only in the Proceſs, becauſe the Law in it ſelf ſuppoſeth as yet none elſe guilty, and can challenge none elſe; but if ſome other, who is Lord of his own actions, ſubject himſelf to the Law willingly, which Will of his is a Law to him: And the Lawgiver himſelf, who is Lord of the Law, accept this, as ſeeing the ſame ends ſhall be ſatisfied, for which he made the Law; In this caſe, the Law takes hold of the Surety or Undertaker, and he may let the Malefactor go free.

And Juſtice will permit this Commutation, when all Parties are ſatisfied, and no wrong is done to any. For if the Party undertaking be willing, Juſtice may well be ſatisfied, Volenti non fit injuria. And having Power, all that thing which he offers to lay down for ſatisfaction, being Lord of it, no other is wronged; neither is the Party to be ſatisfied, wronged, if he that undertakes it be of ability fully to ſatisfie and fulfil what he deſires.

And if the Lawgiver be willing to aſſent to this act of his, and to accept it, being Lord of his own Law; he may diſpenſe with the Letter of it, if ſo be thoſe holy ends which his Council had in making it, be accompliſhed and attained.

In this caſe, there is no queſtion of Injuſtice; nay Juſtice doth reſt ſatisfied, as if the Sinner had done it. And all theſe concur in the Means, which God hath ordained to take away ſin, as we ſhall ſee anon.

And now, in the Third place, the difficulty in finding out a Party, who ſhould willingly undertake this, and be able to perform it; and whom God would venture upon, and fully truſt to effect it.

Firſt,

First, The Blood of Bulls and Goats were not able, It is not possible; and indeed, add to them all the Creatures that are the appurtenances of Man, which man hath to give, as Silver, Gold, Precious Stones, &c. Nay, not the whole World of them, for nothing less noble than man, can be a sufficient surety for mans life, which Sin deprives of, it must be an adequate ransom ἀντίλυτρον, 1 Tim. 2.6. Redditio æquivalentis pro æquivalentè, a Tooth for a Tooth, a Life and Blood as noble as ours, or it will not satisfie. Counters will not pay for Gold.

Now, all such things are not worth a Soul, which is to be lost for Sin, said He that paid for one, *Matt.*16.26. Will the Lord be pleased with Rivers of Oil; nay, with the First-born of thy Body, for the Sin of thy Soul, there is no proportion. God would never have turn'd away so fair a Chapman, if his Justice could afford so cheap a commutation. All the World was made for man to have dominion over, and cannot fill his Soul, and All in it a man will give for his life, as Job 1. and therefore in his own estimation, they are not equivalent to it. A King's Ransom is more than another mans, because the Person is worthier; so, all these is not a worthy price for a mans life, who is Lord of all.

But Secondly, You will say, Yet the Blood of men equal with thy self may? Answ. *Psal.*49.7. A man cannot redeem his Brother, nor give to God a Ransom for him, so precious shall be the redemption of the Soul. Shall we say, Martyrs, Saints, whose Deaths yet are precious in God's eyes; but not so precious as to redeem a Soul. Shall we say, Angels; Suppose Justice did not require the same Nature that sinned should die, it may be doubted their exposing themselves to destruction could not take away Sins; not but that their lives are as good as ours, but because Sin is so heinous, God's Wrath against it so great, as it could never be slacked.

Let us consider a little what Sin is.

It is true indeed, that Sin hurts not God in regard of the event; Job. 35.6. If thou sinnest, what dost thou against him, &c. and therefore say some Schoolmen, No Restitution need be made Per modum Justitiæ. It displeaseth God (say they) only, it doth not hurt him. It is only an Indignity, not an Injury. But yet Injuries are to be measured, and called so, by the Terminus they tend to, as all Motions are; As that is called Calefactio that tends to heat, and the action is measured by the will of the Party, not by the event and success; and so, he that hates his Brother is said to be a Murtherer, though he kills him not, 1 John 3. 15. And God takes the will for the deed.

1. Now Sin tends to destroy God's Law, though it doth not, for not one Iota of it shall pass; yet because it tends to it, as much as in it lies, *Psal.*119 126. God accounts of it, as destructive to his Law.

2. So the manifestation of God's Glory, though it shall receive no foyl, no more than the Sun-beams can do by Mists, but it will scatter all; yet Sin tends to darken it and obscure it, and to dishonour him, setting up other gods.

3. So God's Being it toucheth not, yet it is a denial of God, *Tit.*1.ult. a professing there is none. It makes a man hate God; and as he that hates his Brother is a Murtherer, so he that hates God, is, (what in him lies) a destroyer of his very Being, Peccatum est Deicidium.

Now, though this Injury takes not effect, yet the demerit of it seems to be no less; not an Indignity, but an Injury. It is true also, that it is essentially but Privatio boni, and is not Privatio Dei, no more than Blindness may be called a privation of colour, but of sight, to see with, as Vasquez Reasons. 'Tis true, as in the Eclipse of the Sun, though the Sun loseth really no light by it, but the Earth; yet because it makes the Face of the World below, as if there were no Sun; it is said to be the Eclipse of it, and not of the Earth: And so it may be said of Sin; It is a privation of God, of his Glory and Law; because, though indeed we are the losers, yet it makes to us, as if there were no God, as if he had no being, and so may be said the Eclipse of his Being: They live without God in the World, *Eph.*2.10. and, without the Law, 1 *Tim.*1.9. And are deprived of the Glory of God, which is not manifested in them, nor by them, *Rom.*3.23.

And if Sin is to be accounted really thus, What satisfaction can any Creature make, Saint or Angel, by suffering? What hath he to be deprived of, that is equivalent to these? For he can be but destroyed.

First, For the Law. Is not the leaſt Iôta of the Law worth Heaven and Earth? Becauſe God's Prerogative lies at the ſtake in it. Is not the Regula, the Original of all the Grace they have? For all Grace is but the Copy of the Law; Doth it not bind and command all that is in them? What have they worth it to be deſtroyed?

Secondly, For the Manifeſtation of God's Glory, how doth all their excellency infinitely fall ſhort of the leaſt beam of it? Better they were all deſtroyed, than the leaſt ſoyl ſhould be caſt on it. Is it not the end for which they were made, and therefore is better than they are? Do they not owe all they have to the advancing of it? What then can they loſe, which can hold proportion with it? Moraliſts obſerve, That of all Injuries elſe, wrongs in points of Honour, from Inferiours to Superiours, do moſt tranſcend Satisfaction. If they take Goods away from a Superiour, the reſtoring of them ſatisfies him as much as an Inferiour; yea, it is leſs, becauſe to rob a Poor man is more, than one that is Rich; but if in point of Honour, how can he do it but by Submiſſion? And if he ſubmits to give Honour to him, it is no more than he ought to do, as an Inferiour. How much more doth a wrong to God, in point of Honour, exceed? Who are ſo Inferiour, as Heaven and Earth are not worthy to be his Throne and Footſtool. My Glory I will not give to another.

Thirdly, We are but ſhadows of Being; He is the ſubſtance, whoſe Name is, I am. Therefore, but the overſhadowing of his Being, is more than the real deſtruction of ours.

In the Third place, Suppoſe it may be ſaid, That if Lives went for ours, they might ſatisfie as well as we can, ſeeing they are as good as ours; and therefore if Eternal death in us be a ſatisfaction to God's Juſtice, (or elſe, God loſeth by Sin, then he would not have let it come into the World,) then it might be ſo in them for us, and ſo we might be freed. Theſe Inconveniencies follow.

Firſt, Conſider, that they muſt alwaies be a ſatisfying, and it could never be ſaid, it is finiſhed; they muſt lie by it till they pay the utmoſt Farthing, which they can never do, no more than we our ſelves, and ſo they could not take away ſins from us; for we could not have an Acquittance, till the Debt were paid; we could not be Juſtified, till our Surety were acquitted. Therefore, ſays Paul, if Chriſt had not riſen, we had been yet in our ſins; and therefore the Pſalmiſt ſaith, *It ceaſeth for ever, ſhall never be accompliſhed, Pſal.*49. So precious is the Redemption of a Soul, that it ceaſeth for ever, that is, ſhall never be accompliſht; ſo the phraſe is taken elſewhere. It is ſo precious, as it requires an Eternity to do it in, and ſo ſhall alwaies be doing, and never be ended, and ſo we ſhould never be the better; never come to have our Bonds cancell'd: And for this reaſon Sacrifices might not be rejected (as in the Verſe before my Text,) they were fain to offer every year, *Heb.*10.3.

Secondly, Suppoſe that God, to whom Eternity is but an inſtant, ſhould therefore give us in our Bond, when the other had entred into his; becauſe, though it be an Eternity of paying, yet to him it is preſent. Well, yet one Juſt man, or Angel, could but ſatisfie for one of us; Life could but go for Life, a Tooth for a Tooth, as the Law requires; and ſo he ſhould ſacrifice as many Creatures as good as we, for ever. His Obedience, as Adam's Righteouſneſs, could not extend to many, for that was a favour, but this a debt; whom alſo, for his Obedience, (if he did it for his ſake, or elſe he would not accept it,) he could never reward, becauſe they were to ſuffer eternally.

Thirdly, If we grant all this, yet what Creature could have ſo much Love in it towards us as to ſacrifice, as to ſacrifice it ſelf willingly; which it muſt fully do, for Nolenti fit injuria in this caſe; ſo it cannot be ſatisfaction, Satisfactio eſt redditio voluntaria, ſay the Schools. *Rom.*5.7. Peradventure, for a good man ſome would dare to die. Mark it, he makes a Peradventure of it, and it muſt be for a Good man, that is, one profitable to him, as they expound it, and Death is φαύλων φαυλεξίπαλον, he muſt be hardy, and dare well, that would do it; but to encounter God's Wrath, who dare do it?

Jer. 30. 21. Making there a promiſe of Chriſt to be a Mediator, one that ſhould be able to draw nigh to them; he gives this reaſon. For who is there that engageth his heart to draw nigh to me; As if he had ſaid, none elſe, none elſe durſt have ſtept in and encountred me for you; Eſpecially not for Enemies both to God and them. They need a Mediator to reconcile us and them, as that place, Epheſ. 1. 10. of reconciling all in Heaven and Earth. To gather together in one, all things in Heaven and Earth, make us as Friends to him, ſo one to another; The holyer they were, the leſs they muſt needs love us.

Fourthly, If any had ſo much love and would be ſo hardy to venture, as Paul had a wiſh to be accurſed, yet if they were in Hell half an hour, they would repent them and wiſh themſelves out again. And ſo it had been ſpoiled for being ſatisfaction, it muſt throughout be voluntary, as our diſobedience was.

Fifthly, Suppoſe all this, yet this would do no more then barely take away ſins; but though no more is mentioned yet more is meant to convey Righteouſneſs alſo: He muſt be made ſin, that we may be made Righteouſneſs. 2 Cor. 5. ult. To bring us into favour, and make us gratiouſly accepted. And ſo I am ſure it was not poſſible they ſhould; For they have none to ſpare, none to lend; if they were a Grain lighter, they would be found too light, and their Kingdom would depart from them, and they be ſtripped of happineſs. They need confirmation in their eſtate themſelves, it is well they keep their own ſtanding that their heels be not tripped up. In Matt. 25. 8, 9. When the fooliſh Virgins askt for Oyl of the wiſe, they anſwered they had little enough for themſelves, all they can do in obedience to the Law they ow it; How can one debt be paid with another? They for whom we were to be received to favour were to be much more beloved and in favour with him. And if it be ſaid, we ſhould have had benefit by Adam's Righteouſneſs, if he had ſtood, by the ſame Covenant, by which we have ſin from him.

I Anſwer, Firſt, only the benefit of Confirmation in that eſtate, not of Juſtification, that ſhould have been our own; both now we are to have.

Secondly, I Anſwer, That to convey Righteouſneſs to them who have been ſinners is much more, which then we were not; For now it muſt be done per modum meriti & ſatisfactionis, then only as a mean's appointed to convey that which God out of his goodneſs, meant to beſtow.

But Laſt of all, Suppoſe all this poſſible, yet there is a further Reaſon in the Text, Tu noluiſti, non approbaſti; now to ſatisfy for another eſpecially in Corporal puniſhment requires the conſent of the party to be ſatisfied, becauſe Quando aliud offertur quam eſt in obligatione, eſt ſatisfactio recuſabilis; as the ſatisfaction of another is another thing than the Law mentions or ties it ſelf to admit. When Ahab offered Naboth as good a Vineyard as his own, yet he might refuſe it, as he did; much more God. Yea the ſatisfaction of Chriſt neceſſarily required God's decree, and conſent to it, as I ſhall ſhew afterward. As they err who ſay he could not Pardon without ſatisfaction; So they that ſay as Papiſts do, that he could not but Pardon, the compact not ſuppoſed, and in regard of that decree it was impoſſible any thing ſhould. And therefore, ſays Chriſt, Father if it be poſſible let this Cup paſs; had it been poſſible he had been heard, but it did not paſs.

And therefore he would not truſt their help in ſo weighty a buſineſs, wherein his will was ſo ingaged, Job. 4. 18. Behold he puts no truſt in his Servants; though in ordinary works of obedience he might, yet he will never rely on them for ſo great a matter. He finds folly in the Angels, they are mutable, he truſted one man for all only in matter of obedience to his Law, which was eaſy and ſweet to him, and ſee how he failed and loſt all upon no great or ſtrange temptation. He will never hazard a ſecond Adam to be a mere Creature, in a matter of puniſhment, which to be willing ever to undergo, muſt be fed with ſome delight or hope of eaſe; he will make ſure work now.

Therefore

Therefore what if (as in making his promiſes, as it is ſaid, Heb. 6. 17. God being willing more abundantly to ſhew to the Heirs of Salvation confirmed it by an Oath; which puts an end to all Controverſies verſe 16. And becauſe he can ſwear by no greater he will ſwear by himſelf;) ſay I in this. What if God Ex abundanti, (upon ſuppoſition that other means could have done it,) yet out of abundance of love to us, whom he thinks he can never love enough, nor to ſhew his love do too much for; What if he means to give his Son becauſe he cannot give a greater. And indeed it is he In the Volume of thy Book it itwritten of me.

And ſo in giving his he attains to give the greateſt inſtance of his Love and Juſtice. Love, in that not only he is content to commute the Puniſhment, but lay it on his Son. Juſtice, that he will not only puniſh ſin in us but even in him, Spar'd not his own Son, Rom. 8. 31. and ſo make ſure work indeed, put an end to all ſuppoſitions, fears, yea poſſibility of miſcariage.

A way whereby to accommodate all ſo fully, as all conveniences requiſite to this work ſhould concur, yea, abound, exceed in his alone Mediation.

Only for the preſent, you may ſee all the former caſes and difficulties that were put in the mediation of the Creature now vaniſh and diſſolve.

For he is able fully to make amends for ſin, and the injury thereof, aggravate it to the higheſt; Conſider who it is, It is his Son: Is ſin the breach of the holy Law of God? He is more, The eſſential word of his Father, John 1. 1. The other but the word of his will, he made the Law and gave it. Gal. 3. 19. And if he will vouchſafe to be made under it, as Gal. 4. 4. This makes amends for all.

Is ſin a defacer of the manifeſtation of God's glory, and goes about to rob him of it? He is more, not the reflection of his glory only, but the brightneſs of his glory, Heb. 1. 3. If therefore, he will be content to lay down this glory, and come in the form of a Servant, and make himſelf of no reputation as Phil. 5. 7. as he did. John 4. 5. Glorify me now with the glory I had with thee, before the World was. It was eclipſed, ſhut up in a Dark Lanthorn as it were, Will not this make amends?

Doth ſin ſeek God's life; If he now, that hath a life equal unto God's, as John 2. 26. It is ſaid he hath the ſame life with his Father, and thinks it no robbery to be equal with him, Phil. 2. 6. If he will become obedient to death; as it is ver. 8. Doth not this make amends? Neither ſhall he lay down what is anothers, as the Creatures. I have power to lay down my life. John 10. 18.

Is it God's Wrath, and the pangs of death, are to be encountred with? he dares do it, Jeremiah 30. 21. He ſhall draw near to me when none elſe can.

And will he be overcome with it, and ſo always a ſatisfying? No, the pangs of death cannot hold him, Acts 2. 24. Wherewith it was impoſſible he ſhould be held; he will be able to ſay in the end; it is finiſhed.

Or will his ſatisfaction ſerve but for one? Yes, For Worlds, Rom. 5. 17, 18, 19. He is able to bring in ſuch abundance of Righteouſneſs, as ſhall abound to many.

And for bringing us into favour, and Adopting us Sons, and conveying Righteouſneſs, who better then he, who is the natural Son of God, the beloved Son of God, in whom all the beams of that love which are diſperſed to all Creatures, are concentred as the Beams of the Sun in a burning glaſs.

Two things yet remain which muſt neceſſarily concur to this buſineſs to make it ſatisfaction. That both God the Father, and Chriſt be willing and fully willing, that thus it ſhould be accompliſht. Neceſſary it was that God the Father ſhould be willing, and call him to it, for he was the perſon unto whom the ſatisfaction was to be made in the name of the reſt, as I ſaid before; It being by commutation which in ſuch a caſe depends as much upon the will acceptation and conſent of the party wronged to make it ſatisfaction, as on the worth of the thing reſtored; be it never ſo full and equivalent to the wrong, yet it is not ſatisfaction, unleſs he be willing to accept it for another, becauſe it ſatisfies not him. Quando aliud offertur, quam eſt in Obligatione, eſt ſatisfactio recuſabilis. Should Chriſt do all this never ſo fully and freely, unleſs the Father's Will and Call concur to it, he might refuſe it, condemn it notwithſtanding, And ſay, Who required this at your hands? And therefore Heb. 10. the verſe following my Text, he aſcribes as much to the Will of God accepting it, as to the Merit of Chriſt's death, to make all effectual to ſanctify us. Through the which Will we are Sanctified, through the Offering of the Body of Chriſt.

Yea, He muſt be more than willing; he muſt call his Son to it, and be the firſt mover of it to him to undertake it, for beſides that ye heard before, that the Father is the firſt mover in all, ſo in this; It is an Office of Prieſthood, Heb. 5. 4, 5. and even Chriſt himſelf muſt be called to it, as well as Aaron, ſays the Text there.

And if ſo, Then here comes in the greateſt difficulty of all the reſt. A difficulty it was to find out a way; when that was done, a greater to find out a perſon ſo fully fitted as might do it; And ſuch difficulty as if it had been referred to Men or Angels, all their wiſdom could not have found it out unto Eternity. Adam knew none, for he ſtood by Trembling; thought God would have flown at him. The Devil knew none; Thought all ſure, and therefore tempted man. The good Angels learn it of the Church, Epheſ. 3. 10. God you ſee ſet his depths of wiſdom a work to find out one in whom all might be accommodated. But the finding out of the Perſon hath brought a greater with it; For if none but he who was his Son could do it: And he though a Son yet if he become a ſurety, Juſtice would not have ſpared, Rom. 8. 30. bated nothing, without Blood no remiſſion; and not the beſt Blood of his Body would ſerve, but of his Soul too; He muſt bear our Sorrows, Iſai. 53. 5. Pay God in the ſame Quoin, we ſhould and therefore muſt make his Soul an Offering, verſe laſt. If he be made ſin he muſt be made a Curſe; And which is more than all this, God himſelf muſt be the Executioner, and his own Son the whipping ſtock; No Creature could ſtrike a ſtroke hard enough to make it ſatisfaction: Many a tender Mother hath not the heart to ſee her Child whip'd, much leſs to whip it her ſelf, though for its own profit and good when it is in fault: But God muſt put his Son to grief, Iſai. 3.

You heard at firſt God's will was ſtrongly ſet upon this reſolution of taking ſins away, and ſo it might be, and more ſtrongly than ever on any thing elſe; but yet not upon ſuch terms as theſe he might be glad to ſee it done, but not to coſt too dear. The buſineſs is at a ſtand here, and like to be clean daſht; We that are poor ſhallow-headed ſtrait-hearted Creatures might well think ſo.

To find out the Perſon and way to accompliſh it, drew but out the depths of his wiſdom: But now if it go forward it will draw out the depths of his love. It coſt him but his thoughts before, now it muſt coſt him his Son, the Son of his love; and if it were to Sacrifice Worlds for us, he could eaſily Create Millions, and deſtroy them again. But what to Sacrifice his Son? What to be the firſt propounder and contriver of ſo harſh a motion, as it may ſeem to be unto him? this is more.

The Text (to go no further,) rids us of this alſo, and plainly tells us he did all this. In thy Book it is written of me, ſays Chriſt; That I ſhould do thy will; he is not willing only, but the firſt decreer of it, It is written of me.

Written, Where? If you will have what I think, we find the very words recorded, Heb. 5. 6. which place ſhews how God the Father called him to it, and how he that ſaid unto him Thou art my Son this day have I begotten thee; ſays in another place, Thou art a Prieſt after the Order of Melchiſedeck. The Holy Ghoſt brings in both theſe and joyns them both together, as concurring in this Call; and brings in the firſt as the Argument and Motive God uſed to him when he moved him; He that ſays thou art my Son, ſays alſo, thou art a Prieſt. He was his Father, and ſo had power to appoint his Son his Calling, (as other Parents have,) he appoints him to be a Prieſt; and therefore he tells him that he is his his Son and he begat him: He woes him, as he was his Son to take it upon him; He calls him indeed, and speaks as if he meant not to be denied. In the highest Language of a Father he useth his interest with him, mentioneth the deepest obligation; and he notes out the time, it was his birth day. This day have I begotten thee; As Parents often dedicate their Children when first born, to such or such a Calling, as Hannah did Samuel to the Priesthood, so doth God his Son; Yea, he laies his command on him, John 10. 18. though the other mentions the most commanding argument and relation of all other. All obedience and authority is held forth in such a speech; Yea, and yet to shew more vehemency and earnestness, He adds an Oath to it. He swore he should be a Priest, Heb. 7. 21. and when he has done records it; It is written of me, and that ἐν κεφαλίδι τῆ βιβλίε, in the first Page of the Book of his Decrees; Yea, and puts his Seal to it, Him hath God the Father Sealed, John 6. 27. God the Father you see is willing and fully willing; hath done all that lies in him, and yet no more than was necessarily required to this work, as was in part before, and may be further observed out of Heb. 10. 10. wherein he says, We are Sanctified through this will, through the offering of the Body of Christ; having reference to this Will of calling him here in the Text, without which Christ's Offering had not been satisfactory nor of force to Sanctify.

Now, Then the Second thing remains, how the motion takes with Christ, which his Father makes to him, which was as necessary as the Former: For besides that it could not have been forced on him. For John 5.26. The Father had given him life in himself, and so to have power over his life, John 10.18. I have power over my life, and none can take it from me; I say besides that if it come not off freely, it had not been satisfactory: Satisfactio est redditio voluntaria. Our disobedience was free, so must his satisfaction be, A free will Offering of himself; God stands more upon the Will than the Deed: as a kindness is spoiled in the doing if it be unwillingly done, so would his satisfaction be: This therefore is another difficulty, and but that his Father struck in so, likely to have been greater than the former. Though he had at last yielded, yet if he sticks at it, we are undone, if he makes but one objection, we perish. And is it not infinite Love, that he should not, being the party to undergo so much debasement? How did the Eldest Sons stomach rise, when but the fatted Calf was kill'd for the Prodigal? But he the Eldest only begotten Son must Sacrifice himself, (Worlds would not serve whereof he could have created enough,) for enemies: But not a thought arose contrary to his Fathers Will. So his own words in the Text shew, Lo I come to do thy will O God; The Psalm out of which the words are borrowed, Psal. 40. 8. hath it, I delight to do thy will, as the Sun rejoyceth to run his race, so the Sun of Righteousness, for he was anointed with the Oyl of gladness above his fellows; Psal. 40.7. As glad as ever he was to eat his meat, John. 4. 34. With desire have I desired it, yea, and long'd as much pain, as ever Woman with Child long'd to be delivered, Luke 12. 50.

It was well for us that his Father struck in thus strongly in the business it self. You know how unwelcome it must needs be to him; Father if it be possible. But yet because it was his Will he submits, Not my will but thine be done; As it was his Fathers Will he had no reluctancy: Neither would simply, all our cries or mediations have ever moved him, no more than straws could have moved a Mountain; But that it was his Fathers Will it was enough: For, besides that, John 10. 30. I, and my Father are one; and so have one will, and agree in one, but especially seeing he intreats him: The Father resolves to hear him in all things, and should not his Father? Especially when he request is made upon his birth day, the This day have I begotten thee. When all requests use to be granted, as Herod, to the half of my Kingdom. What? And as he was his Father and he his Son, this overcame him, John. 10. 17. 18. Though he had life in his own hand, Yet, says he, I laid it down because the Father loves me; surely if he be so earnest he could not deny him, especially when he added a command to it. This is the Reason he likewise gives, John 10. 18, 19. I have power to lay down my life, and this command have I received of my Father. His Father had power, (as other Fathers have,) to dispose of the calling of his Son. And though he was so great as a Son, equal to ſo great a Father; yet being a Son he is not exempted from Obedience, *Phil.*2.8. *Heb.*5.8. And when his Father ſhall add an Oath alſo, that is an end of all Controverſies between man and man, much more between Father and Son, *Heb.*6.18. And laſt of all, he ſet his Seal to it; It muſt ſtand good, for his Seal to it ſhews there is no breaking it, 2 *Tim.*2.29.

All theſe made him fully willing, which is therefore to be in a ſpecial manner taken notice of, that we may conſider for whoſe ſake principally Chriſt did die and undertake it, and ſee to whom we are ſo much beholding; though he did it out of love to us, yet chiefly for his Father's entreaty and command, and out of love to him: So Chriſt ſays, John 14.31. That the World may know that I love the Father, and that as he gave me Commandment, ſo do I. He ſpeaks this then when he was to go to ſuffer, Ariſe, let us go hence. And now he is engaged, there is no fear of miſcarriage or unfaithfulneſs; He being God, our Salvation we ſee is in ſure hands, though it were yet to perform. The firſt part of the Story and Text is done.

A SERMON

On COLOSS. I. 20.

And (having made peace through the blood of his Croſs) by Him to reconcile all things unto himſelf, by Him, I ſay, whether they be things in Earth, or things in Heaven.

THat God was in Chriſt, reconciling the World to himſelf, is the Sum of, and the Theme which the Goſpel dilates upon, 2 *Cor.*5.19. and the Title the Apoſtle gives therefore to the Doctrine of the Goſpel, is, The word of Reconciliation, to wit, That God was in Chriſt, &c. that is, That God the Father had from everlaſting made this his eſpecial buſineſs, which he hath plotted, and been deſirous to bring about; and that though *all things are of him, ver.*18. yet this above all the reſt. And that God the Father hath appointed Chriſt, as the Means to accompliſh it, with full ſatisfaction made to his Juſtice. God was in Chriſt, &c.

God the Father's part, I have already handled out of another Scripture, more proper to that Argument, and how far it was advanced by him.

Firſt, By taking up a ſtrong and unalterable Reſolution, to gather in one the Sons of Men, ſcattered from him, *Eph.*1.9,10. It is declared to be the Myſtery of his Will, which he purpoſed in himſelf, according to his good pleaſure; and as this Text tells us, It pleaſed Him. It had been his full meaning, his everlaſting intent and purpoſe; yea, a matter of the greateſt delight to him, as Jer. 3. 24. in ſhewing Mercy, on the Earth, not in Hell, therein is my delight. This Purpoſe was fed with delight, and therefore vaniſht not. And the greater men are, the greater delights they uſe to have; and this being God's, muſt needs be a matter of infinite moment and conſequence; his heart being in it ſo much, and he being ſet upon it.

Secondly, This Purpoſe lay not idle in him, but ſet him awork, his Wiſdom awork; and out of thoſe his infinite depths, found out and invented a way and means of effecting our Reconciliation, even the Incarnation and Death of his own Son; before the wound was given, provided a Plaiſter and ſufficient remedy to ſalve all again, which otherwiſe had been paſt finding out. For we who could never have found out a Remedy for a Cut-finger, (had not God preſcribed and appointed one) could much leſs for this. It being a caſe of that difficulty (ſuppoſing his Juſtice reſolving to have full ſatisfaction; which, as it paſſed all the Creatures power to make, ſo it paſſed their skill and thoughts to find out, how, and by whom, it might be effected.) The Devils, they could not imagine any way, no more for us than for themſelves; and therefore tempted Man, thinking him, when he had ſinned, ſure enough; and Hell-gates ſo ſtrongly lockt, that no Art could find or make a Key to open them, a Power to break them open. And Adam, poor Man! he trembled, knew not which way to turn himſelf; and thought God would have flown upon him preſently. The good Angels, they *know it but by the Church, Eph.*3.10. In this ſtrait, aforehand God ſet his depths awork to find out One, in and by whom all this might be accommodated, and (to allude to Abraham's Speech,) provided himſelf a Sacrifice, unknown to us.

Thirdly, It hath been ſhewn, that He, to manifeſt his ſeriouſneſs in it called his Son to it. Whom,

Fourthly, We have ſhewn at his entreaty to have been fully willing, and undertook it.

I shall at this time, in handling of these words, give the second part of this Story; and endeavour to lay open Christ's part, in whom it now lies to be performed. And for this I have chosen this Text, which tells us, That all Fulness [illegible] for the effecting of it. As,

1. Of Fulness.
2. Of Ability.
3. Of Faithfulness,
4. Of Righteousness, now it is performed.
5. Of Acceptation of his Person, and what he hath done.
6. A Fulness of Duration of the Merit of what he hath done for ever.

First, He had a fulness of Fitness in him, being fitted so with such a Body as hath been described; a fulness of Fitness in his Person, to be a Mediator and Reconciler for us.

Now this choice of a fit Person, and his Fitness, is more especially required and respected in a business of Mediation, than in any thing else, avails as much as Wisdom, Power, or any thing else; for indeed it is the foundation of all, and often for want of a fit Person, the force of a Mediation is enervated, and avails not, though other Sufficiencies concur to effect it. Now to shew this peculiar Fitness; A Mediator (the Apostle says) is a Mediator not of one, but of two Parties at least, Gal. 3.20.

The Parties here, betwixt whom Reconciliation is to be made, is God and Man, 1 Tim. 2.5. Why? Can you then have a fitter Person, than one that is both God and Man? And such a Person is Jesus Christ become, that he might be a fit Mediator. There is (says the Apostle) but one God, and but one Mediator between God and Man, the Man Christ Jesus: There could be but one so fit a Mediator. To this end therefore, the Apostle tells us, in Heb. 2.16. that He took the Seed of Abraham unto himself, ἐπιλαμβάνεται, took our Nature into one Person with himself; called therefore, a Tabernacle, which God pitcht, and not Men, Heb. 8.2. and Chap. 9.11. Not of this building, of the hands of men; Men must have no hand in it. For, this is required to fit a Mediator, or an Umpire, Job 9.33. That he be able to lay his hand on both; which phrase notes out,

1. That he be an indifferent Person between both, ready to distribute with an equal hand, to both their due.

2. That he hath an Interest, a Hand, or prevailing stroke with both; Power to deal between both.

3. That he be fit to communicate to them, for the benefit of his Mediation else is vain. Now all these are in Christ, as thus fitted.

For the First, Heb. 2.16. the Apostle shewing how he took our Nature on him, not of Angels; in the 17*th* verse he gives this as the Reason, It behoved him, &c. And why did it behove him? That he might be a merciful and faithful High Priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the People. That is, Hereby he comes to be a fit, meet, High Priest. It behoved Him, ἔπρεπε, which notes out Fitness; and why fit? the words shew, there were two Parties whose cause was to be committed to him, God and the Peoples: There were things pertaining to God, who was the Party wronged by the Sins of the People; and there was Reconciliation or Atonement for their Sins, to be made. God, He was to have his due, though they had Reconciliation: therefore, in regard of the things pertaining to God Faithfulness was required; in regard of things pertaining to the People, Mercy. If he had been only Man, he might have ended it with detriment and wrong to God.

That therefore He might be faithful to him, it was fit he should be God; and so tender of his Cause, that he might see such a Satisfaction first should be made, as was his due, and what pertained to him: For, God put all the Glory of his Justice into his hand. He had need be God, who had such a trust committed to him; God would not trust a meer Man again.

And Secondly, He had our Souls and Salvation committed also to him; and therefore it was behoveful for us that he should be Man, to be merciful and pitiful to us; that he might be sensible of the pains Humane Nature was to be put to, and so out of experimental kindly Pity, moved to make an Atonement.

Secondly, Hereby He was one that was peculiarly fit to deal with both, and to have a hand and ſtroke in both, and both with him.

For now, as Zach. 13.7. He is become the Man, God's Fellow; and ſo, more than Man. He had not elſe been meet to deal with God; it had been robbery in a meer Man to have arrogated ſuch an equality, which yet was to him, Phil. 2. For as God ſays, Jer. 30.21. who but He could draw nigh to me, ſo near as thus, to Mediate? Who durſt attempt, or preſume, but engage his heart to do it? But Him, being my Fellow, I will cauſe to draw nigh unto me; and there is no unfitneſs, no diſparagement in it; which if he had been but a Creature, would have been.

And, Secondly, He being the Man, God's Fellow, we may draw nigh to him, and He to Us. For why, as in the ſame Jer. 30. 2. He comes out of the midſt of us. So alſo, Heb. 4.14,15. See what a fit High Prieſt, by this, He is made for us, ſo as we may boldly draw near, verſe 16. to the Throne of Grace; that is, Seeing we have a great High Prieſt; not ſimply an High Prieſt, but a great High Prieſt, no leſs than JESUS, the Son of God, who may draw nigh to God for us.

But you might ſay, This is too high a Prieſt, too Great for us to draw nigh to. Therefore he adds, But yet he is not an High Prieſt, which cannot be touched with the feeling of our Infirmities; that is, is a Man as we are, and therefore ſubject to the ſame feeling of pain and miſeries, which (as God) he is not; and therefore we may come boldly to him and make our moan, &c. as in the 16*th* verſe.

And Thirdly, (which is a Reaſon beyond all this) By this peculiar fitneſs of his, he is fitted to communicate the benefit of His Mediation to us, which without it He had not done; and therefore this fitneſs of his is a matter of great conſequence and moment.

Now the benefit we were to receive by His Mediation, was to have Righteouſneſs from him, ſo as to appear in God's ſight without ſin; and ſo to be brought into favour, and that ſo great, as to be the Sons of God. Now, in that the Son of God took our Nature, He was fitted to do this. For,

That we might have His Righteouſneſs communicated to us, it was fit that our Nature ſhould be a Fountain or Ciſtern of it firſt; elſe what peculiar claim could we make to it more than other Creatures? Heb. 2.11. this Reaſon is given, He that ſanctifieth, and they that are ſanctified are one, that is, ἐξ ἑνὸς, ejuſdem Naturæ. Had they not been ſo, He could not ſo fitly have been made Righteouſneſs and Sanctification to us; and therefore (ſays he, John 17. 19.) For their ſakes ſanctifie I my ſelf; that is, My Humane Nature, which he calls himſelf, as one Perſon with himſelf; for his Deity was ſanctified from everlaſting, that they may be ſanctified; that is, Partakers of the ſame Righteouſneſs that I have. And this is one Reaſon he gives in Heb. 2. why, δὲ, it behoved him, verſe 10. that ſo he might ſanctifie us, by firſt ſanctifying our Nature. For it was fit, that That Nature which had ſinned, ſhould be ſanctified, to condemn ſin in our fleſh, as the Apoſtle reaſons, Rom. 8. and ſo now it is fitly imputed to us, as done for us. And therefore a Redeemer in the Old Law was to be a Kinſman, he had right of Redeeming only, Levit. 25.25. and Ruth 4. 4. 5, 6, 7. and therefore the Hebrew word, Goel, ſignifieth a Redeemer and a Kinſman. And Chriſt therefore, that He might have right of Redeeming and Sanctifying; and they a right in his Redemption, it was fit they ſhould partake of one. Wherefore *v.*14. of Heb. 2. Foraſmuch as the Children were partakers of fleſh and blood, &c. He alſo, that ſo he might be of a kindred to them, and rightfully call them Brethren, verſe 11. and to make them Sons of God, as himſelf was, John. 1.12.

And hence now, by reaſon of the want of this very fitneſs, the benefit of his Mediation, ſo as to convey Righteouſneſs is not intended to Angels; and therefore it is excluſively added, *v.*16. He took not on him the Nature of Angels; they had not this benefit by it, becauſe not their Nature. So as this fitneſs is a thing God much lookt at and reſpected; for though of never ſo great a value in it ſelf, yet doth good but to thoſe for whom He was then ſo properly and peculiarly a fit Mediator, namely, Men.

In

In a word, Take this for a sure Rule, that though the intention of the Merits of Christ did arise from his sufficiency and abilities to mediate; yet the extension from his proper fitness, and therefore to none but as Men, whose Nature he per-

First, We see he hath fulness of fitness in him; let us now see if he hath fulness of abilities and sufficiencies in him, for this great work; which is a distinct thing from the former. For in the Old Law, the next a kin was always most fit to redeem, but it may be, Not always able.

Secondly, Christ hath a fulness of Ability to effect this great business; to make a perfect Mediation, every way satisfactory. And surely if he hath all fulness in him to this end, (as in Colos. 1. 19.) he therefore wants no ability and sufficiency hereunto, to make a perfect Saviour, as he is called, Heb. 5. 9. And this may be demonstrated from what went before.

For First, God called him to this great work. Now, If he had not been fully able to undertake and go through with it, God would never have pitched upon him. Men may call one to a place who may prove insufficient, because they often know not what Mens abilities are when they call: Neither can they give abilities by calling, but God calls none but he knows their sufficiency already; or in calling makes them such.

Now, God knowing Christ's sufficiency, called him to it, Psal. 45. 7. Because he hated Iniquity and loved Righteousness, therefore he annointed him to be a head; because he was therefore able to fulfill all Righteousness, and not to sin: That is, he was armed with power to execute the Office of Priesthood for ever, and overcome all difficulties; and therefore he is said to have been made a Priest with power of an endless life, and not after the Law of a Carnal Commandment, as other Priests were. Their Office (he says,) was weak and not able to bring things to perfection, as it was not able to satisfy God: but he with the power of an Endless life; because Christ had power enough to survive the encounter of his Fathers wrath and live for ever; to go through-stitch with the work and bring it to perfection, and not Succumbere or sink under it.

And Secondly, In that God called him, he undertook to make him able. Besides, that God knew Christ able, and therefore called him; it may be further said, That in calling him he undertook to make him able. Men, if they find not Men able for places when they call them, cannot give abilities, but God doth give abilities by calling Isai. 42. 1. 4. Behold my Servant whom I uphold; Mine Elect (or chosen one,) ver. 6. Whom I have called in Righteousness, (says God,) that is, I have called him to this Office, and that in Righteousness; put him not upon it unwillingly; and him I chose of all that ever were or shall be: and he is my Servant in it; and therefore certainly I will uphold him in it; and therefore (as it is ver. 6.) He promiseth that he will hold his hand up that he sink not; even as Christ held up Peter from sinking; and will keep him so, (as ver. 4.) He shall not fail or fall short to accomplish the work of Mediation in the least tittle: Nor shall he be discouraged, or (as it is in the Original,) not be broken; (and he was to undergo that which would have broke the backs of Men and Angels, and pusht them to Hell.) But he shall not be broken, but backt with all the power that God hath who made the Heavens, &c. as it follows, ver. 5.

And Thirdly, You heard how Christ was willing to undertake it; and therefore surely knew himself able to go through with it; for otherwise he would never have undertaken it. A wise Man will not undertake an Enterprize that he is not able to manage or go through with; and Christ much less, who is the wisdom of his Father, Colos. 2. He will not do as a foolish builder, that begins and sets upon a work which he is not able to finish. What wise man will enter into Bond for another, for more than he is worth himself, and so ly in prison for ever? No wise man will; much less Christ: therefore surely he was able.

And

And Fourthly, In that he [illegible] (as you [illegible] fore surely he must [illegible] be [illegible] possible [illegible] for-sake him, as he [illegible] him to himself; [illegible] his wrath, as indeed he did; [illegible] the Godhead dwels bodily in [illegible] gifts of the Godhead, or virtue [illegible] porting him, but the fulness of the Godhead [illegible] as a friend or sojourner, but [illegible] ever, that will be sure to keep [illegible] head and Manhood make one person; [illegible] by Hebraism signifies Person. So humane [illegible] Therefore he having power must put it forth to the utmost to preserve humane Nature from sinking in this business, and all must [illegible]

Now, One of his names, Isai. 9. 7. is, that he [illegible]

Why, First, He must fulfil all Righteousness, [illegible] (say Christ) to fulfil all Righteousness, of Moral Law, and Ceremonial, [illegible] that is least of all, for this Angels in Heaven perform; and surely if he had been but a meer man, filled with all grace as he was, John 1. 16. would have done that, having the Spirit so without measure, John 3. 34. Only this, if he had been a meer Man, it had not been a Righteousness sufficient and able to mediate for us, for it would but have justified himself, there must therefore be a further quality than any Creature hath to go to this. But he being God also, and therefore Lord of the Moral Law, as he is said to be Lord of the Sabbath, and so not subject to the Law; that he should take on him the form of a servant to the Law, and be made under the Law, who made and gave it, Gal. 4. 4. and become obedient to every tittle of it, as he did; this made that active Righteousness of his, of infinite valu able to mediate for us: Therefore he is called Jehovah our Righteousness.

Secondly, As he must be able to do and fulfil the Law thus, so to suffer also, for Heb. 2. 10. He is made a perfect Saviour through suffering; and then says Christ, I shall be perfected, and without shedding of blood there is no remission, Heb. 9. 24. He cannot save a man unless he die, but must enjoy Heaven alone. John 12. 24. Unless a Corn of wheat fall into the Ground and die, it remains alone; So Christ if he had not died: and being God he could not indeed, but being man. He would easily enough do that, (you will say,) nothing easier than to die. But yet, if his death be a mediating death, he must be able to offer up himself in death, be his own Sacrifice, Altar, Priest, and borrow nothing, and all at once; and that no Creature could. But now being God also, he was able to offer up himself, needed no other Priest, Heb. 9. 14. Through the Eternal Spirit he offered up himself, yea and find a Sacrifice also himself, offering up his body, Heb. 10. 10. And his Soul also an offering for sin strugling under the wrath of God, Isai. 53. 10. Yea and be the Altar himself, Heb. 13. 13.

But Thirdly, There is a business of greater difficulty yet behind, that exceeds the power of any Creature, yea of all, which will draw out the power of God indeed; and that is, That he must rise again as a Conqueror over death, overcome Hell and God's wrath, and not ly wrestling under them to Eternity; for till then God's wrath would not be satisfied, for if he had lain by it, and been kept in prison, then it had been a sign the debt was not paid. If ever therefore he will justify us by his death, he must overcome and rise again, or else we should be still in our sins, 1 Cor. 15. 13. And this no Creature could ever do; God's wrath would have held them tugging work to Eternity, and they could never have risen again, nor stir'd; he that overcomes that, must be as strong as God himself, yea and he must do this himself, by his own power too. 'Twere not enough to be raised up as Lazarus was, by the power of another; That will not serve: For that power that raised him must first satisfy and overcome God's Wrath and break open the Prison Doors.

Now,

Now, If another power than his own had done it, that party had been Mediator and not he. But now he being God, he is able to do all this, and to do it himſelf alſo. For being God, that power was able to raiſe him up, and to looſe the pains of death; and it was impoſſible he ſhould be held of them, they were the pains of death, namely the wrath of God which would have ſped all the Creatures in the world; and which pains would not have let him go, till they were looſened and overcome; for if poſſible, they would have held him; but being God, it was not poſſible. He will take Hell-gates, as another Sampſon, and throw them off the Hinges and carry them away, and ſwallow up Death in victory, Deſtroy this Temple (ſays he, John 19.) and I have power to raiſe it up; I my ſelf. The Body could not raiſe it ſelf indeed; therefore if he had been meer Man he could not have done it; but that Spirit, the Eternal Godhead could, 1 Pet. 3. 18. He was able you ſee, to this work of Mediation.

Thirdly, Chriſt had faithfulneſs in him, not to fail in the performance, Heb. 3. 2. It is ſaid, He was faithful to him that appointed him; God did appoint (as ye heard,) and truſt him, and therefore he failed not his Expectation; for God otherwiſe had not pitcht upon him. And the Reaſons which may evince he would be ſo, Are,

Firſt, He being God, and having paſt his word to his Father, he could not but be faithful and true in it; For with God is no variableneſs, nor ſhadow of turning. James 1. 17. and plead unability he could not; and his Father that had appointed him would not releaſe him, Heb. 7. 21. He ſwore, and would not repent, that he ſhould be a Prieſt.

Secondly, It concerned himſelf to be Faithful in the performances, for otherwiſe, as the caſe ſtood, he himſelf muſt have layen by it; as a Man that is ſurety for another, (as Heb. 7. 22. He was made a Surety;) he made it his own debt; and we could not, nor were able, and he therefore undertook it; and therefore it concern'd him to diſcharge it, and to pay the utmoſt Farthing.

Thirdly, God, upon this ground, took his Word and Bond, and had let Thouſands of Debtors go free, and ſaved Millions under the Old Teſtament, upon his bare word; ere ever he came to do it, Heb. 9. 15. he is there called, The Mediator of the New Teſtament, that by means of Death for the Tranſgreſſions under the Old Teſtament, &c. Many a Man's ſins then, were put upon his ſcore, and God ſhould be a great looſer by him; and therefore it was neceſſary he ſhould diſcharge thoſe debts. Rom. 3. 25. he ſays, That God had ſet him forth to be a Propitiation, to declare his Righteouſneſs, (or Faithfulneſs,) for the Remiſſion of ſins that are paſt, through the forbearance of God. There ſeem to be two Arguments. 1. That God had pardoned and forborn many ſins, before he came into the World, he had been at great expences of Mercy; and he ſhould be a looſer, if he came not to be a Propitiation for them. 2. Upon Chriſt's promiſe to him, he had made a promiſe of Chriſt to the World, and therefore to ſhew his Faithfulneſs and Truth, he ſent him, to make good his Fathers faithfulneſs, he muſt needs be faithful.

Fourthly, When he came down from Heaven, and took our Nature upon him, he left his glory as a Mortgage or Pawn, for to make his Promiſe and Bond good; never to take it up again and look his Father in the face in glory, till he had performed it; for ſo much that ſpeech of his implies, John 17. ver. 4. and 5. Now glorify me with the glory I had with thee before the world was; that ſame [Now,] having reference to [Finiſhing the work,] in the 4*th. verſe* implies, that till then he was not to reaſſume it.

Therefore Fourthly,

He hath done it, and fully performed it; ſo his own words are in the ſame, 17. John 4. I have finiſht the work which thou gaveſt me to do, and hath all fulneſs of Righteouſnes dwelling in him, to make peace and reconcile us, Coloſ. 1. ver. 20. For,

First,

First, Whereas God had a Bond againſt us, Coloſſ 2.15. till that was diſcharged we muſt lie by it. He hath diſcharged that Debt, paid an equivalent Ranſom to it, ἀντίλυτρον, 1 *Tim.*2.6. and cancelled that Bond, *Coloſſ.*2.13. And whereas we were to die, Bodies and Souls, he offered both his Body, *Heb.*10.10. and alſo his Soul, as an offering for Sin, *Iſai.*53.10. and poured it out to death, v.12. whereof the two Elements of Bread and Wine, are Signs and Seals to us, though both conveying one and the ſame whole Chriſt; yet repreſented to us as having his Body broken in the Bread, and his Soul poured out in the Wine; the Life or Soul lying in the Blood, it ſignified the ſuffering of his Soul; Which Sacrifice being offered up by the Eternal Spirit, (that is, the Godhead,) who was both Prieſt and Altar, *Heb.*9.14. therefore ſanctified the Gift or Sacrifice, as the Altar did, *Matt.*13.17. and therefore being the Blood of the Son of God, it cleanſeth from all Sin, 1 *Joh.*1.7. Yea, and ſo perfect a Satisfaction is it, that he needed to do it but once, Heb. 10.14. By once offering he perfected for ever them that are ſanctified; that is, purchaſed a perfect peace and final diſcharge; and that ſo perfect, that God doth herewith not only reſt ſatisfied, but alſo finds a ſweet ſmelling ſavour, *Eph.*5.2. ſo as the ſcent of Sin cannot come up into his Noſtrils.

Secondly, He hath fulfilled all the active Righteouſneſs of the Law, (for ſo indeed it became him who is our High Prieſt, who is holy, harmleſs, undefiled, *&c. Heb.*7.26.) So when he was to lay down his life, and pay the laſt Sum and Part of the payment, He ſays, *Joh.*17.4. I have finiſht the work thou gaveſt me to do; and *Joh.*8.29. I do alwaies the things that pleaſe thee; and, I came not to deſtroy the Law, but to fulfil it, even every Ióta of it. For (ſays he, Matt. 3.15.) ſpeaking of the neceſſity of his being Baptized, which was a branch of Righteouſneſs, Suffer it to be ſo, for it becomes us thus to fulfil all Righteouſneſs, namely, neceſſary for Juſtification, which I add, becauſe ſome parts of the Law he had no occaſion to fulfil; as not the duty of a Husband to a Wife, nor of a Father to a Child, becauſe they were not compatible with his condition and office of Mediatorſhip; and which are rather duties of a particular ſtate and condition of life, than of the nature of Man in general, which he undertook for: That therefore, as we ſay, it was not neceſſary he ſhould in his Paſſive Obedience take on him the ſeveral perſonal Infirmities and Diſeaſes, which befal Men, but only thoſe which are common to Man's nature, as Hunger, Sleep, &c. which he did. So is it in his Active Obedience alſo: It was not neceſſary thus particularly to fulfil every ſuch branch as is but Perſonal; though all thoſe he did perform more eminently, in a more tranſcendent manner, as the duties of a Husband and a Father to his Spouſe and Children, the Church.

And beſides, as in his Paſſive Obedience he underwent the ſubſtance of thoſe pains we were to undergo; but was not bound to all the Circumſtances, as of Eternity, and of the place in Hell, &c. So, nor in his Active Obedience was he bound to perform the occaſional Duties, which are but Circumſtances to Man's nature, or diverſified by ſeveral conditions in this World. It was enough he performed, the ſum and ſubſtance of loving God and Man in that eminent manner he did; Love being, for ſubſtance, the fulfilling of the Law.

And thus it was impoſſible but that he ſhould fulfil the whole Law. Had he been meer Man, then indeed there might have been room for a Suppoſition, That being a Creature, he might have failed; but being God, he could not, *Jam.*1.13. and therefore not fail in performing any part of it. Which Obedience and fulfilling of the Law being performed by One, who till he took Man's nature on him, was no way ſubject to it; and then alſo was Lord of the Law, as of the Sabbath, may be accepted for us, and we ſaved by it: ſo as the Righteouſneſs of the Law is ſaid to be fulfilled in us, *Rom.*8.4,5.

And that he hath fully performed both theſe, is evident by this; That now He ſits at the right hand of God, which is the demonſtration brought by the Apoſtle, *Heb.*10.12. that he hath done whatever was requiſite to perfect and conſummate our Peace and Reconciliation, as *v.*14. For, ſays he, after his offering that his Sacrifice, He ſat down at the Right hand of God, or the Majeſty on high.

high. Now it is certain, he had never come thither if he had not paid the Debt, God would never have ſuffered him; For he muſt have lain in Priſon till he had paid the utmoſt Mite. But now being got out of Priſon, as Iſai. ſpeaks, Chap. 53. 8. And ſet down on God's right hand there in Heaven; ſurely he hath paid the Debt, and if he could have broke looſe and got thither, yet in Heaven he would not ſtay, unleſs he had performed it; thither would the wrath of God purſue him, and there arreſt him and ſeize on him; for when Adam had ſinned, Paradiſe could not hold him; nor would Heaven hold Chriſt if he owed God any thing, therefore ſays Chriſt, John 16. 10. bringing it as an evidence of his Righteouſneſs all ſufficient, and to convince the world of it; I go to my Father, and ye ſhall ſee me no more; if it had been otherwiſe, his Father would not have received him, but ſent him down agen.

And by this his both Active and Paſſive obedience, through the acceptation of his Perſon, who performed it, he hath compleated the work of Reconciliation with his Father; which conſiſting of Peace and Good will, (that is, being pacified towards us, and receiving us into favour again,) as the parts of it; theſe two main parts of obedience ſerve to procure and conſummate both. his Blood procureth Peace; ſo Coloſ. 1. 20. Having made Peace through the Blood of his Croſs; that is the firſt. But yet, becauſe when Peace is made, the party may ſay, Though I am at peace and Pardon the Traitor, yet I can never love him again, or receive him into favour, as I was wont; therefore his active Obedience, through the favour of the perſon performing it, procures the manifeſtation of good will alſo, to make us compleat and perfect friends. Therefore to Reconcile, in that 1. Coll. 20. is made more than ſimply to make peace; Peace is but the foundation of it, For having made peace, to reconcile us, &c. ſays the Text; and the Blood of his Croſs goes to make peace; this other ſerves to reſtore us to his loſt favour, to make us accepted; and all through him. Therefore there lies the Emphaſis, as ye may obſerve it in that 1 Coloſ. 20. By (him I ſay;) it comes in twice there.

Therefore Fifthly, Add to all this, There is a fulneſs of Acceptation of the Perſon with God, who performed all this: For he that brings Creatures into favour, muſt be more beloved than a Creature; and in matters of Mediation, the chief thing lies in the graciouſneſs of the Mediator with his Intereſt in the party offended; and if either his Love or Money will procure full friendſhip for us, he will uſe both. His Money (you ſee,) is paid, he hath laid it down, a ſufficient price; and beſides, he is infinitely beloved of his Father; ſo as for his ſake he cannot but accept it, and love us again through him, better than ever. For Prov. 8. He is his Old Friend, and Ancient Companion, ver. 30. even before the World was, his only begotten Son, not by Will but Nature, the very ſubſtantial Image of his Perſon, Heb. 1. 2. In whom therefore he cannot but delight, and be well pleaſed, as he himſelf from Heaven hath ſaid, This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed; not with him only, but in him with others; for therefore he bids us hear him and believe in him: and if it had not been, that he is well pleaſed with us in him, it had no way concerned us. Therefore in 1 Epheſ. 9. we are ſaid to be graciouſly accepted in him, as the beloved one of his Father, as it is there. And tho he ſecretly bore good will to us before, yet in this his Beloved, he hath Made us graciouſly accepted, made way for owning us, and ſhineing graciouſly upon us, in and through him; whereas without him, he would never have afforded us one good look.

And tho in Adam we were beloved, having his Image in us in him, yet infinitely more in Chriſt, Rom. 5. 17. We receive abundance of Grace and Righteouſneſs and life in Chriſt; and therefore ſays Chriſt, John 10. 10. I came that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. It is a degree of compariſon, and therefore with that former ſtate of life we once had; they ſhall have all that life, (and God's favour is our life,) they once had, and more abundantly. In that 5. Rom. 17. he ſpeaks comparatively with our eſtate in Adam; and ſeems to make this the fruit of that abundance of Grace and Righteouſneſs that we receive above what in Adam we ſhould, that we ſhall reign in life, be Kings in Heaven, to which place his Righteouſneſs would not have brought him; but ſerved only to continue that life and degree of favour he was received into. But in him we are beloved with the ſame love Chriſt himſelf is, John 17. 23. Thou haſt loved them as thou haſt loved me; and therefore ver. 27. adds and makes this a further favour granted at his requeſt, That they might be where he is; whether elſe they ſhould not have come. For he aſcended to prepare that place for us; and then Heaven was opened, and not till then; when he ſaid, This is my well beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed. We are therefore not only made friends again in Heaven, but further received into a greater degree of favour than ever, and to a higher place in Court.

But now becauſe in the Sixth place, It may be ſaid, That tho for his ſake we are made friends, as good as ever; yet we may fall out again, a breach may come, and ſo the enmity become greater than ever; he may uſe us kindly for a while, for his ſake; but yet upon ſome provocation he may caſt us off again, and remember all our former ſins.

Therefore Sixthly, Know, that there is Eternity and Perpetuity annexed to this his Mediation, to make it yet more full; and ſo full as nothing now can more be added, Heb. 10. 14. By one Offering he hath perfected for ever them that are Sanctified. His Offering, tho but One, yet it was a Perfect one, wanting nothing; once was enough; it is of everlaſting force and merit, for it perfecteth for ever. And it is not thus only in it ſelf, but in the fruit of it to thoſe who enjoy it, it perfecteth them for ever who are Sanctified by it. There is no danger of Juſtification, if Sanctification hold out; That being the condition on our part; and therefore ſhewing the Eternal efficacy of that one Offering he ſays, it perfects them who are Sanctified; even that being the Covenant on his part to perform in us, as well as Juſtification is; and therefore he adds, ver. 15, 16, 17. 18. Whereof the Holy Ghoſt is a Witneſs to us; for after he had ſaid, This is my Covenant, I will write my Laws in their hearts, he ſays, And their ſins and Iniquities I will remember no more. The ſum whereof is this, That Juſtification is Eternal, Their Iniquities will I remember no more; and therefore Sanctification is Eternal alſo, and both he puts upon the merit of that one offering; that Righteouſneſs which hath influence into both, being Eternal alſo, and perfects for ever; and therefore, Dan. 9. 24. He is ſaid to finiſh and put an end and a Seal to ſins, and to make Reconciliation for Iniquity, and to bring in everlaſting Righteouſneſs; that is, Such a Righteouſneſs as ſhall through the ſtrength; and eternity of its merits, for ever put an end to ſins and to make a Reconciliation as eternal as it ſelf is, and us friends for ever. For it is ſuch a Righteouſneſs, that as it is of that breadth to cover Millions of Worlds of ſins; ſo of that length, that no times to Eternity could wear it out, where it is once imputed.

And indeed the reaſon why it is of that length is, becauſe it is of that ſufficiency, though it be but one offering, yet it perfects for ever when it is once imputed; and till the guilt of ſin can come to be of more force than the merit of his Righteouſneſs; it cannot ceaſe to be imputed, when once it is imputed. And therefore it is not ſaid, that by reaſon of it, ſins are remembred no more, but Iniquities alſo, in both the forementioned places. So that when Chriſt ceaſeth to be Righteouſneſs; then may we, when once he is made Righteouſneſs to us.

And to this end further, beſides the everlaſtingneſs of his Righteouſneſs, he himſelf on purpoſe lives for ever to keep us in favour, and his Righteouſneſs in memory, and our ſins in forgetfulneſs, Heb. 7. 24. This Man (ſays he,) becauſe he continueth for ever, hath an unchangeable Prieſthood; Wherefore he is able to ſave to the utmoſt them that come unto God by him; ſeeing he ever liveth to make interceſſion for them. He is able to ſave to the utmoſt; that is the utmoſt of ſins, be they what they will; to the utmoſt of times, though continued never ſo long. No guilt can reach ſo far, and to ſuch greatneſs from which he is not able to ſave; and he makes this as one reaſon of it, becauſe he himſelf lives for ever, and lives on purpoſe to put remembrance and force into his mediation, He liveth to make interceſſion.

He

He is not one that will be ſilent whilſt he lives, never hold his peace till he have peace. If any Man ſin after the imputation of that Righteouſneſs, we have (ſaith he,) an Advocate with the Father; If Sin, and the Devil, who is Sins Advocate, plead againſt us, yet we have Chriſt our Advocate, who never took any cauſe in hand wherein he was foiled; and this with the Father, both his and ours; who is therefore ready to hear his Children pleaded for by ſuch a Son. And if the Blood of dead Abel cries, ſhall not the Blood of living Chriſt ſpeak louder? If the ſin of Adam now he is long ſince dead, would to eternity continue to condemn men born of him, (if it might be ſuppoſed, generation might laſt to eternity,) one Man after another, and never have any ſtint; and ſhall not the Righteouſneſs of him who is alive for ever more, Rev. 1. 18. be of force to diſpel the guilt of all the Sins (that can be ſuppoſed to be committed,) even to Eternity.

See how the Apoſtle argues it, *Rom.*5.10. If when ye were Enemies, ye were reconciled by his death, much more ſhall we be ſaved by his life. He argues from the leſs to the greater; and the compariſon is double. 1. His death and life are compared together. And 2. Our ſtate before Reconciliation and after. If after we had gon on many years, in a ſtate of Enmity and Rebellion, and yet were made friends through the ſtrength of his mediation; and all that Enmity forgotten and pardoned; then being made friends, it is eaſier for Chriſt to keep us ſo, and to get our ſins ſtill pardoned to the end of our days. And if his death was of force enough to reconcile you then; much more being now alive, and ſo able to put life into the merit of his death, will he be able to keep God and you friends; and therefore ſays he, in the 6th. Chap. 9th. ver. having ſaid at the 5th. That we are planted into the likeneſs of his Reſurrection; he makes the likeneſs and ſimilitude to hold in this, knowing That Chriſt being raiſed from the dead dieth no more, Death hath no more Dominion over him, for in that he died, he died unto ſin once, (he had not died but for Sin, and then needed die but once for it,) but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God; Likewiſe (ſays the Apoſtle ver. 11.) reckon ye your ſelves alſo dead unto ſin, and alive unto God, through Jeſus Chriſt. Make account that when Chriſt is out of favour, then you may be; when he is Damned, you may. But he liveth ever, ſo ſhall you; for by that one death he hath perfected for ever them that are Sanctified.

USE.

Now the common uſe, or Corollary from both theſe, what God has done, and what fulneſs dwels in Chriſt, is this, That certainly there is peace and reconciliation to be had and obtained with God by Sinners and Enemies to him; and this, my Brethren, is the pitch, the Marrow of the Goſpel; ſuch news, that as ſoon as it burſt out, Heaven and Earth rang with joy again. The Angels could not hold, but as being ambitious to be the relators of it, poſted down to Earth to bring the firſt news of it, Luke 2. 13, 14. Peace on Earth, good will towards Men. Though you can hear it, and be no more moved than the ſeats you ſit upon; yet when it was firſt preached, it brought in Men by Troops, as Voluntaries, more than the Law had done. Luke 16. 16. The Law and the Prophets were till John; but ſince the Kingdom of God (that is the Goſpel,) is Preached and every man preſſeth into it. But now, Alaſs! We that are daily uſed to the tidings of it; how little are we moved with it! How few come in upon proclamation made of it! And therefore we are fain to make it the greateſt of our buſines to preach the Law, and come with that great Hammer to break your bones in pieces firſt, that we may then preach the Goſpel. as it is Iſai. 62 To the Captives, and to bind up the broken hearted, and ſo to make our ſelves work; and this we count our miſery. Yea, and this we profeſs before you all this day, we tremble moſt when we come to preach it; for we are afraid that Men ſhould ſtill go on, and ly in their ſins; which if they do, they had well nigh as good have been in Hell, as in the Church to hear it; becauſe God may be provoked to ſwear againſt them, that they ſhall never enter into his Reſt.

Yet becauſe a neceſſity is laid upon us, not to preach only, but to preach the Goſpel; and that all that are brought home to God, muſt have the knowledge of it. I return to enlarge and preſs the Uſe mentioned, and ſhew the commexion of it with what hath been delivered, and how it flows from it.

Reconciliation, I ſay, ſurely may be obtained.

Firſt becauſe God the Father ſo ſtrongly purpoſed and intended it for ſome; therefore ſurely it may be had, for he will never go back or alter any reſolution he hath ſo peremtorily taken up; yea tho he had not made known that his purpoſe to us his Creatures; For he is not as man that he ſhould repent; he ſhould be conſcious to himſelf of imperfection if he did: And he ſwore (as I told you,) and would not repent from everlaſting, and now he hath made known this which he purpoſed in himſelf, Epheſ. 1. 9.

Secondly, His delights were in it, and therefore are in it ſtill, his greateſt and ſtrongeſt delights: tho we poor frail Creatures alter our delights daily, (for indeed our delights do ariſe out of alteration and variety,) yet he can never alter his; but what he delighted in once he delights in ſtill; and ſurely if the thoughts of making us friends aforehand poſſeſſed his heart ſo deeply and ſo long, much more now when he ſhall come to the performance and execution of it, and to reconcile us actually; to ſee that done, the thoughts of which ſo pleaſed him. Do we think that ſuch thoughts ſo deeply ſet and fed with delight can vaniſh or be forgotten? Surely No. It is the day he longs for, which he hath ſeen a coming and rejoyced in, and ſaid in himſelf, When will it be? Jer. 13. laſt. And in the ſhewing Mercy and diſpenſing it, I do delight, ſays he, Jer. 9. 24. No requeſt therefore or ſuit pleaſeth him ſo or agrees more with his heart than ſuing for Mercy and Pardon and to be friends with him; he is grieved when he is hindred by our impenitency from enjoying his delights. And then,

Thirdly, He ſpake to his Son himſelf, unbeſpoke to by us, and made known his mind to him, and called and annointed him to this work, and with the greateſt vehemency, when he ſwore concerning him, that he ſhould be a Prieſt; and having expreſſed ſo much ſerioufneſs, as then he did to him, when he ſwore and ſaid he would not repent, Heb. 7. 21. For his Gifts and Calling and Oaths are without repentance.

And Fourthly, In that his Son did as willingly undertake it, and now hath alſo undergone it; and a Covenant having paſſed between them, he is much more engaged to accept it. For to what end did he trouble his Son to come down from Heaven, and to take our ſhame and frailties, and to die? What, in vain? As the Apoſtle elſewhere argues, Gal. 2. laſt. What, to ſpend his ſtrength for nought? As Iſai. 49. 4. A ſhame it were to take ſuch a journey to no purpoſe. No, God made him a promiſe, Iſai. 53. 10, 11. That he ſhould ſee his ſeed, and ſee the travel of his Soul, and he ſhould be ſatisfied; for my Righteous Servant ſhall juſtify many; and this becauſe he underwent ſo much grief and ſorrow ſo willingly; as it is in the former part of the Chapter: and the joy of this was it made him undergo it ſo willingly, Heb. 12. 2. For the joy that was ſet before him. And that his joy was this, That he ſhould prolong his days, and tho' he died in the Travel, yet he ſhould ſee the travel of his Soul; and as a Woman, tho' ſhe be in great pains, yet her joy is, That a Man Child is born into the World; ſo it was with Chriſt, that many ſhould be juſtified by him, as it follows there; for nothing elſe will ſatisfy Chriſt. And that he ſhould divide the ſpoil with the ſtrong, ver. 12. Becauſe he powred out his Soul to Death; that is, He triumphed over Hell and Death, and in the conqueſt ſpoiled Principalities and Powers, and obtained Heaven and everlaſting Righteouſneſs, by which he himſelf was not made the richer. God therefore allows him to divide it and give it away to others. And God conſidereth alſo how that in this work he was his Servant, My Righteous Servant (ſaith he,) ſhall juſtify many; and he was his Servant, did his buſineſs in it: and ſhould he have no wages, nor reward? Yes, the only reward which he ſeeks for, for, is the ſalvation and juſtification of his Elect; and thoſe God hath given him. Iſai. 62. 11. When Zion is ſaved, and his ſalvation of them cometh, it is added; that his reward is with him, and his work before him; that being the reward of his work; and Iſai. 49. 4. when Chriſt complained, That in regard of Iſrael, (that is the Jews,) I have in a manner ſpent my ſtrength in vain, ſo few of them are called, that my reward and work is with my God, to give me wages. And what is that? ver. 6. I will give thee for a Light to the Gentiles, and that thou mayeſt be my ſalvation to the ends of the Earth; And I have heard thee in an acceptable time; And I will give thee for a Covenant to the Gentiles, to ſay to the Priſoners, Go free. This is God's Anſwer to him there.

Fourthly, It is the Duty of Chriſt, if I may ſo ſpeak with reverence, to bring Men in, John 10. And as to him, ſo to us he hath manifeſted ſo much, by all means poſſible to aſſure men of his willingneſs to be reconciled to them, if they will be ſo to him; to aſſure us he hath engaged himſelf by all means poſſible.

And unto all theſe ſecret engagements in his own heart, and to his Son, we may now add, all the profeſſed publications of his mind herein to us, which he hath made upon all occaſions, and by all means poſſible. As,

First, He hath publiſhed this News by all Three Perſons. First, himſelf to Adam in Paradiſe; and renewed it again and again, with his own immediate voyce from Heaven, This is my well beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed; which we heard, (ſays Peter,) and is no fable.

Secondly, Chriſt, Who is the faithful and true Witneſs, Revel. 1. He came from the boſom of his Father; and as he died ſo he preached peace, Epheſ. 2. 17. and it was one of the firſt Texts he preached on. Luke 4. 18. The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, becauſe he hath Annointed me to Preach the Goſpel, to Preach deliverance to the Captives.

Thirdly, The Holy Ghoſt bearing witneſs, God hath exalted him to give Repentance and forgiveneſs of ſins, Acts 5. 31, 32. and ſo Heb. 10. 16. Theſe are the Three witneſſes in Heaven, 1 John 5. 7. and their record is this, That there is life to be had in his Son, ver. 11. And if we receive the witneſs of Men, the witneſs of God is greater; and he that believes not this, maks God a lyar, becauſe he believes not the record that God gave of his Son.

And Fourthly, He hath publiſht it alſo by all Creatures reaſonable, and to all Creatures reaſonable.

First, The Angels, they came and preached Peace on Earth, good will towards men, Luke 1.

Secondly, To Men he hath given gifts powerful and full of Glory, Epheſ. 4. 8. &c. and a Commiſſion, moſt large and gratious; to tell Men, that God was in Chriſt reconciling the World, 2 Cor 5. 20. Yea, Thirdly, And he hath maintained this Miniſtry in all Ages, all times ring with the news of it: The World is as full of theſe his Embaſſadors now as ever. And theſe ly as Leiger Ambaſſadors, to treat with Men about this peace; to proclaim that he is fully willing, and upon that ground to beſeech Men to be reconciled; and ſo long as Leiger Embaſſadours ly in a place and are not ſent for away, ſo long the treaty of peace holds.

Fourthly, He hath done this by them in all places; he has bidden them, Go and Preach it to all the World, to every Creature, Mark 16. and accordingly his Diſciples did preach it, and had done it in Paul's time, Coloſ. 1. 6. And this openly, Wiſdom cries without, utters her Voice in the ſtreets, and cries in the chief places of Concourſe, Prov. 1. 21. Chriſt cries his Riches at the Croſs; cares not who hears it, yea, would that all ſhould know it, and he would not have it ſpoke ſo openly and generally, if he were not moſt ſerious in it: And if it were not ſo, he would have told you.

Fifthly, He hath declared it by all means elſe that may argue ſeriouſneſs.

First,

First, Not by bare word of mouth, but you have his hand for it; he hath left his mind in writing, this Book, which is dropt from Heaven, the Title of it is, The word of Reconciliation. 2 Cor. 5. 19. the main Argument of it being Reconciliation; and if there be any truth in it, then certainly in this Doctrine of Reconciliation. In this Book we find Proclamation sent forth after Proclamation, Book after Book, Line after Line; all written to this end, that we might have hope and strong consolation, as the Apostle witnesseth.

Secondly, He hath added the Seals of the Sacraments, and an Oath to it also; and that was not made or slipt from him at unawares, as Oaths from men use to do; but advisedly, with the greatest earnestness and deliberation that might be, Heb. 6. 17. God willing, (the Text says,) more abundantly, to manifest this his intent, and the Immutability of this his Counsel of reconciling the World to himself through Christ, (which is the Promise mentioned in the former verses made to Abraham,) confirmed that Promise with an Oath, that by two immutable things, (his Word and Oath,) we might have strong consolation and hope.

Thirdly, He hath pawned Heaven and Earth, the Covenant of Day and Night, in Mortgage, to forgive Iniquity through his Sons Death, Jer. 31. 34, 35, 36. and Chap. 33. 20. This is my Covenant, (says God there,) that I will forgive their Iniquity, and remember their sins no more, ver. 34. and ver. 36. If those Ordinances depart of Sun and Moon, &c. ver. 35. And if you can break the Covenant of Day and Night. ver. 20. of 33. Chap. Then may this Covenant of mine be broken. Day and Night, we see, continue still; and therefore this Covenant holds good still.

Sixthly and Lastly, If all this will not perswade Men of this his willingness to be reconciled to them, and shew them Mercy, manifested so seriously, so many ways, (wherein it is impossible for him to ly, as the Apostle speaks,) yet at last, let his Actions and Courses which he hath taken from the beginning of the World speak for all the rest. He hath been Reconciling the World in that sense; that is, he hath been bringing friends and pardoning many, in all Ages from the beginning of the World. As First, Adam and Eve, the Ringleaders, the heads of the Rebellion; who drew all the rest of the World into that Enmity, were yet reconciled. Kings usually hang up the Heads and Chiefs in Treason, for examples of their Justice, tho' they pardon others; yet them did God reconcile to himself, as examples of his Mercy, to all that should come of them. And it is observable, that the first thing he did, after the World was fallen, was Preaching this Gospel, and shewing of Mercy in Pardoning them: He began to do that soon, he meant to be always doing that to the end of the World, which he delighted in. His heart appears to be most in this work, when he began it so soon. What should I reckon up the rest that followed that? Abraham, David, &c. the time would fail me. The Romans were Enemies, and they were reconciled, Rom, 5. 8, 10. The Ephesians, Ephes. 2. 12, 14 The Colossians were sometimes Enemies, yet now reconciled, ver. 21. yea, (and God be blessed,) Christ is yet according to his own Promise, That he would be with us to the end of the World,) reconciling the World to himself still. God hath some true friends now in the World, that are truly reconciled to him, that walk in the streets by you, live amongst you; and he will have Thousands when you are gone. And what are these but as Flags and Patterns of Mercy and Reconciliation, hang'd out by God, to toll others in? Ephes. 2. 7.

And yet, because notwithstanding all this assurance of God's willingness to be reconciled; there are certain tacite objections and stumbling blocks, which ly in poor distressed Souls minds, which block up their access to God for this peace; I will therefore remove some discouragements which are apt to arise in Mens minds when they hear this news of peace and good will. For as when God would speak peace to his People, 57. Isai. and bring them into the Land of Canaan again: he bids them (ver. 14.) Cast up, and take away the stumbling blocks. So when we would perſwade Men to come in to God, we muſt make the way clear, and ſhew how there is an abundant entrance made into the Kingdom of Chriſt.

we

Firſt, The conſciouſneſs of their own Rebellions, ſtrike ſuch terrour into their Conſciences, as they dare not come into his preſence, nor look him in the face. But for that, conſider what we have been ſpeaking of all this while; Is it not a matter of Reconciliation? Now, if there were not ſin nor rebellion in thee, there needed not a Reconciling: Chriſt might have been ſpar'd this labour. Nay, conſider, that if this were any real hindrance, there ſhould be no Saints in Heaven, but Chriſt and his holy Angels. For all thoſe Saints who now behold his face with joy, were ſometimes Enemies as well as thou. For when the Text ſays, He reconciled all things in Heaven; it implies that all thoſe Saints who are now in Heaven, were Enemies and Rebels once; for elſe what needed they any Reconciliation.

But ſome will further ſay, Ay, but I have been a deadly deſperate hateful enemy, and oppoſer to himſelf, his Children. Why conſider, that theſe Coloſſians were enemies in their minds, in evil works as deeply and as ſtrongly contrary as any others.

Ay, But I have been a tranſcendent Enemy, an arch Rebel, and tho he may be reconciled to others, yet never, I fear, to me. Well, ſuppoſe thy heart and thy life have been never ſo full of Enmity and Rebellion againſt him; yet conſider the Text tells us, That Chriſt hath all fulneſs in him to reconcile; and till thou canſt be fuller of ſin than he of Righteouſneſs, there is enough to pardon thee, He is able to ſave to the utmoſt, be the caſe never ſo bad, the matter never ſo ſoul.

Ay, But thou wilt ſay, I have been ſo for theſe many years, I have lived in enmity, and in that ſtate long, 20, 30, 40, 50. years; and it is an old grudge God may have againſt me. Conſider that this fulneſs dwels in Chriſt; it hath reſided longer in him, and in God's acceptation, than ſin hath done in thee; yea it will dwell in him for ever; it is an everlaſting righteouſneſs.

In a word, Suppoſe thy ſins are never ſo many and ſo grievous; yet conſider, that his thoughts of pardoning are more, for they have been from everlaſting, as I ſhewed out of the 40*th. Pſalm* 5*th. verſe They cannot be numbred.* And alſo that the plot of this buſineſs, is to make Grace and Mercy abound; it is Chriſt's trade to purge ſin, Mal. 3. And the more ſin, the more work you bring him. He is a Phyſician who healeth freely and ſimply to ſhew his skil and pitty, and for no other end; and therefore the older the worſer, the more feſtered the ſore is, he is the willinger to heal it; for he ſhall have his end, in healing it more, ſhew the more skill, the more mercy; therefore tho it may ſeem to diſcourage thee, yet it doth not diſcourage him; when thou comeſt to him, thou art the welcomer, if thou wilt but come to him. It was his buſineſs he came for, To ſave ſinners; and ſuppoſe thou beeſt the Chief as Paul was, 1 Tim. 1. 15, and a Blaſphemer, as he, ver. 13. yet is it a faithful ſaying. That Chriſt came to ſave ſinners, &c. even the chiefeſt of them.

But you will ſay, That was extraordinary, and no way exemplary for me. But the words ſhew the contrary, for he ſays, it was a truth worthy of all acceptation, as therefore concerning others as well as himſelf, let them be as great ſinners as he; And to me firſt, (ſays he, ver. 16.) that I might be a pattern (of Mercy,) to all that ſhould believe; yea, to all that ſhould be afraid and diſcouraged to believe, by the greatnes of their ſins; and in that God began with him, he meaneth not to end with him, he puts him in the fore front of the bil, to me firſt, to bring others the faſter in. Some one in Heaven muſt be the chiefeſt of ſinners; and who can tell but that it may be thee?

But when theſe Objections are anſwered, and ſins proved to be no bar between Pardon and them; yet then they plead, that it may be that they are not elected, as Paul and others were, for whom God intended all this; and therefore it may prove an uncertain ſuit, for if they be not elect ones alſo, they ſhall miſs of it, tho they ſhould ſeek and ſeek never ſo earneſtly. If I knew certainly indeed, that peace were to be had for me [my perſon] in particular, there was ſome life to ſtir in it.

For

For Anſwer to this. Not to meddle with the Controverſy of the Univerſality of Chriſt's Death and God's Love, in this place at this time: But let all this be granted.

Firſt, Let me deal with you upon that ſuppoſition, that it might prove uncertain in regard of particular Election; and convince you what ſtrong Incentives there are for you to ſeek it, all this ſuppoſed.

I. Unleſs thou didſt certainly know that thou ſhould'ſt certainly miſs of it, and until God declares thou art none of the number, ſo long there is hope concerning this thing; there is an [It may be,] which is as much as we find many Promiſes expreſſed in, as Zeph. 2. 3. ſo Joel 2. He exhorts them to turn to him with their whole heart, for he is gracious, &c. And who knoweth if he will turn and repent and leave a Bleſſing behind him? If it be no more, God expects you ſhould turn upon this; this hope may quicken you, and ſtir you to caſt your ſelves upon his free Grace, ſeeing it is in him; to refer your ſelves to his Mercy, depending upon him in the uſe of all means; Let us turn (ſay the poor Ninevites, who therefore will riſe up in Judgment againſt thee,) for who can tell but the Lord may repent of the evil? And God did ſo, Jonah 3. 9, 10. There might be a Door of eſcaping, And they were thought Priſoners yet of hope; Zach. 9. 12. and venture they would for a Pardon, though they did not know certainly that they ſhould obtain it. But,

II. Suppoſe yet Further, more unlikely than likely, that thou ſhouldeſt ſpeed in thy ſuit; yet conſidering it is a caſe of abſolute neceſſity to ſeek out for reconciliation and peace, there is a ſtrong ground to move thee to ſeek out for it; and ſpend the utmoſt of thy endeavours to attain, and think it an infinite Mercy, that it is not declared to be abſolutely impoſſible for thee.

In caſe of abſolute neceſſity, we ſee men weigh not impoſſibilities; but do put themſelves and all their endeavours upon a venture, tho' the buſineſs be very uncertain.

For Example. Men being preſſed to the Wars, tho it be uſually certain that ſome ſhall dy; and thoſe in all probability, who fight in the fore front, or venture upon ſome deſperate piece of ſervice; yet it being neceſſary for them to undertake that ſervice which is commanded upon pain of life, and there being ſome poſſibility they may eſcape; it may fall out ſo. In this caſe they are content to hazard and venture themſelves; therefore alſo why not much more in this caſe, ſhouldeſt not thou, tho there were more unlikelyhood that thou ſhouldeſt not obtain, than that thou ſhouldeſt? To give another alſo, 2 Kings 7. 34. Two Lepers, they reaſoned with themſelves, If we enter into the City, then the Famine being in the City, we ſhall dy there; if we ſit here we dy alſo. Come let us fall into the Camp of the Aramites; if they ſave our lives we ſhall live, and if they kill us we are but dead. Thus, in a caſe of neceſſity they choſe, that part, which tho it had many improbabilities in it; yet which might fall out otherwiſe, there was an If might be made of ſaving their lives; and yet the moſt unlikely one; for they did not know but that the Aramites might be reſolved to cut off all the Jews, and ſpare not a Man alive; and if they meant to ſpare any, yet of all others, (they might well think,) they would cut off them; becauſe being Lepers, they were unfit for ſervice and employment; and might infect the Camp.

And ſuppoſe this were thy caſe, that of all others thou wert moſt likely not to obtain mercy; that thou a Perſecutor or Contemner of Grace, &c. ſhouldeſt in all probability be cut off; yet there being ſome poſſibility; in a caſe of ſuch neceſity come in and venture thy ſelf. And the neceſſity is greater for thee; for the Lepers there might be ſuppoſed ſome Miraculous way of preſerving them; but for thee no other at all; God hath no other. And the death the Leper ſhould dy, both one way and the other, would be alike; but if thou ſeekeſt not, thou wilt dy a worſe death. But,

III. In

III. In this caſe of Reconciliation, there is (ſuppoſing the Doctrine of particular Election,) both a certainty that God intends it for many; and as equal and indifferent a likelyhood in view, that it is intended for thee as for any other. Which beſides that great neceſſity to inforce thee, may add much encouragement and hope to thee: For thou heardeſt before, that none of thy ſins are any bar at all; and if any ſin muſt hinder, no ſin but that againſt the Holy Ghoſt. Tho there be many ſigns of Election, yet none of abſolute Reprobation but it. No former dealings of God with thee; nor any dealing of thine with him, tho never ſo baſe and injurious; no circumſtance in any ſin, either that it hath been ſo often, and ſo long lain in, and committed after ſuch Vows, Mercies, Convictions, Deliberations, can exclude thee. Nay none of theſe do argue thee further off from Mercy than another that is in the ſtate of Nature with thee; there is nothing can be ſaid concerning thee, but it might have been ſaid of ſome whoſe portion Reconciliation hath been, as the Apoſtle ſaith, No Temptation hath befallen you but what is common to men; So nothing can be objected againſt thee, but hath been and is common to thoſe who have obtained Mercy. No Leproſy makes thee unfitter or unlikelier to be ſaved, than another. So that lay but theſe two together.

1. That it is certain, ſome in all Ages ſhall find Mercy, and that thou art as fairly capable, and as nigh as another.

2. There is no qualification in the ſtatute to exclude thee; thy Country, Sex, Age, Parts, hinders nothing; for God did look to none of all theſe when he choſe Men, Acts 10. 34. He is no reſpector of Perſons; ſo as thou mayſt ſay as they, Acts 15. 11. I believe, that through the grace of Chriſt I may be ſaved as well as they, for grace is free, and reſpects nothing in the perſon, one way or other, to whom it intendeth favour.

And therefore I ſeeing nothing againſt it, as well as nothing why I ſhould, I am as near it as another, and therefore will ſtand for it, 1 Kings 20. 3. When they having heard the Kings of Iſrael were merciful Kings, and had ſpared others in the like caſe, that they and their Maſter Benhadad were in; and ſaw nothing in their condition had not been pardoned to others by them. They upon this ground ſay, Let us put Ropes about our Necks, peradventure he may ſave thy life; it was but a peradventure, and a greater one than can be ſuppoſed in thy caſe; for they had heard only in the general, the Kings of Iſrael, but whether this King Ahab were of ſuch a diſpoſition they knew not; and yet they adventured upon it, to ſeek to him. But thou hearſt that this great God, is a God gratious, merciful, &c. and that he hath pardoned Thouſands in the like condition.

In the Fourth place, Thou art not only thus equally capable of it, as well as another, but there is a probability, a likelyhood God doth intend thee, becauſe thou haſt heard, that he is a merciful God, and willing to be reconciling by his own appointment.

The news of it is eſpecially directed to thee by himſelf; and he hath bidden thee to ſtand for it, and come in for it: For the word of Reconciliation which we preach is made known but to a few; and thoſe to whom it comes, it comes out of ſpecial mercy, and by God's direction rather to one place than another; rather to one man than to another; as why was Paul forbidden to go into Bythinia, Acts 16. 7. and called to go into Macedonia, and bidden (Acts 18. 10.) to ſtay at Corinth and preach, but becauſe as it is there, I have much People in this City. When the Plague comes to a place any man lives in, when as other places are free; he fears leſt God may intend to take him away by it, rather than others in other places; and ſtill looks on himſelf in bed, if he hath no Token on him. So when the Goſpel comes to the place thou liveſt in; and not the ſound of it confuſedly, but the knowledge diſtinctly of it to thy ears; thou haſt cauſe to think it exceeding probable that God doth intend thee for Salvation, and the Kingdom of God is come nigh thee. It is a great probability of Election that the Goſpel comes to thee, 1 Theſ. 1. 5. and an eſpecial ſign he means to ſave; and hath choſen thoſe to whom he makes known this Myſtery of his Will, of reconciling and gathering men to himſelf, Epheſ. 1. 9. &c. Thoſe Servants of Benhadad had no intimation of mercy from Ahab himſelf, or by his direction; but thou haſt from

God. The Myſtery hid from all Ages, and now from moſt of the World, is revealed unto thee; and he hath directed us to thee in an eſpecial providence. He hath not proclaimed this Pardon to all Priſons, but to a few; and therefore thou being in thoſe Priſons, to which theſe Proclamations of mercy are ſent, haſt cauſe to ſeek out for it, and much encouragement alſo to do it. Eſpecially, Fifthly, This Goſpel offering great ſalvation, as annexed to this peace and reconciliation made with God; the Lepers thought only to ſave their lives, and ſo did Benhadad, he was out of hopes, haply, of having his Kingdom again; this added to that indifferent capableneſs of thy attaining it, and the probability annexed to that, ſhould exceedingly quicken thee to ſeek out for it; for in caſe of preferment, as when a great Office is void, a Living or Fellowſhip, which will certainly be beſtowed on ſome; when a man ſhall hear of ſuch a thing, and have a hint of it from the party that beſtows it, and be told by him, that he is as fair for it as any other and as capable; that there is no clauſe in the ſtatute to exclude him, and ſhut him out, and that he hath as good means to make for it as any other. How would, and doth this uſe to quicken men to uſe their utmoſt endeavour, to lay out their Money and put in for it! When yet they know there are many ſuitors, and that the place can be beſtowed but upon one,

Now this is the caſe in hand, the Goſpel offering great ſalvation; So great, as he can no otherwiſe expreſs it, Heb. 2. 3. But how ſhall we eſcape if we neglect ſo great ſalvation! And this thou art as fair for, canſt make as good means if thou comeſt to Jeſus Chriſt as any other. This the Apoſtle intimates, 1 Cor. 9. 24. ſpeaking of his endeavour to be partaker of the Goſpel, and the ſalvation in it; Know ye not, that they which run in a race, run all, tho but one receive the Price; yet all will venture, and therefore why not thou? Will not this practice of men, in caſe of a corruptible Crown, as he calls it, tho there be an uncertainty in it, condemn our neglect of ſeeking an incorruptible Crown, as ver. 25. and ſtop our mouths for pleading, that few can attain, and ſome may miſs it?

Sixthly, Conſider God's manner of revealing and making known this Reconciliation to be had; (ſuppoſe but by a few,) yet it is indifferently to be propounded to all, as expecting that all ſhould be ſtirred up at the hear-ſay of it, with the hopes of it, and endeavours after it, Luke 10. 5. Chriſt bad them ſay to every Houſe they came at, Peace be to this Houſe; and God looks that every one to whom this news ſhould come, ſhould look out for peace, as a thing belonging to him, Luke 19. 42. yea commands all to whom it comes to ſtand for it, and to uſe all means to attain it, 1 John 3. 23. and Acts 17. 30. and will condemn Men if they neglect to do ſo, Heb. 2. 3. and not only ſo, but beſeecheth you to be reconciled, to come and ſeek it at his hands. And if one that had a great preferment in his gift, ſhould do ſo, would it not mightily encourage you with hopes to attain it, if he ſhould ſend to thee to ſtand for it.

But yet further, in the Seventh place; If this news which thou haſt heard, of willingneſs in God to be reconciled, &c. thou either art affected and moved to come in, or not affected; one of theſe muſt fall out. If not affected at all, to liſten after it, thou haſt no cauſe to complain thou ſhalt not obtain it; for can any complain, he cannot attain that which he hath no heart to, nor mind to attain! But if thou beeſt affected with it, and haſt a heart deſirous to obtain it; if thy heart be ſet on work to ſeek out for it; if he hath enamoured thy heart with his Son, and given thee an high eſteem of Reconciliation with him; and given thee a reſtleſs Spirit after it, this is a ſtrong preſumption, more than a probability, that it is intended for thee, that thou art a Son of peace, Luke 10. 6. For if it be hid it is hid to them who are loſt, 2 Cor. 4. 1.

In the Eighth place, If thou wilt ſeek it, and doſt continue to ſeek it, there is a certainty that thou ſhalt obtain it; and it is a falſe connexion, to ſay, That there being few Elected, therefore it may prove uncertain tho I ſeek it.

Now, that there is a certainty annexed to ſeeking, is plain, by what Paul ſays, 1 Cor. 9. 26. I therefore ſo run, not as uncertainly; that is, I ſo run, that I ſhall be ſure to ſpeed. He had ſaid in the 24*th. verſe.* (as I ſhewed before,) that as in the Olympian games, many run yet but one receives and wins the Crown, Crown, tho it be ſo uncertain; but ſaith he in endeavou- Goſpel, of which he there ſpeaks; if you will but en- with your utmoſt might, you ſhall be ſure to attain; to do ſo, and uſe all means, as he ſpeaks there; ſome lazy running, but ſays he, So run that ye may attain, and a ſeeking, which will certainly obtain before ſhall obtain: Not as uncertainly, but ſo as I ſhall be ſure ſo Chriſt alſo hath ſaid, Seek and ye ſhall find, Knock, unto you; and he backs this by a ſtrong convincing Demonſtration, to aſſure us of it, Luke 11. 5. If one comes to a friend at midnight, and deſires ſome neceſſary thing of him, tho he be one who hath no liſt to riſe, v. 7. nor regarded the relation of friendſhip at all in it, ver. 8. But ſays, he has all his Children already in bed with him, ver. 7. yet for his importunitie's ſake he would riſe in the end. Then I ſay unto you, ſays Chriſt, Knock and it ſhall be opened, tho the door ſeems ſhut againſt thee, tho thou ſhouldeſt think, God intended not friendſhip to thee, and had (as it were,) all his friends about him already, yet he would hear in the end; and ver. 10. he confirms it by experience, that there was never yet any turn'd away, But every one that asketh receiveth, and that ſeeketh findeth. There was never any yet that did ſo, and was turn'd away empty.

And indeed if you uſe the means, and ſeek conſtantly, Who ſhould hinder you? Or how is it poſſible you ſhould come to miſs of it? Neither God the Father, nor God the Son, who yet are the parties through whoſe hands Reconciliation runs.

1. Not God the Father; for he having committed the word of Reconciliation to us, to make it known to every man indifferently; with command from him, yet, with earneſt beſeeching to perſwade men to be reconciled to him, 2 Cor. 5. 20. If any ſoul upon this news comes, and hath a mind to prove, is taken with his friendſhip, can never be quiet without it, and uſeth all means to attain it; God is as truly bound to diſpence peace to that Soul, as if he had named him from Heaven, For we do all this in Gods ſtead; as 2 Cor. 5. 20. and as Embaſſadors, do in his ſtead beſeech you; and herein we are lawful Embaſſadors; ſo as it is, as if God by us did beſeech you, and we exceeding not our Commiſſion; God will make it good, as Kings uſe to do the Treaties of their Embaſſadors in the like, when they do things in their names and according to their inſtructions. God the Fathers Warrant we have to go to his Son, and he condemns us if we do not.

And 2. Jeſus Chriſt will not be your hindrance; for he hath ſaid John. 6. 37. Whoſoever cometh unto me, I will in no wiſe caſt out. And we have reaſon to think him willing, for it was the end of his death, That he might ſee his ſeed and be ſatisfied; Chriſt needed not have purchaſed it for himſelf, who was and is God bleſſed for ever; and therefore is not deſirous to keep it to himſelf, it is no profit to him to have it ly by him; he had rather it ſhould be put out, and that others ſhould ſhare in it. And who ſhould? The good Angels have no need of it, and the bad ones are incapable; therefore for us poor Sons of men it is ordained, called therefore Mans Righteouſneſs.

And beſides, he was God's Servant, (as was ſaid,) in that great work. When therefore I come to him with his Fathers Warrant and command, (which you heard, you have,) it is as if you ſhould come to the Lord Treaſurer with a Ticket from the King for ſo much Money; he muſt diſpenſe it, for it is the Kings Money, as this God's Righteouſneſs; and ſo called, and he is but the Kings Servant, as Chriſt alſo was. And it is alſo his Office; for why elſe was he appointed Prieſt; (as ſhe ſaid, why art thou a King, if thou wilt not do me Juſtice?) For Heb. 5. 3. If one brought a Sacrifice to the Prieſt, he was bound to offer it by the Law; otherwiſe he failed in his Office; and ſo is Chriſt to preſent thee to his Father, if thou comeſt to him, John 10. he ſays, His ſheep he muſt bring; he looks at it as his duty.

Only this he will ſay to thee; That as his Father hath appointed him a Prieſt; and he is but a Servant in this Diſpenſation of Righteouſneſs; yet his Father hath appointed him a King, a Head, an Husband to thee, to ſubmit to; and that he will require of thee, or thou ſhalt have no benefit by his death; as thou haſt a Patent for Righteouſneſs, he hath a Charter for Soveraignty over thee, and obedience from thee. Which is the Second thing you are to be convinced of.

A SERMON

On HEB. I. 1, 2.

God who at ſundry times, and in divers manners ſpake in time paſt unto the Fathers by the Prophets.

Hath in theſe laſt days ſpoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed Heir of all things, by whom alſo he made the Worlds.

I will not ſpend much time to ſhew who is the Author of this Epiſtle, which indeed among Divines is doubtful; our Tranſlation hath prefixed Paul's name to it, being moſt probable that it is his. And though the Author of it be not certainly known, yet it is not to be excluded from the Canon, for there are other Books of Scripture, that the Authors of them are not known, or at leaſt not prefixed by themſelves; as the Epiſtles of John, his name is not mentioned in them; prefixed it is by the Church, from one Age to another, known by the ſtile that it is his. The reaſon why I choſe to ſpeak out of this Epiſtle is, becauſe it [illegible] and ſpeak of Chriſt, and of his Offices, but eſpecially of his [illegible] more than any other Book of Scripture, I know; I will not profeſs, [illegible] things therein contained, but raiſe here and there ſome Obſervations.

The [illegible] may appear, if we conſider to whom he wrote, he wrote [illegible] which were Jews, he did not write to the Hebrews not yet converted; as may appear by all the paſſages in the whole Epiſtle. But he ſpake to thoſe that had been already enlightned and knew Chriſt, that had entertained the Doctrine of the Goſpel. And this we may obſerve, that no Book of the Scripture, was written to any other but Profeſſors, Believers, not to Unbelievers. Now the Jews did ſtick moſt to the Law, Ceremonies and Legal Sacrifices, all which were but Types of Chriſt, and they were ignorant of the true excellency, nature, worth and [illegible] to them, and eſpecially of his Prieſthood, and Sacrifice [illegible] all the reſt.

The Apoſtles ſcope is [illegible] the Law, to raiſe up their hearts to a high eſteem of Chriſt, to ſhew that Chriſt was the end of the Ceremonial Law; ſo that all Types ſhould now ceaſe. And becauſe he wrote to the Jews in that regard, whatſoever he doth ſpeak, he doth prove out of the Old Teſtament through the whole Book, and it is quoted upon all occaſions; becauſe the Old Teſtament had authority with the Jews, and he doth make every where now and then [illegible] of the Doctrinal points he doth deliver; he doth ſpend this Chapter [illegible] the Lord Jeſus Chriſt was God as well as man, and he doth make this [illegible], therefore we ought to give the more earneſt heed to [illegible] heard.

The First Chapter [illegible] the Lord Jeſus Chriſt is more than a man, though he ſpeaks [illegible] of him in this Firſt Chapter, which belongs to him only as God, yet all the reſt that he ſpeaks of him as Mediator doth argue him to be more than a man. The ſecond Chapter proves him to be Man, ſo that as you have the ſcope of the two firſt Chapters, ſo of the whole Epiſtle.

In

In the first Verse he breaks in upon the Argument of the whole Epistle, being to advance the Gospel, and Christ and the Doctrine of the Gospel, before the Doctrine of the Law, and that by reason of Christ revealed in it, and Christ revealing it.

He makes a comparison between the times of the Law and the time of the Gospel, and he prefers the time of the Gospel before the time of the Law; God spake unto the Fathers by the Prophets, but unto us by his Son. Now look how much the Son of God doth exceed the Prophets, so much the Doctrine of the Gospel the Doctrine of the Law; and look how much the Sun, which is the Fountain of Light, doth exceed the Stars, and the light of the Sun the light of the Stars, so much doth the Light that Christ hath brought us in the Gospel, exceed the light of the Law.

Secondly, He spake to the Fathers but by degrees, πολυμερῶς, by parcels; they had a little light now, and anon a little more light; but they had not all at once. But in the time of the Gospel all is poured out to you at once.

Thirdly, Under the time of the Law the Lord did speak by several waies and manners, but now ye have but one way, and that a plain way; before in the Old Testament he revealed himself obscurely, he was fain to mould his speech into many forms. As men when they have Notions that are something obscure, are fain to use several expressions to make them plain; so the Law being dark and obscure, God was fain to deliver it several manner of ways, as in a riddle, by Urim and Thummim, by the Prophets, &c. but now he speaks, plainly and clearly, by his Son; therefore he is called the brightness of his Glory, the Image, the Character, and lively expression of God.

Observ. 1. The same God that spake in the Old Testament, speaks in the New: he that spake to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, he speaks to you now, that God that spake by the Prophets, speaks now by his Son; therefore certainly the Faith of the Fathers is not contradictory to the Faith of us. *Heb.*13. Jesus Christ the same yesterday to day, and the same for ever; the same Christ in the beginning of the World, the same God that spake; therefore all the Promises made in the Old Testament, ye may apply them all now. Why? because it is the same God which spake to them and speaks now to us. That God that heard the Prayers of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the Old Testament, and granted their Petitions, with whom they were so familiar, we may have fellowship with the same God. That Promise that was made to Joshua in particular, I will not leave thee, nor forsake thee, Chap.1. the Apostle *Heb.*13. doth apply to all Believers, and it is founded upon this, That the same God which spake in the Old Testament, speaks in the New. Look over all the Old Testament, and look what a God you find him there, the same God you shall find him in the New. Look what punishments he brought on the sins of the Old World, the same he will now. And look how he dealt with the Israelites, as he was angry with Moses for a small sin, so in the same manner he will deal with you, if you walk in the same ways. And as he pardoned men under the Old Testament, so also will he under the New. And as we have the same God, so we have the same Faith, 2 Cor.4.13. We have the same Spirit of Faith, &c.

Observ. 2. Our Great God doth not speak immediately unto men, but mediately by others. Before he spake to men by his Prophets, but now by his Son, who took our Nature upon him, that he might be a fit Speaker. No man can see God and live, so we cannot hear God and live. The Lord, when he delivered his Law, began first to speak himself, and the People hear his Voice out of the Fire, Deut.18.15,16. *Exod.*20. but the People could not bear God's Voice, but they said to Moses, Speak thou with us and we will hear; but let not God speak with us lest we die. They being Sinners as we are, they were not able to hear God from Heaven, for his Voice speaks Thunder, and striketh dead. Upon this request that the People made to Moſes, ſee what God ſays *Deut.*18.17. They have well ſpoken that which they have ſpoken, therefore what will he do? I will raiſe them up a Prophet from amongſt their Brethren, &c. See his mercy upon their requeſt, he takes an advantage of promiſing the Meſſias, being one of the cleareſt Promiſes that they had till now. It is true, he would ſend many Prophets before, as fore-runners of Chriſt, but in the end he would ſend Chriſt, which ſhould be a Prophet like unto Moſes, to ſpeak unto them, &c. God doth take advantages to make Promiſes: when the poor People did ſhiver and quake, becauſe God ſpake to them: what doth he promiſe? he promiſes Chriſt. Thus the Lord takes a ſmall occaſion to make the greateſt Promiſe of Chriſt.

the

Uſe 1. Therefore, ſeeing the Lord when he doth ſpeak doth ſpeak by others, and there is a great deal of reaſon for it, becauſe it is your own requeſt, let not God fare the worſe in delivering his word, do not contemn it, becauſe men are fain to deliver it to you, for it is your own requeſt. If he ſhould ſpeak himſelf, he would ſtrike you dead at every word; therefore do not take advantage, becauſe God doth not back it with Thunder, but receive the word as the Word of God; for God himſelf would ſpeak to you, if you were able to bear him, but becauſe you are not, therefore he ſpeaks by others.

Uſe 2. It ſhould teach Miniſters not to abuſe God's Voice, they ſhould take heed that they ſpeak nothing but what God hath revealed; though falſe Prophets ſpeak what is contrary to God's will, and God bear for a while, and doth not manifeſt his wrath (for he can for a while diſpenſe with himſelf) yet the time will come when God's wrath ſhall wax hot againſt them. They are not to abuſe the People in venting their own thoughts inſtead of Gods. For ſee what God ſays of ſuch, *Deut.*18.20. That Prophet that ſhall preſume to ſpeak a word in my name which I have not commanded him to ſpeak, even that Prophet ſhall die.

God ſpake in his Prophets; we tranſlate it, by them, but the Original is, in them, ἐν προφήταις. A King, though he be never ſo far off, and is not by to back it, yet he may be ſaid to ſpeak by, though not in the Embaſſadour; but when the Lord ſpeaks by his faithful Miniſters, he doth not only ſit in Heaven, and ſpeak by them, but he ſpeaks in them, aſſiſting them; he is in their hearts, and upon their tongue, and goes along with the Word into the hearts of the Hearers. Obſerv. 3.

Uſe. Let Miniſters therefore labour to get the Holy Ghoſt into their own hearts, that he may not only ſpeak by them, (for ſo he doth by wicked men,) but in them, that that Spirit which takes poſſeſſion of them as Saints may ſpeak in them as Miniſters, that ſo the Word which they deliver, may be the adminiſtration of the Spirit to the hearts of thoſe that hear them.

We come to the manner how God ſpake to them of Old, he ſpake πολυμέρως, by parcels, by peace-meal, by many parts, for ſo the word ſignifies. Ex.gr. The Lord at firſt brought in but one Promiſe, and that obſcure, he let drop but a word to Adam in Paradiſe, of the Promiſed Seed. He gave only an intimation, an hint that there ſhould a Meſſias come: Then he went on further, and when he came to Abraham, he renewed that Promiſe, and added a little more, *Heb.*6.8. he added an Oath, and he ſhewed to Abraham, not only that he ſhould be a Man, but that he ſhould come of his Seed, and that in him all the Nations of the Earth ſhould be bleſſed; thus he enlarged the former Promiſe. But all this while there was no Sacrament; here was a Promiſe and an Oath, but no Sacrament; then he goes on and gives Abraham Circumciſion, which anſwers to our Baptiſm: afterwards he adds the Paſſover, which anſwers to the Supper of the Lord, and then he reveals to Moſes divers types of the Ceremonial Law. Then he reveals more clearly to David the Reſurrection and Aſcenſion of Chriſt; then to Iſaiah, that he ſhould be born of a Virgin, Chap. 53. that he ſhould be Circumciſed, that he ſhould bear our ſorrows, and be a Man of ſorrows, and pour out his Soul even unto death. Unto Zachariah he reveal'd his Poverty, and unto Malachy his fore-runner. Thus by piece-meals he reveals, not all at ones. Obſerv. 4.

once. The Old World began with a little knowledge, they had the Worſhip of God and the Sacrifices, and they knew the Day of Judgment, as Enoch the Seventh from Adam prophecied of it. They knew ſome fundamental Truths, the grounds of Faith; but they knew Chriſt by piece-meal. They knew ſomething of themſelves, becauſe Adam fell but the other day; but they knew little of Chriſt, that was revealed unto them by piece-meal.

Thus the Lord doth uſe to reveal himſelf, he hath done thus with the Church in general. Although he did reveal all, for the matter contain'd in the New Teſtament, that ſhall be revealed to the end of the World; yet in regard of the Light whereby this is diſcerned, God hath gone on by piece-meal. Conſider the recovery of the Light of the Goſpel from under Popery, how it was by piece-meal. Men at firſt knew but a little, their hearts were only ſet againſt Images and Popery, they knew but a few pieces of the Truth; but Wickliffe and John Hus went further. In Luther's time they knew Juſtification by Faith, and then Popery fell down about Luther's ears, and he ſaid, if they would grant that, he would go on further; but when God had unreav'd all the Tiles, that Popery was ready to be pull'd down, then Calvin comes in, and more was reavealed.

Thus God doth go on πολυμέρως, to reveal himſel; and as he dealt with the People of the Jews in regard of the matter, and as with us for the manner, (for the Jews had the matter revealed to themby piece-meale, but we had the matter given at once, but the light whereby we diſcern this, is πολυμέρως,) ſo with particular Chriſtians; he doth diſcover to them firſt themſelves, and then they think that at their firſt converſion they ſee a great deal in their hearts, yet he goes on further to reveal more corruption unto them, and then he reveals Chriſt and his Electing Love to them, he leads them like Scholars through ſeveral forms, and tho at firſt in the Center, they know all that is neceſſary to ſalvation, yet things are beaten out afterwards unto a Circumference. They know enough of Chriſt at firſt to ſave them, and of themſelves enough to humble them, yet God ſuffers the wheel to go over them again and again. In reading the Scripture obſerve it, read a Chapter to day, and when a man getteth his heart into a ſpiritual frame he will ſee many truths, let him read it the next day, and he will ſee ſomething more, &c. the reaſon is becauſe God reveals himſelf by piece-meale.

Reaſon, Becauſe indeed men are uncapable of all at once; John 16. 12. Our Saviour though he came to reveal all fulneſs, yet how uncapable were the Apoſtles to apprehend it, he was fain to deliver over ſome of them to the Comforter; Paul when he came to preach to the Corinthians, 1 Cor. 3. 2. he had many truths which he could not reveal unto them, for ſo long as they were carnal, they were not capable of all truths, but as the Fleſh is emptying out of a man, ſo knowledge grows, ſo Iſai. 25. 13. he was fain to ſpeak by piece-meale Line upon Line, and Precept upon Precept, as ye teach young Children a little now and a little then, for they cannot endure to be held long to their Books; ſo is God fain to do with his. And as in teaching young Schollars what do Tutors? They do read over firſt a Compendium ſome ſhort grounds of Logick, and then another Book which is a Syſtema, and then direct them to ſuch Commentaries that do enlarge truths; ſo God doth teach firſt by Catechiſms, which contain ſhort fundamental truths, and then he goes over many truths in a larger manner in their hearts. A Painter draws at the firſt but a few lines, with a black Coal, he will draw the ſhape of a man's Face, but afterwards he goeth over it with Colours and Oyl; ſo God doth with his Church, and with private men even as a Maſter doth with his Apprentice, he will not teach him all his knowledge at firſt, but he reſerves ſomething, that happily he will not teach him before he be to go out of his Trade, he teacheth him by degrees; ſo God hath bound himſelf by Covenant, to teach you to know him, but ſomething ye ſhall not know till you are to go from under his tuition.

And this he doth, Firſt to humble his People, he will have them know but in part, though young Converts have but a little knowledge, how proud are they? Much more if they had all at once.

And likewiſe Secondly, to ſhew the treaſures in himſelf. In Chriſt are treaſures that will hold digging to the end of the World, men would be weary, if they had the ſame light ſtill; therefore God goes on to diſcover, though the ſame truth, yet with new and diverſe lights. Thus God reveals himſelf by piece-meales.

1. Uſe,

1. Uſe, Let us labour to grow in knowledge, God reveals himſelf by piece-meal, do not therefore ſtick in the firſt principles of Religion; 'tis the Apoſtles exhortation to the Hebrews, Chap.6. There is a great deal of ignorance, therefore labour to go on to perfection, and grow in Chriſt; he reveals himſelf by piece meal, not as if he had already obtained, therefore there is more knowledge to be had; the greateſt part of that you know, is the leaſt part of what you know not.

2. It may teach Miniſters, to raiſe the Age that they live in, in knowledge, though of the ſame truths in a clearer manner, Matt. 13.52. It is ſaid he that is a right Scribe, that is fit to do ſervice in the Church of God, is like a Hous-holder, which bringeth forth things New and Old; there is no man but God diſcovereth to him more or the ſame by a further light, than to another.

3. It may humble young Chriſtians that think when they are firſt converted, that they have all knowledge, and therefore take upon them to cenſure men that have been long in Chriſt, and out of their own experience, they will frame opinions, comparing but a few Notes together. Alaſs, ye know but a piece of what you ſhall know! When you have been in Chriſt Ten or Twenty years, then ſpeak, then thoſe Opinions which you have now will fall off, and experience will ſhew them to be falſe; they think themſelves as Paul, that nothing can be added unto them; but what ſays Paul 1 *Cor.*13.11? When I was a Child, &c. He takes a compariſon from a Child, as being a Man, but raiſed up to his Spiritual eſtate, and thou alſo wilt then put away Childiſh things.

4. If God in former Ages did reveal himſelf but by piece-meal, and if that piece-meal knowledge, which they had by inch and inch, did make them holy; for how holy was Enoch and Abraham, that had but one Promiſe, then how much more holy ſhould we be, that have had ſo full a diſcovery? If one Promiſe wrought ſo much on their hearts, how much more ſhould ſo many Promiſes on ours?

5. Here we ſee, that God doth work on men by degrees. It is Solomons compariſon, that Righteouſneſs ſhineth as the dawning of the day, till it come to perfect day. Converſion out of the ſtate of Nature into the ſtate of Grace, is called coming out of darkneſs into light. Now Light comes into the World by degrees; A man that ſitteth up in the Night, when the firſt break of the day is he cannot diſcern; but half, or a quarter of an hour after, he begins to ſee light. Thus it is with many poor Souls, they have Light break in upon them; they can tell that they were in darkneſs, but the inſtant when this Light brake in, they know not, becauſe God reveals himſelf by degrees.

I am now to ſhew how God reveals himſelf πολυτρόπως; he did caſt himſelf and his Revelations into ſeveral moulds and ſhapes, into ſeveral ways of expreſſing himſelf, that ſo he might reveal himſelf to the People; as Ulyſſes is called πολύτροπος, becauſe he had Ingenium verſatile, and was able to caſt himſelf into ſeveral moulds in his ſeveral dealings with men; ſo likewiſe God hath revealed himſelf πολυτρόπως, after ſeveral waies.

Thus he did under the Old Teſtament. In *Hoſ.*12.10. it is ſaid, that he multiplied Viſions, becauſe he was various in it; he uſed divers likeneſſes and expreſſions of himſelf, while he ſpake by the Prophets. We have it more plain in *Numb.*12.6. If there be a Prophet among you, I the Lord will make my ſelf known to him in a Viſion, and will ſpeak to him in a Dream. Thus you ſee that there are ſeveral ways that God did ſpeak to men by, by Viſions and Dreams, and in dark Speeches; but when he came to Moſes, who was a type of Chriſt, (for he is ſaid to be a Type in this particular, when it is ſaid, I will raiſe up a Prophet like unto thee,) it is ſaid, that he ſpake to him mouth to mouth, as a man ſpeaks to his friend, *Numb.*4.12. he ſpeaks to him in an apparent manner; but by all the Prophets he did ſpeak in dark Speeches in riddles: So in the Viſion of the great Eagle, *Ezek.*17.2. it is called a Riddle, he ſpake ſometimes by Viſions and ſometimes by Dreams, yet the Viſions were more clear things than ſpeaking by Dreams; therefore it is ſaid, The young men ſhall ſee Viſions, and the old men ſhall dream dreams; the young men had more acute Parts; and therefore they had more clear revelation. Thus God revealed himſelf to Joſeph in Dreams, and therefore he is called the Dreamer of his Brethren; yet it is called the Word of God, *Pſal.*105.19. So a hint in Prayer, when it comes in with evidence, it is the Word of God, as that was to Joſeph. He did reveal himſelf by Dreams, to ſhew, firſt, that he can do that which no other Teacher in the World can; for no Teacher elſe can teach their Scholar when they are aſleep, but ſo the Lord did, and ſo he can ſtill do. Secondly, He did it, to ſhew that in revealing his Meſſage, Reaſon ſhould be aſleep, that that ſhould be ſubject to the Revelation of God, he reveal'd himſelf likewiſe by Viſions; and in that regard the Prophets are called Seers, and he revealed himſelf likewiſe by Urim and Thummim; only thoſe Revelations were not for matter of Doctrine, but of Practice, when they were to deal in ſuch and ſuch a buſineſs. He revealed himſelf likewiſe by Types; all the Ceremonial Law was but Types of things to come. All theſe ſeveral ways did the Lord reveal himſelf to men in former times, πολυτρόπως.

The Reaſons of it are theſe.

Reaſon 1. Becauſe he would ſhew forth, as the Apoſtle in another caſe, Eph. 3.10. his manifold wiſdom. It is the property and ability of a wiſe man to be able to repreſent himſelf ſeveral waies; and God hath alwaies delighted ſo to do when he would reveal himſelf. He went two waies to work revealing himſelf: Firſt, In the work of Creation, *Rom.*1.20. it is ſaid, that the inviſible things of God are ſeen clearly, being underſtood by the things that are made, &c. yet this light was but a dark light; And therefore, Secondly, he revealed himſelf in the Law, wherein the Image of his Holineſs, Juſtice, and Wiſdom appeared. And theſe two are the Angels Catechiſms, (as I may ſo call them,) which they and the Old World have ſtudied a long time, and in the end, there came out another edition of himſelf, and all that is in him, and that is the Goſpel; and the Text ſaith that he hath done this, to ſhew forth his manifold wiſdom. Thus God hath more waies than one to repreſent himſelf to the People.

Secondly, Becauſe there are varieties of Apprehenſions; one man will be more taken by one way of revealing, and another by another. Thus the Wiſe men were led to Chriſt by a Star, God working on them according to their Apprehenſions: ſo the Apoſtles, being Fiſher-men, when they had caught a great draught of Fiſh, Chriſt ſpake to them in their own language, and ſaid, Follow me, and I will make you Fiſhers of men. Now there are ſeveral gifts in the Church, which are but ſo many ſeveral waies of God's revealing himſelf; and as in Miniſters there are ſeveral Gifts, ſo in the Hearers there are ſeveral Apprehenſions, ſome love a rowzing Miniſtry, others a more rational; as mens Apprehenſions are, ſo do they ſavour and reliſh mens Gifts; and becauſe men have ſeveral Apprehenſions, therefore hath he appointed ſeveral Gifts. Thus God doth in Converting men; he converts one man by Affliction, another man he converts by his Word, another man by the good Example that he ſees in another, 1 Pet. 3.1. That they may without the Word be won by the chaſt Converſation, &c. So that the Lord hath ſeveral waies to bring his work about, revealing himſelf πολυτρόπως therefore. So God lets men fall into manifold Temptations, Temptations of ſeveral ſorts. God's dealing are exceeding various; ſome men he humbles with Afflictions, others he overcomes with Mercies: ſometimes he deals in one way, and ſometimes in another, ſo that if God hath given Chriſt to thee, thou maiſt not ſtand to think at what door thou entreſt in, what wind blew thee into the Haven, for God hath many waies to bring thee in.

Uſe. It ſhould teach Miniſters thus much, to mould Truths into ſeveral forms and ſhapes, becauſe they have ſeveral Apprehenſions to ſpeak to. Idem poteſt variè dici, & verè dici. God himſelf uſed variety of Similitudes by his Prophets to this end, that he might ſpeak to the Peoples Apprehenſion. Thus we are to do, for God did it πολυτρόπως; Chriſt uſed many Parables to the ſame purpoſe, expreſſing Faith to us under ſeveral expreſſions, as ſometimes by coming to Chriſt, by eating of his Fleſh, and drinking of his Blood; ſometimes by truſting on him, and believing in him; and why? becauſe in Believers there are ſeveral Apprehenſions. Receiving Chriſt, is the notion that expreſſeth the work of Faith in one man; in another, coming to Chriſt, is the notion that expreſſeth his Faith; in another eating Chriſt ſavours with his Apprehenſion. Thus Chriſt hath moulded it into ſeveral waies, to ſuite ſeveral Believers.

Again,

Again, It is ſaid, He ſpake by the Prophets to the Fathers. Thoſe under the Old Teſtament are called Fathers, becauſe they were firſt in Chriſt, as Eph. 1. It is an honour now to be an old Convert, and therefore he puts it in, Who firſt truſted in Chriſt; thereby they are renowned, and their Memory is everlaſting. The Saints under the New Teſtament, ſince the Apoſtles time, many or moſt of them, their Memory is quite gone; but becauſe theſe were they that firſt believed, we have a Record of all the old Worthies to the end of the World, and they are called Fathers. And therefore it is an honour to be firſt in Chriſt, that ſo we may be Patterns and Examples to others, and it is a great Motive to turn and to come into Chriſt ſoon; for it is ſaid, They obtained a good report through their Faith, Heb. 11. for to begin to believe firſt, when there were few Examples and Encouragements before them, is a great honour to Faith, and it gives Faith a good report. Thus Adam believed, having but one Promiſe; and Abraham being called out of a Heatheniſh Country, and having but few Promiſes, he being the firſt Example of all that believed, he is called the Father of the Faithful; God honoured him for it. But theſe, though they are called Fathers, yet in compariſon of the times of the Goſpel, are called but Children; it is the Apoſtles expreſſion, Gal. 4. 3. The Priviledges of men under the Goſpel are exceeding far above theirs; though they were Fathers, yet thoſe things are revealed unto us which were not unto them. It is ſaid in 1 Pet. 1. 11, 12. that they miniſtred unto us; ſo likewiſe, though thoſe that did live many of them more near the Primitive times, than we that live in theſe times, though we honour their Memories, and call them Fathers, yet we may truly ſay, That there is more of the glory of the Goſpel revealed to us, in the daies of Reformation, than was to them. Though they were Fathers, and ſaw far, yet we being ſet upon their backs, ſee further, though Children.

And he mentions the Fathers, becauſe the Jews did ſo ſtick to the Religion of their Fathers, becauſe Moſes Law was given to their Fathers, and was their Religion. The Apoſtle therefore to take away this, becauſe they ſtuck to Religion ſimply, becauſe it was the Religion of their Fathers, ſaies, that God ſpake to them by the Prophets, but to us by his Son. That may be revealed unto the Children, which was not unto the Fathers: ſo we that live in theſe daies, have a greater and clearer light, than our Fathers had that lived under Popery.

The Second

SERMON

On HEB. I. 1, 2.

God who at ſundry times, and in divers manners ſpake in time paſt unto the Fathers by the Prophets.

Hath in theſe laſt days ſpoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed Heir of all things, by whom alſo he made the Worlds.

TO come now to the other part of the words, In the laſt days he hath revealed himſelf unto us by his Son, &c. The Firſt thing we may obſerve hence is, Why they ſhould be called the laſt days? Theſe times of the Goſpel are called the laſt days:

Firſt, That which is laſt implies, more then one period to have gone before, for where there is Ultimus, there muſt be Primus & Medius at leaſt; and therefore there were more Periods than one that went before the Revealing of the Goſpel, there were Two eminent ones. The Firſt was from the Creation to Moſes, when the Law was given on Mount-Sinah, and the word committed to writing. The Second was from Moſes to Chriſt; theſe are days that are firſt and middle, and in compariſon of thoſe he calls theſe days the laſt days.

Secondly, Theſe are called the laſt days, Becauſe upon us the ends of the world are come, as 1 Cor. 10, 11. All theſe things happened unto them for enſamples, and they are witten for our Admonition, upon whom the ends or the perfection of the world is come; all the days that went before were but Types, and all the paſſages were but Types, and thoſe things that have been done in the times of the Goſpel, have been the perfection of thoſe things that went before; Was there wickedneſs before in the World? Theſe laſt times ſhall be the perfection of the World in regard of wickedneſs; all the Sins that were committed in the Old World, are but Præludiums to that villany, that ſhall be hereafter; was there grace ſtirring in the World before? It is but a Type of that Grace which ſhall be in the New World; in theſe laſt times: This is the laſt time becauſe it is the perfection of the other. So did God ſend Judgment upon ſin and ſinners, they were Types of what more eminent Judgments he would bring upon men in theſe days. It is the Harveſt of the World, all that went before was but the ſowing, this the ripennig both of wickedneſs and grace; As the laſt Act that is in a Tragedy, hath more in it than all the Acts that went before; then comes in all the killing and butchering, and the plot doth then unfold it ſelf; ſo all the other Scenes that were upon the ſtage of the World make all way, to unfold this laſt, then comes in the bloody perſecutions and hereſies, and then comes ſin and likewiſe grace to be at their full ripeneſs; and therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, I think that God hath ſet forth us the Apoſtles laſt, &c. he doth allude to the laſt of the play, when they uſed at Rome their Fence-playing, they that came up laſt died for it, they went not off till one had kil'd the other; Now ſaith he, I think that God, &c. for the laſt time is the time wherein Hereſies and Perſecutions abound; then come in all the butchering, and all that went before was but a Præludium of what was to come. Therefore fore ye ſhall find, that the Revelation, which writes of the ſtate of the Church, under the New Teſtament, alludes to paſſages in the Old, to ſhew that the Old was but a type of what was to be done under the New, as they had an Egypt and a Sodom, ſo we have a worſe Egypt and Sodom, which is ſpiritually called Sodom and Egypt. And as they had a Babylon that oppreſſed the Church, ſo we have a worſe Babylon, viz. Rome, that perſecuteth the Saints. They which are acquainted with the bleſſed Book (as bleſſed is he that readeth it) ſhall find this to be true. Again, The time of Noah is but a type of what ſhall be, before the World endeth; Men ſhall eat and drink, and be given in marriage, and as the Flood came upon them, ſo Fire and Brimſtone ſhall come upon mens heads in the end. Thus the laſt daies are the perfection of Time. Theſe are perillous times, where men are moſt wicked; and as they are the worſt daies, ſo they are the beſt daies in thoſe that are good. Take them therefore which way you will, and they are the perfection of daies.

Thirdly, They are called the laſt daies, becauſe we muſt not look for any more alteration or change of things in the World, in regard of God's revealing himſelf. When the Law was given there was an alteration made, there being a Covenant made under Types; but when Chriſt comes he tells us *Heb.*12.26,27. Yet once more I ſhake not the Earth only, but alſo Heaven. The Apoſtle ſpeaks it in regard of an alteration of Doctrine, that our Saviour Chriſt was to bring into the World; he was to aboliſh the former Types, and to bring in new Forms, new Sacraments, Spiritual Worſhip. He ſhook the Heavens, whoſe Voice ſhook the Earth when he gave the Law. And this word, Yet once more ſignifieth the removing of thoſe things that are ſhaken, as of things that are made; he pull'd the World of the Ceremonial Law about the Jews ears, and ſhook it all down, That thoſe things which cannot be ſhaken may remain. That Religion which is now eſtabliſhed in the Church, and thoſe Truths which are revealed to us, there will be no alteration in them; the Goſpel is eternal, and it will eternally remain.

Fourthly, They are called the laſt daies, becauſe in the end he will ſhew us, that theſe laſt daies ſhall have an end. He puts his People in comfort with this; for they are not called the laſt daies, becauſe the Day of Judgment ſhall preſently come, for it is 1600 years ago ſince he called them the laſt daies; but to ſhew that theſe daies in the end will have an end, theſe daies I ſay of ſin and wickedneſs, and oppreſſion of the Church, the Angel in the Revelation ſwears, that Time ſhall be no more. The time will come when the Heavens ſhall be no more; and if not the Heavens, which are the meaſure of Time, that ſpins out time, much leſs Time.

Uſe 1. Lift up your heads therefore, for your redemption draweth nigh. It is nigher than when ye firſt believed; theſe daies will have an end, and the longer you live, and the more you grow in grace, the nigher you are to the end. The Apoſtle uſeth this as an encouragement, we ſhall not alwaies ſtay for the Day of Judgment, every day ſpends upon it. Thoſe that have been in Heaven, as Abel, that have been there for ſo many Thouſand years, have ſtaid a long time for the Day of Judgment; but our Redemption is nigh, we are fallen into the laſt daies.

Uſe 2. We ſhould provoke one another ſo much the more, becauſe theſe are the laſt daies, *Heb.*10.25. exhort one another to be more faithful in the Word, becauſe they are the laſt daies. The Devil, the ſhorter his time is, the more he rages, and therefore ſeeing theſe are the laſt daies, the nigher the day approacheth, the more ſhould we endeavour to do God ſervice. And we that live in theſe laſt daies, are ſo much the more engaged to do this, becauſe God out of the riches of his Patience hath ſuffered this wicked World that is loſt unto him, to ſtand ſo long, that we in theſe laſt times might be brought forth, he hath built a World, and before that we came on it, there were many Stages removed. He hath born with many wicked men before us, that at the laſt theſe laſt daies may come wherein he hath ſtill a People to bring home unto himſelf. A man that goes to a Fair or Market, and hath ſet up a Shop, and took little for the whole day, deſires and expects Cuſtomers to come in at laſt; he hath been at the pains to ſtand there all the while, and he expecteth ſomething at laſt: So God hath built this World, and hath ſet up his Shop, (for Chriſt is ſaid to ſet up his Shop,) and he hath invited Men to come in and deal with him, to receive him and Salvation; but he hath had but little Cuſtome in the World, and he hath ſuffered the World to ſtand ſtill, till theſe laſt daies, and now he expects the more to come in.

pains

Uſe 3. If they be the laſt days, look for perilous days, look for more oppoſition of godlineſs, worſer enemies than the Phariſes were if worſer can be; look for as bloody Perſecutions as there have been, as damnable Hereſies. As there hath been Cora, Dathan and Abiram, ſo there ſhall be the ſpawn of theſe in thoſe days, for thoſe are the laſt days; And as in the kennel the lower it is, the more dirt is ſwept down into it; ſo all the ſins of our Forefathers are ſwept down to us: The World is now more wicked, they are the laſt days, and more perilous, and therefore look for ſuch times; though in the end there are great promiſes of great proſperity to the Church. For therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, That in the laſt days he hath ſpoken to us by his Son; for all the promiſes by the Prophets ran into the latter days, and therefore the Apoſtle mentions it; and happily in the latter of the laſt days, there may be better times wherein the Lord may more fully reveal and diſcover himſelf to the Church, though not with ſo great an alteration as Chriſt when he came; There are better days coming, for the laſt days are the perfection of the former days, they are the perfection as of ſins and wickedneſs, ſo of grace and godlineſs, and happily of peace and proſperity. What God hath to do in the end we know not, there are great promiſes made of making a New Heaven and a new Earth, which ſignifieth the bringiug in of the Jews and Gentiles; theſe things are to be done in the laſt days, and theſe we are to expect.

Having thus explained what is meant by the laſt days, I am now to give the Reaſons, why the coming of Chriſt was deferred to thoſe laſt days.

Firſt, Chriſt was to come laſt, after all the Prophets, becauſe he was the great Promiſe.

Secondly, As alſo to convince the World the more, as it is in the Parable in Matthew, The Lord of the Vineyard ſent forth his Servants to the Husbandmen, them they ſlew; then he ſent forth other Servants, more than the former; (for God will encreaſe means to convince a People,) and laſt of all he ſent his Son.

Thirdly, When all other Wiſdom fail'd, then Chriſt came, there being but one remedy to magnify it; it was fit that all other means ſhould be tried firſt, therefore for 4000. years, God let them try what Philoſophy could do, and natural Conſcience and the Law, When the World in wiſdem knew not God, then he ſent the fooliſhneſs of Preaching, 1 *Cor.*1.21. the ſubject of which is, Chriſt crucified, ver. 23. When we were without ſtrength Chriſt died for the ungodly, Rom. 5. 6. the world was without ſtrength before, but God would have them know it fully, and then was a fit time for Chriſt to come.

Fourthly, To ſhew God's Faithfulneſs, Rom. 3.25. Whom God hath ſent forth a propitiation, to declare his Righteouſneſs for the remiſſion of ſins that are paſt, through the forbearance of God. The meaning is this, God hath pardoned many a ſin under the Old Teſtament, through his forbearance, for as yet he had received no ſatisfaction, but was long out of purſe, and truſted Chriſt upon his bare word 4000. years; therefore Chriſt came in the fulneſs of time, to ſhew his own faithfulneſs, God having truſted him ſo long, and his Father's faithfulneſs alſo, having promiſed his Son ſo long.

Fifthly and Laſtly, Becauſe the laſt Revelations are always the cleareſt, ſo God deals with particular men, upon your death-bed it may be God will ſpeak more to you, by his Son and Spirit, then in all your life before; God revealed himſelf more fully to St. Paul, then to all the reſt, becauſe he came laſt, God's laſt works put down his former, They ſhall remember no longer their deliverance out of Egypt, but out of the North Country; 88. was a great deliverance, but the gunpowder-treaſon was a greater.

[He hath in theſe laſt days ſpoken unto us by his Son.]

The general Obſervation from hence is this.

That our condition under the New Teſtament, is much better than theirs under the Old.

So that though they be here called Fathers, yet they are elſewhere called Children, Galat. 4. Bleſſed are the Eyes that ſee the things, &c. therefore our times are better.

Firſt, In regard of the things revealed they are more and more excellent.

Secondly, The things revealed to them were not ſo clearly revealed, neither did they ſo clearly underſtand them, 1 Pet. 1.10. 12. The Prophets are there ſaid, To enquire by Prayer, ſearch by Reading, &c. concern ng the glory which ſhould follow upon the ſufferings of Chriſt; when many glorious truths were to be revealed unto the Church, and all that they could get after their enquiry, was this, that not unto them but unto us, they did miniſter the things which are now reported, &c. That is, they in their own writings did reveal many things unto us, which they themſelves did not underſtand, therefore Matt. 13.5. it is ſaid, That Chriſt taught things which had been kept ſecret from the beginning of the World.

Thirdly, As in regard of Knowledge, ſo in regard of Grace, our times are more excellent, there being a greater diſpenſation of Grace now, than there was under the Old Teſtament, Zach. 12. 8. The feeble ſhal be as David, that is, ſo great an improvement there ſhall be when Chriſt ſhall come, that the feeble under the New, ſhall be as thoſe that were ſtrongeſt under the Old.

Uſe 1. Labour then to make this good in your lives: Look unto the Holy men in the Old Teſtament, and conſider, there is more Grace expected of you (as there is more Grace promiſed to you) than there was to them; therefore labour to ſhew it in your lives.

Uſe 2. If our condition be better in regard of knowledge and grace, then we may well content our ſelves though it be outwardly worſe. Many of them had great proſperity joyned with their profeſſion of the Truth, as we ſee in Abraham and David; though we want this and ſuffer perſecution, yet let us be content, becauſe our Spiritual condition makes us amends, even as the times of the Goſpel hath brought forth more Grace and Knowledge, ſo more Perſecutions than ever were in the time of the Law, as Butcherings in the Primitive times.

Now we will ſhew, wherein our condition is better than theirs; and it is better in Three regards, as it is implied by the oppoſition in the Text.

Firſt, Under the Old Teſtament he ſpake by piece-meal, now he hath ſpoken all at once.

Secondly, He did it obſcurely divers waies; but now he hath done it plainly and clearly, therefore our condition is better.

Thirdy, Under the Old Teſtament God ſpake by Prophets, now by his Son.

Firſt, Under the Old Teſtament he did it by piece-meal, now but once; therefore Jude, v. 3,4. calls it, The Faith once revealed unto the Saints. Under the Old Teſtament the Fathers received Truths by retail, but we by whole-ſale; yours is a new Edition of Truths come forth in Folio. John 1. The Apoſtle comparing Chriſt and Moſes, ſaith, The Law came by Moſes, but Grace and Truth came by Jeſus Chriſt; that is, yours is ſo much Grace, ſo much Truth, that Moſes revealed not, that hath been ſince brought to light, which the corrupt Church of the Samaritans had no inkling of, John 4. 25. where though the Woman was ignorant of many things, yet ſhe referred it to the times of the Meſſias, who, when he comes, would tell them all things. In him are hid all the Treaſures of wiſdom and knowledge, Coloſſ. 2. which Treaſures were then brought forth. Falſe-Teachers would have drawn them away by the knowledge of Angels and Philoſophy, &c. No, ſaith the Apoſtle, ſtudy Chriſt, for in him you are

are compleat; nothing can be added to the knowledge of him, in whom are hid the Treaſures of wiſdom and knowledge. John 1.15. Whatſoever I have heard of my Father, &c. You have now the Original Copy; the Prophets were but Tranſcripts out of Chriſt, now a leaf and then a leaf; but ſaith he, I am the Original Copy, and whatever I have heard of my Father, neceſſary to ſalvation, I have delivered unto you.

Uſe 1. Adore then and admire the Doctrine of the Goſpel, and the perfection thereof, for it is delivered but once, not as it is with the Papiſts; this Truth diſcovered in one Popes daies, another in another; but He hath done it at once. The Scripture is ſaid, to make the man of God perfect, which cannot be ſaid of any Science in the World. There is not Philoſophy enough in all mens Books to make a man a perfect Philoſopher; but there is Scripture enough to make a man a perfect Divine.

Secondly, Contend for it, for it was but once delivered, St. Jude exhorts to contend for it upon this ground, if all both Magiſtrates and Miniſters and People ſell the Truth it is gone, for it is as in a Leaſe in which Three have ſhare, if one will not conſent it is not ſold; ſo if any of theſe hold the Truth it ſhall not depart, therefore contend for it, if you looſe it, you will never have it again, for it was given but once, as Eſau when he ſold his birthright.

Thirdly, Study the Word, let it dwell plentifully in you, for it is the word of Chriſt, Pſal. 119. 96. ver. The Law is exceeding broad, but the Goſpel is much broader; the vaſt Treaſures of Wiſdom and Knowledge are laid up in it, St. Paul had abundance of that Knowledge, it is all hid in the word. Chriſt had a world of Knowledge, he hath hid it in the word, therefore never think you have Knowledge enough, ſtudy the word more fully, for there is no Truth laid up in it but ſhall be revealed in it, before the day of Judgment: No man lights a Candle and puts it under a buſhel.

2. In the time of the Goſpel he hath revealed himſelf one way, before he did it by Viſions and Dreams and Types, &c. which were very obſcure; for thus we have the things and ſee them fulfilled, yet how hard are they for us to underſtand them, and if we do not; who have all fulfilled before our eyes, much leſs they; but God hath laid all theſe ways aſide, and hath revealed himſelf only by the Word and Sacrament, unto the hearts of Men, and this he hath done clearly, 1 Cor. 1. 2,3. Suiting Spiritual things with Spiritual; that is, we ſpeak to them plainly, in their own notions, we do not give them Riddles, but ſpeak of things in their own expreſſions, ſuitable to them, 2 Cor. 3. The Miniſtry of the Law was a Vail over Moſes face, which argues his Miniſtry was very dark; but under the Goſpel we with open face behold the glory of the Lord. There are two ways to repreſent a man, one by his Picture, another in a Glaſs; that under the Law was a repreſentation of Chriſt by Pictures, but in the Goſpel by a Glaſs, in the Law there were but ſhadows of Chriſt, but now the ſhadows are gone, and we ſee his perſon in a Glaſs, they ſaw him through a Vail, we with open face, the Vail being taken away we look with a broad eye upon Chriſt; God having betaken himſelf to one Ordinance, thereby to reveal himſelf to the Sons of Men.

Uſe 1. Miniſters ſhould endeavour therefore to ſpeak plainly to the People, becauſe ye are Miniſters of the Goſpel, 2 Cor. 3. Seeing we have ſuch hope, we uſe great plaineſs of ſpeech, and 2 Cor. 4. 3. We ſpeak ſo plainly, ſaith the Apoſtle, that if any Man periſh through Ignorance, it is becauſe he is a loſt Creature.

Uſe 2. This condemns all ignorance likewiſe, for under the Goſpel, we have no Cloak for it, Chriſt having ſpoken ſo plainly, as he hath in compariſon to what he did under the Law.

3. He ſpeaks now by his Son, whereas he ſpake then only by the Pro phets; then the ſtars ſhined only, but the Son of Righteouſneſs ſhineing, he hath put all the ſtars down, hence we will ſhew.

Firſt,

First, How he ſpeaks.
Secondly, Why he ſpeaks by his Son.
First, How he ſpeaks, he is ſaid to ſpeak by his Son.
First as Chriſt is the matter it ſelf delivered, therefore Rom 1. it is called the Goſpel of Chriſt, becauſe he is the Subject of it, whereas the Prophets were not the matter of what they delivered.
Secondly, Chriſt himſelf is the immediate ſpeaker, he came from Heaven on purpoſe to preach the Goſpel, we had never had it elſe, and though he be not here bodily preſent, yet he is ſaid to preach unto this day, Epheſ. 2. though he never preached at Epheſus in perſon, for he was not ſent, that is, to preach, but to the loſt ſheep of the Houſe of Iſrael; yet he preacht peace not only to the Jews that were near, but alſo to the Gentiles that were afar off. And that,
First, Becauſe he brought the Goſpel which we deliver, to light; it was ſpoken firſt by the Lord, Heb. 2. and we in his ſtead, 1 Cor 5. 20.
Secondly, Becauſe he is with us Miniſters in delivering of it to the end of the World; yea, Jeſus Chriſt hath his Pulpit in Heaven, to this day; therefore it is ſaid, Refuſe not him that ſpeaks from Heaven, Heb. 12. 25.
Secondly, Why God ſpeaks by his Son?
First, becauſe he is the word of his Father John 1. 1. therefore he is a fit Meſſenger to interpret his Fathers mind; as Chriſt was his word in the Creation of the Old World, for by him were all things made, ſo it was neceſſary he ſhould be his word likewiſe, in the Creation of the New.
Secondly, He is the Wiſdom of the Father, and we all deſire to have wiſe ſpeakers, as Kings in Parliaments chooſe able ſpeakers; therefore God choſe Chriſt his own Wiſdom, to expreſs his mind that there might be no miſtake, but that he might expreſs it, as fully as he himſelf would do.
Thirdly, He is the Idea and Platform of all truths; Moſes ſaw all in the Mount, and according to the Pattern he was to frame all things, herein he was a Type of that Prophet that was to be raiſed up like himſelf, who had a Pattern of all in Heaven, John 3. 11, 13. What ever Chriſt ſpeaks he ſpeaks by experience, for he ſpeaks nothing but what he hath ſeen, which no man could have ſaid, for he muſt have had them at ſecond hand; but Chriſt had them immediately, for he knew all the Counſels of his Father, being in his boſom, No man hath aſcended up into Heaven, but he that came down; that is, why do I tell you of Heavenly things, but becauſe I came down from Heaven, which no man elſe could have done.
Fourthly, becauſe Chriſt is next the Father, though the Holy Ghoſt ſee all things in the Father, yet Chriſt muſt teach; this reaſon is given by our Saviour ſaying, When the Spirit is come, he ſhall lead them into all truths, for he ſhall not ſpeak of himſelf, but ſhall take of mine and ſhall ſhew it unto them. Chriſt being next the Father, therefore came firſt himſelf and ſet all truths abroach and then he tells them that the Holy Ghoſt ſhall come, and more clearly reveal to them what he had ſaid.
Fifthly, Becauſe God would have his Son all in all, therefore there is no Office to be born, but he muſt bare it, not only to be our King and Prieſt, but to be our Prophet alſo, and that not to ſit in Heaven only, and give out truths, but to come down, and preach them to us.

Uſe 1. If God now ſpeak by his Son, then hear him, This is my beloved Son, hear him; If a King ſent his Son Embaſſador, ſhall he not be heard, God hath now ſent the Heir at laſt, ſaying, Surely they will reverence my Son; let us not therefore ſend Chriſt away without his errand, refuſe not him that ſpeaks from Heaven.
Uſe 2. We ſee then the calling of the Miniſtry is an honourable calling, Chriſt himſelf took it upon him, to be the Miniſter of the Circumciſion. Gentlemens Sons ſcorn to be Miniſters, but Chriſt the Son of God did not.
Uſe 3. If God ſpeaks by his Son, and his ſpeaking is better than of all the Prophets, then never reſt till you hear Chriſt ſpeak to you; you may hear the Miniſter long enough, but labour to get Chriſt to ſpeak to your hearts.

Use 4. Seeing God ſpeaks by his Son, then call no Man Rabbi upon Earth, addict your ſelves to no mans Opinion becauſe of the high eſteem you have of his Learning or Grace, let it be the Doctrine of Chriſt before you entertain it, Matt. 23. and 10. upon this ground Chriſt bids them call no Man Rabbi.

Use 5. Seeing God hath ſpoken in the laſt days by his Son, therefore let your laſt works be better than your firſt, Rev. 2. 22. If God will be daily a better Maſter unto you, be you better Servants unto him.

Use 6. God ſpeaking in the laſt days by his Son; We ſee that the more God reveals himſelf in Chriſt, the more clear it is; under the Old Teſtament they knew as much of God's Attributes as we, but to know all theſe over again, in Chriſt that he is the power of God, and the Wiſdom of God, &c. This is the excellent knowledge, the World before Chriſt knew God in his Attributes, and in his Creatures, ſo fully that Philoſophy hath not been more perfected ever ſince; yea Ariſtotle revealed that to the World then, that they have been ſtudying ever ſince. Labour therefore to know God in Chriſt, What is the Reaſon we have more grace then they? But becauſe we know more of Chriſt who reveals the Father; the knowledge of God the Father ſimply doth not raiſe a Soul, ſo much as knowing of him in Chriſt, therefore he is ſaid to ſpeak in a glaſs by his Son, (that is,) clearly, 2 Cor. 3. 18.

The

The Third

SERMON

On HEB. I. 1, 2.

God who at ſundry times, and in divers manners ſpake in time paſt unto the Fathers by the Prophets.

Hath in theſe laſt days ſpoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed Heir of all things, by whom alſo he made the Worlds.

[Whom he hath appointed Heir of all things.]

HAving mentioned Chriſt, he falls into a large Encomium of him; Firſt, that which was firſt, as Mediator, to wit his Fathers appointing him to be Heir of allthings; for it is not ſpoken of him as the Second perſon in the Trinity; but as he is Mediator, becauſe he is ſaid to be appointed an Heir, but not as God; he needed no appointing, he had it φύσει, not θέσει, and as the natural Son of God, he could not properly be called an Heir, for an Heir is to ſucceed another in a right tranſmitted to him, but ſo Chriſt did not as the Son, therefore it is ſpoken of him as Mediator, and ſo he is] appointed Heir of all things, himſelf coming within the decree of Predeſtination.

Firſt, One is ſaid to be an Heir in regard of ſome good to poſſeſs a poor man may be ſaid to have many Sons, but not an Heir, becauſe he hath nothing to leave them; for Poſſeſſions and an Heir are relations, and the greater the Poſſeſſions the greater Heir.

Secondly, an Heir hath relation to ſucceſſion, therefore we uſe to ſay unto him and his Heirs, another hath the primary right, but the Heir hath it derived to him; thus Chriſt may be ſaid to be Heir, not as God for ſo he hath equal right with his Father, but as Mediator, and ſo he may be ſaid to ſucceed his Father.

In the ſtate of innocency, God the Father did govern the World immediately, and the Covenant made with Adam, was made immediately by the hands of no Mediator, and though Chriſt was Lord of all then, yet the Father exerciſed juriſdiction; but Man falling, Chriſt comes to be an Heir, the Father lays down the Government, and Chriſt undertakes the ſhattered condition of the World; and therefore in John 5. 22. The Father Judgeth no man, &c. before, the Father judged and ruled immediately, came and preached to Adam himſelf, and judged him, till he had made the promiſe of this Heir; and then Chriſt came to govern the World, of which we have a Type, Exod. 33. compared with the 23. Chap. and 3. verſe, I will not ſaith God, go up in the middle of them, for I ſhall deſtroy them; that is, if I go according to my rules which I obſerved in my Government, in the ſtate of mans innocency having given them a Law, viz, if they tranſgreſſed it, I muſt of neceſſity deſtroy them, but Chap. 23. 20. ſaith the Lord, I will ſend mine Angel before you, but beware of him and obey his voice, for my name is in him, that is mine Attributes; according to the rule of his Government he may ſhew mercy, but I cannot; thus Chriſt is an Heir becauſe he governs by ſucceſſion.

Thirdly, He is ſaid to be an Heir to ſhew that he is Lord of all things, for Heirs and Dominions, are all one in the civil Law, the Heir is ſaid to be Heir of all. Gal. 3. 1, 2. which is all one with the Phraſe, Him hath God made Lord and Chriſt, Act. 2. 36.

Fourthly, To ſhew that he is the Firſt-born, he hath the Primarie Title, and we are Heirs in him, therefore called Coheirs, therefore it is ſaid in the Pſalms, I will make my Firſt-born higher then the Kings of the Earth; his inheritance is founded upon this that he was the Firſt-born in the Womb of God's Predeſtination.

Fifthly, Becauſe he ſhall never be put by it, for it is an Inheritance, and that is for ever; fooliſh men that can give their goods but for a while, yet they write to him and to his Heirs for ever; but Chriſt's Inheritance is perpetual, he will be Heir of Two Worlds, when this is burnt, and the writing of it will never be burnt, for it is written within the Record of God's decree in Heaven.

Why did God appoint him thus Heir of all things, Was it for himſelf? No, for he had a natural right to all, but he was ſo appointed, that he might be able to overrule all things for your ſalvation, therefore life and death cannot ſeperate, between them and him, becauſe he is Heir of all things, John 17. 2. What an infinite mercy is this, that he ſhould not only poſſeſs all things, but that Chriſt ſhould poſſeſs all for your ſakes, therefore the Kingdom of Chriſt is ſaid to be a Spiritual Kingdom, becauſe it is to poſſeſs and rule all things for ſpiritual ends, for the good of his Elect, Eph. 1. 22. he hath given him to be head of all, that he might be head to the Church.

[Chriſt differs from other Heirs.]

Firſt, Becauſe he is Heir of all the other Sons, other Heirs their Brethren are not put into their Inheritance, but Chriſt doth inherit all things, his Brethren are given unto him, for his Inheritance, I will give thee the Heathen for thy Inheritance.

Secondly, Other Heirs do not make the Land or build the Houſes they do inherit, but Chriſt hath built the Houſe he is Heir of. Hebrews 3. 6. &c.

Thirdly, He hath purchaſt it likewiſe, what a man hath by purchaſe; we ſay he hath it not by inheritance, but Chriſt he bought Heaven and all the glory of the Saints, and the Saints themſelves; therefore Revelations 5. It is ſaid, Thou art worthy of all Honour and Glory, &c. And yet though he bought all ſo dear, yet he muſt ask for it, before he can have it; Ask of me and I will give thee, Pſal. 2. So Iſai. 53. ſpeaking of his death, He will appoint him his portion with the great.

Fourthly, He doth inherit all things while his Father is alive; other Heirs may have ſomething made over to them, and the reſt after their death; but the Father who ever lives hath laid down his Government and committed all Judgment to the Son.

Fifthly, He is ſuch an Heir, that all his Brethren are Heirs with him, in other places the elder Brother runs away with all, and the reſt are Beggars, but though he hath Primum jus, and our Title come in by him, yet being Coheirs, he inheriting we may inherit all things with him.

Uſe 1. Labour therefore to be one with Chriſt; for he is a great Heir, he hath unſearchable riches laid up in him, Epheſ. 1. he is Heir of Three Kingdoms, Heaven Earth and Hell, and to move you to it, conſider you ſhall not only inherit all things by him, but the Heir himſelf ſhall be your inheritance, Deut. 10 9. you ſhall be Heirs of him, who ſhall be Heirs of all things, not that we ſhould be Lords of Chriſt, yet he will ſerve us, not only here, as when he came in the form of a Servant, but in Heaven, it is ſaid, He will gird himſelf and ſerve us.

Uſe 2. Think thou what infinite love he ſhewed when he came down into the World, and diſpoſſeſt himſelf of all, had not a hole to lay his head in, by way of a Temporal right; he did not only forbear the uſe of all, reſerving, ſerving the right; but he did Abdicare jus, in reſpect of a Temporal right; therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, He became poor that we might become rich.

Uſe 3. In that he that was Heir of all things, ſhould come here as a Prince diſguiſed, it ſhould teach us humility; here the Heir was under Tutors and Governors, ſubject to his Parents, to the government of the World, paid Tribute to Cæſar, &c. Though he poſſeſt all things, and had an aſſurance immediately before, John 13. yet he aroſe and took a Towel, and waſht his Diſciples feet, ſaying, If I your Lord and Maſter, &c. that is, though he then actually conſidered that he was Lord of all, yet he would ſhew them an act of humility, that they might thereby learn, to ſerve one another through love.

Uſe 4. If Chriſt be Lord of all, then he will certainly uphold a Miniſtry to call his Elect home; for he hath all power given him, to that end that he might give them Eternal life, Matt. 28. 18, 19. therefore Miniſters alſo ſhould teach boldly and plainly, becauſe he is Heir of all things.

Uſe 5. See then how our right come in, that great Charter that God hath given us is gone, becauſe the Seal is broken, which was the Image of God; therefore now our right comes in by Chriſt, and no man hath right to any thing, but either as a Son or a Servant. Wicked men ſerve him, therefore he gives them for their Wages the good things of this life, yet all the right is in him; if therefore you would have the right of Sons, get into Chriſt, All things are yours, and you are Chriſt's, and Chriſt is Gods; he hath the prime right, and hath appointed Chriſt to be Heir of all things; and you being in Chriſt, all things come to be yours, indeed you may have the right of Servants, and not be in him, neither will Chriſt call wicked men into queſtion, ſimply for having the things of this life, but Servants abide not in the Houſe always; if therefore you would have an Inheritance perpetual immortal, and not be caſt out in the end, labour to be one with Chriſt.

It follows, to ſhew, why he is ſaid to be an Heir appointed, not only Hæres natus, but Conſtitutus. All Heirs are either born, or ſo appointed: ſo by will Chriſt is both, as the Son of God he is born an Heir, and ſo he comes not under the decree of Predeſtination, which is an act of God's Will; but as Mediatour he is appointed Heir, therefore when the Apoſtle ſaith, by him he made the World, he ſpeaks of him as the Son; but when he ſaith, he was appointed Heir of all things, he ſpeaks of him as Mediatour: therefore he ſpeaks of it as a diſtinct thing, and ſaith alſo, By whom he made the World.

There is a Twofold right Chriſt hath to all things, Firſt, By Nature, or Birth.
Secondly, By an Oeconomical diſpenſatory Right; and ſo Chriſt is ſaid to be Predeſtinated, 1 Pet. 1. 20.

Firſt, As the Son of God he is not predeſtinated, for Generation is an act of God's nature, and he did it neceſſarily; but Predeſtination is an act of his Will.

Secondly, That this Second Perſon ſhould ſubſiſt in an humane Nature, comes within the compaſs of his Decree, by virtue of which he becomes Heir of all things; therefore in Heb. 10. 5. it is ſaid, that Chriſt ſhould have a Body, was written in the Volume of the Book, that is, it comes under the Decree of God, for he might have taken the Nature of Angels, as appears Heb. 2. where it is ſaid, He took not the Nature of Angels, it implies, he might have done it.

Thirdly, That he took that particular Nature, this came within the compaſs of God's appointment, for it was only by Grace, Gratia unionis; therefore Auguſtine ſaith, What could that Nature deſerve, to be taken into fellowſhip more than any other. It was Neſtorius his Errour, That Chriſt was firſt meer Man, and merited to be united, not conſidering, that all Merit flows from the Union, and doth not precede it.

Fourthly, All the Offices of Chriſt come within the compaſs of God's Decree.

First, His Kingly Office, Pſal. 2. I have ſet my King upon my holy Hill of Zion. Acts 2.36. Which God hath made Lord and King.

Secondly, His Prieſtly Office, *Heb.*3.1,2. it is ſaid, He was faithful in it unto him that appointed him.

Thirdly, His Prophetical Office, *Deut.*18.18. God will raiſe up a Prophet of their Brethren like unto me.

Fourthly, Though his Humane Nature be united, yet according to that he is not his Adopted Son, but his Natural Son, for it is Perſona that is objectum Filiationis, and not the Divine and Humane Nature; therefore it is ſaid, That which is born of thee ſhall be called the Son of God; yet all the Glory that he hath, though it be a conſequent of his Union, yet it is given him. John 17.5. he ſaith, Glorifie me, claiming it as his due, yet he begs it, as given. So *Phil.*2. though he thought it no robbery to be equal with God, yet it is ſaid, God gave him a Name above every name. Though it was his Inheritance by Nature, yet it was given him; and the reaſon is this, Becauſe, when he took upon him the office of a Mediatorſhip, he laid down his glory, gave up the right he formerly had, and took it anew from his Father; as if a Son, who is joynt purchaſer with his Father, ſhould give up his right, and take it again of his will; and this he did,

First, That he might make over all things unto us. If he had been an Heir born only, and poſſeſt it by that title, he could never have made over that to us; but the right that he had by appointment, that he made over unto us, that we might be Heirs with him. As an Heir born, he is in the boſom of the Father; but he ſits at the right hand of his Father, as an Heir appointed.

Secondly, He will be an Heir appointed, that God may be glorified in all the glory that he hath. It might be ſaid, the Son holds of him, for as Mediatour he holds all by that great Charter he hath of his Father; therefore Phil. 2. He gave him a Name above every name, &c. to the glory of God the Father.

Uſe 1. If Chriſt were appointed Heir of all things; if his Humane Nature could not merit to be aſſumed, bu his Predeſtination was meerly of Grace, then ſurely it is ours likewiſe.

Uſe 2. This ſets forth the Love of Chriſt to us, in that he would lay down, and take it by a new right. Why ſhould not we then lay down all at his feet, ſeeing we ſhall have all in a better right, ſcil. a Spiritual, we ſhall be put into Chriſt's Title, and be Heirs as well as he: Neither is Chriſt Heir only, but Heir of all things; there is nothing but he hath a right to, he is an Heir of the Angels, therefore they are ſaid to be our fellow Servants, *Rev.*19.10. and 22.10. the reaſon is only this, becauſe Chriſt is the Lord of them alſo; therefore he ſends them forth for the good of his Elect, for which cauſe they are called miniſtring Spirits. While we ſtood in Innocency, it is a queſtion whether they ſhould have been miniſtring Spirits to us, yea or no; but now being Chirſt's Servants, they are ours alſo. He is Heir alſo of the Devils, to over-rule them; they could not go into the Swine without his leave: yea, all the wicked men in the World are his Servants, therefore they are ſaid to deny the Lord that bought them. The Elder ſhall ſerve the Younger, was ſpoken of Eſau, who being Chriſt's Servant, was Jacobs likewiſe. Yea, He is Heir of all things; the Wind ſhall not blow on thee but with his leave; yea, all paſſages of things, both preſent and to come, all Afflictions he is Heir of, ſo of all the Creatures; therefore he will new hang his houſe one day, and they ſhall be reſtored again to a glorious liberty; therefore *Pſal.*96.10.11. it is ſaid, Let the Earth rejoyce, becauſe Chriſt is King. Yea, all Godly men are Heirs with him, yet he is Heir of the Heirs themſelves.

For the opening of the Point, conſider

First, Heir of all things is more than King of all things, for Inheritance implies right to every parcel of Goods in his Dominions. He is not only a King to over-rule all, but he is Heir of more Worlds than one, as appears ver. 3. and he hath a right to every parcel therein.

Secondly,

Secondly, He is Heir of all things, becauſe he is the end of all things; All things were made for him. He was firſt appointed an Heir, then God made Worlds for him to inherit. God did not as Abraham did, lay up Goods, and not know who ſhould enjoy them;but he deſigned them for Chriſt,therefore it is ſaid, All things were made for him, Coloſſ. 1. they are all to ſet out Chriſt. The Devils, to ſhew his power, for it was fit ſo great a King ſhould have potent Enemies; the Angels his Purſuivants, &c. and the reaſon is, becauſe indeed he is all things himſelf, taking upon him our Nature; Man being an Index of all the Creatures, therefore it is ſaid, Preach the Goſpel to every Creature.

Thirdly, The right that Chriſt hath to all things, as Heir, is not a Worldly right, My Kingdom is not of this world; therefore, though he be Heir of all things, yet he will put you by nothing; but his title is Spiritual, for Spiritual ends. For look what uſe men are to put things to, ſuch is their title to them, becauſe men are to put the Creature to Wordly uſes, therefore their right is Worldly; but Chriſt being to over-rule all things for the good of his Elect, his title is Spiritual. John 17. 2. All power was given him, that he might give eternal life to them that were given him. That nothing might hinder their ſalvation, he hath made himſelf Heir of all things.

Uſe 1. If Chriſt be Heir of all things, then thoſe that are his fellow Heirs need fear nothing, for all things are Chriſts. He is the Heir of all occurrencies in the World, that he might give them Eternal life; therefore all things ſhall work together for that end.

Uſe 2. If Chriſt be Heir of all things, then learn to employ all for Chriſt. It is reaſon all ſhould be employed for the good of the Heir; Adminiſtrators, while the Heir is under age, are to give an account. All the gifts you have, you are but Adminiſtrators of them, therefore labour to improve them for the good of the Heir.

Uſe 3. Therefore in the end you will find all things tend to the Glory of Chriſt, when all accounts are caſt up, and thoſe his Enemies who would not give him Glory, ſhall find that they have done it whether they would or no; for he is a good husband, and will improve his Father's goods to the utmoſt. When God was like to loſe all his Glory, he undertook the ſhattered condition of things, and promiſed that all his Glory ſhould come in another way; and it will be found one day, that God had as much Glory out of the ſinful condition of mans, and more than if he had ſtood in the ſtate of Innocency.

Uſe 4. Though Chriſt be Heir of all things, yet he acknowledges no Worldly title, He paid it to Cæſar, therefore let the Saints content themſelves with a Spiritual right. Indeed Chriſt might come as King, and challenge all things preſently; but he lets here Wicked men run away with all, and ſo ſhould his People be content, as he was.

[By whom alſo he made the World.]

Here is a deſcription of Chriſt in regard of his Threefold Office.

Firſt, His Prophetical Office; it is ſaid, God ſpake by him.

Secondly, His Kingly Office; for it is ſaid, He is Heir of all things, by whom he made the World.

Thirdly, His Prieſtly Office, When he had purged our ſins, &c. All that is ſaid of him,(as being the Son,as that he was Heir of all things, that he Created the World, &c.) tend only to this, to ſhew, that he was able to take away our ſins; he had ſaid before that he was Heir of all things, and that he might well be, for he made the Worlds, the word αἰῶνας, he uſed is no where elſe to be found uſed in all the Scriptures, but is proper to this Epiſtle, and ſignifies Ages or Generations, and becauſe things are meaſured by Time; therefore it ſignifies Worlds, which are meaſured by Time,for ſo it is plain in Heb. 11. 1, 3. Numerus Numerans, being taken for Numerato; Time which is the meaſure of all things is put for the World it ſelf; ſo Matt. 24. This Generation ſhall not paſs, is ſpoken of the Jews,

Jews, who were then to enter into a great Eclipſe, ſo that men would have thought they ſhould have been all worn out; but ſaith Chriſt, This Generation ſhall not paſs, that is theſe Men, there Generation is put for men, as here Time is put for Worlds.

Hence we ſee that there are Worlds made by Chriſt, a higher and a lower World, accordingly he hath made two ſorts of Creatures, Firſt, Men to be Lords of the World below, and Angels chief, in the World above; for God loves variety, therefore when he made reaſonable Creatures he would make two ſorts, Angels and Men, for them he framed two Worlds, one for Adam, which he brought him into, another for Angels made in the firſt days Creation, ſo as when it is ſaid the morning ſtars did ſhine, Job 36. it is meant, that the Heavens were Created the firſt day, and the Angels with them. There is alſo an Earthly World in which men live upon the Creatures, and therefore are called worldly men. The ſtate of Grace alſo is called a world, they that are put into it are called new Creatures, I make a new Heaven and a new Earth, &c. which promiſe though it ſhall be more fully accompliſhed when the Jews ſhall be called, yet it is in part fulfilled before, for whenſoever God calleth a Church he maketh a new World; for which cauſe his Church in many places, is called The World. Therefore Chriſt making a new World, it is fitting he ſhould have a new Sabbath to commemorate it, which was the reaſon of the tranſlation of the Day; becauſe as the Father made a World, and reſted upon that Day, ſo Chriſt making a new World, reſted upon this Day, which is, and ſhall be kept to the end of the World.

Again, There is alſo a preſent World, and a World to come, both made by Chriſt, Eph. 1.21. The firſt day God made the Angels and the Heavens, that we ſhall one day live in; but as it is ſaid of Hell, it was prepared for the Devil and his Angels, that though the Angels were firſt caſt into it, yet Men were to come after: So it may be ſaid of Heaven, though it was prepared for the Angels firſt, yet God meant to bring men hither alſo; for there are Names to be in the World to come, as well as in this World.

Uſe 1. If there be Worlds made by Chriſt, then you that be Worldly minded men, conſider, if you will turn to Chriſt you ſhall be poſſeſſours of Worlds, whereas Adam was Heir only of one World. We read of Alexander, That he wept when he heard there was but one World to conquer; but if you become the Sons of God, open your mouths as wide as you can, and they ſhall be filled; if one World will not ſerve you, there are Worlds for you, this preſent world and all things in it ſhall be yours, 1 Cor. 3.ult. Therefore Abraham is called the Heir of the World, and ſo ſhall you be, if you have the Faith of Abraham; and when you enjoy another World after the latter day, yet this World ſhall ſtill be yours, and ſerve for your eſtate that are Heirs of Glory. As Noble men uſe to have many houſes to go unto, ſo it ſhall be your glory to have ſuch a World as this of your own to ſtand empty. Love not the World therefore, nor the things of it, for there is a World to come, and this World is nothing in compariſon of it. Care not therefore for a great Name here, for there are Names in the World to come which are laſting, Eph. 1.21. All the Evidences for this World will be burnt one day, but Heaven is a ſtanding Palace. This World is made but a Stage for men to act their parts a while, and then to be taken down.

Secondly, All theſe Worlds were made by Chriſt. The Father indeed is the principal Agent, but he doth it by his Son; but not as an Inſtrument by which he made it, as ſome Hereticks have affirmed; nor by him as a Mediatour, as ſome of the Fathers have ſaid, as if Chriſt were a Mediatour between him and nothing. But when it is ſaid, He made the Worlds by him, the meaning is this, In the works of the Three Perſons, what one is ſaid to do the other is ſaid to do, only with this difference, all things are ſaid to be of the Father, but by the Son; for as he is the Second Perſon, ſo he is the ſecond in working.

In Men there are Three Principles which concur to every action.

Firſt, Wiſdom, to plot all things.

Secondly, Will, to have this or that done.

Thirdly, Power, by which all things are executed according to this reſolution.

The

The works of the Three Perſons, anſwer to theſe Three.

Firſt, The Son is the wiſdom of the Father, the Idæa of all things that were made; therefore it is ſaid, Heb. 11.3. The things that are ſeen, are made by the things that do appear.

Secondly, There is Will, which is the Father's part; for the motion to have all things done comes from him.

Thirdly, The Power of the Higheſt, viz. the Holy Ghoſt, which performs all things; therefore it is ſaid, Gen. 1. that in the Creation he moved upon the Waters.

Uſe 1. To what end is this brought in here, that the Worlds were made by Chriſt, but only to ſet forth his ability for the work of Redemption, for he that made the World can remake it: ſo John 1. it is ſaid, Without him was nothing made. It was only to ſhew, he was a fit perſon to undertake the work of Redemption; therefore it follows, The Word was made fleſh: ſo Coloſſ. 1. By whom all things were made, to ſhew he was a fit Perſon, by whom God ſhould reconcile all things to himſelf: ſo here only to ſhew, he only was able to purge our ſins, for theſe things could have been done by none others.

Uſe 2. Therefore love the Lord Jeſus more than a thouſand Worlds; for he is the maker of Worlds, and if Worlds could do thee good, he would make thee many more.

Uſe 3. This ſhews the infinite Love of Chriſt, that he that could make Worlds would himſelf be made Fleſh; and it had been eaſier for him to make Worlds, than been made himſelf a Creature; yet this he was himſelf for our ſake.

Uſe 4. Is it not then pity, that Chriſt that made the World, ſhould not be known nor loved in the World. This is John's complaint, 1 Joh. 10. The World was made by him, and the World knew him not. We ſcarce hear of his Name, but only in theſe Weſtern parts; conſider, he is your Maker, therefore labour to know him. The Aſs knoweth his Owner, therefore much more ſhould we our Maker. He came into the World, and could not be owned by it; he comes unto mens ſenſes, and they will not entertain him, but caſt him out again; as we do when we take him not upon his own terms.

Uſe 5. If he be good at making Worlds, then if thou wouldeſt have thy heart mended go to him, who is maker of Worlds and Hearts alſo.

Uſe 6. If the World be naught, and Times bad, go to Chriſt, for he is able to make them anew, to alter things and turn the World upſide-down; for he is able to make a New Heaven and a New Earth. When the Jews and Gentiles ſhall be called there ſhall be a New World, though the ſame Stage ſtand ſtill, yet he will make many new Scenes upon it.

[Who being the brightneſs of his Father's Glory, &c.]

There are Three expreſſions to ſet forth the Divinity of Chriſt; he is called the Son, the Brightneſs of his Father's Glory, and the Character of his Perſon, becauſe the eternal Generation of the Son cannot be expreſſed by one word; therefore the Holy Ghoſt uſeth divers terms. He is called a Son, to ſhew that he is begotten of him as a Father, and therefore he hath the ſame Eſſence; for Identity in Eſſence the word Son implies, yet begotten not in a Carnal manner, but as the beams are begotten by the Sun; therefore he is called the Brightneſs of his Glory, to ſhew that he is Coeternal with his Father, as the Beams are the ſame in time with the Sun; but the Beams are weaker than the Sun it ſelf, therefore it is ſaid, He is the engraven image of his Perſon, every way like him. All theſe expreſſions are to ſet forth the eternal Generation of the Son. He is called the Brightneſs of his Glory, to ſhew that he begat him, neceſſarily it is not a voluntary action; We are begotten according to the good pleaſure of his will, Jam. 1. But he naturally, as the Beams do naturally flow from the Sun, and is ſaid to be the Character of his Perſon; for Eſſentia nec generat, nec generatur, as he is the Firſt Perſon, ſo he begets a Second; but the Eſſence is common to both.

He only therefore is the Brightneſs of his Fathers Glory; we all are but Stars, ſhining with a borrowed light. But as the Beams of the Sun, ſuch is the glory of Chriſt, which cannot be ſaid of any Creature, He having the ſame glory with his Father; and ſo it is ſaid, They ſaw his glory, John 1.

Uſe 1. Is Chriſt ſo Glorious, what will Heaven be, but the ſeeing of the Glory of Chriſt? If God had created worlds of glorious Creatures, they could have never expreſſed his Glory, as his Son; therefore Heaven is thus expreſſed, Joh. 17. I will, that they be with me to behold my glory. Wherein lies therefore that great communion of Glory that ſhall be in Heaven, it is in ſeeing the Glory of Chriſt, who is the Image of the inviſible God that is worſhipped. As God himſelf was Inviſible, he hath ſtampt his Glory upon his Son, therefore we are ſaid to behold the Glory of God in the face of Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Cor. 4. 5, 6. wherein lies our Glory, to be where Chriſt is. John 1. it is ſaid, They ſaw his glory, as the glory of the only begotten Son of God; that is, they ſaw ſuch Glory as could be in none other. It is therefore the ſeeing of Chriſt that makes Heaven; wherefore One ſaid once, If I were caſt into any hole, if I could have but a cranny to ſee Chriſt alwaies, it would be Heaven enough. But is this all, to ſee himſelf? A Beggar may look upon the glory of a King, and yet be never the better for it; but he that ſhall ſee the Glory of Chriſt, ſhall be changed into the ſame glory; when we ſee him, we ſhall be like him. 1 John 3. 2. He will change our vile Bodies, and make them like to his glorious Body. As he ſanctified himſelf, that he might ſanctifie us: ſo he glorified himſelf, that ſo he might glorifie us. John 17. 22. The glory that thou gaveſt me, I have given unto them. Whereby he makes you far more glorious, than they could be under the firſt Covenant; for this is the nigheſt way by which Creatures can be united unto God.

Uſe 2. If Chriſt be thus glorious, then labour to manifeſt his Glory to the the World, ſhine with his Glory, and Grace, which is glory, 2 Cor. 3. ult. Would you ſee the Brightneſs of Chriſt's Glory, which Wicked men and Devils ſhall never ſee, labour to get your hearts changed into the Image of Chriſt; be humble, as he was humble, &c.

A SERMON

On ZEPH. I. 1, 2, 3.

Gather your ſelves together, yea, gather together, O Nation not deſired.
Before the decree bring forth, before the day paſs as the Chaff, before the fierce Anger of the Lord come upon you, before the day of the Lord's anger come upon you.
Seek ye the Lord, all the meek of the Earth, which have wrought his Judgment, ſeek righteouſneſs, ſeek meekneſs: it may be ye ſhall be hid in the day of the Lord's Anger.

THE firſt Chapter is throughout ſpent in a moſt fearful denunciation and deſcription of a ſpeedy and univerſal conſumption decreed againſt the Land of Judah, with the Cauſes of it, which the Prophet yet winds up in the words I have read unto you, with a gracious Exhortation to Repentance, to prevent the Execution of that Decree.

Wherein conſider, Firſt, The Perſons to whom this Exhortation is made: Firſt of all, he ſpeaks collectively as to the whole Nation, Gather together, &c. Oh Nation; calling them to a ſolemn and publick Repentance. Which Secondly, is alſo to be underſtood as ſpoken particularly and diſtributively to every Perſon in the Nation, eſpecially the Impenitent, Search your ſelves, Oh you, not to be deſired. If Thirdly, he can prevail with none of them, he then more eſpecially turns his ſpeech to all the godly in the Land, who had repented already, which have wrought his Judgments; However, ſeek ye the Lord, &c.

Secondly, Conſider the Duties he exhorts them all unto; whereof, though ſome are more particularly ſpoken to the bad, ſome to the good, yet all concern all alike; which as they are laid down in the Text, expreſs the parts and ingredients into Repentance, and order of them.

1. All collectively are to gather ſolemnly together; And 2. being gathered to ſearch (for ſo as here anon the word is alſo to be underſtood,) into the ſins of the Nation; ſo alſo collectively taken, which bring the Judgment threatned.

And 2. Every particular perſon is particularly exhorted; 1. to ſearch himſelf, Search your ſelves into your own ſins and eſtate before God; 2. To Judge of your ſelves as men not to be deſired, that is out of the favour of God, and to whom his Wrath was due, for ſo God judg'd of you, Oh Nation, not to be deſired, and he ſpeaks it to that end that they might judge ſo of themſelves. 3. Out of the ſenſe of this to ſeek the Lord, to ſeek his favour, and to pacify his wrath. And 4. That they might be ſure to find him to ſeek Righteouſneſs alſo, Grace as well as Mercy, elſe they ſeek him in hypocriſie: And 5. and more eſpecially, to ſeek him in humility and meekneſs of Spirit; ſeek Meekneſs above all Graces elſe: And 6. Do all this ſpeedily, before the decree come forth.

And in the Third and Laſt place, To ſtir up all to this, both good and bad, he adds Motives.

Firſt, Such as might quicken the Bad: As, 1. God's Patience was big with a Decree, and that a Decree of Wrath. 2. A ſet day was appointed for the birth, when it would bring forth. 3. The Child would prove the fierce Anger of the Lord: Which, 4. would conſume them as Chaff, and they not able to reſiſt it.

Secondly, He adds a particular Motive to the godly, that in caſe the Day of the Lord's Anger come upon the Impenitent, yet if they would ſeek God now, they ſhould be hid in it.

In handling of which Particulars, I have rather choſen to give you the juyce and ſtrength of them as ſtrained and concocted into Application, and an Uſe of Exhortation, as here the Prophet doth, than to ſpend this precious time afforded us in Doctrinal diſcourſes.

In which, if I ſhall be courſe and plain, and not prophecy ſmooth things to you, conſider Sackcloth becomes this day, as to Pray in, ſo to Propheſy in; as the two Witneſſes are alſo ſaid to do, *Rev.*11.3.

Speak firſt, you ſee here, the Prophet doth of, and to the whole Nation in the general; and ſo I have more eſpecial Commiſſion to do this day, wherein every particular Congregation aſſembled, is to repreſent and perſonate the whole; and take upon them the ſins of the whole Nation, to confeſs them as their own, as the Saints of old, Ezra and Daniel, did in all their Faſts. But more eſpecially We, who are a Nation of our ſelves (Gens togata,) and as a Colony ſelect and cull'd out of all the Corners of it; and ſo our ſins are as the Index of all the Sins of the Nation; and not only ſo, but as the original Fountain of all the diſtempers through the whole.

The firſt thing he exhorts this Nation to, is to Gather together; that is, (as I have it expounded Joel 2.15. 16.) Sanctifie a Faſt, call a ſolemn aſſembly, gather the People, &c. God will have publick penance, ere he grants out a general pardon. And gathered together we are this day to this very purpoſe, ſo as that Exhortation would be out of date; only let us bleſs the zeal and wiſdom of Authority, that hath thus gathered us together before the Decree bring forth; for that is the right ſeaſon of this great Ordinance. Preventing-Phyſick is beſt, and ſo this is here preſcribed, and ſo hath been taken by the Saints of old. In the 9th of Ezra, when the People had married the Daughters of the Nations and the Princes had been chief in this treſpaſs; as ſoon as Ezra did but hear of this ſin, he rent his garment, ſat down aſtonied, and faſted and prayed, as foreſeeing a ſtorm when ſuch groſs Vapours aſcended; For though yet, ſays he, *we remain eſcaped, yet wouldſt thou not be angry till thou hadſt conſumed us? &c.*v.14,15.

But to Gather together, and to call a general Congregation, that is not all the Prophet exhorts here the Nation unto; he calls them to a ſcrutiny, alſo Search your ſelves. The Original word, ſay all Interpreters, ſignifies Searching as well as Gathering; and, ſay ſome, theſe two being conjugate Duties, the Holy Ghoſt therefore concludes both in a word indifferently ſignifying both; ſo as the word being twice repeated, they tranſlate the firſt Gather, the ſecond, Search. Searching, which is the beginning of Wiſdom and Repentance, being the end of Faſting. And beſides, that the plain and proper ſignification of the word bears both, ſo by way of Metaphor it bears both alſo; for Repentance, whereof ſearching our ſelves is the beginning, is in Scripture phraſe expreſſed by Gathering a man's mind or wits together, (that all our life perhaps before have been gadding a preferment Gathering, learning Gathering, credit Gathering, and the like things without us;) but then to recollect and call in our thoughts, to come to our ſelves, as the Prodigal's Repentance is expreſſed Luke 15.17. To bethink our ſelves, or Bring back to our hearts, as the Margent varies it in 1 King. 8.47. ſpeaking there, as here, of true Repentance. So as you ſee every way they agree both Re & nomine.

And

And beſides, the Motive the Prophet uſeth before and after, makes for this Interpretation, which is the only Motive I will uſe to quicken you to this Duty at this time, ver.12th of this former, the firſt Chapter, I will ſearch Jeruſalem with Candles; and how is that? I will puniſh, &c. for Judgments are God's Blood-hounds, which in the end find Sins and Sinners out; as in *Pſal.*110 15. Break thou the arm of the wicked, ſeek for his Iniquity till thou find none, that is, till there be none of ſins left unpuniſht; and therefore ſays the Prophet, to prevent God's ſearch, Search your ſelves; as Judge your ſelves, &c.

Firſt, Into national ſins, for he ſpeaks to them as a Nation, O, Nation not to be deſired; let us ſearch I ſay, for if we leave any of Rachels Idols hid in the ſtraw, any of Achan's Garments in the ſtuf, which we would conceal; God will come and ſearch with Candles, but he will find them out. David enquired of God what national ſin brought the Famine and it was found Saul's oppreſſing the Gibeonites 2 Sam. 21. 1. and deſperate muſt the condition of that Nation and People be, which though they themſelves declare their ſins as Sodom, and their Plague-ſores run and feſter and ſtink in the noſtrils of God and good men, yet as thoſe that have the Plague they cannot endure a Scourge, no, not to have them toucht with the tendereſt and diſcreteſt hand. And he that would make too diligent an inquiſition may fear to be brought into one himſelf; much more muſt that Nation be near deſtruction and drawing home, when the fatal and deadly ſins of it are skin'd and healed ſlightly, as by the flattering Prophets of Old, till there be no healing, as the Spirit elſewhere ſpeaks.

For this of ours, to ſearch into whoſe Sores and confeſs them, it is that we are gathered together this day; though it be true of us as well in regard of ſins as puniſhments, what I ſay ſpake of his in the days of Hezekiah, from the ſole of the foot to the crown of the head it is full of wounds and bruſes and putrifying Sores; The whole head is ſick and the heart is faint.

Yet ſearch; I intend not into the Diſtempers of the head and nerves of the Rulers and Magiſtrates that give motion to the whole Body; 'tis not for this Aſſembly.

And Secondly, Indeed ſearch I need not into the outward Sores of groſſer ſins, which break out in the Body of the People, they are all viſible enough, to every man's view and Conſcience.

But the inward corruption of the Blood and Spirits; that is, of Religion and Worſhip of God, which is the cauſe of all thoſe other Diſtempers. Theſe I rather deſire you to make enquiry of.

Firſt, Becauſe it more properly belongs to this Auditory to ſearch into it, who are as the Liver and Heart the Fountain and Ciſtern of both; (for the Prieſts lips are to preſerve knowledge, and the People to take the Law at their mouths; *Mal.*2.7.) and from us eſpecially have all thoſe Veins and Arteries their original which carry and diſperſe all the corrupt Blood and Spirits through the whole Body of the Nation.

And Secondly, Alſo becauſe it is the corruption therein which our Prophet doth firſt and principally and in a manner point out, in this Chapter the firſt from the 4*th. ver.* to the 7*th.* and ſo warrants me to apply what is found like to it, to this Nation as the object of their ſearch; as the cauſe why God did not deſire them, and the cauſe of ruine threatned.

For indeed Thirdly, Nothing makes Chriſt to loath a Church that once received pure Religion and undefiled from him, (as Jeſus ſpeaks,) as pure Blood and Spirits, then corruption herein, as you may ſee by thoſe 7. Epiſtles of his writ ſince he went to Heaven, Revel. 2. and 3. Chap. for this is the corruption of the Vitals, for the life lies in the Blood, and if it be reſtored and then kept pure, outward Blains will ſoon ſhale off.

Let us then view the ſtate of Religion and God's Worſhip which this our Prophet found in Judah, and take we his diſcovery or direction for us to ſearch ours.

Firſt, Flat and plain Idolaters ex profeſſo, we find unpurged out of that ſtate; for which God will ſtretch his hand at the inhabitants to cut off them, who before were not cut ſhort, ver. 4.

Which

Which Idolatry is laid open in Three things.

Firſt in having Reliques of Baal, Idolatrous Images Altars and Rites for his Worſhip.

Secondly, In having Prieſts alſo the Inſtruments of it, both Chemarim, (ſo called from their heat, as Kamar ſignifies,) their zeal to ſeduce others, and their activeneſs to propagate Idolatry as Expoſitors note. And 2. Prieſts, that is ordinary Chaplains in their Houſes.

Thirdly, Their Idolatry practiced in worſhipping the Hoſt of Heaven, and in the night, and ſo in ſecret, (for the time of it,) though on tops of Houſes.

I ſhall not need bid you go ſearch for theſe corruptions, your Conſciences I dare ſay, have had an eye upon Popiſh Altars, Crucifixes, Indulgences, (called by ſome (as here,) Relicks too; but of Baal) upon the Jeſuites alſo more hot than ere the Chemarims not ſeducers only but incendaries of the ſtate; ſuch Spirits as enflame and make every where the Blood ſo hot, as they caſt Nations into burning Fevers, civil Diſſentions; and the Secular Prieſts with them; for the purging of both which, our State wiſely hath preſcribed Bleeding. And their worſhipping the Hoſt of Heaven, the Army of glorious Martyrs, and Saints and Angels; and a breaden Hoſt alſo, no man can be ignorant of; for it is practic'd not as in the night, as with them; but as in the day.

The Second ſort he inſtanceth in are not Idolaters ex profeſſo; but they pretended the ſame reformed Religion eſtabliſhed, they ſwore by God, that is, worſhipped him (for ſo you all know Swearing by God is put to ſignifie) and yet ſwore by Malchan alſo; retaining correſpondency with both and happily endeavouring to reconcile both. Search if you find not thoſe that do ſo with us, that would jumble Light and Darkneſs, by little and little bring in a twilight in opinions firſt, which the midnight will certainly follow; who to that end revive things left out by our reformers as ſuperſtitious and which uſhered in Popery at firſt; and who do it perhaps to ſimbolize and comply with Popery to make the tranſmutation the more eaſy.

The Third ſort are thoſe that were turn'd back from the Lord, Apoſtates either in opinion or practice, of truth profeſſed once and acknowledge, and if in opinion, then in practice; for no man is better than his judgment, many are worſe; and opinions that overthrow the practice of Religion, are worſe than the groſſeſt actual ſins, by how much an act of Treaſon is leſs than a Law permitting it or an opinion that it may be lawful. And when men are reduced to prove the firſt principles laid by Glorious Martyrs and Apoſtles, it is a ſign of great and high and irrecoverable fall in ſome, Heb. 6. 1, 2, ver. 4. compared.

However if we retain the opinions, yet for the practice of Godlineſs, and as to the approbation of it; Evil men wax worſe and worſe. Compare but theſe times with the infant times of our firſt Reformation; Queen Maries fires did heat England, and the examples of the bleſſed men then ſealing the truth with their Bloods, left behind it a general approbation of their ways and thoſe duties of godlineſs which they did profeſs and practice. Spiritual preaching was then prized, men might go far to hear Sermons, and repeat them to their Families and be reverenced. Men might have profeſſed the fear of God in the utmoſt ſtrictneſs of it, and have made conſcience of their ways and not have been nicknamed, might have pleaded for the Sabbath, and Sanctified it in the utmoſt ſtrictneſs, ſpent it wholly in Heavenly exerciſes, (as our Homelies words are,) and not have been accuſed of Judaiſm. But the memory of thoſe godly men and their ways is now worn out, and a Generation is come on that knew not thoſe Joſephs, and now their Brethren that worſhip God after the ſame way that they did, are cried down.

If groſs ſins be to be ſpoken againſt, and ſinners puniſht, men indeed ſeem to ſtrike, but 'tis but with a dul and a faint blow with the back of the Sword; but if but a hair be to be pared off of a godly man's hand, men turn the edge and ſtrike with all their might.

And whereas Drunkenneſs and Prophaneſs, contempt of God and goodneſs, may paſs and travel through the World, having neither paſport of Law or Conſcience to ſecure or countenance it; Godlines under the ſuſpition of being a factious Spy, is every where ſtopt, examined, (though it have a paſport of conformity mity to ſhew for it ſelf,) yea and is ſometimes whipt out of town for a runagate.

Nay is it not like Sampſon brought up upon Stages, which are often the Devils Pulpits, though under another viſor to make the Philiſtins ſport; yea ſet up as a mark to be ſhot at out of God's place, (The Pulpit,) and Puritaniſm ſet up as the ſtalking-horſe to ſtand behind while they ſhoot through the Loyns of it.

Men are not only turn'd from the Lord (as in the Prophet here,) but turn'd againſt him.

The Fourth and laſt ſort that Zephaniah ſpeaks of, are thoſe, who were never of any Religion, that have not ſought God, nor enquired for him, but live in this World without God, as Atheiſts and ignorant Perſons, that have no knowledge nor enquire they after any; and Civil Perſons that neglect calling upon God and regard not the holy duties wherein he is to be ſought; Gallioes that care for none of theſe things; and to ſearch for ſuch in the Kingdom were to ſearch out Trees in the Wood, the whole World is full of them; nay rather go and run through the ſtreets, as God bad Jeremy, Jer, 5. 1. 2. and ſee if you can find a man that ſeeks after God, in compariſon of multitudes do not, or a man who is inquiſitive after him in his Ordinances, as the Church was in the Canticles, Chap. 5. ver. 6. Nay run through the Corners of the Kingdom, (you may ſee 1000. of Villages where People ſit ſtill in darkneſs and the ſhadow of death, and if happily they ſhould ſeek after God it muſt be by groping, as Paul ſays of the Heathen, Acts 17. 27. and indeed how ſhould they, for as Paul ſays, Rom. 10. 14. How ſhall they call on him of whom they have not believed or known? And how ſhould they know and believe in him unleſs they have heard? And how ſhall they hear without a Preacher? But have they not all heard? Yes the Sound, (as the Apoſtle ſays,) But to ask one Queſtion more, How ſhould they Preach unleſs they be ſent? I mean to their Livings, and reſide upon them over the Souls of men, in which not men, but God hath made them overſeers; no wonder if Iſrael be ſaid to be without God, if without a teaching Prieſt, 2 Cor. 15. 2, 3. not a radeing Prieſt only, but a teaching, who may explain the word of life. As a School-maſter doth not teach a Scholar that only reads his leſſon to him, but that alſo opens it; Why then is there a want of ſuch Miniſters to inſtruct the People? Is it that Chriſt who when he aſcended gave gifts unto men for the work of the Miniſtry, and not only to convert and to ſet in at firſt but to build up his Saints, Epheſ. 4. 8. 12. hath yet been ſtraight-handed towards this Church of ours in dealing out gifts to men, or not to men enough, as Labourers to be thruſt forth into his Vineyard? Or is it that the chiefeſt fruit of Chriſt's Aſcenſion and main Legacies left behind him was bare reading? None of theſe things can be affirmed without undervaluing both his goodneſs and the power and efficacy of his Aſcention. Why then it lies on us; That the lights God hath ſet up and are full of fuel, Oyl and lightſome matter, as Learning, Gifts, &c. remain Cæca Lumina, or not diſperſed as your Lights in your Streets are in a dark night, fixed in their proper Candleſticks. It was one of the firſt works good Jehoſaphat did, 2 Cor. 17. Firſt, as to plant forces in all the Cities of Judah, and ſet Gariſons in the Land of Judah, and Ephraim, which Aſa his Father had taken, ver. 2. So alſo in the Third year he ſent both Levites and Princes, to teach through all the Cities, and they went about throughout all the Cities of Judah and taught the People, ver. 9. Well, And what was the iſſue of this? Fear fell upon all the Kingdoms about and they made no War, ver. 10. His Gariſons of Prieſts teaching and Princes backing it with Authority, were a greater ſtrength and fence to his Kingdom than all his Subjects; and they will keep a Kingdom ſecure from invaſion, for they are the Chariots and Horſe-men of Iſrael, which in thoſe days were the chief Munition, as Horſe-men and Guns are now.

And had we had that care to have fortified every Village, (in this plenty of able men,) which our fore Fathers took and wean from Popery; the Souls of Millions had not been left expoſed to the devouring Lion the Devill, and the Jeſuites who are his Janizaries, as they have been, nor ſhould we have needed to fear Invaſions as now we do; but ſhould have been a Terror to all round about us, as they are now to us; and had there not been Auxiliary and Subſidiary Preachers who have born the heat of the day, being graciouſly admitted by Authority, who had been

ſwallowed

ſwallowedup ere now, and yet inquire if ſome have not cried them down as they uſe to do Mercenary Soldiers, as dangerous unto the Church, and that will prove fatal unto the inhabitants.

Neither is this all the cauſe of our Peoples not ſeeking God; but if men preach yet winnow their Sermons, and ſee how much Chafe you ſhall find among a few Corns, ('tis Jeremies compariſon, Jer. 23. 28.) And when men ſow Chaſe what Seed can be expected? Or what Bleſſing by dew from Heaven to come upon it? Or if men preach more ſolidly, yet ſtill paſſing by the great things of the Goſpel; the way and ſignes of Faith towards Chriſt, and Repentance towards God, which yet the great Doctor of the Gentiles, Paul makes the ſum of all his Sermons expreſly, Acts 20. 21. and the reaſon is becauſe often indeed in theſe things (even ſuch as was Nicodemus, who was a teacher in Iſrael,) are yet as blind hearers as they were. Who ſo blind as my Meſſenger, (ſays God by Iſay,) whoſe name is yet a ſeer; Chap. 42. ver. 19. ſo blind as they judge not of colours, Color omnibus unus, as he ſaid in the dark. And ſay they all the People are holy, Numbers 16. 3. which ſends men quick and alive in their own conceits to Hell, and with the flattery of univerſal Grace betrays them hood-winckt to deſtruction; (whereas that Prophet that is God's mouth is to ſeperate between the pretious and the vile. As God ſpake to Jeremy, Chap. 15. v. 19.) which opinion where engendred muſt needs make men regardleſs of ſeeking God ſeeing they are told they are good Chriſtians already.

Or laſtly, If they do preach thoſe things yet not living anſwerably; My Covenant (ſays God, Mal. 2. 6.) was with Levi whilſt both the Law of truth was in his mouth and he walked with me in equity, and he then turned many to Righteouſneſs, but they being departed out of the way and cauſing many to ſtumble by ill and ſlanderous lives, therefore I have made you contemptible and baſe before all the People. The Clergy of England complain much of contempt. See here the cauſe of it and all the Riches and Honour you can cloath and load your ſelves with, cannot vindicate men from it; but that which makes our ſteps beautifull, and perſons honourable, is, to preach the Goſpel and to live accordingly.

And now my Brethren, To conclude this ſearch, if the Blood and Spirits in which lies the life of this Kingdom ſhall be found upon ſearch thus corrupted and weak, and not having their due motion throughout the whole, we may either give it for dead; or at leaſt fear that the death and deſtruction, (which you ſee in the like caſe throughout the Chapter he ſo peremtorily threatens, v. 7. cutting off all diſputes to the contrary, hold thy peace, &c. ſays he againſt Judah; though as then all his meek ones he had in the Earth, as the Text ſhews, were found therein,) is not far off our Nation. For beſides his general rule given Jer. 5. 9. Shall not my Soul be avenged on ſuch a Nation? God hath and can have when he will a People that ſhall bring forth more fruit than we have done; who are alſo at the beſt but Branches of the wild-olive grafted in, Rom. 11. 17. In the ſtead of this Nation, the example of which I lay afore you who were the natural. And if God ſpared not the natural branches, take heed leſt he ſpare not thee, ver. 20. But yet God's Judgments are unſearchable, and his ways paſt finding out, ver. 33. paſt tracing, for he keeps not always in regard of time and manner, the ſame track of puniſhment, to ſhew the depth of his Wiſdom, as he there ſpeaks.

I have done with the Nation collectively taken.

Let me now turn my ſpeech to every particular perſon that hears me this day, In the fear of a decreed deſtruction, as it follows in the 7th. ver. of the firſt Chapter of our Prophet Zeph. God having in all likelyhood bidden his gueſts, (as he there ſpeaks,) who are making themſelves ready, and in hopes have devoured us allready. Let us I ſay in the fear of this, every particular man come home to himſelf; Search your ſelves, O, Nation, that is every man apart.

For indeed this duty of ſearching is the foundation and corner ſtone of true repentance. Thus Lament. 3. 40. Let us ſearch and try our ways and turn unto the Lord; he that is in the wrong way turns never out of it till by enquiry he finds he is in the wrong, and therefore Travellers enquire often of the way and ſo ſhould we.

Only

Only then in the Second place, It is and muſt be a ſearching of our ſelves the Prophet calls you to, not to ſearch into the common faults of Kingdoms and of the State to the end to complain of them as many do, and overlook their own; No, it is the Prophets complaint. Jer. 8. 6. No man repented, ſaying what have I done; but the Prodigal when he repented came home to himſelf.

Yea Thirdly, And this is moſt ſeaſonable and requiſite in time of common danger, and when publick faſtings are enjoyned, and when men are called thus to gather together then to ſearch; therefore both are joyned here and in 1 Kings 8. 38. If a Famine be in the Land, or Enemy beſiegeth; what Prayer ſhall be made by any man, (that is, by any man ſingly and apart; for you are to pray privately as well as publickly on ſuch an occaſion,) which ſhall know every man the plague of his own heart; (mark it,) Then Lord hear, O God and forgive and do, &c.

For Firſt, God hears not the prayers made till then, for the Prieſt prayed and offered Sacrifice for his own ſins as for the people, Heb. 5. 3.

Secondly, God forgives not till then, for God in pardoning he muſt have the Glory of his Juſtice which hath been provoked, and the expence of the riches of his Mercy that he lays out in pardoning known and acknowledg'd ſins. He muſt have a particular reckoning with every man, firſt that they may know what their debt is, and what is forgiven, that although God looſe the debt he may not looſe his kindneſs in forgiving it.

Thirdly, Becauſe (as there,) God gives and doth to every man according to his ways, whoſe heart he knows; that is, God he ſearcheth your hearts, and accordingly deals with particular men in time of common Judgments according to their particular ways; for Judgments which you call common yet light upon particular perſons. And as in common for national ſins, ſo on this and that particular Perſon according to his particular ways; for a Conſumption decreed overflows with righteouſneſs. Iſai. 60. 22. and therefore as to remove it in common, National ſins are to be ſearched into, ſo becauſe it lights with righteouſneſs on particulars, every man is to ſearch his own perſonal ſins, and by ſweeping every man his own door the Street is cleanſed, and ſo the Judgment removed. The Ninivites, (of whom Chriſt ſays they repented at the preaching of Jonah,) upon occaſion of that publick Faſt proclaimed by their Prince, did not only keep a general Faſt and cried mightily unto God. But that Edict 'tis ſpecially urged, Yea, let them turn every one from his evil way, Jonah 3. 8. and the event was, God ſaw that they turned from their evil way, and God repented of the evil, ver. 10.

If now you ask what you are to ſearch in your ſelves. I Anſwer, into your ſins and eſtates before God; Search O Nation not to be deſired. Now it is ſin alone that takes Gods heart off from us, and that cauſeth him to have no pleaſure in us.

Let every man therefore go home and commune with his own heart, unlock it, and ſearch into all the written Evidences and Records of his own conſcience which haply have not been lookt into ſince the firſt writing of them; and to help you to order thoſe confuſed reckonings, give out to every particular Commandment its ſeveral bills.

Thou that haſt been a ſwearer, think what a fearful bill the Third Commandment will bring in againſt thee, of whom God hath ſaid that he will not hold guiltleſs for taking his name in vain.

Thou that haſt been a Sabbath breaker, think what a reckoning the Fourth will bring in, concerning which God hath given thee a particular Memento, Remember thou keep holy the Sabbath-day; in thoughts, words, actions, which it may be thy conſcience puts thee in remembrance alſo of, and yet thou ſhuteſt thine eyes as they are ſaid to do from the Sabbath, Ezek. 22. 26. Take heed leſt God ſware againſt thee, Thou ſhalt never enter into his reſt, Heb. 4. 18. which Heb. 5. 9. is called The Sabbath of the People of God, σαββατισμον.

Think what innumerable ſins of others Pupils or People entruſted to thee; Souls murdered by thy ill example or negligence to inſtruct them, the 6th. Commandment will bring in with this Foot of the account, Their blood, (their Souls blood,) will I require at thy hands, Ezek. 3. 18 to 20.

Think how many ſtand on the file of the Seventh, how many Millions of thoughts ſacrificed to ſpeculative Adultery if not the fact it ſelf, or mans ſin committed, which latter the Apoſtle Paul calls, Rom. 1. 24. defileing their bodies, ἐν ἑαυτοῖς, in or by themſelves; and O think how often! with this ſentence at the end. The Lord knows how to reſerve the unjuſt to the day of judgment to be puniſht, eſpecially them that walk after the luſt of uncleanneſs, 2 Peter. 2. 10.

Turn over the vaſt heap of thy actions, ſift them, ſee how few faithful prayers thou canſt find amongſt them; how few gracious ſpeeches among as many ſins as Sands.

Yea, unravel all thy life and untwiſt each action, and ſee how many ſins in regard of many aggravations are woven but in one.

Go down into the Treaſury of thy thoughts,(as the Scripture calls them, Matt. 12. 35. for the abundance of them and worth in them;) think with thy ſelf if they ſhould be melted and tryed, as one day God will do every work by fire, 1 Cor. 3. 13. that when all the droſs of Covetous, Proud, Adulterous, Envious Blaſphemous fooliſh thoughts as Chriſt muſters them and calls them, Mark 7. 21. are abſtracted and taken out, how little Gold there remains or thoughts of any worth; ſo Solomon ſays, a Fools heart is little worth, Prov. 10. 20. So feel the pulſe of thy deſires and affections of all thy deſires, joyes, &c. ſee how quickly and ſtrongly it beats to what is evil, how dully, faintly, yea, not at all to what is good.

Bolt and ſift out the meaning and end in every affection thought and action, and ſee how ſelf love, pleaſure, credit, eaſe, is the Finis Architectonicus, that ſets all a work, takes all and pays all.

Obſerve what the motives and bribes to gratify ſelf within thee are, which thy heart takes ere it ſtirs to any thing is good.

Trace and ſent out all the windings, ſhifts and turnings of thy thoughts, and inward diſcourſing to colour over evil.

Laſtly, Caſt up what thy Receipts have been, what wit, learning, good example of other men, light of conſcience, motions of the Spirit, taſtings of the heavenly gifts, bleſſed Ordinances and opportunities thou haſt been made partaker of; and reckon thy expences for God, and thy trading by theſe, and what thou gainedſt for him by them.

And after you have done this, let the next enquiry be, in what eſtate you are before God; whether in an eſtate of favour, which is the thing the Prophet puts to their conſideration, and ſearch whether to be deſired or no; that is in ſuch an eſtate wherein God's deſire or acceptance is towards thee; and ſo he ſpeaks of the impenitent in the Nation, as oppoſed to the meek in 3 verſes who are in eſtate of deſire and gratious acceptance with God, Cant. 7. 10. I am my beloveds and he is mine, and his deſire is towards me; and Ep. 1. 6. he hath made us gratiouſly accepted; ſo as though they have ſins that make them in themſelves not to be deſired, yet God's deſire is to them; now that of all other is great controverſy, which yet is to be feared, whether thou art in this ſtate of favour with God; few Schollars beat their heads about fearing to live in that eſtate they are afraid to die in.

Now for the deciſion of the controverſy, reſt not only in ſearching the Church Book, and there finding you are Baptized, in the 16. Mark 16. He that believes and is Baptized, ſays Chriſt, he ſhall be ſaved, but he that believes not ſhall be damned. Suppoſe he be Baptized, whether think you will Chriſt's words prove true or no? As in Simon Magus they did; God putting no more difference between a Turk and Unregenerate man though Baptized, then of Old he did between a Jew and a Heathen, Jer. 9. laſt, the one is uncircumciſed in the Fleſh, the other, the Jew, in the heart; for as not Circumciſion, ſo not by the ſame reaſon Baptiſm doth avail ought but a new Creature in Chriſt, Gal. 6. 15.

But ſearch you this ſacred Regiſter of Heaven, which is the great inqueſt of life and death; where all the evidences and inditements to acquit the Godly or condemn the wicked lie.

And there you ſhall find that he that hath ſuffered in the Fleſh hath ceaſed from ſin, 1 Pet. 4. 2. therefore he that lies in any known ſin cannot be ſaved.

There

There you ſhall find if you make credit or preferment or any thing but God's glory your end, you cannot believe, John 5. 44. How can you believe whilſt you ſeek honour one of another, and not the glory which comes of God only.

There you ſhall find that flatterers and time-ſervers are not the ſervants of Chriſt, Galat. 1. 10. If I yet pleaſed men I ſhould not be the Servant of Chriſt.

There you ſhall find that he who loves not the Lord Jeſus, he is accurſed, 1 Cor. laſt, And Peter loveſt thou me, feed my ſheep; you know who ſaid ſo, he that muſt judge you alſo.

There you ſhall find that he that hates his Brother, eſpecially when he makes conſcience of ſin and duty, that he hates God whom he hath not ſeen who gave that Law he makes conſcience of, 1 John 4. 20.

There you ſhall find that he that ſlights and deſpiſeth any of God's Commandments and ways appointed him to walk ſhall dye, Prov. 19. 16.

That he who neglects calling upon God is a worker of iniquity, Pſal. 53. 4. for ſinning will either make him leave praying, or praying leave ſinning.

Yea, and to make conſcience of this not publikely only, but privately, for when a Spirit of ſupplication is powered out, it makes Men and Women pray apart, as Zach. 12. from 10. ver. to end compared.

Yea, and if men continue not to do ſo conſtantly, and delight not in God, they are no better than Hypocrites, Job 27. 8. with 10*th. ver.* compared. If a man ſhould take the keys of your heart, and ranſack your Cupboards and ſee what ſweet bits you delight in, he ſhould find them full of uncleanneſs, eaſe, pleaſures, &c. rather than God, and communion with him in his Ordinances.

And if upon this ſearch thy eſtate be found by thee to be unſound indeed, and not to be deſired or reſted in, be not ſhy or afraid to judge ſo of it, and to paſs ſentence upon thy ſelf accordingly. For he tells them, God who is greater than your hearts doth ſo judge of them; that is, think of your ſelves as God doth, tune your judgments to his. Which is ſo far from putting you off from God, as it is a neceſſary preparation to coming into favour with him; for as he that is a Fool muſt think himſelf one ere he can be wiſe, 1 Cor. 3. 18. So he that will be juſtified muſt firſt apprehend himſelf condemned, Rom. 4. 5. He that believes in him that juſtifies the Ungodly, his Faith is imputed to him for Righteouſneſs; a man in Law cannot have a ſentence of Pardon untill he be firſt judged and caſt and ſentence paſt upon him as guilty.

And therefore it is the greateſt kindneſs can be done you by others, and the greateſt wrong you can do your ſelves; For others to tell you your eſtate, is good and bleſſed when it is not, or you not to be apprehenſive of the truth herein. For Pſal. 7. 11. 'tis ſaid, God is angry with the wicked every day if we turn not, hath prepared his inſtruments of death.

The next thing in the Text is, to ſeek the Lord, for there is no continuing in that eſtate thou yet ſtandeſt in. And thou haſt no way to eſcape but by ſeeking of him and turning to him.

As that wiſe King in the Parable, Luke 14. 32. when by conſultation he had found that the King coming againſt him would be too ſtrong, he ſends out an Embaſſage and deſires conditions of peace; and ſo muſt thou from God. Send up prayers day and night as Meſſengers for peace to the Court of Heaven, and to obtain of Chriſt, that thoſe great preparations made againſt thee be ſtopt; and know that God will be ſought too of all thoſe ſhall have peace at his hands; for he doth not caſt Pardons away which coſt him the blood of his Son to purchaſe them, he will have them prized to the utmoſt. Now that we eſteem little worth, which is not worth the ſeeking for, when 'tis to be had for ſeeking.

Yea, and ſo unalterably God ſtands upon it and looks for this, as that though he hath engaged himſelf by never ſo faithful a promiſe to ſhew mercy unto his Church, yet as Ezek. 36. ver. 36. he ſays, I will nevertheleſs, I will be enquired for by the houſe of Iſrael for this, &c.

And he looks not for this only from us, when yet his word is firſt paſſed to do it; but he looks for it from his Son Chriſt on our behalf, to be ſought by him, who according to his Godhead is equal to his Father; yea, and of him, who for the performance of thoſe things, alſo purchaſed all God means to do for us, yet he muſt ask. Yea in the 17*th* of John he asks for his own Glory he had before the World was. In Pſal. 2. 8. Ask of me the Heathen, &c. which yet were his own by purchaſe. Much more therefore he requires this of one that is at that diſtance from him, who is to him but as the Chaff, and Wax before the fire, and duſt of the ballance; as we are Creatures, and who beſides are Enemies to him, until he be reconciled to us, and we to him.

Yea, and he reſolves to be ſought in earneſt unto, not with a faint and a lazy ſeeking. Luke 13. 24. Strive to enter in, for many ſhall ſeek and not be able. If you get Peace of him, you muſt wreſtle for it; ζητεῖν, to ſeek, is too low an expreſſion; wreſtle as Jacob did all night, and with all your might too; put to all your ſtrength, yea, uſe violence, Matt. 11. 12. beſiege Heaven with vollies of Prayers and Tears. Jer. 29. 13. They ſhall ſeek and find me, when they ſeek with all their hearts.

And Faith on his graciouſneſs and readineſs to pardon, as a foundation of the ſeeking of him is abſolutely neceſſary; and ſuch a God, thou upon ſuch ſeeking of him, ſhalt find him to be. Do not therefore now conceive him to be of ſo harſh and furious a diſpoſition, as that there is no dealing with him, no coming near him; for though he be thus great a God, yet he profeſſeth, Iſay 27. 5. Fury is not in me towards one who deſires to be at peace with me. And though he be thus ſtrong, yet take hold of his ſtrength, as there, by Faith, and then out of Faith Pray to him, by Prayer ſeek to him, and wreſtle with him, and thou ſhalt have power over him, as Jacob had. Then he is gracious; and he ſhall pray to him, and God will be favourable, and he ſhall ſee his face with joy. Job 33. 24, and 26.

If you ask, What diſpoſition of heart, together with believing, will conduce moſt to overcome him? I Anſwer, in the Third place, Seek to him in Meekneſs; that is, lowlineſs and ſubmiſſion: As firſt, acknowledging thy deſervedneſs to be deſtroyed, as they Ezek. 36. 31. and thy Contentedneſs to be ſo, if it may more glorifie him; which Levit. 26. 41. is called Accepting of a man's due puniſhment, putting a man's ſelf into his hands, and referring himſelf to him; as David, 2 Sam. 15. 26. If he ſaies of me (ſays he) I have no delight in thee; Behold here am I, let him do with me as ſeemeth good to him. And to be content to wait and attend patiently, if at any time (as ſaith the Apoſtle) God will be gracious to thee, and put thy mouth in the duſt. And thus God will be ſought to humbly, and as a Traytor guilty afore God and obnoxious to him, Rom. 3. 19. that ſo his abſolute Free grace may appear, and be acknowledged. Ezek. 36. 31. they loath themſelves, or as others read it, Judge themſelves worthy to be deſtroyed; and why? for be it known to you, that not for your ſakes I do this, that is, to pardon you; but for his Name ſake, as verſ. 22. of the ſame Chapter.

And this is the greateſt violence you can uſe, it is a laying hold of his ſtrength; indeed it overcomes an ingenuous man, much more God, the God of all Grace and Mercy. It overcame David, and it was Shimei's Policy, as the only way to deal with him, 2 Sam. 19. 20. who, when he ſaw David would be too hard for him, he cunningly comes and puts himſelf into his hand. And ſo Benhadad's Servants, knowing the Kings of Iſrael to be merciful Kings, adviſed him their Maſter, when they ſaw he and they muſt fall into his hand, to go with Ropes about their necks, teſtifying thereby there acknowledgment, that if he would hang them up he might, 1 Kings 20. 31. and they came by his Chariot ſide beſeeching, and obſerved his words that fell from him, and waited diligently to ſee if he would incline to Mercy; and this overcame hard hearted Ahab.

And thus now go thou to God; Fall down upon thy knees afore him, and with a heart broken to water, acknowledge (as Shimei) thy Treaſon and Rebellions againſt him who never did thee hurt; and acknowledge, with a Rope ready fitted to thy neck by thy own hands (as they, Benhadad's Servants wore;) that is, confeſſing confeſſing that if he will hang thee up, he may. He ſhall need no other Judge to condemn thee than thy ſelf; no other Indictment, but thine own confeſſion; and to ſhew, that he needed not to ſend for thee and hale thee to Execution, thou preſenteſt thy ſelf to him. Tell him, that he may ſhew his Juſtice on thee, if he will; and preſent thy naked Breaſt, thy hateful Soul, as a But and Mark for him, if he pleaſe to ſhoot his Arrows into, and ſheath his Sword in. Only deſire him to remember, that he ſheathed his Sword firſt in the bowels of his Son, *Zach.*13.7. when He made his Soul an offering for Sin.

Take words unto thy ſelf, as Hoſeah bids, Chap.14.2. (he loves to be entreated.) That if his end be, that his Juſtice ſhould be ſatisfied on thee; ſay, that his Son hath done it, and that more fully than thou ever ſhalt, if thou go preſently to Hell. He may caſt thee into Priſon; but ſay, Thou art not able ever to pay the debt: ſo as he may, if he pleaſe, loſe nothing by thee if he ſaves thee. Nay, he ſhall advance the glory of his Grace in one that will be ever thankful, and is already ſorry for offending him.

Plead for thy ſelf, it is for thy life, That what ſhall he do in damning of thee, but break a leaf that is broken already, as Job pleads. Job 13.25. Purſue dry Stubble, as there; Chaff, as here in the Text. Say, Thou art not a fit match for him to ſhew his power in.

Urge him, That there are but few in the World that do ſeek him, and if he turn away thoſe that do, he ſhall have fewer. Who would fear him, if there were not Mercy with him. Soft words pacifie wrath, *Prov.*15.1. and ſoft tongues break the bones; and ſo a meekned Spirit, a heart of Rocks; much more his who hath bowels of Compaſſion in him.

Oh! for God to hear a poor broken Soul thus truly bemoaning it ſelf, how doth it ſtir him, make his bowels work within him! See what himſelf ſaies *Jer.*31. 18,19,20. When I heard Ephraim bemoaning himſelf, I remember him ſtill, my bowels are troubled for him. Every groan went to the heart of him; if he ſhould have damn'd him, it would have troubled him all his daies.

But withal, you muſt be ſure (which is the Fourth) to ſeek Righteouſneſs: Both of Juſtification, God's Righteouſneſs, as David often calls it, Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, The Lord our Righteouſneſs, as the Prophet. A Righteouſneſs out of thy ſelf, and laid hold upon by Faith, as Rom. 3, 4, and 5th Chapters, you have urged as being witneſſed unto both by the Law and the Prophets. And truly, this is God's ſtrength, whereby his Heart is ſtrengthned to forgive and receive Sinners. So in *Iſai.*53.1. To whom is the Arm of the Lord revealed, that is, Chriſt, of whom he ſpeaks throughout that Chapter. This Righteouſneſs, when revealed by an Interpreter, Job. 33.23. to a poor Soul, and ſought by him, and pleaded by him; then God is gracious to him, and ſaies, Deliver him, for I have found a Ranſom, which this Soul ſeeks me in; for he will render unto man his Righteouſneſs which belongs to him, and was wrought for him to juſtifie him.

Secondly, Of Sanctification. For, I ſay, The work of Righteouſneſs is peace. For ſo long as thy ſins remain how can there be peace. And *Iſai.*55.6. Seek ye the Lord, &c. but let the wicked man forſake his way; that is, change his outward converſe and courſe; and unrighteous man forſake his thoughts, that is, get his heart changed alſo to have new deſires, purpoſes, ends and affections, and he will have mercy upon him. And get a Righteouſneſs contrary unto thy former waies and thoughts; which if you ask, what that true Righteouſneſs is? I Anſwer, 1. That true and new Righteouſneſs in thy heart thou muſt ſeek, is, a new bent bias and temper of heart, rightly diſpoſing, ſwaying all the faculties and powers of it, to hate whatſoever is known or ſuſpected to be a ſin; and on the contrary, inclining them to love and delight in thoſe contrary waies of Holineſs and Righteouſneſs God hath chalked out in his Word, and all this for God's Cauſe; hating the ſin, becauſe he hates it; loving the Righteouſneſs, becauſe he loves it. This is that which in your Hearts is required; and therefore to ſeek it Secondly, In Life, is to endeavour to the utmoſt of a man's ſtrength to yield conſtant obedience to all God's Commands, and avoid the contrary. To ſeek after and delight in nothing more than when thou canſt avoid ſin, and do what is acceptable acceptable and pleaſing in God's ſight ; and to approve thy Heart to him, and grieving for nothing more than failing, and falling ſhort in what thou aimeſt at, and purpoſeſt, ſtill having it in thy eye, reſting in no pitch or meaſure of Obedience.

And without this, with what face canſt thou ſeek Pardon at his hand; for what honeſty or equity is there, that thou ſhouldſt ſeek the pardon of thy ſin·, and yet live in it, or not part with it in thy full reſolutions, and then how canſt thou open thy mouth to ask at God's hands; or, how to deſire the benefit of that All-ſufficient Righteouſneſs of Jeſus Chriſt to cover thee, and not conform to thy utmoſt endeavour to be righteous, as he is righteous, as John ſpeaks 1 John 3. 7. purging thy ſelf, as he is pure, v.7. that is, with all thy might and endeavours after it. In Luke 8.15. the good Ground is ſaid, to have, and to bring forth fruit out of an honeſt heart; and ſo muſt thou have.

Or Secondly, If thou hadſt the face to ſeek him, neglecting this, doſt think that God will ever pardon thee? Would a King pardon a Traytor, though he ſued never ſo humbly, if he ſaw he would be a Traytor ſtill. Thou wouldſt not pardon no man in like caſe thy ſelf.

If you plead, God hath more Mercy in him than is in a Man, for *his thoughts are not our thoughts, &c. Iſai.*55.8. I Anſwer, Yet ſtill where he expreſſeth himſelf moſt merciful, as in Exod. 34.6,7. he adds at laſt, yet by no means clearing a guilty hearted perſon, that hath a falſe and diſloyal heart towards him, and will not be ſubject to him in all things, and be content to have every thought brought to obedience.

And the Reaſon is, becauſe firſt, *There is mercy only with him that he may be feared, Pſal.*130.4. Now if he ſhould ſuffer Pardon to go out of his hand, and no change in Mens hearts to fear and obey him, there were Mercy with him to be contemned.

And Secondly, You muſt know that God's Mercy is joyned with Wiſdom alſo: for one Attribute deſtroies not another; but to pity a Rogue that continues ſo, it is fooliſh pity. God forbids it in us, and therefore will not practice it himſelf.

Now, till thou turneſt from ſin, and chooſeſt the things that pleaſe him he will not delight in thee. *Iſa.*56.4,5. For thus ſaith the Lord unto the Eunuchs that keep my Sabbath, and chooſe the things that pleaſe me, and take hold of my Covenant: even unto them will I give in mine houſe, and within my walls, a place, and a name, better than of Sons and of Daughters, &c. He inſtanceth in Sabbath; becauſe that day, if ſanctified as it ought, in Thoughts, Speeches, and Actions, is the darling and delight of the Lord, *Iſai.*58.ult. Now if thou makeſt it thy darling day too, and ſuch a day as this of Faſting and Prayer, or of thoſe Ordinances which in his Word he manifeſts his heart is for. If thine be for them alſo, Prayer, holy Conference, &c. then he comes to delight in thee, as there, and otherwiſe not; for can two walk together as friends (ſaies the Prophet,) and not agree? hating, what he diſcovers he hates, &c.

Therefore reſolve either to leave every known Sin, and ſubmit to every known Duty; or elſe never look to find favour and mercy from God.

Now the laſt Clauſe and Condition the Prophet puts in, is to do before the Decree come forth. There is a ſpace, as Solomon obſerves, Eccl. 8. 11. between ſentence or decree, and the execution of it; and that time, is ſpace to repent, *Rev.*2.21. I gave her ſpace to repent. Now what, and when God will decree againſt thee, and ſerve an Execution upon thee, thou knowſt not; and thou doſt not know what Decree is bringing forth, as they know not what is in the Womb till it be born. *Prov.*27.1. Thou knoweſt not what a day may bring forth, ſo as thou neither knoweſt what, nor when an execution may be ſerved upon thee, he may ſerve an Execution of Death ere to morrow; as upon him, Thou fool this night; Death's Serjeants may arreſt thee, and bring thee before the Judge; and therefore take our Saviour's counſel, given in the like caſe *Matt.*5 25. Agree with thine Adverſary whilſt thou art in the way, leſt at any time he deliver thee to the Judge, and the Judge to the Officer, and he caſt thee into priſon. And how near this Serjeant from God is thou knowſt not. James tells thee, James 5.9. Behold the Judge is at the door, and then his Officer Death is not far off.

But

But if God ſhould ſpare thee yet, and let thee live, yet in the mean time an execution of hardneſs of heart, and blindneſs of mind may be ſerved on thee as on the Phariſees, John 12.40. He hath blinded their eyes, and hardned their heart, that they ſhould not ſee with their eyes, nor underſtand with their heart, and be converted. If not ſo, yet which is all one, a Decree paſs againſt thee, that thou ſhalt never have a Pardon granted, though thou ſhouldſt ſue for it, as againſt Eſau, who *Heb.*12. neglecting his Birthright, though he ſought to revoke it with tears he could not; and againſt the Iſraelites in the Wilderneſs, againſt whom God ſwore they ſhould never enter into his reſt, though they lived many years after.

But the moſt fearful execution of all the reſt, which all theſe tend to, is yet behind, you have it in the Text, the Anger and Wrath of the Almighty God; that is, the Child which in his Decree is conceiving, and is already quickned. *Pſal.*7.11. God is angry with the wicked every day. This Child ſtrives in his Heart every moment, ſo as he is ready every day to fall in Travel, only becauſe this Child muſt have a time fully to be come to its growth; therefore he forbears yet, ſo as in the mean while he is a preparing his Inſtruments of Death (as there) for the execution of his Anger, when his Anger ſhall be brought forth.

And to that end there is a day appointed, The day of the Lord's Anger, in the Text, which though thou knoweſt not, yet *Pſal.*37.13. God ſees this day a coming. A Birth when God's Decree brings forth anger, and thy ſin brings forth Death, James 1. 15. and that then when thou leaſt dreameſt of it, For when they ſhall ſay, Peace and ſafety, then ſudden deſtruction cometh upon them, as travel upon a Woman with Child, and they ſhall not eſcape. 1 *Theſſ.*5.3. Yea, and it ſhall be the Fierce Anger of the Lord alſo; the longer the Child goes in the Womb, the bigger. [Fierce] becauſe without mercy, James 2. 13. Judgment without mercy; called alſo pure wrath without mixture, becauſe not a drop of Mercy to moderate the fierceneſs of it.

And what art thou this fierce wrath ſhall ceaſe on, thou art but Chaff. Nahum 1.3. his Anger is a Whirlwind; a ſmall ordinary Blaſt ſcatters Chaff away, much more a Whirlwind. There is no reſiſtance, and if thou couldſt reſiſt the Whirlwind, yet there 'tis ſaid to be poured out as fire, which therefore muſt needs conſume thee; and if it rend the Rocks, melt the Hills, burns the Earth, *v.*5,6. how much more Chaff; Who can ſtand before his Indignation, who can abide the fierceneſs of his wrath?

I ſhould now, in the laſt place, ſpeak to thoſe that are already truly turned to God, the Meek of the Earth. And herein the Prophet ſeems, to act as one out of hope, to prevail with the Impenitent; yet ſeek you, ſaies he, as when that great ſin was committed, *Ezr.*9. though others were regardleſs of the danger would follow, yet every one that feared the Lord aſſembled to him, to pray and ſeek God, v.4.

Thus here doth the Prophet ſpeak to the godly amongſt them [Seek you,] as if he had ſaid, Though others do (according to their kind) go on in hardneſs of heart, to treaſure up wrath againſt the day of wrath (formerly ſpoken of by him,) yet you, who are, and profeſs your ſelves The Meek of the Earth; (which is the general title given the Saints in the Old Teſtament ſtyle, and imports all the whole of Religion,) upon whoſe hearts the Word uſeth to take impreſſion. Do you according to your kind, take and receive this Word of Exhortation with Meekneſs: Which is,

Firſt, To ſeek your God; for ſo in dangerous times he expects you ſhould, and wonders if you do not; ſo *Iſai.*59.13,14. He wondred there was no Interceſſor; (it was in evil times, as appears by the former Verſes.) God wonders not that wicked men ſhould be ſo bad; but that his People ſhould be ſo negligent, What (ſays he) have I no Children on the Earth, that upon ſuch occaſions, and ſuch Threatnins, uſe to intercede with me for the Nation they live in; where are my Noahs and Daniels. We wonder at things their not doing according to their kind, as when we ſee the Sun ſtand ſtill, or Fire not to burn, &c.

And

And Secondly, you are to ſeek Righteouſneſs and Meekneſs, as thereby to condemn and be witneſſes againſt the wicked for God; when Judgments come and condemn the reſt (as Noah did by fearing God afore hand, Heb. 11.7.) as alſo to ſave your own Souls; for as nothing but an Ark ſaved Noah, ſo nothing but Righteouſneſs can ſave you, Ezek. 14.14. if Noah, &c. be ſaved, 'tis by their own Righteouſneſs.

If you ſay you have done it already, that Anſwer will not be taken, for God though he acknowledgeth they had wrought his Judgment, yet exhorts them the more unto it againſt ſuch a time as this, when to be ſaved when the Judgment ſhould come would be ſo great a mercy, to have their lives for a pray in ſuch dear years of life; though God forgat not what they had done, ye that have, &c. ſays he, forget what was paſt, and ſeek after Righteouſneſs afreſh, as if you had never yet ſought any.

And to quicken them to it, he tells them, [ye ſhall be filled,] that is when God comes to burn up the chaffe; yet then he will ſave his wheat, for he will preſerve Seed-corn to ſow the World withal after Harveſt.

And if it ſhould be asked how it is poſſible that they ſhould be hid whilſt the Judgment is in general, conſider he hath many Chambers of his providence as Iſai. 26.20. Come my People enter into thy Chambers and hide your ſelves till my wrath overflows the Earth; then when others ſhall have no where to hide their heads, but ſhall wiſh the Rocks to cover them, ye ſhall be hid.

Yea, but you will ſay, this is but half a promiſe here, [And it may be.] But now, I had rather have God's, [It may be,] then that, [And it ſhall be,] from all the Kings of the Earth. God loves to ſpeak with the leaſt, and do with the moſt, to be better than his word; who is abundant in kindneſs and truth. Now, it is not put to ſhew any uncertainty, (ſee Junius on this place,) it is put in caſe of a certain promiſe, and yet withal to ſhew ſome difficulty in the performance of it, as when Peter ſays, the Righteous ſhall ſcarcely be ſaved.

And laſt of all, leſt any of his Saints ſhould through diſcouragement or otherwiſe be ſlack, as either to think that for their weakneſs their prayers would do no good, nor prevail with God to remember them in the evil day; or that many particular perſons ſhould deem, that there are enough beſides them to ſeek God, and they need do the leſs; he therefore bids them [All,] [ſeek the Lord all ye meek.

And God hath Chambers enough to hide you all in, and it muſt be your own Righteousneſs muſt prevail for you Ez. 14. 14. and beſides he hath need of all your voyces; as in Elections or great canvaſes a voyce caſts a matter this way or that, ſo in the great buſineſs of the Church; therefore Iſai. 37. When the Children are come to the birth, and there was no ſtrength to bring forth; Hezekiah goes a viſiting for another voyce, ſends to Iſa the Prophet, as to a Man-midwife, to come and help; but you will ſay he was a Prophet, a great Saint; know that God often ſtands upon a number, Ten in Sodom, reckoning and counting ſmall and great. The number would have caſt it, if of perſons righteous, how many Ten Thouſand in England by proportion to this number for Sodom are there we know not; now Europe is a bringing forth, and ſo the Parliament, and yet they have no ſtrength, therefore come all to help; it was never known that when all the lower Houſe on Earth did all petition to God but they prevailed; if Two agree on Earth ſays Chriſt, then much more when All. I will conclude all with that in the 3. Chapter of this prophecy, 9. God being determined to pour his anger on all the Earth, as now it may be he hath begun to do; yet he meaning to ſpare his own in thoſe general calamities; he ſays, that he will turn to them in peace, and they ſhall all call on him and ſerve him with one ſhoulder; ſo ſay I, lift up prayers with pure hands and lips, and do it All of you, and All with one conſent, and God will viſit you in mercies when he is in the way of his Judgments. And ſo let us do again this day.

The

The Second

SERMON

On ZEPH. II. 1, 2, 3.

Gather your ſelves together, yea, gather together, O Nation not deſired.

Before the decree bring forth, before the day paſs as the Chaff, before the fierce Anger of the Lord come upon you, before the day of the Lord's anger come upon you.

Seek ye the Lord, all the meek of the Earth, which have wrought his Judgment, ſeek righteouſneſs, ſeek meekneſs: it may be ye ſhall be hid in the day of the Lord's Anger.

THE Doctrine is, That in times when publick and common calamities are threatned and feared, God's People ſhould then eſpecially practice theſe Duties mentioned here. Seek the Lord, &c.

This I will demonſtrate, Firſt, In the general by Scripture and Reaſon; then Secondly, enforce the particular Duties, upon particular grounds alſo.

First, In the general; they are before publick judgments to practice holy Duties. Becauſe the promiſe of hiding being made only to the practice of them as here. And a godly man being only a wiſe man, for the fear of the Lord being the beginning of Wiſdom, and the knowledge of the holy Underſtanding, Prov. 9. 10. This is one main priviledge and benefit which he doth and may get by this his Wiſdom, to foreſee the evil and to hide himſelf, Prov. 22. 3. The wiſeman foreſees the evil and hides himſelf, when as the Simple, that is unregenerate perſon, paſſeth on and is puniſht. For indeed wherein doth Wiſdom excell folly, and what priviledge hath it above it? But in forecaſting things to come, by inſight into their cauſes and ſo accordingly uſing means to prevent them, if evil, to attain to them if good; Eccleſs. 8. 5. Who ſo keepeth the Commandment ſhall feel no evil, And why? For a wiſe mans heart diſcerneth time and judgment, the hints, nicks and opportunities; the want of which is the great miſery of all other men, ver. 6. This want of wiſdom in others, God complains of, Jer. 8. 6. That they are as a Horſe that goes on fearing no colours as foreſeeing no danger, an ſo ruſheth (as 'tis ſaid there,) into the Battel; whereas the Stork, and Crane, and Swallow, have an inſtinct of wiſdom to know the times of their removing before Winter and cold weather, take their times to build their Habitations; but ſays God, you know not the Judgments of the Lord; that is foreſee not judgments in the cauſes in like manner to hide your ſelves.

Anſwerably, in the 25*th.* of Matt. at the beginning, though they ſlept and were ſecure in the time when the Bridegroom was far off; yet when the cry and noyſe came that he was come, they trim'd their Lamps that were wiſe Virgins, and began to ſet fire to them again. In the 26*th. Iſai. ver.* 9. When thy Judgements are in the Earth, the Inhabitants of the World will learn Righteouſneſs; Now, who are the Inhabitants of the World but the meek? Here in the Text, for Matt. 5. They are the Meek to whom the promiſe of Inhabiting the Earth is made; for wicked men their own place is Hell, 1 Acts 25. and if any learn Righteouſneſs it is they, and if at any time then eſpecially; when Judgments are abroad in the Earth. But to name no more places, to enforce this by Reaſon.

Firſt, Conſider the chief end which God hath in threatning and ſending publick calamities on the World, is to purify and make his own better and fitter for Heaven; to put them upon ſeeking him, and ſeeking Righteouſneſs. As the Winter and Cold-winds are ſent for the good of the Corn and Herbs, as well as the Sunſhine days in Summer and Spring. So the Winters of calamity which the World hath ſucceſſively after days of peace and proſperity, are for the bettering of his own People. For the World is theirs, things preſent and to come. 1 Cor. 3.22. Winter choaks the Weeds, mellows the heart of the Earth, and ſo furthers the rooting and growth of the Corn. The Winds purifie and fan the Air, and cauſe the Flowers to caſt forth a pleaſing ſmell. So in meaſure doth God deal with his, Iſai. 27. 8. when firſt the Seed begins to bud forth; and though he ſtays the roughneſs of the Winds and Storms, that might blaſt, and kill and deſtroy grace in them; in the the ſame verſe, yet debate with them he doth in meaſure. And his end is to purify them, By this ſhall the iniquity of Jacob be purged; yea, and this is all his end; this is all the fruit, to take away the ſin; and ſo in the 11*th.* of Dan. 35. ver. Thoſe heavy Storms which there befalls the World, are but to purify and make white the Wiſe; God's Landreſſes, to waſh away their filth; and whiten them as men hung out and wetted to be whited by it; and as he ſends not the Rain of his word in vain, Iſai. 55. it returns not empty but accompliſheth the ends for which he ſent it. So nor ſhall theſe Storms, but he will have his end in this bleſſed effect of learning his People Righteouſneſs ere he hath done; they bring forth the quiet fruit of Righteouſneſs in the end in and to them that are exerciſed thereby. Heb. 12. 11. Now if this then be God's end which he will bring about ere he hath done; our Duty is to prevent him in it, and take out this Leſſon, and then therefore eſpecially to ſeek him and his Righteouſneſs, and make it our eſpecial aim and buſineſs. For otherwiſe we deſpiſe God in his Judgments threatned, becauſe they lead to this end, and are appointed to it; even as they do that deſpiſe his mercy, Rom. 2. 4. Which leads to Repentance; and ſo in ſtead of treaſuring up mercy againſt that evil day, whereby we might be ſpared, we ſhall treaſure up Wrath.

Secondly, Beſides that it is God's direct end and moſt principal when he brings them thus to learn them Righteouſneſs. So to avenge their quarrel as well as his own, and the wickeds miſuſing of them; yea, and for their ſakes he forbears a long while and puts up many wrongs wherein he could have righted himſelf immediately. And this muſt needs be a further engagement to his own to learn and ſeek more Righteouſneſs in, and againſt ſuch times; Deſtroy it not for their ſakes, Iſai. 65.8. he forbears the principal long for them; looſeth much glory he might preſently recover, therefore they had need pay uſe in the mean time to keep off the ſute; to bring in the more Righteouſneſs daily, and then ſeek and gather up more to pay him when the Bond is like to be preſently ſued; a Decree coming out with an Execution. And as that he thus forbears is an engagement; ſo that his coming to judge at ſuch a time is to avenge their cauſe, is much more. Now that he doth ſo is evident, Deut. 32, 35, 36. compared, where to be revenged on his Enemies, is to judge his People; which as in the next words is interpreted, is to judge for them; and for their ſakes, He ſhall repent for his Servants; and ſo 'tis called alſo pleading their cauſe, and taking vengeance for them; Jer. 51. 36. Have they not reaſon then to take part with him, when he comes purpoſely to take part with them; to walk in Righteouſneſs more eſpecially then with with him, when he comes to Judge with Righteousnes for them; to fight his Battels, when he fights theirs; to remember him in their ways, when he cometh to make inquisition for their blood and wrongs, remembring them, Psal. 9. 12.

Thirdly, If it were God's end only to avenge his own cause, yet then they are to be called forth as his witnesses, and so to joyn with him in condemning the World, in time of publick visitations; therefore Revel. 11. 1, 2. they are called Witnesses, that ver. 6. do joyn with God in smiting the Earth with Plagues; and as at the latter day, the day of the great visitation they by their works are to glorify God, and witness that the wickeds condemnation is just, 1 Pet. 2. 12. and so judge the World: So in days of lesser and more particular visitations also. And so Noah by fearing and believing God, and preparing an Ark beforehand, condemn'd the World, Heb. 11. 7. God must have some to justifie his proceedings; now he hath none but you, Isai. 43. 12. ye are my witnesses; now if you should be as unjust and unrighteous as they, as guilty and negligent and secure as they; and had as little sought God as they, and his Righteousnes, ye were disabled to be witnesses then; with what face could you do it, they might except against you, justly. And how could God take your testimony if so obnoxious as they; Testimonium qui dat, habeat, says the Law.

Nay Fourthly, He must otherwise be forced to cut you off else with the wicked; for he cannot spare you of all others, you having known his name, Amos. 3. 2. for he though a Father, yet judgeth without respect of Persons, 1 Pet. 1. 17. and if there were not a great, broad and evident difference between you and others, he would seem to be a partial and indulgent Father, which he forbidding and punishing so severely in others, as old Eli; will not be guilty of himself; yea, and therefore judgment takes hold on his own House, nay it begins there; therefore he is fain to teach his own by chastising them beforehand, Psal. 94. 12, 13, 14. that when he comes as the Judge of all the World to execute vengeance, ver. 1. 2. of that Psal. he may then spare his own, and they rest in the day of trouble, ver. 13. That as the words are God may give him rest in the day of trouble; that is, with Justice and Equity may do it. And the reason given in the 14. ver. is, because God hath a mind to spare them and not cast them off; therefore in Wisdom and Mercy he corrects them and teacheth them out of the Law, untill the pitt be dig'd for the wicked; as also, 1 Cor. 11. 32. therefore we are chastised, that we should not be condemned with the World, but hid and preserved when others are destroyed.

Fifthly, If he should spare you; yet otherwise you should not be fit men to intercede for them; which yet is your duty, and honour, for you are his remembrancers and watchmen, Isai. 62. 6. intercessors, Isai. 59. 13. such as God seeks out and would fain find ere he destroys. Ezek. 22. ult. Now it is Righteousnes extraordinarily sought that only can ingratiate you so far with him as to give you the lives of others as he did theirs to Paul who were in the Ship with him; not ordinary Courtiers, but especial Favorites they must be who prevail so far, Men greatly beloved as Daniel was; if you deliver the Island it must be by the pureness of your hands, Job. 22. ult.

First, To seek the Lord, and seeking having reference and relation to finding, Isai. 55. 6. thereby must be understood, the practice of such acts of the Soul as whereby God's favour is won and obtained against the Evil day; and because that it is made a distinct thing from seeking Righteousnes, &c. Whereby also God's Favour is to be attained; therefore seeking the Lord, I interpret to be meant those inward immediate acts and dispositions which are more immediately terminated upon him; and whereby we do ingratiate our selves with him; and then to seek Righteousnes is to practice the duties of Repentance and New Obedience, whereof Meekness is a particular branch more especially needful to times of Judgment.

Now those acts of the mind which have God for their immediate object, requisite at such times, Are,

First, To take him for your Portion and Refuge, and so all Saints have done upon such occasion in a more especial manner; so did David still when he was in any distress.

And to the Church, when under the greatest pressures that ever; In the Third of Lamentations, from the beginning to ver 17. Yet still the Lord is my portion saith my Soul, therefore I will hope in him; ver. 14. The Lord is good to them that wait for him, to the Soul that seeks him.

And so the Church when she was beset about with Bryars, and every man was as a Thorn in her side, Micah 7. 4. therefore ver. 7. she resolves, I will look to the Lord, seeing I can have comfort in none of my friends, I will look to him.

And so Jonah in the Whales belly, when the Weeds were wrapt about his head, and the Waters came about him, so that he thought he should have dyed no other death; when my Soul fainted within me, Jonah. 2. 7. then I remembred the Lord, and they that observe lying vanities, ver. 8. and seek to other shifts, at such times they forsake their own mercy; they leave as those with Paul would have done, the Ship in a storm, and commit themselves to a Cock-boate, that every Wave overturns.

God is worth something at such a time as this; For be thou in what place thou wilt, or in what distress soever, he is a very present help in trouble, Psal. 46. 1. And if I be in the ends of the Earth I will cry to thee, when my heart is overwhelmed; Psal. 61. 1. And though my own heart hath often failed me, says David, yet God never failed me. Psal. 73. 26. nor never will. And he is a Rock that is higher than I, says Psal. 61. 1. and if I could but get up on him, though the Waters would soon drown me that am but weak and low; I am soon overborn, or at least soon overwhelmed; yet he is a Rock, and an high Rock; so high as that when the overflowing Flood and Waves of great Waters come; they shall not come nigh thee, Psal. 32. 6. when Mountains and great men of the Earth are covered with Waves, carried into the Sea covered and overborn. Psal. 46. 2. thou shalt be safe.

On the contrary, if thou beest in a parched Land, where no Water is, as David elsewhere speaks, Psal. 63. 1. yet there, he that trusts in God, and whose hope is in the Lord, as Jer. 17. 7. he shall be as a Tree planted by water, and spreads out her roots by a River, and shall not see when heat comes, but its leaf shall be green, it shall not be careful in the year of drought, nor cease to bring forth Fruit. All other Trees whose roots are shot into dry earth only, they must have rain, from without to keep them green; else in a year of drought, they wither and die; and so that man that makes flesh or a Creature his arm, ver. 5. whose Souls and the affections of them, are shot only into riches and honours, &c. as the Soyl they live in, if there be a drought without, a want of earthly comforts; they are like the heath in the Wilderness, ver. 6. for they want moysture; and so all the joy and frolickness which is their leaves and fruits withers and dies, and falls off. But now a Tree that is rooted by a River that never dries up; and thence the Root secretly doth draw sapp and juyce, regards not drought above ground. So now a Godly man, whose Soul and all the faculties of it are shot and rooted in Christ the spring of all comforts, and God of all consolations; sees not or feels not when heat cometh; viz. persecution from without that dries up all others moysture. Such Soul is not carefull in year of droughts, though there be a decay of outward comforts; for there is a secret River runs by its root continually, A River which makes glad the City of God, Ps. 46. 4. and though Euphrates may be dried up, as it was when Babylon was taken, Jer. 51. 36. yet this River can never, because it springs up to Eternal life, and no enemy can ever sever these streams from that Spring; yea, and though the hogs of the Earth may root up other Trees; the Spaniards may root you out of your Pleasures and Riches and Houses; yet what God hath planted in his Son, shall never be rooted up, as the opposition shews, Matt. 15. 13. But my Vineyard and the Trees therein, I the Lord do keep it, I will water it every moment, lest any hurt it, I will keep it day and night.

Therefore choose God and take him for thy portion aforehand, for when the evil day comes else, thou wilt be sent to the things you delighted in, as they Jer. 2. 28. ver. 27. In time of their trouble they will come to me, says God, but but where are the gods that thou haſt made thee? let them ariſe, if they can ſave thee in the time of thy trouble, v. 28. Wherefore plead you with me? whom you have tranſgreſſed againſt all your daies, v. 29.

Secondly, Truſt perfectly in him; That you ſhall find in all the places quoted the conſequent of making him ther portion. Wait for mercy from him, caſt thy ſelf on him for relief; live by Faith, truſt perfectly on the Promiſes made, and the Experiments of his former dealings with his People at ſuch times as theſe, 'tis the only way to quiet your minds. See the Counſel given the Church, and what the Church did in ſuch times as theſe, Iſai. 26. 4. Truſt in the Lord for ever, for in the Lord Jehovah is everlaſting ſtrength; not ſtrength only for the preſent, but which never decays; other things may ſtrenghthen the heart a while, but he for ever; he is a rock, and a rock of Ages. And v. 3. this motive is added, Thou wilt keep in perfect peace the mind ſtayed on thee. So as a Soul that reſts it ſelf in Jehovah, and hath caſt Anchor there, ſhall be at peace, and at perfect peace, when all the World is at war about thy ears. According to thy faith be it to thee; if thou wouldeſt have perfect peace, then truſt perfectly, as Peter ſaies; for if thou beeſt ſtrongly ſettled upon him as thy baſis, they muſt ſhake him ere they can ſhake thee. Ill-tidings that make the hearts of Hypocrites appall'd, as Iſai. 33. 14. yet ſhall never move him; he ſhall not be afraid of evil tidings, Pſal. 112. 7. for why his heart is fixed; (it is pitcht upon all good it looks for, hath got a ſtanding,) truſting in the Lord.

Now in the ſame 26*th* of Iſaiah, at the 8*th* verſe, what doth the Church anſwer to this, why, In the way of thy Judgments have we waited for thee. Though God be never ſo angry, and come out as a Judge, yet one that truſts in God dares ſtands in the way of Judgments, looks for mercy from him then. In Iſa. 64. 1. when God did terrible things, v. 3. and was wroth, v. 5. yet then he that rejoyceth in him, and works Righteouſneſs, meets him, and remembers him, and ſo truſts in him in his ways; for all his waies are mercy to them that keep his Covenant, Pſal. 25. 10. He is never out of the road of Mercy unto them. So as the Church ſaies, Iſai. 8. 17. I ſay, and his Diſciples, v. 16. ſay, I will wait upon the Lord, that hides his face from the houſe of Jacob, and I will look for him; that is, when he looks in wrath upon all elſe, yet then I will look he ſhould be merciful unto me, as he promiſeth v. 14. that he would be a Sanctuary to them, when a ſnare to all elſe.

Therefore truſt him, and truſt him perfectly. Go, ſtudy all the Promiſes, this in the Text among the reſt; diſtil the juyce and comfort of them all, drink them down; all that ever he promiſed to his People, or hath done for them, were written for our comfort. There is not a Promiſe, but it is a tryed Truth; and ſtill in all Ages, upon all occaſions God's People have found the faithfulneſs, and purity, and ſoundneſs of them, that there is no flaw or droſs in them. Which is David's meaning, when he ſays as often in the Pſalms, The words of the Lord are pure, and tried, ſtill he ſpeaks ſo of the Promiſes of deliverance from danger. As in Pſal. 12. 6. which was penned in ſhewing the oppreſſion of godly men in Saul's time, who perſecuted the godly, killed the Prieſts, and exalted the vileſt men, v. 8. Now will I ariſe, ſays the Lord, I will ſet him in ſafety, v. 5. and what is David's gloſs on this Promiſe, v. 6. you may truſt him, ſays he, for the words of the Lord are pure words, as Silver tried in a furnace of Earth purified ſeven times; that is, ſtill in all ſtreights and difficulties even in the fire God hath made good his word.

They have been tried again and again. Abraham tried them, In the mount the Lord will be ſeen. Jacob, he tried them, when he was in a ſtreight, Gen. 32. 9. and he found them true. So David fell often, ſeven times; yea, ſeventy times ſeven times, there are ſo many Probatum eſts, to them; that thou mayeſt build upon every one of them.

A friend, ſays Solomon, loves at all times, Prov. 17. 17. and a brother is born for adverſity. Now God hath been a friend to thee from everlaſting; and all thoſe ſæcula have not worn it out, and is nearer than a Brother, as tender as a Mother, Iſai. 49. 15. and thou art graven on the palms of his hands, and thy welfare is continually before him, v. 16. and remembred with everlaſting

kindneſs,

kindneſs, Iſai. 54 8. he never had his mind off thee; and doſt thou think he will forget thee for a little Adverſity, No, he ſhould not be a friend then. Now is all the trial of him, he will not fail thee in thy greateſt need. Therefore, ſays David, Truſt him at all times, *Pſal.*62.8. for God is a refuge, and that eſpecially in the Evil day, *Jer.*16.19. Oh Lord, my ſtrength,&c. and my refuge in the evil day. The chiefeſt uſe of him lies then, and if it were not for that we were in worſe caſe than others, for all our hopes are in him, as *Jer.*17.17. Be not a terrour to me, ſays Jeremy to God, for thou art my hope in the evil day; all the hope he had. He were undone, if he ſhould find him look aloof off from him then. No, then is the bleſſedneſs of a godly man ſeen. Pſal. 2. If he be angry, then bleſſed is he that truſts in him; then eſpecially.

And if he ſeem never ſo angry, yet truſt him, for he means thee no hurt. *Jer.*29.11. when they were carried into Captivity, they thought he meant to deſtroy them; nay, ſaies God, Be not jealous of me, I know the thoughts that I think towards you, thoughts of Peace, and not of evil, to give you an expected end; as good an end as you can look for, if you but let him alone, and do his do.

And this is the ſtrongeſt Motive to move him to be merciful to thee, for thereby thou becomeſt his Guardian, his Pupil, and he is engaged to take the tuition of thee. 'Tis againſt the Law of Nations, to betray thoſe that fly for ſuccour to us. In the Captivity of Babylon, ſaies God to Ebedmelech, Jer. 39. ult I will ſurely deliver thee, and thy life ſhall be given thee for a prey, becauſe thou haſt put thy truſt in me, ſaith the Lord. That is all the reaſon; and ſo Iſai. 26.3. Becauſe he truſts in thee.

Only, in the Third place, carry thy ſelf fearful of offending him; which is another way to win his favour, as indeed the beſt of you have cauſe to do; in time of Judgments, *Rev.*15.4. who ſhall not fear thee? for he is a Father, who without reſpect of Perſons judgeth every man according to his works, 1 *Pet.*1.17. therefore fear.

When Uzzah was ſtricken for that ſmall and but raſh act, as the Holy Ghoſt himſelf acknowledgeth it, 2 *Sam.*6. 7. it is ſaid of David, the he was afraid of the Lord that day, and thought with himſelf, how ſhall the Ark of the Lord come to me, that am as ſinful as Uzzah, and committed many a worſe errour, not raſhly, but preſumptuouſly. So when thou ſhalt ſee God come out of his place with fury, to puniſh the Inhabitants of the Earth, becauſe there is wrath; as they ſay to Job, Beware leſt he take thee away with his ſtroke, *Job.*36.18. that is, whilſt thou lookeſt at thy ſelf and thy obnoxiouſneſs. It is good to fear; it is a ſign of ſtubbornneſs if thou doſt not. If Children ſee their Father beat but the Servants; if they fear not, 'tis a ſign they are ſtubborn Children.

And to fear is a means to prevent thy being ſtricken in thy particular. If ſhaking Rod works awfulneſs, God loves not to ſtrike; and therefore in Habak. 3. 16. when he ſaw Peſtilence and Sword a coming as God's Harbingers, ſays he, I trembled, that I might reſt in the day of trouble.

Only this, Fear not their fear, as God ſays *Iſai.*8.11. that is, not puniſhment only, but fear to offend, fear ſin. Sanctifie God in your hearts, and let him be your dread; fear him in all your waies. To fear puniſhment only is not to ſanctifie him. My Brethren, Take heed of walking raſhly now in theſe times, that is hand over head, as not caring what you do, as Levit. 26. 40. which is tranſlated Walking contrary, and is read by others, Walking raſhly, not much minding what he doth. It behovs you to look about you, alwaies walking circumſpectly; leſt for want of taking heed, you grievouſly offend God ere you are aware; take heed for God will walk raſhly to ſuch, ſtrike a raſh ſtroke as it were, and cut off even one otherwiſe dear to him, as it were unawares; becauſe there is wrath, take heed leſt he take thee away by his ſtroke.

Fourthly, Make him now the end of all thy actions, more than ever, Rev. 15.4. Who will not glorifie thee when thy Judgments are made manifeſt, for thou only art Holy; and this Holineſs of his God manifeſts in his Judgments, as much as in any other works; and his end when he comes, is to glorifie himſelf of thoſe that would not do it aforehand, to recover his Glory of men that regarded it not. *Ezek.*28.22. Behold I am againſt thee, and I will be glorified in the midſt of thee, when I ſhall have executed Judgments. And therefore you had as good give Glory to him before-hand, as Jeremy ſays, Chap. 13. 16. Before he cauſe darkneſs; for God will be glorified either on you or by you, for he made all things for himſelf. All things are by him, therefore for him; and if therefore he get nothing by you, nor you pay your rent, look to be turn'd out. Are you ſuch Vines that bring forth fruit to it ſelf, as Hoſ. 10. 1, ſo as God gets nothing done for him, eats not of the Tree he planted, he ſtubs it up, why cumbers it the ground? Eſpecially look to your ſelves when God's Ax is lifted up, and laid to the Root of the Tree; now down with all unprofitable ones, not only thoſe that do not bring forth fruit, but that do not bring forth fruit to God, Rom. 7. 4. that bring not forth fruit meet for him that dreſſeth them, and rains on them; as Heb. 6.7. he that doth not is nigh to curſing, and ſo to burning.

in

But now, a Soul that is a fruitful Soul, and deſires in all things to glorifie him, and to bring forth much fruit, and that to him, it were not for his profit to do it; nay, God ſhould be a loſer if he ſhould cut him off, as Deut. 20.19. What, cut down a Tree that is full of fruit, and that not ripe yet? No, he will not. God will not ſell his People for nought, and not increaſe his wealth by their price, as they plead Pſal. 44. 12. He may get more by them, and let them ſtand. Nay, ſee what God ſays, Pſal. 91. when thouſands fall beſides thee, &c. why, ſays God, ver. 14. Becauſe he hath ſet his love upon me, therefore will I deliver him.

Yet Fifthly, Pray to him, and call upon him, and keep communion with him, which indeed is more eſpecially and particularly put for to ſeek him; and is the next condition required in that Pſal. 91. 15. He ſhall call upon me, and I will anſwer him, which hath three parts, firſt, I will be with him in trouble, ſecondly, deliver, and thirdly, honour him. He will anſwer thee, firſt, by being with thee in thy trouble, manifeſting his preſence; and what if thou beeſt in the fiery Furnace with the Three Children, if God and Chriſt walk with thee. Now thou haſt his Promiſe as well as they, I will be with thee in the fire, Iſai. 43.2. and in waters; be with thee as a friend, bemoaning thee, and bearing the burthen with thee, which is a great eaſe to a man. Iſai. 63.9. be with thee, and tender thee, and viſit thee, if ſick, or in priſon, &c. to bring thee Cordials and refreſhments, as Pſal. 41.3. to make thy bed in thy ſickneſs, and ſtrengthen thee when languiſhing.

And as he will be with thee, ſo he will plot to deliver thee, and not reſt till he hath done it; and not only ſo, but bring thee out, as Joſeph, out of priſon into greater honour, or as Daniel, out of the Lions Den.

And this he would do, if men would ſeek him, and preſerve communion, and be much with him, as the Church did Iſai. 26. 8, 9. in the night ſought him, and ſought him early, when his Judgments are in the Earth. When I awake, ſays David, I am ſtill with thee, Pſal. 139. 18. yea, and all the day long he kept communion with him, Pſal. 73.23. I am continually with thee, and do walk as in thy preſence, and dare not ſuffer my heart to go far from thee; for I am not able to ſubſiſt unleſs thou holdeſt me by thy right hand, eſpecially not then when waves of trouble come; then, unleſs he hold thee, how wilt thou do, as Peter, if Chriſt had not put forth his hand. Therefore keep nigh him, ſtill have him by the hand; for the Lord ſays *v.*27. Thoſe that are far from thee ſhall periſh, elſe when troubles come, I am in a miſerable caſe. Pſal. 22. 11. Oh be not far from me, for trouble is near, for there is none to help, none elſe; and therefore if thou wouldeſt not have him far off thee, then walk not aloof off him now. Oh, 'tis good, ſays David, v. 28. of the ſame 73 Pſalm, to draw nigh to God, this is my beſt and only way for ſafety; and therefore ſeek him and follow him hard, as David, Pſal. 63.8. My Soul followeth hard after thee, as one not willing to loſe ſight of him; follow him up and down, give him no reſt night nor day. 'Tis not enough to truſt him and fear him, but pour out your hearts before him. Pſal. 62.8. For he is a refuge for us. And to ſtrenghthen their Faith and quicken their Prayers, I have heard it ſpoken again and again, that Power belongs to him, and Mercy belongs to him; that he is able, and merciful, and therefore willing to do abundantly above all we can ask or think; and therefore 'tis not in vain to ſeek him, and to truſt him.

And

And this God expects ere he delivers you. In *Jer.*29. he had promiſed to keep them ſafe in the Captivity, yet he bids them pray to the Lord for it,*v.*7. and that after 70 years he would return them,*v.*10. yet ſays he, You ſhall go and call upon me, and pray to me, and I will hearken; yea, ye ſhall ſeek me, and find me, when ye ſhall ſeek for me with all your heart, v.12,13.

And ſo much for ſeeking the Lord.

The Second General Head commended to the Godly, is, ſeeking Righteouſneſs, which is meant of Righteouſneſs of Juſtification; which is called the Righteouſneſs of God, that of Chriſt. It is moſt neceſſary to get aſſurance of that, and to get your Conſcience ſprinkled with his Blood, as the Doors of the People of Iſrael were with the Blood of the Lamb, and ſo God paſt them by when he deſtroyed others; for that pacifies the wrath of God only. Iſai. 32. 1. Behold a King ſhall reign in righteouſneſs, &c. And a man, namely Jeſus Chriſt, ſhall be as an hiding place from the Wind, a covert from the Tempeſt; as Rivers of waters in a dry place, as the ſhadow of a great Rock in a weary Land, to ſhelter thee, and cool thee, and cover thee from God's wrath, when he rains down Snares. Kiſs the Son, as well as the Father, leſt ye periſh, Pſal.2.

Or, Secondly, if meant of the Righteouſnes of Sanctification: It is alſo needful, to practice the Duties of Repentance and new Obedience more than ever; for overflowing, it ſhall overflow with Righteouſneſs, as he ſaid, Iſai. 10. 22. *Ezek.*14.14.

As, Firſt, To turn from ſin, put a ſtop to that; for this is that which makes God angry, *Iſai.*42. ult. why is Jacob given up to ſpoil, and God's fury burn as fire, is it not becauſe they have ſinned; Sin is the fuel of this Fire, and makes a man Tinder to a Judgment, that the leaſt ſpark take preſently.

And, Secondly, The end why God afflicts us is, to take away the Sin. Iſai. 27. 7,8,9. By this it ſhall be purged; therefore make uſe of leſſer afflictions aforehand, as Purges to work it out, that God may not be provoked to give a ſtronger, both to take away the humors and purge alſo. You ſee that is all his end to take away ſin, this is all the fruit, Do it aforehand, and you prevent him.

And if you will not take your ſins away, know God will take you away, for cleanſe a Land at one time or other he will, Ezek. 23. 48. At the 47*th* verſe, they ſhould be ſtoned, &c. and Thus will I cauſe lewdneſs to ceaſe out of the Land. If you will not cauſe it to ceaſe by ſevering it and your perſons, God will take the Perſons themſelves away ſo to purge the ſin away. And ſo *Iſai.*14. 23.if they would not ſweep their hearts themſelves, but let heaps of filthy Thoughts, Speeches, Deſires lie, I will come with my Beſom and cleanſe all for you; but it ſhall be the Beſom of Deſtruction.

Let every man therefore put a ſtop to Sin; as they reaſoned, 2 *Cor.*28. 13. have we not ſin enough already; Eſpecially preſerve thy ſelf from the ſin thou art moſt addicted to, whether by cuſtome or inclination, be it a diſpoſition of Pride, Worldly luſts, Uncleanneſs, Idleneſs. As David in the 18*th Pſalm*, which he makes in the day that he was delivered from all his Enemies, as appears by the the Title; and v.17,19. He delivered me from my ſtrong Enemy, &c. and why, becauſe he kept cloſe to God, did not wickedly depart from him, if he did, it was weakneſs rather than wickedneſs, *v.*21. I have put away none of his Statutes, and I have kept my ſelf from my Iniquity.

And ſo the King of Niniveh, Jonah 3.8. bade the People turn every one from his Evil way; and becauſe Oppreſſion was the chiefeſt ſin, he mentions that; Violence in their Land. And God delivered them you know.

Worldlineſs and Unjuſt dealing, and ſeeking Riches and Honours, and Great things, is of all other the moſt vain at ſuch times as theſe; when as thou knoweſt not how ſoon it may be all one with the Buyer and the Seller, as Iſai. 74.2. that is, both have a like bargain, for the Enemy comes and takes away both. And doſt thou ſeek great things for thy ſelf? ſays Jeremy to Baruch, *Jer.*45.5. projecting great matters, when I am a rooting up all things in the Land. Is this a time, as he ſaid to Gehezai, 2 King. 5. 26. to receive Vineyards, &c.

Take

Take heed alſo of being drowned in Senſual luſts and Pleaſures, Surfeiting and Drunkenneſs, Luk. 21. 34. Matt. 24. 38. They ate and they drank, and the Flood ſwept them away; for they make a man ſecure, preſumptuous, more unfit and unwieldy to ſuffer.

Keep your ſelves alſo free from the ſins of the Times; if you mean to be free then, Partake not of their ſins, leſt of their Plagues. This was the Leſſon that God taught Iſaiah, Chap. 8. 11. God inſtructed me, that I ſhould not walk in the way of this People. It was when God threatned the Aſſyrian to come in; and having care of his People, he bids them ſeal that (v. 16.) among them, not to be carried with the ſtream of Times, and then I will be a Sanctuary unto them.

What Corrupt practices in State; what corrupt Opinions do men raiſe up? Free your ſelves of them. If they ſay a Confederacy, an unlawful League or Peace, ſay not thou ſo; but go to God, and there give your Voice at leaſt againſt it. Indeed in an Evil time a Prudent man is fain to be ſilent, as Amos 5. 8. to Man namely; but go to God, and complain to God, and mourn for them, and ſo thou ſhalt waſh thy hands of them. 2 Cor. 7. 11.

How did Lot waſh his hands of the ſins of Sodom, he was vext at them, 2 Pet. 2. 7. and God delivered him. How did the People of Iſrael clear the Land of Murther, when it was not known who did it. Deut. 21. 6, 7. The Prieſts ſhould ſlay a Heifer, and waſh their hands of it; We have not ſhed this blood, &c. and ſo put it away.

Not only mourn for, but intend your Zeal againſt the ſins of the times and places you live in, ſo far as your Callings do extend. For, becauſe that Jeremy (and his Remnant) was a man of contention againſt the ſins of thoſe times, &c. they curſed him, Jer. 15. 10. therefore the Lord ſaid, v. 11. Verily it ſhall be well with thy Remnant, and I will cauſe the Enemy to entreat thee well in the time of evil and affliction. Even ſo it ſeemeth juſt and good to our good and wiſe God, that when he recompenceth tribulation to them that trouble you, then to give reſt to you that are troubled, 2 Theſſ. 1. 6, 7. as the Apoſtle there ſpeaks in another caſe; and becauſe we contend for God with the Enemies of his glory, therefore the Enemies of our peace ſhall deal well with us.

And indeed, if ever Godly mens zeal and valour for the Truth was to be quickned and ſtirred up, it is moſt at ſuch times as theſe. For now, God himſelf begins to be zealous, and his diſpleaſure againſt ſin to wax hot. In Iſai. 59. 13, 14, 15. when God ſaw nothing but Oppreſſion, and departing from God, and Judgment turned backward; that Truth was fallen in the ſtreets, and that Equity could not enter; The Lord ſaw it, and it diſpleaſed him, v. 15. and v. 17. he clad himſelf with Zeal as with a Cloak, coming forth to repay them according to their deeds, v. 18. When therefore we ſee like-times, and that God begins to take up his Cloak to come abroad into the World amongſt us in fury and diſpleaſure, we ſhould ſympathize with him, and be affected as he is; as Courtiers are with their Kings.

So Moſes, Numb. 11. 1. 10. when the People murmured and it diſpleaſed God, v. 1. and his Anger was kindled greatly; the Text adds, and Moſes alſo was diſpleaſed. For this is a general Rule given, 1 John 4. 17. that as God is in this World, ſo ſhould we be, to behave our ſelves in the exerciſe of the ſame Moral vertues that he doth exerciſe, as to ſhew forth kindneſs and long-ſuffering to the perſons of the Evil and Unthankful, as he doth, ſo to be zealous againſt their Sins, according to our Calling, as he ſhews himſelf to be; and then moſt eſpecially when he cloaths himſelf with it.

See what God ſays of Phineas, Numb. 25. 11. becauſe he was zealous with my Jealouſie, ſo out of the Original Interpreters read it, though we tranſlate it For my ſake; that is, he was affected as God was at the unclean act; yea, and this is the ſpeedieſt way to abate his zeal. When he ſhall ſee us take his part here below, and begin to be hot and valiant for his truth; he thinks then that he may be quiet, and ſo his wrath ſlacks, as it did there. Though men grow the more furious in ſuch a caſe, when they ſee others back them and ſecond them, yet God doth not. And if we in our places, and our Rulers in theirs, would ſtrike through the loins of Sinners; we with Reproofs nayling their Souls to Hell, and they with the execution of Laws; and do it with God's zeal, as Phineas did, (that is, with grief and indignation that God is ſo diſhonoured, for of thoſe two affections is Zeal a compound, Mark 3.5. as appears by Chriſt there;) God, he ſhould not need to be furious; Phineas (ſaith he) hath turned away my wrath, whilſt he was zealous with my zeal amongſt them, *Numb.*25.11. However, if you be ſo, yet with you God will make a Covenant, as with Phineas there, That he and his Poſterity ſhould continue, as they did in all the evils and troubles that befel the Nation of the Jews till Chriſt's time, and rubb'd through the Babyloniſh Captivity and all. Ezra was of his Race, Ezr. 7.1,5. and fared and ſcaped as well then as any other. And though we have not ſuch publick Callings and Spirits as he then, yet ſo far as our Commiſſion reacheth, let us exerciſe and ſhew the like to the full, thruſt Javelins through mens hearts by Reproofs, reform our Families, and thoſe we have authority over; and contend with all the World by keeping the Law, as Solomon ſpeaks, Prov. 28. 4. Putting Iniquity far from our Tabernacle, as they exhort, Job 22.23. with this Promiſe, *v.*29. When others are caſt down, thou ſhalt ſay there is lifting up. God will remember thee (as good Nehemiah prays in his laſt Chapter) for thy Zeal for God.

But above all, my Brethren, be now zealous of good works, as the Apoſtle ſpeaks 2 *Tit.*14. Greedy devourers of all the duties of New obedience, abounding more in all the fruits and works of Righteouſneſs. You that have wrought his Judgments, ſaies the Prophet here, ſeek Righteouſneſs; that is, ſtill and more than ever. Whatever part of Righteouſneſs you before were conſcionable in, ſet upon it afreſh, as if you had done nothing yet. Mend your pace, they are not hours to ſtand ſtill in. After John in the Revelation had declared what terrible things were to come on the World, the uſe he makes in the concluſion is, that the Righteous be more righteous.

To inſtance in ſome particulars, ſtill enforcing them upon the ſame ground.

You that have ſearched your hearts heretofore, Search, and ſearch again; 'tis the exhortation in the Text, enforced with this motive, *v.*12. of the firſt Chapter, for God comes to Search Jeruſalem with Candles, when he comes to puniſh. Prevent God's Searching. If a man can dreſs and ſearch a wound himſelf, 'tis leſs pain to him, than to have the gentleſt Chirurgeon.

You that have watch'd over your corrupt hearts and diſpoſitions afore, do it now more than ever. It is Chriſt's Motive againſt ſuch times as theſe, Luke 21. 34,36. Take heed leſt your hearts be overcharged, and over-run with any ſorts of Luſts; but watch therefore and pray alwaies, that you may be accounted worthy to eſcape all thoſe things that ſhall come to paſs, v. 36. In Revel. 16. when the Sixth Vial is poured out, and that great and laſt Battel is fought, wherein Antichriſt is to be deſtroyed; before that great overthrow under the Seventh, there is a Caveat given which perſonally may and doth, for ought I know, concern men living in this Age, (and 'tis put in by way of Parentheſis) Bleſſed is he that watcheth, and keeps his Garments; that watcheth over Corruptions, ſuffers not them, as the Tares, to grow whilſt he ſleeps; that watcheth, and ſuffers not Graces, and the flame of them to die, as the Virgins did whilſt they ſlept.

You that have been fruitful in good Speeches and heavenly Thoughts, out of the abundance of which the Mouth ſpeaks; be more fruitful Malach. 3.16, 17, 18. Verſes, and beginning of the 4*th* Chapter compared; who were they that were ſpared in the day when the wrath of God burnt as an Oven, others as Stubble, as in the beginning of the 4*th* Chapter; but they that ſpake of it one to another in Evil times before, and that thought upon his name, v.16. Then, &c. You may ſee what Times they were; in the Verſes before, Them (ſays God) I will ſpare, as a man ſpares his Son. You that have thought much of him before, he will then think of you, and then you ſhall diſcern between the Righteous and the Wicked; a great and a broad difference God will then put.

You that have ſanctified the Sabbath ſtrictly, and ſought God upon your Faſtdaies diligently, and made Conſcience of humbling your ſelves throughly, do ſo ſtill; for ſee what comfortable Promiſes you lay up for your ſelves, and your Poſterity againſt the Evil day. *Iſai.*58. where he exhorts to a through obſervation ſervation of both; at v. 11. God ſhall guide thee continually; and in Evil times a man had need of God's guidance, to lead and diſpoſe of him into ways and places, and conditions of ſafety and deliverance, which all the Wit of the world cannot do: and, he ſhall ſatisfie thy Soul in drought, when all Comforts without fail, as you know not how ſoon they will; and thou ſhalt be like a water'd Garden, and a Spring of water whoſe Waters fail not. And at v. 12. Thy Poſterity ſhall build the Old waſte places, that is, the deſolations of the Church; which ſuppoſe it be not done in thy daies, yet thy Children haply ſhall be great Maſter-builders of it for time to come, and thy Prayers put up at ſuch times ſhall lay a foundation for a ſettled condition of the Church for many Generations; as our Martyrs did of ours by their Prayers and Sufferings.

And all this Promiſe is made to ſtrict ſanctifying of Faſts and of the Sabbath-day, which are called Sabbaths, becauſe to be kept holy as Sabbaths are; ſo in the Verſes before and after v. 13. And if Faſts are to be kept ſo ſtrictly, then Sabbaths as ſtrictly, for that is the Regula and Primum in iſto genere, as appears by the Fourth Commandement, Keep holy the Seventh day, that is Primum, and therefore Regula reliquorum; and ſo is to be kept as ſtrictly as Faſts are. Though indeed Thankſgiving is more to abound in the one, Humiliation in the other; yet not to ſpeak our own words, or take our own pleaſure, &c. in both. For equal it was, that if they kept not the Sabbath, the Land ſhould not keep her Inhabitants, Lev. 26. 34, 35. and they inſtead of reſting ſhould then find trouble; whereas Jer. 17. 24, 25. if they would not prophane it, God ſays, the City ſhould ſtand for ever.

Be exceeding converſant with the Word of God, in reading, meditating, and applying it to your hearts; get as much of the engrafted Word into your hearts, turn'd and digeſted into pure Grace and Strength, and likeneſs thereunto; Pray it as much into your hearts afore-hand as ever you can, there may come a dear year of it all the World over, you know not how ſoon; therefore as the Angel ſaid to Elijah, Eat again, and again, for you may have a long while for to go in the ſtrength of what you get now before-hand. Let the Word dwell richly in you, as Coloſſ. 3. 16. furniſh your ſelves with as much of that precious Treaſure as you can, for a little Money will not carry you through a long Journey, but will ſoon be ſpent. Only truſt it not in the Purſes of your Memories or Brains, but lay it up in your hearts, and believe it Brethren, you cannot be robb'd of it.

Acquaint your ſelves much with it, and be familiarly converſant in it now, as God commands in Deut. 6. 7. And thou ſhalt teach them diligently unto thy Brethren, and ſhalt talk of them when thou ſitteſt in thine houſe, &c. and anſwerably it will be a conſtant and familiar Companion with thee, and be familiar to thee in all the Evils that thou ſhalt meet withal. Prov. 6. 22. When thou goeſt it ſhall lead thee, and guide thee into waies of Peace and Safety. When thou ſleepeſt, and art in any danger, it ſhall keep and preſerve thee, and when thou awakeſt it ſhall talk with thee, be familiar to thee, yea, and in all diſtreſſes comfort thee. Pſal. 119. 92. David vows he had periſhed long ere this, if God's Law had not been his delight. And all outward Evils will but make it the ſweeter. 1 Theſſ. 1. 6. They received the Word in much affliction, with joy of the Holy Ghoſt.

Yea, and this will be an Argument and Motive to God to ſpare thee, when he cuts off others; and ſo Jeremy uſeth it, Chap. 15. v. 15, 16. among other Motives, why God ſhould not take him away, but remember him, v. 15. (as in the 11*th* verſe he promiſeth to do,) Thy words (ſaith he) were found, and I did eat them, and thy Word was unto me the joy and rejoycing of my heart. And ſo in Job 22, and 29. compared, Receive I pray thee the Law from his mouth, and lay up his words in thine heart; and among other Promiſes in the 25*th* verſe, &c. this is one at the 29*th*. When men are caſt down thou ſhalt ſay, There is lifting up, namely for thee. Becauſe Joſiah had a melting heart at the reading the Law, therefore God brought it not in his daies, 2 King. 22. 11. 19.

Do as much as thou canſt to others, and uſe all the abilities and opportunities God hath put into thy hand to the utmoſt advantage to do good to mens Souls. Heb. 10. 25. Exhorting one another, and ſo much the more as you ſee the day approaching. Thoſe eſpecially that are near to thee, by getting them into Chriſt before the evil day comes and cuts them off in their ſins, warning them to ſave themſelves from this froward generation, in Acts 2. that is the common deſtruction and general deſolation that will befal this Generation if we turn not; eſpecially your Children, Kindred, Friends, Gen. 19. 12, 14. when Sodom was to be deſtroyed; ſaid the Angel to Lot, Haſt thou here any beſides Sons in Law, &c. and Lot went up and ſpake to his Sons in Law, &c. but he ſeemed as if he had mocked; though it took no effect, yet therein he diſcharged his duty.

If thou canſt but get thy Friends or any of thy Children into Chriſt, then thou needeſt be no more ſolicitous for them, for God is bound to take care for them, and will do; come what times will come they are well enough then.

Do good alſo with thy eſtate, to the bodies of men, eſpecially the Saints; and for the propagation of the Goſpel and good of the Church. It is a thing I find enforced by Solomon upon this very ground alſo, Eccleſ. 11. 2. Caſt thy bread upon the Waters, give a portion to ſeven and alſo to eight, for thou knoweſt not what evil ſhall be upon the Earth; he exhorts to this, you ſee in evil times; and the motive is rational and ſtrong if we take in that alſo in the former ver. That in many days he ſhall find it, and that he that doth good with his ſubſtance lends to the Lord, Prov. 19. 17.

For Firſt, Then he diſpoſeth it himſelf; whereas otherwiſe the Enemy that comes and takes all away may be his executor, for ought he know.

Secondly, He gives it to the Lord, that gave him it at the firſt, and he had better and ſhall have more comfort that he hath his goods then they.

But Thirdly, He doth not give it or caſt it away, as yet in the firſt words Solomon ſpeaks to ſhew what freeneſs ſhould be in the Donor, but he lends it to the Lord; who after many days will return it again. And that when evil times come, when thou ſhalt have moſt need of it; and thou haſt not mens Bonds for it but God's alſo. Who is their ſurety.

To conclude therefore this part of the exhortation to abound in all theſe and the like practices of Righteouſneſs of what kind ſoever. With theſe general conſiderations to quicken you thereto.

Work as hard as you can whilſt you may. For,

Firſt, Believe it there is nothing here in this World deſirable but to have Ability, Opportunity, and a heart to do God ſervice. Eccleſ. 3. 12. There is no good in them, ſpeaking of all things here below; but for a man to rejoyce and to do good in his life.

Secondly, Conſider that every one of you have ſome work to do. You are ſomeway to be profitable to God and Men, in the duties of your Calling and Talents committed to you, and duties of Religion; and all this work is to be done whilſt it is day. John 9. 4. I muſt work the work God ſent me to do whilſt it is day; God appointed his own Son work, and this made him abundant in it, becauſe he could work only whilſt it was day; God had beſpoke a great deal of work, and but a little time allotted for it, therefore our Saviour haſtned the more to get it done before Candle-light; he that made the firſt day, and was Lord of Time, muſt yet take his opportunity. Now there was an hour of darkneſs a coming as he tells the Phariſees, Luke 22. 53. when they attack'd him firſt; this is your hour and the power of darkneſs, when they were to do their works; and ſo Chriſt muſt ceaſe to do his. Now that which was Chriſt's caſe is ours alſo; For when the night comes ſays he in the next words, no man can work; as Pſal. 104. 23. Man goeth forth unto his work, and to his labour, untill the evening; for then the beaſts go forth to raven, as there.

Now Thirdly, Beſides that Death ſeiſeth upon all, Years of darkneſs, and thoſe many, as Solomon ſays, Eccleſ. 11. 8. there are Hours of darkneſs to the Church of God, when the enemies thereof as the Phariſees of old have the Power in their hands; ſo as then no man can work, or if he doth but a little; as in days of Popery, when no man might buy or ſell that would not receive the mark of the beaſt. Revel. 13. 17. and it is to be feared, that there is yet an hour of Temptation, and the power of darkneſs a coming over the World; as ſome interpret that place, Revel. 3. 10. when the Witneſſes ſhall be ſlain, Revel. 11.

Popery

Popery may have a reviving as Heatheaniſm had after Conſtantine's Reformation, in Julius time 60. years after; and then it will prove a time of ſuffering rather than doing, your ſhop-windows will then be ſhut, the night may come when none can work, or if they do, do only work within doors; for your hearts may pray, let the Enemies do what they will or can. Therefore let us now beſtir our ſelves and do good whilſt we have time; (as the Apoſtle's exhortation is, Gal. 6. 10.) and indeed opportunity. The Devil the ſhorter time he thinks he hath, indeed rageth the more, Revel. 12. 12. Fas eſt & ab hoſte doceri, learn this of your Enemy, 1 Cor. 7. 29. ſpeaking of times of perſecution, as appears by the 26. ver. Brethren ſays he, the time is ſhort, therefore uſe the World as if you uſed it not, for you know not how long time you have to enjoy it; Like Travellers if they fear night draws on, they put ſpurs to their Horſe and ride away the faſter, ſo do you.

But fourthly, Conſider that you may be cut off among others, the beſt may; now in the Grave there is no work ſays Solomon, Eccleſ. 9. 10. and therefore do what thou doſt with all thy might; and as ſpeedily rid as much work as thou canſt. It will grieve you to die and to have brought no more glory to God, to have ſowed no more Seed to the Spirit, which you might reap in Heaven; to be hewn down with ſo many Leaves and little Fruit and that not ripe; many budds of good purpoſes of being more zealous ſcarce brought into act.

Therefore fall to work and beſtir your ſelves, if you die how can you die better than ſo doing; Bleſſed is he whom his Maſter finds ſo doing. This will make you ripe and loaden with Eares againſt the Sickle comes; and when you have done your work you may ſay with Paul, I have finiſhed my courſe; no matter if you be cut off, you then will glorify God in your deaths, and be Veſſels prepared for glory, as Saints are, Rom. 9. 23. as therefore good houſwives ſcour and make bright their Veſſels againſt ſome great day; ſo do you againſt the day of the Lord. That you be meet; as the Phraſe is, 1 Col. 12. To partake of the Inheritance of the Saints in light, as therefore Peter exhorts, 2 Pet. 1. from 5. to 12. Add grace to grace and abound too, ſo ſhall you make your Election ſure, and when you come to die abundant entrance will be made into the Kingdom of Jeſus Chriſt; you ſhall not ſcarcely be ſaved, creep through a narrow hole have much adoe; but a large way an abundant entrance ſhall be opened for you.

The laſt thing is to ſeek Meekneſs, which is a contentedneſs to be diſpoſed of by God either in doing or ſuffering his will without murmuring or repining; ſuch as was ſeen in old Eli, in 1 Sam. 3. 18. and in the Church when under the greateſt and ſoreſt preſſures, Lamentations 3. 26, 27, 28, 29, to the 31. and expreſſed there by quiet waiting, bearing the Yoke, ſitting alone; a meek perſon is ſilent, hath his mouth ſtopt, nothing to complain of, becauſe he hath laid it as others read it upon him; going alone to meditate of and mourn for his ſins, puts his mouth in the duſt, and gives his cheek to him that reproacheth him, takes it patiently, and as it is Levit. 26 41. accept his puniſhment, which is alſo joyned with a conſtant cleaving to God notwithſtanding all he lays on him; as the Church, Pſ. 44. 17. to the 20. All this is come upon us, yet have we not forgotten thee, neither have we dealt falſly in thy covenant. Our heart is not turned back: neither have our ſteps declined from thy way. Though thou haſt ſore broken us in the place of Dragons, and covered us with the ſhadow of death. If we have forgotten the name of our God, or ſtretched out our hands to a ſtrange God. They forſook him not nor did deal falſly in his Covenant, though thou haſt ſore broken us, &c.

And this diſpoſition ariſeth out of Two things.

Firſt, A through conviction of a man's ſins, and the offence to God in them, and obnoxiouſneſs and deſervedneſs to be deſtroyed for them. So the Church, Mich. 7. 7. I will bear the indignation of the Lord, becauſe I have ſinned againſt him; and the Church in Lament. 3. 39. Wherefore (ſays ſhe) ſhould a man complain or murmur for the puniſhment of his ſins, as being a moſt abſurd and uncomly thing, that a man that is ſo obnoxious ſhould think much to be corrected; as if a Thief that deſerved hanging, ſhould complain of being burnt in the hand. Eſpecially when one conſiders; as Ezra 9. 13. that God puniſheth leſs than a man deſerves.

Secondly,

Secondly, So far as this is joyned alſo with hope of Mercy, for otherwiſe a man's Soul flies in God's face, as did Cain, and thinks out of Self-love, (if not ſubdued by the Love of God in the heart,) the puniſhment too great, and more than he can bear; therefore in the fore-named places, 3 Lam. 26. Hope is ſtill joyned with quiet waiting; yea, and in the 29*th* made a condition pre-requiſite, He puts his mouth in the duſt, if ſo be there may be Hope, otherwiſe not. This makes him quiet, and for a while content, that (as 'tis verſe 31.) God will not caſt off for ever; but though he cauſe grief, yet he will have mercy according to the multitude of them.

And this diſpoſition of Contentedneſs to ſuffer, thus ariſing, is it which God requires eſpecially of all Graces to abound in us at times of Judgment; and therefore ſpeaking to his People here, his Compellation is, Ye Meek of the Earth; and his Exhortation, Seek Meekneſs. This Appellation ſuiting ſo well with the matter he had in hand, threatning a day of Anger. As therefore, when we ſpeak to God, we uſually call upon him as the God of that Grace we ſue for. If we ask Wiſdom of him, we look and call upon him by the name of Father of Lights; if Conſolation, The God of all Comfort. So when God ſpeaks to us, he gives us that eſpecial Appellation, and denominates us by that Grace (as here, of Meek ones,) which beſt becomes us in receiving the Meſſage he is delivering.

And when God ſpeaks of a Day of Anger, and of his fierce Anger a coming, it becomes us, who are obnoxious as well as others, to be meek, and ſilent, and ſtill. Then ſeek Meekneſs; not to entertain a murmuring thought to the contrary; for it is the moſt abſurd and unſeemly thing to ſee one that deſerves to be in Hell, and have the loweſt place there, to complain of leſſer puniſhments; and therefore *Lam.*3. 39. Jeremy brings it in as a moſt unreaſonable thing to be wondred at, Why doth an living man complain; a man for the puniſhment of his ſins? He wonders, that a man obnoxious to God in ſo great a guilt; what, that he ſhould complain of puniſhment, of puniſhment of his Sins? betwixt which there is no proportion. A Rogue, that deſerves hanging, drawing, and quartering, complain if he be ſentenced but to Whipping or Burning in the hand? Down on thy knees Wretch, and thank the Judge for his Mercy, that thou art not conſumed, (as they *v.*22. of the ſame Chapter,) as infinite Mercy by which thou eſcapeſt. Be content to welcome that puniſhment which is leſs than thou haſt deſerved. If any had cauſe to complain, Chriſt had, who was Innocent; and Innocency makes men ſpeak, when Guilt would ſtop their mouths; but as a Lamb lead to the ſlaughter he opened not his mouth. Prayed indeed the Cup might paſs, but yet if poſſible, elſe not; Not my will Father, but thine; and he was heard in what he feared. So do thou; The Promiſe of hiding is made to it; if there be any Hiding-place to be found on Earth, a Meek man may challenge it. *Pſal.*37.8. The Meek ſhall inherit the Earth; and therefore they are here called the Meek of the Earth, and the Inhabitants of the Earth, *Iſai.*26.9.

And the reaſon why God ſo eſpecially regards this diſpoſition, and makes a Promiſe againſt Ill times to it, and ſpares them, is, Firſt, Because God deſires but to overcome, when he comes to judge, Rom. 3.4. to have the Victory over men. Now a Spirit that confeſſing it hath ſinned, willingly ſubmits to, and accepts its puniſhment, over that Spirit God is acknowledged a Victor already; and it is not a fit match for him to ſhew his power on, but a Pharaoh that will not ſtoop; he will ſhew his Power on him to chooſe, and break him in pieces. You whip your Children but till they kiſs the Rod, and then you fling it away.

Secondly, A meek Soul will ſtill be thankful to him, and give him all the glory, let him deal with it how he will, and he doth deſire no more; apprehending it ſelf worthy to be deſtroyed. It magnifies the leaſt Mercies in the midſt of Judgments, and ſtill thinks Judgments ſmall, confeſſing God juſt and merciful in them, if its Being be but preſerv'd. It is of thy Mercy we are not conſumed, Lam. 3.22. and Great is thy Faithfulneſs. So Ezra 9. 13. he there aggravates his ſin, All this is come upon us for our Great treſpaſs; but extenuates and thinks nothing of the puniſhment, Thou haſt puniſhed us leſs than our Iniquities; but he magnifies the leaſt Mercy, Haſt given us ſuch a deliverance as This, ſets an Emphaſis on that.

Thirdly,

Thirdly, A Meek Soul will not forsake God, but serve and obey him still, let God do what he will with it. Psal. 44. 17, 18. All this is come upon us, yet we have not forgotten thee, neither have we dealt falsly in thy Covenant. Our heart is not turned back, neither have our steps declined from thy way, though thou hast sore broken us: For a Meek heart still knows that Obedience is due, that Imprisonment satisfies not for the debt. Now such a Soul therefore God cannot find in his heart long to punish, and therefore the Promise is made to them.

Now to exhort to this, consider but this one Motive, That besides, that a Man is obnoxious; God also hath an unlimitted Prerogative to bring on thee what he will. And if he will bring a Judgment on thee, all the World cannot hinder it, nor take it off. So as there is no dealing with him, but submitting; for he keeps Prosperity and Adversity under lock and key, and shuts and none can open; men must lie close Prisoners till he will let them out. Job 12. 14. 'Tis Jobs expression in this very case, Behold he breaketh down, and none can build up; He shuts up a man, and there can be no opening, and so on to the end of that Chapter. And upon this ground see what Counsel Elihu gives, Job 34. 29, 30, 31. He having the prerogative to give quietness, so as then none can give trouble, and when he hides his face, who can behold him; whether it be done against a Man, and not only so, but a whole Nation. They cannot all keep an Affliction off, nor all the World cannot hurt them, if he will give quietness; if he will set an Hypocrite over them to ensnare them, they cannot all get him down till he will, v. 30. And what then? Surely it is meet to be said, I have born Chastisment, and I will not offend any more. No way but to kiss the Rod, and say, I will do so no more. And if a man sees not cause why God should thus chastise him, and so be apt to repine, yet let him think there is a cause, therefore in v. 32. That which I see not, teach thou me; If I have done Iniquity, I will do so no more.

And to say as Jeremy upon the like occasion, or the Church in his person, Jer. 10. 22, 23, 24. when there was the noise of the Bruit of an invasion from the North, to make the Cities desolate, what say they v. 23. O Lord, I know that the way of Man is not in himself; it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps, whether he shall have fair way, or foul, to walk; neither do I know whither to run for safety, my life and all is in thy hands, therefore, O Lord, correct me, but with Judgment. The Church is willing in such a case to be whipt, only desires God to deal gently with her; and so must we.

FINIS.

A

TABLE
OF SCRIPTURES,

Expounded in whole, or in part.

(The first Number denotes the Part, the Second, &c. the Page.)

Geneſis.

Chap.	Verſe,		Part,	Page
1.	27.	——	1.	59
6.	3.	——	1.	333, and 2. 302

Numbers.

25.	11.	——	3.	169

Deuteronomy.

10.	14.	——	2.	147

Job.

41.	5.	——	1.	245

Pſalms.

4.	3.	——	1.	77
8.	1, to 6th,	——	1.	443, to (445, 447, 448, 451, &c.
16.	1.	——	1.	90
17.	ult.	——	3.	52
36.	9.	——	2.	274
51.	1.	——	2.	109
74.	13, 14.	——	2.	34
78.	34, 35, 37.	——	1.	352, and (353

Proverbs.

8.	23.	——	1.	60
8.	30, 31.	——	1.	93

Iſaiah.

Chap.	Verſe,		Part,	Page.
35.	8.	——	3.	73
43.	27.	——	2.	113
55.	6.	——	3.	163

Jeremiah.

34.	8, 15, 18.	——	3.	16

Lamentations.

3.	39.	——	3.	174

Daniel.

4.	8, 9.	——	2.	50
10.	13.	—	1.	424
10. and 11.	13, 20, 21. 1.	compar'd,	1.	427

Hoſeah.

13.	1.	——	2.	10

Zachariah.

3.	8.	——	2.	227

Matthew.

12.	28.	——	1.	308, &c.
19.	24.	——	1.	315

A Table of Scriptures.

John.

Chap.	Verse,		Part, Page.
1.	18.	——	1. 154
3.	6.	——	1. 316
3.	ult.	——	2. 121
8.	44.	——	2. 32, and (44, and 91
12.	32.	——	3. 25
14.	16.	——	1. 204
14.	21.	——	1. 255
17.	5.	——	1. 60, &c.
17.	9.	——	1. 78
19.	34.	——	3. 58
20.	17.	——	2. 271

Acts.

2.	5.	——	1. 474
2.	24, 27.	——	1. 373
7.	55.	——	1. 407
13.	46.	——	3. 80

Romans.

1.	3, 4.	——	1. 371
3.	24.	——	2. 285
	25.	——	2. 80
4.	16.	——	2. 286
	3, 19.	——	1. 403, &c.
5.	5.	——	2. 140
	10.	——	3. 115
	12, 14.	——	2. 115
8.	ult.	——	2. 158
9.	11, 12.	——	2. 155, 293
12.	1, 2.	——	1. 323

1 Corinthians.

1.	21.	——	1. 173
	24.	——	3. 66
2.	7.	——	1. 118, 120
	14.	——	1. 323
11.	3, 9.	——	1. 83
15.	22.	——	2. 226
	24.	——	1. 438
	28.	——	3. 37
	44.	——	1. 324

2 Corinthians.

3.	ult.	——	3. 48
4.	17.	——	1. 274
5.	1.	——	1. 317
	6.	——	2. 232
	16, 17.	——	1. 324
			2. 72
	ult.	——	2. 296
10.	4.	——	1. 313

Galathians.

1.	1.	——	1. 5
	6.	——	2. 205, &c.
	16.	——	3. 47
3.	14.	——	1. 42
5.	17.	——	1. 316

Ephesians.

Chap.	Verse,		Part, Page.
3.	15.	——	1. 15
			1. 136
4.	18.	——	2. 9
5.	24.	——	1. 32

Philippians.

3	11, 12.	——	1. 382, and 2. 115

Colossians.

1.	11.	——	1. 312
2.	10.	——	1. 135, &c.
	12, 13.	——	1. 303, and 2. 11

1 Thessalonians.

5.	9.	——	1. 56

2 Thessalonians.

1.	11.	——	1. 305, and 2. 257

1 Timothy.

3.	16.	——	1. 118, 156

2 Timothy.

1.	9.	——	2. 279
2.	19.	——	2. 156
	ult.	——	2. 54

Hebrews.

2.	5.	——	1. 442, 451
	10.	——	1. 98
	16.	——	1. 131
	17.	——	3. 107
5.	6.	——	3. 103
6.	4, 5, 6.	——	1. 333, 357
13.	21.	——	1. 366

James.

1.	17.	——	1. 342, 348
5.	11.	——	1. 51

1 Peter.

1.	10, 11.	——	3. 84
	18.	——	2. 26
	20.	——	1. 65
3.	18.	——	1. 334
4.	2, 3.	——	2. 305

2 Peter.

2.	4.	——	2. 32
2.	20.	——	1. 337

1 John.

3.	8, 9.	——	2. 46, 95
4.	9, 10, 12.	——	2. 148
5.	9.	——	1. 210

Jude.

Verse	10.	——	2. 91

Revelations.

20.	1, to 8.	——	1. 456, &c.
21.	21.	——	1. 227, &c.

A N

AN

Alphabetical Table.

(The first Number denotes the Part, the Second the Page.)

A

Bounding, as an act of the Divine Grace towards Saints, what. 1.109,&c.

Acceptation, or Acccepted, in the work of Redemption, what. 1.91, &c.

It is founded upon our Relation to Christ's Person. 1.93,&c.

Actions: Sinful Actions, not so contrary to God as sinful Nature. 2.119

Adam, his Corruption, how derived to us. 2.109

He was guilty of the first Sin Personally, we by the just Law of Nature. 2.115

A Common Person before his Fall. 2. 116. Not so after his Fall. 2.117

His Union of Soul and Body, a shadow of the Union of the Divine and Humane Nature of Christ. 3.51

His Knowledge of God in Innocency but Natural, the Knowledge of Believers under the Gospel Supernatural. 3.51

His Marriage with Eve, a shadow of Christ and the Church. 3.54,to 60

Adam and Eve were reconciled to God. 3. 118

A

Adoption, why Holiness is put before it? 1. 68

What it is. 1.72,&c.

In our Adoption Christ was our Examplar. 1.80. Our Means. 1. 81. And our End. 1.82

Adopted Humane Nature does not make Christ an Adopted Son. 3. 142

Affections; none of them exercised in Heaven, but Love. 2.271

Ages to come, largely expounded. 2.237,&c.

Angels; Several Ranks of them. 1. 132,and 146

Their Immutability, &c. is fixed in Christ. 1.134&c.

What Fellowship, &c. they have with the Elect, and Christ. 1.137,&c. and 140

They are part of the Worshippers and Family of Christ. 1.137.&c.

Their Association with Men. 1.138

Christ their Head. 1. 132, &c. And that by way of secret influence of Grace and Glory. 1.140,to 143

The Fulness of the Glory in Heaven, not theirs by Nature. 1.154,&c.

They are Friends, and Reconciled to the Souls and Bodies of Men by Christ. 1.161, &c.

There

There are differing Degrees and Orders of bad, as well as good Angels; what these are, one and the other. 1.423,&c.
They Rule and Manage the Hearts of Princes and Kings, and have much to do in their Dominions. 1.427,to 430
Jesus Christ is far above them all. 1. 430,&c.
They were created single, and fell so, that is, each one for himself. 2.112
Antichrist's Kingdom parallel'd with Satan's. 2.41
Apostleship, what. 1.1,&c.
Not an Office now in the Church. 1.6
Arminianism, exceedingly detracts from the Love of God. 2.145
Makes the Love of God to his People incompleat till their death. 2.149
Articles of Faith, the most common of them the most necessary to know. 1. 393, &c.
Association and Fellowship of Angels and Men; what. 1.135,&c.
Assurance of Salvation, twofold. 1.200,and 207
How Faith and Assurance differ. 1. 202,&c.
If true, Assurance makes a man holy. 1.215
Attributes of God are engaged to the uttermost for Believers. 1.291,&c.
More of them are discovered by the Gospel, the Covenant of Grace; than by the Creation, or Covenant of Works. 3.64

B

Baptism alone will not save. 3.144
Before God, what the phrase signifies. 1.68
Believers, in their being brought to glory, are parallel'd with Christ in his being brought to glory. 2.2.and 175.
And with themselves before and after Conversion. 2.5
Not loved by God for any thing in themselves, or in Christ. 2.154
They, not Christ, Heirs of Mercy. 2. 173
They in some respect need all the Mercies of God. ibid.
Their Comfort lies in being quickned with Christ. 2.189
They only can be said to be risen with Christ. 2.225,&c.
Heaven is already prepared for them, they are but Strangers here. 2.231
Believing goes before the Spirit, and its Sealing work. 1.204,&c.
This is attended with a mighty Power of God, when carried on to Regeneration. 1.383
Bless; whether a Minister may Bless his People? 1.12,13
Blessing, what. 1.11,and 35
Blessing of God, what. 1.21,&c. and 34,&c. and 41,&c.
Blessings; choicest Blessings, what. 1.48,&c.
How to be valued. 1.110
Blood of Christ, what. 1.105
Body of Christ; the Church so called, and whence. 1.487,and 491
The Church being so called, notes nearness of Relation and Affection. 1.490
There is also a Sacramental Body of Christ. 1.489
Book of God, sometimes imports the Decrees of God. 3.104

C

Calamities; when common Calamities are feared, then God's People are especially to seek him. 3.61
God's Ends in threatning and sending publick Calamities. 3.162,&c.
Calling, Effectual; whence. 1.125. what. 1. 264
Carnal men do not understand the Mysteries of the Gospel. 3.71
Change at Conversion is twofold. 2.280
Children of Wrath, what. 2.104,&c.
Children of Wrath, and beloved of God at the same time; how. 2. 295
Choosing and Predestinating, how different. 1.70,71
Chosen in Christ, what. 1.58,and 64
With, and in Christ, how to be distinguished. 1.59
Christ; in Christ, and through Christ, far differing. 1.58
A Common Person, how. 1.59,60
A Root of a new ordained Being to Saints, with the Ends and Advantages. 1.62,63
His Fulness, what. 1.80. Threefold. 1. 491,&c.
How an Head to Angels and Men. 1. 132,to 152.
To the Church, what. 1.486, to 479. and how. 1.482.&c.
How said to come in the fulness of time. 1.171 0174
A Pattern of what God will be to us, and work in us. 1.370

The

The Neceſſity and Author of his Reſurrection. 1.398,&c.
His Exaltation, what. 1.406, to 418. and 2.2
His ſitting at God's Right hand, what. 1.407, to 415
He is a Natural Soveraign; Satan, not ſo. 2.48,&c.
His Obedience only makes us holy. 2. 115,&c.
Not tainted with Original Sin, and whence. 2.119
More God's own Son, than our Children ours. 2.193
As a Common Perſon, hath taken poſſeſſion of Heaven for Believers. 2. 212,&c.
On the Croſs he was an equal Arbiter for the reconciling diſagreeing Chriſtians. 3.19. He was there the Ubi, and meeting place, of all Believers for Reconciliation. 3.24
How dwelling in Believers is peculiarly attributed to him. 3. 30.
And,
Whether he dwells in us only by Faith, and by Grace only, or Perſonally? 3.31
His Divine Nature, working acts of Mediation in us and for us, does it by the Inſtrumentality of his Humane Nature. 3.39
He may be in us when Faith doth not operate. 3.40
He is more to Believers than only the Object of Faith juſtifying. 3.41
He is appointed as a Means by which God conveys all to us. 3.44
We are Naturally more backward in going to Chriſt, than to the Father. 3.45
His dwelling in the Heart by Faith, what. 3.47
He is the Subject of the Goſpel. 3. 65
He hath all Fullneſs dwelling in him for reconciling Mankind unto God; As,
1. A Fulneſs of Fitneſs. 3.107
2. A Fulneſs of Abilities. 3.111
3. A Fulneſs of Righteouſneſs. 3. 111,&c.
4. A Fulneſs of Acceptation. 3.113
5. A Fulneſs of the Duration of his Merits. 3.114
Why he muſt be both God and Man. 3.107
His Abilities to ſave. 3.109
He is a Phyſician that healeth out of meer pity. 3.119
Why his Coming was in the laſt days. 3.134
He is called Heir, as Mediator, not as Son. 3.139. That God appointed him Heir, and why. 3.140. He differs from other Heirs. 3.140
His Humane Nature does not make him an Adopted Son. 3.142
His Divinity ſet out by Three Expreſſions. 3.145
See Death and Reſurrection of Chriſt.
Chriſtians living as Gentiles, Chriſt reckons for Gentiles. 2.65
Church Univerſal, what, 1.147, and 168. and Particular, what. 1.147 &c.
Who the Head of the Church. 1.468, to 479
Whether it reach beyond a Particular Congregation? 1.475,&c.
The Pope not the Head of it. 1.478
But
Chriſt is the Head by way of Eminence and Influence 1.182,&c.
How Chriſt filleth the Church. 1.486
How the Church is the Body of Chriſt. 1.487, to 491
The Church being called the Body of Chriſt, notes nearneſs of Relation and Affection. 1.490
Pariſh Churches true Churches of Chriſt. 1.487 &c.
How ſaid to be an Helper to Chriſt, as the Wife to the Husband. 3.56
How ſaid to be Bone of Chriſts Bone. 3.57
Comfort principally comes from the Holy Ghoſt. 1.211
The Comfort of Believers lies in being quickned with Chriſt. 2.189
Common Perſons, or Repreſentatives, choſen three ways. 2.116
Communicants at the Sacrament ought to be more than one or two, [illegible]ny. 3.27
Controverſies, when diſcuſſed, uſually diſcover ſome new Truth. 3.20
Converſion, at firſt is done by as great a Power as that which raiſeth the Dead. 1.300. Yea, by a greater Power than what is uſed in keeping afterward. 1.301
It is conſidered extrinſecally and intrinſecally. 1.308,&c.
Great Expreſſions in Scripture about it. 1.309,&c.
Performed by a Power exceeding Creation. 1.310,&c.
Underſtanding, Will and Affections, are againſt it. 1.312, &c.
What Power goes to it. 1.316,&c.
The beſt definition of it. 1.329

There are lower workings of the Soul that fall short of Conversion. 1.332, and 346. Yea, some Strivings of the Spirit, that fall short of Conversion. 1.334. God doth not put forth the same Power in these, that he doth in a saving work. 1.336,&c. Here the Spirit works only upon Old Principles. 1.341, and 343,&c. Yet sometimes winds them very high. 1.351,to 355
True Conversion is a work above the Power of Nature. 1.338,&c.
All the best improved Principles of Nature help nothing to it. 1.356,to 362
It's performed by a proportion of Power, to that which raised Christ from Death to Glory. 1.379,&c.
See Resurrection Spiritual.
There are three great Hindrances of it. 2.4,&c.
It's seldom read of in the Old Testament in comparison of the New. 2.67
It is the first step of Salvation. 1.204
Corruption; Original Corruption, a Doctrine known to the Old World. 2.70
Buddings thereof, how variously called in Scripture. 2.78
Love to Self and Pleasure the sum of it. 2.80
It's chiefly seated in the Will. 2.83
Why not to be utterly cast out till death. 2.107
It comes by birth, not by imitation. 2.108
It's not the sin of the Parents in the act of begetting. 2.112
Covenant of Law and Grace incompatible. 2.309

Creation new, or Creature new, } what. 1.316,&c.
This precedes the knowledge of Divine things. 1.326
Creation is a work not depending upon a Subject. 1.347
Creatures; their division. 1.130,and 146
Higher Creatures can do all that those under them can do, and more. 2.52

D

Days of the Gospel are Days of Grace. 2.240
Dead in Sin, what. 2.10,&c.
How man is said to be Dead in sin. 2.185,&c.
Death of Christ, with the Reasons of it. 1. 395,&c.
Christ's remaining in the state of Death, what, and why. 1.397,&c.
Death, Spiritual, both before and after Regeneration. 1.384,&c.
The Death of the Soul not like that of the Body. 2.9
Death by Sin, threefold. 2.15
How call'd Life in Sin. 2.18,&c.
Decree in End and Means, what. 1.97
Decrees of God, had in them two great Designs or Plots towards us, 1.100,&c.
Delight; God delights in the Reconciliation of Sinners. 3.16
Desires of Man's Soul once united in one Object, now let out to thousands? 2. 82
Devil, Prince of the Power of the Air, how, and what. 2.30,&c.
His first sin, wherein it consisted. 2.32
His Subjects various. 2.40
When his Kingdom ends. 2.41. It especially lies in Sin. 2.45
He is more pleased by Sin than the Actors of it are. 2.45
He puts Men upon Sins suited to their Natures. 2.46
He himself is an unnatural Soveraign. 2.53
He knows not the Heart. ibid.
He could not personate Man before God's Image in Man was defaced. ibid.
He works so in Men, as that their Sins are their own. 2.54
He raiseth in several Ages several sorts of Spirits in the World. 2.55
He hath less Power under the New Testament than under the Old. 2. 57
He works in the Godly as an Enemy, in the Wicked as a Prince. 2.58
He has Subjects of several sizes. 2.59
Devils; there is differing Degrees or Orders of them. 1.423
One is Chief over the rest. 2.34
All agree in their common work. 2. 35
Are powerful. 2.36
Their Dominion. 2.35
They are not in full Torment. 2.39
Differences in Opinion, not to beget difference in Affection among Saints. 1.240
Difficulties hinder not God, when he is in a way of invincible Love. 2.157
Discouragements, that usually arise in Mens minds against the willingness of God to Pardon, Answered. 3.118,&c.

Diso-

Disobedience of Adam, and Obedience of Christ, how they differ in the Conveyance. 2.117
Divinity of Christ, set out by Three expressions. 3.145
Divisions, in Heaven and Earth, produc'd by Adam's Fall. 1.159,&c.
Christ made all one again. 1.161,&c.

E

Earnest, how different from a Pawn. 1. 218
How the Holy Ghost is the Earnest of the Heavenly Inheritance. 1. 220,&c.
Effectual Calling, whence. 1.125
Elect, their Number already fixed. 2.232
Elected, in and with Christ, to be distinguished. 1.59
Saints Elected in Christ as a Common Person, how. 1.60,to 62
Election, not from Faith foreseen. 1.54,&c.
Nor the Merits of Christ. 1.55, &c.
What it is in its Acts and Terminus. 1.56,&c.
Christ not the Cause of God's Electing us. 1.58
All things in this World further God's Decree of Election. 1.66.
The difference between Election and Predestination. 1.70,71
The End of our Election. 1.77
Notwithstanding the uncertainty of Election, yet there are many Incentives to seek Pardon. 3.120,&c.
Embassadors of Christ, have a large Commission, and what it is. 3.90,91
End (and aim) of Man, made noble and elevated by Grace. 1.329
Enmity in order of Nature supposed to be removed before Reconciliation. 3. 4,&c.
The Enmity betwixt Jews and Gentiles (before Christ's coming) great, and wherein. 3.7,&c.
Eternity, a continued flux of Time. 2.241
Exaltation of Christ, what. 1.406,&c. 2.2
Its Eminency and Universality. 1. 417,&c.and 460, &c. 2.2
Examples of Mercy in others, are given to help our Faith. 2. 264

F

Faculties, according to the order of Nature, are in subordination to one another since the Fall. 2,84
Faith and Assurance, how different. 1.202, &c.
Not the ground of Election. 1.54
Faith given before the Spirit. 1.204, &c.
Two things the Object of it. 1.369
That which Regenerates is attended with the mighty Power of God. 1. 383
It is a work of Resurrection. 1.384
Described. 1 390
It is much strengthned, by considering that Mans Salvation is the glorifying of God's Free Grace. 2.254. And also by the Examples of Mercy and Grace in others. 2.264
It hath a great, not a sole hand in our Salvation. 2.282
It is meerly Passive. 287
Acting Faith on Christ (as dying) will make a Lust die. 3.42
It is the Instrument that receives all that Christ has to give. 3.46
What it is for Christ to dwell in the Heart by Faith. 3.47
It is a modest Grace. 2.291
Why it is chosen when God comes to apply Salvation to us. 2.297
How we are saved through Faith. 2. 300,&c.
Whether it is the act of Faith that Justifies, and is accounted the Righteousness of a man. 2.301
There's nothing in us contributes to saving Faith. 2.305. Nothing in the Understanding, Will, or Affections. 2.306.. Nothing in the Reason. 2. 307. Nor in Natural Conscience. 2.308
What is the highest Lesson in the School of Faith. 2. 312
Faithfulness in Christ to save, what. 3.111
Fall of Adam produced divisions and enmity in Heaven and Earth. 1.159.&c.
Christ made all one again. 1.161
Fancy but an Apprentice to Reason. 2.92
Father, how God is so to Christ. 1 24.&c.
Fathers; why Old Testament Saints are so called. 3.131
Fellowship and Association of Angels and Men, what. 1.135,to 138
Fire Material, not in Hell. 2.122
Fitness in Christ to save. 3.107
Flesh; a description of it. 2.69,&c.
Why called so. 2.71
All Creatures, and Creature Comforts, without God and Christ, are Flesh. 2.71
Gospel Works, directed to bad Ends, are Flesh 2.72 &c.

Why

Why called our Flesh. 2.76 &c.
Forgiveness of sin, how said to be performed of God, when as he receiveth a price for it. 1.106
Foundations of God's Love to Man, too eminently mentioned in Scripture. 2. 155
Free Grace; a Doctrine taught and believed in all Ages. 2.262
The Riches of the Gospel chiefly lies in it. 2.267, and 277
It's Free notwithstanding Christ's purchase. 2.289
Attempts have been made in all Ages to detract, and diminish the Sovereignty of it. 2.190
It's compared to a Diamond. 2.291
It, and the dependency of our Salvation upon it, is the greatest thing in the Gospel. 2.196
How it denotes more than either Love or Mercy. — 2.198
How, and why called Free Grace. 2. 198, &c.
Its magnified in two respects. 2.304
Fulness of Christ, what. 1.491, &c.

G

Generation but the Channel, it's Adam's First sin that makes us sinful. 2.118
Gifts were given the Apostles and Primitive Christians, and ceased with them. 2.266
Glory, what. 1.273
Of God, is Essential and Manifestative. 1.89
Its fulness in Heaven is supernatural to Angels. 1.153, &c.
Of Body and Soul, what. 1.274, &c.
After the Resurrection the Glory of the Body and the Soul is much greater than that of the Soul before. 2.222
Our Glory in Heaven will hold some proportion to the immense Riches of God's Grace. 2.273
Glory shall come to God, either on or by every one. 3.167
God; the Father of Christ, what, and how. 1.24, &c.
The Goodness of God, Threefold. 1. 156
His Works extend to all things. 1.180; &c.
His Will limits his Power. 1.185
His Power is exceeding great. 1.288, &c.
Its Efficacy in Believers. 1.290
In quickning of Sinners it is great. 2.4, &c.
There is a Threefold Life derived from him. 2.14, &c.
His Wrath is the hottest Torment in Hell. 2.122
His Attributes appearing in wrath, make Hell. ibid.
He is the sole Author of all Salvation 2.129.
He has done more for Men than for Angels. 2.130
His Decreeing man's Fall, and then raising him, was a greater demonstration of his Love, than if taken to Heaven in Innocency. 2.132, &c. and 150
His Love is to Persons, not to Propositions. 2.135, and 145
It is his prevailing Attribute. 2.135
The Greatness of this Love of God discovered many ways. 2. 140, to 158
His Goodness is the Fountain of his Love. 2.142
Therefore it is proportionable to his Goodness. 2.143
He loves every Chosen one as if he loved none else. 2.148
His Love is chiefly shewn in two great Acts, viz. Election before time, and sending Christ in time. 2. 148
He Loves purely out of Love. 2.154
His Love to Saints is the same with his Love to Christ, and with his Love to himself. 2.185
Not for any thing in Believers, or in Christ. ibid.
Whether the Love of God, which is from Everlasting, be the same with that which puts forth it self when he calls us. 2.294
The Purposes of his Secret Will overcome all the difficulties of his Revealed Will. 2.157
His utmost End in Man's Salvation, is the shewing forth of himself and his Glory. 2.253
The Back-parts of God only known by the Covenant of Works, and Work of Creation. 3.63
He is said to be sought to for Revealing Gospel Mysteries. 3.71
He is loath to remove from an Ancient Dwelling. 3.89
What he did before the Creation of the World? 3.94

His

His Juſtice, never to be ſatisfied by one Creature for another. 2.100
He delights in the Reconciliation of Sinners. 3.116
He doth not reveal his Will all at once. 3.127
Nor all in one manner. 3.129
Godhead; the Godhead is a quickning Spirit to the Humane Nature of Chriſt. 2.188
Goodneſs of God to Creatures, threefold. 1. 156
Goſpel, why an hidden Myſtery? 1.118,&c.
Why Wicked men partake of it. 1.120
Its Encomiums. 1.192
The Subject of it is Chriſt. 3.65,68
It's a Myſtery. 3.68
God is to be ſought to for revealing the Myſteries of the Goſpel. 3.71
The Wiſdom of God was employed in inventing it. 3.68
None underſtand it but Saints. 3.71
The Properties of the Goſpel. 3.74, 75
The Riches of it. 3.75,76
It is Glorious. 3.77,&c.
God does not uſe to take it from a Nation, till they ſell it or put it away. 3.80
Thoſe that ſee not the Glory of it are ſtill blind. 3.81
The Excellencies of the World are nothing, when compared with the Excellencies of the Goſpel. 3.82
'Tis the glory of a People. 3 83
It being entertained brings down other Bleſſings. 3.85
When rejected it brings miſery. ibid.
Signs of its departure from a People. 3.86,&c.
Why the Goſpel Days are Days of Grace. 2.240. Why they are called the Laſt Days. 3.132,&c.
They are better than thoſe under the Law. 3.135. Wherein that betterneſs conſiſts. 3.135, &c.
Grace of God, what 1.13
In Believers, what, and how great. 1.309,&c.
Difficult to be wrought in the Heart. 1.213,&c.
What Power goes to the working it in the Soul. 1. 316
Though Grace be an Accident, yet it's worth more than the Soul. 1.317
The work of Grace is greater than the Creation. 1.317
It gives a Man a new end and ſcope. 1. 329
Why God ſtrives with Sinners; why he gives not ſufficient Grace. 1 336
There are two ſorts of Men that pretend to Grace, and have it not. 1. 350
Believers, that have true Grace wrought in them, may be ignorant of the Power that works it. 1. 367 &c.
How Sin and Grace differ in their working. 2.84
It thrives not ſo naturally in the heart of Man as Sin. 2.117
Saved by Grace; not meant of Grace in us, but otherwiſe, and how. 2.196
Errours of Papiſts and Schoolmen about Grace. 2.196
The Grace and Favour of God to be ſought as the higheſt thing, and Graces, the fruits of that Grace, but ſecondarily. 2.197
Grace reſpects no Conditions for Pardon or Juſtification. 2 200
It's the chiefeſt thing God deſires to ſhew forth. 2.253
It's the Fountain of all the Glory that Saints do or ſhall ever enjoy. 2.268
It doth not ſave and ſanctifie in the ſame manner. 2.282
Whether the ſame Grace that doth elect doth alſo ſave us. 2.292,&c.
The Grace of Election works no alteration in Men. 2. 293
The Grace of God Decreeing, and executing his Decrees, not being diſtinguiſhed creates miſtakes. 2.297
See Free Grace.

H

Hand, Right hand of God, what. 1.409, &c.
Head; how Jeſus Chriſt is an Arithmetical and Political Head. 1.131
An Head to Angels and Men. 1.132,&c.
The Head of the Church. 1. 468, to 489. And not the Pope. 1.478
His being Head of the Church notes his Interceſſion. 1.481
He is an Head to his Church in reſpect of Eminence and Influence. 1.482,&c.
Hearing worketh Faith. 1.192
Heart; this followeth the Underſtanding. 1.260
What it is to have Chriſt dwell in the Heart? 347, &c.
A ſound Heart loves the ſtrictneſt Preaching. 3.82
Heaven, Two things to be conſidered in it. 1. 258

Whether Saints know in this World what it is? 1.281,&c.
Why called a World to come. 1.436
The Third Heaven and Paradiſe, two diſtinct things. 2.221
Heaven is but the ſeeing the Glory of Chriſt. 3.146
Heavenly Places, what. 2.230
Heir; Chriſt ſo called as he is the Mediator, not as he is the Son. 3.139
That God appointed him Heir, and Why. 3.140
Wherein Chriſt. differs from other Heirs. ibid.
Hell; there are many ways to it. 2.98
Why it laſts to Eternity. 2.274
It's nothing but God's Attributes appearing in wrath. 2.122
Himſelf: For himſelf largely explained. 1.75,to 80
Holineſs, Perfect and Imperfect, what. 1.67
Why it is put before Adoption. 1.68
Its Character. 1.72
Abſolutely neceſſary to Salvation. 1.74
Man's Holineſs only comes by Chriſt's Obedience. 2.115,&c.
Hope; taken ſeveral ways. 1.263,&c.

I

Jews; More peculiarly Children of Diſobedience than the Gentiles, why? 2.63
They ſhall be called in the latter days, 2.239
Image of God in the Perſon of Chriſt, threefold. 3.52
Imitation; Sin at firſt comes by Birth, not by Imitation. 2.111
Impoſſibilities; Two eminently mentioned in Scripture. 2.156
Incarnation of Chriſt, a Myſtery. 3.69
Infants, damned for the corruption of their Nature, though not guilty of Actual ſin. 2.120
Inheritance belonging to Saints, how obtained. 1.176,&c.
It noteth Three things. 1.270
The Glory of the Saints Inheritance in Heaven, what? 1.275,&c.
Injuries in point of Honour from Inferiours to Superiours, moſt tranſcend ſatisfaction. 3.100
Interceſſion of Chriſt is noted out by his being Head to his Church. 1.481
Juſtice, not ſo natural to God as Mercy. 2.161
This could never be ſatisfied by one Creature for another. 3.100

K

Kindneſs the fulleſt word in Scripture. 2.245
All the good God beſtows on us, or bears to us, is from it. 2.259
All God's kindneſs to us is in Chriſt. 2.260
Kingdom; All men born under Sathan's Kingdom. 2.47
In Sathan's Kingdom there are ſome Ringleaders. 2.59
Antichriſt's Kingdom parallel'd with the Kingdom of Sathan. 2.41
Kingdom of Chriſt, diverſe, and how ſaid to be for ever. 1.438
Kingly Power; two things go to it. 1.412
Knowledge; Several ſorts of it. 1.247
That which makes holy is of Spiritual things. 1.248,&c.
Why called Revelation. 1.252
Spiritual, what? 1.326
Not to be obtained till made a New Creature. 1.326
The knowledge of the Power of God working in the heart, what? 1.364, &c. How uſeful this Knowledge is to Chriſtians. 1.365,&c.
Knowledge of common Articles of Faith, of all knowledge moſt neceſſary. 1.393,&c.
Knowledge of God in Innocency Natural; under the Goſpel ſtate Supernatural. 3.51

L

Life from God, Threefold. 2.14,&c.
Is originally in God the Father. 2.183
Life of Believers in Chriſt far excels Adam's in Innocency. 2.190
It is all the Grace and Happineſs we ſhall ever have. 2.217
Lord; How Chriſt is Lord to Saints, and what advantage that Relation brings to them. 1.28
How he is Lord to Wicked men. 1.29
Love ought to be to the moſt infirm as well as to the ſtrongeſt Saints. 1.237 &c.
To Self, and Pleaſure, is the ſum of man's Corruption. 2.80
Love of God to be valued, and why. 1.66
Nothing can ſeparate from it. ibid.
Not founded upon Loveline ſs in us. 1.69

Love and Mercy in God, how they differ. 2.129. Both causes of our Salvation. 2.129
This is the Foundation of Mercy. 2. 130
This should be the chiefest thing in our eye and heart. 2.132
Love of Good-will, and Love of Friendship in God, how they differ. 2.134
Love nailed Christ to the Cross. 2. 143
This is chiefly shewn in the two great acts of Election and sending of Christ. 2.148,and 193
This is never mentioned in the Plural Number,as Mercies,&c. are. 2.149
God doth not love as Creatures do, for something in Us or in Christ. 2.154
Gods Love to Believers is the same with his Love to Christ, and with his Love to himself. 2.158
This to Believers is such, that if they have need of the whole stock of his Mercies, they shall have them. 2.172
Whether the Love of God be the same from everlasting, with that he puts forth when he Calleth us. 2.294
This is exceedingly detracted from by Arminianisme. 2.145.and 149
His Love is to Persons, not to Propositions. 2.135,and 149
Its his prevailing Attribute. 2.135
The Greatness of it set forth many ways. 2.140,to 158
God's Goodness the Fountain of it. 2. 142. Therefore 'tis proportionable to his Goodness. 2.143
He loves every Chosen one, as if he loved none else. 2.248
This set God on work to save Mankind. 3.95
Lust, what. 2.94,&c.
Lusts of the flesh, what. 2.77
Lusts work intrinsecally on us, Sathan and the World extrinsecally. 2.81
Some are of the same kind in Man and Beasts. 2.83,90
They never come forth into action, but by the consent of the Will. 2.83
Several Epithites of Lusts. 2.89
Some common to Men with Devils. 2.90
They vary according to mens natural Tempers. 2.100
Those of the Mind strongest. 2.100,&c. And deceitfullest, 2.101; and worst. 2.101

M

Magistrates, differing Degrees of them. 1.421,&c.
Man, by God made suitable to the World, and the World to Man. 2.79
He is wholly corrupted in Soul and Body. 2.96
In some respects he has more Lusts than Devils. 2.97
'Tis as much his Nature to Sin, as the Eye to See. 2.107
His misery by Nature mightily illustrates the Glory of his Condition by Grace. 2.178
He has no worth in Him when God first respects him. 2.257
All men have some work to do. 3.172
God has done more for Man, than for Angels. 2.130
Meekness in the Old Testament taken for the whole of Religion. 3.159
A good description of it. 3.173
Reasons why God so much values it, 3.174,&c.
Mercy and Love in God, how they differ. 2. 129
In God and Man, how they differ. 2. 131
It is natural in God. 2.160 And a peculiar Excellency. 2.165
It wholly respects the Creature; God for himself has no need of it. 2.166
Mercies of all sorts in God, answerable to Miseries of all sorts in Man. 2.168
Particular proportions of Mercies for the Wicked,as a Stock,which when spent, they are broken; 'tis not so with the Godly. 2.171
Ministers are God's Voice, and should not abuse it. 3.127
They should mould Truths into several forms,because they have several Apprehensions to speak to. 3.130
They are the great defence of a Nation. 3.151
Mortification of Sin, if true, ariseth from a Spirit of Life. 2.184
Mystery; the Gospel was a Mystery, and why. 1.118,&c.
Mystery of God's Will, what. 2.121
Mysteries of the Gospel; God is to be sought to for revealing them. 3.71

N

Name; the reason of Changing it. 1.3
What, and what difference of them. 1.424,&c.

Nature unregenerate; the Spirit strives with it, and tries it many differing ways. 1.334. Why the Spirit does this. 1.336

Nature, what are the Principles in Corrupt Nature that the Spirit works upon. 1.343

No Light or Means will do Corrupt Nature good. 2.66

Children of Wrath, by Nature what. 2.104

Corrupted by Adam's First Sin. 2.115

Remembrance of our state of Nature; what improvement to be made of it. 2.310,&c.

Christ's Divine Nature working acts of Mediation in and for us, does it by the virtue and instrumentality of the Humane Nature. 3.39

Natural men; their condition opened. 2.8, &c.

Dead in Sin, how. 2.10

Conformable in their courses. 2.24

Their desires compared to Sick mens Appetites. 2.88,&c.

Of themselves as unable to live a Spiritual life, as a dead man to live a Natural life. 2.181

They may discourse of, but do not understand the Mysteries of the Gospel. 3.71. Therefore their Judgments not to be taken in such Mysteries. 3.72

Number; The Number of the Elect is fixed. 2.232

O

Obedience of Christ only makes Man holy. 2.115,&c.

Its difference from Adam's Disobedience. 2.117

Opinions; Differences about them not to beget differences in Affection. 1.240

Opposition to Godliness; why called a Spirit of Opposition. 2.56

Order Natural, in the subordination of the Faculties one to another, do continue since the Fall. 2.84

Original Corruption; A Doctrine known to the Old World. 2.70

Original Sin; why so called. 2.108

How conveyed to us. 2.109

Whence Christ not tainted with it. 2.119

P

Paradise and the Third Heavens two distinct things. 2.221

Pardon of Sin is to be sought, though our particular Election be uncertain. 3.120,&c.

'Tis certain to be found, if all means be used. 3.122

Parents Sin in the Act of Generation, not conveyed to Posterity. 2.112.&c.

Passive; We are as passive in all the Glory bestowed on us, as at our Conversion. 2.269

Pawn and Earnest, how different. 1.218

Peace, what. 1.4

Physician; Christ is one that heals out of meer Pity. 3.119

Pledge and Earnest, how different. 1.218

Popery to be hated, and why. 2.269, and 283

It's a Mystery. 3.68

Possible; All things are possible, how. 1.315

Power of God, exceeding great. 1.288.&c.

Its efficacy in Believers. 1.290,&c.

God useth to proportion it to the work it is employed about. 1.295

Wherein the greatness of it consisteth. 1.296

Sometimes it is resisted. 1.304

What influence it hath upon the Will in converting a Sinner. 1.305, and 308

It's great in converting the Will. 1.328

Why, or whence it is that some suppose that there is not so great a Power of God goes to Conversion. 1.332

Believers knowledge of this Power, what. 1.364

They may be ignorant of this Power. 1.367

Power of God in Regeneration, and Christ's Resurrection compared. 1.370,&c.

Tis great in quickning a Sinner. 24, &c.

Raising up our dead Bodies a work of Power. 2.208

Preaching; A sound heart loves the strictest Preaching. 3.82

Predestination and Election, how they differ. 1.70,71

In Predestination Christ was our Pattern and Exemplar. 1.80

So our Means and Virtual Cause. 1.81

So our End. 1.82

The good pleasure of the Father's Will was the efficient determinative Cause. 1.87

Primi-

Primitive Christians, intended as Patterns of Grace to us. 2.264
And also as Pledges. 2.264
We have the same Priviledges with them. 2.265
Principles; Three in Man concur to every Action; Will, Wisdom, Power. 3.92. and 144
Priviledges of men, will not save them from an Unregenerate condition. 2.66
Promise; The Spirit of Promise, what. 1. 211, &c.
Promises of God; all of them are tryed Truths. 3.165
Properties of the Riches of Grace, what. 2. 255, to 259
Prudence, what. 1.112 to 115
Purposes of God's Secret Will overcome all the difficulties of his Revealed Will. 2.157

Q

Quickenings in Saints, are better than Ordinances, Sermons, &c. 2.184
If true, though never so small, they are really Life, and will grow to Eternity. 2.184
They cost Christ his death. 2.189
Quickning contains not only our first Conversion, but all that is done upon us in this life. 2.191
Man, when first quickned, and turned to God, his state is altered. 2.216

R

Raised up together, &c. what. 2.207
Raising up our dead Bodies, a work of Power. 2.208
Reconciliation made by Christ, in and between Heaven and Earth. 1.161
Our being reconciled to God in one body, has an influence upon our mutual Reconciliation in two respects eminently. 3.25
Reconciliation with God by Sinners, is certainly to be obtained. 3.115.
Reasons of the certainty of it. 3. 116
Redemption of Man was more for the setting forth of Christ's Glory than our Salvation. 1.84 &c.
Redemption, what. 1.103, 226, &c.
Enjoyed in Christ. 1.104
The Price paid for it. 1.104
The Fruit of it. 1.105
The Cause of it. ibid.
Redemption of Mankind God's Master-piece. 3.97
Reformation in the Church lies chiefly in teaching the Doctrine of Free Grace. 2.267
Regeneration; See Conversion.
Characters of the Unregenerate. 1. 360
The mighty work of God, to regenerate a Sinner, and of the raising Christ from the Dead compared. 1. 370, &c.
Regenerate and Unregenerate men, how they differ. 2.17
Repentance; Time is given between God's Decrees and the Execution of them for Repentance. 3.158
Representation of all the Saints by Christ as one Body, especially upon the Cross. 3.24
Resurrection of Christ; how it argues him the Son of God. 1.372, &c.
What the Power of raising him from the Dead was, and that it was greater than in raising up all men besides. 1.313, to 376, 377, &c.
It's a Pawn of ours. 2.227
The necessity of Christ's Resurrection, and the Author of it. 1.398 &c.
How the Father is said to raise Christ, and Christ to raise himself. 1.401, &c.
Resurrection Spiritual, wrought in Believers in Conversion, what; and how it holds proportion with the Resurrection of Christ. 1.380, to 391
Christ the Efficient, Meritorious, and Exemplary cause of it. 2.223
Revelation, put for Knowledge. 1.252
Revenge, to those that are revengeful, the sweetest of Lusts. 2 92
Riches of Grace, what. 1.106
Riches; As referred to Heaven and Spirituals. 1.271
Richness attributed both to Persons and Things, and how. 2.164. How to the Grace of God. 2.167, &c.
Rulers; Two sorts in the World. 1 433

S

Sacrament; For the Body of Christ. 1. 489
There are Two Sacraments; in both which Christ is held forth as a Common Person representing. 2. 233
One end of the Sacrament of the Supper is to confirm Amity and Unity amongst God's People. 3.19
At which there ought to be many Communicants. 3.27

Sacrifices; One end and uſe of them is to ratifie Peace. 3.15
Saints. 1.7. All of them ought to be loved. 1.237,&c.
Salvation; A difficult thing. 2.98
God the Sole Author of it. 2.129
It's now at preſent. 2.201
It's in its whole buſineſs, firſt and laſt, attributed to Grace. 2.202. And that in ſeveral reſpects. 2.202,&c.
Salvation by Grace, a thing of the greateſt moment for Believers to know. 2.205
It's God's gift. 2.217
It's compleat in Chriſt from Eternity, but wrought in us by degrees. 2.117
Salutation, or Saluting, what. 1.10,11
Satisfaction for Sin, and Free forgiveneſs, how conſiſtent. 1.106
Satisfaction to God's Juſtice could not poſſibly be made by one Creature for another. 3.100
The means for it not to be found out by any but God. 3.103
There muſt be a willingneſs both of the Father to accept of it, and of the Son to pay for it. 3.102
It muſt be made by one that is God as well as Man. 3.107
Scriptures; The ſame ſometimes applied to Chriſt, ſometimes to the Church. 2.225
Sealing of Believers, what, and which way done. 1.196
Self-Love makes a man ſometimes go a great way in Religion, but never far enough. 1.352,353
He that comes to believe and live, muſt lay this aſide. 1.389
Sin; The leaſt Sin cauſes death of all ſorts. 2.16,&c.
It only kills the Soul. 2.13
Walking in Sin, what. 2.20,&c.
It's eminently Satans Kingdom. 2.45
It's man's own, though Satan work it in him. 2.52
How this differs from Grace in operation. 2.84
Sin of the Action not ſo contrary to God, as Sin of the Nature. 2.119
It comes by Birth, not by Imitation. 2.111
It is to be mourned for after Pardon. 2.314
What Sin is. 3.99. See Original, &c.
Sins of the Times; how we may keep our ſelves clear of them. 3.169
Sinners; Two ſorts of them. 3.95
Sitting; What's the meaning of it in Scripture, as referred to Chriſt and God. 1.408,409
In Spiritual Government it implies Five things. 2.227,&c.
Spirituality; how known, with its degrees. 1 52
Soul; deſcribed in its Eeſſential conſtitution. 2.78
Its Holineſs; wherein it conſiſts. 2.79
Wherein its Sinfulneſs lies. 2.79,&c.
It enjoys Happineſs betwixt Death and the Reſurrection. 2.221. But not ſo great as the Soul and Body ſhall enjoy after the Reſurrection. 2.222
It does many Rational Acts without the Body, whilſt it is in the Body. 3.38
Subjection of all things to Chriſt, what. 1.460,&c.

T

Teſtament; New Teſtament Scriptures are to continue to all Ages. 2.264
The ſame God ſpeaks in both the Teſtaments. 3.126
Time betwixt God's Decree and the execution of it is given for Repentance. 3.158
The Fulneſs of Time, what. 1.171,&c.
Times; Glorious Times upon Earth yet behind. 1.455,&c.
How we may keep our ſelves from the Sins of the Times. 3.169
Torment; God's Wrath is the hotteſt Torment in Hell. 2.122
Treaſures, or Treaſuries. Two in Man, and two in God. 2.173
There are two Treaſuries to which there are continual additions by Man's ſinning. 2.269
The Scriptures are the Treaſuries of Chriſt. 3.79
Trinity; The Myſtery of it more fully diſcovered by the Goſpel, than either by Creation or the Law. 3.65

U

Unblameableneſs put for Holineſs, how. 1.68
Underſtanding, weak, but holy, may ſometimes know more than that which is learned, though holy alſo. 1.254
The Heart follows the Underſtanding. 1.260
The greateſt Sins are ſealed in it. 2.97

Union of Creatures in Heaven and Earth, what. 150,&c.
To have an Union with Chriſt is the foundation of Communion; and upon any New way of Union there is further Communion. 2.214,&c.
Our Union with Chriſt is a ſubſtantial Union. 3.33
Union with Chriſt Threefold, 3.40. and Twofold. 3.45
The Union of Adam's Soul and Body, was a ſhadow of the Union of the Two Natures in Chriſt. 3.51
Unregenerate Man, his Properties. 2.21
His Guides in his walking. 2.22,&c.
Walking according to the courſe of the World, is a ſign of an Unregenerate Man. 2.25
Men, are Subjects of Satans Kingdom. 2.43,and 46
How ſaid to walk according to the Prince of the Power of the Air. 2.43
There are ſeveral ſizes of them; yet Chriſt reckons them all of one ſort. 2.64. With the Reaſon thereof. 2.65
There are Five things to be particularly noted in Unregenerate Men. 2.94,&c.
God ſometimes permits his People to be long in their Unregenerate ſtate. 2.178

W

Wicked Men may have a great work done on them by the Spirit of God, yet ſhort of Salvation. 1.347
Will, of God, limits his Power. 1.185
Counſel of his Will, what. 1.186,&c.
The Purpoſes of his Secret Will overcome all the difficulties of his revealed Will. 2.157
He doth not reveal his Will all at once. 3.127. Nor all in one manner. 3.129
Of Man, whether voluntary or not in the ſtate of Converſion. 1.305,&c.
There is a great Power of God employed about this to make it holy. 1.328,&c.
The chief Seat of Corruption. 2.83,84
Wiſdom, what. 1.111,&c.
How it differs from Prudence. 1.112, &c.
Its way, what. 1.253,&c.
Wiſe; A Wiſe man is only one that is godly. 1.116
Works of God extend to all things. 1.180,&c.
World, Preſent: Love to it, what. 2.22
It was made ſuitable to Man, and Man to it. 2.79
This, and Satan, work extrinſecally upon us, but Luſts intrinſecally. 2.81
Believers are the Owners of two Worlds. 1.147
To come: What this World to come is. 1.441,&c. and 446, and 451
It is not after the Day of Judgment, neither is it now, but ſomething that comes between both. 1.453,&c.
Part of Heaven ſhall come down to it; but not Chriſt. 1.456
What ſhall be done in it. 1.457
The Souls of Men are to come down from Heaven, and do ſervice in this New World. 1.458
Worldly mens Advantage by coming to Chriſt. 3.144
Worthineſs; None in Man when God firſt reſpects him. 2.257

ERRATA.

PArt 1. pag. 211. line 3. read their, p. 260. l. 25. r. לב, p. 289. l. 37. r. ὑπερβάλλον, for page 350. r. 354, p. 372. l. 31. r. raiſed. p. 383. l. 1. dele both thee. Part 2. for p. 32. r. 41. p. 56. l. 13. dele it.

FINIS.